But more than that, where he is welcomed as guest, he assumes the place of host. "I will sup with him, and he with me." You remember how, after the resurrection, when the two disciples, moved to hospitality, implored the unknown Stranger to come in and partake of their humble fare, he yielded to their importunity, and when they were in the guest chamber took his place at the head of the table, and blessed the bread and gave it to them. You remember how, in the beginning of his miracles, he manifested forth his glory in this, that, invited as a common guest to the rustic wedding, he provided the failing wine. And so, wherever a poor man opens his heart and says, "Come in," and I will give thee my "best," Jesus Christ comes in, and gives the man his best, that the man may render it back to him. He owes nothing to any man, he accepts the poorest from each, and he gives the richest to each. He is guest and host, and what he accepts from us is what he has first given to us.

The promise of my text is fulfilled immediately when the door of the heart is opened, but it shadows and prophecies a nobler fulfillment in the heavens. Here and now Christ and we may sit together, but the feast will be like the Passover, eaten with loins girt and staves in hand and the Red Sea and wilderness waiting to be trodden. But there comes a perfecter form of the communion, which finds its parallel in that wonderful scene when the weary fishers, all of whose success had depended on their obedience to the Master's direction, discerned at last, through the gray of the morning who it was that stood upon the shore, and, struggling to his side, saw there a fire of coals, and fish laid thereon, and bread, to which they were bidden to add their modest contribution in the fish that they had caught; and the meal being thus prepared partly by his hand and partly by theirs, ennobled and filled by him, his voice says, "Come and dine." So, brethren, Christ at the last will bring his servants to his table in his kingdom, and there their works shall follow them; and he and they shall sit together for ever, and for ever "rejoice in the fatness of thy house, even of thy holy temple."

I beseech you, listen not to my poor voice, but to his that speaks through it, and when he knocks do you open, and Christ himself shall come in. "If any man love me he will keep my commandments, and my Father will love him, and we will come and make our abode with him."

"He Leadeth Me, O Blessed Thought."

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Perhaps some notes taken while out on an evangelistic tour would interest your readers.

June 1, 1892.—Brother and Sister Pierce came down from Yangchow, Sister Pierce to stay with Mrs. Bryan, while Pierce and myself, with our native helper, Brother Ma (Horse), make an evangelistic trip to preach to those who have no regular opportunity of hearing the gospel.

June 2.—Morning prayers. Read Romans, 10th chapter. Believing that God guided us to this appropriate chapter, we resolved to take it as our guide, and to go forth with a heart's desire and prayer to God that the Chinese might be saved, preaching the crucified and risen Jesus as the only Lord and Saviour for all men.

We started at 9 o'clock a. m., and intended sailing up the river, but found after several tacks, that we could make no headway against wind and water. We then concluded that God had some work for us to do nearer home, and sailed across the river to one of my regular stations at Chih hao-keu. A few people were already in the tea shop drinking their morning tea. We soon attracted a large and attentive audience by singing, "Jesus loves me." After preaching and distributing hymns and tracts, we left the people to discuss what they had heard, and we returned to our boat.

While we ate our dinner and rested, our boatmen took us up the river to Kwa-tseu, another one of my regular stations. Our audience was small, but attentive. The wind being against us, we changed our course and sailed up the Grand Canal to San-ts'a-ho. Bro. Ma said, "Why not follow our Saviour's example by preaching from the boat?" We adopted his suggestion. While we sang, "Jesus loves me," "One there is above all others," "Come to Jesus just now," the men, women and children came flocking in from every direction. As I looked upon the hungry multitude, I longed for some of the criticisers of "mission methods" to help us preach. We preached until our throats warned us to stop. The people still lingered. We gave them some hymns and tracts and bade them good-night. With tired bodies and happy hearts, we sat down to our evening meal, thanking God for the privileges of the day. We did not remain awake long enough after retiring to find out whether our board beds were hard or soft.

June 3.—From San-ts'a-ho we took a branch canal back to the river. Our boatmen started at daylight, and by the time we had finished breakfast and morning prayers, arrived at Poh-Shwang. Our singing soon collected a large audience on the bank of the canal. There were many boys in the crowd, and I hope we sowed some good seeds in their youthful hearts. I was amused to notice the tricks they played on each other. Slyly throwing stones into each other's baskets, and putting them on each other's heads, and the innocent looks they could assume when the culprit was sought. A boy is a boy the world over.

Our next point was Shung ch'ai, where we had a good audience and an interesting service. It was now time to refresh the physical man with dinner and rest. Our boatmen sailed on to Kin Kiang while we were thus pleasantly engaged. I awaked just in time to hear some one pay Brother Pierce a compliment at my expense. He said, "This man (Pierce) can speak our language, but that man over there cannot." To prove that I could, I raised up and said, "Would you like to hear me preach?" One man replied, "We have eaten our thin rice." I hope that I am better understood sometimes, but it is very difficult to lead a Chinaman's mind away from material things. After the usual service of preaching and distributing tracts, we sailed on to Ta ma-tau. Here we left our boat and walked to Ichen about two miles away. This small walled city was almost completely destroyed during the last rebellion, and has never recovered. It is a dead city, dead and buried. On entering the city, we met one of our church-members, who invited us to drink tea with him in a tea-shop. The people crowded in to see us, and we took advantage of the occasion to preach to them. May God use our efforts to give spiritual life to this spiritually and commercially dead city. The few people in the city were largely engaged in making silk. Many groups of men, women and children were preparing the cocoons for the reel by taking them from the bunches of straw, where the silk-worms had deposited them, and removing the outer coating of rough yellowish silk. The reel is very simple but ingenious and well adapted to the Chinaman's use. The ancient Chinese must have had more ingenuity than the present generation. The memorising system of education, and undue regard for the ancients, have about destroyed their thinking powers. The reel is worked by the foot, and has an attachment for uniformly distributing the silk over the wheel, which is perhaps the forerunner of the bobbin reel on our latest improved sewing-machines. The cocoons are thrown into a pot of boiling water and stirred around with chop-sticks. Threads of silk adhere to the chopsticks, and are pulled through little iron rings to prevent the cocoons from being lifted out of the pot while being reeled; then carried over the distributing attachment to the wheel. After the work has begun, the threads which collect on the chopsticks are simply brought into contact with those passing on to the wheel, and, being wet, they adhere and are carried on. New cocoons are added when necessary, and those from which the silk has been wound are removed with a sieve dipper. The skeines of silk are then sold by the pound to the weavers.

We passed through the city and returned to our boat at Ta-ma-tau to find the largest audience of the day waiting us. After I had preached, Bro. Ma, although sick, insisted on preaching, too. He preached longer than was good for him, and insisted on going on, but I put my arm around him and said, "The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak." While distributing the tracts, one man came up and said, "Give me one, I know you." I replied, "Yes, I know you. You are the man who cursed me when I was here last year, but I preach a doctrine of love and forgiveness, and will also practice it. Come forward and I will give you two tracts. I hope you will hereafter know me as a friend and treat me as such. It was now about dark, and fearing the crowd might not disperse, we concluded to move down the canal a little way to spend the night. As we moved away, the boys and roughs threw some mud upon our boat, and tried to throw some of the mud (curses) of their hearts upon us, but this black mud fell back blacker still into their own hearts. Thus closed another day of hard work and glorious privileges.

June 4.—Sz-Yen-Keu, at the juncture of the canal and river, 7:30 o'clock a. m. While taking a walk to advertise our arrival, we came across a Chinese woman in a rage. A Chinese woman in a rage defies description. A gentleman ran up and began vigorously fanning her with a large palm-leaf fan to cool down her anger, and his efforts soon proved successful. Such a method of cooling down anger might be useful in other countries also. Try it!

We returned to our boat, and, by singing, soon succeeded in drawing a large audience, to whom we preached Jesus and the resurrection. God's Spirit seemed to be present, and I knew that good was accomplished.

We next sailed down the river to Soh-Er-Wei. We were now sailing homeward, and being very tired, felt inclined not to stop, but duty prevailed. We had a very good meeting in a tea-shop. While we were preaching, our Father changed our head-wind into a favorable wind, which took us home by 2 o'clock p. m.

The evening was cloudy and cool, and we all concluded to go out to the bamboo-grove temple. This temple was destroyed during the last rebellion, and is now being rebuilt. We were delighted with the cool shade and the clear spring water, but the scene in the temple made our hearts ache. Idols in every stage of completion on every hand. Here some mortar, there a wooden frame; there some of the mortar smeared over a frame; there a man giving the finishing touch to a large image of Buddha. O God, hasten the day when China shall know thee!

June 6.—We agreed to go with Brother Hunnex by two of his country stations, so we sailed down the river to San-ts'a. After preaching to a small audience under a willow tree, we returned to our boat, and

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1892.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

LIBERAL PROMISES.

From the accounts we have of the recent enthusiastic meeting of the B. Y. P. U. A. held at Detroit, Michigan, we learn that some honored brethren from the South were quite liberal in their promises in behalf of the Baptist churches of the Southern States in the matter of co-operation in pushing the work of that organization. One or two brethren it seems were quite liberal in promising that the South would come "into it," not only in the matter of co-operation, but also in the matter of endorsing the plan of the sisters taking an active part in the public discussions at the annual meetings, and especially in the meetings of local societies.

As highly as we respect some of the brethren present at that meeting, who were supposed to represent the churches composing the S. B. Convention, yet we do object to brethren promising so much for the South, unless they are sure that they have a good foundation for such promises. And we very much question this habit of the brethren pledging the South to fall in with a movement like the B. Y. P. U.

In the first place, no one in particular has the right to authorize them to make such promises. We have no Pope among us whose mandate we must hear, nolens volens. Our State and general conventions have only advisory power; and hence, the real power to authorize such promises rests with the churches. Have the churches spoken on this thing? Until they do, no one has a right to even try to commit them to any special course. There is nothing against which the average Baptist church will kick more promptly than outside dictation, even though it be attempted by good and honored brethren. If the brethren had been clothed with the authority of some modern bishops, they could with some better show of reason have made large promises for their section of country.

And again we claim that it smacks strongly of presumption for these, or other worthy brethren, to promise such a huge constituency, and the largest body of Baptists on the continent to pursue any particular course of action. Cæsar, on the banks of the Rubicon, Napoleon, treading like a caged lion the shores of that mockery of a monarchy, the sea girt isle of Elba, had within them thoughts that might well cause an empire to tremble, because upon their decision hung the fate of nations. Did any of these brethren feel like Cæsar or Napoleon when they decided for a great section and people what course they would pursue?

An honored correspondent thinks that so far as the part the sisters are destined to take in pushing the work of the Union, and in its public meetings, the South would do well to identify herself with the movement, that her influence may be felt to the extent that the sisters will be properly restrained. He may possibly be right; and if the South by joining in, could exert the influence he thinks is within her reach, it might be a wise thing for her so to do. But we must confess that we are rather skeptical about our well-known conservatism being respected to such an extent, were we fully committed to the movement. We are really surprised to learn that the women were not "in it," so far as the program for the public exercises of the recent meeting was concerned. But what assurance can be given that all such meetings shall be equally free from such unscriptural innovations. In this case it may be best to "make haste slowly."

At all events, we shall watch this movement closely and kindly, and if we become satisfied that it would be for the best interests of the vast multitude of young people in our churches, and for the churches composing our Convention, we shall not hesitate to espouse it heartily. We rejoice in every evidence of the prosperity and progress of our brethren North. We are really and truly one people; but still, Southern Baptists should stand firmly by the work at home and heartily sustain the Convention that needs their means and directs their benevolence.

Dr. J. W. Carter, at the meeting of the Board of Missions and Sunday-schools last November, when they were arranging appropriations in State Missions for this year, said that this would likely be a hard year on State Missions. Cannot the pastors and churches see to it that this important work is not neglected?

Let "Missions" be the watchword all along the line. The gospel must be given to the world.

FASHIONABLE PREACHERS.

As strong churches increase, and a large number of our members, especially in city churches, become wealthy, and hence able if disposed to indulge in even the foibles of fashion, there is a decided tendency on the part of some of our preachers to assume the airs and manners of the fashionable preacher. We were very forcibly impressed with this fact in studying the picture of a prominent Southern preacher not long since. The face, and that part of the person that could be seen in the picture, gave every evidence of receiving no little attention from the man represented. The features were classical, rather delicate, and almost feminine in cast. The hair was glossy, rather long, and seemed to have been curled and twisted after the manner of stage actors. The eyes—ah, the eyes!—oh, the eyes!—had a dreamy, far-away look. The whole make-up of what we could see impressed us that he was what the ladies would call a handsome, sweet man. If the picture had shown the whole person, there might have been other developments in the way of dress; the exquisite cut of the coat, the elegant fit of the pants, the coy exhibition of kid gloves, jeweled fingers, and the immaculate appearance of the gaiters on the feet, might have lightened our opinion, and that was, "this is a fashionable preacher."

Well, we are no misanthrope. Certainly we can lay no claim to excellence in personal beauty; but we do not on that account envy others; and we would honestly guard, especially our younger brethren, against being ambitious to be considered pulpit exquisites. Male exquisites, in any walk of life, are rather a worry; but the pulpit, of all places, is the most unsuited for them.

We like to see our brethren neat and tidy. We do not object, when their salaries will permit, and their people demand it, that they should appear abroad and live at home in the style that their means and his will justify; yet they can at all times and in all places show that they are more anxious to be considered good and faithful men than fashionable preachers. Ye brethren that are proud and extra fashionable, think sometimes of your poor suffering Master, and the prophets description of him, how that his visage was marred, "and when we shall see him, there is no beauty in him, that we should desire him." What a contrast could be noticed between the photograph of humble Nazarene, as he appeared on earth, when placed by the side of some of the fashionable preachers of our day! We have an abiding conviction that the fashionable preacher does not do much good. Some of the grandest men we ever listened to were plain, but neat in dress, homely in face, but mighty in spirit.

RICHMOND ASSOCIATION

In company with President Brewer, of Chowan Baptist Female Institute, the Recorder representative attended the Richmond Association which commenced at Laurinburg on Thursday, 4th of August. We reached the Association Friday morning. The body had organized by the election of that old veteran among our Baptist people in the Southern part of the State, Bro. J. B. Covington, of Rockingham, as Moderator. Bro. Archie Johnson, of the Laurinburg Exchange, was made Secretary.

The Laurinburg church is the fruit of our State Mission work in recent years. A few years ago we had no church here, now there is a prosperous and hopeful band of believers. Our Brother Lucas who was for a long time the only Baptist in the town delights to tell of the progress of the Baptist cause at Laurinburg. It is an interesting recital.

The Laurinburg saints have recently built for themselves a new church house. It is a gem. We have seen no where a neater or more comfortable church building. It would be worth the while of those who may desire to erect a cheap, attractive and comfortable village church, to get points from pastor Kesler about his Laurinburg house.

The Richmond Association is a small body. It has nine churches and three ministers—Revs. Livingston Johnson, M. L. Kesler and I. S. Boyles. The attendance of delegates at its recent session was small, still there was a lively interest in the matter before the Association by the delegates and the people of the town of Laurinburg. Good work was reported by the churches for the objects of the Convention during the year. The pledges of the churches for the Associational year were met, and showed contributions amounting to eighty five cents per capita.

The discussion of the various objects of the Convention before the Association was interesting, able and instructive. It was participated in by Rev. Livingston Johnson, W. J. Fulford, M. L. Kesler, I. S. Boyles and Rev. Mr. Moorman, pastor of the Methodist church in Laurinburg, also by brethren J. M. Brewer, J. B. Covington, Duncan McNeill, W. G. Quackinbush, Archie Johnson, J. H. Austin and Dr. Watson.

Dr. Pritchard favored the Association with his presence on Friday night and spoke with great acceptability to the brethren on the Centennial of Missions. He gave a history of the movement of Modern Missions and emphasized the necessity for the organization of the centennial work in the churches and Sunday-schools. He made a strong speech.

President Brewer represented Chowan Female Institute, and did it well. This is the first time he had been in this section of the State. He was called out several times by the brethren and made a favorable impression for himself and his excellent school by his kindly hearing and sensible speeches. There are several girls in the Laurinburg section who ought to attend one of our female schools, and it is probable Bro. Brewer will get some of these girls into his school next session.

The hospitality of the people of Laurinburg in entertaining the Association was all that could be desired. Our home was with Bro. Geo. W. Goodwin. He and his good wife know how to entertain the brethren, they have done so much of that kind of service. At this home Bishop Kesler, pastor of the Laurinburg flock, resides. He has not followed the example of those other young ministers of the Association, Johnson and Boyles. Perhaps he thinks a "bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." At any rate, Kesler is in a good place now and knows it.

For some time this Association has had under consideration the advisability of joining with its neighbor, the Anson Association. At this session a resolution was adopted favoring the same, and a committee consisting of Revs. L. Johnson and I. S. Boyles and brethren J. H. Williamson, W. W. Bostick and W. R. Covington was appointed to confer with the churches and effect the union. It is probable that the union will be an accomplished fact and that there will be no other meeting of the Richmond Association.

Through the kindness of Bro. Geo. W. Goodwin, we were shown the country about Laurinburg. It is a splendid farming section. The lands are level, friable and easily tilled. They retain what is put upon them, and are very productive. We have seen no such crops anywhere in the State as those about Laurinburg. The homes of the people appear to be comfortable. We suppose these farmers come as near making farming profitable as it is possible to do. They ought to be thankful to their Scotch ancestors for settling where they did. No doubt they are.

QUERIES.

Bro. Bailey:—Please answer these queries and oblige.

1. Does the Bible forbid kinfolks marrying?

2. Did the children of Israel remain in the wilderness forty years after the return of the spies from searching the promised land? Yours truly, Jno. Cain.

Cypress Creek, Bladen Co., Aug. 6.

Answer.—Marriage with near relations had been allowed before the giving of the Law, but was prohibited by the Mosaic Law. Levirate (brother-in-law) marriages were common in the patriarchal period, but were regulated by Moses. See Deut. 25: 5-10.

No. The Israelites had been already nearly forty years out of Egypt when the spies were sent from Kadesh Barnea, where the Israelites dwelt for thirty seven years—a region mountain locked, and well watered, embracing a plain and valley large and rich enough to support the three millions and their flocks.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

The Beulah Association met with the church at Ruffin. Two years ago Bro. S. F. Conrad began preaching here in an old tobacco barn to a mere handful of Baptists gathered up in the neighborhood. Now they have a beautiful house which has cost them $2,000, and is neat, well arranged, containing Sunday-school rooms and baptistry. This is at present a mission point, but will before long be self-sustaining and one of the best working churches of the Association.

The introductory sermon was preached by Dr. James, President of Roanoke Female Seminary, from Luke 10: 26.

Dr. Roninger, who has for several years served so acceptably as moderator of the Association, was again elected, as was also Bro. J. H. Tucker, the former clerk.

The only business after the organization was the discussion of Periodicals. The report was read by Bro. J. H. Lamberth, who made a strong and enthusiastic speech for the Recorder. Bro. Lamberth don't expend all of his energies in speeches either, but sees to it that his people take the Recorder, just as he looks after other departments of our work. Other brethren spoke to the report, earnestly urging all of our people the necessity of taking our denominational paper.

An "omnibus" report, said to contain a reference to all our mission work, was read and discussed by brethren Pritchard and James in the forenoon, and by brethren Durham and Howard in the afternoon.

Bro. Howard made a very earnest speech, in which he advocated the plan of any church, Association, or individual, doing mission work on a line independent to any existing Board or other organization. His plan, if I understood him correctly, does not contemplate the abolishing of our Boards, but a continuance to support and co operate with them. And while we think Bro. Howard will fail to impress his views as a whole on very many Baptists in the State, yet every one who hears him will be impressed by his honesty of purpose, by his earnest desire to enlarge and hasten on our mission work, and by the excellence of his speech viewed from his standpoint.

We had a good practical discussion on State Missions, participated in by brethren Howell, Wood, Lambeth, R. W. Brooks and Durham. The pledges of the churches were considerably over what they did last year; and besides this, there were some new plans put on foot which insure more and better work being done on the mission ground of the Association.

Bro. Gwaltney having to leave before the general subject of education was reached, was invited to make some statements on ministerial education.

The brethren were glad to welcome Prof. W. L Poteat to a place in his old home Association. He was listened to with interest when he spoke on general education and for Wake Forest College. A prophet is not always without honor in his own country. The truth is, if he is of any profit he is honored anywhere.

Bro. J. K. Howell, in the absence of Bro. Mills, spoke in behalf of the Orphanage.

Bro. R. W. Brooks spoke for Sunday-schools. He is a good, all-round church worker, and is especially interested in the Sunday school work.

The few Baptists here have sacrificed till sacrificing has come to be a pleasure to them, and this copy of the Recorder is sent to old and new subscribers to express the gratitude of all the brethren for the kindness received by the brethren and friends in and around Ruffin.

In Dr. Tucker's house there seemed to be always room for one more, and it looked sometimes as if we could hold an extra session of the Association. This was especially noticeable when the time came to cut watermelons or when the supper bell rang.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Rev. J. A. Campbell is holding a meeting at Hector's Creek.

....Rev. Carter H. Jones has been spending a week at Nag's Head.

....Dr. Hawthorne of Atlanta preached in Richmond on Sunday, the 7th.

....Rev. J. B. Boone is at Independence Hill engaged in a protracted meeting.

....Dr. A. G. MacManaway of Charlotte has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church.

....The Bethel Hill Institute will open the third week in September. A full attendance is expected.

....Rev. C. N. Donaldson has been called to the pastorate of the Salem church for the balance of this year.

....We regret to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Norman L. Shaw, Jr., son of Bro. N. L. Shaw of Warrenton.

....Rev. C. A. G. Thomas, late pastor of Elizabeth City church, should be addressed at Greensboro hereafter.

....Revs. C. W. Scarborough and W. V. Savage have been conducting a protracted meeting at Roberts' chapel.

....Rev. J. N. Booth has returned to his pastorate in South Carolina after a pleasant vacation spent in this State.

....Dr. Cobb has just returned from a meeting at Sharon. He goes this week to Goldsboro to bring his family home.

....We are glad to present to our readers this week two interesting letters from brethren Bryan and Britton of China.

....Rev. J. J. Lansdell, assisted by Rev. S. C. Tapp, is in the midst of a promising revival at Providence, Person county.

....Rev. C. A. Jenkens closed a very successful protracted meeting at Mountain Creek last week. There were about thirty conversions.

....Rev. Dr. C. A. Stakely, of Washington, D. C., is to preach at Association Hall for Rev. Thomas Dixon through the month of August.

....Bro. A. Wiles of Wilmington writes that Rev. N. A. Calihan will begin a protracted meeting at New Britton church on the 20th inst.

....Bro. J. R. Denton is in the second session of a flourishing school at Dysartsville. He has for a long time made teaching a profession.

....Dr. A. E. Owen left Sunday for Providence where he will deliver an address to the people of the Virginia Association of Martha's Vineyard.

....Prof. H. H. Harris, of the Chair of Greek at Richmond College, has been invited to take charge of the department of Greek at the Texas University.

....Dr. Thomas Hume of the University has been invited to deliver twelve lectures before the National School of Methods which meets at Chicago next year.

....Rev. Dr. J. J. Hall, of the Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle, has been granted a leave of absence for the month of August, and left for the Northern cities last week.

....Mr. C. L. Haywood, a graduate of Wake Forest, and late principal of the Bryson City Academy, will become a teacher in the Raleigh Male Academy this fall.

....Prof. J. R. Hankins, of Howard-Payne College, Texas, a graduate of Wake Forest College, was married to Miss Minda Chamblee of Wake county, Aug. 10th.

....The church at New Friendship was dedicated on July 31st. Bro. F. H. Jones preached the dedicatory sermon, which we hope to be able to furnish our readers soon.

....Hannah Emerson Ashe, wife of Capt. S. A. Ashe of the News and Observer of this city, died Saturday afternoon, Aug. 13th. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

....Prof. J. L. Kesler has been elected to the professorship of Greek and Latin in Howard Payne College of Texas. He has accepted the position, and will leave shortly for his new field.

....Rev. J. A. Beam is off holding protracted meetings. He closed a splendid meeting at Olive Branch, Flat River Association, Sunday, the 7th. There were over twenty professions.

....The Flat River and Yadkin Associations meet this week—the former at Island Creek, Granville county, Tuesday to Thursday, and the latter at Cross Roads, Yadkin county, Thursday to Saturday.

....We are glad to hear of the progress made by the First church at Chattanooga, Tenn. Since Rev. C. G. Jones took charge of it there have been thirty additions. The church will try to raise $1,000 for the Centennial fund.

....Rev. Geo. D. Staton, a highly useful Baptist minister of Woodlawn, a suburb of Birmingham, Ala., while preparing to go to his pulpit on Sunday morning, Aug. 7th, fell suddenly dead. Dr. Staton had been preaching over thirty years.

....We thank Bro. Moore of Moncure for his kind words about the Recorder. Bro. Moore writes that he is in full sympathy with the Foreign Mission Board, but hopes that the brethren will deal gently with brethren Bostick and Herring.

....The Young People's Society of the Twenty third street church (Rev. Thomas Dixon, pastor,) has voted to disband and organize a Christian Endeavor Society. Unless wise counsels prevail, hurt will come to the young people of our churches by a conflict between two great forces.—Watchman.

....Last Sunday, Dr. T. E. Skinner occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church of this city, morning and night, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. J. W. Carter. In the morning, Rev. O. L. Stringfield preached in the Baptist Tabernacle. Rev. C. W. Cooper occupied the pulpit of the Fayetteville Street church at night.

....Take care when the "confidential" brother wants to "tell between you and me" the faults of his pastor. Preachers have faults and a good many of them, but that is no reason why you should encourage a man, to injure his pastor, in a "sneaky" way. We abominate the man who would stab his pastor in the dark.—Central Baptist.

....Rev. A. D. Hunter has resigned the pastorate of the church at Greenville. In the resignation of Bro. Hunter the Greenville church loses an able pastor, and one whose place will be hard to fill. This church is one of our best, and we hope that the efforts of Bro. Hunter in finishing the house of worship, and general church work, will not be stopped by his resignation.

....Rev. C. W. Matthews writes us under date of August 5th: "I have just baptized twenty happy converts and restored two, as the results of a seven days meeting with my Oak Grove church." Brother Matthews preached twice a day for a week during this revival, and is at present engaged in a meeting at Lake Drummond church. On the 20th he begins a revival at Harrellsville church.

....Rev. J. A. Bradley has held meetings with three of his churches. Rev. J. H. Lamberth aided him at Stovall. About forty professed faith. Rev. R. VanDeventer aided him at Rock Spring. Twenty professed faith. Rev. J. S. Hardaway aided at Amis Chapel. Twenty-five professed faith in Christ. Each of these churches think they had the best preaching. All of these brethren did good preaching.

....Rev. G. W. Greene, in a letter dated Canton, China, July 6th, 1892, says: "It seems to me there has been enough said in the papers about methods of mission work, and it would be better, instead of criticising our brethren and their methods of work, to tell what we are doing, how we are doing it, and how the work is succeeding. Results alone can decide some of these questions, and in respect to some of them it will take a long period of years to decide finally. But we cannot afford to flitter away time in fruitless discussion, which will leave every one more fully convinced than ever that his way is right, and will distract attention from the main issue, the activity of men, women and money to carry the good news to the heathen."

....Pastor P. T. Hale has just closed a good meeting with his own church, the South Side, of Birmingham, Ala. Although without ministerial aid, the Holy Ghost revived the church, and twenty-three were added to the membership. Their new building, which will be the largest Baptist church in the State, will be dedicated the third Sunday in September, Dr. P. S. Henson of Chicago preaching the sermon.

....The committee appointed at the Southern Baptist Convention at Atlanta, Ga., to consider the propriety of reducing the size of that body and to report the best method of doing it, if deemed advisable, meets at Mont Eagle, Tenn., on the 20th inst. The committee is composed of Dr. Falk of Tennessee, Dr. Burrows of Georgia, Dr. Carroll of Chapel Hill, N. C., President Dudley of Georgetown College, Ky., and Gen. Eagle of Arkansas.

....Bro. James Bryant Jordan, aged fifty-seven years, died suddenly at his home in this city last Friday afternoon. Bro. Jordan had for many years been an exemplary member of the First Baptist church of this city. The funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon by Rev. Dr. Thos. E. Skinner, assisted by Rev. J. N. Cole of the Edenton Street M. E. Church, and Rev. Dr. F. L. Reid of the Christian Advocate. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved.

....Rev. C. C. Haymore, writing to us from Mt. Airy, August 9th, of the death of Sister Herring, states that he and Brother Pruett conducted the funeral service of our late sister on the afternoon of the 8th, and that it was one of the largest he had ever seen in Mt. Airy. Bro. Herring left on the morning of the 9th for his father's, carrying with him two of his children, leaving the baby with Mrs. Wingate. Bro. Herring needs the sympathy and prayer of all the brethren.

....Who wrote the "Life of John Bunyan" as it is published in a cheap edition of Pilgrim's Progress by Butler Bros., New York and Chicago? On page 38 and 39 of the "Life of John Bunyan," which is published at the first of Pilgrim's Progress, an effort seems to have been made by the writer to place the Baptists of that age with persecutors.—E. F. Jones, Zionville, N. C., Aug. 4, 1892. We would be pleased to have the foregoing inquiry answered by any of our readers.

....Rev. J. W. Carter, D. D., now pastor of the Baptist church of Raleigh, N. C., is to spend his vacation in West Virginia, and will preach in Parkersburg August 14th. Dr. Carter has many warm personal friends in West Virginia, and in no other one place are they so numerous as in Parkersburg, where he was pastor for twenty-five years. Pastor R. B. Smith is now at his father's on a short vacation. In the three months he has been with this church he has done good work and has got a good hold on the people. Rev. Mr. Morris, a class-mate, preached last Sabbath, and Dr. Carter is to preach next Sabbath.—Journal and Messenger.

....Dr. Overby writes: "Since I saw or heard from you I have been very sick, nigh unto death. My family thought I was dead at one time. I suppose if Dr. Ferebee had not been at home I must have died. But he was there; the Lord's time had not come. I preached last Sunday for the first time in five weeks. My strength comes very slowly. I was at Providence last week. Wood conducted meeting for me. I was too feeble. Had a good meeting. Eighteen added to the church." We know that every one will join us in thanking God that Bro. Overby has been spared, and hoping that he may live to do great good yet.

....Rev. K. C. Horner and Rev. W. A. Barrett have held successful meetings with Pace's chapel church, Granville county, and Arbor church, Vance county. Bro. Horner will help Rev. G. L. Merell next week in a meeting at Friendship church, Moore county, and Bro. Barrett will help Rev. Martin Leach next week in a meeting at Maple Springs church in Randolph county. These brethren will meet each other again on the third Sabbath in August at Deep Creek church, Moore county, and they will hold a meeting with the church the following week. May the Lord bless these brethren and help them to do much good in the Master's cause.

Nine More Baptists.

In some sections the above number would seem small, but in this section where the Missionary Baptists are "the sect" nearly "everywhere spoken against" the number don't seem so small.

Dr. Hufham and the writer closed a good meeting at Lane's school-house the 5th Sunday in July. Five were baptized by the writer, and quite a number of others made a profession of faith in Christ.

We closed a good meeting here at Bethel last night. The writer baptized four, and quite a number of others were deeply affected. Bro. J. H. Johnson of Bethel and Bro. J. F. Tuttle of Plymouth aided the writer. It was the first time that we had ever met Bro. Tuttle, but his stirring gospel sermons and his pleasant company will be long remembered by us all. J. R. PACE.

Bethel, August 12, 1892.

Catalogue of Wake Forest College.

The General Catalogue of W. F. College has been published, and copies have been mailed to all who have sent in their orders. Hereafter the price will be fifty cents a copy. We do not care to make anything by the publication of this volume, but we are very anxious not to lose anything. The book is larger than was expected when thirty cents was mentioned as the price. It is now certain that the actual cost, including everything, will be nearly fifty cents a copy.

CHARLES E. TAYLOR.

Wake Forest, Aug. 15, 1892.

Letter from Rev. T. C. Britton.

Dear Dr. Bailey:—We have been here in this Japanese mountain town a little over a week, trying to get a rest preparatory to our work in Soochow next fall and winter. For over a week before we left home, I preached daily in our chapel, while our native preacher was away on an evangelizing tour. I had a great many personal talks with the people, as I opened my little street room to receive them for conversation. As I was thus brought in close contact with a few among the millions of China, I was impressed as never before with their awful condition for want of christianity. While there are some who will argue for their doctrines to the end, there are others who seem to be so hardened and dead that you cannot get them to think at all. They will assent to all you say, and afterwards not even remember anything they have heard. Of the first class I met an interesting case on June 22. He held that we can know absolutely nothing about the future after death. He worshipped nothing and had perfect peace of heart. In his mind, the converts to christianity were in exactly the same error as the devotees to the idols in China. His main objection to Jesus and his religion was the condition of one of his friends who had been a christian about ten years. His friend was getting on well before he believed in Jesus. He had good business, plenty to eat, nice clothes, a wife and two sons. But since he went off after the doctrine of Jesus, he has become a "wreck." Although he could say nothing against the character of his friend, he said that his wife and two sons had died, no one would employ him, all his earthly goods were spent; and, when he was exhorted to give up his faith in Jesus, he clung the closer to him and rejoiced in hope of the happiness to come.

Although it is so sad to see their minds darkened with error, as this man's was, yet I rather have them to think and oppose the doctrine we bring than for them to be so dead as not to think at all.

It is now nearly three years that we have been the only Baptist missionaries in the great city of Soochow. I wonder if the Lord has not said to any one in North Carolina to come and be our co-worker in giving the pure gospel to these thousands. When the Lord speaks, let us not resist.

We hope to return home about the middle or last of August.

Christian greetings to all our friends in our native State. Fraternally,

T. C. BRITTON.

Arima, Japan, July 14, 1892.

From Africa—Letter to Bro. C. Durham.

Dear Bro. Durham:—It has been long since we had a letter from your pen. We write now simply to stir up your mind by way of remembrance.

It has now been more than three years since we left you all to come to the Dark Continent. What wonderful experiences have come to us in these years! but in them all the Lord has upheld and prospered our efforts.

It has been with great interest that we have noted the growth of our work in every department at home, and we have rejoiced greatly in the success of your work in the Board of Missions. The watchword of the churches of Christ to day is "Missions." Thank God for the growing interest in missions—State, Home and Foreign. They are all aiming at one great end—the evangelization of the world.

There are new fields opening to us faster than we are prepared to go in to work them. Just the other day Ijebu, having a population of 100,000, was opened up. No missionary was allowed to do work there until it was humbled by British arms. Last week a man came to me asking that we bring them the gospel. He will take me to the chief of his city and assure me a warm reception. I would go at once if I had not more work on my hands than I can do here.

This morning a blacksmith in a village some miles away comes and insists on my going to his people to preach the word and open a station. I could not go because I have more work on my hands than I can do.

Week before last I received letters from a town some miles away begging me to come to see them. I have not found the time to go.

I tell all of these people to read the word and pray God to give them light, but you can see that I need some one to help me in my pressing work.

There is a special interest in our work in Lagos. Last week we baptized five, and this week inquirers are coming to me daily.

We are greatly in need of cheap chapels in which to hold our meetings during this rainy season. The town will give us lots on which to put the houses.

We are all well now and very busy, but happy in our work. All my family join me in love to you and family, and we ask you to remember us kindly to our friends. Ask the brethren of the churches to pray for our work. We need more missionaries.

Hastily, &c. Yours sincerely,

C. C. NEWTON.

Lagos, West Africa, June 27, 1892.

A Word from Moravian Falls.

Dear Recorder:—School opened here August 8th.

The Brushy Mountain Association will begin here Aug. 25th. We hope that a good number of the brethren from the eastern part of the State will come, and all who intend to come will please write Bro. R. A. Spainhour, and he will meet them at Wilkesboro. W. R. BRADSHAW.

Moravian Falls, Aug. 8, 1892.

The North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts begins its fourth session on the first Thursday in September. See large advertisement in another column.

See advertisement of the University Law School to be found on the seventh page.

Stopped from Preaching.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Please allow me space in the RECORDER for a statement.

In 1890-'91, while in the Montgomery County Association, preaching at Troy and other churches, I had to resort to manual labor for about one-half of my support, as all other ministers who preach there have to do. I was advised to buy a small lot of land and farm on a small plan. I went to one of the members of my church and bought four and a quarter acres of land near Troy. The lot being in an undesirable shape, I bought one and one-seventh acres from another person joining his lot, which made both lots about a square. I went to another member of my church who was lending out his money at eight per cent., and he advanced the money to pay for all of the land and the expenses. I entered into this agreement with Mrs. Blake, the one I bought the four and a quarter acres from: "She shall have the refusal of the land when sold, with improvement and enhanced value." I invested about $380 in a house and other improvements on the line between the two lots, as I thought. They say I missed the line sixty feet.

In the spring of '91, I saw that I could not pay the debt on the property, and I went to Mrs. Blake and told her my condition, having failed to collect my salary for the previous year. She showed me no good-will nor sympathy, but said: "You have damaged my land." I had cleared, fenced, plowed and planted part of the lot. That is the way I had damaged it. She would not offer me any more than I gave her—eleven dollars per acre. The land I bought from her for eleven dollars in '90 would have sold for fifty dollars in '91. Railroad surveys, turpentine works and other improvements greatly enhanced the value of the land, besides the improvements I put on it. I sold the property and paid off the indebtedness. When I finished my year's work, I came to the Anson Association.

In February, 1892, I received a letter from a brother, stating that I had been brought under the censure of the church for falsehood and unfair dealing, too, and with Mrs. Blake, and that I had better come over and attend to the matter. I thought if there was much of it, the church would act on the Bible plan, and the difficulty would be settled all right, but when I heard again, they wrote me to stop preaching. I went over the next meeting and explained the matter to the church, as I had done by letter, asking the church to forgive the error they saw I had committed, if any; but they failed to hear me by letter or in person, saying the charge is well founded, first, because you did not build on the line; second, because you did not offer her the four and a quarter acres without these additional improvements. I did not promise to do either.

Why I did not do this: first, because by her own hearty consent, all the property was mortgaged to Bro. A. for the money to pay her for the land and to pay for part of the improvements; second, I could not have divided and sold any part of the property without consent of the mortgage-holder; third, the highest offer she made was the same I gave her (eleven dollars per acre). This is the foundation on which the well-founded and unpardonable charge was made, and not one of them will deny it.

Is it right that I should be stopped from preaching, and held under the censure of the church? Should I be damaged and slandered for what my conscience and friends taught me was right in the sight of God and man?

I feel like I am due this explanation to those churches and congregations to which I have preached, and also to the faculties which have taught me.

Many have heard of the trouble, but know not the truth about it.

Yours truly, W. M. THOMPSON.

Lilesville, Aug. 2, 1892.

Letter from Alabama.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—It has now been nearly twelve months since I was in your office, and although I promised you while there I would write to the RECORDER, I have put it off until now.

Connellsville is a little mining town about thirty miles southwest of Birmingham, and I can proudly say we have the best and most quiet mining camp in Alabama.

I have been here now two years, and in that time we have built a neat little house of worship and have preaching by Baptist ministers twice a month and also a flourishing Sunday-school of about seventy members.

The RECORDER reaches me every Thursday night, and it always seems like a friend from home.

I was very sorry indeed to learn of the death of Sister Williams, wife of Capt. Williams of the steamer Plymouth, and a member of my father's church in Williamston, N. C. Sister Williams was one of the purest and sweetest christian spirits that I have ever known. It was a benediction for any one to be associated with her. The world is made poorer by her death, but heaven will be made more glorious. Hers was indeed a rare character. In the service of her Master she diligently did "with her might what her hands found to do." Her heart went out with pity and tenderness after the erring and unfortunate ones, and many a barren life felt the comfort of her sweet compassion. For her is needed no monument of marble or stone, for she has written for herself a memorial in the hearts of her many friends. For her the buds of promise she placed in other lives, the thorns she plucked with wounded hands from beneath unwary feet, have bloomed into glorious and perpetual beauty into the paradise above. For her the pearly gates were opened, and she now sits in sweet communion with him "who doeth all things well." May God mercifully with his favor look upon the grief-stricken family. W. R. D.

Connellsville, Ala., Aug. 12, 1892.

Meeting at Seven Springs.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I have just returned home after aiding Bro. Finch in an interesting meeting at Seven Springs, a young but promising mission station. During my stay I was the guest of Mr. Simmons and his lady, one of the best and noblest of ladies. It was a joy to me to see her present herself as a candidate for baptism with a young lady from another denomination. I suppose Bro. Finch will report the result of the meeting when it closes.

We have at Seven Springs a nice house, and conveniently located about midway between White Hall and the Springs. This house stands as a monument to Bro. Finch's energy and perseverance. He is doing a noble work. I think the State Board did a wise thing in sending him to this field. He is making sacrifices. May I not ask and expect the sympathies, prayers, and support of brethren in more favored localities. I fear the development now going on at Seven Springs and at Union will be checked if he withdraws from this important field. Should he feel constrained to do so, the church that will secure his services will be fortunate in so doing. I hope, however, that he may be sustained where he is. It would be very hard to supply his place. I left the meeting early because I was too hoarse to preach.

A. L. STOUGH.

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 10, 1892.

The Late Mrs. Herring.

Dear Recorder:—I cannot express to you how sad my heart was made to feel when I read in your columns of the sad death of our dear sister, Mrs. Maggie Nutt Herring. Although I had never had the pleasure of knowing her personally, yet when I read of her death, I felt almost like I had lost a mother, for she was indeed the mother of our Missionary Society at Oxford Female Seminary (or at least, it bears her name) of which I was a member last session. How glad we were to hear of her visit to her old home and wished that we might see and know her before her return to her work. But now her work is finished and we must so try to live as to be able to see and know her in heaven. Her husband, in his talk before our Society at the last commencement, said that among the many invitations he had had to preach and lecture in different places since his arrival in North Carolina he felt that he could not refuse the one to preach the sermon before the Maggie Nutt Missionary Society for that name was very dear to him; but how much dearer that name will be to him now.

Having heard several of the girls express a desire to see Mrs. Herring, I feel that I can rightly say that we all feel very sad over her death.

May our Father comfort the bereaved family and teach them to realize that he doeth all things well, and that he knoweth when his children are weary of this earth and kindly takes them home. M. E. B.

Meeting at Macedonia—Mistake Corrected, &c.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—To day we closed an interesting and profitable meeting at Macedonia in Forsyth county. Bro. W. H. Wilson did the preaching to the satisfaction of both church and congregation. The people will be glad to see him again. Two additions by baptism. Several anxious souls were left. May the Lord lead them on.

You may always depend upon the older brethren of the Pilot Mountain district for loyalty to the RECORDER. Some of us are much wearied with new departures, especially those so remote from Bible teaching. We mountain Baptists have no better sense than to try to follow the teaching of the Book, though men in high places may advise otherwise. In this age of wild excitement, we want to stand firm on Bible grounds. New notions and measures may divide the brethren and cause some trouble, but unless they are based on God's word, they cannot last very long. There is satisfaction in being right and doing right.

Tell Bro. Caddell to be more careful in his statements. He makes our good brother S. F. Conrad the founder of the church at Pinnacle. The church was built several years ago before we had any railroad, under the pastoral charge of Bro. W. H. Beamer. It never had any help from our State Board, so far as I know. A great work has been done through the Board, but let us give honor to whom honor is due. The Lord help us all to be faithful and true to his cause and to all our brethren.

The above mistake was an oversight. Many such have been made, still they grieve good and true men. One who loves the cause more than self wishes no honor except what is due. P. OLIVER.

Dalton, Aug. 12, 1892.

Letter from Rev. J. F. Love in Baltimore.

Dear Recorder:—Will you allow me to say to my North Carolina friends that I survived "the hot week" and am still on "praying ground and pleading terms!" This is saying much, for the city's mortality for that memorable week was 547. And how our Baptist hosts broke for the sea-shore (more water!) and mountain! It is thought never before have so many people left Baltimore as have left this summer. There is a general dearth of pew occupants in the churches. The First church is represented by these summer wanderers in several States and in Europe.

The writer and the indefatigable editor-pastor Barron are about the only representatives of Baltimore pastors (Baptist) now in the city. Dr. Ellis is at the North, Dr. Williams at Ellicott City, while Rowland, Tupper, Fulton, Henson, Mullins, Collier and others are scattered far and wide. A chorus of RECORDER readers will ask, "Well, where is Wharton?" He is not resting—he don't do that. He is down in Virginia reveling in an old-time camp meeting. Bro. Hines, who is known and loved in North Carolina, though not a pastor at present, is here among us and is living and preaching the gospel to the edification of many. He preached at the First church on a recent Sunday in the absence of the writer, and, said an intelligent hearer afterwards, "If you had never done more than preached that sermon, you would not have lived in vain."

On every hand can be heard loving reference made to North Carolinians who formerly filled Baltimore pastorates. Doctors Pritchard, Sanderlin, Dixon, Poteat, what a galaxy! Without exception, brilliant, learned, sound and true. Not a crank among them! They have left their impress upon the Baptist thought and life of this city. Would that we had the faith to cry for a double portion of the spirit of any one of them. But our space is full. "Heaven's blessings attend Carolina."

J. F. LOVE.

Baltimore, Aug. 11, 1892.

Bro. J. B. L. Hurley's Letter Indorsed.

Dear Editor:—I wish to indorse Bro. J. B. L. Hurley's letter in your paper of this week. Why should Bro. Carroll or any of the other brethren wish to keep Bros. Herring, Bostick and others agreeing with them from being heard? Is it because they wish to try to keep the masses of our denomination from hearing of the needs of our mission work in China and of other ways of carrying it forward, or is it because Bros. Herring and Bostick have seen fit to differ with the Board, and for this reason they must not be heard? The fact that Dr. Yates did not adopt Bros. Herring and Bostick's plan is no argument against them, because when the Lord has a special work to be done or a great reform to introduce he does not raise up a dead person to carry forward the work, but calls out a man suited therefor and a man that is generally well equipped for the work, and gives him faith and courage to take hold.

Bro. Carroll's reference to Bro. Herring as a deserter and deserving of death is unjust. Bro. Herring has not deserted the cause of missions, neither his allegiance to our Saviour. He may have deserted from the opinions of Bro. Carroll in following the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Should he be shot for this?

Bro. Carroll and all others agreeing with him cannot prevent Bro. Herring from being heard by the churches in many places. If Bro. Herring can show us a better, cheaper and more Apostolic plan of mission work what argument can be brought against adopting it? If he cannot I do not think he will ask us to adopt it.

We are not doing mission work to please the Board or any other men or set of men but because our Master commanded it. The plan that is nearest Apostolic methods and will promise the greatest results at the least expense should be the plan that all will agree to. Yours sincerely,

D. W. ALDERMAN.

Doctor Carroll Unfortunate in his Article.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—It appears to me that Dr. Carroll was very unfortunate in his article concerning Bro. Herring's methods of mission work. The Doctor wishes to down the brother, and the club he uses is persecution and not argument. This is extremely unfair and is unbecoming in Dr. C. or any other Baptist minister.

Baptists say to their brethren, "If you have anything to say, say it;" Roman Catholics say to their brethren, "If you have anything to say that agrees with us, say it; if not, keep silent."

If Brother Carroll thinks Bro. Herring is wrong, he has a right, and it is his duty, to show wherein he thinks so. On the other hand, if he thinks he is wrong and can't show it, then it appears to me it becomes him to hold his peace.

Because we as Baptists have made wonderful progress both at home and abroad, is no reason why we should claim that our methods of propagating the gospel are perfect. It may be that our methods can be improved upon, and it seems nothing but fair and right to let Bro. Herring improve upon them if he can.

As for myself I am in favor of letting Bro. Herring go ahead, and I expect to do all that I can toward helping him. After his methods have a fair trial and fail to succeed, then I shall turn my back upon them, but not until then. F. T. WOOTEN.

Keith, August 12, 1892.

Parents, guardians, and young men who are anxious to get an education would do well to send at once for a catalogue of Thompson School and Business College, Siler City, N. C. This is one of the few first-class boarding-schools of North Carolina for young men and boys, with military training. The new and handsomely illustrated catalogue, one of the neatest of the season, shows an enrollment of 253 students during the past year, and an increase of patronage of five hundred per cent. in eleven years. The school is well equipped and is located in a beautiful and healthful community on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., thirty-five miles south of Greensboro. This school is highly endorsed and recommended by a majority of the best educators of North Carolina. The catalogue shows that the school has a thorough literary course, with special preparation for the University, Trinity, Wake Forest, or Davidson College. The Business College work includes a complete Commercial Course, plain and ornamental penmanship, telegraphy, short-hand, and type-writing. The catalogue also shows that the expenses of this excellent school are very reasonable. Good board is quoted at eight dollars per month. The Fall Term begins Aug. 24th.

If you are interested upon the subject of handling and manufacturing wood, read the advertisement of the Leaksville Woolen Mills, which you can find on our 4th page. After reading it, if you are further interested, write to Mr. Hiram Foard, Secretary Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue and full information.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

that a larger audience would collect around us while we were eating our dinner, and we were not disappointed. There is always some one in every Chinese audience, who assumes the position of explaining everything, whether he understands or not. He saw me look at my watch, and at once told the people that it would run several weeks without being wound up, and must have cost seven or eight dollars. It was the double-case gold watch given me at the Convention at Reidsville. He missed it about as far on our bananas—said they were foreign soap. Imagine the surprised looks when we began to eat them. After dinner, we tried to give them some spiritual food. We were frequently called "Kwai tsza" (men, [illegible] or children stealers). I turned their own gun on them, and they seemed to wince under its fire. Told them that the whole country was full of Kwai-tsza, not foreign but native. The wicked men and women at their doors leading their children astray, taking away their sons and daughters and leaving moral wrecks unworthy of the name of son and daughter. There were some striking illustrations of the fact before me in the livid, hollow-eyed, opium eaters and opium eaten skin and bones. I warned them, too, against the head of all the Kwaitsza, the Devil, and pointed to Jesus as the only way of escape. While we were enjoying a needed rest, our boat sailed on to Kien-pih. Our songs soon brought a very large audience around our boat and gave us another blessed opportunity of pointing them to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world. We concluded to walk back to Tan-t'u while our boat sailed around. The boys escorted us to the end of the street and bade us good-by with curses too filthy to mention, and threw stones after us to accompany us farther. It was a beautiful walk over the smooth stone-paved road. Birds were singing, pheasants crowing, flowers blooming, lovely sunset view inviting our gaze from the hill top. "Every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

June 7.—We left the river and sailed north up a canal leading to the Grand canal. Our first stopping place was Sa-teu-Kai. Although the people were very busy gathering in the wheat and the barley, our songs soon attracted a good audience. Some one kindly brought us a bench, and Bro. Hunnex stood on it and preached Christ as our best friend. There were many boys and girls in the audience, and they listened attentively, while eating their parched beans and radishes, to the special words I addressed to them. If you think of coming to China, learn to interest children. The grown people are also very childlike.

We next preached in a tea-shop at Sz-Kia chiao, one of brethren Chappell and Pierce's regular stations. I enjoyed this meeting very much indeed—spoke over an hour. Being the last speaker I did not encroach upon any other speaker's time, but fear I tried their patience.

Bro. Hunnex, not being able to accompany us farther returned to Chinkiang by wheelbarrow. We regretted to lose so good a helper and so pleasant a companion.

Bro. Pierce, Bro. Chen and myself sailed on to Hwah kia-ch'a, after a parting word of prayer and thanksgiving with Bro. Hunnex. A great many men and women were sitting around tables gambling, but the people were very friendly. They took us into the tea shop and asked us to preach. Even the dogs seemed friendly. A large company escorted us to our boat, and not one cursed us as we sailed away—a rare exception. We sailed on about two miles and anchored for the night. It was a beautiful moonlight night, and Pierce and I could not resist a pleasant chat on deck about home experiences in protracted meetings. Thus closed another busy but happy day.

June 8.—Preached and distributed tracts first at Lah-tsah-keu, and then sailed on to Sao-poh. This is quite a large and busy town. While walking through the streets to advertise our arrival, we passed an idol shop. I asked the price of a very ancient looking one. The old man replied that it was not for sale, but had been left by some one to be repaired. I remarked, "What a great man you must be—able to repair the gods, or what worthless gods you worship, man made and by man repaired." The people saw the point. We enjoyed a preaching service at the end of the street under a willow tree on the bank of a small lake.

On our way back to our boat we passed a store with an idol sitting on the front counter. I asked if it was a god, and the merchant said, "Yes." I then asked the idol his honorable name, but received no reply. Then with a loud voice asked again, and again very loud. The crowd began to laugh. One man said he is made of wood, and can not hear. I then asked, "How can he hear when you pray to him?" May God use the object lesson to show them the folly of idol worship!

From Sao-poh we sailed north up the Grand canal. The country east of the canal is very fertile and densely populated. Many of them have never heard the gospel. The canal bed is higher than this country, and the people live in constant dread and danger of being flooded. The Yellow river, "China's Sorrow," sometimes sends its surplus waters this way. The weak places in the banks have been strengthened by stones, bricks and reeds. We noticed many great piles of reeds at different places ready for an emergency. Would God they could see their greater danger, and prepare for it by repentance and faith in Christ! We next preached from our boat to a large audience at Lu king. Bro. Pierce, being a newcomer, and not knowing the Chinese reverence for the written or printed character, sat down on a tract. A teacher in the audience saw it and became very indignant. I explained to him that Pierce was a new arrival, and that we had no such reverence for characters in our country, but this did not satisfy him. He kept talking about it, telling it to every new arrival. Bro. Chen could not [illegible] him. Finally I went ashore and asked him to read my passport. Then said, "You see that the Emperor knows that I am in China, and commands all his people not to hinder but to help me if necessary; but you, a man of no authority, dare thus to obstruct our great and important work. You accuse us of sitting on the characters; but you do far worse, you sit on the meaning of the characters." I then quoted his own ancient classics, and showed that he was violating them by his actions. "Your own great Confucius has said, 'All within the four seas are brethren,' but you treat me like an enemy." I then called him elder brother, and insisted on his coming on our boat and having a cup of tea. As the Chinese say, "he lost his face," insisted that he was not trying to hinder our work, and left. We then had a good time preaching to the large audience, which he collected for us.

We reached Tse-lo about dark. Thinking that it was too late to preach, we asked our boatmen to sail on by moonlight to Kao-yin, the end of our journey. But God had a work for us to do, and had the small native gunboat to stop us. We sat out on deck to wait for the audience that we felt God would certainly give us. No audience assembled. A blind beggar passed by. We hailed him, hoping that the people would assemble to see us do a good deed. He received his money and passed on, and still no audience. We then concluded to go to the barber's shop near by and get a shave, hoping that the people would assemble to see a foreigner shaved. This plan succeeded, and we had a very precious service by moonlight. "He leadeth me, O blessed thought."

June 9, Kao-yin.—This is the next walled city on the Grand canal above Yangchow, thirty-five miles from Yangchow. It contains about one hundred thousand inhabitants. We hope to open a station here in the near future, and thus come one step nearer to our North China Mission. Who of you, dear readers, will come to occupy this place? The China Inland Mission have a station here occupied by a few single ladies, but what can they do among so many? More about this city another time.

After an interesting service from our boat at the south gate of the city, we concluded to walk around to the north gate and return through the city. On our right sat the ladies in front of their huts making their morning toilets, washing their faces, and combing their hair. On our left, the west, just across the canal, stretching farther than the eye could see a beautiful lake. It reminded us of the ocean, and carried our thoughts homeward. Just before reaching the north gate we came across a very touching picture, an old woman, partially paralyzed, sitting in the door of a small straw hut, and her son feeding her on rice with a spoon. The young man was an opium smoker, and having no money to buy opium, had planted the poppy, from which opium is made, in front of his house. He begged me to inform him how to extract the opium from the pods. My ignorance was my bliss on that occasion. He had cut gashes in the pods, and as the juice ran out, would wipe it off with a rag, and then boil it out of the rag in water and evaporate the water. I urged him to give up opium and accept Christ as his Saviour from that and every other sin. A good audience gathered around us, which gave an opportunity to preach. An old Buddhist priest urged us to do a good deed helping the old woman and her son. We at once agreed to give two dollars if he would give one. He made excuses, but we insisted that he who had lived off the people for sixty years and had urged us to give, must give, too. He had to give or "lose his face." We gave the young man the three dollars, and in spite of our protest, he insisted on beating his head on the ground in front of us as a grateful acknowledgment of the gift. The old priest insisted that I was a Chinaman.

Proceeding a little farther, we found that our Father had prepared another audience for us under a cluster of trees. We preached to them, returned through the city to our boat, and hoisted sail for Yangchow. The favorable wind drove us rapidly along and brought us to Yangchow by 8:30 p. m. Bro. Chappell was chatting the gospel to some guests in the large guest hall—the best way to preach. We refused his kind and pressing invitation to spend the night, because we wished to start by daylight next morning.

June 10, Kwa-tseu.—While preaching to a good audience in the tea shop, a pompous, conceited man, with a mustache, came up to us, feeling and combing the down on his lip, and began feeling Pierce's satchel. He asked, in a very condescending way, "What kind of skin?" I replied, "We have not come to discuss skin matters, but heart matters." He turned red in the face, burst out into a big giggling laugh, and said to his friends, "I have struck my head against a sharp nail"—got the worst of it. They replied, "They are preachers, and are a great deal wiser than you are." He and his friends made a big row with the landlord over one cent and a half, which they ought to have paid. I have seen a big street fight over one-tenth of a cent.

We had a good audience at Chih-hao ken, and then went to Hung-chiao. Instead of going to my regular tea shop, we preached in a graveyard in the centre of the village under some trees. It was a good pulpit from which to preach Jesus and the resurrection.

We arrived at home at 6 p. m. to receive a sweet welcome from our loved ones.

Thank you, dear reader, for accompanying us on this trip. Hope you have enjoyed it as much as I have. R. T. BRYAN.

Ayer's Ague Cure is an antidote for malaria and all malarial diseases, whether generated by swamp or sewer. Neither quinine, arsenic, nor any other injurious drug enters into the composition of this remedy. Warranted to cure fever and ague.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARATIONS for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear.

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

WANTED.

A lady of experience desires a position as teacher in school or private family. Teaches the usual English branches, French, Mathematics and Music. References required. Address, stating terms, MISS GEORGIE RYLAND, St. Stephens, King and Queen county, Virginia.

MONROE HIGH SCHOOL,

MALE AND FEMALE.

The course is Classical, Mathematical, Scientific, Musical and Business, including Typewriting and Shorthand. Buildings, desks, pianos, wall maps, globes and slate blackboards new and elegant. Thorough and cheap. For catalogues, address the Principal. Fall term opens Aug. 22.

L. D. ANDREWS, Principal,
Monroe, N. C.

Virginia Military Institute,

LEXINGTON, VA.

54th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Century degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Sciences and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and lockbusiness, furnished at rate of $30.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

REV DR. HAWTHORNE'S EXPERIENCE WITH GERMETUER.

"I am free from catarrh. I believe that I could get a certificate to this effect from any competent physician. I have used no medicine within the last six months except King's Royal Germetuer. My health is better than it has been in thirty years."

I was troubled with indigestion and blood poison in the form of pimples on my face. I took two bottles of King's Royal Germetuer and it cured me entirely. THOMAS G. HILL.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 31, 1891.

Rev. M. H. Wells, of Birmingham, writes "that daughter and I were cured of neuralgia and rheumatism by the use of Germetuer after all known medical and climatic remedies had been used, by the use of Germetuer."

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Troubles, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases, Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Eczema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia and General Debility.

For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Manufactured by

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.

J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.

Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:

Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.

Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:

Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C.

Louisburg Female College,

LOUISBURG, N. C.

[Founded 1857.]

Next session begins September 1st, 1892. Full and strong Faculty. Music Teachers from Conservatory. Art and Elocution Teachers from Academy of Arts. Special Teachers for Penmanship, Stenography and Typewriting, Telegraphy and Business Department. Large brick buildings—fifty rooms. Well shaded campus of twelve and one-half acres. The whole Literary Course, with board, washing, lights, fires, and physical culture, $140 for session of ten months. Extra studies in proportion. No extra charge for business course to pupils in other departments. Apply for catalogue to S. D. BAGLEY, President,
Louisburg, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company.

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE,
In Effect July 24, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*8 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 01 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 10 p m	10 11 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*4 00 p m	†7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	6 00 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 15 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 22 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	10 00 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 25 p m	*8 50 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 20 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 p m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 40 a m	6 00 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 00 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 27 a m	8 10 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	9 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 37 a m	*8 25 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 20 a m	10 20 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	†12 10 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 24 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 23 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	†8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*10 40 p m
Ar Danville	12 10 p m	12 45 a m
" Keysville	2 50 p m	3 35 a m
" Burkeville	3 31 p m	4 19 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 20 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leaves Durham 7.55 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 9.40 a m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m, and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D C. Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect August 10, 1892.

SO. BO'ND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BO'ND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 23 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 03 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 03 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
7 20 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
5 40 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 10 a m
4 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	10 00 a m
4 25 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	10 30 a m
3 10 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	11 55 a m
1 45 p m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	12 45 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. B. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

An exchange says: "Once in a while we meet with people who are just religious enough to want everybody else to do right." For our part we wish there were more such people in this world. One great trouble is that people do not wish other people to do right, and will spend time and money and thought in trying to lead others to do wrong. It would make a vast difference in the police court reports in our cities if everybody had religion enough to want everybody else to do right. We have met a few men who would sin themselves, yet scrupulously refrained from inducing or tempting others, but they were very few. However it may be with misery, wickedness loves company. But we wish there could be just now more such religion in the churches, and that more christians were anxious everybody else would do right. Too many are asking in lazy indifference, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and caring not a copper spangle whether others do right or wrong. They are perfectly indifferent to Achan's presence in the camp, and when Israel is defeated because God is not indifferent, they are rather indignant with the Joshua who disturbs Achan.

In speaking of some wrong which is making its way into the churches, the Examiner says in substance—we are quoting from memory—that the terrible thing was not the wrong-doing in itself, but the apathy and indifference of those who knew it to be wrong, but would do nothing to hinder its spreading. The indifference of those who themselves hold the truth to any down-grade in the churches is far worse than the error. "I would thou wert hot or cold," teaches us that God is better pleased with a man who is wrong than with one who holds the truth and is too indifferent or too cowardly to contend earnestly for it.

Peace is a great thing for churches and nations, but it must not be peace at any price. There was peace in Zebulon when the thousands kept rank and were not of a double heart, and that is true peace. There is the peace of a graveyard, and that is the case in too many of our churches. Being dead the members care nothing for the purity or discipline of the church.

We must not cry peace where there is no peace. "Ye that love the Lord, hate evil." And hate is a very energetic passion, far removed from indifference. There is nothing which innovators and false brethren brought unawares are fonder of than of crying peace and liberty. They advocate error, they pollute the simplicity of the church's old established worship, and then when protest is made by the faithful, they cry out that the protestors are making a disturbance. Wolves might as well denounce the dogs for making a disturbance by defending the sheep.

Wanted, in all the churches, brave, watchful, faithful ones who are religious enough to wish everybody else to do right.—Western Recorder.

A Contrast.

The price of a Bible, fairly written, with commentary, was, in the year 1274, from $150 to $200, though in 1240 two arches of London Bridge were built for $125. In the year 1272 the wages of a laboring man were less than four cents a day, while the price of a Bible at the same period was about $180. A common laborer in those days must toil most industriously for thirteen long years if he would possess a copy of the Word of God. Now the earnings of a portion of a day will buy the cost of a beautifully printed copy of the sacred oracles. What a contrast! What an illustration of the power of the press!—The Worker.

If out of order, use Beecham's pills.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

August.

Flat River—Island Creek, Aug 16-18.
Yadkin—Cross Roads church, Aug 18-20.
Liberty—High Point, Aug 23-25.
Brushy Mountain—Moravian Falls church, Aug 26-27.

September.

South Yadkin—Bethel, Iredell county, Sep 6-8.
Caldwell County—Yadkin church, seven miles north of Lenoir, Sep 8-10.
Three Forks—Meat Camp church, six miles east of Boone, Sep 13-15.
Ashe and Alleghany—Bethel church, ten miles south of Jefferson, Sep 15-17.
King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg, Oct 4-7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourne, Nov 4-6.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?
Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Mission"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Out of Sorts.

Some people are always "out of sorts." The weather is always just what they don't want. I met one of these men awhile ago, a farmer, who raised all manner of crops. It was a wet day, and I said:

"Mr. Nayling, this rain will be fine for your grass crop."

"Yes, perhaps; but it is bad for the corn, and will keep it back. I don't believe we shall have a crop."

A few days after this, when the sun was shining hot, I said:

"Fine day for your corn, sir."

"Yes, but its awful for the rye. Rye wants cold weather."

Again, on a cold morning, I met my neighbor, and said:

"This must be capital for your rye, Mr. Nayling."

"Yes, but it is the very worst weather for corn and grass. They want heat to bring them forward."—Dr. Todd.

Let the boy buy and sell occasionally. If he loses or gains, his experience will be valuable to him in after life.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh's Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [SEAL] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BURGESS, Raleigh, N. C.

For Centennial Building Fund, Chapel Cards, Self-denial and Thanksgiving Mite Boxes, Centennial Literature, etc., apply to MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for August:—Home Board.

"Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee." Missionaries, 365; baptisms, 5,274; Sunday-schools organized, 342; teachers and pupils, 17,785; churches constituted, 179; houses of worship built, 80. Receipts of Home Board, $84,871.19.

STUDY TOPICS.—Needs of each State in the Home field. Relation of Home to State Missions and vice versa. Maintenance of missionaries. Frontier missions. America for Christ, or for Romanism and infidelity? Chapel building.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

The "Great Shrouding" Ceremony.

"On the 6th day of the 9th month, the venerable lady Zee Kiung-wei left this world. To-day, at 4 o'clock, the Great Shrouding Ceremony will take place.

"Moo Niang-niang (my Chinese name) is respectfully invited to be present."

So ran a Chinese note of invitation, bearing my name in native characters on a little red leaf pasted in the corner.

Zee Kiung-wei, a widow, had been for some time a member of our church, and so had her only child, a girl of eighteen, the sender of this invitation; but all their relatives were heathen. A week previously the sick woman had been brought to a hospital close to our home, where every care and comfort were provided for her. The day before her death, however, her brother had insisted on her return to her dwelling in a narrow noisome street of the native city, that she might escape the misfortune, as the Chinese consider it, of dying away from home; although both native and English doctors had assured him her only hope of recovery was destroyed by such a proceeding. Pitiful it was to have her daughter clinging to us in agonies of tears when obliged to submit to this cruel measure.

So when next morning we received the foregoing notice, we decided to be present at the encoffinment of the body, partly for the poor girl's sake, partly in the hope of being able to hold some christian service on the occasion.

We found a dense pack of people in the narrow alley outside, in the courtyard, and inside the house. Relatives of the dead were distinguished by white cloths wrapped bandage-like around their heads. At the doorway stood a mandarin's empty chair, red parasol, and torches and other such paraphernalia, intended to indicate the spirit's approaching departure. A band of musicians were in the courtyard, and these from time to time set up the doleful discord, which could surely seem music only in the ears of a bagpipe seasoned Highlander. In the entrance room stood a huge wooden coffin, its head towards the door: and near it we found Zee Siao tsia, the orphaned daughter, clinging to a kind native woman belonging to a missionary household. The former invited us to an inner room to view the body—a most strange spectacle! Head and face, enveloped in white wadding, looked like a large snow-ball. With a touch of pride Zee Siao-tsia told us that four dollars' worth of cotton-wool had been thus applied. Thickly padded also was the body beneath its raiment of rich red silk and many-colored massive embroidery, resembling that of a bride. On the feet were white socks with scarlet soles.

Several members of our native church were among the crowd in the outer room, and without difficulty my husband obtained quiet there, while he read a few verses of Scripture and spoke of the christian hope in the hour of death, and briefly prayed. Immediately afterwards, while the appointed female mourners broke forth into loud wailing, burying their tearless faces in voluminous calico cloths, the corpse was carried in and laid on benches beside the coffin spread with a very large coverlet of quilted crimson satin. This was wrapped around it, leaving the head exposed, and was secured by thick red silken cord, laced over it in an elaborate pattern. Then several similar quilts were laid within the coffin, and some copper cash deposited thereon.

At the lifting of the corpse to place it inside, there was a fresh outburst of woeful howling, and at this point Zee Siato-tsia was arrayed in a robe of coarsest sack cloth. The body with its massive envelopment having been accidentally inserted somewhat sideways, much pushing and pulling and squeezing was required to bring the head into position on the rest scooped out in the centre to support the throat. This accomplished, the wadding was slit open in front to disclose the poor dead face, and then a bridal crown, a marvellous construction of scarlet silk laden with spangles, was fixed upon the head, and a pair of embroidered crimson satin slippers were laid beside the feet. Sheets of paper about a foot square were now spread over the corpse, layer above layer. Then a quantity of sawdust was shovelled in with tin pans. When the coffin seemed almost filled up with this, the paper beneath was carefully cut down the centre and turned back upon the sawdust on either side, forming a solid padding, which seemed to leave no inch of empty space; but yet another crimson quilt was forced in, and then the huge lid adjusted, not with nails, but four wooden clamps. As we turned away from that strange scene with its mingling of genuine grief with the gruesome and grotesque, we noticed behind the coffin-head a table holding lighted candles and bowls of food with a pair of chop-sticks provided for the spirit supposed to hover still in the neighborhood of its material tenement.

We left the kindly woman before mentioned with poor Zee Siao-tsia, Chinese etiquette forbidding the orphaned girl to quit her home for several weeks. It is our hope that ere long she may be allowed to join our little band of native helpers in mission work.

As I turned from that strange scene, there came forcibly home to me a passage from a work lately written and widely read:—

"One depth of human experience there is, which only christian faith can attempt to sound. We live in a world of bereavement.

"There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there:
There is no household howsoe'r defended,
But has one vacant chair.

"When the flock thins, and the chair empties, who can heal the grief-stricken? In that hour the gospels of the world are on trial. In the presence of death, how will they act? Act? they are blotted out of existence. Philosophy, politics, social reforms are no more! There is crape on the door—the world withdraws—it has no mission. So awful in its loneliness was that hour that the Romans paid a professional class to step in with its mummeries and try to fill it. But that is Christ's own hour. Next to righteousness christianity's grandest word is comfort. Never was Renan nearer the mark than when he spoke of the Bible as 'the great book of the consolation of humanity.' Christ's programme is 'to bind up the broken hearted.... to give the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness:' so that whatever else his gospel means, it is first of all an evangel for suffering and sorrowing men."—Alice Jane Muirhead, London Mission.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ITCHING HUMORS

Torturing, disfiguring eczemas, and every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp diseases, with dry, thin, and falling hair, are relieved in most cases by a single application, and speedily and economically cured by the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies, when the best physicians fail. CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every humor, eruption, and disease from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

FREE FROM RHEUMATISM.

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. The first and only pain-killing strengthening plaster

The Last Drop

Is as good as the first. No dregs. All pure and wholesome. The most popular drink of the day.

Hires' Root Beer.

A perfect thirst quencher.

Don't be deceived if a dealer, for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."

BEECHAM'S PILLS

CURE

SICK HEADACHE,

Disordered Liver, etc.

They Act Like Magic on the Vital Organs, Regulating the Secretions, restoring long lost Complexion, bringing back the Keen Edge of Appetite, and arousing with the ROSEBUD OF HEALTH the whole physical energy of the human frame. These Facts are admitted by thousands, in all classes of Society. Largest Sale in the World.

Covered with a Tasteless & Soluble Coating.

Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a Box. New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

Theological Seminary,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D., Chester, Pa.

Peace Institute,

RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.

JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.) Principal.

Please mention this paper.

Wanted.

A Situation as Teacher by a Peace Institute Graduate who has had experience in teaching music, penmanship, arithmetic, geography, history, etc. Can teach higher branches. Best of references given. Address

"TEACHER,"
716 North Person Street, Raleigh, N. C.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. Established 1837. SOLE MAKERS OF THE DAYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms free. Please mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A. Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

IRON FENCE SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN. CATALOGUE FREE. J. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

ROANOKE FEMALE COLLEGE

DANVILLE, VA.

C. F. JAMES, B. A., D. D., President.

The thirty-fourth annual session of this well known and excellent school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6th, 1892. Dr. James succeeds Capt. J. T. Averett as president, the latter retiring on account of feeble health. The new president is a B. A. of Richmond College, a full graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and for three years has conducted, with notable success, the Alleghany Institute, of Roanoke, Va. Faithful and competent teachers. The buildings will be thoroughly renovated, repaired and painted, and the dormitories will be nicely carpeted and provided with new furniture. Pupils shall be thoroughly and wisely taught, and shall have every needed academic facility and domestic care and comfort. The city of Danville is now considered one of the healthiest cities in the South. It is in every way admirably adapted to the location of a first-class female college. Catalogues furnished upon application.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

A Comfort to Mothers & Infants.

Having invented a shirt and band combined for new born infants, which has proven such a comfort to myself and friends, I feel it my duty to offer it to the public. Enclose 25 cents for pattern and full instructions.

MRS. I. O. WALTERS,
Wake Forest, N. C.

Mrs. Walters is the widow of the late Rev. Dr. Walters. Mrs. C. E. Taylor highly recommends the shirt and band.—EDITOR.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

FOR $1.50

we will send to any address postpaid, one each of the following late sheet music publications, allowing

Privilege of Exchange

after five days examination, for other music, if any of this proves unsuitable, but no money will be refunded. Copies to be exchanged must be in perfect condition, or we will not accept them. The list is as follows:

SONGS.

MY LADY'S WINDOW. Neil. 40 cents.
THE BIRD AND THE RAIDER. Jamison. 40 cents.
SUNSHINE AND SHADOW. Ranoch. 40 cents.

PIANO MUSIC.

BOW KNOT POLKA. Hunt. 40 cents.
FESTIVAL MARCH. Zamora. 40 cents.
FELICITE. Bohr. 40 cents.

Complete catalogues furnished free on application. Mention this paper.

THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Read & Sons Music Co., 160 Wabash Ave., Chicago. The John Church Co., 5 E. 16th St., New York.

Colored Ministers' Institute in Rockingham.

Dear Recorder:—Prof. Smith of the Shaw University recently held an Institute in the colored Baptist church of this town. I am sorry that previous engagements prevented me from attending regularly; but the time I was able to spend with him convinced me that Bro. Smith's instructions were very helpful to the colored pastors who attended. The attendance was smaller than it otherwise would have been from the fact that many of the country pastors were engaged in their protracted meetings just at the time the Institute was held. The instruction given was just such as the colored pastors most sadly need. In brief, well studied and compact lectures, he gave them the outlines of theology in such a plain, simple way, that they readily took hold of it, as the examinations in these lectures proved.

He also instructed them in pastoral duties, homiletics, exegesis, &c., in a way that was very helpful indeed. All the way through he emphasized the importance of elevated christian character among the colored ministry. I venture the assertion that many of those who were present learned more in two weeks about the systematic study of God's word, and their duties as pastors, than they had learned during their entire ministry. It is my honest conviction that the Board is doing a grand work, and is meeting a long felt want among the colored brethren of the State.

This Institute put this idea into my head: Wherever these institutes are held, the local pastors should do all they can to aid the brethren who are sent to conduct them. In those communities where the State Board cannot have a representative, the local white pastors could do a noble work by devoting, say a week, to the instruction of the colored pastors. If the white pastors in an Association, for instance, would decide upon some convenient plan, meet together and spend a week in instructing the colored brethren, they would do great good in giving to this crude race a sound, definite system of theology.

It is a work which, I feel sure, will be appreciated by our colored brethren. I always preach to them when I have an opportunity, and never preach to a more appreciative people. Any instruction their white brethren may offer will be gladly received.

I make this suggestion, not as a substitute for the institutes, but as the next best thing in those communities where institutes cannot be held.

L. JOHNSON.

Rockingham, Aug. 12, 1892.

An Interview with Mr. G. W. Kendal of New Orleans.

Mr. G. W. Kendal the well known lawyer, was connected with the naval branch of the Union forces during the war, and was with the fleet engaged in operations around Vicksburg. He was exposed to many hardships during the campaign and contracted a disease of the bowels. On account of the lack of medical and bodily comforts the disease became aggravated, and before the proper treatment could be procured it had involved itself into acute dysentery, accompanied with hemorrhoids. Mr. Kendal said "for seventeen years I have travelled through the country consulting every physician who had obtained any prominence in treating diseases of a similiar nature, and I visited all the springs that were noted for their curative properties, but nothing did me any good. For the last seven years of that time, I was confined to my bed. Last September, a year ago, I first heard of the Electropoise. My attending physician had given up my case as hopeless. I was emaciated to such an extent that I could not bear the weight of the bed clothes, and I had been suffering from insomnia for a long time, for thirty two days I neither ate nor drank anything but a pint of champayne each morning.

My physician claimed that the mucous membranes of my stomach had been eaten away, and that death was inevitable. My tongue was swollen and cracked and the entire alimentary passage, the doctors said, was in a similar condition. Worn out from, continual watching, my daughter left the room one morning, while I was asleep, during which the doctor said I would pass away, and while waiting for the worst to come, she suddenly thought of the Electropoise, which she had seen used with good effects while a professional nurse in Florida during the yellow fever epidemic of 1888. She determined to try one, and hastily went out to purchase one before it was too late.

In two weeks I began to feel it, and two months from the time I began using it, I could walk from my home on Keleric street to Canal street. My old malady had entirely left me. I now eat three hearty meals a day and enjoy sound sleep. I have not been troubled with hemorrhoids since, and feel as well as I ever did in my life.

We should like to give a new chimney for every one that breaks in use.

We sell to the wholesale dealer; he to the retail dealer; and he to you.

It is a little awkward to guarantee our chimneys at three removes from you.

We'll give you this hint. Not one in a hundred breaks from heat; there is almost no risk in guaranteeing them. Talk with your dealer about it. It would be a good advertisement for him.

'Pearl top' and 'pearl glass,' our trade-marks—tough glass

[illegible] & Co.

Meeting at Clement.

We began a series of meetings at Clement church in Person county on the fifth Sunday in July. These meetings continued five days, and were enjoyed by all who attended them. Bro. George T. Watkins aided the pastor and did good preaching.

Nine joined the church and many were asking for prayer when we closed.

J. H. L.

Roxboro, Aug. 8, 1892.

Roper News.

Dear Recorder:—We have just had one of the most interesting meetings at this place that it has ever been my privilege to enjoy. On Sunday I was assisted by Dr. Bogert of Edenton, and on Monday, Bro. W. Savage came and staid with us during the week, holding Bible meetings in the day and preaching at night. The gospel was preached with power, souls were converted, and a general interest was manifested by the citizens. Some have been baptized, and several received by letter. More are to unite with us at our next regular meeting. Our church building is nearing completion, only plastering and painting yet to do, and then we will have a neat, comfortable house of worship. This has been an up-hill work, but in the most trying times we have not been discouraged, but have persevered, until now success has crowned our efforts, and although we do feel proud to see a Baptist church in this place, yet with humble hearts we give God the glory, for it was in him and through him that all was accomplished.

Brethren, pray for us, that this work may not be in vain in the Lord.

JOSEPHUS TYNCH.

South River Union.

This Union met with my church at Spring Branch. It was a most excellent meeting, and from the interest taken in Foreign Missions, I believe this Association will support a man on the foreign field. The brethren "have a mind to work."

GOOD MEETING AT SPRING BRANCH.

From the Union we continued the meeting until yesterday (Sunday.) My father, Rev. A. N. Campbell, was with me three days and did most of the preaching while present. I had no other ministerial aid, but was aided by a number of brethren in the prayer-meetings and frequent talks of power, together with a large host of brethren and sisters ready to do what they could.

It was a glorious meeting. Yesterday I baptized fifteen. One was restored. The church was greatly revived, and I think will take on new life. A prayer-meeting is to be organized for the young men and any old ones who are not accustomed to leading in public prayer.

This church now has over three hundred members, and, although not well developed in every respect, still, in many respects it is a blessing to a pastor to have such a people. Most of its members are poor, none are rich, but for the three years that I have been serving the church, I have never been there that some one did not give me some money. When sometimes sickness has kept me from going, they have sent me money. May the Lord's blessings rest upon them.

Next week, I am to hold a meeting at Hector's Creek. Pray for us

Fraternally, J. A. CAMPBELL.

Please Keep Before the People.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE OF THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION.

[Adopted June 22d and 23d, 1892.]

* * * * *

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that the words "Permanent Centennial Fund of $250,000," as used in our last report to the Southern Baptist Convention, were not intended to designate an endowment fund the interest of which only shall be used, but a fund for "Bible translation, chapel building, a church edifice fund, and other permanent work." If, therefore, any donor of a special sum shall see fit to direct that his gift be invested and only the interest be expended, his wishes must be sacredly observed, but without such specific directions these gifts will be turned over to the Board for the benefit of their work, and the Boards will be authorized and expected to expend the said funds, as occasion may require, in work of a permanent character connected with their missionary operations.

* * * * *

Resolved, That this Centennial Committee respectfully recommend to the Boards to use all proper methods, by circulars, by instruction to their agents, and by use of their own publications and the denominational papers generally, to make clear to all our brethren that Centennial contributions may be either for the support and enlargement of the present work of the Boards or for the fund for permanent work at the option of the donors; and that it is understood that only those contributions specifically designated for the latter fund will be put to the credit of that fund.

* * * * *

Resolved, That the representatives of this Committee be hereby instructed, in advocating the interests and claims of the Centennial, to emphasize the idea of enlarged operations as well as the raising a fund for permanent work, and to strive constantly to uplift our people to a higher plane of living for Christ and giving systematically for the promotion of his cause.

* * * * *

Richmond, Va.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—South Yadkin Asso, $35.00; Mt Zion Asso, 154.57; Rev J G Johnson, Ashe and Alleghany, 2.00; Sandy Creek Asso, 11.35; Stanly Union, Stanly, 1.05; Pilot Mtn Asso, 519.00; Beulah Asso, 77.57; Reidsville ch, Beulah, 54.62; Mt Vernon ch Central, 5.25; Union ch, West Chowan, 15.00; Central Asso, 8.86; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 2.60; S S Mis Soc, Cashie ch, ditto, 1.34. Total, 888.21. Previously reported, 2,493.93. Total this year, 3,382.14.

Foreign Missions—Pilot Mtn Asso, $45.80; Cash collection, 7.00; Beulah Asso, 35.27; Mt Vernon ch, Central, 3.11; Central Asso, 9.83; Mountain Creek ch, Flat River, 20.85; Southern Union, Eastern, 3.52; Cashie ch, West Chowan, 4.60. Total, 129.98. Previously reported, 5,107.97. Total this year, 5,237.95.

Home Missions—Pilot Mtn Asso, $32.25; Beulah Asso, 19.32; Central Asso, 9.55. Total, 61.12. Previously reported, 1,974.33. Total this year, 2,035.45.

Education—Beulah Asso, $19.29; Pilot Mtn Asso, 91.80; Central Asso, 2.60; Bethel ch, Mt Zion, 1.23. Total, 114.92. Previously reported, 1,363.14. Total this year, 1,478.06.

Orphanage—Union Meeting at Hickory, $3.21; Southern Union, Eastern, 10.87. Total, 14.08; Previously reported, 767.88. Total this year, 781.96.

In last RECORDER, Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, $2.50 for Education should be $12.50.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Aug 13, 1892.

That Your Hair
may retain its youthful color, fullness, and beauty,
dress it daily
with
Ayer's Hair Vigor
It cleanses the scalp, cures humors, and stimulates a new growth
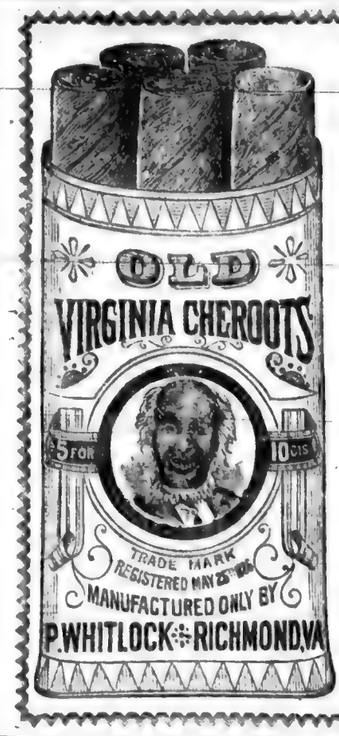
of hair
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.
Lowell, Mass.

Position Wanted.

I desire to secure a position as assistant teacher in some good school. I spent the past two years at Wake Forest College. Can give good references. Address J. R. THOMSON, Keith, N. C.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY
Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjée. OF MUSIC. CARL FAELTEN, Director.
Music, Elocution, Fine Arts, Literature, Languages and Tuning. A safe and inviting Home for lady pupils. Send for Illustrated Calendar.
FRANK W. HALE, Gen'l Manager, Boston, Mass.

58th Annual Session of
WAKE FOREST COLLEGE
Will open Wednesday, Sept. 7, 1892.
Ten independent "schools" in Languages, Sciences, Literature, and Philosophy. Twelve Professors. Chemical and Biological Laboratories. Library of 10,000 volumes. Excellent Literary Societies. Athletic Club, with Director of Physical Culture, and well equipped Gymnasium. 283 students and 36 graduates last session. For catalogues or special information, address Prest. Charles E. Taylor, Wake Forest, N. C.



OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS

will not scent up your clothes like an old pipe. They are fragrant as a rose, pure and sweet.

The great number we make enables us to give you

Five Better Smokes For TEN CENTS than you can get in any other way, unless at five times the cost. 7

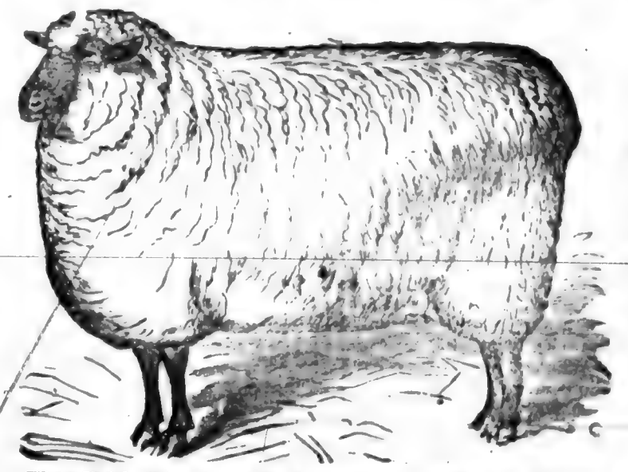
HORNER MILITARY SCHOOL, OXFORD, N. C.

Modern buildings, hot and cold baths, gymnasium, healthful climate, beautiful surroundings, numbers limited. A model home school for boys. Catalogues sent on application.

WOOL! WOOL! WOOL!

If you have wool to be manufactured or to exchange for goods, ship it to the

Chatham Manufacturing Company,
PROPRIETORS OF THE
Elkin Woollen Mills.



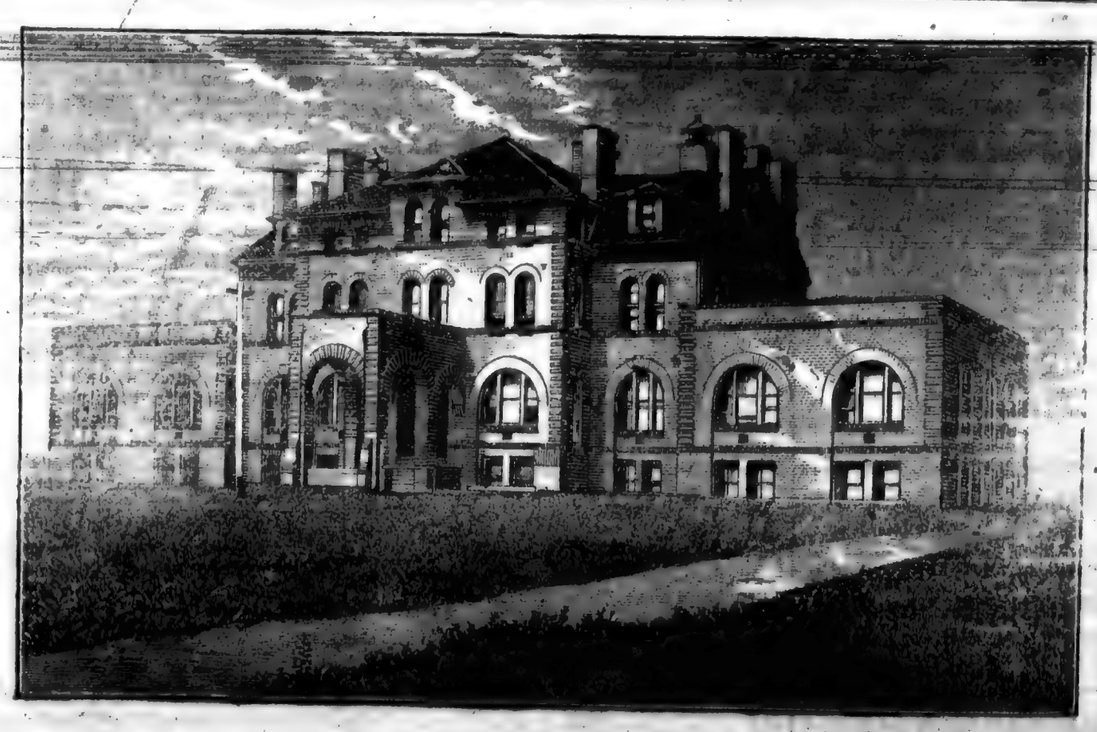
THEY DO THE LARGEST Custom Business IN THE STATE.

THEIR GOODS JUST SIMPLY CAN'T BE EXCELLED.

THEY PAY FREIGHT ON WOOL.

Write for samples, and directions for shipping, to

CHATHAM MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Elkin, N. C.
Freight and Express Office, Elkin, N. C.



The North Carolina College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts will begin its fourth session on September 2d, 1892, with increased equipments and facilities in every department. Its work is steadily improving, and the College offers greater advantages to the young men of the State for less cost than any institution in the South. Total cost for county students $100.00, for pay students $180.00. For catalogues, etc., address,

ALEXANDER Q. HOLLIDAY, President, Raleigh, N. C.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The colored State Firemen's tournament was held here Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Mr. W. F. Stroud of Chatham received the nomination for Congress of the Fourth District Congressional Convention of the People's party held here on Monday last.

Prof. J. R. Chamberlain has resigned as professor of chemistry at the State Agricultural and Mechanical College to become superintendent of the Caraleigh Phosphate Works here.

We failed to mention last week the work of the Democratic Convention of the fourth congressional district which was held here August 3d. B. H. Bunn of Nash was renominated for a third term in Congress. Mr. Ed. S. Abell of Johnston was chosen Elector.

The last grand excursion of the season will leave Raleigh for Richmond on Wednesday the 24th inst., at 7 o'clock a. m., under the management of the Hope for all Lodge No. 2645 of the G. U. O. of O. F. Special cars for white and colored people and plenty of ice water and other conveniencies furnished. Round trip $2.75.

The North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association met in this city last Wednesday. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, H. R. Chears of Plymouth; First Vice-President, N. D. Fetzer of Concord; Second Vice President, J. Hal. Bobbitt of Raleigh; Third Vice-President, W. G. Thomas of Louisburg; Treasurer, A. J. Cooke of Fayetteville; Secretary, F. W. Hancock of Oxford; local Secretary, F. A. Bobbitt of Winston. Executive Committee: P. W. Vaughan, J. L. Pryor, Geo. C. Goodman, W. G. Thomas and F. W. Hancock. Member of the Board of Pharmacy: W. H. Wearn. The next meeting of the Association will be held in Winston in August, 1893.

Mr. J. D. Boushall, who for eight years has been Chief Clerk to the State Auditor, has tendered his resignation to take effect on September 1st. Mr. Boushall will enter the practice of the law in Raleigh, and has accepted an association with Mr. W. H. Pace, and these gentlemen have formed the law firm of Pace & Boushall. Mr. W. S. Stallings, pension clerk in the Auditor's office, has also resigned. Auditor Sanderlin has appointed to succeed Mr. Boushall, Mr. T. P. Jerman Jr., now Executive Clerk to the Governor. Mr. Jerman will be succeeded in the Governor's office by Mr. W. W. Vass Jr. Mr. Vass is a son of Maj. W. W. Vass of this city and a graduate of Wake Forest College at its last commencement.

State News.

The Newbern colored fair was held last week.

The yearly meeting of Friends of North Carolina was held at High Point last week.

"The Sheltering Arms" is the name of a childs hospital recently opened at Wilmington. It will most likely do a good work.

A typewriter factory, in which Hon. W. C. Whitney is a stockholder, is to be built at Bessemer City, N. C.—Mt. Airy News.

Mr. George Hall's saw-mill at Ivanhoe, N. C., together with a quantity of lumber, was destroyed by fire on the 6th inst. Loss about $10,000.

The Normal College building, at Graham, Alamance county, was recently destroyed by fire. The property belonged to Rev. Dr. D. A. Long.

Wm. Shelton, in jail at Marshall, Madison county, for the murder of Grant Tweed, died in his cell on the night of the 13th inst., of heart disease.

Mr. Archie McLean, who lived near Mt. Moriah church in Robeson county, committed suicide recently by cutting his throat with a razor and then shot the top of his head off.

On the 13th inst., about six miles from Morganton, near Mt. Pleasant church, Wash Erwin colored, murdered another negro named Cannon. Officers are in pursuit of Erwin.

Dr. W. T. Cheatham, of Henderson, the retiring President of the North Carolina State Medical Association has been appointed vice-President of the Pan-American Medical Congress for North Carolina.

During a family row near Fayetteville Tuesday night of last week, Hugh Jackson shot and killed Sam McFadyn, his father-in-law. Jackson surrendered himself to the officers and is now in jail. He says the killing was in self-defence.

Part of the Asheville street railway has been torn up by order of the city Board of Alderman. The company had been ordered to pave between the rails, but had not done so. A big suit for damages will be brought by the company it is thought.

General News.

Five suicides occurred in St. Louis, Mo., one day last week within an hour.

Two men outraged a white woman at Louisville, Ky., then murdered her and through her body in the river.

A Judge Hutchinson of Chelsea, Mass., has disappeared. His creditors find that his liabilities amount to $220,000.

Train robbers, armed with dynamite bombs held up a train about fifteen miles from Fresno, Cal., several days ago, and secured $30,000.

At Helmitta, N. J., a manufacturing village, twenty deaths have occurred within a week from a disease which seems to be epidemic. The afflicted have some of the symptoms of cholera. The physicians appear to be puzzled as to the proper way to treat the disease, and the residents of the place are becoming alarmed.

It is announced that the management of the Northern Pacific and Wisconsin Central railways will be shortly consolidated. The latter road will become part of the Northern Pacific.

On Sunday, the 17th inst., there were reported from all the cholera infected districts of Russia 4,261 new cases of the disease. On the same day 2,177 persons died of cholera.

A ferry boat plying between the mainland and Sullivans Island, at Charleston, S. C., was swamped Tuesday, of last week, and the Captain and seven passengers were drowned.

The Knights Templar Conclave was held in Denver, Col., last week. There was an unusually large attendance. Hon. Hugh McCuady of Corunna, Mich., was elected Grand Master.

Governor Buchanan of Tennessee has commuted the sentence of Col. H. Clay King, who was to have been hanged on August 12th for the murder of D. H. Poston, to life imprisonment.

It is stated that strict enforcement of the anti lottery law and consequent exclusion of lottery matter from the mails has reduced the revenues of the New Orleans postoffice $103,000 per annum.

A magnificent grain elevator and mill belonging to Theodore Chase & Co., on Thirty-fourth street and Eleventh avenue, New York City was destroyed by fire on the 12th inst. The loss on stock, building and machinery reached $1,500,000.

Under the act of Congress authorizing the President to invite foreign naval powers to participate in the naval review to be held in New York next April, the State department at Washington, has issued invitations in the name of the President to the naval powers of the world.

The Arabs of Central Africa are in a state of insurrection against the whites. A number of white persons have been killed, and great anxiety is felt for the Protestant and Catholic missions and for expeditions under Captain Jacques and Captain Joubert, which were sent out to suppress the slave trade.

A special to the New Orleans Picayune from San Antonio, Texas, August 11th, says: "Heavy general rains have continued several days over southwestern Texas, covering the drought region, the lower Rio Grande and extending into Northern Mexico, where it has not rained for three years and where much suffering existed. The down-pour is invaluable, breaking the extended drought, and ending much misery."

At Fall River, Mass, about two weeks ago a terrible and mysterious murder occurred. A. J. Borden and wife, two aged people, were butchered in their home, in the very heart of the city during broad daylight. Lizzie B. Borden, daughter of the murdered couple has been arrested and is in jail charged with the terrible crime of homicide. Her trial will be continued August 22d.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

MARRIED.

HANKINS—CHAMBLEE—On Aug. 10th, 1892, at the residence of Mr. William Chamblee, the bride's father, in Wake county, by Rev. W. B. Royall, Mr. J. R. Hankins of Virginia and Miss Minda D. Chamblee of Wake.

DIED.

PRUETT—Willis Glenn, infant son of Rev. L. R. and D. S. Pruett, died at Mount Airy on July 25th, aged seven months.

SMITHWICK—Laura Turner, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Smithwick, of Smithfield, died on July 17th, aged eleven months.

FORD—Died, at the Baptist parsonage, on Sunday morning, Aug. 7th, Harriet Ivey, infant daughter of Rev. Rufus and Mrs. Harriet Ford of Newbern, N. C. "My beloved has gone down into his garden to gather lilies."

J.

NORWOOD—Sister F. A. E. Norwood, the beloved wife of Bro. J. T. C. Norwood of Granville county, N. C., was born Oct. 6th, 1833, and died July 28th, 1892, in the fifty-ninth year of her age. She was a meek and earnest christian, a faithful wife, a devoted mother, a kind, generous neighbor. Shortly before she died she said, "I am still trusting in Jesus; I lean on him alone." No soul that thus trusts can be lost. J. A. S.

McCULLERS—On the 10th inst. from the Baptist church at Clayton, N. C., little Genevieve, infant daughter of D. H. and Lizzie L. McCullers was laid to rest in the family burying ground, the funeral services being conducted by J. N. Boothe of Edgefield, S. C. The messenger came suddenly and after only three days of suffering, the babe was dead. The death occurred on the 8th at Holland, Va., where the parents were visiting relatives. May he who loved little children so tenderly while on earth console the sorrow-stricken hearts of papa and mamma, and teach them that after the bitter comes the sweet.

J. N. BOOTHE.

TODD—Sister Sallie F. Todd departed this life July 24th, 1892, in the sixty-fourth year of her age. She was a member of Holly Grove Baptist church for more than forty years. She was afflicted with consumption for a number of years, but with her long afflictions she never murmured, but patiently waited for the summons to come up higher. Truly a mother in Israel is gone. As she lived, so she died. She leaves three sons and one daughter to mourn the loss of a mother.

She will sleep, but not forever,
There will be a glorious dawn;
They will meet to part no more,
On the resurrection morn.

A. FRIEND.

YARBOROUGH—On Friday, the 5th inst., Sister Rebecca E., wife of Bro. J. J. Yarborough, after a long illness, was called to her home in heaven. Sister Yarborough was nearly seventy years of age; had been married forty-four years, and had been a believer in Christ about fifty years. An affectionate wife, a fond mother, and kind neighbor is gone, leaving a husband, four sons and one daughter to mourn their loss. May the Lord help them to bear their sore bereavement.

J. R. J.

TEAGUE—Evans Teague, son of R. Q. A. and Bettie Teague, died near Farmington, Aug. 9th, 1892. Bro. Teague was nearly eighteen years old. He was converted and joined the church six years ago. He was quiet, humble, steady. He was liked by all. During my four years' pastorate at Farmington, I found him always ready to do his part, yet unassuming. He was a good boy; good, because Jesus lived in him, and he lived by faith in Jesus. Some young men seem to think they must be excused for "sowing their wild oats." Evans didn't sow his. As a church, a Sunday-school, and as a neighborhood, we have laid to rest one of our best.

"Brother, thou art gone to rest,
We will not weep for thee."

PASTOR.

FORT—At Wake Forest, N. C., July 19, 1892, Miss Alice Fort, in her 39th year. She was the daughter of Mr. Junius W. Fort, deceased, and Mrs. Frances C. Fort. She was a graduate of Chowan Baptist Female Institute, and a member of the Forestville Baptist church.

At Wake Forest, N. C., August 1st, 1892, Miss Mollie B. Fort, in her 36th year. She was the sister of Miss Alice Fort, was also graduated from Chowan Baptist Female Intitute, and belonged to the Forestville church. These dear sisters were "lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided." They were both endowed with superior intellects, which had been well trained, and were being usefully employed. Their names have become familiar to many through their connection for several years past with the Wake Forest Academy. Their adorning, however, was "in the incorruptible apparel of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price." Pure in heart, they see God. The Lord comfort the heart-broken mother and the devoted brother!

R.

Tributes of Respect.

Resolutions of Flat Rock church on the death of Alfred Hampton:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Architect of universal nature has seen fit in his wisdom to call from labor to rest our beloved brother Alfred Hampton; therefore be it

Resolved 1. That we gratefully accept with reverence and humility all of God's dealings with us and his own, and in this loss to us as a church, we bow in humble submission to his wisdom. That in the death of our brother we lose a member in whose walk of life the principles of christianity were manifest. That as a clerk of our church for many years he was faithful, a cheerful giver, and a friend to the poor.

Resolved 2. That we extend to his widow and children our sympathy in their loss, and commend them to the God in whom their loved one trusted, as a comforter who can heal all sorrows and give solace when all human aid shall fail.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family; that they be spread upon the records of our church; and that a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, with a request that the Statesville Landmark copy.

M. A. ROYALL,
A. J. MARTIN,
Committee.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion & Debility.

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL
AND
BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 22, 1892. Write for catalogue to
L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON, N. C.

Staunton Military Academy,
STAUNTON, VA.
A Military School for Young Men and Boys.
Handsome Illustrated Catalogue mailed on application.

TEACHERS Register NOW and secure positions in the Colleges, Seminaries and Schools of the South and Southwest. Vacancies are occurring every day. Registration fee $2.00. Send stamp for blanks. AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION, Miss CARTER, Proprietor, Cole Bldg, NASHVILLE, TENN

STUDY LAW AT HOME
TAKE A COURSE IN THE SPRAGUE CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF LAW. (Incorporated.)
Send ten cents (stamps) for particulars to
J. COTNER, Jr., Secy.
DETROIT, MICH.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3508, New York City, N. Y.

CHOWAN
Baptist Female Institute,
MURFREESBORO, N. C.

Parties having young ladies to educate will do well to consider the following facts:—

The Institute offers superior advantages in Literature, Science, Music and Art. Only the best talent is employed to give instruction in the different departments.

The situation is one of remarkable beauty. There are twenty-eight acres of land within the corporation, but so located as to give the school all the privacy of the country, while near enough to the town to secure any advantages it may offer.

The health record is unsurpassed. During the last ten years there have been two cases of pneumonia, one of typhoid fever (brought by the pupil with her) no case of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles. Chills have been strangers, and bilious fever almost unknown. The average of medical bills since the organization of the school has been about twenty five cents per pupil for the scholastic year. The amount paid for medical bills by the entire boarding patronage the past session was ten dollars.

This institution is the unencumbered property of the Baptists, and is the only property owned by them in the State used exclusively for the education of girls.

The dormitories have recently been refurnished, and only two pupils occupy the same room. Parties leaving points east of Charlotte, Danville, Richmond and Washington reach the school the same afternoon via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. As the property is unencumbered, the charges can be made very moderate: Board, literary and music tuition, if paid in advance, are two hundred dollars for scholastic year. The fall session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. For catalogue or additional information, address

JNO. B. BREWER, President.

WANTED.

As a partner in a good and well-established newspaper and job office, a good printer who is a member of the Baptist church. A fine opportunity. No capital required. Address, at once,
PIEDMONT HERALD,
Leaksville, N. C.

A graduate of Peace Institute would like to take charge of a good private school for the coming year. Address Miss B., care BIBLICAL RECORDER, Raleigh, N. C.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 22, 1886. See Patent Stamp in each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON
CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.

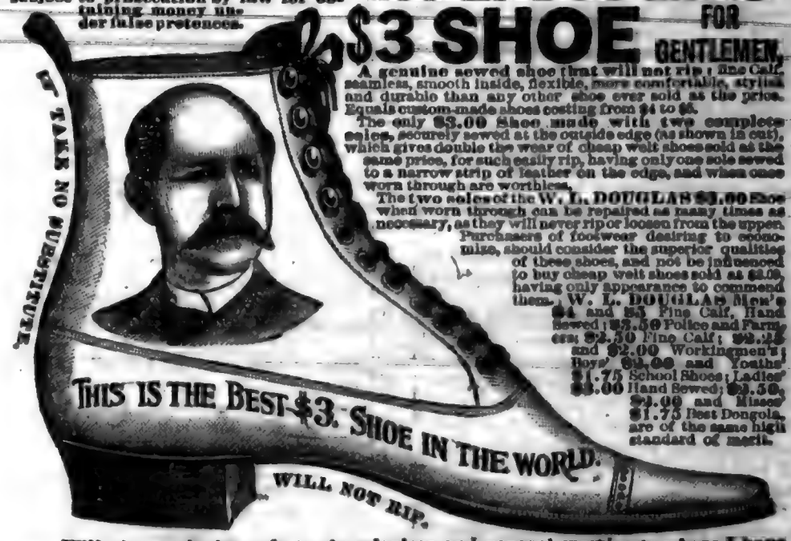
They are the most popular Corsets of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.
BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

Alleghany Institute,
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA

The seventh session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, 1892. It is a thorough training school for boys and young men preparing for college or for business. Excellent courses well taught by experienced teachers. The situation is in the suburbs of the city upon a high ridge, commanding a magnificent view. Ample grounds for exercise. Comfortable rooms. Terms moderate. For further information send for catalogue, and address
WILMER O. WHITESCARVER, Prin.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 101½ Whitehall St.

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.
W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.
A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; the Calf seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom-made shoes costing from $4 to $6.
The only $3.00 Shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.
The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper.
Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold as $3.00, having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS $5.00, $4 and $3.50 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $3.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingmen's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola, are of the same high standard of merit.



Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE,
BOTETOURT SPRINGS, VA.
For Young Ladies. Opens September 14th, 1892. 30th year. 27 Officers and Teachers. Preparatory, Collegiate, Philosophical, and Literary Departments. Conservatory Course in Music. Art and Elocution School. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia on N. & W. R. R. Mineral Springs. Climate unrivalled. Elegant Equipment. Write for illustrated catalogue to CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA
RICHMOND.
The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.
For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEY,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.
"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools. 120 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is, write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or
S. D. JONES, Principal.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE
Faculty of Twenty-one. Liberal, Fine and Practical Arts. Library, Museum, Observatory, Gymnasium, modern equipments. Eclectic, Regular, Full Courses. Modern Languages specialty. Languages, 11 Sciences, Normal, Science of Music taught. PRIVATE MUSIC PUPILS. Two Art Studios. Boarders from Canada, 20 States, Cuba, I. T., and Mexico. Healthful and homelike. Early application necessary. Send for Illustrated Catalogue, History, and Catalogue. Session resumes September 14. CHAS. C. COX, PRES'T. LaGRANGE, GA.

The Home Circle.

Retrospection.

If we sit down at set of sun
And count the things that we have done,
And, counting, find
One self-denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard;
One glance most kind,
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then we may count that day well spent.

But if, through all the livelong day,
We've eased no heart by yea or nay;
If through it all
We've done no thing that we can trace,
That brought the sunshine to a face;
No act, most small,
That helped some soul, and nothing cost,
Then count that day as worse than lost.

A Recipe for a Day.

Take a little dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer,
And a little bit of morning gold
Dissolved in the morning air.

Add to your meal some merriment,
And a thought for kith and kin;
And then as your prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in.

But spice it all with the essence of love,
And a little whiff of play:
Let a wise old Book and a glance above
Complete the well-made day.
—By Amos R. Wells.

Jack's New Year Giant.

The holidays were ended. The little candles on the Christmas tree had burned out. The visit to grandma's was over, and the New Year party broken up. Even the story books had been read through, and now, on this bright, cold second day of January, there was nothing for Jack to do but to collect his scattered books, put them in his school-bag and trot back to school.

"Oh, oh!" sighed Jack; "it feels very dull to go back to school. I wish I was Jack the Giant-killer, and had nothing to do but climb a bean stalk."

But when he glanced slyly at the dining room window, on his way out of the door, there was no sign of a bean-stalk, though he had dropped a whole handful of beans out there on purpose.

"Well, boys, a happy New Year!" said Miss Lucy as the boys chattered noisily into the school-room, and "Happy New Year!" echoed all the fresh young voices.

After a sober little talk about the old year that was gone and the New Year that was coming, Miss Lucy said: "There is one job I've laid out for you this year, boys, and that is to kill a giant."

Jack started. Had Miss Lucy heard him talking to himself a little while ago?

"I won't tell you the giant's name now," said the teacher, "but I will let you know if I see him around."

As I told you, Jack didn't feel a bit like going to school, and he missed his spelling, and got his sums wrong, and blotted his copy book, until Miss Lucy had to give him several ugly marks on his report.

"Ah, Jackie!" she said, "that giant has met you in the way and got the best of you."

"Is it Giant Laziness, Miss Lucy?" asked one of the older boys.

"That's his name, Frank, and here is the sword to kill him with," and Miss Lucy wrote across the blackboard: "Not slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord."—Exchange.

In Love With his Mother.

Of all the love affairs in the world none can surpass the true love of a big boy for his mother. It is pure and noble, honorable in the highest degree to both. I do not mean merely a dutiful affection. I mean a love that makes a boy gallant and courteous to his mother, saying to everybody plainly that he is fairly in love with her. Next to the love of a husband, nothing so crowns a woman's life with honor as this second love, this devotion of a son to her. I never yet knew a boy to turn out badly who began by falling in love with his mother. Any man may fall in love with a fresh-faced girl, and the man who is gallant with the girl may cruelly neglect his worn and weary wife, but the boy who is the lover of his mother in her middle age is a true knight, who will love his wife as much in her sere-leaved autumn as he did in daisied spring time.—The Watchman.

Is This So?

Your business keeps you from your family in the week, and your family keep you from God on Sunday and prayer-meeting nights. Pray tell me where does God come into your life?

You are all right on the tax books, but all wrong on the church books. Do you love Cæsar more than you love God, or do you fear him more?

You are mighty careful of your commercial honor. You pride yourself on it, but if the men who credit you knew how you were behind with God, it would rattle your credit mightily.

If you were to make the same money-talk to your merchant, that you make to the stewards of your church, you would have to do a cash business. Nobody but a fool would credit you.—Silas Pepper, in Tennessee Methodist.

The Little Orphan.

Mrs. Seago, one of the trustees of the New Orleans Orphan Home gives Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial for the relief of all bowel troubles. She never suffers herself to be without it.

God makes rainbows out of those whom we despair of. Have patience, worker.

Women and the World's Fair.

Mrs. Potter Palmer in an exhaustive article on the World's Fair in the July Ladies' Home Journal, states that: This exhibit in the Woman's Building will illustrate the history of women from the time of the cliff-dwellers through the mediæval ages, when, though her mind was not developed, her delicacy of touch was made useful in copying the elaborate manuscripts of the day and in making the rich illustrations that accompanied them in books of poetry; in textile fabrics, wonderful embroideries, drawn work, rare laces and celebrated tapestries, which have been famous in every country and period. The board will endeavor to secure, through its home and foreign committees, the originals, reproductions, or illustrations of various famous objects made by women which have had important influence on the epoch in which they were produced, such, for example, as the celebrated Bayeux tapestry, made by Matilda of Flanders, the best and most complete history of the conquest of England by her husband, William the Conqueror, and which is constantly referred to by every authority treating of the military science, arms, accoutrements, manners and customs of that day. An effort will also be made to procure a reproduction of the famous doors of Strasburg Cathedral, which were the work of Sabina von Steinbach, sister and assistant of the architect. Permission to make the copy has been officially asked by the board from the German Government, and it is intended to use the doors for the main entrance of the Woman's Building. These illustrations will follow in historical cequence down to the present time, when her active brain is educated to cope with the scientific problems of the age, and her trained hand to make the delicate machinery of the watch. Such an exhibit as this has never been made, but so quick are the French people to seize an idea, that since the announcement of the plans of the Lady Managers in Paris, last June, an exhibit illustrating the history of woman's progress has already been arranged for next year in the Palais de l'Industrie, so that, though the board of Lady Managers has the honor of originating this idea, it will not be the first to put it into practical execution. Beside the foregoing extensive exhibit, women will have another opportunity of displaying work of superior excellence in a very advantageous way in the Woman's Building, over which the board of Lady Managers will exercise complete control. In its grand central hall—the Gallery of Honor—will be grouped the most brilliant achievements of women of every country and in every line of work.

Grease Spots in Carpets.

In the weaving of pile fabrics a little oil is occasionally used to facilitate the movement of the wires, and a very careless weaver may in handling the oil can allow a few drops to fall on the fabric. No mark of this may appear at the time, but when the carpet is on the floor the dust which would otherwise be swept off by the broom is attracted and held by the oil, and a spot becomes visible. When the spot is on or near the edge of a breadth there is another explanation. Sometimes the cars in which carpeting is carried South or West have been previously used for the transportation of oil, and the bottoms of these cars are liable to become saturated with the drippings and leakage of oil barrells. Woolen carpeting placed in such cars may absorb the oil, and the fact may not become evident to the dealer until a carpet so damaged has been laid on a floor or shown in his salesroom often enough to catch some dust.

When such spots appear in ingrains one explanation may be that the wool was not properly scoured. But, of course, in most instances where complaints concerning spots are made the cause need not be looked for outside the house in which the carpet is laid. Children or careless servants are responsible for most of these spots, as well as for a great deal of the "sprouting." Fortunately the remedy for the trouble is simple. A mixture consisting of equal portions of chloroform and ether will remove the spots at once.—Carpet Review.

True Courtesy.

True courtesy which has been called "the beauty of the heart," sometimes suggests, even to the uneducated, graceful ways of putting their words that excite wonder and admiration. "Are you not very cold, my poor boy?" said a sympathetic young lady to a shivering shoe-black. "I was till you smiled, miss," was the clever and flattering reply.

In conversation, true courtesy is often forgotten in the general anxiety of people to speak rather than to listen; they may seem to be attractive, but the absent look in the eyes betrays the reverse. Good listeners, especially if youthful, are thought worlds of by garrulous old people. We should not reply to a recital of the troubles of others by a long list of grievances of our own; nor when shown anything in which the owner takes pride, spoil the effort by ungraciously referring to something superior in the same line which one has seen or may possibly possess. A constant endeavor to be easily pleased is essential to politeness, and when annoyances arise, then is the value of tact seen at its best in preventing general discomfort. Especially is this valuable acquisition or attribute useful when we have to find fault—always a difficult thing to do well—when the effect is lost, or worse still, may be really injurious because of the way in which it is done.—Selected.

Be sure and put a box of Ayer's Pills in your satchel before traveling, either by land or sea. You will find them convenient, efficacious, and safe. The best remedy for costiveness, indigestion, and sick headache, and adapted to any climate.

How They Worked It.

A beggar sat on a stool near a curbstone offering lead pencils for sale. Near him stood a ragmuffin, selling newspapers. Both were miserably clad and it was bitterly cold.

A nice looking old man came down the street. The newsboy ran up to him and the old man purchased an afternoon paper. The beggar held out his hat and cried out for alms.

The old man looked at the beggar for a moment and was about to pass on without giving him anything. The miserably clad newsboy looked up at the comfortable old man with surprise in his eyes. Then the boy pushed his hand in his pocket, pulled out five pennies, and dropped three of them into the beggar's cap.

This unselfishness immediately touched the old man's heart. He put his hand into his well-lined pocket and gave the boy and the beggar each a quarter, then passed on with something like a tear in his eye.

The boy and the beggar tried it with success on everybody who passed along the street that afternoon.—Kate Field's Washington.

Elephants.

California, already noted for its big products, proposes to try the experiment of raising elephants. A "farm" for these huge creatures will soon be established by one of her citizens, who is sanguine that elephants can be trained to a great deal of service, among others the novel work of picking oranges. He describes, in glowing terms, how the animal could reach all over the tree with his trunk and deposite the fruit in a basket tied on his back, accomplishing more in one day than a force of ten men. In the East the elephant is already used to a large extent as a beast of burden, and his intelligence is of so high an order that it is not impossible he may be taught to do many things which require skill as well as strength. But we do not share the belief of the projector of the elephant farm that they will ever be driven in the harness like horses. In imagination he hears California cabmen crying out, in the near future, "Keb, sir! Keb! Nice close keb and rapid elephant!" But that mode of transit would prove altogether too slow for Americans, of whom Max O'Rell says "They never travel, they only arrive!"—Exchange.

Who is a Gentleman?

A gentleman is a person not merely acquainted with certain forms and etiquette of life, easy and self-possessed in society, able to speak and to act and move in the world without awkwardness, and free from habits which are vulgar and bad in taste. A gentleman is something beyond this—that which lies at the root of every christian virtue. It is the thoughtful desire of doing in every instance what others should do unto him. He is constantly thinking, not indeed how he may give pleasure to others for the mere sake of pleasing, but how he may avoid hurting their feelings. When he is in society he scrupulously ascertains the position and relation of every one with whom he comes in contact, that he may give to each his due honor, his proper position. He studies how he may avoid touching in conversation on any subject which may needlessly hurt their feelings, how he may abstain from allusions which may call up a disagreeable or offensive association. A gentleman never alludes to, never even appears conscious of any defect, bodily deformity, inferiority of talent, of rank, of reputation in the person in whose society he is placed.

He never assumes any superiority to himself, never ridicules, never sneers, never makes a display of his own power or rank or advantages, such as is implied in habits or tricks or inclinations which may be offensive to others.—Christian Endeavor.

The smallest Pill in the World!

Tutt's Tiny Pills

To purge the bowels does not make them regular; it leaves them in worse condition than before. The liver is the seat of trouble and the remedy must act on it. Tutt's Tiny Liver Pills act directly on that organ, causing a free flow of bile, without which the bowels are always constipated. Price, 25c.

USE TUTT'S HAIR DYE;

a perfect imitation of nature; impossible to detect it. Price, $1 per box. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR

A POLICY

—IN THE—

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

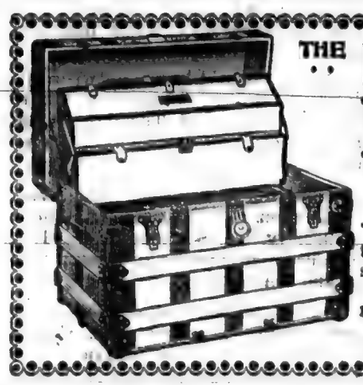
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Secy-Treasurer.
F. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE. - RALEIGH, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

202 South Street, - - - Baltimore, Md.



THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK

THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.

The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.

Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.

If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers.

H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

YOUR SUNDAY-SCHOOL

WILL NEED

NEW BOOKS THIS SEASON.

We can Supply all Your Wants in this Line Promptly and at Publishers Lowest Prices.

OUR NEW SPECIALTIES:

Class Book and Report (five years), - - 25c. \ Teachers' Bibles (Oxford or Bagster), $3 to $10.

NEW SINGING BOOKS:

Master's Praise, cloth bound, by mail, - - - - - - - - - - - - 35c.
Manly's Choice, music edition, by mail, - - - - - - - - - - - - 40c.
Manly's Choice, word edition, by mail, - - - - - - - - - - - - 15c.
Notes of Triumph, round or shape notes, by mail, - - - - - - - - - - - - 35c.
Work and Worship, round or shape notes, by mail, - - - - - - - - - - - - 35c.

ANY SINGING BOOKS, PER DOZEN, BY EXPRESS, $3.60.

SEND YOUR ORDERS TO

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

☞ Complete Catalogue of Sunday-school Supplies free.

The Baptist Supply Store,

RALEIGH, N. C.

All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers' prices. Sunday-school song books—the best and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.

Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under one cover. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch—Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts.; paper, 15 cts.

Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.

HARDWARE,

LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL.

Raleigh, N. C.

BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

Sash, Doors, Blinds.

SUMMER
—AND—
ALL KINDS
—OF—
HARDWARE
FOR EVERY ONE.

Raleigh, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Varnishes.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1892. Number 9.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Sunday-school Instruction in Bible Doctrine.

Two serious mistakes are often made in regard to doctrine, and every parent or other teacher of the young ought to guard against them.

The word "doctrine" is borrowed from the Latin, and simply means teaching. We commonly use it to denote any complete or systematized teaching upon some subject. Thus when we speak of the Bible doctrine of atonement or repentance, we mean the entire body of Bible teaching upon that subject, and this body of teaching is presented in books on theology. From the nature of the case, such a systematic statement of a doctrine has to be made in a somewhat abstract form, collecting all the particular teachings of the Bible upon that subject into general statements. Hence, many people get the idea that Bible doctrine can be taught only by general and abstract statements, which are of necessity ill-suited to the youthful mind, and apt to involve difficulty for all persons not trained to systematic thinking. A good many ministers appear to hold that if they preach on a certain doctrine of the Bible they must necessarily present a comprehensive and systematic view, and this will be hard for most persons to follow with interest. If they would only present a certain portion of a great doctrine, or a single aspect of it, or exhibit the doctrine in relation to some other doctrine or to some duty, the discussion would not be so difficult nor strike the general hearer as so dry. Besides, the essential and fundamental facts involved in any great Bible doctrine usually admit of being stated in a very simple and practical way, and it is extremely important to give these main facts wherever they are naturally suggested by any lesson or discussion, fixing them firmly in the minds of all pupils and hearers, and by no means thinking it necessary on all occasions to state the general doctrine in which the facts are included.

The other mistake lies in supposing that doctrines are necessarily to be regarded as matters of controversy. Multitudes of people, if they hear that a minister preached on a certain occasion a doctrinal sermon, will understand as a matter of course that it was a sermon on some question of doctrinal difference and dispute. This unfortunate mode of speech and conception must have arisen from the fact that many ministers rarely discuss any doctrine of the Bible except those which are matters of dispute in their relations to other denominations, or to other men of their own connection. Now, it would be a very unworthy thing if a minister should, through timidity or a mistaken courtesy or spurious charity, abstain from discussing some doctrine simply because certain persons present or living in the same community believe and teach otherwise. But it is surely a thing to be regretted to have people supposing that a doctrinal sermon is necessarily a sermon about disputed doctrines. Is it not possible to avoid both extremes? And do not all the great doctrines of the Bible call for judicious explanation and enforcement and application?

But how can a Sunday-school teacher, or parent teaching young children, give any interesting and helpful instruction as to a Bible doctrine? The great matter is as above intimated, to seize the essential facts and fundamental conceptions involved in his case, and to teach them again and again, gradually preparing the mind of the child for taking a higher and broader view of these facts and truths in their relation to each other, and as together constituting the general Bible doctrine in regard to the subject involved. Thus: If you begin with talking to children about the extent of the atonement, you cannot interest their minds, but you can constantly repeat as suggested, by a lesson or passage quoted or what not the great and blessed fact that Christ died for us, to save us from our sins, and that if we turn from our sins and trust in him we shall be saved. Then, after awhile, some passage or some inquiry will lead you to raise the question whether Christ died for all men or only for some, and you can quote Scripture to show that he did die for all in such a sense that every one who repents and believes in him will surely be saved. You can say that his death is sufficient to save all, and if any are not saved it will be because they do not take him as their Saviour. It may be five years before you will think it appropriate to introduce the further thought involved in God's eternal election of those who will actually be saved through faith in Christ's atonement. "What then?" some one may say. "Are we to avoid the difficulties involved in the question?" If you do not know how to do this—to present what the youthful mind can seize as practical facts and rest on with practical benefit, without going on to every related difficulty,—you will make a very poor teacher, whether in Sunday-school or day school. You do not think it necessary in teaching geography to discuss in every lesson the question whether our earth was condensed out of nebulæ, or what is the historical relation of man to the lower animals. If children raise questions themselves pertaining to some great Scripture fact or truth, we can sometimes give them a passage of Scripture that will suffice for the present, or in some cases treat them as now prepared to receive an attempted explanation, or can say (as we must often do in other teaching) that they can understand that better when they get older, or can affectionately urge that we must not neglect great practical truths and personal duties because some questions may be asked about them that are hard to answer. Teachers are often perplexed and sometimes disheartened by the many questions asked, which they have difficulty in answering, but on the whole, this is a matter of rejoicing, as showing some mental alertness on the part of the pupils, and some kind of interest in the subjects involved. Doubtless some teachers unwisely encourage such questions, and others unwisely repress them, and here, as everywhere, we must simply try to do our best.

Any Sunday-school teacher or parent teacher might find it well worth while to go through a catechism of Bible doctrine, with pencil in hand, and carefully mark the points in one lesson or another which it would seem desirable to bring out in teaching the children. There would be room for reflection as to how far the said teacher understands this particular subject, and what would be the best mode of explaining it, and especially to think up illustrations from the Bible or from any source that would help the child in regard to this matter. Of course it would be still more profitable to read a small treatise on Bible doctrine, such as Dagg's "Manual of Theology," or Pendleton's "Christian Doctrine," or one of the more elaborate works studied by ministers. But the great mass of teachers are not likely to read such works, and even where they do not use a catechism in teaching they might use it with considerable profit in preparing to teach.

And is it not very desirable, in families and in Sunday-school classes, to use some catechism as a text-book? This can be done in connection with the International Lessons by taking from the catechism a few questions to be studied in addition to the Bible lesson. In fact, the International Series always contemplated such a use of questions from a catechism in addition. Various lesson helps for different denominations add some catechism questions to each Bible lesson. Some schools use in this way a catechism selected by the teachers as a whole, and in many cases a particular teacher chooses a catechism apparently suited to the particular class. Where teachers or parents are thus choosing for themselves, the suggestion may be made that it is not always best to begin with the first lessons of a catechism, because some later lessons may present doctrines in a less abstract form, and likely to interest more readily the minds of children. After thus getting a pleasant taste of the thing, the pupils may be better pleased to go back to the beginning and study it as a whole. And teachers themselves may have a like experience.—John A. Broadus, D. D., in The Teacher.

What Difference Does it Make?

What lover of Jesus does not rejoice in the growing spirit of fraternity among the various denominations? Unseemly wrangling, bitter strife, unholy controversy among the various sects—these, so far as our observation extends, are very rare in our day and time. Christians no longer bring shame upon their Lord and disaster to his cause by hot debates, distinguished mainly for abundance and variety of intemperate speech. In a gratifying degree we have learned to differ in undiminished mutual respect and confidence. The great, underlying basis of Christian unity is, perhaps, more fully recognized than ever before. In this we do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice. It is not the purpose of this article, nor of any that may follow, to disturb the delightful comity which now prevails among the denominations. On the contrary, we hope, so far as our influence extends, to aid in deepening and perpetuating it.

The query which heads this article is quite frequently heard in these "piping times" of inter-denominational peace and brotherhood—"What difference does it make? Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians travel by different routes, but all are bound for the happy land of Canaan. It is a matter of small concern which train you take, if only you reach the right destination." It is a fact, we think, that changes from one denomination to another are much more frequent now than heretofore, and are accomplished with much greater ease. Now, we have no word of reproach for one who changes his denominational relationship because of change in doctrinal views. Such a course adopted honestly and in the fear of God is entirely creditable and honorable. But it is not uncharitable to suspect that many of these changes are born of other and inferior, not to say unworthy, considerations. Convenience, ambition, caprice, disappointed hopes, these and other circumstances too frequently exert a controlling influence.

Regarding these facts as symptomatic of an unhealthy and essentially vicious sentiment, we purpose to make an earnest plea for the revival of a healthy and vigorous denominationalism.

And first of all we wish to emphasize the fact that the present gratifying fraternity among the denominations is not born of the recreancy of any set of christians to their peculiar tenets. If this be its origin, if christian people have, in order to secure a seeming and superficial fraternity, sacrificed their loyalty to Christ and his word, then mutual condolence and common humiliation and shame, rather than congratulations, would be in order. But such brotherhood as exists is only possible upon the basis of mutual confidence and esteem. These will be inevitably and justly destroyed when we show ourselves disloyal to the truth. Not to the abandonment, but to the stout and kindly maintenance and persistent exposition of distinctive doctrines, is the existing inter-denominational comity due. We love each other more generally and more sincerely because we understand each other better. And we are better understood because we have made ourselves understood. Hence as friends of christian unity we make our plea for christian fidelity. For union on any other basis would be dishonoring to Christ and disgraceful to us.

In expressing our hearty respect for the denominational spirit we are anxious not to be misunderstood. We have not the least patience with that superficial view which thoughtlessly insists that these differing denominations are necessary and which further maintains that the fact that they differ is a blessing to the world. On the contrary, we believe the divisions most unfortunate, and that no day will be so bright as that which shall witness concord of doctrine and feeling among all christians everywhere. But any attempt to hasten the coming of that day by proposing the sacrifice of loyalty to Christ will prove unspeakably disastrous to the very end sought. And if christian unity could be conceivably thus secured, it would be bought at a price infinitely dear.

Peace is often only possible as the result of war. We are strongly inclined to think that our present peace is the result of preceding conflict. If Baptists enjoy in large measure the respect and esteem of their Pedobaptist brethren, it is because they have earned it, in a measure compelled it. We do not wish to write one unkind word in these articles, but we feel compelled to say that when our missionaries have gone into communities where the Pedobaptist tide was always at the flood, they have quite generally had to win their way to public favor, not only unaided but too frequently opposed and bitterly opposed by their brethren of other faiths. While the minister was a stranger, and the Baptist band few and feeble, and the place of worship a dark and dingy hall, or perchance a room in some private house, there were frowns and frowns and sometimes sneers. When the new house of worship had been erected and the congregation had grown and the minister had become well-known, and the success of the enterprise was assured, then ensued smiles and fraternity.

Now we make no complaint of this. We are not whining. We do not even claim that the conditions being reversed, the Baptists would have acted differently. We will go further. We are rather inclined to the sturdy doctrine that it is the duty of men and denominations to earn and command respect and confidence before they are vouchsafed to them. Our point is this, that we have won the respect we enjoy, not by surrendering or obscuring our peculiar views, but by contending manfully and loyally for them.

That such contention has not always been marked by the graces and amenities of polite life is freely conceded. Our fathers did not contend for the faith in full evening dress. They were not courtiers, seeking by devious and patronizing ways the favor of those who were stronger than they. They did not

> "Crook the pregnant hinges of the knee
> That thrift might follow fawning."

They were not bland and silken diplomats presenting their cause with indirect speech and sinuous manner. Sturdily and, for our fastidious age, almost too sturdily they advocated, defended and—horribile dictu—sometimes attacked! But that has passed. Now, instead of earnest contention, we have an indolent indifferentism which lazily and complacently congratulates itself that the smoke of battle has cleared away. It is not thought a matter of importance as to how the conflict has been decided. There is a lull in the fighting, and after all "What difference does it make?"

It may be well for us to notice, in passing, the sentiment so often heard, that if we all denominations are bound for the happy land of Canaan, it makes little difference as to which we join.

We venture the suggestion that we have prepared the soil for such seed as this by careless teaching. We have not made our protest clear and strong against the mischievous notion that the chief end of living is to get to heaven when we die. We might learn a nobler view of life and duty from our Presbyterian friends who teach their children in the Shorter Catechism that the chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy him forever. He can be glorified of course only by a life of obedience, and we must glorify him if we hope to enjoy him.

All this is very simple and fundamental, but we respectfully suggest that it is necessary in religion and in the science of government to frequently recur to fundamental principles.

We shall next week notice some of the sources of denominational indifference.—Religious Herald.

Thoughts—No. 6.

BY SCATTERHEAD.

"I raked in thirty of them."—Elder Eager-to-count.

The above words, as you are aware, are not found in our Father's Book, but were uttered by a Baptist minister not over forty miles from me, after he had been holding a big meeting and had managed by powerful hard raking to count thirty additions. I don't know how many of the number the Lord added to the church, but I am seriously of the opinion the preacher did most of the adding and counting, and the Master stood back and let the preacher do all the work. Some men are so very industrious, they want to do their own work and the Lord's work, too. Satan is a very near neighbor and on very friendly terms with such preachers. We as servants of the Lord should remember at all times the words of our blessed Master, "Without me ye can do nothing." "We are workers together with him." The Lord uses his servants in saving souls, &c., and it is his will that they preach the word, and he has promised to take care of the results. He don't want his servants to worry so much about counting. It is very easy and pleasant to work when the Master is aiding in the work, and such work will stand the fire. We should on all occasions hide behind the cross and keep the Lord Jesus in front. All our glory should be in him. Our only aim should be to live for his glory and advance his cause. Lots of preachers are now holding big meetings in order to do some very large counting, as they think they can't be called successful ministers unless they can manage to "rake" in great numbers in the churches. Some ministers are very anxious for a big name abroad. I am rejoiced to hear of good meetings when I have the assurance the Lord has been there and added the saved to the church. I think many of our churches ought to get over as far as subtraction and work under that rule awhile before we get back to addition. It takes a very good revival and much of the Lord's presence to work by the rule of subtraction. One of the Lord's servants, accompanied by the Spirit of the living God, went to a certain church and held a series of meetings, and there were no additions, but the Lord by the guidance of his Spirit enabled the church to withdraw fellowship from several disorderly members. Sometime after the meeting, some one asked the minister if he had a good meeting, and he replied, "Yes, the Lord was with us, and we had a wonderful revival of religion, so much so, we turned out all the dead material, but there were no accessions to the church." Let us all pray for more such preachers, men who are willing to do the Lord's work of whatever nature it may be. Many churches in the land are opening their doors very wide, and the consequence is, it is very hard to tell some of the church members, away from the meeting-house, from the very worst sinners outside the pail of the church.

Our people are getting too loose in discipline. I can hear some Baptist people quoting the Scripture which says something about the tares and wheat growing together till the harvest. The Saviour never intended us to believe the world was the church, but many people are of that opinion, judging from their words and actions.

Some people believe in holding a protracted meeting once a year in order to get sinners converted. Many folks believe in lying in the shade all day till the sun goes down, and then want to do a day's work in an hour. Great good has been done in revival meetings, but the great trouble with most of them is, they don't last long enough. I believe the right sort ought to last 365 days in a year, and this year on the account of so much politics, one day more should be added. Christians need their spiritual strength revived or renewed every day, and if they will walk with their Lord and Master, he will give them the needed strength sufficient for the trials and duties of each day. He does not save people and place them in his vineyard to spend their time doing nothing. He knows if they don't work regularly, they will soon get fat and kick off the harness. These spasmodic people never accomplish much good, but they do cause some of the Lord's steady laborers to idle some of their time watching the powerful work they are doing under a big head of steam. Alas! a big collapse soon follows.

Christians should preach to sinners every day by their godly lives. Sinners will read us every day whether we pray and read our Bible or not. Living Christ every day is the power needed to lead souls to the Lord Jesus. Our Lord should be our daily companion, so as to have the continual guidance of the Holy Spirit, and be prepared every day to faithfully warn sinners whenever a favorable opportunity presents itself. Many churches, preachers and lay-members don't really expect sinners to be saved only in their big protracted meetings, and the natural consequence is they put off their working and their praying, to a great extent, till their appointed time comes around for an ingathering of souls, and they endeavor by the help of all the steam they can muster to do a year's work in a week. No wonder that it takes a whole year for them to rest after living through such a meeting. How flat things do fall after one of these high-pressure meetings! It strikes me it would be a wonderful blessing to the cause if many of our warmed-up members could be called away about the close of one of these good meetings. Sinners seem to have the idea, too, that christians are concerned about their eternal welfare only one time in the year; and Satan tells them they need not seek the Lord till the protracted meeting, as that is the only favorable time. Many sinners die and go to hell before the meeting comes off, and many pass through the meeting unsaved. God comes to the sinner through his word and Spirit, and tells him he is lost, ruined and condemned, and to flee at once from the wrath to come, and to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and be eternally saved. Satan tells the sinner that it is all right for him to get salvation, but that he has plenty of time and just wait till a more "convenient season," and then attend to the matter. May the Spirit of our God forcibly impress sinners as well as christians that now is God's time to save sinners—to-day, not to-morrow, next week, next year. "To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts."

Thousands of souls are drawn into the churches during many of the exciting meetings, who are deceived and will enter hell, and all the time thinking they are on their way to heaven. May we so live that the world will take "knowledge of us that we have been with Jesus." May the Lord revive us every day during our sojourn here, so that we may be prepared to do his work, and soon we will hear his welcome voice, "Well done, good and faithful servant: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Faithfulness in Humble Places.

That is a very tender story concerning faithfulness in humble places which Jean Ingelow has related for us.

It was in one of the Orkney Islands, far beyond the north of Scotland. On the coast of this island there stood out a rock, called the Lonely Rock, very dangerous to navigators.

One night, long ago, there sat in a fisherman's hut ashore a young girl, toiling at her spinning-wheel, looking out upon the dark and driving clouds, and listening anxiously to the wind and sea.

At last the morning came; and one boat, that should have been riding on the waves, was missing. It was her father's boat, and half a mile from the cottage her father's body was found, washed up upon the shore. He had been wrecked against this Lonely Rock.

That was more than fifty years ago. The girl watched her father's body, according to the custom of her people, till it was laid in the grave; then she lay down on the bed and slept. When the night came she arose and set a candle in her casement, as a beacon to the fishermen and a guide. All night long she sat by the candle, trimmed it when it flickered down and spun.

So many hanks of yarn as she had spun before for her daily bread she spun still, and one hank over for her nightly candle. And from that time to the time of the telling of this story (for fifty years through youth, maturity, into old age) she had turned night into day. And in the snow-storms of winter, in the serene calms of summer, through the driving mists, deceptive moonlight, and solemn darkness, that northern harbor has never once been without the light of that small candle. However far the fisherman might be standing out at sea, he had only to bear down straight for that lighted window, and he was sure of a safe entrance into the harbor. And so for all these fifty years that tiny light, flaming thus out of devotion and self-sacrifice, has helped and cheered and saved.

Surely this was finding chance for service in a humble place; surely this was lowliness glorified by faithfulness; surely the smile of the Lord Jesus must have followed along the beams of that poor candle, gleaming from that humble window, as they went wandering forth to bless and guide the fishermen tossing in their little boats upon the sea.—Home and Fireside.

The Bible is not primarily an arsenal of proof texts, nor is it at all a collection of formulæ stated with mathematical precision. It is a book of hints, of suggestions, of inspirations, of clear lights and deep shadows. The revelation is so given that a man who is willing to know the truth, and to follow the hints the Bible gives him, will find himself walking in a path of increasing light. Unsuspected spiritual verifications of the truth he finds in the Word will constantly report themselves in the soul of such a man. It is high time that the barren theme touching the errancy of the Scriptures should give place all along the line to a triumphant vindication of the great Protestant principle of the sufficiency of the Scriptures.—The Watchman.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

LONG AND SHORT PASTORATES.

The question of long or short pastorates is one that has earnest advocates on both sides. There are those who are entirely infatuated with plan of long pastorates; and hence, have little patience with those that prefer short ones. There are others that are strongly attached to the plan of short pastorates, and sincerely question the wisdom of long ones. Either plan may be pushed to an extreme. Speaking in a general way, we decidedly prefer pastorates of reasonable length, and sometimes we think it best that they should be, in the true sense of the word, long pastorates. There are some arguments in their favor which we wish to mention:—

One is, the long pastorate enables the pastor to get a grip on his congregation that the pastor who stays one, two or three years cannot obtain. The minister who year after year visits the homes of his people, who ministers to them in sickness and in health, in prosperity and in adversity, is soon regarded by them not only as a spiritual comforter and guide, but is also looked upon in the light of a father to a family. The children and the young people of the community and of his congregation all know him, and if he has good traits and shows them kindness, they learn to love him. When he preaches special sermons to the unconverted, or has a series of meetings with his church, and invites them to come to Christ, they are more apt to hear his voice than that of a stranger. Here Christ's words will apply with force, "And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him, because they know not the voice of strangers." We would here inject the remark that pastors act wisely when they do most of the inviting during protracted meetings. Justice to the passage just quoted compels us to add that the stranger that Christ speaks of is a man who is a stranger to him and his people also. There is, we admit, a spiritual bond between christians that enables them to know one another, though strangers in the flesh. But still we remember that the unconverted are not united to the minister by this bond, and it is a fact that they will hear the voice and respond more quickly to the invitations of a man with whom they are acquainted. And after all, even christians do not as a rule become so spiritual as not to be more or less influenced by natural ties, and the man who is acquainted in person with a people has advantages that are not be ignored over the stranger.

Another argument in favor of the long pastorate is that it takes a minister some years to find out the good and weak qualities of his people, their virtues, their foibles, and their besetting sins. This is true of all his congregation, whether in or out of the church. After he has learned these things he is much better prepared to know what kind of spiritual food they need than while he is a stranger to them. A physician must know the exact nature of the disease with which his patient is suffering before he is prepared to doctor him intelligently. The preacher, while giving due time and labor to the bodies of his people, is specially a doctor of souls. How can he doctor them properly, then, until he knows their spiritual condition? When a minister thus knows a people, we repeat, he has an advantage that a stranger can never possess, and it is one that should be pressed for what it is worth, and that is a great deal.

Another argument in favor of long pastorates is that if the Lord calls a man to a field, (and that is our theory), he usually has a work for him to do which requires time and labor. The ancient prophets were fair prototypes of modern preachers; and it is a fact that while the active duties of their office often compelled them to travel, and at times persecution drove them from their homes, yet, as a rule, they seem to have had settled places of abode. It will not do to plead Paul's example, for he was a missionary. Other preachers of apostolic times were evangelists, and it was expected of them that they would abide at no particular place long at the time. The divine idea or plan, as to the pastoral relation, seems to carry with it the idea of permanency. For instance, suppose a pastor is successful on a given field, and a number of younger members especially of his congregation profess under his preaching and join the church. They are thus naturally attached to him and he to them. Who is so well qualified to train them for usefulness as church members as the man under whom they professed and who baptized them into the fellowship of the church? To whom will they respond so cheerfully in every good word and work?

And we may mention under this head that christians need to be impressed with the importance of the pastoral relation. A pastor should not be called until the church seeks earnestly the Divine guidance. When the God-given pastor comes, he comes by God's direction. He is his messenger; the undershepherd of Christ. He is Christ's embassador, and speaks in his name, and has come to do his work; and hence, the pastoral relation is one which is not to be lightly formed or lightly broken. There are churches, and pastors too, that have such a poor conception of this relation that they form or break it as a mere matter of convenience.

One more argument we would mention in favor of long pastorates is, that not only the minister's personal acquaintance and contact with his people, but also that of his family, enables him to accomplish a work that he could not do at times without their aid. The tender ministrations of the pastor's pious and consecrated wife, or daughters, especially in the homes of the poor and afflicted; the social ties they form with other members of the congregation will tell, and sometimes tell mightily in the sum total of his work, and often have much to do, so far as human agency goes, with the secret of his success. There are churches that seem to think that it is a misfortune for a minister to have a family, and especially a large one, forgetting that the christian qualities of his wife, and the social and intellectual gifts of his children, are often so many ties that bind him to his people and enable him to get a hold on the community that he could not get without them.

The arguments used in favor of long pastorates naturally suggest some against short ones. Of course, while we prefer reasonable permanency in the pastoral relation, we would say that there may be times when the pastorate should be short. Christ has men to do special work, and it is at times the case that the work at a given point can be done in a few years, or in less time. Notwithstanding churches and pastors are often exhorted by the experienced not to enter hastily or lightly into the pastoral relation, yet it is a well known fact that a good many do so. One result of this is that it often happens that after a pastor has taken charge of a given work, that he reaches the conclusion, after a year or so of labor, that he is not adapted to it or the people to him. In this case he does right to arrange for another field. And again, it may happen that a church may find, after they have called a man, and he has served them long enough for them to judge of his gifts, that they have made a mistake, and that he is not really the man they need. In this case a courteous hint can be made in a very quiet way, through one of the deacons, that the church desires a change. This ought to be a last resort however, and ought never to be used if it is at all probable that the pastor will not relieve the situation by tendering his resignation.

It may not be amiss here to add that one reason why short pastorates prevail to the extent that they do among our own people can be found in the influence of other denominations upon them. The church polity of some denominations demands frequent changes in the pastorate. The frequent coming of new men sent by other denominations to a community naturally begets the desire on the part of quite a number of our people to have a "new man" for themselves, and hence the restlessness that demands a change of pastors. It is a significant fact, however, that some of the most distinguished men of those denominations that advocate frequent changes in pastors, are clamoring for the abrogation of the church statutes that fix the limit of pastoral service at any given place. This they do because they are convinced of the advantages of the system of long pastorates.

DEATH OF MRS. C. M. TOLSON.

The news comes to us from Gadsden, Ala., of the death of this excellent christian lady, which occurred in Gadsden on the morning of Aug. 16th, 1892. She was a daughter of Rev. Thomas Meredith, the founder of this paper. She was a loved and favored child of her father, and aided him much in his office and editorial work. Possessing a mind similar to that of the great editor, she wielded a ready pen, and with ease and grace was at home in the execution of literary labors. Beautiful in person, gentle in spirit, cultured in intellect, and charming in manner, she at once impressed the beholder that she was a very superior woman. Not long after the death of Bro. Meredith in 1850, she married and removed with her husband to the State of Mississippi to reside. After the war the family made Gadsden, Ala., their home, where they at present reside.

In the death of Sister Tolson, five children mourn the loss of one of the best of mothers. One of these is Rev. George M. Tolson, formerly pastor of the Brooklyn church, Wilmington, N. C., but now pastor of the Baptist church in Columbia, S. C. The remaining four—two sons and two daughters—are well known in business and social circles. To all these, together with the sister, Mrs. B. M. Zimmerman, of Birmingham, Ala., we extend our sympathy in this their sad hour of bereavement.

We copy the following from a paper published in Gadsden, which shows the esteem held for our deceased sister there:

"Died, in our city, on the morning of the 16th inst., Mrs. Claude Tolson. How much of sorrow these words express, is known only to the bereaved family and our citizens generally. A resident of Gadsden for some twenty years, she had by her quiet demeanor and lady like deportment, won a large place in the esteem and affection of our entire people. As a mother, kind and true, her memory is to-day enshrined in the hearts of her children. Gentle and cultured, and a 'keeper at home,' her place will be hard to fill in this community. Having reared all her children to mature womanhood and manhood, and having attained to three score and four years, she often of late expressed a willingness to depart this life and enter upon the eternal state. A member of the Baptist church from her girlhood, her christian character was without blemish. So we may rejoice even amidst our tears, knowing that our loss is her gain. In the faith she cherished we have committed her mortal remains to the silent house of the dead, knowing that 'them that sleep with Jesus will God bring with him.' R."

We regret very much to hear of the sudden death of Mr. J. A. Bostwick of New York. He was injured in trying to save his horses from a burning stable and died fifteen minutes afterwards. Mr. Bostwick was sixty-one years of age and was born in Delaware county, N. Y. He was a member of the Baptist church and was well known for his liberality. Some years ago he gave Wake Forest College $50,000, and lately made the offer of one dollar for every two that the North Carolina Baptists raised for the College; by this arrangement the endowment of the College was increased $40,000. In his death Wake Forest College loses one of its best friends. We clip the following editorial from the New York Herald:

"The tragic death of Jabez A. Bostwick, the Standard Oil Trust magnate, was accompanied with circumstances that were peculiarly sad. After a life of intense business activity he had practically retired to the enjoyment of well earned rest. He had amassed a fortune that was very considerable, and in his remaining years had intended to divert much of it in the channels of charity. He had already given largely in that direction, and many thousands of his fortune had been donated to church enterprises. He was still a comparatively young man and there was no reason to anticipate his death for many years to come. The element of doubt that attaches to the cause of his death is another sad circumstance attending it. Probably nothing will definitely determine that question but a post mortem examination."

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

THE FLAT RIVER ASSOCIATION

met with the church at Island Creek, in Vance county. The very dry weather, which is burning up the tobacco, kept many away who are accustomed to attend the meeting of this Association.

The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Lamberth from 1 Tim. 3: 15.

There were a good number of brethren present from other Associations—brethren VanDeventer and Hufham from the Tar River, Dr. Taylor of Wake Forest, and Bro. Gwaltney, who represented the Board of Education.

The report on periodicals was read by Rev. J. A. Stradley who, together with several other brethren, made strong speeches for the RECORDER. The RECORDER has no stronger or loyal supporters than the ministers and brethren in the Flat River Association.

Brethren Durham, VanDeventer and McManaway spoke on the Centennial of Missions.

Dr. Taylor made a speech on general education which ought to be printed and read by every person in the State. The speech, while brief, contained some most valuable and practical suggestions as to the value and necessity of an education in order to help to secure the relief from the financial and other troubles which are being so sorely felt by our people.

Bro. Gwaltney, under this subject, made a very earnest plea for the cause of ministerial education especially.

A special report was read commending Oxford Female Seminary and Bro. J. A. Beam's school at Bethel. The report was ably discussed by brethren Jenkens, Hardaway, Lamberth and Beam.

There seems to be a new awakening of interest all over the Association upon the subject of education, and especially is this true in regard to these schools in the bounds of the Association.

The Orphanage was represented by Bro. J. A. Stradley.

I have never seen money so scarce as it seemed to be among the brethren. There was, however, no scarcity when it come to providing for the accommodation of those who attended the Association. There was a most bountiful supply on the ground for everybody. The only question which seemed to perplex the visitors was whose table they should stop at. We are grateful to several brethren who helped us in our work, and shall remember with great pleasure brethren Jesse Kelly and Henry Shanks, whose homes we enjoyed while at the Association.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Rev. Geo. A. Sowell will enter Crozer Theological Seminary this fall.

....Rev. S. C. Tapp filled Bro. Richardson's pulpit at Burlington on last Sunday.

....Rev. A. T. Howell has resigned his churches at Southport to take effect Oct. 1st.

....Rev. Thomas Dixon, Sr., is in the midst of a promising revival at New Prospect church.

....Rev. C. S. Farriss of the Florida Baptist Witness is studying at the University of Virginia.

....The resignation of Dr. McManaway has been accepted by the Tryon street church, Charlotte.

....We were glad to see Bro. Blanchrrd of Durham in our office Monday on his way to assist in a revival at Princeton.

....Rev. G. A. Kennard has been called to the church at Portsmouth, Va., of which Rev. Geo. E. Truett was pastor.

....Rev. Geo. M. Duke has been called to the pastorate of the church in Rocky Mount, N. C., and will take charge Nov. 1st.

....Revs. W. S. Ballard and R. T. Vann held a meeting at Hobgood week before last which was very largely attended.

....Received from Pilot Mountain Association $13.52, as ministerial aid by the kindness of Mr. L. Marshal.—John H. Caudle.

....A successful meeting was held by Revs. J. T. Edmondson and C. J. Nelson last week in Greene county, resulting in seven conversions.

....We are glad to hear the good news that Rev J. M. Hollerman of Benson church has baptized nineteen converts as a result of a recent meeting.

....Rev. J. A. Howard, pastor at Reidsville, has gone to Carrollton, Ga., to be absent four weeks. During his absence Rev. Frank Royall will fill his pulpit.

....We had a pleasant visit from Dr. W. H. Edwards of Wake Forest, who stopped over to see us on his way to hold a protracted meeting at Mt. Gilead last week.

....Rev. W. T. Jolley, recently called from Ashland, Ky., to the Randolph Street church of Richmond, has just sustained a sad loss in the death of a younger brother.

....Rev. T. Bright has resigned the pastorate of High Shoal, Henrietta, King's Mountain and Patterson's Grove churches, with the intention of attending the Louisville Seminary this fall.

....We are glad that Dr. J. N. Stallings, president of High Point Female College, has made satisfactory arrangements to continue that institution. See the advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

....Rev. D. D. MacLaurin, of the Church of the Epiphany, New York, has been unanimously called to succeed Dr. C. R. Henderson as pastor of the Woodward Avenue church, Detroit.—Inquirer.

....Rev. J. M. Bridges closed a good revival some weeks ago at Pisgah church, South Carolina, resulting in twenty-one conversions. Bro. Bridges was ably assisted by Rev. Chas. H. Durham of Shelby.

....Rev. Jno. H. Couch has just begun work on his new field in the Appomattox Association, Virginia. His postoffice address is Pamplin City, Va. Brother Couch writes that he will not return to the Seminary next session.

....On Sunday last, Dr. T. E. Skinner occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church of Raleigh, morning and night, and the Tabernacle church had for their preachers, Rev. A. D. Hunter in the morning, and Rev. C. W. Cooper at night.

....The new Baptist church at Eureka is nearing completion and its pulpit will be occupied for the first time next Sunday by Rev. C. J. Nelson, of this city, to whose untiring efforts the building of the edifice is due.—Goldsboro Headlight of 18.

....Mr. W. B. Daniel, an A. M. graduate of Wake Forest at its recent commencement, takes charge of the Louisburg Male Academy for the coming year. Brother Daniel is a scholar of pronounced ability, and will make a success of his school.

....As chairman of the committee on hospitality, I say to all delegates and visitors who wish to attend the Association, that they will be met at Rock Cut and Troutman. W. train, 1 p. m., E. 2 p. m., due at Rock Cut, and Troutman 12 m.—John Setzer.

....During the past two weeks Rev. M. A. Stephans, the pastor of Raft Swamp Baptist church, assisted by Revs. R. A. Hedgpeth, Joseph Fisher and V. I. Masters, has been engaged in a glorious revival. Twenty-seven members were added to the church by baptism and twelve by restoration as a result.

....Rev. D. W. Herring, who has been sick the past week at the residence of Mr. Alfred Alderman, is still confined to his bed. His physician says he has a mild case of typhoid fever, with no bad symptoms, and is getting along as well as could be expected.—Wilmington Messenger, 17.

....I assisted Rev. M. A. Stephens in three meetings, viz: Long Branch, Mount Elam and Raft Swamp. The results of the meetings were good. Sixty-five professed conversion and united with the churches. I am now principal of the Raft Swamp High School, Rowe, N. C.—R. A. Hedgpeth.

....Rev. Mr. White, pastor of the Baptist church, after preaching a most excellent sermon on the text "What think ye of Jesus," on Sunday night, opened the doors of the church and two persons were received, and by him were baptized—the first service of the sort he had ever done, and he did it beautifully and impressively.—Mirror.

....We are informed that Rev. C. A. Woodson, who for the last three years has been located at Durham, is thinking of resigning soon the churches he is now serving. We should be glad to have Bro. Woodson remain at his present field, but if he is fixed in his plan of going elsewhere, we can heartily commend him to any church in need of a pastor. Bro. Woodson is thinking of entering the work of an evangelist.

....The Clay Street Baptist church has not as yet called any one to the vacant pastorate. The general committee met Sunday for that purpose. They are in favor of calling Rev. Alfred Bagby, of Suffolk, Va. There will be a meeting of the entire congregation next Sunday, when it is likely that a committee will be selected to extend officially the call of the church to Rev. Mr. Bagby.—Richmond Dispatch, Aug. 18.

....The Citadel Square Baptist church has called Rev. D. M. Ramsey, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., to be the successor of Dr. R. C. Dargan, who will soon leave for Louisville, Ky. Bro. Ramsey is a native of Lenoir county, this State, and is well known by a number of our people. He was educated at Richmond College and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and is a scholarly and eloquent preacher.—Baptist Courier.

....We hear that Rev. C. W. Matthews is intending to attend the Seminary this fall, and is now endeavoring to raise money to support himself and family while there. Bro. Matthews has ordered a box of Dr. Wharton's widely read book, "Pulpit, Pew and Platform," and Moody's sermons, and will offer them to the people in the West Chowan Association. He hopes in this manner to raise a good amount of money, but as he has only six weeks before he will leave for Louisville he cannot raise enough to support himself and family a year, and will gladly receive contributions. We heartily commend Bro. Matthews and his books to the good people of the West Chowan.

....We learn that President Brewer of the Chowan Female Institute has secured the services of the following new teachers for the coming session: Miss Ida Hadley of Pulaski, N. Y., a graduate of Cornell University, will teach Natural Science and Modern Languages; Mrs. E. Harrison of Nashville, Tenn., who has had five years special training for her work in New York and Philadelphia, and has taught several years in leading institutions of the South, will have charge of Elocution, Literature, English and Physical Culture. She taught in Shorter College, Rome, Ga., last session. We are glad to hear that the prospects for the fall session are good.

....Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., has been lecturing at the Michigan Chautauqua, Bay City, where a correspondent of the Christian Herald says the Baptist had a three-days' innings. He makes this statement concerning Mr. Dixon: "His long, lean, lank form, tightly clad in clerical black; his rugged, mobile, Abraham Lincoln-like face; his vehement gesticulation, which opened a white gap at his left armpit before he closed here; his rapid and often stormy oratory, and the varied, always interesting, and at times intensely exciting content of his picturesque speech, have been greeted with tempestuous applause whenever he has taken or left the platform of this assembly."

....Christian England laughed when Sydney Smith sneered at William Carey as a "consecrated cobbler," going out on a fool's errand to convert the heathen. Carey died aged seventy-three years. He was visited on his death-bed by the Bishop of India, the head of the church of England in that land, who bowed his head and invoked the blessing of the dying missionary. The British authorities had denied to Carey a landing place on his first arrival in Bengal; but when he died, the government drapped all its flags to half mast, in honor of the man who had done more for India than any of their Generals. The Universities of England, Germany and America paid tribute to his learning, and to-day Protestant christianity honors him as one of its noblest pioneers.—Presbyterian.

Gracious Season at Boiling Springs.

Dear Recorder:—We have had a gracious revival of religion in our church. Our pastor, Rev. G. P. Hamrick, has just ended an eight days' meeting. During that time some earnest work was done both by pastor and members.

The church is greatly revived, and many of the unsaved were brought to Christ. Fourteen have already been baptized, and eight others are to be baptized on the fourth Sunday.

Our church is in a flourishing condition. We have a very flourishing Sunday-school, and have our own pastor who preaches for us each Sabbath. With best wishes for you and your valuable paper, I remain

A READER OF THE RECORDER.

Boiling Springs, Aug. 18, 1892.

Why Baptist Boys Should go to Wake Forest.

The next session of Wake Forest will open in a few weeks and I want to mention two or three reasons why the Baptist boys of our State should attend it.

Scholarship and character form the substance of all true education, or—rather, there can be no true education without them.

Wake Forest offers scholarship. The different courses of study offered furnish the widest range for the gratification of individual tastes and aptitudes. At the same time care is taken that no change shall be made and no substitution allowed at the expense of broad, thorough scholarship. Wake Forest points with pride to its sons scattered all over North Carolina and other States. The work they are doing shows the breadth and character of the scholarship imparted by the College. Institutions as well as men should be judged not by promise but performance. By this standard Wake Forest is willing to be judged.

Wake Forest offers character. Its courses, methods, discipline, all seek to develop in the student feelings of honor and manliness and habits of self-control. If the student has the elements of manhood in him a course at Wake Forest will make him a man.

Wake Forest belongs to the Baptists. Founded by the wisdom of our fathers, hallowed by their prayers, supported by their sacrifices and devotion Wake Forest has ever been the property of North Carolina Baptists. In a broad, liberal spirit it seeks to magnify Baptist views and to instil in its students a warm love for the religion of their fathers. The writer once heard a man who was holding on to a lamp-post for support, warmly criticizing denominational colleges for their lack of breadth. Such breadth as that man possessed Wake Forest does not offer. But it offers the breadth that comes from thorough scholarship based on christian character.

These are my reasons. Baptist boys should go to Wake Forest because it gives them the best scholarship; because it helps them in building character; because it is a Baptist College and seeks to strengthen and perpetuate Baptist principles; because the times demand trained minds and hearts and Baptist boys must be ready to do their part in the world's conflicts. We want two hundred and fifty students next session. Let every Baptist young man in the State, who is ready for our classes, come.

J. B. CARLYLE.

Evidently a Mistake.

Dear Recorder:—Your reply to Jno. Cain in this week's paper, concerning the forty years wandering of Israel, is evidently a mistake Deut. 2: 14, says their journeyings after they left Kadesh-Barnea was thirty-eight years, and God at the time of the spies' return told them that their children should wander forty years, and they themselves should all die in the wilderness, Num. 13: 31-34.

Briefly, the story of the migration seems to be about as follows: After crossing the Red Sea, the nation journeys directly, though by easy stages, to Mount Sinai (a few weeks' journey) where the ten commandments are given, the tabernacle and furniture manufactured and set up and laws made for the government of the nation. The journey is then taken directly to the promised land, which was reached, at Kadesh-Barnea, in about sixteen months after the first Passover. Here a halt is made, the people are numbered (so as to be ready for dividing the land among them) and spies are sent to find out the best way of attack, &c. Their report so dismays the people that they choose a new captain to lead them back to Egypt. Neh. 9: 17) For this cowardice God sends them back into the wilderness where they "wander" until all who were over twenty years old at the time of the revolt, are dead. Of these thirty-eight years we know almost nothing, Num. 15 to 32 contains almost the whole. The nation then, chastened and purified, returns to the promised land but by another route. Again a halt is made on the very border, the laws are repeated by Moses, the census is again taken, and, Moses dying, Joshua leads the nation through the Jordan. Four days before the fortieth anniversary of the Passover, Joshua, however, also sent over spies but only two who went secretly and to Jericho and were saved by Rahab.

There is a solemn lesson for the church and for all christians in this story of Kadesh. When the Lord places great opportunities before us, we must instantly go forward, or the blessing may be lost. The present time is sometimes referred to as "the Kadesh-Barnea of Missions," God grant the church may not now as it did them, fail for want of courage. Yours truely,

THOS. C. DIGGS.

Meeting at Lisbon.

Dear Recorder:—We have just closed a glorious meeting of seven days with the church at Lisbon, Sampson county. I was assisted five days by that noble, consecrated son of the mountains, S. D. Swaim, who will long be remembered at Lisbon, especially by those tender boys and girls who gave him their hands and said: "We are going to follow Christ." The pastor, too, will long remember his faithful, persuasive sermons that drew him nearer to the Lord each day of the service; and then when Sunday morning came, the writer took twenty-three happy converts down into the beautiful Kahara and baptized them on a profession of their faith.

I am glad to say that the church at Lisbon is alive to every good word and work. A pastor never finds it hard to preach when a congregation is praying and working like the one at Lisbon.

M. C. WALTON.

Wilmington, Aug. 16, 1892.

Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., has purchased a site at Nag's Head, and will build a cottage and make that his summer home hereafter.

Why not to College?

In a recent issue of the RECORDER appeared an article—"If to College, Where?" As I read it I thought that there might be many who were trying to decide whether or not it would be better for them to go to college at all. To such I would present the question, Why not to college?

It sometimes happens that a young man's father is able to help him, but will not do so because he desires to leave his children a sum of money as a legacy. If, however, it becomes a question as to whether he shall leave them money or education, it requires little time to decide which would be better. Under these circumstances a young man would make more in a short time with an education than his father could lay up for him in a life time. A graduate of a college rarely gets less than $500 a year for his services; a large number get $700 or $1,000, some make more. Now make a simple calculation on the basis of the smallest amount mentioned. If a man's salary is $500 a year his income is the same as if he had $6,250 invested at eight per cent. Or if his salary be $1,000, his income is the same as if he had $12,500 invested at eight per cent. He has expended on his education, say, $1,000. Is there any investment that will make so large a return as this?

Take another case. A young man's father is not able to send him to college, but has credit and is willing to standh is security. Under these circumstances one can borrow money sufficient for his expenses at college. He will be able to return it in a few years after graduation and will enjoy the advantages of an education all his life.

Many young men have no resources but their own. How are these to obtain an education? If they have shown themselves worthy, some one may usually be found who will lend money, secured by a life insurance policy. I have known persons to do this—borrow money, give notes, and take life insurance in favor of creditors. Many young men will find very little trouble in securing an education in this way.

Wake Forest College is doing a great deal for indigent young men in this and adjoining States. While it has no connection with the boarding houses and therefore can do nothing for students in this direction, it can and does make the payment of tuition as easy as possible. When necessary, notes are taken for tuition, bearing interest, payable at some date subsequent to graduation.

It will be observed that I have considered the money aspect only of this question. It deserves to be discussed from other points of view, but I shall not do so now.

I have written this much in the hope that some young man, who is not decided what to do, may decide at once to begin the work of obtaining an education

CHAS. E. BREWER.

Wake Forest, Aug. 17, 1892.

From Chincoteague Island, Va.

Dear Recorder:—We have here on this Island two Baptist churches. One (Beulah) is without a pastor. As Mrs. Pruitt and I are spending summer here, I am supplying said church.

But I will leave here early in September, and the church must have a pastor at once. The church has thirty nine members, and the prospects for growth are very bright. Under wise leadership, it will number over one hundred in two years. The salary is five hundred dollars and a parsonage. Board is very cheap. The climate is delightful, and the people are healthy and vigorous. People are summering here from many parts. The population of the Island is about 4,000. It is situated from mainland seven miles. A pastor here has plenty of time for study and recreation. Gunning and fishing are fine. The people, as a general thing, are not educated. They want a plain, practical preacher—a kind of noisy brother. While they enjoy noise, they want thought, too. They shake hands, shout, talk, and like for the preacher to shout a little occasionally. A man could support a large family here on five hundred dollars.

Now what brother will suit this field? Will be glad to correspond with any one you may suggest. The church will call the man I recommend. It is a good field. The house of worship is new—cost about $3,500.

I have accepted a call to Wisconsin, and go there early in September. The church of which I am to take charge is a fine church, and offers a good salary. I will write you occasionally from that far-away State.

Yours, &c., J. B. PRUITT.

Chincoteague Island, Va., Aug. 15, '92.

Enon Church in Onslow County.

Dear Recorder:—The Lord has graciously blessed one of my churches, Enon in Onslow county. The meeting commenced on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in July, and from the start the Holy Spirit was with us. The people seemed to be moved.

On the Tuesday after, our dear Brother Swaim came to our assistance and did the preaching with demonstration of the Spirit and with power. The word was sent to the heart, and sinners cried, "What shall I do to be saved?" Bro. Swaim is an eminent preacher, and long will he live in the hearts of our people.

On Sunday, the writer buried in baptism twelve happy souls. Four joined who were not ready for baptism, and two were restored—in all, eighteen accessions to the church.

To God we give the glory for the work which he has done. BENJ. WARD.

Ward's Mills, Onslow co., Aug. 10, '92.

See advertisement of the Raleigh Male Academy in this issue. This school has long enjoyed the reputation of being the best preparatory academy in the State. This year Mr. C. L. Haywood, a Wake Forest graduate, has been employed as assistant.

Please Read and Act.

Let me call the attention of my brethren and sisters all over the State to the following brief note, received a few days since, from one of our aged beneficiaries. For obvious reasons I leave out his name and office.

———Aug. 11th, 1892.

My Dear Bro. Woodson:—I will drop you a few lines to inform you that I have been waiting to hear from you for some time; but I have not heard anything, and I suppose the cause is the churches have been so slow to respond to the relief of the poor old preachers, therefore it is impossible for you to send them anything. I hope the good Lord will incline them to help, as we need help. Your brother in Christ,

This note speaks for itself. Our aged brother is right in supposing that the cause of our delay in sending him help is the slowness of the churches in sending the needed funds. I am glad to see that a larger number of the churches are responding to our appeals; but the amounts sent are as yet far too small to enable us to send, as we desire, monthly remittances to the old preachers and widows we have on our list. Our Board brethren are only your servants, and the servants of your State Convention. We can only pay out the funds you send us. Why should we let these aged men suffer for the necessaries of life? Will not the Sunday schools give us a monthly collection? Will not all the churches in the bounds of the Convention come to our aid? There is not a sweeter or nobler charity than to lighten the cares of an aged minister of Christ. But is our giving to them a charity? Is it not rather a duty?

Fraternally,

C. A. WOODSON, Cor. Sec.

Amende Honorable.

Brother J. D. Hufham stated before the last Baptist State Convention in Goldsboro that the name of Bro. J. McDaniel's paper was the Intelligencer. I arose to correct him, and affirmed that the name of the paper was the Messenger.

Subsequent investigation has satisfied me that Bro. Hufham was right as well as myself, and that I am due him an apology for correcting him.

Brother McDaniel published two papers in Wilmington. The first was called the Wilmington Messenger, and was printed about 1843, and the second was called the Religious and General Intelligencer, and was printed about 1849–'50.

I saw several copies of the Messenger in the home of sister Polly Chasten of Duplin a few years ago. The minutes of the Goshen (now called Eastern) Association for 1843 bear the imprint of the Messenger office.

The minutes of the Union Baptist (now Eastern) Association for 1849 and '50 were printed at the Intelligencer office. The minutes of '49 contain the following:—

"Whereas, we have learned that Bro. James McDaniel designs publishing a religious newspaper in the town of Wilmington to be entitled The Religious and General Intelligencer, therefore Resolved, That we recommend said paper to the patronage and support of this Association."

The Messenger was published about the time of the suspension of the BIBLICAL RECORDER. In the issue of the latter, dated May 11th, 1844, appears a prospectus announcing the discontinuance of the Depository, (a monthly published by Bro. Meredith,) and the resumption of the RECORDER's publication.

I state the above facts in justice to Bro. Hufham and the Convention as well as myself. JNO. T. ALBRITTON.

Mt. Olive, N. C.

From Elizabeth City.

Dear Recorder:—The cause of the Master is moving on gloriously in this section of the Old North State. I attended a protracted meeting week before last at Whiteville Grove in Perquimans county. Brethren Elliott, Burfoot and Spence preached the truth with such force and eloquence, and the Holy Spirit worked with such great power, that we had the pleasure of seeing many souls born into the kingdom of the Lord. Twenty-five souls, the most of them fresh with the dew of dawning manhood and womanhood, followed the blessed Master in baptism. The church was strengthened and revived. Several years ago, when Bro. Josiah Elliott took charge of it, it had been torn by strife and had suffered so much from other bad influences, that its light was almost extinguished; but the spark remained and it was soon fanned into a bright blaze of religious fervor, and to-day Whiteville Grove ranks with the strongest churches of the Association.

Last week I attended another of Bro. Elliott's revivals in this county at Berea. Here it seemed that God was even more lavish with his blessings than formerly. On Saturday evening especially, it seemed that the windows of heaven had been opened, and sinners, with tears of penitence flowing down their cheeks, came flocking to the mercy-seat of God. The gospel call, as sounded by our dear Bro. Burfoot and accompanied by the Holy Spirit, was irresistible. On Sunday morning, about thirty were buried in the Pasquotank in the solemn rite of baptism. Others were restored to the fellowship of the church, who had previously been expelled.

Meeting is in progress at Ramoth Gilead, one of Bro. Harrell's churches in the northern part of this county, this week, and a glorious meeting is anticipated.

Dr. Blackwell of Norfolk preached at the Baptist church at this place on Sunday morning and evening. He presented the gospel in simplicity and purity, and the people were much pleased with the services.

The cause of the Lord is progressing in this fair portion of his kingdom, and the harvest is not yet ended. We feel confident that many more bright sheaves are yet to be garnered into the harvest home before the summer is ended. May God be praised. He is among his people.

Yours fraternally,

CHAS. L. GRAVES.

Elizabeth City, Aug. 15, 1892.

Day of Usefulness.

We see it sometimes stated that a preacher resigns charge of his church because "his work is done," or his "day of usefulness is past." When does a true worker in God's vineyard finish his work? When he is ready to be offered up, when he is ready to receive the crown, when he has finished his course. If one becomes anxious about higher earthly rewards, about bigger church, more latitude for the exercise of his talents, more renown as a preacher he may get his reward. When his preparation for Sunday's ministrations is lastly of Saturday night's study of the great northern dailies and Congressional Record, with a dash of the sensations of the day, to the neglect of the old, old story, and the visitation of the sick and distressed of his congregation, then he will find that his day of usefulness is at an end. When he is engaged in secular employments and his mind engrossed in the success of enterprises not connected with the pastorate of the church, picking flaws in rival schemes, going to Associations for the purpose of pushing those pet objects, then his day of usefulness is past, and he ought to resign his pastorate. But if the pastor is full of the God called mission of proclaiming the gospel of the Son of God, the glad tidings of saved by grace, imbued with the love of Christ and the spirit of the Master, sympathizing with the poor and distressed, the sick and the afflicted, day after day visiting such with words of counsel and comfort, no Sunday will find him unprepared with the bread of life with which to feed the flock, and words of love to awaken the sleeping sinner. His day of usefulness is never past, and his work is not done till called to higher fields and richer rewards, fast by the throne of God. B.

Cartledge's Creek and Saron Churches.

It may not be but right that the readers of the RECORDER read a short account of two very beneficial and delightful meetings in Richmond Association—one at Cartledge's Creek church and the other at Saron.

The Cartledge's Creek meeting, which began on the fourth Sunday in July and continued about one week, resulted into a great revival of the church and over forty bright conversions. A goodly number have joined the church, and many others will follow soon. The baptizing will occur on the fourth Sunday in this month.

Bro. L. Johnson aided me one day, Bro. M. L. Kesler two days, and Bro. Wallace four or five days. They all did noble work. They preached the truth with pathos and power, and thus won the hearts of the people.

The Saron meeting commenced first Sunday inst, and closed Saturday. God sent just such showers of blessings every day that the church needed. At least forty professed faith in Jesus. The conversions are bright and happy and command the confidence of all. Twenty-eight have already come into the church, and twelve or fifteen more will follow. I will baptize them on the first Sunday in September next.

Bro. Wallace was my help at Saron. He is my college-mate. God is blessing our efforts in this great work of soul-saving. To God be all the praise and glory. I rejoice and feel greatly encouraged.

Sincerely, I. S. BOYLES.

From Aulander.

Dear Recorder:—We have just closed a very fine meeting of one week with the church at this place. Four have been received, and perhaps others will follow, and the church was greatly revived and strengthened. Dr. Hufham was with us preaching twice a day during the week. The Doctor was in fine health and preached with unusual power and sweetness.

The Aulander Female Academy is nearing completion. Miss Chetta Darden, a first-class lady of rare culture and wide experience, has been unanimously elected to the principalship, and the school will open Sept. 14th. She is to be assisted by a music and art teacher, to be secured yet.

Our Male Academy will also open about the same time with a thoroughly competent man at its head.

The foundation has been laid for our new hotel, which will be pushed to an early completion.

We have just closed our missionary canvass, and are much gratified with the result.

The Ladies Missionary and Aid Society of Aulander Baptist church will give a Feast and Broom Drill, Thursday night, Sept. 14th, in the interest of the schools—the proceeds to be used in the purchase of desks, &c.

L. M. CURTIS.

Aulander, Aug. 15, 1892.

King's Mountain Association—A Request.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—As chairman of the committee chosen by the Gastonia Baptist church to provide entertainment for the messengers to the King's Mountain Association, which convenes with us on the 23d day of September next, I would beg you to give me the space in your columns to make a request of the church clerks, namely: That they furnish me, as early as two weeks before the Association meets, the names of their delegates, and state whether they will come by rail or private conveyance, which is very important to us.

Fraternally, JOHN C. SQUIER,
Lock Box 325.

Gastonia, Aug. 15, 1892.

Revival at Providence.

Bro. Bailey:—The church at Providence, Person county, which I serve as pastor, held a protracted meeting, commencing on Saturday before the first Sabbath in August and closing the second Sabbath. I was present most of the time, but on account of feebleness from a long case of malaria, could render but little service except to superintend the services.

Brother Tapp of Orange county, a young brother who is just entering the ministry, did most of the preaching. At the close of the meeting I baptized seven. It is estimated that some fifteen or sixteen obtained a hope during the meeting, of whom it is expected that others will soon be baptized. Besides those converted and baptized, it is confidently believed that the meeting will be of great benefit to the church, in strengthening the graces of the Spirit, in unifying the membership and reclaiming wandering sheep. J. J. LANSDELL.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

During the past week, our pastor, Rev. J. J. Lansdell, has held a series of meetings with Providence church of Person county, N. C., assisted by Rev. S. C. Tapp, who is an earnest and consecrated young minister, and, in the writer's opinion, one of the most gifted and talented. As I sat beneath the sound of his voice day after day, I could but believe that we would hear more of him yet, and feel the weight of his influence more and more as time rolls on.

Our pastor being indisposed and feeble, Bro. Tapp occupied the pulpit, preaching two sermons a day, and for eight days he very forcibly, beautifully and tenderly presented the truths of the precious book to the edification of christians, and conviction and conversion of sinners. Many found peace by trusting in Jesus, and our church is in a most healthy condition—an excellent christian spirit prevailing among the members.

Our hearts are glad, and we give all the praise and honor unto him who loved us and gave himself for us. E. A. H.

Aug. 15th, 1892.

Associational Union of the W. M. S.

During the late session of the Central Association at Wake Forest, N. C., the local Woman's Missionary Society invited all the representatives from other Societies to meet in the small chapel on Wednesday morning. The meeting was well attended, there being a large number of ladies present, though very few other societies were represented.

Our Vice-President, Mrs. Lanneau, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Dr. Carter of Raleigh read a chapter from the Bible, and made appropriate remarks.

A feeling and impressive prayer by Mrs. Walters was followed by a talk from Miss Fannie E. Heck of Raleigh, who is known all over the State as an enthusiastic worker for missions.

The principal work of the morning was the organization of the Annual Associational Union of the Women's Miss. Societies. The organization of this Associational meeting was freely discussed, and all present seeing what a help it would be to have annual reports from all these Societies, a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution, which was unanimously adopted.

The following statistical report, read by Mrs. T. H. Briggs of Raleigh, will show the number of Societies already in working order and the amounts contributed; and by another year we hope to report a Woman's Miss. Society in every church in the Central Association. In this Association there are now twenty-three churches and eighteen societies. Of these, six are Sunbeam Miss. Societies. There are, therefore, twelve churches which have Woman's Miss. Societies, and eleven which have not. These societies have given and reported under their own names, the following amounts:

Cypress Chapel, $4.07; Brassfields, 3.00; Flat Rock, 3.00; First church, Raleigh, 374.61; Hopkin's Chapel, 3.27; Mt. Hebron, 1.95; Perry's Chapel, 4.65; Wake Forest, 150.91; Youngsville, 6.50; Rolesville, 14.30; Sunbeams, First church, Raleigh, 9.93; Sunbeams, Wake Forest, 20.52; Sunbeams, Rolesville, 23.38; Mt. Vernon, 5.60. Total, $625.69.

Number of societies reporting, fourteen. Societies failing to report; Sunbeams, Franklinton, New Hope, Wake Cross Roads and Clifton School-house. We do not think these societies have ceased entirely to exist. Wake Cross Roads has been recently organized or reorganized.

Ladies in any of the churches desiring to organize Miss. Societies would do well to communicate with Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

L. L. R., Sec. pro tem.

Souppernong Union Meeting.

This body met with the church on Roanoke Island, on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in July, 1892.

The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. W. V. Savage.

The churches were fairly represented. We had a pleasant and profitable meeting.

The next session will be held with the church at Sound Side, Tyrrell county. Rev. J. F. Tuttle to preach the introductory sermon, Rev. A. W. Burfoot, alternate.

M. MAGETT, Mod. pro tem.

H. A. LITCHFIELD, Sec.

Perhaps you have a great mind; perhaps you have an eloquent tongue; it may be you have a large purse, and can glorify God and bless mankind with that; but perhaps you have nothing in the world but a kind, sweet smile; then let that fall upon some poor life that has no smile in it. Remember that a dew-drop glistening in the sun is just as beautiful as a rain-bow.—Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, D. D.

Talks About Law.—No. 6.

BY JUDGE R. W. WINSTON.

THE STATUTE OF FRAUDS.

"Law is the perfection of reason," says my Lord Coke. This observation applies to the great body of our laws, which is called the common law; it can have little meaning when applied to the statute laws.

The truth of these remarks will perhaps more fully appear when we consider such a subject as the Statute of Frauds.

No amount of reason will lead one to the conclusion that the title to land can not pass except by a written instrument; and yet we know that if A buys B's dwelling verbally for one thousand dollars, pays half cash, and agrees to pay the balance in six months, and has a dozen witnesses to the trade, B can "back out," if he so wishes, and A can not make him comply with the bargain. True, A can get his five hundred dollars back, but he can not force B to give him a deed. The reason for this is simply that the Legislature has so said.

In 1649 Charles the First was executed. Twenty-nine years thereafter, or, as the law books put it in 29th Charles the Second, the famous statute, called the Statute of Frauds, was enacted in England. Much of this statute has since been enacted in North Carolina. And of it the great Lord Nottingham has said, that "every line was worth a subsidy"; on account of which remark, and because it has been the fruitful source of so much litigation, William Smith, a genial English law writer, was minded to say that "every line has cost a subsidy."

Instead of giving the words of our North Carolina statute, which are long, dull and involved to the lay mind, let us illustrate by examples what the law under this head is:

(1) Twelve men witness a verbal sale of a house and lot or farm, and all the money is paid, by way of earnest money, and yet the seller is not bound, unless the contract or some note or memorandum thereof is in writing and signed by the seller or by his agent lawfully authorized.

(2) Every lease of land for more than three years is void unless in writing.

(3) John Smith goes into a store with a friend and says to the merchant, "Let my friend Jones have ten dollars in goods, and if he does not pay you, I will." The merchant lets Jones have the goods. Jones does not pay the bill, and so Smith is sued. Now Smith is a bad man and does not try to pay his debts, but he is a sharp one and employs the best legal talent. When the trial comes off, Smith's lawyer pleads that the contract, not being in writing, is void, as it was a promise to pay the debt, default or miscarriage of another. And such is the law.

(4) If an executor or administrator make a promise, not in writing, to pay the debt of the deceased, no action can be brought on the promise.

(5) No retailer of liquors by the small measure can collect more than ten dollars on open account for the sale of such liquor.

Such, in brief, is the general scope of the famous Statute of Frauds, passed more than two centuries ago, its object being to suppress fraud and perjury.

These principles seem simple and easy of application. But, as our next talk will show, they present, in the hands of our discriminating and progressive courts, and under the varying circumstances of each case, as many phases to the mind as does the variant and revolving kaleidoscope to the human eye.

The Work in Robeson Association.

Dear Recorder:—A young South Carolinian is supplying the pulpit of Rev. F. H. Martin at Lumberton, for the summer, and comes to ask space in your columns.

Bro. Martin is devoting a "vacation" to revival work in South Carolina and Virginia, in both of which places his labors have been abundantly blest. Brother and Mrs. Martin are much beloved by the saints in Lumberton, and their return, on or before Oct. 1st, will be anticipated with much pleasure.

The church here is in a prosperous condition, a notable feature being the number of young people who take an active interest in religious work.

The summer meetings among the churches of Robeson Association have been general and well-attended, and many souls have been hopefully converted. The hot weather does not discourage the brethren of Robeson, when it comes to going to church.

The writer assisted Bro. Lennon in a meeting at Antioch this week. There were sixteen professions of faith. Bro. Lennon is eighty years of age, and has been pastor at Antioch for the remarkably long period of fifty years. He preached his first sermon there. Age begins to tell on this venerable servant of the Lord; but his head is yet erect, his lip firm, his mind active, and his voice clear and ringing in denouncing sin and inviting men to Jesus.

The BIBLICAL RECORDER is an esteemed visitor in many homes in this county.

V. I. MASTERS.

Lumberton, Aug. 11, 1892.

A Precious Meeting at Cool Spring Church.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We closed a precious meeting at Cool Spring church, Gates county, last Sunday. Bro. C. B. Williams did most of the preaching, and did it well, too. The church seemed much revived. Forty-two were added to the church by baptism and five were restored. There were other professions, but some were kept from baptism by sickness.

Sincerely yours,

W. B. WATT.

Reynoldson, N. C., Aug. 10, 1892.

The Mind Cure

The theory of the mind cure may do for some hysterical cases, but for chronic bowel complaints, cramp, colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, Dr. Bigger's Huckleberry Cordial is the surest and best cure. Keep it.

The Mt. Ruhama Resolutions.

In your issue of Aug. 10, you publish certain resolutions from the Mt. Ruhama church in the South Fork Association, about which it seems to me a word ought to be said.

I do not think there should have arisen any controversy on the question. The churches at Catawba and Newton are the only ones directly interested in the matter. The Newton church is more convenient to Mt. Ruhama than the Catawba, and so to all the churches in the Association but two. The Mt. Ruhama church gives no reason for opposing the change, neither does it have any reason for opposing it—they simply did it to gratify the pastor. The churches at Newton and Catawba both had good reasons, and when these reasons were presented to the Executive Committee, the change was made. As for the constitution, there is not a word about any change being forbidden. We had the recent example of the Board of the State Convention in changing last year from Raleigh to Goldsboro according to the wish of the churches, and yet nobody thought of passing any resolutions. Such a course has been pursued by Baptists from time immemorial, and this is the first time I ever heard of a church denouncing it.

The Association will no doubt be held at Newton unless some unforeseen difficulties prevent us from getting our house completed.

We have just closed an excellent meeting of seven days at Belmont church in Gaston county. I had the efficient services of Rev. A. McA. Pittman of Black Stocks, S. C.—a "Tar Heel" whom we have loaned to South Carolina. The visible results of the meeting were ten baptisms and one by letter. The church was cemented together with stronger bonds, and we hope for enlarged usefulness in the future.

I begin to morrow a meeting in my Mt. Holly church. M. P. MATHENEY.

Lincolnton, Aug. 13, 1892.

Letter from Rev. R. O. Fry.

Dear Recorder:—I have been greatly revived during this vacation.

I went to a Sunday-school Convention at Palmerville Baptist church on Saturday, the 6th inst., in which the young ladies took an active part in reading essays and in speaking. All did their part well, and held the large crowd in perfect quiet. These essays we suppose grew out of the good school of which Bro. Edding is principal at that place.

Next day was a beautiful Sabbath, and a large crowd was present. We engaged the morning in Sunday-school speaking. I preached at 11 o'clock. At night I preached to a good audience at New London.

On Monday I began assisting in a protracted meeting at Kendall's Baptist church. The meeting was one of the best, if not the best meeting I was ever in, and resulted in a good many conversions, and upwards of twenty pledging that they would not stop until they would find Christ precious to their souls; besides this, others who had wandered and left the church were made to come forward and asked to be reclaimed; and it was a shower of pure refreshing to all. The attendance was said to be much greater than known in a long time. The house was filled to overflowing day and night. I found the church surrounded with the most hospitable people I have ever visited. I was greatly gratified in the work. I did all the preaching. Bro. Denny is pastor and a faithful worker. May the Lord bless him and the good people around Kendall's church. R. O. FRY.

Aug. 13, 1892.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

August.

Liberty—High Point, Aug 23-25.
Brushy Mountain—Moravian Falls church, Aug 25-27.

September.

South Yadkin—Bethel, Iredell county, Sep 6-8.
Caldwell County—Yadkin church, seven miles north of Lenoir, Sep 8-10.
Three Forks—Meat Camp church, six miles east of Boone, Sep 13-15.
Ashe and Alleghany—Bethel church, ten miles south of Jefferson, Sep 15-17.
King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg Oct 4-7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARATIONS for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear.

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D., Chester, Pa.

Wanted.

A Situation as Teacher by a Peace Institute Graduate who has had experience in teaching music, penmanship, arithmetic, geography, history, etc. Can teach higher branches. Best of references given. Address

"TEACHER,"
716 North Person Street, Raleigh, N. C.

REV DR. HAWTHORNE'S EXPERIENCE WITH GERMETUER.

"I am free from catarrh. I believe that I could get a certificate to this effect from any competent physician. I have used no medicine within the last six months except King's Royal Germetuer. My health is better than it has been in thirty years."

I was troubled with indigestion and blood poison in the form of pimples on my face. I took two bottles of King's Royal Germetuer and it cured me entirely. THOMAS G. HILL.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 31, 1891.

Rev. M. H. Wells, of Birmingham, writes "that daughter and I were cured of neuralgia and rheumatism by the use of Germetuer after all known medical and climatic remedies had been used, by the use of Germetuer."

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Troubles, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases, Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Ezcema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia and General Debility.

For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Manufactured by

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO., Atlanta, Ga.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.

J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.

Very respectfully, W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:

Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,

ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,

F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.

Yours truly, CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. J. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:

Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,

J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W T. CHEATHAM, JR.,

HENDERSON, N. C.

Louisburg Female College,

LOUISBURG, N. C.

[Founded 1857.]

Next session begins September 1st, 1892. Full and strong Faculty. Music Teachers from Conservatory. Art and Elocution Teachers from Academy of Arts. Special Teachers for Penmanship, Stenography and Typewriting, Telegraphy and Business Department. Large brick buildings—fifty rooms. Well shaded campus of twelve and one-half acres. The whole Literary Course, with board, washing, lights, fires, and physical culture, $140 for session of ten months. Extra studies in proportion. No extra charge for business course to pupils in other departments. Apply for catalogue to S. D. BAGLEY, President, Louisburg, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company.

P. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect July 24, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*8 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 01 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 10 p m	10 11 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*4 00 p m	*7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	6 00 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 15 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 22 p m	7 88 a m
Ar. Greensboro	10 00 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 25 p m	*8 50 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 30 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 55 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 23 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 p m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 40 a m	6 00 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 00 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 27 a m	8 10 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 30 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 37 a m	*8 35 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 20 a m	10 20 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	*12 10 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 24 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 23 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	*8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*10 40 p m
Ar Danville	12 10 p m	12 45 a m
" Keysville	2 50 p m	3 35 a m
" Burkeville	3 31 p m	4 10 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	5 20 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.35 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 9.40 a m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m, and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C. Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect August 10, 1892.

SO. BO'ND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BO'ND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv N & W Jt,	Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar N & W Jt,	Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 23 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 59 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
7 20 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
5 40 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 10 a m
4 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	10 00 a m
4 25 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	10 30 a m
3 10 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	11 55 a m
1 45 p m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	12 45 p m

Train No 9 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R. R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. H. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Testimony in Favor of the Wake Forest People.

Mr. Editor of the Biblical Recorder:—Having lately attended an Association at Wake Forest, I wish to state through the RECORDER a few facts which are due the people of Wake Forest.

Now I had been told that the people of that community were somewhat "stuck up" and unsocial towards the more common class; and of course I was upon the lookout for something of the kind. I not only failed to see anything of that sort, but found the people of Wake Forest (after mingling and commingling for some time as a church delegate and visitor), to be one of the most social and communicative, generous and urbane people to be found anywhere in the country.

Now the object of this scrap is to say to any who may be called to visit this people on any religious, educational, or, indeed, upon any honorable business, will receive a generous and hospitable reception.

Yours kindly, LOFTIN ADAMS.
Bay Leaf, Aug. 2, 1892.

A Parable Against Persecution.

And it came to pass after these things, that Abraham sat in the door of his tent about the going down of the sun.

And, behold, a man bowed with age came from the way of the wilderness, leaning on a staff.

And Abraham arose and met him, and said unto him, "Turn in, I pray thee, and wash thy feet, and tarry all night; and thou shalt arise early on the morrow, and go on thy way."

But the man said, "Nay; for I will abide under this tree."

And Abraham pressed him greatly; so he turned, and they went into the tent. And Abraham baked unleavened bread; and they did eat.

And when Abraham saw that the man blessed not God, he said unto him, "Wherefore dost thou not worship the most high God, Creator of heaven and earth?"

And the man answered and said: "I do not worship the God thou speakest of, neither do I call upon his name; for I have made to myself a god which abideth always in my house, and provideth me with all things."

And Abraham's zeal was kindled against the man; and he arose, and fell upon him, and drove him forth with blows into the wilderness.

And at midnight God called unto Abraham, saying: "Abraham, where is the stranger?"

And Abraham answered, and said: "Lord, he would not worship thee, neither would he call upon thy name; therefore have I driven him out from before my face into the wilderness."

And God said: "Have I borne with him these hundred ninety and eight years, and nourished and clothed him, notwithstanding his rebellion against me, and couldst not thou, that art thyself a sinner, bear with him one night?"—Benjamin Franklin.

The Bible in the House.

A good man once entered a house in Germany and found it very wretched—no fire, no furniture, no food. Everything bore the appearance of utter poverty. But, glancing round, he saw in a neglected corner a copy of the Bible. When he went away, he said to the poor inmates:

"There is a treasure in this house that would make you all rich."

After he had gone, the people began to search the house for what they thought must be a jewel, or a pot of gold; and finding nothing, they went to take up the very floor, in hopes of discovering the hidden store of wealth, all in vain.

Some days after, the mother lifted up the old Bible, and found written on the flyleaf of it, "Thy testimonies are better to me than thousands of gold and silver."

"Ah!" she thought, "can this be the treasure the stranger spoke of?"

So she told her thoughts to the rest; they began to read the Bible; they read of the love of God in sending his Son to die for sinners, became changed in character, and a blessing came in to stay with them.

The stranger returned to find poverty gone, contentment and peace in its place, and a hearty, christian welcome, while, with grateful joy, the family told him:

"We found the treasure, and it has proved to us all that you said it would."—The Sunlight.

Mr. A. N. Partin, of Enfield, N. C., who had typhoid fever, and was left in a very weak condition, writes:—

You can use my name in regard to the Electropoise, for I know it is a great thing for sufferers. I used nothing else, and, though I was so weak I could not get out of the house without help, in four days I was able to walk a mile (to my store), and work all day. It was Saturday, too—our busiest day. I have been steadily at work ever since. I was very thin. My friends did not think I would live a month when I began the use of the Electropoise. I am now fat and well, and quite up to my usual weight. Yours, very truly,

March 31, 1893. A. N. PARTIN.

There is no doubt about it. The nature of reading, the kind of books and papers read by a family or individual, tells the character of such either for good or bad. Is it not surprising that so many of our people who profess to be christians read little or no religious books or papers? The abundance, variety and cheapness of good religious reading at the present day knock the last prop from under the arguments (?) of so many who have run in the old grooves so long. The study of the Bible is the urgent need of our times. Light is what is needed. The pulpit, the press and the Sunday-school are the great forces that under God are to bring the world to Jesus.—E. P. P., in Richmond Advocate.

Known by Your Works.

What a curious place the cemetery would be if each grave were marked by the weapon chosen for life's war, the tool used in life's toil. The shining needle would gleam over the grave of Dorcas. The curious rod would tell of the work of Moses. The boat and net, the story of Peter the fisherman and fisher of men. Black tent cloth and a Bible would be the monument of Paul.

If only we could get the weapon used by each one, what a library of biography the cemetery would become. The brewery would be the coat of arms of one, the distillery of another, the saloon of still another. Here lies one with a pack of cards on his grave; they sum up his life. Another has a bat and ball. Life would thus be summed for each by that which was most to him in life. With the fidelity of a photograph, the grave would tell the truth, the monument would bear witness to facts, not fancies.

In real life we are known by what we do, not by what friends say of us. If the monument lies, yet men know the truth, and with a shrug and a smile pass on. The Judge of all the earth knows the exact truth; our works follow us into the land of judgment. "I know thy works," comes out again and again in the Revelation. The work we do, the tools we use, the motives that urge, are all known to the Judge of all. —O. P. G., in Young People's Union.

Christ lays hold of the very foundations of society, and works his upward way to the very topmost stratum, taking with him all men, women and children—poor, feeble, homeless, lost; and never resting until he has brought within the circle of his sovereignty, and the hopefulness of his benediction, men of every grade and quality.—Joseph Parker.

Each day brings its own duties, and we must meet them as they come. The leaving off till to-morrow plan is ruinous, alike to business and character.—Ex.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh's Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [SEAL] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

For Centennial Building Fund, Chapel Cards, Self-denial and Thanksgiving Mite Boxes, Centennial Literature, etc., apply to MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for August:—Home Board.

"Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee." Missionaries, 365; baptisms, 5,274; Sunday-schools organized, 342; teachers and pupils, 17,785; churches constituted, 179; houses of worship built, 80. Receipts of Home Board, $84,871.19.

STUDY TOPICS.—Needs of each State in the Home field. Relation of Home to State Missions and vice versa. Maintenance of missionaries. Frontier missions. America for Christ, or for Romanism and infidelity? Chapel building.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

A Chinese Sunday-school.

The following account of the opening of a Chinese school is taken from the New York Examiner:—

Under the providence of God the way was opened in April last for the establishment of a mission for the Chinese in Mott street, New York. The work undertaken was on a small scale, advisedly so. An apartment of three rooms was secured in the tenement house No. 19, and these were repaired and furnished for use. It was proposed to hold English classes tri-weekly, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, in the afternoons for Chinese women, and in the evenings for Chinese men. On Sunday a Bible school was to be held at 3 p. m., for Chinese women and children, and a second Bible school at 6:30 p. m. for Chinese men, the latter service to be followed by a gospel service in the Chinese language.

The mission opened on Sunday, July 10th, with a meeting to consecrate the rooms. Friends of the enterprise were invited. The rooms accommodated fifty people, and we anticipated that with our American friends and a few Chinese who desired to come that the seats would be nearly all taken. Yet before the time had arrived for the meeting to begin the rooms were packed to their utmost capacity by the Chinese alone, and but few Americans succeeded in gaining an entrance. In the street below were twice as many Chinese who also wished to attend, but could not get in.

At the close of that meeting we remained to pray that our gracious Heavenly Father would give us the building known as the Chinese Theatre, at Doyer street, for our men's classes, and for the gospel meeting. This building has a seating capacity of about 350, and is admirably adapted to our work. We knew that it would be impossible to hold so large a meeting again in our small rooms in Mott street. On the following Thursday the Lord answered our prayer, and the use of the Theatre was given us temporarily, free of rent.

On the succeeding Lord's day the Rev. Jue Hawk, a Chinese clergyman, was advertised to preach in the Chinese Theatre, and 400 Chinese men gathered to hear him. The audience was most respectful and attentive, and were seemingly much impressed with the earnest words of the preacher. Last Sunday night Rev. Mr. Hawk again preached to an audience quite as large, notwithstanding the unusual heat.

The first attempt at the Men's Bible school was made last Sunday night, and 110 Chinamen were graded and divided into seven classes, under Rev. Arthur Folsom, Rev. Jue Hawk, Mr. A. Freeman, Mr. Bunte, Mr. Strong, Mr. Franklin J. Ward, and Dr. John Bernard Busteed. In the room were almost a hundred more Chinese men whom it was impossible to grade and classify, as the teachers had more pupils than they could well handle as it was.

The work thus opened up before us is almost overwhelming. God has multiplied by ten the number whom we had expected as the outside possibility. Where we looked for possibly thirty attendants at our gospel service after months of persevering labor and persistent prayer, God has given us at the outset four hundred. Where we hoped for twenty at our Bible school (but had pledged ourselves not to be discouraged if there were but half that number) the Almighty has sent us two hundred.

The Japanese and Chinese in America.

The Chinese in this country come almost wholly from one province of China, but the Japanese come from all over the Sunrise kingdom. Very few people know how large a number of Japanese there are in this country. These are not only scattered through the schools and colleges of the East, but they are also engaged in commercial occupations in California and the West. Since almost all of the Japanese who come here are in pursuit of an English education, rather than to make money, a better and more intelligent class come than is the case with the Chinese. The Presbyterians have a very vigorous mission for the Japanese in California, under E. A. Sturge, M. D., and his wife. Four former members of this mission are now practicing physicians in Japan, several are teaching in Japanese schools, one is a professor in the Agricultural College in Osaka, one is an interpreter in Honolulu, and two are evangelists among their own people in this land. One is just graduating from the Young Men's Christian Association training school at Springfield, Mass., while two others are taking the regular course in the Princeton Theological Seminary. The Japanese Young Men's Christian Association of San Francisco, connected with this mission, now numbers ninety members. The same mission is just about to begin work among the 500 Japanese living in Portland, Oregon.

Miss Maggie Culbertson is doing a noble work in San Francisco for Chinese girls and women. A shameless slavery prevails among the Chinese. Miss Culbertson uses the authority of the law to get these women and girls free, and then takes them into her Home for protection and for training. She has already rescued 350 girls and young women. Most of them are under sixteen years of age. The girls are trained industrially and receive also christian instruction, so that when they leave the Home they are capable of supporting themselves.—Ex.

The Great Centennial Meetings in England.

The Baptists are awake to the importance of the centennial movement, and meetings are being held throughout the kingdom at the various churches. The great meeting was at the Crystal Palace, and all London knew about it.

A missionary flame is being kindled in all of the churches that ought to set all ablaze with enthusiasm.

Besides the meetings, cheap missionary literature is being circulated, and it is a frequent occurrence for ministers to advise their members to read such a book or such a tract and tell them where to get them. Our preachers do not take refuge behind the excuse "that they do not wish to make their pulpit the medium for advertising," but plainly tell them where and whom to buy from. Then again their efforts are not spasmodic—an occasional sermon on different fields, but every sermon preached has some reference to the great movement.

The children's festival has been a splendid success. It was held on Saturday, July 23d, at the Crystal Palace, where there was a scene that must live for years in the memories of all that were present. There were processions with streaming banners, and lively strains of music; the great Handel Orchestra was in the galleries, and their music was marvellous and enchanting. The sound made by coming of the children was termed by one of the papers "like the sound of many waters." The programme was opened by the Stockwell Orphanage choir; they sang their pieces with the accompaniment of bells with great success; how they did sing, and the memories that they awakened of the great Spurgeon were touching and tender.—Baltimore Baptist.

HOW BABIES SUFFER

When their tender Skins are literally ON FIRE with Itching and Burning Eczemas and other Itching, Scaly, and Blotchy Skin and Scalp Diseases, with Loss of Hair, none but mothers realize. To know that a single application of the

CUTICURA

Remedies will afford immediate relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy and economical cure, and not to use them, is to fail in your duty. Parents, save your children years of needless suffering from torturing and disfiguring eruptions. CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

PAINS AND WEAKNESSES

Relieved in one minute by that new, elegant, and infallible Antidote to Pain, Inflammation, and Weakness, the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. 25 cents.

Fun For Two.

All children enjoy a drink of

Hires' Root Beer.

So does every other member of the family.

A 25 cent package makes 5 gallons of this delicious drink. Don't be deceived if a dealer, for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."

BEECHAM'S PILLS

TASTELESS—EFFECTUAL FOR A

DISORDERED LIVER

Taken as directed these famous Pills will prove marvellous restoratives to all enfeebled by the above or kindred diseases.

25 Cents a Box,

but generally recognized in England and, in fact throughout the world to be "worth a guinea a box," for the reason that they WILL CURE a wide range of complaints, and that they have saved to many sufferers not merely one but many guineas, in doctors' bills.

Covered with a Tasteless & Soluble Coating. Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a box. New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

Theological Seminary,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH SCHOOL FIRE ALARM &C. Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE. Please mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A. Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

IRON FENCE SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN CATALOGUE FREE I. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

ROANOKE FEMALE COLLEGE

DANVILLE, VA.

C. F. JAMES, B. A., D. D., President

The thirty-fourth annual session of this well-known and excellent school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6th, 1892. Dr. James succeeds Capt. J. T. Averett as president, the latter retiring on account of feeble health. The new president is a B. A. of Richmond College, a full graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and for three years has conducted, with notable success, the Alleghany Institute, of Roanoke, Va. Faithful and competent teachers. The buildings will be thoroughly renovated, repaired and painted and the dormitories will be nicely carpeted and provided with new furniture. Pupils shall be thoroughly and wisely taught, and shall have every needed academic facility and domestic care and comfort. The city of Danville is now considered one of the healthiest cities in the South. It is in every way admirably adapted to the location of a first-class female college. Catalogues furnished upon application.

Peace Institute,

RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.

JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.) Principal.

Please mention this paper.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

FOR $1.50

we will send to any address postpaid, one each of the following late sheet music publications, allowing

Privilege of Exchange

after five days examination, for other music, if any of this proves unsuitable, but no money will be refunded. Copies to be exchanged must be in perfect condition, or we will not accept them. The list is as follows:

SONGS.

MY LADY'S WINDOW. NEIL. 40 cents.
THE BIRD AND THE MAIDEN. JAMESON. 40 cents.
SUNSHINE AND SHADOW. RANDOLPH. 40 cents.

PIANO MUSIC.

BOW KNOT POLKA. HUMEL. 40 cents.
FESTIVAL MARCH. ZAMECNIK. 40 cents.
FELICITE. BOSK. 40 cents.

Complete catalogues furnished free on application. Mention this paper.

PUBLISHED BY THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O. Reed & Sons Music Co., 147 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | Fine Arts Publishing Co., 36 E. 23d St., New York.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Notes from Ashe County.

Dear Recorder:—For the first time in my life, I am on a vacation. I am resting in the mountains of Ashe county. My churches in Caldwell county voted me the month of August for rest. Bro. Isaac Oxford is filling my appointments for this month.

The weather is cool here compared with July weather east of the ridge, and fire is acceptable of mornings. The weather is also dry here, amounting almost to a drought in places. The corn crop is promising, and only needs a little more rain. The small grain crop is good, and also the fruit crop. I am enjoying apples, peas, plums, and some peaches. Also, blackberries and huckleberries are plentiful. It is refreshing to be here and drink the cold water and breathe the pure mountain air, but our pleasure has been mixed with sadness.

The day we reached this county the sweet little babe of our brother-in-law, Wm. Howell, died about three hours before we reached his home, and I had to remain over to attend the funeral. It was so sad. Then last Sunday, I was asked to conduct a memorial service at Forest Home church in memory of Franklin Plato Eller, who died at Chapel Hill on June 15th, 1892. He was a son of Bro. James Eller of Berlin, this county, and brother of A. H. Eller of Winston. Plato was twenty-three years old, and had he been spared, would have graduated with distinction next year. He had just been chosen one of the editors of the University Magazine for next year, and was at the time of his death president of his class. He had distinguished himself as a debater, and had won a medal as a speaker, and was also to have spoken as the representative of his society at last commencement, but was prevented by sickness. President Winston, in a letter to his brother, said that Plato, in some important particulars, was the strongest and most promising young man in the University. Hon Kemp Battle, Dr. Whitehead and several of the students have written the relatives highly eulogistic and deeply sympathising letters. Plato was not a member of any church, but at different times and places had been an earnest penitent, and the latter part of his life was so pious, pure and upright, and he was such an attentive Sunday-school student, such a regular attendant upon the preaching of the gospel and so devoted to the services of the Young Men's Christian Association of which he was a member, that it seems to me we must reasonably conclude he had made Christ his Saviour. His favorite song was, "Jesus, lover of my soul." The bereavement falls heavily upon his dear parents, relatives and many friends. May the Lord comfort and sustain them.

It was a treat to meet Bro. Dolly Eller, as we familiarly call him, of Winston. He sought and obtained religion in a meeting at Forest Home church some sixteen years ago, in which it was my happy privilege to labor with the pastor. Dolly has, I am glad to remark, ever adorned his religion with a pure and pious life. He is a successful lawyer and business man, and a most liberal brother with his means. Bro. Jas. and Sister Eller have reared a most exemplary family of children. They have but one daughter, and she married a worthy Baptist preacher of Virginia, David Hubble, whose field of labor is east of Lynchburg, and who is doing a good work for the Master.

Bro. W. H. Eller of Nebraska, but latterly of the Keely Institute, Greensboro, is here on a short visit. He is a capital man, I take it.

I have made a brief visit to Jefferson, and looked into the faces of, and shook hands with my many friends there. The brethren there and elsewhere in the county speak tenderly and affectionately of Bro. D. W. Thomasson, who was the efficient missionary under the State Board for several years at Jefferson and parts of Ashe county. It is generally lamented that he had to leave the field. The brethren are hoping he will visit them at the meeting of the Ashe and Alleghany Association. Bro. J. C. Johnson is preaching to Bro. Thomasson's churches, and the brethren think well of him.

I have been informed, since coming to this country, that the Rev. Mr. Harrison Blankenship, who took Hamilton Walter's wife about a year ago and ran away with her, and about whom the newspapers had so much to say for a time, is in the Jefferson jail serving a twelve-months' term, and is engaged in the study of law while in prison. During my visit to Jefferson, it never occurred to me to make any inquiries, but he is certainly in jail just where he ought to be. I suppose it is true that he is studying for the practice of law. It is said he has a fine mind, but is uneducated.

I have met Bro. T. M. Duncan, who is pastor of Forest Home and Friendship churches and some mission points, and find him greatly encouraged in his work. He is a good brother and earnest worker.

The Ashe and Alleghany Association will hold its next session with Bethel church, eight miles south of Jefferson.

I am glad brethren Durham, Caddell and other brethren, coming to our mountain Associations, can reach them this year with so much less travel and expense than last year. They will come to the Caldwell at the Yadkin church, seven miles north of Lenoir, on Thursday before the second Sunday in September. Then go on Monday following twenty-three miles to Boone, then out Tuesday morning six miles to Meat Camp church, where the Three Forks meets. Then it is about fifteen miles to Bethel, where the Ashe and Alleghany meets on Thursday, the day the Three Fork closes, and from Bethel it is about twenty miles to Wilkesboro, the nearest railroad station. We hope a number of the brethren from abroad will visit all three of these Associations.

Yours truly, I. W. THOMAS.

Fleetwood, Aug. 17, 1892.

DR. BOSCHEE'S HORSERADISH COMPOUND cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

Reply to W. M. Thompson.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I see in the RECORDER of the 17th inst. a communication from W. M. Thompson which I think calls upon me to explain.

In the year 1890 I contracted with Mr. Thompson to let him have a lot near Troy at eleven dollars per acre, which was less than one half of what I was offered for it through others. I did not want to sell the land, and so told him, but thinking he would make a very good accession to our church and cause, although I did not have much faith in his staying long, I did contract with him upon condition he did remain and keep it, to take the above named price. He was to build on it a cheap house, but on the special agreement that if he could not pay for it, or wanted to sell, I was to have it back by paying for the improvement which he said he would put on it. Subsequently he bought a lot adjoining it, upon which he put the improvements. He did nothing to improve mine except he cut the wood off it and sold it, and fenced a part of it. The contract was drawn up by Rev. W. M. Bostick, who surveyed the land and drew up the papers with the bond for title and specifications, which bond was changed by Mr. Thompson leaving out the contract. Mr. T. presented the bond to me to sign. I supposing it was the bond Mr. Bostick wrote, as per agreement, believing he would not make a false impression, I signed it without examining it, but found afterwards it was not the one he wrote, and did not contain the agreement in full. He (Mr. T.) refused to let me have the lot back as per agreement, unless I would take both lots and pay him therefor five hundred dollars. I told him I would leave it to three men to say what the improvement was, if any, and I would pay it.

In his communication he intimates he wants the truth to prevail, which I hope will. If there is any doubt about the truthfulness of this communication, I can establish it by undoubted witnesses.

NANCY M. BLAKE.

Troy, N. C., Aug. 18, 1892.

Warwick Church.

We have just closed a week's revival at Warwick church, resulting in sixty accessions, fifty-one of these being for baptism. This makes seventy additions to this church during the past six months. Rev. W. P. Jordan was with me and aided me during the meeting. He gave to the large and attentive crowds the old gospel with marked simplicity, clearness and power.

CALLED TO THE PASTORATE OF SALEM CHURCH.

I have been unanimously called to Salem church, Pasquotank county, and I will take this church instead of the Harrellsville, which I have just resigned. This puts all my work in one (the Old Chowan) Association, which is preferable.

C. N. DONALDSON.

Warwick, Aug. 15, 1892.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" lamp-chimneys are made of tough glass that costs four times as much as common glass; and the work on them costs a good deal more than the work on common chimneys, just as the work on a dress is proportioned to cost of stuff.

The dealer is right in saying he can't afford to sell them at the prices of common glass chimneys.

And what will become of his chimney trade if his chimneys never break? He is apt to be wrong there. He can afford to charge a fair price and give new chimneys for all that break in use.

Have a talk with him.

Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Eureka Church.

On the fifth Sunday in July the church at Eureka in Gates county commenced a meeting of days. We had no ministerial help, but the Lord met with us and greatly blessed us. Every day of the meeting was good; but on Saturday we had a pentecostal blessing. Christians were made happy and sinners were made to tremble with fear. Fifteen were added to the church—thirteen by baptism and two restored. The Lord be praised for his goodness to the children of men.

W. P. JORDAN.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

It is not strange that Beecham's pills are so universally and favorably known when one considers that the manufacturers make use of over 14,000 advertising mediums, and spend about $550,000 through them every year. Such liberal use of the press is bound to have results, and proof is seen in the exceptional facilities found necessary to employ in the manufacture of the pills, in order to meet the enormous and increasing demand: among them, the pill machine which shapes 15,000 pills per minute. And, furthermore, in the fact that the average quantity kept in stock is 8½ tons, which means about 77,684,200 pills always ready for shipment.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Cub Creek church, Brushy Mountain, $4.60; Mt Pleasant ch, ditto, 1.00; Ballard's Bridge ch, Chowan, 7.71; Bethel ch, ditto, 5.50; Beulah ch, ditto, 3.65; Centre Hill ch, ditto, 1.50; Cool Spring ch, ditto, 5.00; Eureka ch, ditto, 2.00; Great Hope ch, ditto, 2.00; Hertford ch, ditto, 5.00; Macedonia ch, ditto, 3.73; Mt Sinai ch, ditto, 2.00; Reynoldson ch, ditto, 5.00; Olivet ch, ditto, 1.00; Rockahock ch, ditto, 5.00; Salem ch, ditto, 6.00; Whiteville Grove ch, ditto, 3.00; Warwick ch, ditto, 20.00; Yeopim ch, 2.90; collection U M, ditto, 7.18. Total, 93.77. Previously reported, 3,382.14. Total this year, 3,475.91.

Foreign Missions—Beaver Creek ch, Brushy Mountain, $1.15; Mt Pleasant ch, ditto, 2.60; Potecasi, W Chowan, 2.00; Rev C Durham, First ch, Raleigh, Central, 5.00; Thomasville ch, Liberty, 1.06; South River Asso, 3.30; Whiteville Grove ch, Chowan, 3.00. Total, 18.11. Previously reported, 5,237.95. Total this year, 5 256.06.

Home Missions—Mt Pleasant ch, Brushy Mountain, $1.65; Moravian Falls ch, ditto, 25.00; South River Asso, 5.17; Whiteville Grove ch, Chowan, 3.00. Total, 34.82. Previously reported, 2,035.45. Total this year, 2,070.27.

Education—Potecasi ch, W Chowan, $8.00; Cool Springs ch, Chowan, 2.80; Reynoldson ch, ditto, 2.00. Total, 12.80. Previously reported, 1,478.06. Total this year, 1,490.86.

Orphanage—S S, Bethlehem church, West Chowan, $6.38; S S, First ch, Raleigh, Central, 15 00; D L Gore, 10.00; South River Asso, 40c; Mt Sinai ch, Chowan, 5.00. Total, 36.78. Previously reported, 781.96. Total this year, 818.74.

Ministerial Relief Fund—D L Gore, $5.00.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Aug 20, 1892.

RHEUMATISM
neuralgia, and sciatica can always be successfully treated
with
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
A cure is sure to follow
the persistent use of this medicine.
Has Cured Others
will cure you.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE
BOTETOURT SPRINGS, VA.
For Young Ladies. Opens Sept. 14, 1892. 50th year. 17 Officers and Teachers. Preparatory, Collegiate, Philosophical, and Literary Departments. Conservatory Course in Music. Art and Elocution School. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, on N. & W. R. R. near Roanoke. Climate unexcelled. Elegant Equipment. Write for illustrated catalogue to
CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

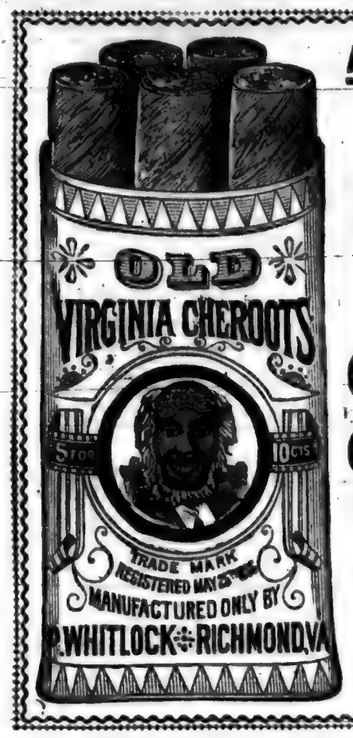
Alleghany Institute,
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.
The seventh session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, 1892. It is a thorough training school for boys and young men preparing for college or for business. Excellent courses well taught by experienced teachers. The situation is in the suburbs of the city upon a high ridge, commanding a magnificent view. Ample grounds for exercise. Comfortable rooms. Terms moderate. For further information send for catalogue, and address
WILMER O. WHITESCARVER, Prin.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL
—AND—
BUSINESS INSTITUTE.
College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 22, 1892. Write for catalogue to
L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON, N. C.

Staunton Military Academy,
—STAUNTON, VA.
A Military School for Young Men and Boys.
Handsome Illustrated Catalogue mailed on application.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3590, New York City, N. Y.

DROPSY TREATED FREE
Positively cured with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases called hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. 10 DAYS' TREATMENT FREE by mail. Dr. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, ATLANTA, GA.



A CORN COB PIPE

Around home is all right, but it looks out of place when you are on the street; then you want to make a good appearance. An - - - - will aid you more than any one thing. Made of carefully selected stock; smoke sweet to the end. FIVE for TEN CENTS.

OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOT

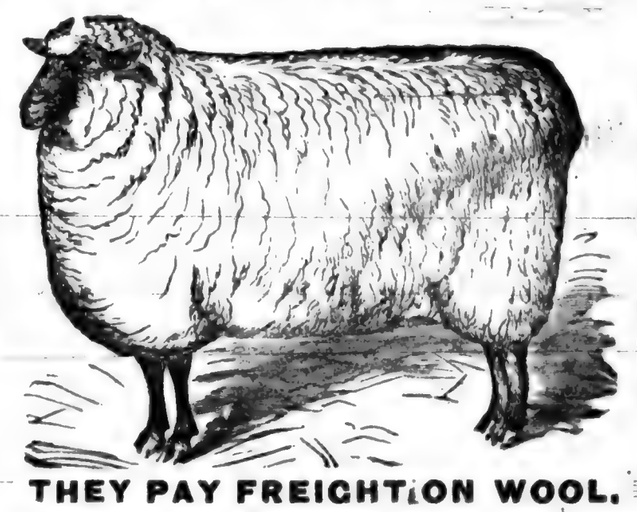
HORNER MILITARY SCHOOL, OXFORD, N. C.

Modern buildings, hot and cold baths, gymnasium, healthful climate, beautiful surroundings, numbers limited. A model home school for boys. Catalogues sent on application.

WOOL! WOOL! WOOL!

If you have wool to be manufactured or to exchange for goods, ship it to the

Chatham Manufacturing Company,
PROPRIETORS OF THE
Elkin Woollen Mills.



THEY DO THE LARGEST Custom Business IN THE STATE.

EXCELLED. Their Goods Just Simply CAN'T BE

THEY PAY FREIGHT ON WOOL.

Write for samples, and directions for shipping, to

CHATHAM MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Elkin, N. C.
Freight and Express Office, Elkin, N. C.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,
RICHMOND.
The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.
For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.
"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools. 120 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is, write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or
S. D. JONES, Principal.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

High Point Female College.
The next Annual Session will begin September 14th, 1892. This institution has a full corps of excellent teachers, representing the best schools, and is
A CHRISTIAN HOME
for all that attend, where they will have advantages for culture equal to the very best, at charges lower than those at most colleges. Write for Kastalian and for catalogue. Address
J. N. STALLINGS, D. D., President, High Point, N. C.

From Randleman, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—We have had a good seed sowing and harvest-gathering meeting here. It continued every night for two weeks. There were about fifteen conversions and seed sown, which I trust will help some souls to be ripened and prepared for the garner of eternity. I baptized six on Thursday night.

Our cause here, I think, is gradually growing, and even now our congregation is as large as any sister church can boast of. Notwithstanding the fearfully warm weather, the work seems to be prospering all along the line. Faithfully, G. M. WEBB.

Randleman, Aug. 15, 1892.

South Yadkin Association.

Visitors from a distance to the South Yadkin Association by railroad on the Western N. C. R. R., will get off at Rock Cut, and they will be met by J. T. Eudy or J. F. Ostwalt, on Tuesday, the 6th day of September, whom they will please notify by card at Rock Cut, Iredell county, N. C.

Those coming on the A. T. & O. R. R., will please notify John Setser or J. D. Cook, at Long Ford, Iredell county, N. C., and they will be met at Troutman, N. C., on Tuesday, Sept. 6th, 1892. W. A. POOL.

Statesville, Aug. 15, 1892.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters Rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

Mr. Geo. W. Watts of Durham has given $5,000 to the Presbyterian Orphans Home, located near Charlotte.

For a sluggish and torpid liver, nothing can surpass Ayer's Pills. They contain no calomel, nor any mineral drug, but are composed of the active principles of the best vegetable cathartics, and their use always results in marked benefit to the patient.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The Soldiers' Home now shelters forty-six veterans.

Trains ran into the new Union depot here on Sunday last for the first time since its completion.

The date for the meeting of the Democratic Clubs of the State has been changed from August 31st to September 16th, because the latter date is more convenient for General Stephenson, and other prominent men to be here.

The trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical College have placed Prof. Emory of the Experiment Farm in temporary charge of the Chair of Agriculture, to succeed Prof. Chamberlain, who recently resigned. The College will open Sept. 1st.

The mammoth acid building of the Caraleigh phosphate mills, two miles south of this city was destroyed by fire early last Thursday night. The loss is estimated at $27,000 or possibly more, almost if not entirely covered by insurance. The building is to be replaced as soon as possible.

The State Peoples' party convention was held here Tuesday of last week. The following ticket was nominated: For Governor, Dr. W. P. Exum, of Wayne; for Lieut. Governor, R. A. Cobb, of Burke; for Secretary of State, Dr. L. N. Durham, of Cleveland; for Auditor, T. B. Long, of Buncombe; for Treasurer, W. H. Worth, of Guilford; for Supt. of Public Instruction, Rev. J. W. Woody, of Guilford; for Attorney General, R. H. Lyon, of Bladen; for Electors for the State at large, Marion Butler and Harry Skinner.

State News.

Peter Pegraff, the Winston murderer, is still at large.

A mad dog bit several men and a number of dogs in Charlotte last Friday.

A movement is on foot to establish a furniture factory at Fayetteville.

Over eight hundred veterans attended the encampment at Wrightsville last week.

Mr. Thomas H. Hoke, a prominent and useful citizen of Lincolnton, died on the 18th inst.

It is now stated that Gen. Adlai Stephenson will fill his North Carolina appointments beginning September 15th.

Thieves robbed a special contribution box in the vestibule of Trinity church, Asheville, one day recently. The amount stolen is not known.

Fred Sherrill, colored, was shot at Winston on Sunday, the 14th inst., by Thomas Vinson, who made his escape. Sherrill died last Friday. The mayor of Winston has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of Vinson.

The Landmark says the government has condemned the finish of the wood-work in the interior of the Statesville public building and some of the outside work also, and workmen are now making the necessary changes. This additional work will cost the contractors about $1,960.

Mr. William H. Grainger, a prominent citizen of Columbus county residing near Mt. Tabor, was stabbed to the heart and killed by his nephew, Vance Spivey, on the 12th inst. Both men were on their way home in a cart and got into a dispute about something, which ripened into anger, followed by the result stated. A posse is scouring the woods for Spivey.

Jas. W. Telfair, colored, was drowned while surf bathing at Ocean View, near Wilmington last Thursday.

Robert King's store and dwelling near Triangle, Lincoln county, was recently burned. Loss about $5,000.

Albert Goss, colored, in attempting to cross a log over Abbott's creek, in Davidson county Tuesday night 16th inst., fell into the water and was drowned.

The contract has been awarded at Hendersonville, for the erection of a first-class town-hall. The building is to be completed by February 1st 1893, and will cost $8,000.

On the main street in Mt. Airy last Saturday, Thomas Allison, receiver for a tobacco factory there, shot and instantly killed W. H. Brown, shipping clerk for the large tobacco concern of Sparger Bros., also of Mt. Airy.

Mr. Jack Overton, of Fayetteville, a Confederate veteran, on his way to the Veteran's Encampment at Wrightsville Monday of last week, was accidentally drowned at Point Peter. He attempted to step from the wharf to the ferry boat but fell. He had been drinking.

Silas Steele, aged about seventeen years of Germanton, Stokes county, committed suicide on the morning of the 20th inst., by drinking laudanum. For some misdemeanor, his mother gave him a thrashing and threatened to bind him out. The boy took his life in preference to being bound out, according to the report.

The State Farmers' Alliance Convention was recently held in Greensboro. The officers elected are as follows: Marion Butler, President; T. B. Long, of Buncombe county, vice-President; W. S. Barnes Secretary and Treasurer, and Dr. C. Thompsom of Onslow, was elected State Lecturer.

Mrs. Athey, a widow lady with five children, living near Cleveland, was robbed recently of $380, the money she had been saving up for fifteen years past with the purpose in view of buying her a home. She kept her money in a satchel in the closet of her bed room, and while she was absent at a neighbor's for a short time, the money was stolen.

The Railway Commission has rendered the following important telegraph decision: "That telegraphic messages transmitted over a line from one point in this State to another point also in the State do not constitute commerce between the States, although traversing another State in the route, and are subject to the rate prescribed by the commission."

Wesley Jones, a bachelor living the life of a recluse, near Walnut Cove, died last Friday night. A stranger purporting to be from Virginia came to Mr. Jones place about a month ago and has been living there ever since. This stranger now turns up with a will from Jones in which he leaves him all his property. He also holds deeds to all the lands of the deceased man. The people of the neighborhood suspicion foul play and the matter will be investigated.

At Pleasant Garden, a station twelve miles from Greensboro, Tuesday of last week, a brutal murder occurred. Mr. Salathial Swaim, aged about eighty-six years while dozing on the front porch of a Mr. Coble's house, was shot in the head and almost instantly killed. The assassin then robbed his victim of $500 in greenbacks which he had on his person and escaped. Several men were arrested for the crime and lodged in the Greensboro jail. Charles Reynolds, one of the men under arrest has confessed that he shot Swaim and that his cousin Julius Reynolds planned and instigated the crime. Julius Reynolds has also been jailed. The murdered man had just settled up his estate and expected to leave this State soon for the west to be with his children.

General News.

A $175,000 fire occurred at Geneva, O., on the 19th inst.

A $200,000 fire occurred at Delta, Fulton county, O., on the 18th inst.

Six men were killed and fifteen injured, in a railroad accident near Warsaw, O., on the 15th inst.

The greatest rate war on record is being waged by Southern railroads. Rates are being cut down quite low.

Congressman John G. Warrick, of Ohio, the successor of William McKinley, died in Washington City on the 14th inst.

The Chilian government has appropriated $75,000 to pay indemnities for the attack made upon the crew of the cruiser Baltimore.

A Union Pacific special train from San Francisco loaded with $20,000,000 in gold from the San Francisco mint reached New York City recently.

William R. Cole, a railroad engineer, shot and killed his wife and child at Savannah, Ga., on the 17th inst., and then attempted suicide, but failed.

An earthquake shock caused consternation in Pembrokshire, the extreme southwestern county of Wales last Wednesday night. Houses were rocked, but no great damage was done.

At Griffin, Ga., last Wednesday night five children left at home locked up by their parents, were burned to death. It was reported that the house was set on fire by incendiaries.

Logan Murphy, a seventeen year old boy murderer, was taken from jail at Winchester, Ky., by a mob on the 16th and hanged from a railroad bridge. Murphy killed his own father was arrested, tried, and sentenced to be hanged, but was given a new trial. While in jail he seriously injured one fellow prisoner and stabbed another one to death.

Grindelwald, a Swiss village was almost completely destroyed by fire on the 19th. A large hotel thronged with American and European tourists was demolished, but fortunately no one was injured.

Very early on the morning of the 15th inst., over one hundred cars on the Erie and Lehigh Valley railways at Buffalo, N. Y., were destroyed by fire. The loss was very great. The cars were set on fire by striking railway switchmen. The New York Central switchmen also struck. The strikers caused trouble by suspending freight travel. Gov. Flower ordered out 25,000 of the State troops to protect the property of the railroads. It is feared that the strike will extend all over the State. The roads involved are now seven, viz., the Erie, New York Central, West Shore, Lake Shore, Buffalo Creek, Lehigh Valley, and Nickle Plate.

Last Saturday morning shortly after midnight, Mrs. Lizzie B. Hicks, a respectable widow lady of Richmond, Va., accidentally killed her sixteen-year old daughter. A few nights before, Mrs. Hick's hen-house had been robbed, and this morning, hearing noises in the yard, she arose, armed herself with a 38 calibre revolver, and crept to a back window to listen. While standing there, she heard a slight step behind her. Very much excited, she turned, and seeing a figure standing close to her, without a sign or word she raised her pistol and fired. She then discovered that she had shot and killed her own daughter, who had followed her.

Mr. Gladstone, who is Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury of England, has completed his cabinet, which is as follows: Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Earl Roseberry; Lord Chancellor, Baron Herschell; Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir William Vernon Harcourt; Home Secretary, Herbert Henry Asquith; Secretary of State for India, Earl of Kimberly; Secretary of State for the Colonies, Marquis of Ripen; Secretary of State for War, Right Hon. H. Campbell Bannerman; First Lord of Admiralty, Earl Spencer; Chief Secretary of State for Ireland, Right Hon. John Morley; Secretary of State for Scotland, Right Hon. Sir George Otto Trevelyn; President of the Board of Trade, Right Hon. H. H. Fowler; Postmaster General, Arnold Morley; President of the Council of Education, Arthur Herbert Dyke-Acland. Lord Houghton is Vicoroy for Ireland.

The East Tennessee miners caused serious trouble during the past few days. At Tracy City, on the morning of the 13th, a mob of 150 miners captured the stockade in which 390 convicts were confined. The convicts were placed in box cars ready to be shipped to Nashville. The miners then burned the stockade and cut the telegraph wires. On Monday, the 15th inst., about three hundred armed miners marched into Inman, a little mining town, and proceeded to the coal mines where 272 convicts were at work. The miners captured the guards and placed them in custody. They then carried the convicts to Victoria and placed them in box cars and started them to Nashville. At Tracy City the coke ovens were pulled from the ground, causing great damage. An attack on the stockades at Oliver Springs was made on the 16th. Two guards were fatally injured and eight miners were shot. At Coal Creek on the 18th a conflict between a small number of State troops and over 3,000 miners occurred. Ten miners were killed and many others injured. Six soldiers were killed and several injured. Four hundred of the miners have been arrested and are under guard. At last accounts the hostilities had ceased.

Ho! traveller, take Beecham's pills with you.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

MARRIED.

JORDAN—BULLARD—On August 17th, 1892, at Benevolence church, by Rev. E. W. Wooten, Mr. Willis N. Jordan and Miss Sallie Bullard.

WHITE—ELLIOTT—On August 10th, 1892, in Bethel church, Perquimans county, by Rev. A. W. Burfoot, Mr. C. F. White and Mrs. Mattie Elliott.

DIED.

PAGE—On August 9th, 1892. Mr. W. J. L. Page departed this life in Perquimans county, N. C., after a severe attack of dropsy at the heart. He was a member of Greenwood church. He was very often heard singing the hymn, "Yield not to temptation," &c., and the last he said was that he was going home to glory to live with his Master.

W. J. B.

COBB—Sarah M. Cobb departed this life near Floral College on July 29th, 1892. She was eighty-six years old, and a member of the Mount Moriah Baptist church, and lived in strong allegiance to her church, which could not be lessened or modified by any surrounding. She never failed to let it be known even in the most worldly surrounding, yet with the modesty and gentleness of the true woman. She passed peacefully away to that Father who ever watches over his flock, and who is a husband to the widow. She was a good mother, and her children will sadly miss her good advice. J. W. C.

PEARCE—On the fourth Sunday in July, 1892, Cecil D. Pearce died after four weeks of suffering. She was sixteen months and one day old. Little Cecil was the daughter of W. J. and Jeanette Pearce of Chesapeake City, Va. Sister Pearce, with her babe, was visiting at the home of her father, Bro. John Felton, in Gates county, at the time of the little one's death. Who, but those who have experienced it, can imagine the grief of the mother's heart in returning to her home without her precious babe? How desolate home now seems without the prattle of the little one! But God knoweth best, and he transplanted the little bud to bloom in his garden above, where it will be forever safe from the blighting frosts of sin, and where no evil can ever befall it. Then weep not, loved ones, your little Cecil is not lost, only gone before to await your coming at the pearly gate.

W. B. W.

ELLIS—Mrs. Louise B. Ellis, wife of A. D. Ellis, died at her home in Louisburg, N. C., July 21st, 1892. She was born in Wake county, Dec. 4th, 1821. At the age of twenty years she joined Rolesville Baptist church and afterwards held her membership with the Flat Rock and Franklinton and Corinth Baptist churches. At the time of her death she was a member at Louisburg. More than fifty years of her life were thus spent in the service of Christ. As she grew in years she grew in the all-sufficient grace of God, which enabled her to triumph in death.

She was a kind neighbor, an affectionate wife, a loving mother, a devout christian, and will be greatly missed by the two sons and one daughter, but most of all by him who has enjoyed her companionship for more than fifty years. A good woman has gone to rest. Her example is an inspiration to those who are left behind. All is well. M.

DIXON—Miss Dora Dixon, aged sixteen years, died at the residence of her father in Wilson on Friday night, Aug. 12th. Amiable, gentle, unpretending, she was loved by all who knew her. Self-sacrificing in her attentions upon her sick brother, she contracted the disease which proved too much for her wasted energies. She was a sweetly devoted christian and with resignation to the Master's will received the last summons, and sank to rest "like flowers at the set of sun." A large concourse followed her remains to the Baptist church in whose baptismal waters she had been buried in the likeness of her Saviour only a few months ago, and the pastor delivered one of the sweetest, tenderest, most comforting funeral sermons we have ever listened to. It is natural for us to weep at the grave of our loved ones, but when such as she is called upon to put on immortality, our weeping is not as of those who have no hope. All feel assured that she is with the saints in glory, and that should give solace to mourning friends, and soothe the throbbing temple of anguish and bereavement.—Wilson Mirror.

WESCOTT—Died, at the home of his brother, in Southport, N. C., August 14th, 1892, S. Walter Wescott, aged twenty-six years. Truly a good and useful man has fallen from among us, and we greatly deplore his loss. He leaves an invalid father and mother, two brothers, seven sisters, and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his departure. He was so kind, thoughtful and faithful to his invalid father. While he was the youngest son, yet it was Walter on whom Frank M. Wescott leaned for support in this world. While he did not join the church until recently, yet by his daily walk and conversation a great many thought him a member of Bethel Baptist church. He was so devoted to the church and Sunday-school in which he was reared. He never was given to any immoral habits, never left the family fireside to seek a fortune, but was born, reared and buried in a space covering three hundred yards. He was kind to all the family, and a true friend to all mankind, never speaking evil of any.

In the death of Brother Walter Wescott the community has lost a good citizen, the church and Sunday-school a devout member, and the family a dutiful son and an affectionate brother.

To the grief-stricken family we can only say as the poet:—

"Thou art gone to the grave; but we will not deplore thee,
Since God was thy ransom, thy guardian, thy guide:
He gave thee, he took thee, and he will restore thee;
And death has no sting since the Saviour hath died."

D. I. WATSON.

Tribute of Respect.

On Sunday morning, August 21st, 1892, the First Baptist Sunday-school of Raleigh adopted the following tribute to the memory of the late Bro. James B. Jordan:

JORDAN—In memory of James B. Jordan. A son of Chesley and Catherine Jordan; born near Wake Cross Roads, March 24th, 1835; died in Raleigh, N. C., August 12th, 1892, aged fifty-seven years, four months and nineteen days.

Brother Jordan died after a spasmodic illness of about nine hours. He was thus suddenly called away! But he was ready for the summons. In his youth he gave his heart and life to the Saviour, and was baptized into the fellowship of the Baptist church at Rolesville by the Rev. P. W. Dowd. Here he commenced to labor for the Master. He conducted prayer-meetings, and for about two years was Superintendent of the Sunday-school. For a score or more years he has been a member with us, and during this time he has shown himself to be a true servant of God. With accustomed regularity he has filled his seat in the prayer-meeting, at the service for preaching, in the conference meeting, and in the Sunday-school. In his Sunday-school class he understood much about the lessons, gave freely his views on the portion of the Word studied, and thus added much to the interest of the class exercises.

Brother Jordan, beyond most men, was fortunate in his disposition. He was even-tempered all his life. He felt kindly towards all, and had a cheerful word for everybody with whom he came in contact. One of his beautiful traits was his love of children. He would greet them with winning attentions as he met them here and there. These attentions drew their hearts to him; and it was touching to behold some of these as they carried their floral offerings to be laid on the casket containing the remains of their departed friend.

While on earth, he travelled towards heaven. In conversation pure, in deportment correct, in temper serene, his life took hold of us and helped us. We have seen him well, we have seen him sick, and we have seen him prostrate by dangerous accident, yet never heard we a murmur escape his lips. A widow, son and daughter survive him. The son has a family of his own and lives in Henderson, N. C., and the daughter resided with her parents. Owing to the sudden fatal illness of Bro. Jordan, neither of the children could be with him in his dying moments—the son being at his home in Henderson, and the daughter absent on a visit to relatives at Old Fort, N. C. In response to telegrams, both hurried to the stricken household, the son arriving before, and the daughter after sepulture. There was no more devoted and attentive husband and father than was our deceased brother. We sorrow with his bereaved family, and pray that God's richest consolations may be poured into their wounded hearts.

Through us the First Baptist Sunday-school of Raleigh makes this effort to give this sketch and estimate of the life and character of its departed member, and to express its sympathy with his loved, sorrowing ones. We believe that he has gone to be with his Saviour. His sudden death should stimulate each member of this School to give earnest heed to the solemn warning of the Saviour, "Therefore, be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."

Respectfully submitted,

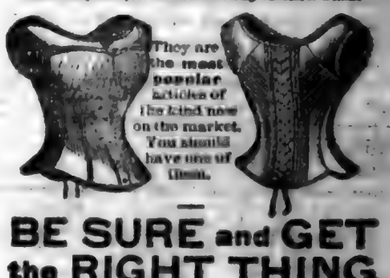
DAVID B. JONES,
WILLIAM H. PAGE,
JAMES H. ALFORD,
Committee.

Raleigh Male Academy.

MORSON & DENSON, Principals.
C. L. HAYWOOD, Assistant.

The 14th Annual Session begins Monday, Aug. 29th, 1892. Pupils thoroughly prepared for college or for business life. For particulars, address the Principals for catalogue.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 2, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON
CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boned and stamped upon lining of clasp in each waist.



They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

CHOWAN
Baptist Female Institute,
MURFREESBORO, N. C.

Parties having young ladies to educate will do well to consider the following facts:—
The Institute offers superior advantages in Literature, Science, Music and Art. Only the best talent is employed to give instruction in the different departments.
The situation is one of remarkable beauty. There are twenty-eight acres of land within the corporation, but so located as to give the school all the privacy of the country, while near enough to the town to secure any advantages it may offer.
The health record is unsurpassed. During the last ten years there have been two cases of pneumonia, one of typhoid fever (brought by the pupil with her), no case of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles. Chills have been strangers, and bilious fever almost unknown. The average of medical bills since the organization of the school has been about twenty five cents per pupil for the scholastic year. The amount paid for medical bills by the entire boarding patronage the past session was ten dollars.
This institution is the unencumbered property of the Baptists, and is the only property owned by them in the State used exclusively for the education of girls.
The dormitories have recently been refurnished, and only two pupils occupy the same room. Parties leaving points east of Charlotte, Danville, Richmond and Washington reach the school the same afternoon via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. As the property is unencumbered, the charges can be made very moderate. Board, literary and music tuition, if paid in advance, are two hundred dollars for scholastic year. The fall session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. For catalogue or additional information, address
JNO. B. BREWER, President.

WANTED.
As a partner in a good and well-established newspaper and job office, a good printer who is a member of the Baptist church. A fine opportunity. No capital required. Address, at once,
PIEDMONT HERALD,
Leaksville, N. C.

A graduate of Peace Institute would like to take charge of a good private school for the coming year. Address Miss E., care BIBLICAL RECORDER, Raleigh, N. C.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER does not burn or hurt when applied. By mail 25 cents. JOHN R. YOUNG | SONS CO., BRISTOL, TENN.-VA.

The Home Circle.

Home Mission Hymn.

Look from Thy sphere of endless day,
O God of mercy and of might;
In pity look on those who stray,
Benighted in this land of light.

In peopled vale, in lonely glen,
In crowded mart by stream or sea,
How many of the sons of men
Hear not the message sent from Thee!

Send forth Thy herald, Lord, to call
The thoughtless young the hardened old,
A scattered, homeless flock, till all
Be gathered to Thy peaceful fold.

Send them Thy mighty Word to speak,
Till faith shall dawn and doubt depart,
To awe the bold, to stay the weak,
And bind and heal the broken heart.

Then all these wastes, a dreary scene,
That make us sadden as we gaze,
Shall grow with living waters green,
And lift to heaven the voice of praise.
—William Cullen Bryant.

Boys' Pastimes in Other Lands.

All peoples and tribes, civilized, barbarous, and savage, have games. Some races, however, are proverbially grave and solemn, and their pastimes are in accord with this character; others are naturally lively, and a greater degree of license prevails accordingly in their sports.

The North American Indian is generally believed to be a grim and sober creature, but even he has an eye for fun, and the Indian lads have a game of their own, which they call Baggataway. It is played by a ball of stuffed skin, and a curious bat that looks something like a "hocky," having a net of reindeer hide between the handle and crook of the hocky. The French colonies called the bat a crosse, and in time the game very naturally came to be called "La Crosse." It has now become the national game of the Canadas, and is a popular pastime in the country during the summer and fall.

But the Indian boys play it all seasons of the year, in the summer on the green meadows, and in the winter on the ice. When they have a game of Baggataway, they stake out a field hundreds of yards long, and they have a great many players on a side, each having a captain. The game is to start the ball from the centre, and to throw it between the goals. As the Indians play, it is rather a rude game, not a few of the young braves getting knocked down, and sometimes being sadly hurt.

In the long winter evenings when food is plentiful, and everybody is merry, the Esquimau boys play at noo gloo took. This is done by taking a piece of walrus ivory as large as a man's middle finger, piercing it with several holes, and suspending it by a stout sinew string from the roof of the igloo, or hut. The other end is attached by a taut cord to some heavy object on the floor. One of the players then puts up something as a prize—a reindeer coat, or a pair of walrus tusks. The playing party places themselves in a circle around the perforated ivory cylinder, armed with long sharpened sticks, or iron ramrods, with points small enough to pierce the holes. At the shout of "yi! yi!" from the leader, the sport begins. The object of each player is of course to be the first one to thrust his stick through the cylinder. Some times the jobbing and thrusting continues several minutes before any one is successful. Finally, some lucky fellow cries "yi! yi!" and pushes the cylinder aside to show that he is the winner, when the game is at an end.

Another pastime that amuses the Esquimau boys very much, called "reindeer hunting," is a little more violent and exciting. They select a long and gentle slope on a hillside, and place at the bottom a number of reindeer antlers. These are stuck upright in the snow, singly, or in groups, in such a way that a sled well guarded can dash between them without knocking any of them down. The boys gather with their sleds on the top of the hill, each lad having three or four spears, or a bow with as many arrows. They start together down the hill, each boy's object being to knock down as many antlers as possible with his spears or his arrows. Down, down, they go, and as soon as a boy is within effective shooting distance he begins to discharge his arrows, or throw his spears. Even after his sled has passed the antlers, an exceptionally skillful lad will turn round on his sled and bring down an antler by a bolt. When they have all reached the bottom of the hill, they retire to the rows of antlers, where each boy selects his prize, and places it by itself. If any of the antlers have been accidentally knocked down by the sledges, they are reset, and the boys proceed to the top of the hill for another dash, and so they continue until all the antlers have been "speared."

The Pacific islanders are the most expert of all people in swimming and aquatic games. The most popular pastime indulged in by the young folks of these islands is the hardy sport of surf flying. The Hawaiian lad practices this sport upon a surf board, which he calls papa he nalu—"wave sliding board." It is made of fine light wood, equal in length to the swimmer's height, about a foot wide, and is preserved with the greatest care. Sometimes the swimmers play in the measured surges that beat upon the sand beaches of the bays. But oftener they choose a spot where immense billows driven in by the trade winds, break furiously upon a rocky coast. Each boy taking his swimming board under him plunges into the surf, and strikes out for the deep water half a mile or so from the shore, diving under the great waves until he arrives at the calm water outside the reef. There he waits, lying flat upon his board for the big wave that he knows will come in regular succession. When it comes he allows himself to be launched forward with inconceivable velocity toward the shore. A score of his companions, rushing madly onward with him. Forward, forward, through the swirl and the foam he rushes, till he is within a single board's length of the scarred and blackened lava cliffs, when with an almost imperceptible backward movement of his hands, he retreats into the heart of the wave, and presently he is seen making his way again into the surf to mount another billow.

The Thibetans have a pastime somewhat akin to tobogganing, that they indulge in at the season of lama carnival. A long cable twisted of leather thongs is stretched from a high point in the battlements of Patala, the palace temple of the Grand Lama at Lhasa, slanting down to the plain, where it is strongly moored. Down this huge hypothenuse the young folks and the men slide from top to bottom. But they use no sled. Lying on the chest, which is protected by a breastplate of strong leather, and spreading their arms as if to swim, they descend with the rapidity of an arrow's flight. The Grand Lama himself is always a witness of this performance, which is called the "dance of the gods." Occasionally fatal accidents occur, but the sport is none the less popular on that account. The pastime prevails more or less over the whole Himalayan plateau, and is known in the neighborhood of the Ganges as Barat.

The national sport of the Fiji Islanders is the swing. A tree is selected on the banks of a deep stream, a lake, or the ocean, and to it is fastened a number of lengths of native-made rope, with long loops in the free end. Placing a foot in one of these loops, the little Fijian swings off through the arc of a circle of fifty or sixty feet in diameter. When he reaches the extreme end of the rope, and while still suspended high in the air, he lets go of the rope, falling with a splash into the water. Both sexes indulge in the game, which is an innocent diversion, and wholly free from any risk to life or limb.

Among the outdoor amusements of boys in China, that of kite flying is carried to a degree of perfection unseen in any other country. The kites are made in a variety of forms, as of birds, butterflies, or fishes; and the flyers often try their skill in bringing down each other's kites, in imitation of hawking. Football is another favorite pastime; and a game called jang, which is of very ancient date, and is played with two wooden toys in the form of a pair of shoes, one of which is placed on the ground, and its fellow thrown from a distance, the object being to insert one within the other. He who succeeds in doing so is the winner.—Fred Myron Colby, in Our Young Folks.

Women as Telegraphers.

In the work of receiving and sending messages women do equally as good work as men, writes John B. Taltavall in the July Ladies' Home Journal. They may not be capable of such phenomenal bursts of speed as the male telegraphers, but at the same time extraordinary speed is not so much an element of success or necessity as accuracy and the ability to maintain a fair average rate. They perform really creditable work, and a great point in their favor is their reliability. As yet women have not been successful in the handling of press reports. Day and night the Associated Press and the United Press send many thousands of words to the newspapers in all parts of the country, and the wires are almost exclusively in charge of men. The immense amount of matter to be handled necessitates a very high rate of speed, forty eight words a minute being maintained for hours at a stretch. A woman's strength is hardly equal to such a task. Since the introduction of typewriters into the telegraph offices, women have taken kindly to the machines, and in their use have become proficient. The typewriter reduces the labor very materially.

Care of Umbrellas.

"The wise man always carries an umbrella," is a well known old saw, said an umbrella manufacturer, and it is not a bad one, either; but the wise man who carries an umbrella is still lacking in wisdom if he doesen't place it, when it is wet, handle downward to dry. Show me an umbrella that has holes worn in the silk about the ring at the top, while the material is still intact throughout, and I will show you an owner of an umbrella who doesn't deserve to own one, not if it is a good one; and show me an umbrella that has holes in it along the ribs before natural use of it should make them come there, and I will show you an owner who carries his umbrella more for the sake of appearance than for utility.

A wet umbrella placed handle down drips the moisture from it at the edges of the frame, and the material with which it is covered dries evenly, and leaves no spot still soaked with water. If it is stood handle upward the water runs down to one spot at the top, where the strong cloth lining about the ring holds a good deal of it, and in a comparatively short time rots the material, and it breaks easily.—Exchange.

Cheerful Service.

A gentleman once met a little girl carrying a big baby boy on her back on a hot summer day along a dusty country road. Her face was glowing with heat, and her hair was flowing in the summer wind. The gentleman was struck with the romping, fresh child, but thought she was overburdened. He stopped her and asked if the baby was not too heavy. She looked up through a mist of golden hair and a wave of smiles, and said, "Oh, he is not the least heavy, he is ma brither." Love was the spring that made her burden light, her duty well done. If we love others we shall find no hardship in serving them.—Exchange.

Many bodily ills result from habitual constipation, and a fine constitution may be weakened and ruined by simple neglect. There is no medicine for regulating the bowels and restoring a natural action to the digestive organs, equal to Ayer's pills.

Railroad Jack.

THE STORY OF AN INTELLIGENT DOG.

Railroad Jack is attached to the railway mail service, and has a roving commission. He is about seven years of age, and ever since his second year he has been one of the greatest travellers of this country. Jack has a great fondness for mail-bags. He never cares long for any particular one, but seems to have an idea that the entire business is under his charge, and he is perpetually travelling about to make sure that everything goes right. Jack hails from Albany, and his name in private life is Owney; but Railroad Jack is his travelling name, and the one that has become famous. He wears a broad leather collar, which has attached a nickel plated badge reading, "Post office Owney, Albany, New York"; but beyond this distinguishing mark, Jack is a citizen of the entire country. Albany, however, is very proud of her representative, and Jack condescends to make his headquarters there, where there is a special apartment for his use.

Five years ago Jack made his first trip. He went to Boston by way of the Boston and Albany Railroad, and since that time has always regarded that route with special favor. His experience happened in this manner: A certain mail-bag in the Albany Post office took his fancy, and when the bag was carried to the station, Jack went along with it. When it was thrown into the baggage-car, Jack followed, and he stuck by that particular bag until it reached the Boston post-office. This done, Jack's attachment was over, and that very same night he took another mail-bag under his protection, and saw it safe to its destination in Maine.

As this was Jack's first trip, he was not acquainted along the lines, and for three weeks he was unheard from. Then he walked into the Albany post-office one day, wagging his stumpy tail, and saw that a certain bag was all right. Everybody was much amazed over his wonderful trip, but it turned out to be a mere run around the block compared with his later travels. The fondness for roving was awakened in Jack's heart, and a short time after he went away again, and was absent two months. The men that knew him regarded him as lost this time without doubt; but one day they read in a paper that Jack had arrived in New Orleans. He was identified by his collar, and for the first time Jack began to receive newspaper notoriety.

Then he left New Orleans, stopping over here and there when it pleased him, and by degrees he travelled the length of the country. And where do you suppose he ended this wonderful journey? Away up north, at St. John, New Brunswick. There is no doubt of the truth of this, for the newspapers kept track of him all the way, and he became famous. Just think of this wonderful dog going that distance by himself! Since that time he has been to San Francisco, and has covered the entire length and breadth of the United States. He has visited nearly every large city in the country, and has gone through the Eastern States so often that every railroad postal clerk knows him.

Jack is a thorough Yankee in his tastes, and decidedly independent, but seems to like the East the best, especially the Boston and Albany Railroad, upon which he made his first trip. He is never molested, but allowed to do as as he pleases, and is always well treated. It would not be well for any outsider to meddle with the bags Jack has in charge, and Jack seems always to know what man has the right. He was in a wreck once, and was thought to have been killed; but when the mail-bags reached their destination, Jack was with them. A little while ago he paid a flying visit to New York, and then started East again, where he is probably now travelling.—Harper's Young People.

Tutt's Tiny Pills

To cure constipation purging the bowels should be avoided; it weakens their power of motion. A gentle aperient effect is only required. Tutt's Tiny Liver Pills are prepared with special views to the permanent cure of COSTIVENESS and HEADACHE.

They are mild and remain in the system until they act on the liver, cause a natural flow of bile and their tonic properties impart power to the bowels to remove unhealthy accumulations. Good appetite and digestion result from the use of these little pills. Price, 25c. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR

A POLICY

—IN THE—

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, - - RALEIGH, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - - Baltimore, Md.

THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK

THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.

The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.

Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.

If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers,

H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

YOUR SUNDAY-SCHOOL
WILL NEED
NEW BOOKS THIS SEASON.

We can Supply all Your Wants in this Line Promptly and at Publishers Lowest Prices.

OUR NEW SPECIALTIES:

Class Book and Report (five years), - - 25c. Teachers' Bibles (Oxford or Bagster), $2 to $10.

NEW SINGING BOOKS:

Master's Praise, cloth bound, by mail, - - - - - 35c.
Manly's Choice, music edition, by mail, - - - - - 40c.
Manly's Choice, word edition, by mail, - - - - - 12c.
Notes of Triumph, round or shape notes, by mail, - - - 35c.
Work and Worship, round or shape notes, by mail, - - - 35c.

ANY SINGING BOOKS, PER DOZEN, BY EXPRESS, $3.60.

SEND YOUR ORDERS TO
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.
Complete Catalogue of Sunday-school Supplies free.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.

All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers' prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.

Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS, WAGON-MAKERS, PAINTERS, MILL-MEN —AND— SPORTSMEN'S SUPPLIES.

HARDWARE,

LIME, PLASTER, CEMENT, HAIR, NAILS, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils, COLORS, GLASS, BELTING, PACKING, FILES, IRON AND STEEL.

Raleigh, N. C.

BELLOWS, VISES, ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

Sash, Doors, Blinds.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

SUMMER —AND— ALL KINDS —OF— HARDWARE FOR EVERY ONE.

Raleigh, N. C.

Saws, Twines, Fish Hooks, Etc.

Paints, Oils, Varnishes.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1892. Number 10.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Memorial Sermon by Rev. F. H. Jones.

PREACHED AT NEW FRIENDSHIP CHURCH, FORSYTH COUNTY, N. C., JULY, 1892, AT THE DEDICATION OF A HOUSE OF WORSHIP BUILT IN MEMORY OF REV. WM. TURNER, WHO HAD BEEN PASTOR OF SAID CHURCH FORTY YEARS.

Text—"And they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus."—Acts 4: 13. Read 1 Kings 8: 12 to 66.

Every teacher leaves his impress upon his pupil. The views, the theories, the principles and the habits of the pupil are very much the same as those of the teacher. His style, diction or manner of address partake largely of the character of his teacher. The pupil carries his teacher about in him; in other words, the teacher lives in his pupil.

Principals of high schools, professors of colleges, and those who are at the head of our higher institutions of learning, are, therefore, very anxious to retain their pupils a sufficient length of time to make them accurate and thorough in all they have studied, so that each pupil may become a proper representative of his teacher and a correct exponent of the school in which he has been taught. Plato was the pupil of Socrates, and his views on almost every subject were precisely the same as the teachings of Socrates. Pyrrhus was with Alexander a great part of the time of his career as a commander of armies, and was, after the death of Alexander, his successor. He was an admirer of Alexander; he understood his tactics, embraced his plans, and caught his spirit. So that Alexander may be regarded as his military teacher. And did he not leave his impress upon his pupil?

Rollins says: "When we behold Pyrrhus fighting his battles we may think ourselves spectators of the vivacity, intrepidity and martial ardor of Alexander."

The fact to which we allude is no truer of any teacher in all the universe than of him whose precious name is mentioned in our text—Jesus. He was a teacher of divine appointment. At his transfiguration, God recognized him as his son and as our teacher. Hence he said, "This is my beloved son, hear ye him." He was a teacher who came from heaven and was perfect in all his ways. He gathered around him those who had been prepared by the teachings of John to receive him, and also others who had been converted under his own ministry; told them to take his yoke upon them and learn of him. They followed him from place to place. He gave them mighty exhibitions of his power, remarkable displays of his wisdom and wonderful manifestations of his divinity. He instructed them in every truth and on every subject pertaining to their work and well-being in time, and to their happiness in great eternity. Peter and John, to whom reference is had in the text, witnessed his transfiguration, were present when he agonized in the garden, saw him crucified, saw him after he rose from the dead, witnessed his ascension, were instructed to teach all nations and to preach to every creature. Peter began this work on the day of Pentecost, and three thousand were converted under his first sermon. Soon thereafter he and John were going into the temple at the ninth hour, it being the hour of prayer. As they passed along they healed the impotent man who was at the gate of the temple. And he rose up and went with them into the temple, walking, leaping and praising God. The people asked by what power, or in whose name, was the impotent man made whole? Peter told them that it was not by his power or by John's power that this man was cured, but by the power of Christ he had been made whole. "Yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all."

As they preached Christ to those who came near, five thousand believed. The priests, the captain of the temple and the Sadducees being grieved that they taught the people and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead, they laid hands on them and put them in hold (prison) until next day, for it was now eventide. The next day Peter and John were brought before the Jewish Sanhedrin and were asked how the impotent man was made whole. Peter again told them it was through Christ: urged upon them the importance of receiving Christ and said, "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." And we are told, "When they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled and took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus."

Jesus had left his impress on these two disciples. They were so much like Christ in their teaching, and in the spirit they manifested, that the members of the Jewish court were impressed with the fact that they had been with him and learned of him. And was not this true in an eminent degree of the godly man to whose memory this excellent house has been erected? In the homes he visited, upon the minds of the people with whom he conversed, and to whom he preached, he left the impression that he had been with and learned of Jesus.

I. The great work of the christian is to show that he has been with Jesus.

1. This truth is taught by precept.

In the one hundred and fifth Psalm David says, "Make known his deeds among the people." That is, what you have seen and learned of Christ you must make known to others. The cities around Jerusalem were built on the hill-tops and could be seen by all in the surrounding community. So Christ would have his people stand up and above the world in christian morals, that their light and influence may be felt and seen by all in the surrounding country. Christ said to his disciples, "Ye are the light of the world, men do not light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, that it may give light to all that are in the house; therefore, let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

Christians are light reflectors for Christ. The sun in the solar system is the source of all natural light and heat. The moon and stars receive their light from the sun and reflect it upon the earth. So, Christ is the source of all spiritual life and light. Believers act as the moon and stars. They receive and reflect the light of Christ upon this world, covered by the darkness of sin, and thus they light up the way of the sinner to the cross, and through the cross to heaven.

2. The examples of the earthly christians illustrate this fact.

After the Jews had conversed with the man to whom Christ had given sight, they were impressed with the fact that he had been with Jesus and was one of his disciples. Hence they said, "Thou art his disciple, but we are Moses disciples. We know that God spake unto Moses, as for this fellow, we know not whence he is."

After Andrew saw Jesus and talked with him, he met his brother Peter, and said to him, "We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted, the Christ. And he brought him to Jesus." John 1: 41, 42.

After Phillip had followed Jesus for a season, he met Nathaniel and said unto him, "We have found him of whom Moses in the law, and in the prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph."

"Nathaniel said, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Phillip saith unto him, Come and see." John 1: 43, 46.

Nathaniel went, was converted, and acknowledged Christ, saying, "Thou art the Son of God; thou art the king of Israel." John 1: 49.

The woman of Samaria brought many of her friends to Christ by saying, "Come and see a man that told me all things that ever I did." John 4: 29. They were convinced that she had been with Jesus; were induced to go and see him, and seeing him, they believed, and became his followers. The conduct of Paul, Silas and Timothy while at the house of Lydia was such as to impress the people with the fact that they had been taught by Christ, and that he had sent them forth to teach the people the way of life. Hence the young damsel exclaimed, "These are the servants of the most high which show unto us the way of salvation." Acts 16: 17.

How much like Andrew, Phillip, Timothy, Paul and Silas, was our lamented brother Turner. Wherever he travelled and preached, he made the impression that he was a servant of the Most High God, and that God had sent him forth to show unto the people the way of life.

II. What will help us to make this impression?

1. A strict adherence to the truth.

Aristotle, a Grecian philosopher, was asked what a man gained by uttering a falsehood. He said, "To be discredited when he utters the truth." Aristotle was right. When a person has established the reputation of uttering falsehoods the people do not know when to rely on what he says, though he may sometimes speak the truth. He is, therefore, seldom believed.

Petrarch, an Italian poet, when about to qualify as a witness in court was addressed by the judge as follows: "As for you, Petrarch, your word is sufficient." It should be thus with all professed christians. If we have the confidence of those around us, we cannot retain it if we do not adhere to the truth, much less will we convince them that we have been with Jesus. Two little girls were baptized at the same time. One was not very careful about telling the truth. She would equivocate and prevaricate, magnify and exaggerate. The people doubted her conversion; they were not sure she had been with Jesus. The other little girl always spoke the plain truth. All the people had confidence in her. One lady said, "I would as soon take that little girl to be a christian as any of the eight who joined the church when she did." Another said, "She has been with Christ, and has felt the power of God in her little heart."

Bro. Turner illustrated this christian virtue in his life. He always aimed to speak the truth, and was scrupulously careful about making false impressions. He sometimes preached on the sin of lying. I heard him on one occasion as he showed its results in this life and in the world to come, and the people were greatly moved as he repeated with great emphasis and power the text, "All liars shall have their portion in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone." His hatred to lying and love of the truth added strength to his character.

2. It will help you in this work to be faithful in meeting your obligations and in fulfilling your promises.

Never subscribe to build a school house, a meeting house, to missions, to support the pastor, or any object, without intending to meet your obligation. Never suffer your name to go on a merchant's book, or to a note, without intending to pay. Promptness in meeting our pecuniary obligations will inspire the people with confidence in us. But the world will not believe that piety exists where honesty is unknown. You can find some honest people who are not christians, but you will not find a christian who is not honest. It has been said that "an honest man is the noblest work of God." This was a prominent feature in the character of brother Turner. He was very particular about fulfilling all his promises; prompt and faithful in meeting all his pecuniary obligations. The brother who delivered his funeral address said, "Now if we had the world full of just such men as this man was, we should not have any more financial panics, trusts and monopolies; we should not have any more combines of men for the purpose of cheating and defrauding their fellow-men." Such was the confidence of the people in brother Turner's faithfulness in financial matters that he could have gotten credit for any reasonable amount at any place where he was known. Now if we are all as particular as he was, in fulfilling our promises and in meeting our pecuniary obligations, it will help us to convince the people we have been with Jesus.

3. Holy boldness is also an element of success in the christian life.

We should preach an obey the truth at all hazards. This trait was prominent in the characters of Peter and John. They had not enjoyed the advantages of education and culture in early life. They were preaching an unpopular doctrine, "Christ a crucified and risen Saviour." By so doing they knew they subjected themselves to persecution and death. They were threatened and commanded not to preach or teach in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John said, "Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye; for we cannot but speak the things we have seen and heard." And they prayed, saying, "Grant unto thy servants that with all boldness they may speak thy word." They were not deterred by a desire to be popular, by the threatenings of their enemies, nor by the fear of persecution and death; but in preaching the truth they evinced a moral heroism that secured the respect and esteem of all around them. Hence we are told that when the Jewish council "saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus."

What was the character of our deceased brother in this particular? Did he fail to declare the truth for fear of antagonizing some one's opinion; for fear of opposition; or of being made unpopular? Nay, verily. But he preached what he conceived to be the truth, regardless of the surroundings. Therefore those who were made christians and Baptists under his preaching were made so not by convenience but from conscientious convictions of the truth.

Brother Turner could have truthfully made Paul's declaration to the elders, his closing words to the people at all his places of preaching, namely, "I am pure from the blood of all men, for I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God." He preached the truth, but did it in the spirit of kindness and love. The young ministers of the present day would do well to catch his spirit and copy his example in this as well as in other things.

4. Spiritual-mindedness and a godly conversation are great auxiliaries in christian work.

Peter speaks of a time when all earthly things shall be dissolved and pass away, and says, "Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness." The same apostle exhorts the christian wife to win her ungodly husband to Christ by her godly conversation. He says, "As he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation." Again Paul says, "Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ." Godly conversation grows out of spiritual-mindedness. If, then, we are spiritually-minded, we shall not find it difficult to be upright in our walk, and godly in our conversation. One could not associate with Elder William Turner, even for a short time, without receiving the impression that he was a spiritually minded man. When I was just starting on the christian life, I spent a night at his home in Waughtown. He talked to me about the cause of Christ, about the Scriptures, my conversion, baptism, and my impressions to preach. His conversation was so much about heavenly things, his spirit was so kind, and his advice so good, that I felt I had met a man of God. He helped me in my christian life; he strengthened my faith; and he aided me in deciding whether I was called to preach the gospel.

Paul's expression, "They that are after the spirit do mind the things of the spirit," was illustrated in the life of our beloved brother. Oh, that we had more men and ministers like Bro. Turner in this particular! More spiritually-minded brethren and sisters who would help the young as they are starting in the christian life. This is another way to convince the world we have been with Jesus.

5. Have your heart full of the Holy Ghost.

What was the secret of the success of the prayer-meeting and Peter's sermon on the day of Pentecost? "They were all filled with the Holy Ghost and spake as the spirit gave them utterance." When Peter preached the sermon under the influence of which five thousand were converted and the Jewish council were so powerfully impressed, Luke tells us he was filled with the Holy Ghost. And was not this one of the secrets of Bro Turner's power as a preacher? The brother who made such a beautiful and appropriate address on the occasion of his burial, told us he had learned from Bro. Turner that it was his custom to commune with God in secret prayer at least three times every day. I heard him say if he could have his preference he would talk very little to the people before preaching, because he preferred going from his knees in his closet directly into the pulpit. This was another secret of his power. He came to his congregation with his heart warmed by heavenly fire, with his words sharpened by the power of God, with his thoughts seasoned with an unction from the Holy One, and with his whole being imbued with the directing, comforting, and saving power of the Holy Spirit. Let prayer-meeting conductors, Sunday-school teachers, pastors, evangelists and preachers of all kinds, and all who attempt to do anything for Christ and humanity, like Peter and John, Paul and Turner, seek the power of the Holy Spirit to help them in their work.

6. Cherishing and manifesting the spirit of love will also aid us in leading the world to Christ.

Christ says, "These things I command you that ye love one another." So it is not only our privilege to love God and his people, but also our duty. In proportion as we cherish and manifest this spirit, in like proportion do we show that we have been with Christ and are his disciples. Christ said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one for another."

Dr. Doddridge asked his little girl why everybody loved her. She replied, "I love everybody." And was not this the reason so many loved our departed brother? He was so full of kindness and love he drew the people to him wherever he went. This enabled him to wield such a wonderful influence on them for good.

A great philosopher once had a little boy dying. He took his little hand and said, "Darling, do you love me?" His son answered, "Yes; but I love Jesus more." This led the philosopher to Christ.

Love was the ruling passion of Bro. Turner's heart and the chief ornament of his life. He was converted before he reached his twentieth year, and entered upon the duties of the ministry when a young man. He travelled and preached extensively. He had been pastor of churches in Davidson, Yadkin, Davie, Forsyth, Guilford, and perhaps in other counties. He, perhaps, generally had the largest congregations of any minister who preached in these counties in his day. Many, (I do not know how many, perhaps thousands), professed under his ministry. About one thousand of these he baptized with his own hands. I am under the impression that he preached more funerals and married more people than any minister in North Carolina in his day. He was very popular, and was sent for "far and near."

Rev. J. B. F. Mays, who heard him preach several sermons at Enon, said to me, "William Turner in some respects is the best preacher I ever heard. I wish I could preach as well as he does." Rev. R. H. Griffith, who was pastor of the Baptist church in Charlotte, N. C., for several years, and who labored with Bro. Turner in several meetings, when speaking of him said, "Bro. Turner has a vein of piety running through his heart as big as my arm." The first time I saw him and heard him preach was at Island Ford, Yadkin county, N. C. His sermon was logical, strong, pathetic, full of scriptural quotations, and made a deep impression on the congregation. Most of us were in tears while he preached. One man accepted Christ during the sermon. He went to Bro. Turner when he closed and said, "I have been seeking Christ twelve years; you have been with him and have shown him to me to day as I never saw him before."

He preached my only sister's funeral. He was tender and very helpful to us in our bereavement. I was with him in meetings of days at Jersey, Abbott's Creek, Summerfield, Waughtown, New Friendship, White Plains, and perhaps at some other places. I rarely ever met him, talked with him, and heard him preach that I was not impressed with my own unworthiness, felt like I wanted to be better, and said as I went away from him, "I wish I was as good as Bro. Turner." He trusted in Jesus for salvation, and combined in his life the six elements suggested in the lesson of to-day as contributing to the strength of christian character, and as aiding us in leading the world to Christ. These made him the meek, humble, Christ like, godly man and strong preacher that he was. May we not conclude that what Daniel said is true of him, "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever."

I loved him as I have loved few men on earth. A prince in Israel has fallen. Let us follow him as he followed Christ. It seems to me you could have shown your appreciation of him and your gratitude to God for him in no better way than by erecting this excellent and beautiful house to his memory.

Quietness.

It was autumn time. An educated christian lady, warned by the rapid progress of disease, resigned her place as instructor in a ladies' seminary, and returned home to die. No medical skill could avail. The unwasting love of a mother might soothe the sufferer, but could not arrest that fever which was daily consuming vital force. Each symptom was tenderly watched with alternations of hope and fear; at one time the varying changes giving encouragement, at another causing painful apprehensions of a speedy departure.

One Sabbath day, as the mellow light of autumn crept softly into the sick chamber, the patient sufferer called her sister to her bedside. She said: "I do not know how soon the end will come; but there is one thing that has given me trouble. It is the quietness—almost unconcern—with which I view the future. I cannot understand it. Surely, my heart ought to be always engaged in prayer; but it is not so. I seem to be resting, with only an occasional thought of death. This freedom from solicitude about myself and spiritual things gives me concern. Why should it be so? Even as I recall the mercies of God, I seem not to be moved in an unusual way; the love of Jesus is no more than I enjoyed in health; the Bible is the same as before. I seem to be quietly resting—that is all. Is this right, or am I mistaken as to my religion, after all these years of profession? The Bible was forthwith opened; and such passages as these were read: "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me, and ye shall find rest unto your souls;" "In quietness and confidence is your strength;" "The work of righteousness shall be peace, and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever;" "The ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price," etc. It was given her while listening to such Scriptures to see a new meaning in spiritual quiet; all that the heart was expected to do was to "be still" before the Lord. Now the light broke upon her soul, producing an increased peace. It was no longer a temptation to her that she could not always enter with intense earnestness into the prayers offered in her sick room. She now began to realize the blessed privilege of quietness in sickness. Why should she grow faint? The Lord was her keeper; he was at her right hand; the floods could not overwhelm her; she knew whom she had believed, and that he was able to keep that which she had committed unto him. The hour of departure came, finding her still resting—an hour so welcome to the waiting child of God. It came, as does the close of a beautiful autumn day, crowned with golden fruitage, calm in loveliness, as the autumnal sun gently sinks away behind the hills—so she died in quiet peace. Heaven burst upon her view. "Thine eyes shall see Jerusalem, a quiet habitation, a tabernacle that shall not be taken down."

Here is a lesson for us all. If in life we are wholly devoted to God, the end is always the same. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." Our Saviour will say to us in our failing strength, "My peace I give unto you."—Journal and Messenger.

We see the statement frequently made of the effects of a sermon: "He captured the audience." The question forces itself on us: Did the preacher capture the audience for himself, or for Christ? There is much of both of these businesses going on. Men are striving to capture audiences for Christ; this is a difficult and unpopular work. Others capture the audience for themselves. Quite another business is this capturing audiences for ourselves than for Christ. It is well for the newspaper to give the praise to the men who capture the audience for themselves. So they have their reward, but it is not of God.—Nashville Advocate.

The daughter's purity is safe whose christian mother shares every secret of her heart; that son's character is hedged about, who has for his most confidential friend a christian father. They are in danger who wear a mask in the presence of kind parents, and uncover the heart and inner life only to those who have no right to such confidences. —United Presbyterian.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

CHILDREN IN PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

Some allusion in these columns has been made to the above subject, but the matter is one of such importance as to deserve separate discussion. It is the custom of a large majority of our churches to hold protracted meetings annually, and oftener if the needs of the congregation seem to demand. At these meetings the children of course attend, and it is a question of no little interest what part of the preaching, praying, exhorting, and general work of the meeting, if any, should be directed to their special benefit. So far as church members are concerned, there is danger of their adopting, in regard to children attending such meetings, one of two extremes. One is to ignore almost entirely the presence of the children, and to make no effort whatever to reach them; the other is for the preacher and parents, Sunday-school superintendents, Sunday-school teachers, and all to unite in a regular and systematic effort "to work them in" the church. Like most other extremes, each one of the above, so far as a plan of work is concerned, is wrong in theory and in practice.

There are some good Baptists who, knowing the nature of children, and how prone their susceptible natures are to be stirred by the warmth and excitement of a protracted meeting, and how prone they are to profess religion because their play-mates or school-mates do so, are opposed to the plan of making any effort whatever to reach or influence them during such meetings. To be candid we think that there is force in this reasoning; but still we think that these good brethren are mistaken in holding the opinion that no effort whatever should be made to reach them. Children are indeed tender-hearted, and very susceptible to religious impressions, or what may pass for such. They are undoubtedly very imitative, and if one boy or girl who is quite young professes religion in a protracted meeting, there is an undoubted tendency for his or her play mates to do so, and the influence may spread until nearly every child in the community is reached, and if not restrained, even the little tots of four or five years are strongly disposed to drift into the juvenile current of excitement. There is danger of this in any meeting, and, considering the theory of some denominations as to the wisdom of "opening the door to the children," and that no further need should be felt, by the youthful applicant especially, than the desire to live a christian life, there is imminent danger of filling the churches with unconverted material. We have heard of zealous men of other creeds, sometimes preachers and sometimes laymen, who are in the habit of attending protracted meetings with the special view of working the children into the church. This we think is exceedingly unwise, especially when they are worked in simply to get them under the control of some particular denomination, without any special regard to a change of heart.

The nauseating extreme to which this thing is carried by some denominations will doubtless largely account for the position assumed by some of our brethren, and that is, we repeat, that it is best during protracted meetings to make no effort whatever to reach the children. We think that during such meetings parents, pastors and Sunday-school superintendents act wisely to speak a few words of encouragement to and show proper interest in children that they honestly think are old enough and intelligent enough to understand the plan of salvation, and especially such as show before or during such meeting any real concern about their souls. A failure to do this may be a cause of life-time regret to the parent, not forgetting the fact, however, that over zeal in this direction may act with equal force as a cause of regret. To get little boys or girls into the church and then to let the sad fact dawn on them, and on their parents, that they are unconverted, are often followed by utter indifference, and sometimes by skepticism on the part of the children and regret on the part of parents. Even the youthful heart is much better prepared to receive the truth when it has not been beguiled into a false or premature profession of religion than it is after such profession has been made and the soul thrown into an attitude of false security. Then again the sinner in the church is a hybrid. He is a continual worry to the church; he cannot and will not live the christian life, and he will not go to the world where he belongs. He might, if in a Baptist church, willing or unwilling, but it is a well known fact that he could stay as long as he pleased in some churches if his life approached even common decency.

As to the other extreme, we stand squarely with the great bulk of our people, and contend that there should be no special plan on the part of pastors, parents, Sunday-school superintendents, etc., to reach children during a protracted meeting. Such a plan persistently followed by any people will be the means of filling their churches with unconverted material, and cause those who adopt it no little trouble, and the cause of Christ no little harm, even from those who wish it well. Those who are foolish enough to advocate this plan should never forget that there is a zeal not according to knowledge; and people are just as liable to that kind of zeal now as in the days of Paul. The false notion that it is wise thus to get children under the influence of the church and thus prevent them, like stray sheep, from going to other denominations would, if pressed to its legitimate results, utterly destroy the New Testament theory that the church of Christ is a receptacle for converted souls, and make it an institution to entrap unwary and inexperienced people, and force them to accept a creed long ago prepared for them by man rather than by God. The feverish haste with which children are hurried into some churches smacks strongly of popery which deprives the child, when incapable of action, of the liberty of choice, and besides exhibits the fact that those who show such haste have often an abiding conviction that some of their principles will not bear the analysis of maturer judgment. If our doctrines will not stand the test of maturer years; if we have so little faith in God as to anticipate him in a work that he alone can do, by a miserable expedient of our own, for fear that he will not do it to suit us, we show not only a want of faith, but also a want of common sense and religion. Ah will the time ever come in the history of the world when man will cease to meddle with his fellow man's conscience, even when that conscience has assumed no abnormal shapes! We live in the glare of the nineteenth century, it is true, but we may see hiding in the shadows that are still left some hideous forms of the past that only await the opportunity to grasp the power they have lost. "Truth crushed to the earth will rise again," and so will error, if we give it half of a chance.

PREACHERS IN POLITICS.

Under this caption, Rev. J. R. Maynard, Morrisville, N. C., says:

"When the Lord called me to preach his gospel, I believe he meant it. I have not yet had any inclination to go into politics. I don't think the gospel and politics mix well together. I tried ten years to get the Lord to excuse me from preaching, thinking perhaps I could do something else better; but I felt 'Woe unto me if I preach not the gospel.' In some way I hope the good Lord will provide for me to continue preaching, and that I shall not have to resort to politics. I would rather repair wagon-wheels, which I sometimes do. Paul made tents for a livelihood. I know I am a weak vessel, but I think the preaching of the gospel is too great a thing for me to engage in politics. Certainly we want good men to conduct the affairs of government; but preachers can't do this, without incurring damage in the estimation of many people."

We have noticed that some of our preachers are becoming very active in politics. Some are running for office, and others are going as delegates to conventions. We are of the opinion that every good citizen ought to go to the polls and aid in putting good men in office, and thus preserve the best interest and prosperity of the country; but we doubt if the best interest of the country demands that preachers of the gospel should assume any such relations to political organizations. We feel quite sure that the cause of Christ is not promoted, but on the other hand is damaged by preachers appearing as active partisans and seekers of public office. Let us render to Cæsar his own, but let us see to it that the sanctity of our churches is not to be invaded nor our work retarded by any worldly organization. This can be done in no other way than by our preachers knowing their places and staying in them.

We take the following extract from a letter of Rev. Dr. M. M. Marshall, Rector of Christ Episcopal church, Raleigh, written to a political manager in this city, assuming, we think, a sound position for the christian minister:

"Speaking only for myself, and without presuming to judge any one who may think differently, I have always acted on the principle that it is unseemly for a clergyman to take a more active part in party politics than to exercise the right and duty of every good citizen to vote."

IT was stated in one of our exchanges last week that Rev. I. N. Phelps of Albany, New York, had been called to Elizabeth City. This is a mistake. The church has extended a call to no one as yet. Mr. Phelps has been preaching for the church the past two Sundays as supply.

QUESTION.

A, being a church-member in regular standing, commits a grievous sin, confesses that he sinned, says he is sorry for it, has prayed over it, and hopes and trusts that God has forgiven him for it, and asks the church to forgive him. Also, he promises, by the help of God, never to commit the sin again. Now this is the first time that A has ever offended the church. What ought the church to do with A? NERO.

ANSWER.—If the sin committed brings reproach upon the church, fellowship should be withdrawn. But if the offence be of such a nature as not to bring reproach upon the cause, and the offender displays the spirit mentioned in the question, his penitence and promise should be accepted as satisfactory, and the matter dismissed from further notice. The skirts of the Lamb's wife, the church, should be kept clean and white, and no member should be kept in the church who has dishonored it by scandalous and reproachful conduct. If, afterwards, the excluded person should convince the church by his manner of life that he was again worthy of membership, and should make application for restoration, let his request be granted.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Dr. Carroll of Chapel Hill has returned from Monteagle, Tenn.

....The church at Greenville has accepted the resignation of Bro. A. D. Hunter.

....Rev. C. W. Cooper will supply the church at Rocky Mount from now till November.

....Dr. Thomas Hume has returned from an extended trip North, to his home at Chapel Hill.

....Revs. W. B. Royall and S. J. Porter are holding revivals in the northern part of the county.

....Prof. J. C. C. Dunford has accepted the presidency of Fairview College, Buncombe county.

....Rev. H. Alfred Bagby of Suffolk, Va., has been called to the Clay street church of Richmond, Va.

....The foundation of the new Baptist church at Oxford is completed and the work is being pushed.

....We are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Rev. A. J. Taylor of Wake Forest College, at Durham.

....Dr. J. J. Hall has returned from his trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and took charge of his church last Sunday.

....Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., delivers his well-known lecture on "Fools" in Elizabeth City on the night of September 1st.

....Rev. J. R. Harrison of Virginia will assist Dr. J. J. Hall in special meetings, commencing the first Sunday in October.

....We were pleased to see Prof. Collier Cobb, the newly elected Professor of Geology in our State University, in our office.

....Rev. J. A. White of Taylorsville, N. C., opens school in the Baptist college building on Sept. 5th, and has a prospect for a fine school.

....Bro. Speight of the Asheville Baptist has changed the form of his paper, and leaves off the D. D. in his title. A decided improvement.

....Rev. J. S. Dill is stopping at San Francisco, Cal., for a while before locating permanently. We hope to publish a letter from him soon.

....Revs. W. S. Ballard and R. T. Vann closed a good meeting at Conoconary last week resulting in two restorations and eleven baptisms.

....We are glad to hear that Rev. J. T. Fletcher formerly of Ashe county, N. C., is getting along so well in his adopted home, Edge Water, Va.

....Rev. H. R. Hawthorne, son of Dr. J. B. Hawthorne of Atlanta, has been called to the pastorate of Hebron church, Nelson county, Virginia.

....Rev. W. J. Fulford assisted Rev. K. Barnes in a meeting at Piney Grove, South Carolina, week before last, resulting in ten additions to the church.

....Rev. S. D. Swaim writes: "The most of the churches in our Association (Eastern) have been feasting upon the riches of God's grace during the last few weeks."

....Prof. J. H. Simmons of William Jewell College has returned to Liberty, Missouri, after a pleasant vacation spent at the home of his mother at Wake Forest.

....Dr. Peyton Hoge has declined the professorship in Union Theological Seminary, Virginia, and will remain in Wilmington. A new and strange proceeding.

....Dr. Hawthorne, who has been filling the pulpit of the First church, Richmond, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Cooper, preached his last sermon there Sunday.

....We were glad to see Pres. T. M. Hufham of Mars Hill College in our office last week. We learn that the prospect for his school for the coming year is excellent.

....Dr. R. R. Overby and Rev. A. W. Burfoot closed a good meeting at Sandy Hook church. Bro. Burfoot did most of the preaching. This is a new church built this year.

....Rev. Jos. Elliott of Hertford writes that he has been baptizing candidates for four consecutive weeks and although his voice is weakening he has planned four more weeks of meetings.

....Rev. Dr. Skinner occupied the pulpit of the First church, Raleigh, on Sunday last. Rev. C. W. Cooper preached at night for the congregation of the Fayetteville Street Church.

... In the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. T. Jenkins, who has been granted a vacation, Rev. M. L. Kesler occupied the pulpit of the Brooklyn Baptist church, Wilmington, last Sunday.

....Prof. H. H. Harris the popular professor of Greek at Richmond College has declined his invitation to Texas, and will remain at Richmond much to the delight of his Virginia friends.

....Rev. F. H. Martin of Lumberton, this State, is aiding Rev. Mr. Reams of the Buckingham Baptist church of Gold Hill, Va., in a protracted meeting. Thus far there have been several conversions.

....Rev. M. C. Walton and Rev. S. D. Swaim held a revival at Lisbon church, Sampson county, the second week in August, and as a result twenty-three were baptized into the fellowship of the church.

....Rev. O. L. Stringfield spent last week in a good meeting at Inwood, this county. We are informed that Bro. Stringfield baptized ten on Sunday last, and that about twenty had made a profession of faith.

....The Index of August 8th reports the rumor that Dr. E. W. Warren of Macon, Ga., is in a dying condition at his home in that city. The hearts of Baptists in and out of Georgia will be sad at this announcement.

... If the Chicago Seminary is to be a part of the new University, and the views of President Harper about inspiration are to be taught, then the young men had better stay away from Chicago.—J. W. P., in Baptist Courier.

....Rev. T. J. Taylor of Warrenton reports a very good meeting at Brown's church week before last. Eleven were baptized and others will follow. On account of sickness Bro. Taylor was compelled to close the meeting earlier than was intended.

....Dr. P. S. Henson, of Chicago, is engaged to preach the dedicatory sermon of the South Side Baptist church, Birmingham, Ala., Sunday September 11th prox., and to deliver one of his famous lectures Monday following.—Baptist and Reflector.

....Our types had it that the Feast and Broom Drill given by the Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society of the Aulander Baptist church would take place the 14th of September. It should have been the 1st of September. We thank them for an invitation.

....We call attention to the advertisement of the Baptist Sunday-school Board in this issue. Their publications have been used all over the South for many years and have always given satisfaction, and their price is so low that any school can afford them.

....We learn from the Oxford Ledger that the members of Mountain Creek Baptist church, Granville county, recently brought their pastor, Bro. C. A. Jenkins, a gift of twenty-three loads of wood. This is a gift the members of this church are accustomed to make every year.

....Dr. J. B. Gambrell has been employed to edit the Guardian, which will hereafter be published in New Orleans. It is said he will also be president of the "Southern Baptist Training Institution," a school intended to be theological. See Bro. Burgess's letter on another page.

....Bro. Broughton of Winston writes that the meeting at his church is progressing finely. Last week was set apart as a week of prayer. Dr. Hall began assisting last Tuesday. The house of worship is about completed, and has a seating capacity as large as any in the city.

....We regret to hear of a painful accident to Rev. E. W. Wooten of Wooten, N. C. He was sitting in a piazza leaning against a post when his chair slipped from under him and threw him out of doors, causing the fracture of two ribs, says the Morning Star, Wilmington.

....Bro. Jno. B. Brewer writes: "The fall session of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute opens on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. It will be best for girls to come the day before. Come via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. All intending to attend the next term should take note of this."

....Rev. E. J. Edwards has resigned his position as travelling agent of the N. C. Baptist, and goes to work this week on Charity and Children. Bro. Edwards made a good agent for the Baptist, and will do much for the good of the Orphanage. Charity and Children is to be congratulated.

....Rev. B. G. Covington, who has been pastor of the Baptist church at Florence, S. C., for the past nine years, resigned Sunday the 14th inst., on account of broken-down health. The resignation was laid on the table for thirty days, and in the meantime Rev. Covington has been granted a vacation.

....The protracted meeting at Providence closed last Sunday. There were several professions of faith in Christ during the meeting. The pastor, Rev. W. H. Wilson, was aided by Mr. J. R. Kallam. Mr. Kallam is a Wake Forest student, and is a promising young man.—Piedmont Herald, Aug. 25.

....The Watchman of August 27th has following pen picture of Rev. W. L. Wright who preached at the Vineyard last week: "Mr. Wright has a striking appearance; he is tall, erect and wiry, has coal black hair and beard, has a keen eye, is strong and virile in speech and full of Southern fire, and his forcible, enthusiastic delivery held the attention of his audience from the start to the finish. The people went away talking of the practical truths spoken."

....We acknowledge receipt of an excellent address, entitled "Christian Young Men," delivered by Rev. Jasper Howell, Jr., at the Y. M. C. A. Hall in Pensacola, Fla. Bro. Howell has spent most of the past summer at Pensacola, and we notice very many complimentary things said about him by the papers of that place.

....We regret very much to hear that Rev. A. T. Denny is very ill with malarial fever at Cool Springs, near Hillsboro. Bro. Denny had just completed his junior year at Wake Forest College last June, and has been holding meetings this summer. We hope and pray that he may be spared to the work for which he has just been so well prepared.

From Wake Forest.

Vacation is nearly ended. One week more and the students will be coming in. How natural it will be to see the chapel filled with young men, to hear the college bell, to enter again the regular but delightful routine of college life. How pleasant to greet again returning students and to welcome new men as they come.

How many will there be? I am frequently asked. No one can tell. I have on my list the names of many new students, and I hear more vaguely of others whose names have not yet reached me. Some are still weighing the question as to whether they will attend college at all or not. Others are undecided as to what college they will attend. If this should happen to fall under the eye of one of the first class, I would like to say to him that I have had hundreds and hundreds of men, young and old, to express to me their joy and gratitude that they had been college students, and that I have never yet known any man to be sorry for it. For the other class I have no words of entreaty. Student-life at Wake Forest we consider a privilege. To it we cheerfully welcome all who are prepared for our classes and who have acquired habits of self-control. Wake Forest, as long as it offers equal advantages with other colleges, seems to be the natural home of a North Carolina Baptist young man. But if one goes elsewhere, we have no quarrel with him. We have had and expect to continue to have large numbers of students every session. And of course it is gratifying to see how wide a field of usefulness the College occupies. At the same time I feel more and more persuaded as the years go by that the reputation best worth having is independent of mere numbers. The test that will reveal the true value of the work of an institution of learning must be qualitative rather than quantitative. And I believe that the twelve Baptist men who constitute the faculty of Wake Forest feel an earnest desire that in faithful and thorough instruction the session of '92-'3 shall be better than any other session in the history of the College. All of the professors are now at the College except Prof. Ferrell, who will arrive within a few days. The health of the town and surrounding country is excellent. Crops are suffering from long continued lack of rain. But as I write it seems as if the blessed showers were about to fall.

C. E. TAYLOR.

Literary.

The Fifth Gospel. By J. M. P. Otts, D. D., LL. D. Author of "Laconics," "Nicodemus with Jesus," ect. Fleming H. Revell Company, publishers, Chicago and New York.

The idea of the author, who is an eminent minister of Alabama, is that the land of Jesus so harmonizes with the four gospels as when rightly understood to be really a fifth gospel. He visited Palestine evidently with this thought in mind, and came back with the conviction that a book could be written which should aid in bringing out a clearer conception of the circumstances under which our Saviour lived and labored, suffered and died. His purpose was not to make an ordinary book of travels, but to follow the footsteps of Jesus over the Holy Land. So he begins with Bethlehem and finishes with Calvary and Mount Olivet. We have found the book really inspiring.—The Baptist.

The Sermon Builder. By Rev. Geo. S. Anderson. Louisville: Baptist Book Concern.

This volume was prepared originally as a series of lectures for the Ministers' Institute at East Lake, Ala. Their purpose is to show the inherent principles which belong to all public discourse. That the work has been well done is shown in the favor with which the volume has been received, a second edition having already been called for. A careful student of the principles named by Bro. Anderson is sure to be helped in his sermon building. The style is clear and strong and we cheerfully commend the book as one likely to be serviceable to all public speakers. Several skeleton sermons given illustrate the principles laid down in the volume. The book may be obtained of the author at Auburn, Ala.—The Baptist.

Trumpet Blasts, or Mountain-top Views of Life. By Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, with an introduction by Rev. Russell H. Conwell. Published by Hubbard Publishing Company. Sold by subscription only.

This book comprises a collection of Dr. Talmage's most famous essays, embracing every variety of subject and treatment, and are wonderful in their vigor and diversity. "The most earnest reasonings, delightful narratives, fearless denunciations of wrong and inspiring appeals for the right," and many instructing episodes of the author's sojourn in the Holy Land are set forth in the well-known preacher's most eloquent manner. All will be benefited by this book; it contains consolation and hope for the old and advice for the young. Taken all in all, it is Talmage's greatest work. The introduction by Mr. Conwell, who is well-known to many of our readers as the author of Conwell's life and works of Spurgeon, is admirably done.

A Tar-Heel Boy at the Louisiana Baptist State Convention.

The Louisiana Baptists met in convention at the Valence Street church, New Orleans, on Friday, Aug. 19th, 1892. Rev. E O. Ware of Alexandria was elected President, and Rev. G. W. Hatfield of Arcadia was elected Secretary and Treasurer.

We were able to be present only a small portion of the time, and thus missed much that was important and highly interesting. Neither will our limited space allow us to give a detailed account of what we heard. Compared with our own Convention, the Louisiana body is a small one, but in earnest consecration to christian duty, they stand well to the front.

Among distinguished visiting brethren, were such men as Revs. D. J. Purser of Birmingham, Ala., J. B. Grambrell of Mississippi, L. L. Morris of Waco, Texas, and our own beloved Tichenor of Atlanta, Ga., and Bell of Richmond, Va. We say our own, for they, indeed, belong in a certain sense to the whole Southern Baptist Convention.

The general routine work, such as all who are familiar with the working of different State conventions would expect, was gone through with in regular order, and among these reports was interspersed much that was new and original, yet withal enjoyable to the purest christian taste. On Sunday, nearly all the Protestant pulpits were filled with Baptist preachers. We hardly knew where to go, but at last we were glad we concluded to stay at the Valence Street church, for Dr. Purser preached in the morning from "I have written to you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one." To attempt description of this sermon, were vain. We only wish that every Baptist—in fact, every man in this whole country who loves the name of Christ—could have listened to just such a sermon.

Dr. Tichenor preached at night, and that statement alone is sufficient reason why we chose to remain at the same church. Text, Acts 4: 32–37 verses. He gave us the deepest exegesis in such plain language that the most ignorant could not fail to understand. He showed us plainly how—far from the design of forming a commune—the early christians sold all they had and laid it at the apostles' feet because of the great crisis—the gathering of those who needed elementary christian instruction before they departed to their several homes. The subject was placed in a clearer light than we ever saw it before.

New Orleans, the crescent city, in which the convention was held, is one of the most beautiful, richest, and yet one of the wickedest cities in the world.

The little band of Baptists here are having a hard, hard struggle, as their brethren throughout the State are also having, but they will, we think, under God, be the means of a great triumph for right.

The times already look brighter and the trusty watchmen of Zion, by faith and certain hopeful signs, already see better times coming.

Last, but not least, there is to be a Theological school on the chatauqua plan established at New Orleans at an early date, under the direction of Drs. J. B. Gambrell, L. L. Morris and others. This is intended specially to benefit active Baptist ministers who have never had advantage of a liberal education.

E. D. B.

Maple Spring's Church.

This church is in Randolph county, and is thirteen miles southeast of Ashboro. It has been my pleasure to help the pastor of this church in a few days' meeting. I am glad to say that, as a minister of the gospel, I have been helped by having met Brother J. M. Leach, the pastor, and Rev. and Bro. John A. Summy. The sermons of Bro. Summy and the exhortations of Bro. Leach were good and strengthening to the church and were blessed of God in the salvation of sinners. These two brethren are doing a great and good work in this part of the State, and may God continue to bless them as preachers of the gospel, and prosper them in their work until all this section of the State shall be developed into the saving truth of the gospel.

The meeting has benefited the church. Some were restored and about eight made a profession of faith in Christ. Three persons were baptized—an old man an two little girls. God be praised for his blessings on the preachers, the church, and for saving sinners in this meeting.

Thanks and christian love are extended to Bro. James Harper and family and to others who treated us so kindly in their homes.

I am now in a meeting with Deep Creek church, Moore county. Rev. K. C. Horner is helping me and is preaching as usual good, truthful sermons. The meeting thus far is encouraging. Several have asked for the prayers of christians. I will give you the results of the meeting when over.

I will go from here to Flint Hill church. Bro. Horner will go with me.

W. A. BARRETT.

August 23d, 1892.

Baptist Grove Church.

Dear Recorder:—The Lord has abundantly blessed one of my churches, Baptist Grove, Harnett county. The meeting commenced on Saturday before the second Sunday in August, and continued for a week. From the start the Lord was with us. The Holy Spirit moved the people, revived the church and touched the hearts of sinners.

More than thirty souls were saved. On Sunday last, I buried twenty-two happy souls in baptism, and received one by letter—in all twenty-three additions to the church.

To God we render all the praise and glory for the work he has done for this people. May the blessings of God be with and upon all his followers.

R. J. BENNETT.

New Hill, Aug. 26, 1892.

Newspaper Experience.

We notice, says the National Baptist, Philadelphia, Pa., that the Baptist Chronicle, Kansas City, Mo., has transferred its subscription list to the Central Baptist, St. Louis. It was established by Revs. Edward Ellis and R. R. Williams, D. D., both able men. After loosing in it thousands of dollars, these brethren sold it to Revs. C. H. DeWolfe and R. P. Stephenson, who in their turn sunk thousands of dollars, and now are compelled to abandon the enterprise. In doing so, these brethren give the result of their experience in words full of significance for readers of religious papers everywhere, which we condense:

There are a good many otherwise worthy people who want to get somthing for nothing, or a great deal for a very little. They seem to think it a desirable point gained if they can succeed in getting their religious paper for twenty-five or fifty cents less than the regular price, when they must know that this amount represents all, or more than all, the profit of the year's subscription. It is a matter of no concern to them how the publisher is to live, when all the profits of his thought and labor are taken from him. In their selfish greed they do not care for the interests and rights of their brother. If by this process, repeated in hundreds of cases, he is reduced to bankruptcy or beggary, it does not concern them. The losses incurred in this way, together with the losses caused by those who, through downright dishonesty, defraud the publisher of his just and hard earned dues, make the successful publication of a weekly paper a doubtful enterprise. One of the crying needs of the times is a revival of honesty among the members of our churches, a revival that will awaken among christians the conviction that to be Christ-like is to be honest and just and upright in the business affairs of life.

The demand for cheap papers is based upon false or ignorant notions of their cost, enforced by the selfishness above alluded to. Those who make this demand, insist that the quality of the material shall be maintained, and that the brains used shall be above the average. The best of everything at less than a living price is the demand of many. We publish the Chronicle at $1.50, when we ought to have had $2, and yet hundreds of our readers seemed to think that they were being defradued to the amount of about fifty cents a year, and were constantly seeking to secure the paper for less than the regular price, and in one way or another many of them succeeded. There could be but one result. Two dollars a year is as cheap as papers of the size and quality of the Chronicle or the Central Baptist can be published, and a decent recompense be made to the publishers. We sincerely hope that no christian man who is disposed to be just, not to say generous, will complain when he is required to pay less than four cents a week for a first-class religious paper.

We are not unaware that there are very good papers published at one dollar per year; but we are not unaware also that they are published at a great loss, with a hope of securing a large list that will ultimately pay the loss, a hope that is very often unrealized.

Meetings Engaged In by Rev. A. W. Crabtree.

Dear Recorder:—I commenced a meeting at the Old Oak Grove Baptist church in Mecklenburg county on the fifth Sunday in July. This church was once Baptist property, but the organization dissolved. I carried on the meeting until Thursday, on which day brethren Austin of Charlotte and Alderman of Concord joined me, and we reorganized the church with fourteen members, and Friday night I broke the meeting, and I will baptize four or five there on the first Sunday in September.

I went from there to Hopewell on the first Sunday in August and stayed five days. One joined for baptism and two were restored, and the church was thoroughly revived.

I left Hopewell on Friday and landed at Arlington on Saturday morning, and ran a meeting for twelve days. The first two days the meeting was cold, but on Monday the house seemed to be filled with the Holy Ghost, and he remained on us for ten days. The result was forty baptized and nine restored. Arlington has something over two hundred members, and they have called me for another year. They think they will have preaching twice a month next year. Bro. D. M. Austin preached three sermons the first of the meeting which left a good impression. They would like to see him back again. I never saw a church so thoroughly at work.

I go to Wilson's Grove to-night to begin a meeting. I pray that we may have a good meeting, for this is the place where John E. King sowed a large a large crop of the seeds of heresy. I hope you will offer a special prayer to God in our behalf.

A. W. CRABTREE.

Hornet, Aug. 26, 1892.

Union and Seven Springs Churches.

Dear Recorder:—I have recently closed two good meetings. The first was at Union church, at which place Rev. A. G. Willcox was with us and preached us some strong gospel sermons. He is a delightful preacher and one of our very best pastors. Twelve were received into the church during this meeting.

SEVEN SPRINGS.

At this point, Rev. A. L. Stough came to be with us, but had to leave after two days on account of the condition of his throat. After he left, we carried the meeting on for several days without ministerial help. The Lord was with us and gave us a great blessing. We organized a church here a few months ago with seven members, and at this meeting it was my pleasure to baptize eight others. Our building is not completed, but it is so we can use it, and the outlook for our cause is hopeful. Will not all who have given me subscriptions for our work here send me the money at once, as we very much need it at this time?

SNOW HILL.

I hope to hold a meeting with this church beginning on the third Sunday in September. Rev. A. D. Hunter is to do the preaching for us. Our Snow Hill people are anxious to establish a field in Greene county, and have a preacher to give his whole time to it.

There are several points that could be occupied with great profit, I think, and with an encouraging outlook to build up a self-sustaining field in a few years. We think that, with the help the Board of Missions would probably give, we might start a good man if he could be had, on a salary of $400 or $500 per year. If there is any brother who feels that he would be willing to undertake the work on this field, I would be glad to have him write to me here in La Grange, or to Prof. J. B. Williams, Snow Hill, N. C.

Rev. Jno. T. Edmundson of Goldsboro, who recently entered the ministry, has been doing fine work, holding meetings in various sections of our Association. He would make a good pastor for some of our vacant churches.

The house of worship at Eureka in Wayne county is nearly completed. Rev. C. J. Nelson who is in his seventy seventh year, has borne nearly all the expense in putting up this house, and it will stand as a monument to his memory long after he shall have gone to his reward. God be praised for such brethren, who not only give themselves but also sacrifice their means, to build up the Lord's Kingdom.

Send Bro. Nelson a subscription to help him in his work.

G. L. FINCH.

La Grange, August 23d 1892.

Why Not to College Now?

In a recent number of the RECORDER appeared an article headed, "Why not to College?" Just along the same line, let me ask, Why not to College NOW?

I believe a great many of our young men make mistakes just at this point. Now I would not for a moment advocate burrying a young man off to College before he is prepared to enter; far from it, but at the same time I do not believe it is best to endeavor to make such preparation as will enable one to graduate at college in two years' time.

In the first place, delays are dangerous, and unless a young man has set his face like a flint toward a collegiate education, there is great danger of his becoming persuaded that he knows enough already without going to college; and it is not infrequently the case that the young man's father, having already been to considerable expense in keeping him at the academy so long a time, becomes persuaded of the same thing. And then, too, the young man frequently begins to teach in the common school and to make a little money of his own, and soon begins to argue that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush; he finds examples of men who have succeeded in making themselves felt in the literary world without a collegiate education, forgetting at the same time that these same men would have accomplished still more had they thoroughly prepared themselves; a longing to get out into the world takes possession of him; and alas! too often is it the case that a pair of bright eyes charms him, and it is needless to say that that young man never gets to college.

In the second place, two years is too short a time to spend at college even if one can graduate in that length of time. It takes a student some time to become used to new surroundings and college methods, for they are quite different from what he finds at the academy. He meets with the same difficulties when he joins one of the societies. And, if in addition to these things, his first year at college is his junior year, there will be a still greater demand on his time, and but little opportunity for reading and digesting what he has read and studied. The next year being his senior year in college, his thesis will demand considerable amount of his time.

And then again, if one puts off going to college until he is getting up in years, his mind is not so vigorous, and he cannot accomplish nearly so much. So, then, I would say by all means prepare yourself before going to college, but just so soon as you have made the needed preparation, waste no time, but go at once.

I simply make these few statements because during the present vacation I found some young men who ought to enter Wake Forest College in September, but who will, I fear, fall victims to some of the mistakes cited above.

J. C. MASKE.

W. F. College, Aug. 26, 1892.

Colored Institute at Magnolia.

The recent colored Institute at Magnolia was interesting and profitable to those who attended it.

Prof. A. W. Pegues is an excellent instructor for his race and well qualified to conduct these Institutes.

While it is impossible to secure the attendance of many of the colored preachers who need such instruction, yet it is a move in the right direction.

We need such Institutes among the white brethren, also.

O. P. MEEKS.

Clinton, Aug. 22, 1892.

Visits to Red Springs Discontinued.

Dear Recorder:—The Baptist church at Red Springs, having secured the services of a resident pastor, as well as teacher for the "Baptist High School" at that place, just opened, our visits as supply pastor for the church will be discontinued in future.

The outlook for our cause at this celebrated watering place is hopeful, and the Rev. Bro. Spence will locate among a most excellent people there. Fraternally,

W. R. HARRELL.

Dunn, Aug. 23, 1892.

The Yadkin Association.

It was my privilege to attend the one hundred and second session of this body, which met with Cross Roads church in Yadkin county. This Association has thirty-four churches and about three thousand members.

Bro. Durham said in his address on the question of Ministerial Education, that the Lord had "plant-beds" from which he drew the preachers and sent them to other fields. The old Yadkin seems to be one of the Lord's plant-beds both for preachers and churches. It has not been many years since the South Yadkin was formed from this body, and some five or six churches went into the Pilot Mountain Association, and yet she has enrolled thirty four churches!

The Yadkin Association covers a fine territory of country—having the old Yadkin river about half encircling Yadkin county, with a number of other large streams flowing through it. It is a grand territory for Baptists—plenty of beautiful streams for baptism, good productive lands, fine and healthy climate, interspersed by mountains and beautiful valleys.

There are some noble spirits in this body, and in the Association there was manifested an aggressive disposition "to lengthen its cords and strengthen its stakes." There is a lack of thorough and effective organization in the Association, which I think in a few years will be corrected.

Several active and thoroughly consecrated young preachers would find here a grand field for usefulness and territory ripe for the gospel sickle. Many of these young churches could be developed and made strong and active bodies. At present they are somewhat behind in benevolence and pastoral support, but with proper leadership would soon advance on all lines.

There was some little friction over the whiskey question, which will be righted by the time they meet again.

The hospitality of the people at Cross Roads was unbounded, and this I may say is characteristic of this Association. They are so kind and sociable that one naturally falls in love with them.

Sunday was a great day for the "Centennial of Missions." After the writer of this had made some observations upon "the Bible on Missions," Bro. Durham, with his map of the world displaying the progress of christianity, held the close attention of his audience for more than an hour. Bro. Durham is held in very high esteem among the Associations, and is growing in the confidence and the support of the people every day.

I have attended three Associations, and so far as I can learn, the third party idea of our denominational work is finding very few followers. The tried sling of David (working through Boards) is better to us than the untried armor of Saul. Put wise and prudent men on the Boards who have the cause of the Master at heart, and we will do a good work. More anon.

S. F. CONRAD.

The "campaign of education" has been in progress for some months, and ought to begin to bear fruit in increased collections for the Boards, and inasmuch as it concerns particularly Foreign Missions, we should naturally look for increased contributions to this object. But what are the facts?

We give a comparative statement of contributions to Foreign Missions from the principal States in the Convention. The first sum named was given from May 1st to August 23d 1891; the second, from May 1st to August 23d, 1892:

	1891.	1892.
Alabama	$ 548 66	$ 948 02
Arkansas	217 29	197 78
Florida	109 50	41 00
Georgia	1,206 10	2,286 84
Kentucky	864 43	922 41
Louisiana	89 09	.....
Maryland	348 17	1,553 02
Mississippi	713 48	546 68
Missouri	2,813 80	1,155 29
North Carolina	939 75	336 55
West. North Carolina	265 24	247 27
South Carolina	2,659 68	1,866 83
Tennessee	1,156 16	776 61
Texas	1,551 57	1,546 16
Virginia	2,657 48	2,100 74

These figures are disheartening and alarming. Alabama goes ahead of last year (we use round numbers) $400; Georgia, $1,000; Kentucky, $50; Maryland, $1,200. But this ends the list of the States increasing their contributions. All the rest are behind last year, and some of them very much behind. For example, Missouri falls short $1,600, North Carolina $600, South Carolina $800, Tennessee $400, Western North Carolina $20, and Virginia $500. This is the year of enlargement, of enthusiasm, of education, of Centennial meetings and speeches, and yet the receipts of the Foreign Board for the States named are more than $1,000 less for the period from May 1st to August 23d than for the corresponding period last year. The Board is now in the banks for nearly $39,000. These facts are full of solemn significance. The money for this great work must come, and must come promptly, and in liberal measure, or the work will be seriously crippled.—Religious Herald.

Meeting at Shiloh.

Dear Recorder:—We closed a ten days' meeting at Shiloh to day. From the beginning, the church seemed willing to work, and we had a good meeting. Some eighteen or nineteen persons professed faith in Christ. Fifteen have been approved for baptism and seven baptized. The church is much revived, and I trust ready to do better work in the future.

Brethren T. J. Hudson and W. J. Sledge, Wake Forest students, helped us in the meeting, and did good work.

Fraternally,

J. R. JONES.

Milton, Aug. 23, 1892.

Baptismal Regeneration.

Why write an article under such a title in this enlightened age? For divers reasons, the so called enlightenment of this age is not so universal as some would have us think. Many are enlightened upon almost any thing and every thing but the Bible. Hence they are not truly enlightened. There is much more religion abroad in the land than real christianity. There is religion and religion, but an appalling lack of christianity. Any one believing that baptism is in any sense necessary to salvation may be very religious, but is in fact an idolater. To trust anything else than Jesus Christ for salvation is idolatry and dishonors Christ. The Campbellite brethren, and some others, believe that baptism applies the work of the Holy Spirit in salvation, thus making it necessary for the Holy Spirit to have help in saving or regenerating a soul—according to their view. While they do not teach that baptism is the primary agent in salvation, they do teach the importance of water as secondary or helping. Now is that not dishonoring God? Jesus Christ is the only Saviour (Acts 4: 12), and the Holy Spirit the only agent or energy in that work (John 3: 8). A great many believe that baptism is necessary to salvation, else why do parents impose the rite they call baptism upon their children? The Bible emphasises the importance of immersion of believers as a christian duty, one of the "works" by which they are to show their faith, voluntarily submitted to as a loving service in the name of a loving Saviour. Surely no intelligent Baptist, who reads the Holy Bible, will hold for a moment that baptism is necessary to salvation, or that it aids the Holy Spirit in salvation! Baptists believe in salvation first, then baptism as a duty.

My reason for writing this article is this: I conducted a meeting at a certain Baptist church, and at the baptism which followed, I embraced the opportunity of reading the passages of Scripture authorizing the ordinance, from Matt. 3: 13—17, and 28: 18—20; Acts 2: 38, 41, 42, and 8: 12, 36, 39; Rom. 6: 1—5; 1 Cor. 15: 12—19, 29, 30. Commenting briefly upon these, I took occasion to say that baptismal regeneration, or salvation, is nowhere taught in the Bible. I stated that the passage of Scripture that looks most like teaching baptismal regeneration is in the last chapter of Mark, 16th verse, and that that ought not to be in our Bibles, because from the eighth verse to the close is not in the oldest manuscripts. Hence that is not divine authority for the doctrine of baptismal regeneration. I was informed afterwards that several objected to what I said about said passage, and seemed hurt if not offended. That is why I write this article, to explain to those wounded brethren. Some of them say I ought not to have said it. Why not? Shall a preacher omit the truth because stating it will hurt somebody? Far be it from me to fail to declare the whole truth. Shame upon any minister that would fail to speak the whole truth for fear of offending. I was sincere in the statement, anxious to state the truth, without the least shadow of a thought of controversy, and was greatly surprised when I heard that objection was raised. But I am glad I made the statement, because if they did not know what I stated, they ought to know. I trust it will lead to a careful study of the Bible. Everybody ought to know that while the verses from the eighth to the close of the last chapter of Mark are in Westcott & Hort's Greek original, these verses, 9—20, are in brackets, showing that Mark did not write them; and the Revised Version states in the margin, that "the two oldest manuscripts, and some other authorities, omit from verse nine to the close."

Now, why should anybody lift up his hands in holy horror at this fact, as if that lessened the authority of Holy Scripture? Nobody need have less confidence in the Bible because men have found out that some little interpolations have crept into the manuscripts by the carelessness of transcribers. Do we not all know that it was more than a thousand years after the Bible was first written before the art of printing was invented? and nobody had a copy of the Scriptures only as it was copied from a copy in possession of some one else, or from the original copy in possession of the church of Rome? A strong argument in favor of divine protection of the Book is the fact that so few of these interpolations crept in, and that the original copies have been preserved. None of the few that did get in, affect the plan of salvation in the least. God protected the Bible and kept out baptismal regeneration by preserving these "oldest manuscripts."

M. J. W.

In Greensboro at Work.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We have gotten settled down to work at last, and we are pleased with the place, people and prospects. The people have been very kind in their attention, and in filling our pantry with many needful things. The work begins with bright promises and we hope to see the cause going forward and prospering.

It was a sad struggle to leave the dear people in Elizabeth City, but I hope to soon know and love the people of Greensboro as dearly as I loved them.

"The Welcome Service" on Sunday afternoon, which was participated in by the various preachers of the town, was very cordial and pleasant to the new pastor and I hope, profitable to the people.

The weather is hot and dry, and there is much sickness among the people.

May the Lord bless the RECORDER and its editor.

Your friend and brother,

CHAS. A. G. THOMAS.

Greensboro, August 8, 1892.

Next week Rev. J. W. Rose will tell of the needs of Pine Level Baptist church. The church-house needs repairing, and the membership are unable to pay for the material needed for that purpose. They are doing all they can. Bro. Rose at Pine Level will receive [illegible]

What Difference Does It Make?

We pointed out last week that the very gratifying spirit of fraternity among christians of differing faiths was due to their loyalty to their peculiar views. We wish now to say further that out of this prevailing peace there may come, if indeed there has not already come, deplorable indifference. It is an unquestioned fact that our young Baptists are more poorly informed as to the distinctive views of the denomination and the grounds on which they are held than ever before. This is true despite the fact that they are much better off in general culture. It is not out of place, therefore, for us to inquire into the causes of this ignorance and indifference.

We would name as the first and the most obvious the comparative silence of the pulpit on these themes. Ministers hesitate to disturb the delightful calm by discussing controverted subjects. Other ministers will answer and neighbors will perhaps be brought into the discussion, and there will be general unpleasantness. It is so much better to have the peace of a community unbroken. Now this is an amiable weakness, but it is a weakness, nevertheless. If the matters about which we differ are unimportant, then, of course, we do wrong to make them prominent. But so long as we regard them of sufficient importance to justify separation from the rest of the christian brotherhood, we cannot be silent concerning them without guilt. Moreover, has it never occurred to our brethren that the readiness of other denominations to respond to any presentation of the peculiar views of Baptists shows conclusively that their hostility to them is not dead, but simply slumbering, and slumbering very lightly indeed?

Another reason for the slight attention which is now paid to denominational doctrines is the fact that the attacks upon the foundations of religion have been so numerous and persistent in recent years as to divert our attention from these differences. We have had to join forces against a common enemy. But just here is a fact full of significance. The so called liberalism in religion has been most successful among Baptists, precisely where denominational sentiment has been weak. Add to this the further fact that the Baptists who began by sympathizing with these "advanced" views have usually ended by going into other communions, and the inference is plain that one way to resist the attacks of this insidious enemy is by strengthening the denominational walls. And this is exactly what we should have naturally looked for. Discarding the authority of the Bible on the general truths of christianity, they the more easily dispose of it, so far as it touches distinctively denominational doctrine.

This liberalism, falsely so-called, has not made much headway in the country for which, mainly, we write. Still it has had its effect. We are all conscious of a certain vaguely defined, atmospheric influence which it exerts upon us. A stout and stalwart Baptist said in our hearing not long ago that he was not aware that he regarded denominational tenets as less important than he formerly regarded them, but he was conscious that the discussion of them was less to his taste. This illustrates what we mean.

Now, the "liberalism" which teaches us to be careless of the truth is false and misleading. The fact that it wears the garb of amiability does not alter its essential character. It is dishonest to give away what does not belong to us. The truth is ours not in fee simple, to be disposed of according to our tastes and whims, but ours as a solemn trust to be transmitted to others unimpaired and unaltered.

This "liberalizing" influence is very soothing and seductive. Those who succumb to it suggest with smiling complacency the surrender of what has heretofore been regarded as vital and important truth. "Why contend? Why not make everything pleasant by capitulating? The day of bigotry is passed and the brotherhood of humanity has come. Doctrine is a small matter, and the creeds are outworn. It is all a mistake to disturb yourself or trouble others with your peculiar notions." They insist that the day of theological conflict has passed and the smoke of battle has cleared away, and they have not energy or interest enough to inquire as to the issue of the battle. It is enough for them to enjoy lazily the dolce far niente and rest in the assurance that fighting has ceased.

Now, what observant reader is there who has not heard in one form or another these sentiments, and what introspective reader is there who is not conscious of their subduing influence? We earnestly believe that this lethargic and stagnant calm will breed miasmic and mephitic vapors. If "peace hath her victories," she has also her special sources of weakness and demoralization.

We must resist this evil. If the truth for which we alone are contending is not worth the fight, it were better to abandon it and align ourselves with brethren who would in such case agree with us, and together with them contend for other truth.

There is yet another cause of the diminished attention which we are paying to denominational doctrines. It is found in the prevailing notion that action is more important than belief, that conduct is more valuable than creed. The cry is for something practical. There is undisguised disgust for theories. The elementary truth that faith precedes action, creed goes before conduct, and theory is antecedent to practice, is forgotten. The very wisest find themselves growing impatient when it is proposed to discuss the constitution of the christian church or the ordinances as they were delivered. They clamor restlessly for larger missionary gifts, for heavier endowments for colleges and seminaries, for increased contributions for orphanages and hospitals. The christian world is following James and leaving Paul as it once followed Paul and ignored James. The only true course is to follow both. Now we certainly have no quarrel with James, and we rejoice that very rapidly indeed the world is coming to his irresistible conclusion that "faith without works is dead." But we have also great respect for Paul and for the Pauline view of doctrine. We are confident that the present blessed and beneficent activities of christianity are the matured fruit of christian doctrines. And if these activities are to be perpetuated, we must carefully watch and tend the tree of which they are the fruitage. We view, therefore, with some apprehension the disposition to ignore the causal relation between doctrine and practice. If this tendency is not arrested, it must result in ultimate exhaustion.

What is true in a general way of doctrines held by Baptists in common with other evangelical christians, is equally true of doctrines held by Baptists alone. Our peculiar doctrines have for us precisely the same basis as those we hold in common with others. If any distinction is to be made, it ought to be in favor of our distinctive views, since these have the same Scriptural basis and we alone are propagating them.

Do we mean then to say that our denominational activity in missions, in benevolence, in education, is dependent upon the vigorous maintenance and propagation of our distinctive views? That is precisely what we do mean to say. For when we abandon these doctrines, we are guilty of disloyalty to Christ, and the christian activities that have their foundation in disloyalty to Christ cannot and ought not to continue. We will go further. Not only denominational activity and development, but denominational existence also depends upon the vigorous and persistent presentation of the phases of doctrine which brought it into existence. Further discussion of this must wait for another article.—Religious Herald.

RICHMOND, VA., Aug. 10, '91.

I began the use of the Electropoise about fifteen months ago, being at that time a pitiful victim of nervous prostration. After months of suffering (under the best medical advice) my condition was very feeble, the action of my heart very bad, and all other organs deranged. I was sustained from day to day by the use of strong tonics and unlimited stimulants. In desperation, I applied the Poise one night, with little faith or hope, and I began to improve at once, and have never since that time touched a drop of stimulants or a grain of medicine. In three months I gained thirty-eight pounds, and weigh more now than I ever did, and my health is restored. My wife has the greatest confidence in the instrument, and it has cured her of neuralgia, from which she suffered much. She and our five children have used absolutely no other remedy since the day I began its use. We apply it on the first complaint of any kind, and so far with uniform success.

Yours truly, W. Y. MORDECAI

It is nobler far to do the most commonplace duty, in the household, or behind the counter, with a single eye to duty, simply because it must be done; nobler far, I say, than to go out of your way to attempt a brilliant deed, with a double mind and saying to yourself not only, "This will be a brilliant deed," but also, "and it will pay me, or raise me, or set me off, into the bargain." Heroism knows no "into the bargain."—Ex.

Arsenic and quinine are dangerous drugs to accumulate in one's system, and it is to be hoped that these poisons, as a remedy for ague, have had their day. Ayer's Ague Cure is a sure antidote for the ague, is perfectly safe to take, and is warranted to cure.

Good thoughts are blessed guests, and should be heartily welcomed, well fed and much sought after. Like rose leaves they give out a sweet smell if laid up in the jar of memory.—Spurgeon.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

September.

South Yadkin—Bethel, Iredell county, Sep 6-8.
Caldwell County—Yadkin church, seven miles north of Lenoir, Sep 8-10.
Three Forks—Meat Camp church, six miles east of Boone, Sep 13-15.
Ashe and Alleghany—Bethel church, ten miles south of Jefferson, Sep 15-17.
King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg Oct 4-7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-18 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River-Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARAtions for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear.

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D.,
Chester, Pa.

STUDY LAW AT HOME.
TAKE A COURSE IN THE SPRAGUE CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF LAW. (Incorporated.)
Send ten cents (stamps) for particulars to
J. COTNER, JR., SEC'Y, DETROIT, MICH.
599 WHITNEY BLOCK.

REV DR. HAWTHORNE'S EXPERIENCE WITH GERMETUER.

"I am free from catarrh. I believe that I could get a certificate to this effect from any competent physician. I have used no medicine within the last six months except King's Royal Germetuer. My health is better than it has been in thirty years."

I was troubled with indigestion and blood poison in the form of pimples on my face. I took two bottles of King's Royal Germetuer and it cured me entirely. THOMAS G. HILL.
Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 31, 1891.

Rev. M. H. Wells, of Birmingham, writes "that daughter and I were cured of neuralgia and rheumatism by the use of Germetuer after all known medical and climatic remedies had been used, by the use of Germetuer."

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Troubles, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases, Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Eczema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia and General Debility.

For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Manufactured by
KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSILLIER.
MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.
MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.
W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.
MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W T. CHEATHAM, JR.,

HENDERSON, N. C.

Louisburg Female College,

LOUISBURG, N. C.

[Founded 1857.]

Next session begins September 1st, 1892. Full and strong Faculty. Music Teachers from Conservatory. Art and Elocution Teachers from Academy of Arts. Special Teachers for Penmanship, Stenography and Typewriting, Telegraphy and Business Department. Large brick buildings—fifty rooms. Well shaded campus of twelve and one-half acres. The whole Literary Course, with board, washing, lights, fires, and physical culture, $140 for session of ten months. Extra studies in proportion. No extra charge for business course to pupils in other departments. Apply for catalogue to S. D. BAGLEY, President,
Louisburg, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE,
In Effect July 24, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY.
	No. 9.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*8 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 01 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 10 p m	10 11 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*4 00 p m	†7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	6 00 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 15 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 22 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	10 00 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†8 25 p m	*8 50 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 20 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 p m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY.
	No. 10.	No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 40 a m	6 00 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 00 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 27 a m	8 10 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 30 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 37 a m	*8 25 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 20 a m	10 20 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	†12 10 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 24 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 23 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	*8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 30 a m	*10 40 p m
Ar Danville	12 10 p m	12 45 a m
" Keysville	2 50 p m	3 35 a m
" Burkeville	3 31 p m	4 19 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 20 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.38 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 9.40 a m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect August 10, 1892.

SO. BO'ND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BO'ND Daily No 2
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 23 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
7 20 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
5 40 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 10 a m
4 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	10 00 a m
4 25 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	10 30 a m
3 10 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	11 55 a m
1 45 p m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	12 45 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. R. KYLE, Gen. Pass Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Wealth and Character.

Christianity has become a mighty power in modern civilization, and has worked wonders in changing the thought and character of men. Our best laws are based upon the moral principles contained in God's Word. It is not necessary to argue this. Yet, although the teachings of christianity have become a controlling power in the world, there is a wide difference between the teachings of Christ and those of the world as respects the importance of wealth and character. The estimate the world places upon wealth is very great, while the teachings of the Master place more stress upon character, purity, nobleness. The world thinks lightly of it if a man lay unclean hands upon the property of another and appropriate it to his own use. Under the Mosaic dispensation, which men say was the basis of the modern ethical system, the penalty attached to an act of dishonesty or criminal greed, and the penalty incurred by impurity of life, were quite different. In the case of dishonest wealth, in whatever way taken, the punishment was simply a restitution of what was taken, not an added fine, while the penalty for impurity was death by stoning. At the present day society imprisons, in a few instances, the dishonest man, but does not trouble itself about the purity of life or character. All through the Word of God we see how much more highly it estimates character than wealth.

The Bible does not lay much stress upon riches, but modern society has come to regard the rights pertaining to it as the highest and holiest. A wall of protection has been thrown around the possessions of men, and thus wealth has been raised in the estimation of the world as the highest earthly good. Thus the world looks upon wealth. God looks at it in a different light. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" or "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

While there are men who have gained wealth honestly, and who have at the same time builded up a grand christian character, the majority of those who obtain great wealth sink character and purity and justice in the all-absorbing pursuit of that the love of which is indeed the root of all kinds of evil. The world has reversed the teachings of the Bible on this matter, and will suffer for it. We have known men who have succeeded in gathering great fortunes and who have along with honesty grown stronger in character, and have shown that it is possible for a man to be rich and yet have the approbation of God. But while we have seen one such, on the other hand we have seen a hundred who, as their pile of gold went up, their souls and character went down. Men cannot be satisfied with a reasonable, natural growth in riches; it must be in mighty strides, and no difference at what cost. The pursuit of gain becomes more and more engrossing, and all kinds of deceptions and sharp methods are made use of to deprive men of what by right is theirs. Gradually God, and everything good and honest, is shut out of their mind and the foundation falls from under them. The world places the highest estimate upon wealth, God upon character. The former perishes, the latter does not, and hence is the greater and better of the two.—Rev. E. Herbruck, Ph. D., in Illustrated Christian Weekly.

What folly! To be without Beecham's pills.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

For Centennial Building Fund, Chapel Cards, Self-denial and Thanksgiving Mite Boxes, Centennial Literature, etc., apply to MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for August:—Home Board.

"Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee." Missionaries, 865; baptisms, 5,274; Sunday-schools organized, 342; teachers and pupils, 17,785; churches constituted, 179; houses of worship built, 80. Receipts of Home Board, $84,871.19.

STUDY TOPICS.—Needs of each State in the Home field. Relation of Home to State Missions and vice versa. Maintenance of missionaries. Frontier missions. America for Christ, or for Romanism and infidelity? Chapel building.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Centennial Children's Day.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CELEBRATION, OCT. 2, 1892.

Dear Fellow Workers:—It is earnestly desired that this Centennial year shall be made memorable by the enlistment of every one, young and old, in the cause for which Christ came into the world. Kettering, England, October 2d, 1792, witnessed the consecration of twelve men to his work. What honor to God if we could assist in making Sunday, October 2d, 1892, witness the greater triumph of all our young people engaged in a missionary celebration of the day and contributing their money to the cause! To make this possible a complete programme of exercises suitable for the occasion will be supplied free to every school on request, with the condition that, when used, a collection shall be taken for the Centennial Fund and all of the collection taken shall be divided between the Home and Foreign Boards, S. B. C.

To make this plan a success will require the aid of every lover of missions. May we count on your hearty co-operation?

Yours in christian service,

T. H. PRITCHARD,
For Centennial Committee.

For Centennial Children's Day Programs, address Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Centenary Celebration of Baptist Missions.

Last week we gave an account of the Centennial celebration of the children of the Baptist Sunday-schools in and around London. This week we give a most interesting account of the Centennial meetings at Kettering, England.

The account is written by Dr. A. T. Pierson, editor of the Missionary Review of the World, a celebrated Presbyterian preacher of this country, who, it will be remembered, was acting as supply in Spurgeon's pulpit at the time of his death. Says Mr. Pierson:

One of the great milestones of the ages has just been left behind in the onward march of the centuries.

The centennial anniversary of the organization of the Baptist missions under the lead of William Carey marks an epoch in history; we hope it may prove a new birth-hour for a nobler age of missionary endeavor.

Providentially detained, much beyond my expectation, on the shores of Britain, I had the rare privilege of being personally present at Nottingham, Leicester, and Kettering, and taking part in the hallowed celebration of that great week which has already passed into history as among the most memorable ever known since apostolic missions began at Antioch, with the voice of the Spirit and the call of the Church separating Barnabas and Saul to the work of evangelization in the regions beyond! The arrangements were singularly happy, and the programme was well carried out. New inspiration must have been imparted to all good work for God, and many lives will feel the impulse to a more heroic endurance and endeavor. As the celebration was one of those great events which the scribe of history records in large characters, even the programme of proceedings should be preserved.

Much of the attraction and interest which invested these exercises cannot be conveyed or even caught by the pen of the readiest writer, any more than the subtle, evasive bloom or aroma of a flower; but with such an array of names, many of which belong to more than one continent, and are, in fact, familiar to the world; and with such an occasion and theme to evoke the best that was in the speakers, our readers need not to be assured that it was worth crossing the sea to be present when William Carey's grand work had laid upon it the century's capstone.

One of the main features of these meetings was the crowds attending. A list of some three hundred delegates was published, and they represented the whole earth—all parts of the United Kingdom; Africa—the Congo, etc.; various countries of Europe; also Asia—India, China, Japan, Burmah, Turkey; again, the West Indies—Jamaica, and other islands of the sea; America—the United States, the British provinces; and Australia—New South Wales, New Zealand, and other parts of the habitable globe. Delegates and visitors from every section of the earth and every great people were there; but these were a small part of the real attendance. At Nottingham and Leicester the crowds found no building adequate; and so it would have been at Kettering, but for a very spacious tent capable of holding five thousand, which was at times taxed to its capacity. The opening meeting at George Street Chapel, Nottingham, was one for prayer, and properly set the key-note for the week. By 9 o'clock the Mechanics' Hall was filled with breakfasters, and up to 10 o'clock at night, in two gatherings that proposed to be successive, but were near being simultaneous, the interest continued unabated; and so it was, day by day, the beautiful weather seeming God's smile on the occasion. At the last meeting I attended at Kettering, the enthusiasm seemed still rising to a higher floodmark, if possible, than ever.

Another notable feature was the general excellence and high tone of the addresses. We missed Dr. McLaren, of Manchester, and some other illustrious men. What Spurgeon could have contributed to such an anniversary one could only sorrowfully imagine.

The missionary addresses—those by missionaries—were especially enjoyable and profitable. As the representatives from India, China, Africa, Jamaica thrilled the vast audiences, one could not but remember against what odds and oppositions Carey himself wrestled as he went forth the pioneer of British missions. To think of the six thousand men and women from christian lands, and the seven times as many converts from heathendom, now laboring for a world's evangelization—how like the five loaves and two fishes among the five thousand seemed the little band of missionaries among whom Carey stood a leader! And how that "thirteen pounds, two and sixpence" of 1792 has multiplied over one hundred thousand times in 1892! In fact, how has the world opened to the gospel since Carey had to seek Danish protection in India! Where now can we not go! How grandly like Pentecost's tongues of fire is that multiplication of the translations of the Bible into at least six times as many languages and dialects as when Carey began translating! One of the main blessings of these gatherings was this, that the contrast between 1892 and 1792 was made vivid and almost visible as the missionary laborers told of the wonderworking of God. The very antithesis of history was a provocation to love and good works, and compelled one to feel ashamed at the lack of modern enterprise for God.

The interest of this great anniversary had, of course, three centres—Nottingham, Leicester, Kettering—because in a different way Carey and the work of missions was linked with each place. At Nottingham, May 30th, 1792, in the old Baptist chapel, Park street, Carey preached that great epoch-making sermon from Isa. 54: 2, 3. That chapel stands and is as it was, save that the pulpit and pews are removed and part of the gallery. The baptismal font is to be seen, though used now as part of the appurtenances of a pharmacy. As one stands in that sacred room, which may be fifty feet by thirty, and remembers what took place there, the conviction takes shape involuntarily that it ought to be still a place of worship, or at least a museum of missionary relics, sacred to the memory of Carey and his work.

At Leicester the interest gravitates toward Harvey Lane Chapel, where Carey preached, and the little humble home opposite, where he dwelt. It fell to me to preach the sermon at this hallowed place, and, like Dr. Glover in London and Dr. Clifford in Nottingham, before me, and Dr. Landels at Kettering after me, the old text of Carey was still the theme, never more needful than now as a signal-bell for missions. That gathering in Harvey Lane Chapel, on that memorable afternoon of June 1st, none of us will ever forget. The place was crowded to repletion by one of the most devout, prayerful, intelligent audiences ever assembled. Much prayer had preceded, and the place seemed fragrant, almost alive, with God's presence. The sermon was a simple, unstudied address, strictly textual and expository, and aspiring to no literary merit or intellectual display; yet a more beautifully receptive assembly of hearers I never addressed.

Such hearing compelled the speaker to do his best, for it evoked whatever was best in him. I felt that day more than ever the contribution of a hearer to the power of the pulpit. It was easy to preach where others were praying and hearing as only praying people can. The silence was awful, and when broken it was only by a faint and indescribable murmur, not so much of applause or appreciation, but of what might be called audible hearing, when any precious truth of the inspired Word touched sympathetically the great heart that throbbed in the meeting.

At Kettering the interest largely centres not only on the Fuller Chapel, but on widow Beebe Wallis' cottage, standing, where, on October 2d, 1792, the actual meeting was held, when those twelve obscure men drew up their missionary compact, and the thirteen pounds and half crown were laid on the table, and the table became an altar of offerings. That cottage is a kind of Mecca to missionary pilgrims, and it ought to be a missionary training school. It reminds one of Antioch and the mysterious voice which said, as those primitive christians fasted and prayed, "Separate Me Barnabas and Saul to the work whereunto I have called them." Here, while most of the Church of God slept in indifference, those "apostates of the anvil, loom, and cobbler's bench" undertook to organize a society for a world's evangelization. Think of that first offering—less than sixty-five dollars!—yet that offering probably represented more real prayer and self-denial than any similar sum collected since. How touching is the suggestiveness of that verse, Acts 2: 42, where we are told that those first pentecostal converts "were in constant attendance on the apostles' teaching, and the fellowship [contribution?], and the bread-breaking and the prayers." Four elements in primitive worship—teachings, fellowship in offerings, the Lord's Supper, and prayer! What an apostolic meeting that was at Kettering on October 2d, 1792!

May we not well ask ourselves what is God's portrait of a true church, and see what prominence is given in that earliest sketch to the element of praying and giving? They are associated so closely with the teaching and sacrament that they become sacramental; and for one I cannot imagine any act as more truly sacramental in the sight of God than when money, hallowed by prayer, is laid on that altar of missions that so sanctifies the gift. To such sacramental praying and giving does not that meeting of a century ago at Kettering provoke us all! and is there any lesson of the century more vital to the new century now opening!

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh's Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [SEAL] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Every one is peculiarly blest. It would be a difficult matter for any one to look around him and not see others in more trying circumstances than he. If he has had losses, he can find those who have suffered greater losses. If he has had bodily afflictions, he can find those who have been more sorely afflicted. In one way or another he has escaped that to which his neighbor has fallen victim, the mere thought of which makes him shudder. There never is a time in any life when thanksgiving cannot appropriately be the chief portion of prayer.—S. S. Times.

SKINS ON FIRE

With agonizing Eczemas and other Itching, Burning, Bleeding, Scaly, Blotchy, and Pimply Skin and Scalp Diseases are instantly relieved and speedily cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure,

CUTICURA

SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies. This is strong language, but every word is true, as proven by thousands of grateful testimonials. CUTICURA REMEDIES are, beyond all doubt, the greatest Skin Cures, Blood Purifiers, and Humor Remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped, and oily skin cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

WEAK, PAINFUL KIDNEYS,

With their weary, dull, aching, lifeless, all-gone sensation, relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing strengthening plaster. 25 cents.

Outfit that very properly contains a supply of which adds to the enjoyment of all the other dainties, and makes a picnic a picnic indeed.

Hires' Root Beer

A 25 cent package makes 5 gallons of this very popular beverage.

Don't be deceived if a dealer, for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."

BEECHAM'S PILLS

(Tasteless—Effectual.)

FOR ALL

BILIOUS and NERVOUS DISORDERS.

Such as Sick Headache, Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Giddiness, Fullness, Swelling after Meals, Dizziness, Drowsiness, Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, All Nervous and Trembling Sensations, and Irregularities Incidental to Ladies.

Covered with a Tasteless and Soluble Coating.

Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a Box. New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

Theological Seminary,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &C.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin Bell and Art Church
BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
I. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

ROANOKE FEMALE COLLEGE

DANVILLE, VA.

C. F. JAMES, B. A., D. D., President.

The thirty-fourth annual session of this well-known and excellent school will open on Tuesday, Sept. 6th, 1892. Dr. James succeeds Capt. J. T. Averett as president, the latter retiring on account of feeble health. The new president is a B. A. of Richmond College, a full graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and for three years has conducted, with notable success, the Alleghany Institute, of Roanoke, Va. Faithful and competent teachers. The buildings will be thoroughly renovated, repaired and painted, and the dormitories will be nicely carpeted and provided with new furniture. Pupils shall be thoroughly and wisely taught, and shall have every needed academic facility and domestic care and comfort. The city of Danville is now considered one of the healthiest cities in the South. It is in every way admirably adapted to the location of a first-class female college. Catalogues furnished upon application

Peace Institute,

RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.

JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.

Please mention this paper.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

FOR $1.50

we will send to any address postpaid, one each of the following late sheet music publications, allowing

Privilege of Exchange

after five days examination, for other music, if any of this proves unsuitable, but no money will be refunded. Copies to be exchanged must be in perfect condition, or we will not accept them. The list is as follows:

SONGS.

MY LADY'S WINDOW. NEIL. 40 cents.
THE BIRD AND THE MAIDEN. JAMISON. 40 cents.
SUNSHINE AND SHADOW. RADCOL. 40 cents.

PIANO MUSIC.

BOW KNOT POLKA. HOLM. 40 cents.
FESTIVAL MARCH. ZEIGNER. 40 cents.
FELICITE. [illegible] 40 cents.

Complete catalogues furnished free on application. Mention this paper.

THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Root & Sons Music Co., 156 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 19 E. 16th St., New York.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The Richmond and Danville railroad is converting the old union passenger depot here into a large freight depot.

Governor Holt, last Wednesday, appointed Judge Jas. C. MacRae of Cumberland county to be Associate Justice of the Supreme court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge J. J. Davis.

State News.

A new bank was opened at Weldon recently and $1,800 was received on deposit the first day it began business.

Col. P. N. Heilig, a useful citizen of Salisbury, was taken suddenly ill while at church Sunday night, the 21st inst., and died in half an hour.

Green Nichols of Rocky Mount was struck by a train in that place Tuesday of last week and was so badly injured that death resulted shortly after.

Jim Ellis, an eighteen-year old negro boy, while in a drunken stupor was run over and killed by a train near Henderson Monday night of last week.

The fall term of Trinity College will begin at Durham, in the new buildings, September 1st, but the dedication has been postponed till Oct. 5th or 12th.

Joe Bradley, alias John Butler, was arrested and jailed at Fayetteville last Thursday night charged with the murder of L. D. Taylor at Bennettsville, S. C., a short time ago.

Rev. N. B. Hunnicutt, a well-known minister of the Christian church, was stricken with apoplexy Sunday, the 21st inst., while preaching in Johnson county, and soon died.

A number of prominent business men in Asheville played a game of baseball several days ago and raised $175 for the Confederate veterans monument to be erected at Raleigh.

The residence of Sheriff R. R. Ross at Asheborough, Randolph county, was recently destroyed by fire. There was some insurance on the building, but the loss was considerable.

The Wilmington Star says that the rice crop on the Cape Fear river is unusually fine and far better than any in the last few years. The crop in South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana is also fine.

An encounter between Bill Butler and Queen Dyson at Pine Log, about two miles from Whiteville, which took place recently, resulted in Butler receiving injuries from which he will likely die. Both men had been drinking.

Colonel John Willis Johnston, a prominent citizen of Halifax county, was found dead in bed at his residence near Weldon last Friday morning. He was about sixty-three years old. Heart failure was the cause of his death.

Dr. Chas. Duffy, Sr., of Catharine Lake, died at the home of his son, Dr. Chas. Duffy, Jr., in Newbern last Wednesday night. He was eighty-four years of age, and was one of the most upright and respected citizens of Onslow county.

Cæsar Cobb and Dick Whitsett, both colored, got into a fight over some trifling matter near Brown's Summitt, Guilford county, last Thursday. Cobb struck Whitsett on the head with an axe, and physicians say that the latter cannot possibly live.

Dr. Thomas F. Wood, one of the most prominent physicians in North Carolina, died in Wilmington on Monday, August 22d, aged about fifty-two years. Dr. Wood was secretary of the North Carolina Board of Health and editor of the Medical Journal published in Wilmington.

The Asheville Gazette reports the case of Mrs. M. A. Jordan vs. the city of Asheville for $20,000 damages as taken up Tuesday, the 23d inst., in the Superior Court. Mrs. Jordan was injured in 1887, while walking on Merrimon avenue, by a defective plank. The jury gave Mrs. Jordan no damages.

Mrs. William Sides, son and daughter, living near Clemmonsville, were poisoned last week by drinking coffee in which arsenic had been placed. They were critically ill for a time, but it is thought they will recover. No arrests have been made. A man who would have inherited the ladies property is suspicioned.

To the meeting of Democratic clubs of North Carolina in Raleigh, the Richmond & Danville R. R. Co. will, Sept. 14, 15 and 16, and limited to Sept. 20, 1892, sell tickets to Raleigh at the following rates: From Charlotte, $7.45; Durham, 1.65; Greensboro, 4.30; Goldsboro, 2.75; Lincolnton, 8.40; Marion, 9.40; Rural Hall, 5.95; Selma, 1.65; Winston-Salem, 5.60. Intermediate points in same proportion.

The Belmont Hotel at White Sulphur Springs, near Asheville, was burned to the ground last Wednesday night. There were 138 guests in the building, and all of them, with the exception of perhaps half a dozen, made their escape without being injured. Mrs. Dr. Von Ruck of Asheville was badly hurt, and her sister was fatally injured, dying the next day. Three other persons each had a leg dislocated by jumping from the windows. All the guests lost their baggage. A lady from Charleston, S. C., lost $5,000 worth of diamonds. Another guest lost $3,000 in cash. Other guests lost money. The building cost $60,000, and was insured for $35,000. The furniture belonged to Dr. Von Ruck, the lessee of the hotel, and was valued at $44,000. The furniture was insured also for $25,000. The hotel was the property of the West Asheville Improvement Company.

Last Wednesday, on Mill Creek, just across the Wayne line, in Johnston county, Luther Britt, aged 23, was struck in the head with an axe by Chas. Faircloth, aged 17, causing concussion of the brain. Both are white. Britt is not expected to live, and his assailant has made good his escape.

General News.

Ex-Gov. Lewis Lowe of Maryland died on the 23d inst.

Urdaneta has declared himself Dictator of Venezuela, and has appointed Casanas as Minister of the Interior.

Gertie Carmo, a daring female aeronaut, fell from a trapeze bar attached to a balloon at Detroit, Mich., last Thursday, and was instantly killed.

The inhabitants of Gloucester, Mass., celebrated with appropriate exercises the 250th anniversary of the incorporation of that city last Wednesday.

The cost to the State of New York for the military protection of the railroad property at Buffalo, N. Y., during the switchmen's strike, will amount to nearly a half million dollars.

Thirty Hebrew families, comprising nearly the whole population of the village of Ziontown, N. J., are on the verge of starvation. They have had no work for several weeks, and are without money.

Edwin Carlin, a sailor, of San Francisco, Cal., will enter a claim with the State Department at Washington against the government of Ecuador for $50,000 for false imprisonment and other indignities suffered by him when in Ecuador in 1888.

Considerable fighting has been going on in Venezuela recently between government troops and revolutionists. A bloody battle took place August 16th near Villa de Cura, in which 1,500 persons were reported to have been killed or wounded.

The big strike of railway switchmen at Buffalo, N. Y., was declared off at eleven o'clock last Wednesday night by Grand Master Sweeney. Gov. Flower has offered a reward of $100 for the conviction of each man who destroyed the railroad property.

Four young men, composing a hunting party, were found murdered on the bank of Caney Creek in the Indian Territory, recently. Each one had been robbed. A Mr. Cherry, agent of the Willimantic Thread Company of Connecticut, was one of the victims.

The Wallis-Lispenard Cotton Picker and Machinery Company has been incorporated at Tenton, N. J. The company has a capital of $10,000,000. They purpose utilizing the inventions of James W. Wallis of Memphis, and George Lispenard of Brooklyn, on cotton picking machinery.

Wagner's paper box factory and other buildings on Prince, Greene, Wooster and Spring streets, New York City, were destroyed by fire last Saturday. Loss $250,000. One young white woman lost her life in the flames. Another woman, and several firemen, were badly injured.

A fire in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York City on the 27th inst., destroyed the stage and auditorium. Loss about $300,000. The fire originated in the paint room, but it is not known how. The auditorium was the finest in the world. The stockholders say the building will be rebuilt at once.

William H. Roberts and Neill McCallum, of the Finance Trading Company of New York, were arrested last Wednesday, charged with passing fraudulent commercial paper. It appears that many persons have been swindled by them. The New York Herald says that "Roberts came came from Marion, N. C., where the Finance Trading Company had a branch, through which, it is alleged, most of the questionable dealings were conducted."

The dread disease, cholera, has made its appearance at the two great ports at Hamburg, Germany, and Havre, France. Three hundred cases and one hundred and twenty deaths were reported at Hamburg on the 23d inst. All precautions are being taken by the authorities of the Treasury Department at Washington to prevent the introduction of the disease into this country. No real fear is expressed that the cholera will reach the shores of the United States.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will cure you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

Bladen Association.

A convention of churches is called to meet at Brown's Creek church, two miles South of Elizabethtown, Bladen county, on the 15th day of September, to consider the matter of organizing "The Bladen Baptist Association." All Baptist churches interested, and especially all within the limits of Bladen county, are requested to send three delegates to this Convention.

C. M. McLEAN,
Special Cor. of the Central Union.
Elizabethtown, N. C.

Cheap Homes and Excursion to Beeville, Tex.

We have subdivided 20,000 acres into small farms, easy payments, will help improve. New colony, has fifty families, store, gin, physician, postoffice, school, church, telephone line. Everything desirable. See these lands by buying an excursion ticket to Beeville, one fare round trip on August 30, Sept. 27, Oct. 25th 1892. Maps and particulars free by Enterprise Land Co., Beeville, Tex.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

South Yadkin Association.

This Association will meet with Bethel church, Iredell county, N. C., on Tuesday after the first Sunday in September, 1892. Delegates and visitors coming by rail will be met with conveyance at Rock Cut on the Western North Carolina Road, and at Troutman on the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio Road. Persons anticipating attendance will please notify Bro. John Setzer, Longford, Iredell county, N. C., on what day they will arrive and at which station above named.

W. J. HOPKINS

Caldwell County Association.

The undersigned committee on hospitality will see that any one representing the various objects of the Baptists, and wishing to be present with the Caldwell County Association commencing on Sept. 8th, 1892, will have conveyance from Lenoir to the Yadkin church, if they will notify us at what time they will be at Lenoir. The trains arrive at 11:50 a. m. and at night.

A. E. NELSON,
C. F. CHILDERS,
J. K. FARTHING,
Committee.

Patterson, Aug. 20, 1892.

Next Saturday, the 27th, is the first anniversary of the horrible disaster at Bostian's bridge, in which twenty-two persons lost their lives and thirty were injured—one of whom, B. M. Estes, Jr., of Memphis, Tenn., died a few weeks ago from the result of injuries received at that time—making a total of twenty-three.—Statesville Landmark, August 25.

For Bilious Attacks
heartburn,
sick headache,
and all disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels,
Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the safest, surest, and most popular medicine for family use.
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.
Lowell, Mass.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE
BOTETOURT SPRINGS, VA.
For Young Ladies. Opens Sept. 14, 1892. 84th year. 17 Officers and Teachers. Preparatory, Collegiate, Philosophical, and Literary Departments. Conservatory Courses in Music, Art and Elocution School, beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, on N. & W. R. R. near Roanoke. Climate unexcelled. Elegant Equipment. Write for illustrated catalogue to
CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

University Law School.
40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Staunton Military Academy,
—STAUNTON, VA.
A Military School for Young Men and Boys.
Handsome Illustrated Catalogue mailed on application.

CHOWAN
Baptist Female Institute,
MURFREESBORO, N. C.
Parties having young ladies to educate will do well to consider the following facts:—
The Institute offers superior advantages in Literature, Science, Music and Art. Only the best talent is employed to give instruction in the different departments.
The situation is one of remarkable beauty. There are twenty-eight acres of land within the corporation, but so located as to give the school all the privacy of the country, while near enough to the town to secure any advantages it may offer.
The health record is unsurpassed. During the last ten years there have been two cases of pneumonia, one of typhoid fever (brought by the pupil with her) no case of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles. Chills have been strangers, and bilious fever almost unknown. The average of medical bills since the organization of the school has been about twenty five cents per pupil for the scholastic year. The amount paid for medical bills by the entire boarding patronage the past session was ten dollars.
This institution is the unencumbered property of the Baptists, and is the only property owned by them in the State used exclusively for the education of girls.
The dormitories have recently been refurnished, and only two pupils occupy the same room. Parties leaving points east of Charlotte, Danville, Richmond and Washington reach the school the same afternoon via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. As the property is unencumbered, the charges can be made very moderate. Board, literary and music tuition, if paid in advance, are two hundred dollars for scholastic year. The fall session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. For catalogue or additional information, address
JNO. B. BREWER, President.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
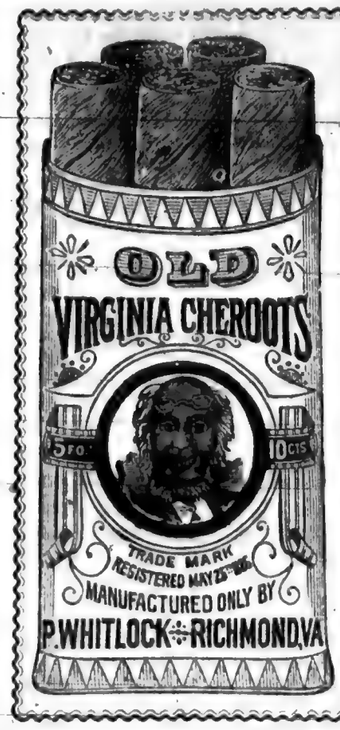
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN F. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.



Barrels of Money
ARE SAVED BY BUYING
OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS.
THEY ARE SOLD
Five for Ten Cents.
SMOKE SWEET TO THE END.
TRY THEM.

HORNER MILITARY SCHOOL, OXFORD, N. C.
Modern buildings, hot and cold baths, gymnasium, healthful climate, beautiful surroundings, numbers limited. A model home school for boys. Catalogues sent on application.

WOOL! WOOL! WOOL!
If you have wool to be manufactured or to exchange for goods, ship it to the Chatham Manufacturing Company,
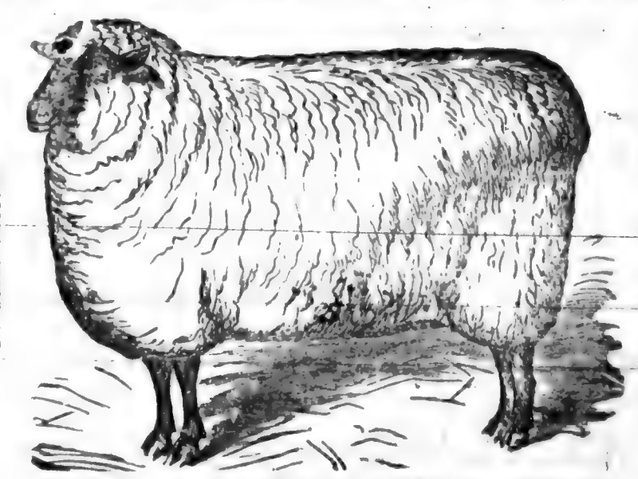
PROPRIETORS OF THE
Elkin Woollen Mills.



THEY DO THE LARGEST Custom Business IN THE STATE.
Their Goods Just Simply CAN'T BE EXCELLED.
THEY PAY FREIGHT ON WOOL.
Write for samples, and directions for shipping, to
CHATHAM MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Elkin, N. C.
Freight and Express Office, Elkin, N. C.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,
RICHMOND.
The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.
For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.
"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools. 120 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or
S. D. JONES, Principal.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

High Point Female College.
The next Annual Session will begin September 14th, 1892. This institution has a full corps of excellent teachers, representing the best schools, and is
A CHRISTIAN HOME
for all that attend, where they will have advantages for culture equal to the very best, at charges lower than those at most colleges. Write for Kastalian and for catalogue. Address
J. N. STALLINGS, D. D., President, High Point, N. C.

Good Meetings.

Dear Recorder:—We are profoundly grateful to see that the political harangues of the distempered politicians of our country at the present, has not drawn away the minds of our people from their spiritual needs, and all along the lines the Master's work is prospering in the hands of his people.

SALEM.

On the third Sunday in July, Rev. W. S. Olive began a series of meetings with Salem church (Raleigh Association), aided by the writer, brethren J. N. Booth and J. M. White also being present for about two days, doing some excellent preaching. The meeting closed at the end of one week with the interest steadily increasing each day, resulting in about thirty confessions of faith, and many who had been wandering for many years in prodigality, returned to serve in the Father's house.

On Sunday morning, the writer administered the ordinance of baptism to sixteen candidates, the pastor necessarily being called away.

MT. PISGAH.

On Monday morning following the fourth Sunday in July, we joined Bro. Olive at Mt. Pisgah church (Mt. Zion Asso.), to spend another week with glorious results. About fifteen professed, many backsliders were reclaimed, and a general revival of religion filled the community. About seven applied for membership at the close of the meeting, and others will follow doubtless when the ordinance is administered.

MORRISVILLE.

Monday following the fifth Lord's day in July, we joined Bro. Olive in work for several days with Morrisville church (Raleigh Association), where, we trust, good work was done. While results were not so evident as they had been at the other places, the interest increased each day to the close of the meeting. The church was revived, and it is to be hoped that the vicinity will not lose the impress of the good work done there.

Without asking his consent, I would like to say that Bro. Olive is one of the best country pastors of my knowledge, and has proven the worth of devoting one's whole time to his charges. I do not only believe that he has proven that our churches will take care of the preacher who does it, but has shown that it is the means of rapid and permanent spiritual growth in the churches. May many others follow his example.

C. W. BLANCHARD.

Varina, Aug. 24, 1892.

High Point Female College.

Our music teacher is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music in instrumental and vocal music, also in Theory and Harmony.

Our Art teacher is a graduate of the Woman's Art School of Cooper Union, New York, where she has pursued post-graduate studies for several years. She was a member of the Students' Art League, and a pupil of the Academy of Design. She has studied also under the best masters in New York.

Our Elocution and Physical Culture teacher graduated at Lynan's School of Oratory and Physical Culture, Chicago, and was afterwards Assistant Principal of that institution, and subsequently studied in London, where she gave public readings.

Our teachers of the Literary Department are of the very best.

Mrs. Stallings will devote her time and attention to caring for the comforts and health of the pupils. In this she will be assisted by Miss Kate Stallings.

The School will be better than ever before.

The Bible will be studied as a text-book.

All our teachers have had successful experience as teachers, and are earnest, pious members of Baptist churches.

Respectfully soliciting the patronage of all, with assurance that no pains will be spared to give the very best possible results for all placed under our care,

I am sincerely, &c.,
J. N. STALLINGS, President.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Third ch, Durham, Mt Zion, $5.31; South River Asso, 129.17; Yadkin Asso, 80.15; Patterson Grove ch, King's Mountain, 2.00; New Bethel ch, ditto, 3.08; King's Mt'n ch, ditto, 2.00; Winton ch, W Chowan, 7.85; Forest Home ch, Ashe and Alleghaney, 2.25; Concord ch, Meck and Cab, 2.56; Buckhorn ch, W Chowan, 8.65; Aulander ch, ditto, 5.34; Cross Roads ch, Robeson, 5.52. Total, 253.88. Previously reported, 3,475.91. Total this year, 3,729.79.

Foreign Missions—Sunbeams, New Hope ch, Eastern, $3.60; Yadkin Asso, 52.04; Hebron ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Zionville ch, Three Forks, 10.00; Cool Springs ch, ditto, (Greene), 10.00; Pleasant Grove ch, 2.00; Patterson Grove ch, ditto, 2.00; Corinth ch, King's Mountain, 4.00; New Bethel ch, ditto, 5.00; Beaver Dam ch, ditto, 2.60; King's Mountain ch, 2.00; Winton ch, W Chowan, 10.06; Sunbeams, Lumberton ch, Robeson, 1.65; Aulander ch, W Chowan (Britton), 4.10; W M S, Oxford ch, Flat River, 13.55; Holly Springs ch, Little River, 6.00. Total, 138.80. Previously reported, 5,256.06. Total this year, 5,394.86.

Home Missions—Yadkin Asso, $1.35; W M S, Holly Springs ch, Raleigh, 2.50; Zionville ch, Three Forks, 5.00; Patterson Grove ch, King's Mtn, 1.00; King's Mtn ch, ditto, 1.00; Buckhorn ch, W Chowan, 3.63; W M S, Buckhorn ch, ditto, 5.20. Total, 19.68. Previously reported, 2,070.27. Total this year, 2,089.95.

Education—Yadkin Asso, $9.90; New Bethel ch, King's Mountain, 5.00; Patterson Grove ch, ditto, 2.00; Winton ch, W Chowan, 9.45; Griffin's Cross Roads ch, Cape Fear, 76c; Brassfields ch, Central, 5.00. Total, 32.11. Previously reported, 1,490.86. Total this year, 1,522.97.

Orphanage—Cool Spring ch, Three Forks, $1.75; Winton ch, W Chowan, 9.61; Shiloh ch, Raleigh, 1.70; Island Creek ch, Flat River, 2.15; Buckhorn ch, W Chowan, 9.52; Sunday-school, Aulander ch, ditto, 11.94; Griffin's Cross Roads ch, Cape Fear, 1.26. Total, 37.93. Previously reported, 818.74. Total this year, 856.67.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Yadkin Asso, $7.88; Boone ch, Three Forks, 2.47; Brush Fork ch, ditto, 6.64. Total, 16.99. Previously reported, 227.32. Total this year, 244,31.

Centennial Fund (Foreign Missions)—W M S, Wake Forest ch, Central, $5.00.

Centennial Fund (Home Missions)—W M S, Wake Forest ch, Central, $5.00.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, Aug 27, 1892.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children who want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Billousness and Liver Complaints.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

MARRIED.

HELMS—PHILLIPS—On Aug. 23rd, 1892, at the residence of Mr. John M. Phillips, the bride's father, by Rev. A. W. Crabtree, Mr. E. L. Helms and Miss Lula M. Phillips, both of Mecklenburg county, N. C.

DIED.

JARVIS—Sister L. E. Jarvis of Cedar Grove church, Wilkes county, N. C., died in Concord, N. C., August 15th, 1892. She leaves seven children to mourn the loss.
J. O. A.

GILL—Died, at her home in Wake county, July 30th, 1892, Mrs. Lizzie H., wife of Mr. George E. Gill, aged thirty-one years. Her character was beautifully indexed in her face. Her life reflected the love of God in her heart. How unfathomable the loss that falls upon an affectionate young husband, a helpless babe, fond parents, devoted brothers and sisters, and a multitude of friends. Her spirit is with the Lord. Her body rests in the family burying ground at the home of her father, Mr. James T. Hunter, near Neuse. R.

BATTON—Doctor Parker Batton, adopted child of J. B. Batton, died in Concord Aug. 20th, 1892, aged eleven months and twenty days. The little one has gone to rest.
J. O. A.

WINFREY—Brother Chas. M. Winfrey departed this life July 21st, 1892, at the age of thirty-eight years and six months. He united with the Baptist church early in life, and was for twenty-seven years a consistent member of the church at Cleveland, Rowan county. He was a good neighbor and a devoted husband. He was not afraid of death, but met it cheerfully. A mother, three brothers, three sisters and wife are left to mourn his departure.
D. P. BRIDGES.

KEIVER—Richard Jewell, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Keiver of Salisbury, N. C., died Aug. 8th, 1892, aged one year, eleven months and fifteen days.

"A bud of beauty nipt by death!
O no! but upward borne,
Where no rude wind or poisoned breath
Can blast a flower of paradise."
"Though earth may boast one gem the less,
May not e'en heaven the richer be?"
N. S. J.

MOORSE—On July 3d, 1892, the death angel visited the home of H. F. and Etta Moorse, Stem, N. C., and plucked its sweetest flower, little Alva Warren, who fell a victim to that dreadful disease, cholera infantum. He was sick only two days, but his suffering was great, until just before died he seemed to be easy. His papa seeing he was nearly gone, turned his little face to his, then he smiled and passed away as quietly as going to sleep, making his short stay on earth one year, one month and fifteen days.

Thou art laid at rest, my darling babe,
Never to know earth's woe,
Never to know the sorrows and cares
That we in our grief know.
E. M.

Tribute of Respect.

Salem Baptist Sunday-school, in memory of Bro. H. C. Howell, who died at his home near Apex, N. C., July 30th, 1892, in the eighteenth year of his age, submits the following:—

WHEREAS, The Lord in whom we trust, and who doeth all things well, has seen fit to call from labor to rest our dear brother who for two years had walked such an upright life, and even on his death bed exhorted those around him to trust Christ and live for him; therefore Resolved 1. That we bow in humble submission to divine will, feeling that our loss is his gain.

2. That our school has lost one of its most earnest workers, the church a consecrated member, and the parents an affectionate son.

3. That we extend to the loved ones our warmest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

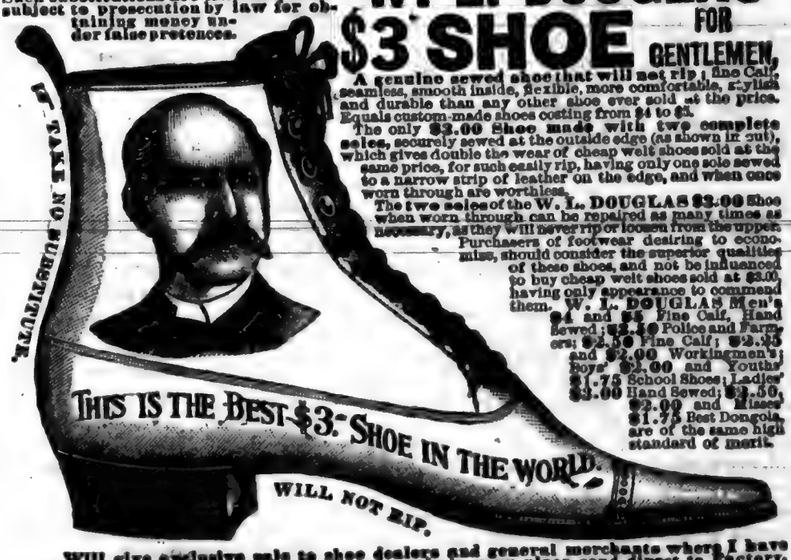
4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent the family, to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, and a copy spread on the records of this school.

S. S. ROGERS,
L. HELEN EDWARDS,
M. LALON MAYNARD,
Committee

Tough glass lamp-chimneys. Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" are made of tough glass. They rarely break except from accident.
Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

WANTED.
As a partner in a good and well-established newspaper and job office, a good printer who is a member of the Baptist church A fine opportunity No capital required. Address, at once,
PIEDMONT HERALD,
Leaksville, N. C.

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.



W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; fine Calf, seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom-made shoes costing from $4 to $5.
The only $3.00 Shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.
The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper.
Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold at $3.00, having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS Men's $4 and $5 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $3.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingman's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola are of the same high standard of merit.

Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

Sunday-school Periodicals

For Fourth Quarter.

PERIODICALS AND PRICES.

In clubs for one year each as follows: Convention Teacher, 50c.; Kind Words, Weekly, 50c.; Semi-monthly, 25c.; Monthly, 16c.; Child's Gem, 25c.; Lesson Leaflets, 10c. Per quarter each as follows: Quarterlies, Advanced, 3c.; Intermediate, 2½c; Primary, 2½c; Picture Lesson Cards, 4c; Bible Lesson Picture, size 28x18 inches, $1.25.

THE BROADUS CATECHISM.

A Catechism of Bible Teaching by Rev. John A. Broadus, D. D., just published by the Sunday-school Board, under order of the Southern Baptist Convention. Price, 5c. sing'e copy or in quantities. This will be the leading catechism in the Sunday-school and in the home circle.

In Getting Your Sunday-school Supplies

From the Sunday-school Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Nashville, besides making a direct contribution to its treasury, you put your school in touch and co-operation with the Convention, and train the children in all its great missionary enterprises.

Instructions for Ordering.

Make all orders definite. Give your name, postoffice and State. Samples sent when requested. Don't send stamps if you can avoid it. Make all orders payable to
BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOARD, Nashville, Tenn.
J. M. FROST, Cor. Sec'y.

Graded Series OF SUNDAY SCHOOL PERIODICALS.
Compare these Prices with those of Secular Publications.

Primary Grade.
Picture Lessons. 8 cts. per quarter, 12 cts. per year.
Primary Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
Our Little Ones. In clubs of five, 25 cts. per year.

Intermediate Grade.
Intermediate Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
The Sunlight. 8 cts. and 16 cts. per year.

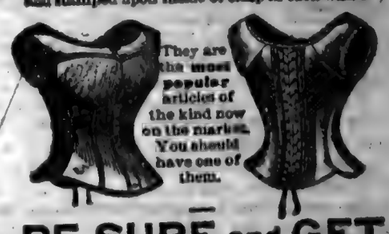
Advanced Grade.
Advanced Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 10 cts. per year.
Bible Lessons. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.
Young Reaper. 10 cts. and 20 cts. per year.

Senior or Adult Grade.
Senior Quarterly. 6 cts. per quarter, 24 cts. per year.
Our Young People. In clubs of five, 40 cts. per year.
The Worker. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.

Teachers, Superintendents.
Baptist Teacher. In clubs of five, 50 cts. per year.
Baptist Superintendent. 25 cts. per year.

Am. Baptist Publication Society.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut St.;
BOSTON: 256 Washington St.;
NEW YORK: Times Building;
CHICAGO: 162 Wabash Ave.;
ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive St.;
ATLANTA: 63½ Whitehall St.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.



They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

Raleigh Male Academy.
MORSON & DENSON, Principals.
C. L. HAYWOOD, Assistant.
The 14th Annual Session begins Monday, Aug. 29th, 1892. Pupils thoroughly prepared for college or for business life. For particulars, address the Principals for catalogue.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 30 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3590, New York City, N. Y.

Electropoise. (TRADE MARK)

ELECTROPOISE!

Electropoise. (TRADE MARK)

A CURE OF DISEASE WITHOUT MEDICINE.

ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN BY ABSORPTION.

Extracts from Letters of Representative North Carolinians:

I have always found relief from its use.
GOV. THOMAS M. HOLT.

I have tried it pretty thoroughly in my own family and have observed its effects on others. I believe that every afflicted person who can, would do well to give it a trial. REV. F. L. REID, in Raleigh Christian Advocate.

I am much pleased with the effects of the Electropoise. Mrs. Dick has been improved greatly in health and strength by its use.
JUDGE R. P. DICK, Greensboro, N. C.

It is of priceless value to me for the health it has given. I consider it a special providence to me. MISS MARY McN. BUIE,
Fayetteville, N. C.

I prize it highly, and would not be without it for many times its cost.
REV. R. C. BEAMAN, Durham, N. C.

I have found great relief for him (his son) in the use of the Electropoise, when the doctors had failed to give him any permanent relief, and I am satisfied that but for its use we should have lost him.
HON. J. C. BUXTON, Winston, N. C.

The "little doctors" sold in this community are selling others. All six are giving more than satisfaction. It has been a blessing in my family.
REV. J. K. FANT, High Point, N. C.

I can never cease to be thankful for its wonderful results, used now for two years on every member of my family.
C. A. CARLTON, Statesville, N. C.

Since using the Electropoise I have not had a single congestion, and am now far better in every respect than I have been for years. Long live the Electropoise man.
R. S. PLONK, King's Mountain, N. C.

The Electropoise has benefitted my rheumatism, besides improving my general health very much.
REV. J. C. ROWE,
Monroe, N. C.

I take great pleasure in warmly recommending the Electropoise
COL. JNO L. CANTWELL,
Wilmington, N. C.

I apply it to my whole family from baby up, and it has never failed in its results.
ED M. PAGE, Wilson, N. C.

I have found more relief from a few months use of the Electropoise in Bright's Disease than from all patent medicines, physicians' prescriptions, mineral waters, "faith healing," sea voyages and in a winter's residence in a warm climate.
REV. S. HASSELL,
Williamston, N. C.

I never lose an opportunity for a good word for the Electropoise, as my wife is a substantial living testimony to its efficacy.
COL. J. M. LEWIS,

A 50 PAGE BOOK SENT FREE ON APPLICATION.

Correspondence Invited and Held Strictly Confidential.

ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE COMPANY, Washington, D. C.

The Home Circle.

Day by Day.

With staff and shoon I journey,
Uphill the way I take,
Past many a tangled thicket,
O'ergrown with brier and brake;
And oft my feet are weary,
And oft my steps are slow,
But day by day I'm nearer
The land to which I go.

The foes who hate my Master
Have spread the path with snares,
In hope to stay my progress
And catch me unawares.
But ever to my spirit
New light and strength are given,
For never hosts of evil
Shall bar my road to heaven.

Far worse than all temptations
That lure me from without
Are grewsome clouds and terrors
That compass me about.
Dear Lord, thine eye can measure
The strife of fears within,
And thou canst guide me safely,
Unscathed by shame or sin.

With staff and shoon I journey,
And still before mine eyes
The Lord who goes before me
Holds up a radiant prize.
And though I faint and falter,
I yet shall overcome,
And win with saints and angels
The endless rest at home.

And sweet it is when tired,
Because the way is long,
To pause beside a mile-stone
And lift a pilgrim's song;
For who shall lose his courage,
However steep the way,
Who, with the Lord to help him,
Fares onward day by day?

—Margaret E. Sangster.

Joe's First Temptation.

Deacon Jones kept a little fish market. "Do you want a boy to help you?" asked Joe White one day. "I guess I can sell fish."

"Can you give good weight to my customers and take good care of my pennies?"

"Yes, sir," answered Joe. And forthwith he took his place in the market, weighed fish, and kept the room in order.

"A whole day for fun, fireworks and crackers to-morrow!" exclaimed Joe, as he buttoned his white apron about him the day before the Fourth of July. A great trout fish was flung down on the counter.

"Here's a royal trout, Joe. I caught it myself. You may have it for ten cents. Just hand over the money, for I'm in a hurry to buy my firecrackers," said Ned Long.

The Deacon was out; but Joe made the purchases for him before, so the dime was spun across to Ned, who was off like a shot. Just then Mrs. Martin appeared. "I want a nice trout for my dinner to-morrow. This one will do. How much is it?"

"A quarter, ma'am." And the fish was transferred to the lady's basket and the silver piece to the money drawer.

But here Joe paused. "Ten cents was very cheap for that fish. If I tell the Deacon it cost fifteen he'll be satisfied, and I shall have five cents to invest in firecrackers."

The Deacon was pleased with Joe's bargain, and when the market closed each went his way for the night. But the nickle in Joe's pocket burnt like a coal; he could eat no supper, and was cross and unhappy. At last he could stand it no longer, but, walking rapidly, tapped at the door of Deacon Jones' cottage.

A stand was drawn out, and before the open Bible sat the old man. Joe's heart almost failed him, but he told his story, and with tears of sorrow laid the coin in the Deacon's hand. Turning over the leaves of the Bible, the old man read:

"'He that covereth his sins shall not prosper, but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.' You have my forgiveness, Joe. Now go home and confess to the Lord: but remember, you must forsake as well as confess. And keep this little coin as long as you live to remind you of this first temptation."—New York Mail.

You can never have a really good complexion until the impurity is cleansed from your blood. What you need is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is absolutely free from all harmful ingredients, and therefore, perfectly safe.

Hot Day Fancies.

"When we talk of heat," asked a young lady, suddenly, of a company well provided with palm leaf fans and soothed by the influence of recent ice cream, "what do you think of? What place? What time? What scene rises instantly before your fancy?"

Her friends roused themselves to respond to the question, and here are some of their replies:

"A new concrete sidewalk at noon, with the sun beating down on it, and one's heels sinking in, and the heat reflecting in one's face, and the air prevaded by the smell of tar."

"The desert, with an exhausted caravan struggling to reach a mirage that hovers on the horizon, but doomed to perish of thirst, as the man and camel whose bleached bones they are passing perished before them. I think it is the rememberance of some picture I saw when I was a child."

"Washing dishes in the kitchen when the mercury stands at ninety out of doors and a hundred and something within, and your hands are all soapsuddy and greasy, so that you can't even lift them to your face to wipe away the perspiration, and you are so tired and cross and miserable that you would cry if you weren't ashamed to."

"The deck of a becalmed yacht, with a heavy sea, and a long slow roll, and the work so hot that it burns the hands; the sun high, the sky cloudless, the sails hanging with not a breath to stir them; the victim prostrate, and deathly sea sick with no consciousness in the present save of heat and nausea, and no expectation for the future but of probable sunstroke."

"Standing alone in the middle of a wide, hot field flaming with scarlet lilies, and listening to the locusts in the grass."

"Walking along a country road between treeless, barren pastures, with no living thing in sight but an ox team lurching slowly on its way in a cloud of yellow dust. The time, noon."

"A night in August, when coolness has not come with darkness, and one cannot sleep and can hardly breathe, and it seems as if morning would never break."

There are times when it is too hot to think of anything but the heat. The simple question answered above is one that may then bring forth some curious replies, and afford a respite from disputes concerning the accuracy of differing thermometers or vain utterances upon the advantages of Arctic exploration.—Youth's Companion.

Lead and Encourage the Boy, But do not Coerce.

Let your boy feel that you are always ready for him, always interested in his plans, however wild they may be. You can no longer command him. If that has been your only hold, then may God have mercy on you and on him. His judgment is beginning to grow, perhaps. Encourage it. Take him into your councils. It will not hurt you to ask his advice about family matters. See how kindly he will take to being looked up to. Do you not like to have your friends put confidence in you? He is only another you. If his self respect be small, you are cherishing its growth.

How do you treat the tender plants in your garden? Do you keep sunshine away from them, and step on each tender little shoot as it lifts itself up to the unknown light of a great and strange world? And as the plants gain strength and courage to stand alone, do you nip off their leaves savagely, and water them with a flood that they have hard work to stand against? Do you leave them to droop for a bit of encouragement, to grow awry for want of a little support to guide them till strong enough to stand alone? Or do you furnish props on every side, and leave the fullgrown stem a derision to beholders?

Never let your boy feel that the household is complete without him. He may prefer anything and everything to his home, but when his "reason grows," he can not help coming back to it, if you are faithful to your trust. Never indulge in despair, however hopeless the case may seem, but keep a beautiful trust in him that will shine in your welcome. He may not be worthy, but he will grow to it.—H. L. Hastings, in The Christian.

Simplicity in Speaking.

Benjamin Franklin, in his autobiography, lays down a canon of good breeding in conversation which is worth keeping in mind. He says that he formed the habit of expressing himself "in terms of modest diffidence," never using the words "certainly, undoubtedly, or any others that give an air of positiveness to an opinion," on subjects that may possibly be disputed: saying, rather, "It appears to me, or, I should think it so, or so, if I am not mistaken." This habit, he said, was of great advantage to him in persuading people to adopt his views, and also helped him to gather much valuable knowledge which otherwise would have been withheld. For, as a rule, people do not care to impart information to one who is firmly entrenched in his own opinions. Young people are very apt to have a positive, dogmatic way of expressing themselves, and should be trained to a moderate, as well as graceful, use of language. The use of slang has a tendency toward the error which Franklin tried to avoid.—Selected.

Names of States.

Maine takes its name from the province of Main, in France, and was so called as a compliment to the queen of Charles I. Henrietta, who was its owner.

New Hampshire takes its name from Hampshire, England. New Hampshire was originally called Laconia.

Vermont is French (verd mont), signifying green mountain.

Massachusetts is an Indian word, signifying "country about the great hills."

Rhode Island gets its name because of its fancied resemblance to the Island of Rhodes, in the Mediterranean.

The real name of Connecticut is Quon-ch-ta but. It is a Mohegan word, and means "long river."

New York was so named as a compliment to the duke of York, whose brother, Charles II, granted him that territory.

New Jersey was named for Sir George Carter, who was at that time governor of the Island of Jersey, in the British channel.

Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn; the "sylvania" part of it means woods. Literally it is "Penn's woods."

Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord de la Ware.

Maryland was named in honor Henrietta Maria, queen of Charles I.

Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, the "Virgin Queen."

The Carolinas were named for Charles (Carolus) II.

MEANINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

Florida gets its name from Kanunas de Flores, or "Feast of the Flowers."

Alabama comes from a Greek word, and signifies "Land of Rest."

Louisiana was so named in honor of Louis XIV.

Mississippi is a Natchez word, and means "Father of Waters."

Three or four Indian interpretations have been given for the word Arkansas, the best being that it signifies "Smoky Waters," the French prefix "Ark" meaning bow.

Tennessee, according to some writers, is from Tenasea, an Indian chief; others have it that it means "River of the Big Bend."

Kentucky does not mean "Dark and Bloody Ground," but is derived from the Indian word "Kain-tuk-ae," signifying "Land at the head of the River."

Ohio has had several meanings fitted to it. Some say that it is a Suwanee word meaning "The Beautiful River." Others refer to the Wyandotte word, Oheza, which signifies "Something Great."

Indiana means land of Indians.

Illinois is supposed to be derived from an Indian word, which was intended to refer to a superior class of men.

Wisconsin is an Indian word, meaning "Wild, Rushing Waters."

Missouri means "Muddy Waters."

Michigan is from an Indian word, meaning "Great Lake."

The name Kansas is based on the same as that of Arkansas.

A VALUABLE LIST.

Iowa is named from an Indian tribe, the Kiowas; the Kiowas were so called by the Illinois Indians because they were "across the river."

The name of California is a matter of much dispute. Some writers say it first appeared in a Spanish romance of 1530, the heroine being an Amazonian named "California."

Colorado is a Spanish word, applied to that portion of the Rocky mountains on account of its many colored peaks.

Nebraska means shallow waters.

Nevada is a Spanish word, signifying "snow-covered mountains."

Georgia had its name bestowed when it was a colony, in honor of George II.

The Spanish missionaries of 1524 called the country now known as Texas "Mixtecapah," and the people Mixtecas. From this last word the name of Texas is supposed to have been derived.

Oregon is a Spanish word, signifying "vales of wild thyme."

Dakota means "leagued" or "allied tribes."

Wyoming is the Indian word for "Big Plains."

Washington gets its name from our first president.

Montana means mountainous.

Idaho is a name that has never been satisfactorily accounted for.—St. Louis Republic.

The Life of a Child.

Mr. W. F. Fain, a large commission merchant, says he owes the life of his child to Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial. It always gradually checks the bowels and does not constipate as many do.

Polly's Joke.

Some years ago I possessed a parrot which, among its other accomplishments, could mimic perfectly the cook's call for Kitty, the household cat

Polly's cage hung usually in the kitchen, and Kitty's favorite mode of exit in the summer was through the adjoining window and along the wooden partition fence which ran up to it.

No sooner would Polly observe Kitty sunning herself at the end of the fence or in the yard, than up would go the cry: "Here Kitty, Kitty! Here Kitty, Kitty!" and the deluded quadruped hardly ever failed to respond by dashing rapidly toward the window.

Then that mischievous parrot would chuckle and flap its wings and yell, "Ho, ho, ho!" thereby clearly demonstrating its intense enjoyment of the practical joke played upon the credulous cat.

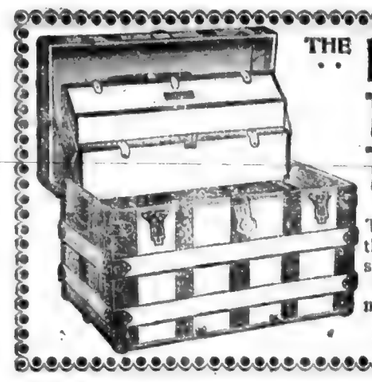
Do you think that Polly did not laugh? If so, I don't know what a laugh is.—New York Telegram.

The smallest Pill in the World!
Why do you suffer from Dyspepsia and Sick-Headache, rendering life miserable, when the remedy is at your hand?
TUTT'S
Tiny Liver Pills
will speedily remove all this trouble, enable you to eat and digest your food, prevent headache and impart an enjoyment of life to which you have been a stranger. Dose small. Price, 25 cents. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL
—AND—
BUSINESS INSTITUTE.
College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 23, 1892. Write for catalogue to
L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

Alleghany Institute,
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.
The seventh session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, 1892. It is a thorough training school for boys and young men preparing for college or for business. Excellent courses well taught by experienced teachers. The situation is in the suburbs of the city upon a high ridge, commanding a magnificent view. Ample grounds for exercise. Comfortable rooms. Terms moderate. For further information send for catalogue, and address
WILMER O. WHITESCARVER Prin.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.



THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK
THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.
The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.
Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.
If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers,
H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

YOUR SUNDAY-SCHOOL
WILL NEED
NEW BOOKS THIS SEASON.
We can Supply all Your Wants in this Line Promptly and at Publishers Lowest Prices.
OUR NEW SPECIALTIES:
Class Book and Report (five years), - - 25c. Teachers' Bibles (Oxford or Bagster), $2 to $10.
NEW SINGING BOOKS:
Master's Praise, cloth bound, by mail, 35c.
Manly's Choice, music edition, by mail, 40c.
Manly's Choice, word edition, by mail, 12c.
Notes of Triumph, round or shape notes, by mail, 30c.
Work and Worship, round or shape notes, by mail, 35c.
ANY SINGING BOOKS, PER DOZEN, BY EXPRESS, $3.60.
SEND YOUR ORDERS TO
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.
Complete Catalogue of Sunday-school Supplies free.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.
All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers' prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.
MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.
Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice."—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.
THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.
Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BUILDING MATERIAL.
Sash, Doors, Blinds.
JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
SUMMER
—AND—
ALL KINDS
—OF—
HARDWARE
FOR EVERY ONE.
Raleigh, N. C.
Belting, Twines, Fish Hooks, Etc.
Paints, Oils, Varnishes.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1892. Number 11

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Monteagle Assembly, Tennessee.

Perhaps a few lines concerning this popular summer resort would not be uninteresting to the readers of the RECORDER.

I have just returned from a trip to this interesting point to meet a committee appointed at the late session of the Southern Baptist Convention at Atlanta to consider and report upon some constitutional changes affecting the size of the body. I found it an exceedingly attractive spot. From Cowan, a station on the N. C. & St. L. Railway, between Chattanooga and Nashville, a branch line, twenty miles long, climbs Cumberland Mountain, clinging closely to the walls of uprising rock that look down upon a peaceful scene far below. Seven miles bring us to Sewanee, the seat of the Episcopal University of the South. Fourteen miles bring the traveller to the coal heights where rests Monteagle, 2,200 feet above sea level. The grounds are quite extensive, there being one hundred acres within the enclosure. From the main entrance near the depot walks and drives wander through the grounds past the amphitheatre, a cool, airy building, holding from one thousand to twelve hundred people, where the public exercises are held, out among the homes and cottages that nestle amid the trees or stretch along the shaded highways. Of these there are about one hundred and twenty-five, generally occupied by families, some preparing their own food by the use of coal oil stoves, while others take their meals at the restaurants opened on the grounds.

The Monteagle Assembly was organized ten years ago for "the advancement of science, literary attainments, Sunday-school interests, and the promotion of the broadest possible culture in the interest of christianity without regard to sects or denominations. Hence it is provided that the Board of Trustees shall be constituted of four representatives of each christian denomination recorded upon the roll, if there be so many. The members of the Assembly are those named in the certificate of incorporation, together with those elected by the Trustees, after having paid the membership fee of twenty-five dollars. The members elect the Trustees and commit to them the general oversight of all the interests of the Assembly which must be non-sectional and inter denominational. As the general welfare of society, and not individual profit, is the aim of the organization, the charter provides that no revenues shall be divided among the members, but all shall be expended to advance the interests of the Assembly. The means, assets and income must needs be used for beneficent purposes."

In the summer school fourteen departments are organized, offering more than fifty courses of instruction by distinguished specialists in educational work. Besides these there are courses of lectures, conferences and concerts provided. The Sabbath services are very much as they are at home, consisting of Sunday-school exercises and a morning and evening sermon by prominent ministers previously engaged. Dr. Lansing Burrows, of our committee, was the appointee for the morning of the Sabbath we spent there, and gave us a fine sermon on the vision in the first chapter of Ezekiel. He lectured also by appointment on Monday and Tuesday nights following. Dr. Craig, one of the Presbyterian pastors at Atlanta, was the appointee for the Tuesday night sermon, but he failing to come to time your correspondent was requested to fill his place. The audience was large but very attentive, and had a goodly number of ministers in it. Twilight prayers are had every evening, and it is a pleasant sight to see the large companies of young and old who gather to participate in them. These services have been conducted during the present season with much spirit and devout enthusiasm by Capt. Pilcher, a member of the First Baptist church of Nashville. A highly moral and religious atmosphere pervades the entire place. Arrangements are provided for innocent games and amusements, but card-playing and dancing are positively forbidden. Persons of doubtful character are not allowed to locate on the grounds. Every possible precaution is taken to make it a pleasant and attractive summer home. The surroundings are adapted to promote the welfare of the bodies, minds and souls of all who resort thither. If there be a place on the earth better suited to help at the same time the threefold nature of man, I have never seen it.

Our Baptist denomination is well represented in the management of the institution. Bro. A. P. Bourland, a professor in the Peabody Normal Institute at Nashville, is the business manager, and there are four Baptists among the Trustees. I found many of them among the visitors, among them two preachers—Dr. Loftin of Tennessee and Dr. Sproles of Mississippi. These were invited to sit with our committee in the places of Dr. Dudley, who was in Europe, and Gov. Eagle, who was critically ill in Kentucky. And I wish to make particular and grateful mention of the fact that the Assembly management furnished the members of our committee with free entertainment while there.

J. L. CARROLL.

Chapel Hill, Aug. 20.

A Layman's Talk to his Church on the Eve of a Protracted Meeting.

BY T. D. HOLLISTER, WINSTON, N. C.

Brethren:—In view of the fact that we are soon to begin a season of prayer to God for an outpouring of his Spirit among us, I have selected for our lesson to-night the fifteenth chapter of John, verses 1—8, as follows:

"I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples."

Christ here gives a very striking and unmistakable illustration of the fact that the saving of souls has been put into the hands of his people. Note, my brethren, that Christ says, "I am the true vine," and then, "Ye are the branches." Now you all know that no fruit grows upon the vine itself, but the little branches that grow out from the vine, and that draw their life and sustenance from the vine, they bear the fruit.

It is said that in a portion of Italy along the Mediterranean, there has for many years existed a most beautiful custom among the peasants. It is this: Whenever or wherever they eat an orange or a peach along the highway, in the lanes or fields, wherever it may be, they stop and, making a little hole in the soil, plant the seed. The result of this practice is that everywhere along the roadsides, lanes or hedges, wherever one may chance to go, there is an abundance of sweet, delicious fruit, free to all.

Suppose, my brethren, we should apply this practice to our spiritual lives. Oh! how quickly the gospel of our Master would spread over our land. Ever since our Saviour planted the tree of life on Calvary near two thousand years ago, his people have been partaking of its fruit. Have we been planting the seed? I am afraid not, my brethren; I must confess I have not.

This is not as God designs it. He never intended that we should be the recipients of his blessings to hoard them up. All nature belies this idea. There is no covetousness in nature. All nature receives but to give out again in some beneficial form. Even the grave, that dread receptacle, in which we are accustomed to think all things are hidden away forever—must give up its dead to a glorious life beyond.

My brethren, let me try to impress you to-night, as I am impressed, with the duty you owe to God. Plant your seed, scatter it among the sons of men; it will take nothing from you, it will add to you.

There is no waste material in nature—no idle effort. We see the rain gently falling upon the soft earth. We consider it lost, but it is not so; the earth drinks it up and is refreshed; it percolates through the soil, the sand, the clay, and away down in the valley, perhaps, it trickles out a clear, sparkling rill of water, all of its impurities gone. It creeps along among the mosses and the ferns that crowd eagerly along its pathway, giving health and pleasure as it goes. It meets a little brother rill coming down from the other side, and, clasping hands, they go along together, getting stronger as they go, and others joining them on the way. They wander on through the meadows and cause the luxuriant grass and the beautiful flowers to grow. The little fish begin to play in the waters—little fish, it is true—but they are promises of better and greater things by-and-by. On still they go, others joining them, until the cattle come and bathe in them—on until they grow strong enough to turn the wheels of our mills and factories. Then they broaden out and steamers and ships sail on their bosom, carrying our commerce to and fro, thus on to the great ocean where nations use them, carrying the products of trade to all the world, and, most beautiful thought yet, they carry the gospel of Christ to every clime. But is the work ended here? No. The sun vaporizes the waters of the ocean, the vapors form clouds, the clouds again rain upon the earth, and the same mission of beauty and benefit begins over again.

God has blessed me the past few days by permitting sickness to keep me at home. It has been a blessing to me, for it led me, while being kept from my daily pursuits, to lay aside all thought of worldly affairs and to think of him.

Through my mind has been running a little passage of Scripture: "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand, for who can tell whether this or that shall prosper, or all alike prove good." This Scripture fills my heart with conflicting emotions. First, a joy unspeakable, that to me—poor, weak, sinful, unworthy me—has been given the glorious privilege of sowing seed to the Master's gathering.

Then comes the thought, How are you using this privilege? Are you doing your duty? I can but answer, No!

My brethren, my heart is full of this subject to night. I wish I could feel sure of your sympathy, that you could feel as earnestly as I do about it. Christ says in the sixteenth verse of the chapter from which I read—"that ye bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain, that whatsoever ye ask of the Father in my name, he may give it to you." Can you ask a greater promise than this? Can you want greater assurance than this, that the blessing we all so much desire—an outpouring of God's Spirit among us—is within our reach. Let us, this night, start my brethren to prepare our hearts for this. May God help us all to do this, and I wish I could know that from now on as we go through life, we could plant the seeds of the tree of life along our way so thickly, that long after we had passed from among men, our pathway might be traced by the rich delicious fruit of salvation, growing along the way.

What Is the Good of Religion?

We use the word "religion" in this connection, as it is usually among us to-day, as synonymous with regeneration or christianity. This question is an every-day one that comes up in practice as well as in theory. Christians and sinners in all gospel lands have to meet the issue.

1. The non-believers have continuously declared there is no good in it. They have lectured on the subject with all the skill and power that men and devils could marshal; wrote great books in rhetorical and logical style; taken up some of the sciences and tried to impeach its value. They have called in the help of philosophy to bear false witness; beseeched the firm strata of mother earth to dispute it; and stooped down to the fossil remains, invoking a lie from their funeral heaps. O, how they strive to believe a lie that they may be damned, and thereby prove the infinite value of religion, by their non-belief and condemnation. They have made great sacrifices of wealth. They called the minds of the people to the great Diana temple in days of old, and calling us to-day to the thousands of like sacrifices in the construction of great houses; all for the purpose of saying there is no good in religion. They have originated thousands and thousands of amusements to attract the eyes of the world from the beauties of religion. And in their last resort they will rear up gods made by hand, and organize a system of worship made by man, and thus shut their eyes and stop their ears, lest they should say there is good in the christian religion. They have arrayed all the mistakes of the professed votaries of religion in magnified colors to perfect their erroneous hypothesis. They point us to their multitudes for proof of the position. They charm us with the harmony of sounds that we may not hear the good news of salvation, and give us the waters of Lethe when our friends die lest we catch therefrom some rays of salvation's sun. They stop their ears to the words of the dying good like the murderers of Stephen. But never once do they tell of the bright hopes of their most devoted in the world to come. "Eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow you may die," is their motto. They are good students of the Devil, and make all effort to promulgate his diabolical notions.

But alas! by sin all went astray; by transgression all were morally prone to iniquity; and without religion all must sink down to hell.

2. But religion is the antidote for sin, and the sure remedy for an aching heart. It is the soul's refuge city, the cabinet of hope, and the metropolis of faith. Religion is that boon for which the long line of martyrs were made, and their lives and deaths stand more durable than the solid base of Hermon. There we see in the history of antiquities the faithful making sacrifice:—Abraham laying his only son upon the altar of offerings in obedience to his Master, his soul so full of the glory of religion that his Lord's word was the one thing supreme; David, who served his God in war, in government and in song, because of the good of religion; Daniel, who would not deny the promises of salvation, though the great of earth conspired against him; Noah, who stood alone in defense of its realities; the Hebrew children could not be harmed, nor Elijah's God ignored, because they confided in the abiding hope. Prophet after prophet rose in confirmation of the blessed theme until Shiloh came. Its votaries continue through the flames of fire, the seas of water, and the wrecks of empires. Apostles left homes and friends, refused wealth and honor and followed the great teacher of religion. It will make men love their enemies, pray for them that despitefully use you, and do good for evil. Persecution cannot stop it, nor dungeon's walls quench it. Though you cast them down in poverty's vale, or bind their feet in stocks, they will give thanks, and sing praises to their God. No amount of troubles can hush their songs, nor can death's cold hand make them any great alarms for it is the gate to endless joys. All persons but unregenerate men and devils are interested in religion. The rich man was desirous that his brothers obtain it, and not come to him; the angels rejoice at man's acceptance of it; the Triune God was interested in the establishment of salvation; the Lord Jesus left the glory he had with the Father to perfect it; he suffered and died to complete it, and set to it the seal of its worth. He rose on the third morn and went home to the Father to perpetuate it forever. Its importance is well expressed by the poet who said:

"It is religion that can give,
Sweetest pleasure while we live;
It is religion that can supply
Solid comfort when we die."

H. C. STANDRIDGE

Slippery Places.

President Edwards delivered a discourse of tremendous solemnity and power to the impenitent from the text, "Their foot shall slide in due time." But even the paths in this life have their dangerous places, and God's people must keep fast hold of God's hand if they would walk safely. The christian who thinketh that he standeth must take heed lest he fall. One of the saddest sounds that smites upon the ears of a pastor of a church is the fall of some church-member whose feet have slipped, and he has gone down maimed and half dead.

1. A state of self confidence is always a state of danger. We always feel uneasy for those who claim to have made wonderful attainments. They exaggerate their own strength and grow presumptuous. Other people may fall; not they. So boastful Peter felt when he uttered the vainglorious vaunt, "Though all men forsake thee, Lord, yet will not I!" He was the very first to forsake his Master under the fire of the scoffers. He learned to his sorrow what a wretched weakling was Simon Peter without Jesus Christ. So dangerous is this self-confident temper of mind that I have always had the most anxiety for those who entered the church with a very glib account of themselves, in which the little word "I" and "I" was painfully prominent. These fluent talkers have often been the first to stumble; some of them ended in mere smoke. The young convert who has the poorest opinion of himself often comes to stand highest in the opinion of others. In Bunyan's marvelous allegory—which I fear is not studied as much as it once was—poor, modest "Mr. Fearing" managed to reach the Celestial City, though with such a low estimate of his own graces that he lay outside of the gate trembling, and was almost afraid to knock; but his Lord "carried it very lovingly with him" after he got in. On the other hand, rattling "Mr. Talkative" never reached heaven at all, and self-conceited "Mr. Presumption" was left lying on the road with a pair of iron fetters on his heels.

Sometimes God sees a secret pride in the hearts of his own people which needs to be chastised. This may be the reason why he often sends sore affliction on those who stand prominent before the world. They were in danger of stumbling through over confidence, and in mercy to them he brings them into a "Valley of Humiliation." A stoop has often saved from a fall. Too much "top-hammer" is perilous in any ship.

2. This leads me to say that worldly prosperity is a very slippery place to the average christian. When a man begins to grow rich in money, especially if it flows in rapidly, he is very apt to grow poorer in grace. This is not true of every one. There are some followers of Christ, like James Lennox, and William E. Dodge, and the late Mr. Fayerwether, to whom God can trust an immense income without its spoiling them. Gold is too often a hardener of the heart. When a church-member embarks in a hot race for wealth, his ambition is likely to swell with his income; the higher he rises in prosperity the more he leans over like a tall tower whose altitude is too great for the breadth of its base. Every prosperous christian ought to pray every night and morning: "O Lord, I am in a dizzy place. When my foot begins to slip, let thy mercy hold me up!"

3. In these days many in our churches are in terrible peril from sinful conformity to the ways of the world. Self-indulgence takes the backbone out of them. A luxurious style of living, an absorbing round of social pleasures, and of dancing, dressing, and drinking entertainments are generally fatal to the spirituality of those who are decoyed into them. Wholesome recreations are good for body and soul; yet there are few christians who can be trusted to stand firm in such slippery places as the theater, the ball-room, or the wine parties. Sooner or later the Devil is likely to trip them up. At fashionable summer resorts and in foreign travel this sort of christians venture over the line, and say to themselves: "We are away from home; nobody knows me here; I will 'see the elephant' for myself." With the same style of apology they venture into speculations and schemes that are no better than gambling. Ah, when the tempter gets the professed christian into such snares of sophistry and self-deception, he is already on the edge of the precipice. The man who does not feel every hour, "My Master sees me, and I am his representative before the world," is already a backslider.

4. Since this world has so many temptations, where is the safeguard? There is only one; it is this: Keep close to thy God. If the ice is thin, stay off it, and you will never be drowned. If there is ever a strong undercurrent drawing you into sin, cry unto God for help, and swim out of it! When you feel any strong inclination drawing you toward any dangerous place, pursuit, or practice, then set your foot down firmly and say to yourself: "No! not one inch farther!"

The safest rule for a christian is to practice total abstinence from everything that leads into slippery paths. Never go where you cannot ask Jesus to go with you. Never undertake what you cannot ask Jesus to help you. Never try to see how close you can drive to the edge of the precipice without going over. And whenever stern duty requires you to go where the path is icy or perilous, then remember the Psalmist's prayer: "When I cry unto thee my foot slippeth; then, O Lord, let thy mercy hold me up!"—Dr. T. L. Cuyler.

Do Your Best.

We have elsewhere alluded to some of the very serious embarrassments with which our Board has been met in this Centennial year of missions. There is another which we think of sufficient importance to merit a separate treatment. It is the smallness of our receipts and the consequent accumulation of a heavy indebtedness early in the fiscal year. The Board brought over from last year a debt of over $16,000, a sum which has grown larger week by week ever since the opening of the year. Consider—from May 1st to July 15th, when the accounts for publication in the August Journal were made up, the receipts had been only $9,024.50. How little more has been added during the succeeding month may be seen by referring to the "Receipts" of this issue. In the conduct of a growing work, such a state of things must necessarily greatly embarrass those entrusted with the work and drive them to call a halt in their advance movement.

How is this state of things to be remedied and the treasury of the Lord replenished? Certainly, not by crying hard times and lamenting our inability to do great things for the relief of the Board. Nor will the remedy be found in lamenting the indifference of the great mass of our people. That does not increase receipts. The best way in which you, reader, can help the cause is to do your best under the circumstances. Your gift may not be large, indeed it may be very small, yet it will help to bring about a better state of things. A number may be moved to do their best, and all these gifts coming together would relieve the trouble and help forward the work. Have you ever done your best for this cause? Do it now. The very best of very many is sorely needed. And let that best be done at once, for the need is pressing. Let each reader of the Journal do his or her best for foreign missions right now, and a better state of things will be inaugurated.—Foreign Mission Journal.

Golden Silence.

Long ago wise men perceived the idea that while "we are masters of our unspoken words, our spoken words are masters of us," and that silence may sometimes be more serviceable than speech. He is a wise man who can practice self-restraint at the right time. It may save him many a bitter regret, not having to remember hasty words which he would gladly recall and have unsaid. Silence may sometimes be the most effectual reply to unjust reproach; for actions speak louder than words, and will convince the gainsayer more quickly than mere argument. Nor is silence necessarily a sign of cowardice, though there is such a thing as a cowardly refusal to speak up where a principle is involved. It may often require the highest sort of moral courage to press the lips tightly together, and keep down the ready retort, at the risk of being misjudged. Many a man regrets for years afterward, that he forgot at a critical time to pray, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips," "Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue, keepeth his soul from troubles."—Moravian.

It can hardly be said that a man loves God much who does not love his word at all.—Bible Reader.

Happiness is nothing but that sweet delight which will arise from the harmonious agreement between our wills and the will of God.—Cudworth.

Some of the people who are the most anxious about the recognition of friends in heaven are the ones who shake hands with two fingers in church.—Ram's Horn.

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts and warm handshakes, these are the secondary means of grace when men are in trouble and fighting their battle.—Dr. John Hall.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1892.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

HELP IN PROTRACTED MEETINGS.

This subject is quite a practical one, and now while so many of our pastors and churches are, or expect soon to be, engaged in protracted meetings, and are more or less exercised as to what help shall be secured, a brief discussion of it may be timely, and we hope helpful, to our brethren. Some pastors attempt to conduct such meetings without any ministerial help, hoping thereby, as one good result, to draw out working talent of their own members. Well, the plan may at times be a wise one, especially when a pastor is a new man on his field of labor, and has good working talent among his members that he can draw on; but still, as a rule, people expect the pastor to procure ministerial help in protracted meetings, and are disappointed if he fails to do so. People naturally like some variety, even in preaching, and to some extent the judicious pastor will not ignore such desire.

As to the help secured, it is generally one of two kinds—first, that rendered by visiting or neighboring pastors, and secondly, that rendered by regular evangelists.

So far as securing the help of neighboring pastors is concerned, as we have before remarked, the pastor is generally the best judge as to what man he needs. The pastor is sometimes placed in an embarrassing position when over-zealous members rush to him before, or as soon as it is decided to hold a meeting, and make a special request that he invite Bro. ——, who is a special favorite with them, to aid him in the proposed meeting. This is not wise. The pastor may not even be acquainted with the brother, or, knowing him, may decidedly prefer some one else. It is almost impossible for two pastors to work harmoniously together unless they are adapted one to another, and there are hearty concord and agreement between them as to the conduct of the meeting, etc. If you approach your pastor on that subject then, brother, always show deference to his wishes and preferences by saying something like this: "If it meets your approval, or if you think he is the man for the work, I would be glad if you would invite Bro. —— to assist you; but still, I am perfectly willing to leave it to you," etc. This does not cramp the pastor, and leaves him free to act without the unpleasant reflection that he has disregarded your wishes. We rather doubt the wisdom of volunteering such requests; but at the same time the thoughtful pastor will usually show proper regard as to the wishes of the church, and may at times wisely inquire of them as to their preference, giving them to understand courteously at the same time that his choice may be different from theirs.

After the pastoral help has been secured, and the meeting commenced, it is quite important that the visiting brother should know just what the pastor expects of him, or just what he would have him do in the meeting, and what specific part of the exercises the pastor prefers reserving for himself. The failure of the pastor to state these things, and hence the failure of the visiting pastor to understand just what is expected of him, is, we verily believe, the cause of much confusion and sometimes awkward situations in protracted meetings. No sensible pastor will place himself and his church entirely in the hands of the visiting pastor, it matters not who he is, or what his reputation as a minister may be. Such a course usually terminates with the church, and even the visitor, having a lowered opinion if not contempt for the pastor.

Something like the following plan, then, is a wise one for the pastor to adopt. Let him have a candid conversation with his visitor at the very opening of the meeting, and let him tell him plainly just what he wishes him to do, so far as the public exercises are concerned. Let the visiting pastor cheerfully comply with his requests, and not vary from them unless asked, it matters not how strongly inclined he may be to do so. It is decidedly best for the pastor to inform his help that, as a rule, he will conduct the opening devotional exercise, if such is held before regular service. It would be well to ask the visiting minister to give one, or, at most, two invitations to the unconverted at the close of his sermon, and when he sees the result of such invitations, cheerfully to give way to the pastor, that he may close the meeting as he thinks best, and he usually knows best how to do so. It is not in good taste for the visiting pastor to ask the church at large to pledge or promise much and such things for the meeting more than once, if at all, because it is more properly the pastor's duty. It is especially unwise for the visiting pastor to go so far as to make such a request as this: "Let every member of this church who is willing to pray and work for the success of the meeting, come now and give the pastor their hands as an evidence of their willingness to do so." Let the pastor do that, brother, and if he does not think of the importance of thus arousing the church, suggest the plan to him kindly, thus pushing him forward, and having generosity enough to give him credit for what you conceive to be a wise thing. Do not jump up with afterthoughts, and after suggestions, when once the pastor has taken charge of the meeting and is nearly ready to close.

As to the visiting evangelist the case may be somewhat different. If he have a State or national reputation, and is noted for being helpful to pastors, the local pastor may safely give him a little more rein than is given to the visiting pastor. The evangelist may be a "professional" or specialist, and is supposed to have made protracted meetings such a study that he is well skilled in conducting them, and in this case the pastor, we repeat, can safely turn over to him some of the work that he reserves for himself when assisted by a brother pastor. But even in the case of a "distinguished" evangelist, the pastor is not wise to place himself and his church entirely in his hands, to run the whole concern according to his own methods. The pastor should never let the reins entirely go, but by word and deed should help the evangelist and the church to understand that he is and proposes to remain at the helm as long as he is pastor. His failure to do so will help to convince the church that he is not as well qualified for the position he holds as he might be.

In enforcing the plan of work above alluded to, the pastor will sometimes encounter opposition from some of his more thoughtless members, or from the visiting pastor or evangelist. If a pastor or evangelist accepts an invitation from a pastor to aid in a meeting with his church it is tacitly understood that he goes to him and his church not to control things in general, but rather to be controlled himself. Even though the visiting minister be quite superior to the pastor in experience, spiritual and intellectual gifts, yet it is a beautiful thing to see him submit cheerfully to the requests of the pastor. The Bible says, "Condescend to the brother of low estate;" and such circumstances as those alluded to above give our most talented ministers a good chance to obey this command. If any of our dignified brethren think they could not thus submit to the direction of the humbler minister of Christ, they are not under any constraint to accept his invitation. Here, as in other duties of life, the talented minister has a fine chance to cultivate that charity that "believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things."

QUERIES.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Please answer the following queries:—

1. Has an Association the right, according to the Bible and Baptist usage, to so amend her constitution as to enact a law for the government of the churches composing her body, at the same time having an article in her confession of faith declaring the old and new testament to be the word of God and her only rule of faith and practice.

2. Would it be in harmony with the Bible and Baptist polity for the Association at the next session to call on the churches to know which of them had adopted the law, and cut off or withdraw from all who had failed to adopt the law.

Yours in Christ, W. G. Brown.
Cross Roads, N. C., Aug. 26, 1892.

Answer.—To both of the above questions we say, No.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

LIBERTY ASSOCIATION.

This Association has made much progress during the last three or four years. The last session at High Point was by far the best session in many respects the body has yet held. There seems to be no division among the churches as to methods of work, and it is owing to this largely that the churches are going forward in all the work.

The introductory sermon by Rev. H. Sheets was in every respect calculated to start off the work of the Association on the right line. A good, strong sermon, one well prepared and appropriate to the occasion, goes a long way to secure a good session of an Association.

Bro. James Smith of Lexington was re-elected Moderator, and that was the right thing to do, for he is one of the best presiding officers I have seen in the State. The system and firmness with which he carries on the business of the Association adds much interest to the proceedings, besides giving to each object its due amount of consideration.

There was no day set apart for Centennial work, and yet this was combined in all the discussions on missions. This seems to be a better way than to consume an entire day talking on the Centennial of Missions, for it substantially puts the Centennial feature before the Association, and at the same time it has a specific direction to the churches, inducing them to pledge more liberally for next year's work.

Brother Fant, under whose ministry the church at High Point has greatly grown in numbers and in strength, gave us a most cordial welcome to the homes of the Baptists and citizens of the town, and no one failed to realize fully all that was implied in what the speaker said, and while the formal response was tendered by Brother S. H. Thompson, now of Virginia, the more substantial acknowledgement was made from day to day by each one of us as we enjoyed the kind hospitality of the good people of the town.

A delayed train made it necessary for Bro. Durham and myself to leave High Point and go by the way of Statesville and Taylorsville in order to reach the

BRUSHY MOUNTAIN ASSOCIATION

Friday morning. A drive of fifteen miles through the country from Taylorsville through a drenching rain brought us to Moravian Falls, where we spent the night with Bro. Spainhour. Crops are fine in this section, and have not suffered for rain as they have further east.

We found quite a large number of brethren in attendance on the Association. Besides the brethren who usually attend to represent the denominational work, quite a number of Associations had sent messengers to the Brushy Mountain.

It was inspiring to note the interest which was manifested in the discussion of the various subjects which came before the Association. One thing that impressed me favorably was that the churches gave about the same for all objects. State, Home and Foreign Missions seemed to be regarded as of equal importance, as was shown in the pledges which were made.

A splendid discussion was had on education, Bro. Gwaltney representing specially the Board at Wake Forest—other brethren speaking upon general education.

Bro. J. F. Spainhour in a very excellent and forcible speech plead for the education of the Baptist girls in the State.

Bro. C. A. Jenkens was here in the interest of the Oxford Female Seminary, but was compelled to leave before the discussion on education was taken up. He, however, in the sermon he preached and the personal contact which he had with the brethren made a most favorable impression both for him and the institution he represented.

Bro. Bradshaw has just opened his school at Moravian Falls, and has a fine prospect for a good school. Bro. Turner, the principal of the academy at Boomer, was present looking after the interest of his school. These two schools are doing fine work for the Association and for Wake Forest College, and will continue to grow in favor and in patronage, as they deserve to do.

On Sunday was the discussion by Dr. Durham of State Missions. The house could not seat over half of the large crowd which came from all over this mountain region. Several brethren made good speeches on the subject of periodicals, and also helped me in other ways to secure a fine list of new subscribers. J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Rev. Dr. A. G. McManaway is on a trip to Little Rock, Ark.

....Dr. John A. Broadus is resting at Rawley's Springs, Virginia.

....Rev. A. C. Dixon has retired from the editorial staff of the Baptist, Baltimore.

....Rev. J. B. Boone and wife returned from their trip to the mountains on September 2d.

....Prof. William Royall, D. D., of Wake Forest College, has been to Shelby for his health.

....Rev. J. W. Wildman has gone to Wadesboro and began his work there as pastor last Sunday.

....Our readers will rejoice to hear that Bro. Herring is recovering from his attack of fever at Wilmington.

....It is thought that Dr. McLaurin will accept the call recently tendered him to Wood Avenue church, Detroit.

....Rev. J. L. Cottingham is holding a meeting at Bethlehem church, this county. He baptized twelve last Sunday.

....Wake Forest College opens to-day with a prospect of enrolling more new students this year than ever before.

....Rev. B. H. Dement has been called to the church at Lexington, Va., and is holding a protracted meeting there now.

....Rev. J. M. Bridges has been assisting Rev. J. A. Hoyle in a meeting at the new Baptist church at Maiden, Catawba county.

....Dr. V. N. Seawell of Villanow passed through Raleigh Sunday on his return from Goldsboro, where he attended the funeral of his twenty-one-year-old son. We extend our warmest sympathy to our brother.

....The executive committee has called a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Shaw University for Sept. 13th.

....We regret to hear that Bro. F. P. Moore of Globe has sustained a heavy loss in the burning of his large barn and stables.

....Rev. H. A. Brown of the First church, Winston, filled the pulpit of the Tabernacle, Raleigh, on Sunday last, in the absence of Dr. Hall in Winston.

....We are glad to hear that Rev. Geo. E. Truett, pastor of the College Hill Baptist church, Lynchburg, Va., is getting along well with his work.

....Rev. C. W. Matthews has been obliged to give up his plans to go to the Louisville Seminary this fall on account of the recent illness of his wife.

....Bro. Lewis Scotten of Holloman's Mills writes us that he feels that he has been called to preach, and would like for some of the brethren to write to him.

....The clerk of each Association ought this year to have the minutes printed and in the hands of the people in ten days after the Association adjourns. Why not?

....Revs. L. M. Curtis and B. Craig have been holding a good meeting at Republican church, Bertie county, resulting in thirty professions and seven restorations.

....Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., preached his last sermon for the summer at Nag's Head Sunday, 28th ult., and resumed his regular pastorate in New York last Sunday.

....Among those baptized as a result of the meeting held at New Prospect church by Rev. Thomas Dixon, Sr., assisted by Rev. N. Moss, was a lady seventy-two years of age.

....We are glad to learn that Rev. T. J. Taylor, the pastor at Warrenton, has recovered from his recent sickness, and held an interesting meeting at Steedsville last week.

....Rev. Dr. J. W. Carter of the First church, Raleigh, has returned from his vacation, which he spent at his former home in West Virginia, and occupied his pulpit on Sunday last.

....We are glad to announce that Bro. A. D. Hunter has decided to extend the time at which his resignation as pastor of the Greenville church goes into effect until the last of December.

....The Oxford Seminary has opened under the most favorable auspices, more boarding students being present on the first day than were there at any time during the last spring term.

....The meeting at Winston conducted by Revs. Drs. Broughton and Hall is very promising so far. There were several conversions last week, and the meetings will be continued through this week.

....We were glad to see Rev. I. T. Newton, who passed through this city on his way to Wake Forest College Monday. Bro. Newton has spent a great part of his vacation working among the churches.

....Rev. G. L. Finch has resigned the pastorate of his churches at La Grange and Snow Hill, the resignation to take effect November 1st. Bro. Finch is ready to work wherever the Lord may direct him.

....Rev. Dr. John A. Broadus has refused all engagements to supply pulpits, and has been spending the summer months in his study at Louisville, Ky., hard at work upon the "Life of Dr. J. P. Boyce."—Watchman.

....We were pleased to see Rev. J. R. Maynard in our office Monday. He reports having closed a good meeting at Collins Grove, this county, resulting in eight baptisms. He is called to Shady Grove church next year.

....Rev. L. Johnson writes: "I was in the midst of a most glorious meeting at Lilesville, but after the fourth day was obliged to give up and come home. There were between thirty or forty penitents and very profound interest.

....Dr. J. B. Solomon has removed from Owensboro, Ky., to Hawesville, of that State. He preaches twice a month at Hawesville and once at Lewisport. Bro. Solomon writes: "God bless my native State and the Recorder."

....A protracted meeting was commenced at Brooklyn Baptist church at Wilmington, Sunday, August 28th, and has been continued all last week. The meetings were conducted by Rev. M. L. Kesler of Lauriburg, assisted by Rev. S. D. Swaim of Wilmington.

....The Pilot Mountain Association was held August 4th to 7th, 1892, and to-day, Sept. 1st, a copy of the minutes are before me. In these there is only one serious defect—there are no additions of any of the tables of statistical information.—C. Durham.

....During the month just passed we have been sending out notices of expired subscriptions to many of our subscribers. Some have answered our call very promptly, and merit our thanks, others have not. We need the money, and hope all who are able will pay us as soon as possible.

....The Gastonia church cordially invites all representatives of Baptist enterprises to attend the King's Mountain Association which meets here on Sept. 22d. If they will notify either myself or Bro. J. C. Squier they will be met at the depot and entertained during their stay.—F. C. Hickson.

....Rev. Adoniram Judson remained in India thirty-three years, after he first went out, before he returned to this country. He was present at the General Convention in New York City in November, 1845, and the Southern Baptist Convention in Richmond in 1846, and in both of these great meetings "he did not consider it his duty to take any part in the controversies of the hour on mission methods."

....Rev. W. H. Sledge reports a very good meeting having closed at Kerr's Chapel on Sunday, resulting in some additions to the church and a good many conversions. He says there seemed to be a general awakening by the Holy Spirit, and that the glory belongs to God.—Leaksville Gazette, Sept. 4.

....There is only one book on theology—viz: "Systematic Theology," by A. H. Strong, President of Rochester Theological Seminary. We most earnestly urge every Baptist preacher in North Carolina to purchase and master this book. No book, of human origin, that we have examined, is so stimulating to mind and heart.—C. Durham.

....Dr. W. A. Nelson is slowly recovering, and will remain in the city for a while, hoping to get his strength back. Our people, regardless of church relations, believe in this good man, and confide in him as they do in but few men. All of us pray that long years of usefulness may be given to both himself and wife.—Asheville Baptist.

....We are pained to learn from Bro. N. P. Stallings that his little son, ten years old, received an injury from a fall while spending a few days at his grandparents, from which he died on last Sunday. Brother and Sister Stallings were on their way to their home in Camden county. We extend to them our heartfelt sympathy in this sore affliction.

....In the biography of William Carey by Joseph Belcher, page 145, it is said that Carey saw before his death two hundred and twelve thousand copies of the Scriptures issued from his press in Serampore. These were in forty different languages, the vernacular tongues of three hundred and thirty millions of people, of whom more than one hundred millions were British subjects.—C. Durham.

....Rev. C. S. Farriss, of the Florida Witness, and professor elect of Greek in DeLand University, is pursuing some special studies at the University of Virginia. He will occupy the Baptist parsonage and supply for the Charlottesville pastor during his vacation. A number of recent baptisms have rejoiced the heart of pastor Turpin.—Baptist Courier.

....In his circular of January 14th, 1892, addressed to the churches of the King's Mountain Association, Rev. G. P. Bostick says: "If you will raise $600 yearly and put into the hands of my brethren I will become your missionary. My wife will look to her Association for a similar amount." This is the salary Bro. Bostick thinks will be needed under the "new plan," and is the same that the Board pays under the present plan.

....On the third Sunday in August Elders I. T. Newton, our pastor, and J. M. Alderman closed a good meeting which had been in progress nine days at New Hope church, Central Association. Eleven persons professed faith in Jesus Christ and five were added to the church. Others will likely be added at our next meeting. The church was greatly revived. The spirit of the Lord was with us. To God be all the praise.—W. H. Boykin.

....It was given out that Bill Fife, the evangelist, was to have commenced a meeting here on the 20th of last month. The meeting, however, did not commence, because, as we are informed, the church people of Shelby did not feel like complying with his unreasonable and exorbitant demands. Fife wanted the people here to guarantee him $200, pay his singers, rent and erect a tent to be furnished with seats after the manner of a circus tent, and to pay all incidental expenses. This was declined.—Shelby Review, Sept. 2.

....Rev. Frank Royall's sermon at the Baptist church Sunday morning was one of the best that he has preached here. His subject was "The Judgment." It was a touching, tender discourse, full of kindly admonition to prepare for the final day. The sermon at night was the last that Mr. Royall will preach here before he returns to college. As our readers know, he is being prepared for missionary work in China by the Reidsville Baptist church and will be supported in that field by this church. He gives promise of great usefulness, being a young man of ability, zeal and piety.—Webster's Weekly, Aug. 30.

....We clip the following account of the meeting at Dr. Broughton's church of Winston from the Sentinel of the 1st inst.: "Another crowded house greeted Dr. Hall last night. 'A waiting Saviour' was his theme. The text was from Rev. 3: 20, 'Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and sup with him and he with me.' The preacher said it was evident from the text that God was desirous of recognition. It was to this end that the great plan of salvation had been ordained. The Saviour's attitude is not that of the beggar at the door of the king, but the king at the door of the beggar. His standing indicates a possibility of his eventual departure if the door is not opened. If the door of the heart is kept closed against the spirit's influences then the doors of heaven will be closed against that soul when it presents itself for admittance to the celestial city. The greater portion of the audience remained to an after-meeting during which there were ten professions and much interest manifested."

Sandy Creek Association.

All delegates and visiting brethren who expect to attend the Sandy Creek Association to be held at Bethlehem church, Moore county, N. C., commencing September 22, 1892, coming by railroad, and want conveyance from Carthage to church will please inform the committee on hospitality on what day and hour they want to leave Carthage, and they will be met with a conveyance.

Daniel Hannon, Chm'n Com.

P. S. Direct all letters to Carthage, N. C.

The Associations and their Work.

The second day of August, 1892, found the representatives of the churches gathering in the Central, the first Association to hold its annual meeting this summer.

EIGHT ASSOCIATIONS

have been held. The writer has attended seven of them. With a single exception these meetings have been above the general average in interest and in missionary zeal. The contributions from them all will be, we hope, an advance on any previous year's work.

DURING SEPTEMBER

eight other Associations will be held. At each of these, except the King's Mountain, we hope to meet the brethren and talk with them about the Master's work. No department should be neglected. State, Home and Foreign Missions, with Sunday-schools and Colportage, must be kept before the churches, and the needs and results in each of these departments made known to the people.

STATE MISSIONS

should, however, be made specially prominent till the Convention in Raleigh next December. The Board has under appointment this year one hundred missionaries, located in thirty-four, out of the forty, Associations connected with the Convention. This work has been arranged for on the financial basis of fifteen thousand dollars, and, with the two thousand dollars brought over from last year, we will have to secure about seventeen thousand dollars for State Missions this year. To do this will require the united efforts of all the Associations and churches and brethren and sisters in the Convention.

NINETEEN ASSOCIATIONS

will hold their annual sessions in October, and four in November. There will be, therefore, from two to six Associations held every week till the second week in the month of November. At these thirty-one Associations yet to be held, there will be gathered between 50,000 and 75,000 people. At these meetings are given the finest possible opportunities to inform, to unify, to stimulate and lift up our people to larger views of their responsibilities and opportunities, and to impress our denominational principles and work on the general public.

THE CLERK

of each Association should have the minutes published and distributed to the churches fifteen or twenty days after the adjournment. The minutes are published for use, and the sooner they are in the hands of the people the more helpful they are to the churches. It is useless to spend so much money in painting minutes each year, if the churches have to wait from four to eight months, as they do in many cases, before they can see them. All statistical tables should be properly arranged as complete as possible, and in each column all additions should be made. On the outside or cover page the time and place for the next session should be stated. The name and post-office of the superintendent of every Sunday-school should be printed in the minutes. This is not done by many of the clerks.

IF NEW HOUSES OF WORSHIP

have been built during the year, the minutes should show the facts—the name of the church, the county in which it is located, and the cost of the same. If houses of worship have been repaired, the facts should be stated in the minutes. Why not?

THE MONEY

for the various objects, as received and acknowledged in the RECORDER up to the last of August, 1891:

State Missions	$ 5,060 97
Home Missions	2,124 92
Foreign Missions	5,958 80
Total for these objects	$13,144 69

You can see from the Treasurer's report to the end of August, 1892:

State Missions	$ 3,729 79
Home Missions	5,413 04
Foreign Missions	5,404 86
Total for these objects	$14,547 69

The advance in these objects combined this year, up to the last of August, over last year's receipts, is $1,403, but $1,331.18 less has been received this year for State Missions. Let pastors and churches see to it that the work of State Missions is kept before the churches till the Convention.

C. DURHAM.

Mt. Gilead Church.

Dear Recorder:—We commenced a meeting with Mt. Gilead church, Mt. Zion Association, on Friday before the third Sunday in August, which continued twelve days. There were twenty-five professions.

The baptizing will take place on the third Sunday morning in September at ten o'clock. We expect to baptize about twenty. The church was greatly revived. The congregations were large and the interest widespread. The Lord be praised for the precious manifestations of his grace and goodness.

Fraternally, W. H. EDWARDS.

Wake Forest, Sept. 2, 1892.

God's Blessing at New Prospect.

Dear Recorder:—I must say to you that the good Lord has blessed us once more at New Prospect church. We commenced a meeting on Saturday before the second Sunday in August, and it continued two weeks. I don't know how a meeting could be better in this world than this one was. Thirty-eight joined—thirty-seven by experience and one by letter. I baptized thirty-six the last day, which was last Sunday. Our church numbers over three hundred. I have been the pastor for about thirty-seven years.

T. DIXON.

The Education Most Desirable.

An education to be desired, must not only be broad, but it must be safe. Is an education obtained under the auspices of a denomination, really less broad than that obtained otherwise? An honest consideration of this question on the part of those who have been pleased to hold with the affirmative, would greatly broaden their heretofore narrow views concerning denominational colleges. There is no denominational college worthy of the name that does not encourage the widest and most thorough investigation of the whole range of subjects of learning, both human and divine, and to the extent of their financial resources these are taught. Can there be any training broader than that? They do assume the duty of pointing out to the student the difference between wisdom and folly, and the difference between safe and unsafe conclusions, especially commending the wise and safe.

The widest ocean has shores and along these shores are harbors and shoals and reefs and rocks. A captain of a ship with a valuable cargo would be an object of pity, if he only knew how to sail in an open shoreless sea. He must know where the dangers are and how to steer through them into the safe harbors. Denominational training seeks not only to make thorough scholars in all the departments of learning, but also to point out the nature of the results of knowledge—the safe and the dangerous, and commends most heartily the safe harbors of thought. It forces the acceptance of no recommendation. It is not only deeply interested in the broadest culture, but also especially in that culture which will result in the wisest, best, and most useful living; not only to know well but to live well.

General secular education is not even so broad as denominational, for the former is concerned with knowledge in its application to the issues of time, while the latter includes that and also leads the student on to investigate that wisdom that has to do with eternity—the home of the soul.

How many talented young men, magnificently trained mentally and physically, have started out grandly on life's wide sea, and have made sad shipwreck of their lives because their culture did not extend widely enough to include those indispensable moral restraints that insure a safe voyage. They were well trained for the open sea, but for the shores, the hidden sands, the rocks—how deficient! Those denominationally trained are not exempt from similar fates, yet they are less likely to occur.

The safest education is that which causes a young man to recognize that moral restraints over individual conduct is not only manly but absolutely essential to that high type of manhood called gentleman. There are many who advocate this "broad education," so called, who would repel with indignation the charge of not being gentlemen, yet they are morally base. Their broad education simply means one without the necessity of allegiance to God in purity of life—without anything personally religious.

To parents, the saddest calamity is to be disappointed in their sons, and such a misfortune rarely falls upon those whose sons deem it manly for their actions to conform to wholesome moral restictions. Not a few discreet and pious parents have been disappointed in the career of their sons at college. It is because their sons are only too glad to throw off the close home restrictions to follow those more reckless in the attainment of various immoralities. What a young man gets at college depends upon what he carries there. However his outward conduct may have been before his parents, if he carries a deep under strata of loose views of virtue, of honor, and of devotion to duty, he is very likely to come away having "sown to the wind and reaped the whirlwind." No college is responsible for such failures. In spite of parental training, their aspirations were low and unworthy, and college training develops what is already in the boy. It does not make new boys.

To parents, Wake Forest College offers this safe training for their sons. It exhalts that knowledge that makes wise unto "safety." No other advantage can compensate for the one of safety.

To all young men of honor, whose bosoms thrill with a lofty purpose, and who desire to be fitted to do manfully their part in the real work of life, Wake Forest College offers a most inviting opportunity. Among her sons are numbered men of the most liberal views and widest influence.

W. J. FERRELL.

Needs of Pine Level Baptist Church.

This church has been struggling under a very great difficulty ever since its organization—that of having only the hull of a very commonly built house out of rough lumber to worship in.

Bro. John Worley, who has gone long ago to heaven, owned only two and a half acres of land, with a home upon it. He mortgaged it to secure a debt incurred in building said house of worship, until Rev. Dr. W. B. Harrell, the then pastor in charge, could raise the money and pay the debt off. They used their house a number of years without any glass windows in it. I think it was about six years ago, while Rev. J. K. Howell preached for them, they put some in.

About that time, Bro. D. H. Graves of Selma got up a very large Sunday-school and needed an infant-class room. Through his influence and liberality, the Sunday-school added a piece to the end of the church similar to the old building, out of rough material. Bro. Graves did a good work in the Sunday-school, but very little strength was added to our church. We could not hope for our denomination to gain influence and strength in any community under similar circumstances, especially where we are surrounded with strong opposition.

I have been trying to preach for this little church something over a year; and many times have the cold winds coming through the open floor and walls, and the rain falling through the roof, caused us to shiver, while we were trying to worship our Lord and Master. I have prayed to the Lord more than once to open a way to better the condition of his house at this place, when I knew I had nothing to lean upon but the omnipotent possibilities of God. This improvement seemed to be an impossibility for our little church to make, for the membership is very poor, most of them working for small wages, with large families to support. After much prayer to the Lord, and talking with his people, he put it into the heart of the leading member of the church to undertake rebuilding. So we have taken off the old plank and have put the old house in shape. We have about half of the weather-boarding on, and about half of the shingles ready. We have not any money, but the brethren are doing what they can with their own hands. We are very much in need of some money to buy the material which we can't get out ourselves. We don't know where the money will come from. But we are hoping, praying and believing that the Lord will put it in the heart of some of his people who have money to send us some. We don't need but one hundred dollars.

Now, brethren and sisters, who will send me five dollars for Pine Level church? Who will send one dollar? All moneys received will be acknowledged in the RECORDER.

Yours for Christ,

J. W. ROSE.

Pine Level, N. C.

A few Dots from Durham.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I have lately held two successful meetings with my churches near Durham. Altogether, there were thirty-one professions, restorations, &c. I had the assistance of Rev. Thos. Leary of Morehead City, N. C. "Tom" is a good preacher, and bids fair to be a useful man in the ministry. We have great occasion to thank the Lord for his signal blessings bestowed upon pastors and churches throughout the State. I expect to aid the pastor at Glady's, Va., the week following the second Sunday in September. I pray the Lord's blessing on the work there. Glady's is near one of my boyhood homes, and you can imagine what a joy it will be to me to preach to the people that live amid the hills and valleys where I roamed and fished and hunted when a boy. It is said "Distance lends enchantment to the views," but it is never so when one thinks of the scenes of his early life. I have lately enjoyed the sweet but sad pleasure of visiting the homes of my childhood (one in Botetourt, the other in Campbell county, Va.,) and as I walked again the familiar paths that I trod when a thoughtless happy boy, and gazed upon the scenes that greeted my eyes when I had read but little from life's book, there were within me thoughts—oh well, I will not trouble you with them, or try now to describe them!

OUR CHURCHES

here seem to be prospering. In fact Durham is on another boom; a solid one, this time I think. Bro. Tyree at the First church is succeeding finely. His preaching and pastoral gifts have enabled him thus early in his pastorate to get a firm hold upon the affections of his people. The pastors at the Second and Third churches are, I believe, doing well. There is considerable cry of "hard times" among the farmers, but the recent rains will brighten their prospects. I will close with that any member of our Ministers' Relief Board, who may attend any of the Associations this fall, to be so kind as to represent our Board at such meetings. And I hereby earnestly request some friend of our work to represent us at the next meeting of his Association. I have written to a good many, but at some of the Associations we have had no one to speak for our aged brethren. This request is made especially of pastors and prominent laymen. If any lack information, let them write to me and I will send it by return mail. It will not be in my power to visit many Associations this fall.

A SPECIAL REQUEST

C. A. WOODSON.

Independence Hill Church.

Dear Recorder:—We have just passed through a gracious meeting of nine days, conducted by our pastor, Rev. J. A. Hoyle.

Rev. J. B. Boone did the preaching, and did it well. Bro. Boone is much beloved by our people. He was at one time pastor of our church.

There were nine additions by baptism, and the christians were edified and brought nearer to God and each other. There are still those who came up for prayer, and yet say they are unsaved.

Brethren, pray for us at Independence Hill, Mecklenburg county, N. C.

J. F. HAWKINS.

Aug. 24, 1892.

A Gracious Season in Concord.

Dear Recorder:—I have been in some good meetings this summer. I have been working with Rev. G. W. Rollins in his churches. But I specially want to mention a meeting which we held at Concord church, for I have never been in such a meeting before. Twenty-one have already been baptized, and others are waiting for an opportunity. The meeting continued to get better, and we were forced to stop on account of another appointment.

The great secret of the success was, that the church seemed to be united and all willing to work for the same end.

I know of no church in this part of the State that is in any better condition than Concord seems to be. The Lord did so graciously and tenderly pour out his blessings upon us. May such blessings ever be over them. Yours in the work,

J. E. GREEN.

Mooresboro, Aug. 31, 1892.

Letter from Rev. J. G. Fisher.

Dear Recorder:—A few lines from this portion of the State may be of interest to your readers.

It may seem to some as the North Carolina Baptist is published down here and some of us are connected with it, that we have lost interest in the RECORDER; but not so: it is still one of the most welcome visitors we have, and we expect it to come to our houses as long as we live. We thank God and take courage and pray God to still bless it in its mission, and make it still more powerful for good than ever before.

I give some facts in connection with my work for the last few weeks:

At McAlpin's Grove church in the Robeson Association, we had a good meeting. At the close, I baptized eight and two were restored. Brother A. R. Moore of Red Springs preached four good sermons during the meeting.

At Providence church, Robeson Association, we continued a meeting nine days. At the close of the meeting, it was the privilege of the writer to baptize twenty-four, and one has been baptized since. Among the number was a man eighty three years old. The writer was assisted most of the time by Bro. J. H. Cobb of Chadbourn who did real good, earnest work, which was highly appreciated by his many old friends and the people at large.

At the request of the church at Raft Swamp, I assisted the pastor, Rev. M. A. Stephens, a few days. During his meeting, twenty seven were baptized and twelve restored. Revs. V. I. Masters and Hedgepeth assisted part of the time. We heard them highly spoken of. Bro. Stephens is one of the most honest and beloved workers we know of. He is a man of much power and has given his time this year entirely to study and his work, notwithstanding he is a man of family and living in the country.

At the call of Green Springs church, my mother church (where I have been going ever since its organization in my boyhood days), I went to assist our pastor, Rev. D. S. Bullard. At the close of the meeting of nine days, at the request of the pastor, it was my privilege to baptize eight persons, among whom were two of my sons, Matthew Yates and Joseph Harrison.

The Spirit of the good Lord was present in great power in all these meetings, and to God be all the glory.

Now a word to all the churches of the Cedar Creek Association. Dear brethren, please remember it is only a little over one month till our annual meeting. This being the Centennial of Missions, let every church and pastor go to work as we have never done before, and let every church respond cheerfully to the request of our Corresponding Secretary of Missions and raise double what they have done heretofore.

Dear brethren, let not the stir and discussion on the departure in missions cause us to withhold a cent from the treasury of the Lord, but let the discussion go on until we all know just where our money goes, and who gets it, and how much every man gets, and the time and labor given for it. While the brethren are writing on and discussing the subject, it does seem it would be better for them and the cause if they would be a little more careful to respect the feelings and opinions of others. Why not let the Foreign Mission Board settle the whole matter by giving through the RECORDER a plain, simple itemized account of all last year's work, and let the minutes of the next Convention give the same for this year? These things have got to come before the people, and the sooner the better.

I remain yours as ever,

J. G. FISHER.

Roslin, Aug. 26, 1892.

New Hope and Flat Rock Meetings.

Dear Recorder:—On Saturday before the second Sunday in August a series of meetings was commenced with the church at New Hope, (Central Association), and continued nine days. Nearly all the preaching was done by Bro. J. M. Alderman of Duplin county.

As a result of the meeting there were five added to the church by baptism and others are expected to follow soon.

On Saturday before the third Sunday, a meeting began with the church at Flat Rock, Central Association, and continued nine days, resulting in thirteen additions by baptism and one by restoration. Others to be baptized next meeting. Two of those baptized will take letters to other churches.

At this meeting most of the preaching was done by brethren Alderman and J. V. Deveny. Visiting brethren rendered valuable aid by exhortation.

Brethren Alderman and Deveny preach as though they really believe that a minister is not instrumental in the salvation of souls by making a "racket," but by preaching the word as it is, and praying the Holy Spirit to apply that word to the hearts and consciences of men. Fraternally,

I. T. NEWTON.

Wake Forest, August 29, 1892.

Accessions in Five Meetings.

Roanoke Island, Shiloh, Bethel, Oak Ridge, Northwest—102 members added.

At Roanoke Island, Rev. Josiah Elliott helped me. There were added nineteen to the church. Much revived.

Oak Ridge, Revs. C. S. Burgess and Gid Brey. Six accessions.

Shiloh, Rev. R. R. Overby, D. D., C. B. Williams, C. S. Burgess, Gid Brey. Fifty-four added. Church in good condition.

Bethel, Rev. C. S. Burgess was with me. Six added to the church.

Northwest. Seventeen accessions. Revs. C. S. Burgess, Josiah Elliott, J. F. Tuttle and N. M. Munden were with us one day. Church much revived.

I go to help Rev. G. C. Davis at Elm City, N. C., in a few days. Pray for us, christian.

P. S. C. DAVIS.

News from My Field.

Dear Recorder:—I give a few words from my field.

CUMBERLAND UNION.

The meeting last week in July was protracted near a week. Three young men were added by baptism, and one was restored. Bro. J. R. Maynard was with me and preached effectively Monday and Tuesday. Bro. J. N. Boothe of Edgefield, S. C., preached three days and captured the congregation by some very forceful sermons. North Carolina could ill afford to lose this growing young brother.

APEX.

Here we protracted a week after the first Sunday. Bro. J. W. Millard did most of the preaching. He has effectually won all without exception. There were some ten or twelve confessions, seven baptized, and one was restored. The church, I feel, is on a higher plane of christian living than ever before. The church here has, in past years, gone through some severe trials, but it is to day stronger and better organized, perhaps, than ever before.

SWIFT CREEK, WAKE COUNTY.

We protracted here after the third Sunday in August. I had no ministerial aid, except Bro. Millard preached once for us. The church seemed to be in the Spirit, and the power of the Spirit was manifested each day. There were some ten or twelve professions. Seven additions resulted. Others are looked for. This meeting was remarkable for the perfect quiet that prevailed all through. But the Spirit did his work.

CARTHAGE, MOORE COUNTY.

I propose to protract there from the second Sunday in September, and shall need some ministerial aid. Pray for us that the Holy Spirit may work in us effectually there

I want to bear testimony here to the credit of the brethren of the churches where meetings have been held. They gave politics a back seat in all these meetings and consecrated themselves to the "one thing" of serving the Lord. Shame upon the christian whose religion is second to any other consideration.

May His kingdom come.

J. M. WHITE.

A Good Meeting and a New Church.

I commenced a meeting at Pittman's School-house, three miles east of Whitaker's, Edgecombe county, the second Sunday in August. So far as the writer was able to find out, this was the second Missionary Baptist meeting ever held in this section of the country. Large and attentive congregations attended the services, and nearly all seemed to be moved by the gospel.

Dr. Hufham came to hand in time to give the congregation one of his convincing Bible readings on Baptist doctrine.

Five were buried with Christ in baptism by the writer, and quite a number of others expressed their intention of joining soon.

On the last night of the meeting, the following brethren met and organized a Missionary Baptist church: Dr. J. D. Hufham and C. J. Austin of Tarboro, Q. C. Davis of Elm City, Noah Biggs and E. E. Hilliard of Scotland Neck. The church was duly organized with eight members. Two others joined afterwards. The prospects are good for a strong church at that place.

We also expect to organize a church next Sunday at Lane's School-house.

Brethren, the Lord is opening the way, shall we not possess the land? All we need is money to build churches, and more missionaries with grace, grit and gumption.

J. R. PAGE.

Bethel, September 1, 1892.

From Towns County, Ga.

Dear Recorder:—We are rejoiced to write you that God is blessing his people with revivals all along the lines.

Our Hiawassee Association was attended with many good brethren all working in unity of spirit and in the bonds of love. A glorious revival of religion has been realized with the church with which it convened.

Also, at Macedonia, there is now in progress a splendid meeting, and at many other churches in the vicinity.

As I read your paper and ours, I see that God is hearing and answering the prayers of Zion far and near, and the wandering children are turning home.

Let us praise God from whom all blessings flow, and by his grace onward to victory go.

H. C. STANDRIDGE.

August 27, 1892.

Messrs. Julius Lewis & Co. of Raleigh have conducted a hardware business for twenty-five years, and they promote the interest of the farmers by giving them the best goods at the lowest prices. They carry one of the largest stocks in the State. Read their advertisement to be found on the eighth page of this paper, and write to them or call in person. We recommend the firm to the public as gentlemen of the highest character and excellent merchants.

We call attention to the advertisement of Mr. Edward Fasnach, Jeweler and Optician. Persons needing fine jewelry will find here the best and most reliable goods at the lowest prices. We have known Mr. Fasnach for twenty years, and commend him to our readers and the public generally.

Owing to the sickness of the Treasurer, Bro. J. D. Boushall acknowledgement of moneys received by him appear this week. They will be given in our next issue.

No thoroughly occupied man was ever miserable.—London.

Centennial Meetings in Raleigh Association.

At a conference of the pastors of the churches composing the Raleigh Baptist Association, it was determined to hold mass-meetings at convenient and central points during September, with a view to giving information and interesting our people in the great work of missions. Brethren and sisters from all the churches surrounding are earnestly urged to attend the appointment nearest to them, and to come prepared to spend the day. Addresses will be delivered by those named, and others who may desire to do so.

WESTERN SECTION.

Speakers—Rev. Dr. J. J. Hall, Rev. O. L. Stringfield, Rev. O. C. Horton, and Rev. J. L. Cottingham. Times and places of mass-meetings are as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 20, Green Level church; night, Apex.

Wednesday, Sept. 21, Mt. Hermon; night, Morrisville; Thursday, Sept. 22, Mt. Zion; night, Cary.

Friday, Sept. 23, Collins' Grove; night, Holly Springs.

Saturday, Sept. 24, Pleasant Grove.

Sunday, Sept. 25, Swift Creek; night, Bethel.

EASTERN SECTION.

Speakers—Rev. C. W. Blanchard, Rev. F. H. Poston, Rev. J. M. White, and N. B. Broughton. Times and places of mass-meetings are as follows:

Monday, Sept. 26, Mt. Moriah; night, Clayton.

Tuesday, Sept. 27, Shiloh; night, Smithfield.

Wednesday, Sept. 28, Carter's Chapel; night, Selma.

Thursday, Sept. 29, White Oak.

Friday, Sept. 30, Johnston Antioch.

Saturday, Oct. 1, Hephzibah.

These addresses will embrace the following subjects:

"The Fields now Occupied, and the Success of Past Effort in Occupying Them." Rev. Dr. J. J. Hall for the Western Section, and Rev. C. W. Blanchard for the Eastern.

"The Need of the Gospel for the Heathen." Rev. O. L. Stringfield for the Western, and N. B. Broughton for the Eastern.

"New Fields to be Occupied, and the Demand for Same." Rev. O. C. Horton for the Western, and Rev. J. M. White for the Eastern.

"The Work at Home." Rev. J. L. Cottingham for the Western, and Rev. F. H. Poston for the Eastern.

It is hoped that these meetings will be great occasions for blessing and information. Let prayer be made in all the churches, and let us come together expecting the Holy Spirit's presence and power.

For the Conference,
N. B. BROUGHTON, Secretary.

Yadkin Association.

This body met with the church at Cross Roads, Yadkin county. The weather was very dry and the roads very dusty, but that did not keep the brethren at home, and by eleven o'clock the house was full and thirty churches were represented.

The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Lewellyn from the narrative of the five loaves and two fishes. We regret very much to note that Bro. Lewellyn has moved from the Old Yadkin Association, as he has been the great leader in that Association for more than a quarter of a century. It is to be hoped that he will not forget the Old Yadkin Association and the people with whom he has labored so long, and will continue to visit them till the Angel shall call him home to receive his reward.

A large number of visiting brethren were present: Brethren Frost, Wiseman and others, from South Yadkin; brethren Tharp, Millsaps, V. M. Swaim and others, from Brier Creek; Rev. J. H. Lewellyn and Rev. S. F. Conrad from Pilot Mountain.

The report on Periodicals was read by Rev. Mr. Edwards, who, together with several other brethren, made speeches for the RECORDER, North Carolina Baptist and Charity and Children.

State Missions was then discussed by Maj. Foot, K. Thompson and R. B. Day. A collection was taken up, during which time Dr. C. Durham came and was called on for a speech, and the audience was pleasantly entertained by him for a short time.

The report on Temperance was read by Bro. M. P. Davis, and a heated discussion followed, after which the Association appointed a committee to visit the churches in the Association which hold in their fellowship members who manufacture and sell spirituous liquors, and endeavor by persuasive means to get them to withdraw fellowship from such members if they will not quit. We hope this committee will be able to bring about the desired results, and we trust they will not neglect their duty.

Bro. Millsaps made a short speech on general education, followed by Doctor Durham with a strong speech both on general and ministerial education. But with all the warm speeches and the knowledge of the advantages and benefits which education brings to a people, I fear the educational interest in the Yadkin Association is growing less.

The work of the Orphanage was discussed by brethren S. W. Hall and Frost with great warmth and earnestness. It is to be hoped that the time is not far in the distance when the Baptists of North Carolina will support the orphans without having to be talked to and begged so much.

The Foreign Mission work was discussed by Rev. R. F. Conrad and Dr. C. Durham on Sunday morning.

We found the brethren very scarce of money, or they said they were, and we are sure they told the truth, for it is very scarce in this country; but when it came to providing for the accommodation of those who attended the Association, there was no scarcity. There was a most bountiful supply on the ground for all who were in attendance. It was a perplexing question with the visitors whose tables they should stop at.

We are thankful to the brethren for their subscriptions to the BIBLICAL RECORDER, and it will ever be with pleasure that we call to memory the names of Bro. Howell, John Bailey, and many others whose names I have not the space to mention, with whom I met and stopped with while at the Association. J. A. M.

New Bethel and Ephesus Churches.

Dear Recorder:—On the First Sunday of this month we closed an eight days' meeting at New Bethel church, resulting in twelve or thirteen converts. The church was greatly revived. Rev. J. N. Boothe preached for us two days. Rev. R. R. Day was with us all the week, and did most of the preaching. He preaches sound gospel.

On the third Sunday, we also closed a meeting at Ephesus of eight days' continuance, resulting in eight converts. This was a precious revival, and all of God's children seemed to enjoy it. Rev. A. D. Hunter was with us several days, and did some able preaching. Rev. D. D. Edwards was with us all the week, and also did some good earnest preaching. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Next week we are to be with the church at Cotton Grove. J. R. MAYNARD.
Morrisville, Aug. 25, 1892.

Appeal for Africa.

It is important that a man and wife should go to Lagos, on the coast of Africa, where brother C. C. Newton, with his family, is "holding the fort" alone, while he and they are needing rest and change of climate. And at each of the three interior stations, Abbeokuta, Ogbomoshaw and Awyaw, there is only one family. Brethren Lumbley and Pinnock at the first and third stations, respectfully, each needs a man and wife sent to help them. Brother C. E. Smith of Ogbomoshaw writes: "Please hurry up and send a man and his wife to be with us here at Ogbomoshaw. We don't want to stay here alone. Is there no one in all the South who will come?" Each of these consecrated men of God in telling of the hardness and troubles of his field, while each has a brave, hopeful spirit, writes pathetically: "Do beg the brethren to pray for us."

All cannot go to Africa to be missionaries. But all can pray, and all can give something to send missionaries with. Will not our people test more profoundly the blessedness of self-denial for him who lived and died for us?—Foreign Mission Journal.

Bible Arithmetic.

Addition.—Add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, and to knowledge temperance, and to temperance patience, and to patience godliness, and to godliness brotherly kindness, and to brotherly kindness charity.—2 Peter 5: 7.

Subtraction.—Laying aside all malice and all guile and hypocrisies and envies and all evil speaking, desire the sincere milk of the Word, that ye may grow thereby.—1 Peter 2: 1, 2.

Multiplication.—Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.—2 Peter 1: 2.

He that ministereth seed to the sower, both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruit of your righteousness.—2 Cor. 9: 10.

Division.—Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you and will be a father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.—2 Cor. 6: 17, 18.—Selected.

Many people, not aware of the dangers of constipation, neglect the proper remedy till the habit becomes chronic, or inflammation or stoppage results. A dose or two of Ayer's pills in the beginning would have prevented all this.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

September.

South Yadkin—Bethel, Iredell county, Sep 6-8.
Caldwell County—Yadkin church, seven miles north of Lenoir, Sep 8-10.
Three Forks—Meat Camp church, six miles east of Boone, Sep 13-15.
Ashe and Alleghany—Bethel church, ten miles south of Jefferson, Sep 15-17.
King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg, Oct 4-7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4-6.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARATIONS for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear.

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL

—AND—

BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 22, 1892. Write for catalogue to

L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

Raleigh Male Academy.

MORSON & DENSON, Principals.
C. L. HAYWOOD, Assistant.

The 14th Annual Session begins Monday, Aug. 29th, 1892. Pupils thoroughly prepared for college or for business life. For particulars, address the Principals for catalogue.

North Carolina Sends Greetings to Georgia.

What one of her Most Prominent Citizens Writes About one of Georgia's Great Remedies.

TO THE PUBLIC:—After several months' use of King's Royal Germetuer, I must pronounce it in many respects the most marvelous medicine I have ever seen or known for the multitude of its remedial virtues.

First, drawing upon experience, I know that it will cure catarrh. I succeeded the Rev. Dr. Hawthorne as the pastor of a Baltimore church just twenty-one years ago. Removal to a colder and more changeable climate, with want of care in protecting myself, brought on an attack of catarrh that has continued with me ever since until I commenced taking Royal Germetuer some months ago, from the use of which I am now quite entirely well.

2. It is, as claimed, really a positive cure for stomach troubles, such as indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, etc. This I know from experience.

3. I have never found a better nerve tonic and general invigorator. It gives healthful and refreshing sleep, and as a cure for insomnia ought by all means to take the place of the bromides, chloral and other deleterious if not dangerous drugs. It is a fine tonic for public speakers, taken both before and after speaking, as I know from experience, and no other tonic or stimulant is needed in rallying from the exhaustion of public and especially outdoor speaking. In fine, I used to smile at the enthusiastic testimonials of my personal friends, Rev. Drs. Hawthorne and Henson, concerning Royal Germetuer, but having used a dozen bottles of it, and been made well nigh "every whit whole," I can but adopt the language of the queen of Sheba and say: "The half has never been told." Very respectfully,

G. W. SANDERLIN,
State Auditor North Carolina.

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Trouble, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Eczema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia, and General Debility.

You will find King's Royal Germetuer for sale by all druggists. Price One Dollar per bottle.

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO,
Atlanta, Ga.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.

J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.

Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:

Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,

ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,

F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.

Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:

Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,

J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D.,
Chester, Pa.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m	†7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	†12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	†8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leaves Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrives Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m, and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect August 10, 1892.

SO. BO'ND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BO'ND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 22 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
7 20 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
5 40 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 10 a m
4 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	10 00 a m
4 25 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	10 30 a m
3 10 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	11 55 a m
1 45 p m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	12 45 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Embarrassments and Discouragements.

An honored brother from South Carolina, writing to the Corresponding Secretary, says: "Truly our Centennial of missions seems to bring with it embarrassments and discouragements that will keep us from forgetting or undervaluing those experienced a hundred years ago. May we prove ourselves worthy successors of those wise and noble men!"

The centennial year has indeed brought to the Board and its friends very serious embarrassments and discouragements. The intense political excitement which exists all over our southern country, producing, as it has done and is doing, bitter feeling and serious alienations between neighbors and even church members, is not conducive to spirituality and to that sort of thoughtfulness which must lie back of any great work in the extension of the Lord's kingdom. Cæsar is receiving too much of the time, attention and resources even, of the Lord's people this year, and there is danger that they will forget to "render to God the things that are God's." Then, again, our people are laboring under the depressing effects of last year's meagre crops, in some places, and low prices for farm products, in all places. There has been a most severe and crushing money famine in the South, and the people have in many cases not known where their daily bread was to come from. And most of us have not yet learned how to "consider the lilies of the field," nor to "behold the fowls of the air," as we ought, and are afraid to try the plan of the widow, who cast into the Lord's treasury all her living, and by that act cast herself on God.

These things would seem to be enough to embarrass and discourage the board and the friends of missions in their proposed forward movement. But, if possible, still worse things have come upon us. As perhaps never before in the history of our Board, have sickness and threatened breakdown invaded the ranks of our missionaries and forced them to come home for rest. Others have been forced by conscientious convictions to resign, either temporarily or permanently. The brethren of the Board have been made to groan in spirit, as from one field after another have come tidings that this missionary must come home and rest, or break down and be lost to the work for good, or that that one has already broken down and must recuperate or give up all hope of future work.

These facts, added to those already mentioned, seem enough for one year. But yet other things have come upon us, even more trying still. Honored and trusted brethren have chosen this year, when the leaders of our hosts, assembled in Convention, had determined to try to bring the denomination at large up to a higher plane of working and giving for the extension of Christ's kingdom, to advance and enforce new plans of work, and in so doing to give utterance to charges and insinuations which tend to shake the confidence of the brethren in the wisdom and prudence of those who have been entrusted with the work. The sweeping charges which have been made against the Board and its work have necessarily produced this effect on many brethren who have heard them, but have no opportunity to investigate their correctness. A feeling of suspicious unrest has been awakened in many bosoms concerning the work, while many men who have sought excuses for not giving to it have caught up the unguarded statements of the advocates of a new departure and have magnified them into far more than they really meant. It seems a pity that the brethren who want new methods of missions adopted could not have waited until after our Centennial year, to sow the seeds of distrust in the minds of those who were just awakening to larger and better doing in the kingdom of our Lord. But all these embarrassments are upon us, and upon us in the Centennial year, and we must face them. They have not come by chance—there is no chance in the kingdom of our Lord. They have been permitted to come upon us just now for some good and wise purpose, the which may God enable us to see and appreciate.

Certainly these things call for an humbling of ourselves before God and a confession of our weakness and insufficiency, preparatory to a mighty crying to him for the manifestation of his power and grace.

They call upon us for renewed consecration of ourselves and our substance to the work, that when others fail and fall back, we may be ready to close up our ranks and move onward. They call upon us for patience, and the exercise of brotherly kindness towards brethren who may seem to us to be all awry in their views and plans and who are yet earnest and true men. Yea, and patience even with those who may seem to us to be opposers of the work, for opposition sake, or even from more unworthy motives.

May we indeed, in the midst of all these embarrassments and discouragements, "prove ourselves worthy successors of those wise and noble men," whose deeds we celebrate in the Centennial. May we have the same sublime trust in God, the same patient endurance of evils, the same calm determination to move forward in Christ's work, the same thorough consecration of self and self's all to the Lord. Then shall we see the glory of the Lord and behold the manifestation of his power. A Red sea of difficulties seems to roll before us as we try to advance in our appointed work, and from some even of the leaders of the host come words of doubt and despondency, yet above all the tumult and confusion of sounds, it seems to us that the clear tones of our God are heard saying, "Go forward." Forward let us go, and as surely as with Israel of old will the way open before us and the pillar of cloud lead us. Let every man of the Lord gird up his loins anew and prepare to "go forward."—Foreign Mission Journal.

Have Beecham's pills ready in the household.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [SEAL] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

It doesn't take much of a christian to praise the Lord when the sun is shining.—Ex.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

For Centennial Building Fund, Chapel Cards, Self-denial and Thanksgiving Mite Boxes, Centennial Literature, etc., apply to MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for September:—Africa.

And he (the Ethiopian) said: "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Missionaries, 11; native assistants, 6; stations, 6; churches, 4; membership, 111; baptisms, 31; schools, 3; scholars, 124.

Study Topics.—One nation's share in the rum curse of Africa. Duty of American christians in evangelizing Africa. Obstacles an incentive, not an excuse, for missionary effort. The Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Lessons from Carey's Character.

It is a very noteworthy fact that the man whom God chose to inaugurate this magnificent work of organized modern missions was not one whom men would have selected. The simple truth is, he never does; for his own standards of qualification are essentially different from those of men. Carey's election of God to this great trust was an illustration of the grand principles stated in 1 Cor. 1: 26–29. There were in Carey five great elements of fitness for this work, and not one of them defies imitation, and that is the blessed encouragement for us all. The five elements were character, acquaintance with the word of God and the facts of man, resolution, education of self, and yielding of self unto God. Let us glance at these five requisites.

Character underlies everything. Reputation is but its reflection and echo, and oftentimes untrue and unfair. The character is the man himself as he is; the reputation is the man as others take him to be. We may all well care little for the reputation if we take care of the character. No man has ever wrought for God, from the days of Abel until now, who has not had this cornerstone beneath his work—character. To be rather than to seem, to be what God would have us be, that is the first condition of doing what he would have us do. Carey was a genuine man. He represented that sterling worth which we call by the name of character, and instead of his lowly calling or sphere or station in life degrading the man, the man dignified the calling and glorified his humble surroundings.

He next cultivated acquaintance with the word of God, on the one hand, and the facts about man on the other. He found the remedy before he understood the need; but as he studied Cook's "Voyages Round the World," and kindred books, and gathered information of the destitution and degradation of man, he saw that in that inspired, infallible, universal gospel he had the sovereign panacea for all human ills, wants, and woes. Few things are more sublimely instructive in all history than the sight of that humble cobbler at Hackleton and Moulton, sitting on his bench with a shoe on his lap, halting in his work to cast a glance at the open pages of Cook's "Voyages," as the book lay on the end of the bench; then, as the blows of his hammer fell on the sole of the shoe, his mind was reflecting on the misery of the millions of the pagan peoples and the way to reach and remedy their degradation. Absent-minded, indeed! but not idly, indolently dreaming. He was a spiritual discoverer and inventor, planning one of the master enterprises of the ages. The spark of a divine life was in his soul, and the fuel of facts became just so much inflammable material to take fire and burst into flame, and so that conflagration in Carey's soul has lit up the darkness of a world and started fires burning in every christian church.

Resolution, indomitable resolution was a third element of his power. The will makes giants for good and monsters for evil—a hero or a Nero; and where there is a will there is found a way, or a way is made. Nothing possible to be done is impossible to him who wills it. Carey's biographers may attribute to him genius, but he disclaimed genius; he said, "All I can do is, I can P-L-O-D." And plodding was his secret. His firm and fixed resolve made him strong against the ridicule of such as Sidney Smith and the opposition, or what is something worse, vis inertiæ, of even his own Baptist brethren. He determined to do, and so he did. He could wait, because willing was behind his waiting.

Education, self-acquired, was another secret. What is education? As Professor Shedd says, "Not a dead mass of accumulations, but power to work with the brain;" and, therefore, all true education is self-acquired. No university curriculum can make a scholar. Is it not the true scholars that make the university? It is time we understood that a man may be truly educated, like C. H. Spurgeon, who never saw college halls. Whatever makes the hand cunning and skilful in mechanic arts or fine arts; whatever makes the tongue attractive and persuasive in oratory, or the pen mighty to convince and control; whatever enables a man to evoke and then use his own powers for God and man—that is education, and such was Carey's self-knowledge and self-mastery.

Yielding of self to God was the last, not least secret; and I am more and more convinced that what in the last analysis determines the measure and even manner of use God can make of a man in his work, is more nearly than anything else self-surrender. Self-will is the subtle factor in us that to the last resists God's will. He who bows and yields, who can honestly ask, "What will thou have me to do?" and then as honestly declare, "My meat is to do the will of him that sent me and to finish his work," is the instrument, or, better still, agent whom God is ready to employ. From his conversion at Hackleton to his decease in India, Carey knew but one purpose: to do the will of God; and so God found in him a vessel prepared to be used.

In all these five elements of success there is not one that every one of us may not possess, and hence Carey's life is a universal, eternal lesson to every one who aspires to service.—A. T. Pierson, in Missionary Review.

The American Baptists on the Congo.

Their farthest station is near where the Congo crosses the equator. They have also a station at Leopoldville, on Stanley Pool, and a number of others on the caravan road from Leopoldville, down to Matadi, the footpath 230 miles long, by which everything that goes or comes between the Upper Congo and the Atlantic must be carried on the heads or shoulders of bare-headed, and bare-footed Africans. They have about thirty missionaries, and also own a steamer, the Henry Reed, and around some of their churches whole communities have been brought under the influence of christianity. Banza Manteka and Lukunga have have been especially blessed. Mr. Richards, their pastor, said of the first named: "The glorious fact is that Banza Manteka is no longer a heathen country, but more christian than any I am acquainted with."—Missionary Review.

The Rum Curse in Africa and the Brussels Treaty.

America has a lamentably large share in Africa's wretched rum trade. During the year ending June 30th, 1891, from Boston alone, there was shipped to the French and British possessions in Africa, the enormous quantity of 808,739 gallons of rum, valued at more than $964,000.

Some of us have been fondly dreaming that the Brussels Treaty had put an end to all this, or would put an end to it as soon as it came fully into operation; but it is only a dream. It is provided in the treaty that the traffic shall not be introduced in the territory covered by the treaty where it does not now exist; but where it does exist, it is to be regulated by a tax imposed upon its importation, the tax amounting to about eleven cents a gallon, to be possibly increased after three years to twenty cents a gallon. What is a tax like that imposed upon stuff so vile that when they tried to preserve the body of a gorilla in it during transportation from Africa to Liverpool, it was found on opening the cask that the hair and skin had been burned from the body as if by vitriol!

To the credit of the plenipotentiaries of the United States, be it said that they asked for the total prohibition of the traffic; and to the shame of the congress be it said that this was considered "the greatest possible satisfaction" that could be afforded them.

Let it be said to the credit of the British East African Company that it entirely tirely prohibits the passage of ardent spirits into the interior through its territory, and near the coast places heavy restrictions upon licensing liquor shops.

But not even the Congo Free State is delivered from the curse of rum; and what is necessary will not be done until an awakened christian sentiment, crystalized into something more than speech, shall stop the flood at its fountain, and deliver, not Africa only, but all lands from the curse.

New Guinea.

At a meeting held by native christians at Port Moresby recently, the collection (which was for missions) consisted of $37.00 in money, 320 spears, 65 shell armlets, 92 bows, 170 arrows, besides drums, shell necklaces, feathers and other ornaments, all of which have of course, a marketable value as curios. This may well remind us of those three kings who knelt to offer gold and frankincense and myrrh; for we believe and know that these offerings of New Guinea are as valuable in the eyes of God as those rich gifts of the kings.—Missionary Review.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

What Can Cuticura Do

Everything that is cleansing, purifying, and beautifying for the Skin, Scalp, and Hair of Infants and Children, the CUTICURA REMEDIES will do. They speedily cure itching and burning eczemas, and other painful and disfiguring skin and scalp diseases, cleanse the scalp of scaly humors, and restore the hair. Absolutely pure, agreeable, and unfailing, they appeal to mothers as the best skin purifiers and beautifiers in the world. Parents, think of this, save your children years of mental as well as physical suffering by reason of personal disfigurement added to bodily torture. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent, and economical. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"All about Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

ACHING SIDES AND BACK, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains and Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing plaster.

When "old Sol" makes all things sizzle,
Drink Hires' Root Beer.
When dull care makes life a fizzle,
Drink Hires' Root Beer.
When you feel a little dry,
When you're cross, and don't know why,
When with thirst the children cry,
There's a sweet relief to try—
Drink Hires' Root Beer.
A 25 cent Package makes five gallons.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."
BEECHAM'S PILLS
(Tasteless—Effectual.)
FOR ALL
BILIOUS and NERVOUS DISORDERS,
Such as Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Liver Complaint, and Female Ailments.
Covered with a Tasteless & Soluble Coating.
Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a box.
New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST
Theological Seminary,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.) Principal.
Please mention this paper.

STOP AT THE
Moseley House,
Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.
50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

VOSE & SONS PIANOS. ESTABLISHED IN 1851.
Celebrated for their Pure Tone, Elegant Designs, Superior Workmanship, and Great Durability. Sold on easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Write for catalogue and full information.
170 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids, use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

FOR $1.50
we will send to any address postpaid, one each of the following late sheet music publications, allowing Privilege of Exchange
after five days examination, for other music, if any of this proves unsuitable, but no money will be refunded. Copies to be exchanged must be in perfect condition, or we will not accept them. The list is as follows:

SONGS.
MY LADY'S WINDOW. NEIL. 40 cents.
THE BIRD AND THE MAIDEN. JAMESON. 40 cents.
SUNSHINE AND SHADOW. RADOCK. 40 cents.

PIANO MUSIC.
BOW KNOT POLKA. HURE. 40 cents.
FESTIVAL MARCH. ZEIZENRO. 40 cents.
FELICITE. BOSS. 40 cents.
Complete catalogues furnished free on application. Mention this paper.
THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Hunt & Eaton Mfg. Co., 200 Wabash Ave., Chicago. | The John Church Co., 5 E. 14th St., New York.

Tribute of Respect.

MRS. MINNIE EDDINS ROBERTS
AND
MRS. MAGGIE NUTT HERRING.

"Rare are roll tary woes;
They love a train, they tread each other's heel."
"Death loves a shining mark, a signal blow."

Forcibly were we reminded of the truthfulness of these lines; for in the same week we heard of the death of these noble women—verily, two of the noblest of earth. To write about them is a mournful pleasure, and may be a comfort to those left behind, for I regard their lives as a priceless heritage and as worthy of emulation. They brightened the world while they lived, and they showed us how to die.

I knew both well. I met Mrs. Roberts nee Minnie Eddins for the first time in 1872, when she became my pupil in Raleigh Female Seminary. The friendship thus begun between pupil and teacher continued till her death, and many pleasant days have I spent in her elegant and charming home.

She was descended from a noble ancestry. Her father was James Bolivar Eddins, a grandson of William Eddins, who was one of the Revolutionary heroes of South Carolina. Her mother was Adelaide Alice, daughter of Col. George W. Williams, a distinguished lawyer of South Carolina. On her mother's side she was allied to one of England's noblest families. Her father died when she was a child, and her mother afterwards married Col. L. M. McAfee. She thus grew up in a refined christian home, and all the advantages that wealth could procure were hers.

She possessed good intellectual endowments. Her personal appearance was very attractive. She had a frank, open countenance that let you see into the depths of her soul, and everything you found there was noble.

She made a profession of religion while a student in Raleigh, and was baptized by Dr. Pritchard. Her christian life thus begun grew brighter as the years went by.

On the completion of her course in school, she returned to her home in Shelby, N. C., where in 1874 she was happily married to Mr. W. J. Roberts, one of Shelby's best and most prominent citizens.

She was always ready for every good work, and her pastor did not hesitate to call on her for any service that she was able to perform. Her special work, however, was as organist and leader of the choir of the Baptist church. For this she had rare talents. Her voice was a sweet and unusually sympathetic soprano of wide range and great volume. This had been assiduously cultivated under the instruction of Prof. Bohlman, the distinguished teacher of music in the Raleigh Seminary. When a pupil there, the announcement that she would sing, filled the largest audience room in the city. This voice she used in the service of her God She delighted to sing for her friends because her singing gave them pleasure. On the occasions of two Baptist Conventions in Shelby, I had the pleasure of being her guest, and I remember with what ease I obtained her consent to sing for my friends in attendance upon the Conventions. On my last visit I observed that she was singing sacred songs exclusively; and I felt that while some were preaching the gospel, she was as effectively singing it.

During her last moments, though in the grasp of death, and while yet in the full possession of her faculties, she tried to sing, and failing in this, she moved her fingers as if touching the keys of the piano, and thus she passed away to join the heavenly choir.

MRS. MAGGIE NUTT HERRING.

This lovely woman was born Dec. 17, 1864, and was reared in a refined, christian home. In October, 1876, at the early age of twelve years, she was baptized. Her christian life thus began early, and continued earnest and devoted till her death. In September, 1880, she entered Oxford Female Seminary, graduating with high honors in 1883. While here she was noted for sweetness of disposition and attention to duty. No one of her teachers ever thought of reproving her. In recalling her manner of life here, I can say that she swerved not from the line of duty. If I mistake not, soon after her graduation, she met for the first time the man who was destined to be her devoted husband. Rev. D. W. Herring had been invited by the pastors and a few of the laymen of this Association to spend a few weeks in making addresses on Foreign Missions with the purpose of exciting a deeper interest in missions among the churches. Miss Nutt, in company with some of her schoolmates, attended some of these meetings, which had a marked effect. An engagement to marry Mr. Herring resulted, which was consummated on Aug. 26, 1885. While a good deal was being said, and justly too, in praise of Mr. Herring, I wrote for the RECORDER that he had married a woman every way worthy of him, for we all felt that she was admirably fitted to be the wife of a missionary. I met her not long before she was to sail for China. She seemed very happy. She felt that she was walking in the path of duty, and a sweet restfulness possessed her. Her life in China is known to all—the case with which she acquired the language, her helpfulness to her husband, her sympathy with him in his work, and her sound, practical sense. The Herrings were spoken of by competent visitors, such as Dr. Mabie, as among the foremost missionaries in China, and a part of this praise was due the wife. If there had been occasion, I doubt not that she would have equalled Mrs. Ann Hasseltine Judson in all those self-denying, heroic qualities that characterized this noble woman.

Returning to America on April 11, 1892, she had the unspeakable misfortune to lose her eldest daughter, Margaret, a little over four years of age. Before the child died, the mother sickened and sadly yielded to the dread disease, giving up her life on August 7, 1892. What a loss to her stricken husband, to her three little children, one of whom is just two months old, and to her parents! The hearts of the Baptists of North Carolina go out in deepest sympathy for these. And what a loss to the world! Beautiful in person, beautiful in mind, beautiful in heart, we shall not soon "look upon her like again."

Her Alma Mater will perpetuate her memory; and may the Maggie Nutt Missionary Society continue its existence till there shall be no need of missionary societies.

F. P. HOBGOOD.

The East Bend Meeting.

Dear Recorder:—I commenced a meeting of days at East Bend, Yadkin county, on the 21st of this month. Bro. W. H. Wilson of Madison, N. C., was with me and did all the preaching. His sermons were all good and greatly enjoyed by the large number of people who attended every service. Several of the best people (morally) in the town and community were enabled to make a public profession of their faith in Christ. The interest was rapidly developing, when I had to close, because of the sad intelligence reaching me that my mother was not expected to live, and about the same time I was taken very sick, and am yet confined to my room. But the good seed has been sown and the harvest will be sure to come. I expect to baptize several at my next appointment—third Sunday in September.

The East Bend church is made up of good material and at this time is in good working order, and I hope the progress of the church will be of such a nature during the year that all the sister churches may take knowledge of her and move forward in every good work.

C. C. H.

Mt. Airy, Aug. 30, 1892.

Jellies, Jams, and Preserves.

What to preserve? and how to do it? are questions satisfactorily answered in "Ayer's Preserve Book." Recipes for the newest, most delicious, and, at the same time, economical jams, jellies, and preserves are contained in this book. All practical, having been tested by one of the most noted culinary authorities and housekeepers of the day. Ayer's Preserve Book mailed to any address on receipt of a two cent stamp by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Deep Creek Church.

Dear Recorder:—This church is located in the southeastern part of Moore county. I have just closed a meeting of seven days there. The meeting was one of spiritual power and much good to the building up of the church, the restoring of wandering members, and the saving of sinners. Eight or ten made a profession of Christ, and six were baptized, five of whom joined the church. The baptizing was performed by Rev. K. C. Horner, and though it was the first he ever baptized, he did it neatly and in good order. A large number of people witnessed the baptismal scene, and it is hoped that it had its impression on them for good.

I am now at Flint Hill church, and though we have had but one day's meeting, several asked for the prayers of the christians in their behalf. This is the church where Bro. Horner has his membership, and the people are just as anxious to hear him preach the gospel here as they were at any place where we have been. I will give you the results of this meeting when it is over.

W. A. BARRETT.

Horner's, Aug. 29, 1892.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

God's Thunder.

Do the thunder-storms disturb you? It is God's thunder and God's lightning. It is in his hand and works not without his direction and control, and he cares for you, and will let no harm come to you. If he sees that the time has come to take you to himself in the heavenly home, seek not to escape him. Though you should escape these, your breath is still in his hands. Destruction might come in any one of a thousand ways, should he withdraw his protecting care. Think not, then, of the thunder and the lightning as objects of terror, but as displays of the wonderful working of God. Sit in some protected nook as the storm is passing, watch the bright flashes from cloud to cloud, listen to the mighty voice, meditate upon the wonder-working of your Heavenly Father, stand in awe in the presence of the Infinite and worship him, but do not fear; for he is your loving God, your bountiful Benefactor, your Redeemer and Friend.—Exchange.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

Hollins Institute, Va.

This school has had its remarkable career for a half century. Its management has secured the best results, and as we learn from reliable authority, it has lived so long without a single scandal. Its standards are unquestioned at home and abroad. Its pupils gather from a broad area. It is located in the beautiful valley of Virginia, six miles from the city of Roanoke in a region redolent of health and abounding in picturesque mountain scenery. It has valuable mineral waters on the premises. Its faculty, composed largely of learned gentlemen, is so attractive that it is not under the necessity of using the agency system to secure pupils.

Green River Association.

The Green River Association convenes with the Old Fort Baptist church on the Westen North Carolina Railroad, on Sept. 29th—Oct. 1st of this year.

All expecting to attend will please send their names to Dr. B. F. Landis, Chairman of the Committee on Hospitality, by Sept. 25th, stating whether by rail or private conveyance, so that homes may be arranged without any trouble or inconvenience to them or the committee.

M. M. LANDRUM, Pastor.

Marion, Sept. 1, 1892.

Pine Forest Church Dedicated.

Dear Recorder:—On the second Sunday in August we dedicated the church at Pine Forest. Bro. B. Craig preached the sermon. Brethren R. B. Collier and Samuel Robinson of the Concord Association, Va., aided in the dedicatory services.

We protracted the meeting the next week, Bro. Craig doing the preaching, and Bro. Collier assisting. The meeting lasted five days. At the close I buried eleven with Christ by baptism, and I think there are others who will follow.

God be praised for all that he has done.

M. L. GREEN.

For Boils, Pimples
carbuncles,
scrofulous sores,
eczema, and all other
blood diseases, take
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
It will relieve and cure dyspepsia, nervous debility, and that tired feeling.
Has Cured Others
will cure you.

Hollins Institute.

The improvements and additions to its accommodations previously announced are now completed at a cost of $30,000, making an aggregate of 180 rooms.

The New Art Building, Dining Room, with culinary attachment, Society Halls, Infirmary Rooms and Parlors are much admired by all visitors. The accommodations are for a full faculty of some 30 persons and 180 boarding pupils. About 40 rooms are used for Music and Art alone. Over 30 pianos (three grand) and other instruments are used. The school affords first-class accommodation for both officers and pupils, and is now prepared to give greater satisfaction, and do better work than ever before in its long history. Young ladies who wish to spend the summer in this climate, preparatory to commencing the next session, will find this a most delightful home, with advantages of superior mineral waters. They and their immediate relatives will be accommodated at regular school rates for board. There are already some of these classes present. The region around is redolent of health and abounds in picturesque mountain scenery. The faculty is composed of ladies and gentlemen of high social position, broad scholarship, and great variety of talent and adaptedness. They devote their whole time to the interest of the school and the advancement of their pupils. The 50th annual session will open Sept. 14th. P. O., Hollins, Va. CHAS L. COCKE, Supt.

CHOWAN
Baptist Female Institute,
MURFREESBORO, N. C.

Parties having young ladies to educate will do well to consider the following facts:—

The Institute offers superior advantages in Literature, Science, Music and Art. Only the best talent is employed to give instruction in the different departments.

The situation is one of remarkable beauty. There are twenty-eight acres of land within the corporation, but so located as to give the school all the privacy of the country, while near enough to the town to secure any advantages it may offer.

The health record is unsurpassed. During the last ten years there have been two cases of pneumonia, one of typhoid fever (brought by the pupil with her) no case of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles. Chills have been strangers, and bilious fever almost unknown. The average of medical bills since the organization of the school has been about twenty five cents per pupil for the scholastic year. The amount paid for medical bills by the entire boarding patronage the past session was ten dollars.

This institution is the unencumbered property of the Baptists, and is the only property owned by them in the State used exclusively for the education of girls.

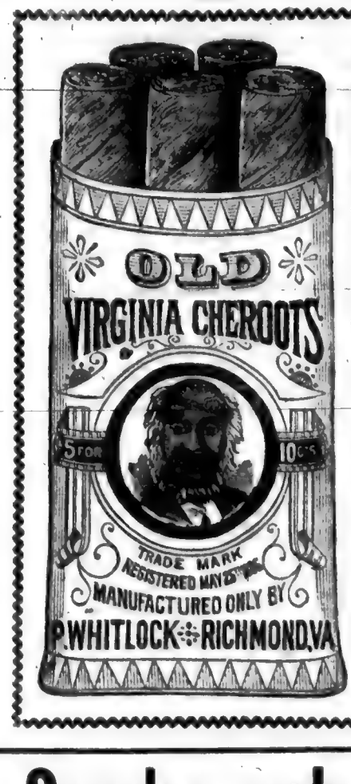
The dormitories have recently been refurnished, and only two pupils occupy the same room. Parties leaving points east of Charlotte, Danville, Richmond and Washington reach the school the same afternoon via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. As the property is unencumbered, the charges can be made very moderate. Board, literary and music tuition, if paid in advance, are two hundred dollars for scholastic year. The fall session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. For catalogue or additional information, address

JNO. B. BREWER, President.

BELLS
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3505, New York City, N.Y.

DOUBLE Breech-Loader $7.50. RIFLES $2.00 WATCHES GUNS BICYCLES $15 All kinds cheaper than elsewhere. Before you buy, send stamp for catalogue to THE POWELL & CLEMENT CO., 124 Main St., Cincinnati, O.



Do You Want
A Rich, Sweet Smoke?
Do You Want
To Get Your Money's Worth? . . . . . .
Then You Want
. . . . . To Buy
OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS.
10
FIVE FOR TEN CENTS.

Sunday-school Periodicals
For Fourth Quarter.

PERIODICALS AND PRICES.

In clubs for one year each as follows: Convention Teacher, 50c.; Kind Words, Weekly, 50c.; Semi-monthly, 25c.; Monthly, 10c.; Child's Gem, 25c.; Lesson Leaflets, 10c. Per quarter each as follows: Quarterlies, Advanced, 3c.; Intermediate, 2½c; Primary, 2½c, Picture Lesson Cards, 4c; Bible Lesson Picture, size 28x18 inches, $1.25.

THE BROADUS CATECHISM.

A Catechism of Bible Teaching by Rev. John A. Broadus, D. D., just published by the Sunday-school Board, under order of the Southern Baptist Convention. Price, 5c. sing'e copy or in quantities. This will be the leading catechism in the Sunday-school and in the home circle.

In Getting Your Sunday-school Supplies

From the Sunday school Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Nashville, besides making a direct contribution to its treasury, you put your school in touch and co-operation with the Convention, and train the children in all its great missionary enterprises.

Instructions for Ordering.

Make all orders definite. Give your name, postoffice and State. Samples sent when requested. Don't send stamps if you can avoid it. Make all orders payable to

BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOARD, Nashville, Tenn.

J. M. FROST, Cor. Sec'y.

WOOL! WOOL! WOOL!

If you have wool to be manufactured or to exchange for goods, ship it to the

Chatham Manufacturing Company,
PROPRIETORS OF THE
Elkin Woollen Mills.

THEY DO THE LARGEST Custom Business IN THE STATE.
Their Goods Just Simply CAN'T BE EXCELLED.
THEY PAY FREIGHT ON WOOL.

Write for samples, and directions for shipping, to

CHATHAM MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Elkin, N. C.
Freight and Express Office, Elkin, N. C.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,
RICHMOND.

The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.

For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.

"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools. 120 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is, write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or

S. D. JONES, Principal.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

BEELEY'S HARD-RUBBER TRUSSES
Will retain the most difficult forms of HERNIA or RUPTURE with comfort and safety, thereby completing a radical cure of all curable cases. Impervious to moisture, may be used in bathing; and fitting perfectly to the form of body, are worn without inconvenience by the youngest child, most delicate lady, or the laboring man, avoiding all sores, greasy, padded appliances, being Light, Cool, Cleanly, and always reliable. The correct and skillful mechanical treatment of HERNIA OR RUPTURE A SPECIALTY. EITHER IN PERSON OR BY MAIL.
[illegible] REFERENCES:—Profs. S. D. Gross, D. Hayes Agnew, Wilson Parker, W. H. Pancoast, Dr. Thomas G. Morton, and Surgeon-Generals of the U. S. Army and Navy. A "Mechanical Treatment of Hernia or Rupture and Price List," with illustrations and directions for self-measurement, mailed on application. L. B. BEELEY & CO., 23 South 11th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Reasons Why the South Fork Association Should not be Removed.

Rev. M. P. Matheny, in his paper, the Christian Worker, comments at length on the resolutions adopted and sent out by Mt. Ruhama church, and asks for reasons why it should not be removed. I, being the Secretary and a member of Mt. Ruhama church, feel it my duty to reply, and ask space in your most excellent paper for that purpose.

First, I will say that Mt. Ruhama church duly considered the matter before taking any action whatever. And, after electing a council, and fully enquiring into the matter, adopted the resolutions sent to the churches and published in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

The first and greatest reason why the Association should not be removed, is to preserve agreement and satisfaction. Brother Matheny will remember that the report of the committee on Place and Preacher, was so considered; there being dissatisfaction on the part of some of the churches. And to remove the Association to Newton would again cause hard feelings and dissatisfaction.

Second, the Executive Committee has no power to change any of the proceedings of the Association and Catawba being the place for the Association to meet as designated by itself, was through a committee, it would be injustice to remove it.

Bro. Matheny says: "Mt. Ruhama church would prejudice the minds of the other churches." Now, I think Bro. Matheny's assertion without foundation, and would ask him to publicly retract it, for Mt. Ruhama has no prejudice herself nor does she seek to prejudice others.

It would be well for Bro. Matheny and the members of the Executive Committee that ordered this removal, to remember that a Baptist church is an independent organization and that we do not have Bishops and bosses, but that we do the Lord's work in an humble manner.

In conclusion, I would ask the churches and Bro. Matheny to prayerfully consider this matter; so that when we meet, we may meet in unity and oneness of purpose. I trust that I have not written too long a letter and that it may have a hearty reception in the hearts of all christians.

Fraternally, A. W. SETZER.

Newton, N. C., August 17, 1892.

P. S.—Since writing the above, I see stated in your paper, by M. P. Matheny, that Mt. Ruhama church passed those resolutions simply "to gratify her pastor," which is quite false. I would have Bro Matheny to know that Mt. Ruhama does not transact business simply "to gratify her pastor." I think, my dear brother, you have gone too far with this, and the best thing for you to do for your individual welfare and for the cause of Christ, is to retract some of your wild assertions—do not jump at a conclusion; wait till you hear both sides. If you founded your assertion on your own experience, you had better stop and consider. To be frank, Sir, I think you are wrong.

You state that the Association will be held with the Newton church, I take the liberty to inform you that the South Fork Association will convene with Catawba church. I deem it unnecessary to say more except to ask you to retract that gravely false assertion "they did it to gratify their pastor."

A. W. S.

Since March 1st, 1892.

In the last six months I have made 624 family visits, 35 of whom were without the Bible, 68 neglected church, talked on religion with 1,787 persons, and distributed over 122,000 pages of tracts and papers, which has been done for $125. A gentleman to whom I gave the excellent tract, "Dying Drummer Boy," told me he loaned it to 44 persons, and three of them were led to Christ by the Holy Spirit's blessing. Two, who read "Temper Is Everything," gave me each one dollar to circulate this good tract, and another gave two dollars to circulate 3,000 pages of the same tract. The tract, "How Long Have I to Live?" was given to an unconverted man on the street, who was expecting death to be near, as he was neglecting all the means of grace, and yet he died in less than a month. One Sunday afternoon in my visits I found forty-seven children, thirty-three of whom said they had not been to church or Sunday-school that day. I find a great need for increase of interest with parents in church and Sunday-school work.

Cottage prayer-meetings are increasing in number and usefulness. I have aided in securing homes to four more unfortunate children, making now thirty-eight in all. What a change and blessing to these! I am encouraged by the commendation, counsels and prayers of the pastors of the different denominations. Let us help each other while we are together, and when we are gone, it will be as "bread cast upon the waters," to be seen after many days, and all for the glory of God.

W. J. W. CROWDER, Colporter.

Committee—J. T. Pullen, W. S. Primrose, Jos. C. Brown, Charles Root, Alfred Moring.

Seminary Students: Notice.

I am engaged in collecting the names of those who intend going to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary the last of September, and who wish to get reduced rates. If ten or more of us will meet at Greensboro, N. C., and go together, we can get a reduction of about $5.75. Those who intend going and wish to take advantage of the reduced rates, would do well to drop me a postal at once. I wish to secure the ten as soon as possible. JOS. C. BLALOCK.

Beres, September 1, 1892.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

MONROE STATION, M. E. Church, South,
Rev. J. C. Rowe, Pastor,
MONROE, N. C., Feb. 13, 1892.

Mr. W. H. Witherspoon:

Dear Sir;—Five months ago I bought an Electropoise of you for the treatment of muscular rheumatism, pain in the right side and chest and the unpleasant results of grippe. The use of the Electropoise has relieved the pain and greatly benefitted the rheumatism, besides improving my general health very much. I prize it very highly, and have used it in my family for colds and grippe, and obtained satisfactory results in every instance.

Yours truly, J. C. ROWE.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The work of rebuilding the burned acid house at the Caraleigh Mills south of this city, is in progress.

Raleigh's Centennial celebration will take place on October 19th and 20th. Hon. Kemp P. Battle will deliver the oration on Wednesday the 19th. His subject is "The First Hundred Years of Raleigh." On the 20th a civic military and industrial parade will take place. Mr. W. S. Primrose, will deliver an industrial address. At night a grand pyrotechnic display will be exhibited. On Friday the 21st inst., the corner stone of the Confederate monument to be erected in the Capitol Square will be laid with appropriate exercises. There will also be a military prize drill. All of the committees are doing good work. A very large crowd is expected.

State News.

We see it stated that diphtheria is epidemic in Orange county.

A movement is on foot to build a non denominational female college at Salisbury.

Joe Benson, white, of Dunn, N. C., was killed in a saw-mill explosion at Benson, last Friday.

The Commissioner of Agriculture estimates that this State produced 700,000 bales of cotton last year.

Rev. James D. Hall, a well-known Presbyterian minister, died in Gaston county, recently, aged ninety years.

A Miss Kate Petter, while visiting her sister Mrs. Lyles, in Brunswick county recently, was struck and killed by lightning.

The Coast Line has completed its depots at Pactolus and Whichard on the Washington branch of their road.—Greenville Reflector.

Elizabeth Young, colored, of Union county, recently gave her twelve year-old niece a very severe whipping, which resulted in the child's death, shortly after.

Gov. Holt has offered a reward of two hundred dollars for William and John Dockery, Jr., wanted for the murder of Andrew Bryson, in Cherokee county.

The Wilmington Messenger notes the first bale of new cotton brought to that market on Thursday August 25th. It graded middling and brought seven cents.

The State Chemist will make a complete exhibit at the World's Fair of soils from this State, taken from sixteen districts, illustrating the best for cotton, corn, wheat, fruit, truck, etc.

James Grogan, accused with the murder of Wesley James, near Walnut Cove, was arrested Sunday, August 28th, and lodged in the jail at Danbury, Stokes county. Grogan had been wanted for four years in Henry county, Va., for several unlawful acts.

Mr. Guy Maxwell, son of Col. D. G. Maxwell, of Charlotte, was drowned in the lake at Latta Park in Charlotte, Friday night August 26th. Mr. Maxwell and a friend were in a boat and it capsized. He was in his twenty-third year.

Charles Reynolds and his accomplice Judge Merrimon Headen, who murdered and robbed old man Swaim at Pleasant Garden, a short time ago were tried at Greensboro last week. Both men were convicted and sentenced to be hung on Thursday, Oct. 20th.

The Washington Progress learns that Hon. F. M. Simmons, of Newbern, has been employed to bring a suit of damages against the town of Washington for the death of Mr. Noah Gibbs, who died, some suppose, from being confined in the town lockup some time ago.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the North Western North Carolina Railroad Company, was held in Winston last Friday. The total stock of the road is $1,406,000. The president's report, showed the road to be in first-class condition. Col. A. B. Andrews was re-elected president of the road.

Mr. Isaac Osborn, of Mitchell county, was called out of his house Sunday night, Aug. 28th, and was literally riddled by bullets from about a dozen Winchesters in the hands of men, whom, it is said he had reported for "blockading." Revenue officers had recently destroyed a distillery in the same vicinity.

Leonidas McKnight, was convicted of burglary in the first degree by the jury at Surry county court held recently at Dobson. He was sentenced to be hung Oct. 21st. McKnight burglarized the home of W. S. Taylor, in Mt. Airy, a year ago last January and almost beat to death Mrs. Taylor, an old lady whom he robbed of about $2,000.

Work has been begun on a new railroad in this county, and is being rapidly pushed. It is a road to run from Gulf up Deep river to Fair Haven in Moore county, a distance of ten or twelve miles, and is being constructed by the Glendon & Gulf Mining & Manufacturing Company, which was incorporated at the last session of our State Legislature.—Chatham Record.

Zeb Vance Walser, of Lexington, has brought suit against the Western Union Telegraph Company for damages for non-delivery of a message from the Comptroller of the Currency on the 17th of December last, by which failure Walser alleges he missed the receivership of the First National Bank of Wilmington, which failed in November, and which position pays $200 per month and commissions.—Exchange.

General News.

Deodora da Fonseca, first president of the republic of Brazil died August 27th.

Roanoke, Va., was damaged to the extent os $50,000 by a cloudburst on the 22d ult.

Talt Hall, the Kentucky desperado and murderer, who is known to have killed 13 was hanged at Newton, Va., on the 2d inst.

George William Curtis, editor of Harper's Weekly, died at his residence in West Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y., on the morning of the 31st ult.

The biennial meeting of the Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias was recently held in Kansas City, Mo. The gathering was very large.

A big tobacco combine, to be known as the Leaf Tobacco Company, was formed at Louisville, Ky., Aug. 31st. The capital stock is placed at $2,500,000.

A telegram from Marquite, Mich., dated Sept. 1st, says: "The steamer Western Reserve, bound for Cleveland, broke in two off Au Sable banks, near Deer Park, Tuesday night. Twenty-six persons were drowned."

According to a late sensus report, the negroes in the United States number, 7,470,000, of whom 956,989 are mulattoes, 105,135 quadroons, and 69,936 octoroons; 589,000 live in the Northern States.

Two more cholera-stricken vessels have arrived at New York harbor, the Normania and Rugia from Hamburg having buried twelve passengers at sea and having on board six persons stricken with the scourge.

Twenty tons of gunpowder, on board a vessel, lying at anchor off Greenock, Scotland, exploded on the 3d inst. The vessel was destroyed but fortunately none of the crew were killed, although several were injured.

At Tokushina, Akoagun, Okuyama and other places in Japan, floods and earthquakes have caused fearful loss of life and property. Hundreds of people have been drowned and thousands of homes have been destroyed. Thousands of people are being fed by the government.

Augusta, Ga., was visited by a distructive fire on the 27th ult. A residence, drug and seed store, furniture warehouse, crockery store, music and sewing machine room, a photograph gallery, law office and the Augusta Chronicle building were completely destroyed. Loss about $300,000, generally covered by insurance. The Chronicle's morning edition was worked off while the building was in flames.

The secular papers contained accounts last week of a terrible calamity that visited the family of a Mrs. Wilson, in Madison county, Ga. Mrs. Wilson had gone to a spring near her home, with her little babe. While there she heard screams from the house. She returned at once leaving the baby at the spring. When she reached the house she discovered two of her children dead, and a third dying from the effects of rattle-snake bites. In the meantime the baby at the spring crawled into the water and was drowned.

On Tuesday night, Aug. 30th, the steamship Moravia from Hamburg, Germany, arrived in New York harbor. On the trip of thirteen days, twenty children and two adults died of cholera. The ship physician said that "cholerine" was the cause of the deaths, but many admit that it was the genuine Asiatic scourge. The Moravia and her passengers have been quarantined, and every precaution is being made to prevent the entrance of the disease in New York City. Emigration from Hamburg will be stopped. On Sept. 2d, there were 926 new cases of cholera and 116 deaths in Hamburg. President Harrison has cancelled his electioneering tour in New York State and is now in Washington to confer with his Cabinet about the best means to be used to prevent the introduction and spread of the disease in this country.

Who rules in this town?
Depends on the question up.
The lamp-chimney question—what sort do you break?
Whatever sort your dealer deals in.
How, do you think, he selects his chimneys?
He buys those that cost him least; he can get the regular price for them; and the faster they break the more he sells. That's how he reasons.
Tell him you want Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass," tough glass, transparent, clear, not foggy, fine, of right shape and uniform. Tell him you'll pay him a nickel more a piece, and that will cover his extra costs twice over. Tell him you don't propose to break any more. Try your hand at ruling.
Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

MARRIED.

GLENN—FERGUSON—On Aug. 11th, 1892, by Rev. W. Atkinson, Mr. J. H. Glenn and Miss Marzela F. Ferguson, all of Wake county.

DIED.

DANIEL—Near Forestville, August 28th, 1892, Miles Daniel, an aged and respected citizen, leaving a wife and numerous relatives and friends to mourn their loss, which we hope is his gain. His death, though sudden, was not unexpected, for his health for a time had been feeble, and he expressed willingness to go when his hour should come. L. C.

MITCHELL—At the residence of her father, Mr. A. C. Mitchell, in Youngsville, Aug. 27th, 1892, Miss Mary W. Mitchell, in her 22d year. She will be lovingly remembered as a dutiful daughter, an affectionate sister, a true friend, a sweet-tempered christian. The sorrowing family have the warmest sympathy of the community. May they all meet her in heaven. W. B. R.

BELL—At her residence, near Shiloh, Camden county, N. C., sister Jane E. Bell, wife of Andrew Bell, and daughter of S. W. and Mary A. Williams, departed this life August 1st, 1892. She was born Sept. 21st, 1871; became a christian in 1885, and died trusting Christ. She was a kind and loving wife, a dutiful child, a quiet neighbor, and a true christian. "She is not dead but sleepeth." May grace be given to the sorrowing ones. P. S. C. D.

JENTRY—Died, Tuesday evening, August 23d, 1892, brother Robert L. Jentry, in the twenty-second year of his age, leaving to mourn his loss an affectionate wife, a father, and a number of brothers and sisters. Bro. Jentry was a pious, consistent member of East Bend church, Yadkin county, and was loved not only by the members of his church, but by all who knew him. He died a triumphant death. His last words to me, his pastor, were, "All is well." His last words to his wife were, "Mollie, come to me; I am gone." He took her into his arms and kissed her good-by, and said, "Lord, take me quickly," and his breathing ceased at once. He has gone to meet a mother and to await the coming of a devoted wife. C. C. H.

HALL—Sister Lucy N. Hall was born the 19th of September, 1810. The great event of her life occurred in her twenty-seventh year when she gave her heart to the Saviour, and was buried with him by baptism by Elder David Minus, into the fellowship of the Beaver Dam church. She gave her hand in marriage to Rev. A. Hall, Sept. 27th, 1831. Quite a large family blessed this union consisting of seven daughters and four sons, the only surviving son being our honored brother, H. L. Hall, the very popular Register of Deeds of Cumberland county. By them all, she faithfully discharged a devoted mother's duty, and the precious influence of her life is still wielding a power over them for good. For near fifty-five years she enjoyed the priceless honor of fighting the christian warfare as a member of the church militant. As she approached the end, she seemed perfectly resigned to the Master's will and ready, because of her faith, to go out to meet the Lord. She fell on sleep Aug. 26th, 1892, at the ripe age of eighty-one years, ten months and twenty-nine days.

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep."

W. F. WATSON.

Tribute of Respect.

The following was adopted by the Baptist Sunday-school of Franklinton, N. C., Sunday, August 14th, 1892:—

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to take to himself our beloved brother L. S. Joyner; therefore Resolved 1. That while we feel so keenly our loss and mourn so deeply the separation, we humbly bow in submission to the will of him who loved our departed brother, and still loves us, feeling assured that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Resolved 2. That in his death our community has lost one of its most useful and beloved citizens, the poor a friend, the Baptist church a faithful officer, and our Sunday-school an earnest and faithful teacher.

Resolved 3. That we sympathize with the family in this dark hour of their affliction, and pray God to care for the widow and the fatherless, and lead them safely through life and make them a united family in heaven.

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and also to the BIBLICAL RECORDER with request to publish the same.

N. Y. GULLEY,
MRS. CALVIN PRITCHARD,
MISS BERTHA MORRIS,
Committee.

E. M. WARD, Sec'y.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

Graded Series
OF
SUNDAY SCHOOL PERIODICALS.
Compare these Prices with those of Similar Publications.

Primary Grade.
Picture Lessons. 8 cts. per quarter, 12 cts. per year.
Primary Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
Our Little Ones. In clubs of five, 25 cts. per year.

Intermediate Grade.
Intermediate Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter. 9 cts. per year.
The Sunlight. 6 cts. and 18 cts. per year.

Advanced Grade.
Advanced Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 10 cts. per year.
Bible Lessons. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.
Young Reaper. 10 cts. and 20 cts. per year.

Senior or Adult Grade.
Senior Quarterly. 6 cts. per quarter, 24 cts. per year.
Our Young People. In clubs of five, 40 cts. per year.
The Worker. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.

Teachers, Superintendents.
Baptist Teacher. In clubs of five, 50 cts. per year.
Baptist Superintendent. 25 cts. per year.

Am. Baptist Publication Society.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut St.;
BOSTON: 256 Washington St.;
NEW YORK: Times Building;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Ave.;
ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive St.;
ATLANTA: 69½ Whitehall St.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON
CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.

They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

Alleghany Institute,
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

The seventh session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, 1892. It is a thorough training school for boys and young men preparing for college or for business. Excellent courses well taught by experienced teachers. The situation is in the suburbs of the city upon a high ridge, commanding a magnificent view. Ample grounds for exercise. Comfortable rooms. Terms moderate. For further information send for catalogue, and address
WILMER O. WHITESCARVER Prin.

WANTED.

As a partner in a good and well-established newspaper and job office, a good printer who is a member of the Baptist church. A fine opportunity. No capital required. Address, at once,
PIEDMONT HERALD,
Leaksville, N. C.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.

EDWARD FASNACH,
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN,
RALEIGH, N. C.

DIAMONDS,
WATCHES,
Jewelry,
—AND—
Sterling Silverware.

Optical Goods.

High Point Female College.

The next Annual Session will begin September 14th, 1892. This institution has a full corps of excellent teachers, representing the best schools, and is

A CHRISTIAN HOME

for all that attend, where they will have advantages for culture equal to the very best at distance lower than those at most colleges. Write for Knotaform and for catalogue. Address
J. N. STALLINGS, D. D., President, High Point, N. C.

The Home Circle.

Ready for Labor.

Ready to follow God's command,
Ready to labor heart and hand,
Ready to conquer every foe,
Ready the seed of truth to sow.

Ready to cheer the sad and weak,
Ready the erring soul to seek,
Ready with songs to praise our King,
Ready with all we have to bring.

Ready as soldiers, firm and true,
Ready our Master's work to do,
Ready to hold our banner high,
Ready to dare, and do, and die.
—Eliza H. Morton, in Our Young Folks.

The Impregnable Word.

Last eve I paused beside a blacksmith's door
And heard the anvil ring the vesper chime;
Then, looking in, I saw upon the floor
Old hammers worn with beating years of time.

"How many anvils have you had," said I,
"To wear and batter all these hammers so!"
"Just one," said he; then said, with twinkling eye,
"That anvil wears the hammer out, you know."

And so, I thought, the anvil of God's Word
For ages skeptic blows have beat upon;
Yet, though the noise of falling blows was heard,
The anvil is unharmed—the hammers gone.
—The Current.

A Birthday.

While once stopping with a friend, the birthday of a young girl connected with the household occurred. Having purchased a Bible for her, I went in the kitchen and presented it. As she thankfully received it, I said to her: "How long is it since you were born?"

"Sixteen years to day, sir," she replied.

"And how long since you were born again," I continued.

The girl hung her head and gave no answer.

"You say it is sixteen years since you were born. Cannot you tell how many have passed since you were born again?"

I could see her bosom heaving as she attempted to answer me, but words would not come, although she tried; at last she burst into a flood of tears. When she had partly recovered from her emotion, I asked her why she was so deeply affected by my question. In answer she told me she was an orphan, and that her father and mother had loved the Lord, and were now in paradise. As for herself, she said, she had not been born again, though she longed and prayed to have her sins forgiven. Since her mother died, she added, no one had spoken to her about her soul.

"My child," I said, "how glad I am that God has begun a good work in you!"

"Oh," she said, "don't imagine that, for I am very wicked, and seem to grow worse."

"But," I asked, "did you not say that you longed to be born of God, and saved from sin?"

"Yes, indeed, I do," she sobbed.

"And do you think that Satan gave you that desire?"

"Oh, no," she answered, "I am sure he did not."

"Well," I said, "may God help you to understand his way of salvation. I suppose you have been trying to be good by praying, and by other ways."

"Yes, I have been trying to be better."

"But," I continued, "God does not expect you to save yourself. He has sent his only begotten Son to be your Saviour. Now, to make it simple to you, you know what a gift is; you have had several to day, and you have been made happy by receiving them. I have just given you this Bible. When I held it out to you, you understood what I meant by saying, 'This is a birthday present.' You simply took it, and said, 'Thank you, sir, it is very kind of you.' You did not need to prepare yourself to take the gift, nor did you have to work for it or pay for it. Well, just so you must receive God's gift of salvation through his Son Jesus Christ."

"Do you mean," said the girl, "that I can accept salvation just as I accepted this Bible?"

"Why, yes," I replied. "Does not God say that whosoever receiveth his Son has now everlasting life?"

"Oh," she said, after a few moments of silence, "Oh, I see it now; I do accept Jesus as my Saviour. I understand that just as you were kind enough to give me this Bible, so God was kind enough to give me his Son, and that just as I took the Bible from your hands, so I must accept the salvation he freely offers. I do accept it. Oh, how happy it makes me!" And then she began to weep again, but this time her tears were tears of joy.—Our Young Folks.

"M. A."

According to a New Zealand paper, the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, M. A., never fails to have these initials written after his name; but sometimes in places where Masters of Arts are rare, the cabalistic letters fail to make their proper impression.

A deacon in an out-of-the-way township read to his congregation the written notice of Mr. Hughes's visit thus:

"The pulpit of this church will be occupied on Sunday next by the Rev. Hugh Price Hughe's Ma."

He added the gallant reflection, "And we have no doubt the old lady will give us a very telling discourse."—Youth's Companion.

The only way to cure fever and ague is either to neutralize the poisons which cause the disease or to expel them from the system. Ayer's Ague Cure operates in both ways. It is a warranted specific for all forms of malarial disorders, and never fails to cure. Try it.

The Young Man who Will be Wanted.

If we could only get the ear of that boy in school, or that young man in college, we would say most earnestly to him, that the time is coming, and perhaps not far distant, when you will be wanted. The opportunity is ready to develop when you will be needed, a most important opportunity, when, if you are ready, you can enter into a great life-work, a time which taken at its flood will lead on to fortune and fame. This is a broad and populous country, and opportunities for eminent achievement and large usefulness are constantly occurring in religious work, in educational work, in business, in professional life, or in politics and the service of the country, possibly in war. You may be wanted never so much, but if you are not ready when wanted you will be passed by. The opportunity, just the one you would most like, will not wait for one not ready. Somebody else will take the place. You will certainly be wanted, and you should be ready to respond at the right moment. The important places require men of character, fixed principle, education, power. No man gets mental power and discipline without hard, stern work, and years of it. And no weak, undisciplined and unprincipled person is fit for command, or can ever expect to hold a commanding position. There in no lack of important positions for those competent to fill them. But it should be remembered that important positions can always find those able to fill them, and the world will not wait for you if you are not ready.

Many an old man to-day is looking back to see another in just the one place which was designed for him, and in which he might have been perfectly content, happy, and useful—in which he might have done a great and important life-work, and achieved distinction—but when opportunity's hour struck he was not ready, and he now feels that his life has been a failure, because he neglected to prepare himself for the time when he would be wanted. The late Prof. H. B. Smith used to say to his students: "Young gentlemen, have a hobby, have a hobby!" i. e., have some one line of study of which you will be master, where you will stand facile princeps, and when opportunity calls, you will be the one wanted. Always study with this thought in mind, that before long the opportunity will occur when you will be wanted.—The Javelin.

What Every Man Ought to Know.

A writer in Harper's Bazar says: While the things a woman should know are many, those with which a man should be familiar are legion. The courtesy which should animate the bearing of a man toward a woman is so rarely seen in its full perfection that its possessor is usually described as a "gentleman of the old school,' and his manners are commented on for their rarity.

Yet the habits that mark the true gentleman are not so difficult to acquire as to account for the comparatively small number who own them. Their neglect arises usually from carelessness, or from a selfishness which places personal ease ahead of the comfort or gratification of others, for unselfishness lies at the root of the best breeding. Selfishness it is which hinders a man's taking the trouble to remember to stand aside and let a lady precede him in entering or leaving a room; which keeps him in his seat while she is standing, whether in a public conveyance or in a private parlor. He does not recognize the spring of his actions by this name. His excuse is always ready: "I never thought of it." "Why should she not stand as well as I?" Or perhaps, hardest to deal with, "What is the use of bothering about such things?"

To begin with, let it be roundly stated that no part of the toilet should ever be performed in public.

All such operations as cleaning or cutting the nails, picking the teeth, removing shreds of dried skin from the face or hands, pulling out stray hairs from the beard or scalp, should be performed in the privacy of one's own apartment, not on the street, in the car or boat, or in the drawing room. Some men consider they are quite justified in scraping and paring their nails in the presence of their families, assembled at the breakfast table, if they preface the action with a perfunctory "Excuse me," or "By your leave." Others do not take the trouble to apologize even thus slightly. And without pessimism it may be affirmed that only exceptionally does one find a man who will not pick his teeth after a meal, if not before guests or in a public restaurant, at least in the presence of his family. There are still households in which it is considered quite a touch of elegance to pass a glass of toothpicks as the final course of a meal.

Abstinence from the above-mentioned "small vices," and from others of the same school, may be termed the first step in good breeding. Such avoidance is among the things a man ought to know and to practice. But there are other observances needed to give grace and finish to a man's demeanor. One of them is the prompt removal of the hat, not only when meeting an acquaintance on the street or on coming into the house, but at other times—in a horse-car, when tendering a seat to a lady, and when she acknowledges the kindness by a bow or word, in an elevator or a hotel corridor when a woman is present, and when kissing a woman, be she only one's wife, sister or daughter.

There are other things which every man ought to know—trifles, perhaps, but of consequence in making or marring the ease of others. Reference has already been made to the graceful custom of rising when a lady enters the room, and remaining standing until she is seated; of opening the door for a lady, and then stepping aside while she enters or leaves the room.

Among the small but unpleasant mannerisms which vex the housewife's soul is the custom some hosts have of urging their guests to take a second supply by the assurance, "There is plenty more where this came from," or "There is a great quantity here." Every housekeeper resents this remark as an implication that there has sometimes been a scarcity of supplies.

Do all these items seem such trifles as to be unworthy of notice? Yet they are powerful agencies in forwarding or destroying the happiness of a man's home, of the women therein, and everyone else with whom he is thrown into contact. Even if the "big brother, man," does not clearly see the necessity, for his own sake, of yielding courtesy, may he not, as a concession to feminine weakness, make a slight sacrifice to his personal inclinations?

One of the Smith's.

Are you Owen Smith? "Oh, yes, I must be, I am owin' everybody!" But I owe more to Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial for curing me of the cholera morbus and dysentery.

A Bashful Little Girl.

Abbey was a very bashful little girl, and she always kept out of the way of strangers if she could. One day her mamma expected a call from an old friend, the Rev. Mr. Cobb, and Abbey made up her mind that she should be out of sight, for she was particularly afraid of a clergyman; but it chanced that Mr. Cobb rung the front door bell just when there happened to be nobody to go to the door but bashful little Abbey.

"O mamma, dear, must I go?" asked Abbey.

"Yes, dear; run right along."

"I sha'n't know what to say," said Abbey, in a flutter.

"Just ask him in," said mamma, "and say, 'Will you take a chair, Mr. Cobb? My mamma will be down in a moment.' Then you can come right upstairs."

In another minute Abbey had opened the front door, and the visitor had walked into the parlor.

Abbey's teeth almost chattered, but she tried to recollect what her mamma had told her to say, and stammered out: "Mr. Chair, please take a Cobb, and mamma will be here in a moment!"

It was well for her peace of mind that poor little Abbey never discovered the mistake she had made, but mamma overheard it from the head of the stairs as she started to go down.

As for the Rev. Mr. Cobb, he became one of Abbey's best friends, but he never let her know that she had called him a chair and invited him to take a cob.—Our Little People.

Precept freezes, while example warms. Precept addresses us, example lays hold on us. Precept is a marble statue, example glows with life, a thing of flesh and blood. —Gladstone.

TUTT'S
Tiny Liver Pills
stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an antibilious medicine. In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Price, 25c. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.
USE TUTT'S HAIR DYE;
a perfect imitation of nature; impossible to detect it. Price, $1 per box.

LOVELY FACES,
WHITE HANDS.
Nothing will WHITEN and CLEAR the skin so quickly as
Derma-Royale
The new discovery for dissolving and removing discolorations from the cuticle, and bleaching and brightening the complexion. In experimenting in the laundry with a new bleach for fine fabrics it was discovered that all spots, freckles, tan and other discolorations were quickly removed from the hands and arms without the slightest injury to the skin. The discovery was submitted to experienced Dermatologists and Physicians who prepared for us the formula of the marvelous Derma-Royale. THERE NEVER WAS ANYTHING LIKE IT. It is perfectly harmless and so simple a child can use it. Apply at night—the improvement apparent after a single application will surprise and delight you. It quickly dissolves and removes the worst forms of moth-patches, brown or liver spots, freckles, blackheads, blotches, sallowness, redness, tan and every discoloration of the cuticle. One bottle completely removes and cures the most aggravated case and thoroughly clears, whitens and beautifies the complexion. It has never failed—IT CANNOT FAIL. It is highly recommended by Physicians and its sure results warrant us in offering $500 REWARD.—To assure the public of its merits we agree to forfeit Five Hundred Dollars CASH, for any case of moth-patches, brown spots, liver spots, blackheads, ugly or muddy skin, unnatural redness, freckles, tan or any other cutaneous discolorations, (excepting birth-marks, scars, and those of a scrofulous or kindred nature) that Derma-Royale will not quickly remove and cure. We also agree to forfeit Five Hundred Dollars to any person whose skin can be injured in the slightest possible manner, or to anyone whose complexion (no matter how bad it may be), will not be cleared, whitened, improved and beautified by the use of Derma-Royale.
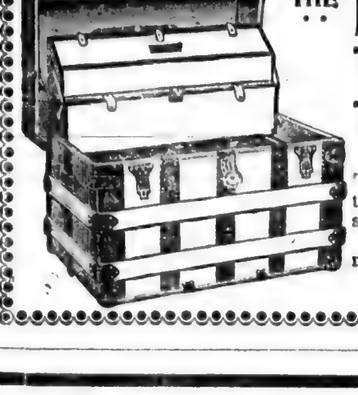
Put up in elegant style in large eight-ounce bottles.
Price, $1. EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
Derma-Royale sent to any address, safely packed and securely sealed from observation, safe delivery guaranteed, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Send money by registered letter or money order with your full post-office address written plainly; be sure to give your County, and mention this paper. Correspondence sacredly private. Postage stamps received the same as cash.
AGENTS WANTED Send for Terms Sells on Sight $10 A DAY.
Address The DERMA-ROYALE COMPANY, Corner Baker and Vine Sts. CINCINNATI, OHIO.

University Law School.
40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address Hon. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.



THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK
THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.
The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.
Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.
If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers,
H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH School Books and Stationery
— BY —
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.
OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.
All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers' prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of $5 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.
MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.
Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch, —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.
THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.
Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL.
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.
RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.
Julius Lewis & Co.,
RALEIGH, N. C.
Guns and PISTOLS
"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1892. Number 12.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Talks About Law.—No. 7.

BY JUDGE R. W. WINSTON.

THE STATUTE OF FRAUDS.

All contracts to sell or convey any lands or any interest in or concerning them, shall be of no effect, unless such contract, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be put in writing and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or by some other person by him thereto lawfully authorized.

In 1863, Chas. Craig left Wilmington for Nassau. Before going, he executed a deed to Thomas Craig, his brother, to a tract of land. Charles alleged that Thomas paid him nothing for the land, and that it was verbally agreed, at the time of the execution of the deed, that if Charles came back to the State, Thomas should give up the land. Charles returned from Nassau. He demanded the land back. Finally Charles sold the land to Bonham. Bonham sued Thomas Craig. But he did not recover the land. Having knowingly conveyed the land, it cannot be shown, by word of mouth, that there was an agreement to recovery. If Charles had alleged and proven that Thomas defrauded him, or deceived him into executing the deed, equity would have relieved him.

"Received, April 21st, 1863, of George Thornburg five hundred dollars on account of sale of my Lenoir lands owned by myself and J. W. Trauseau." Signed by William Masten.

The same land was soon afterwards sold to pay Masten's debts. But Thornburg sued Masten for a deed, and contended that the little receipt contained the contract. Masten's lawyer replied that the "consideration" of the contract was not expressed. But our Court held that the consideration need not be expressed in the memorandum of the contract.

Away up in Haywood county in 1872, a Mr. McCracken sued another Mr. McCracken. The cause of action was that the plaintiff had agreed, by word of mouth, to erect a mill-dam, saw-mill and fixtures on the lands of the defendant; that he did so; and that the defendant had agreed, also by parol, to convey certain lands to the plaintiff in consideration thereof. The action was not to recover the land, but damages for breach of the contract. But, say the Court, "What is the difference between compelling one to part with his property and mulcting him with damages if he tries to exercise ownership over it?" So he recovered no damages.

Now suppose that your agent signs your name to a contract to convey land, and he had no written authority to do so, does this bind you?

In October, 1880, the North State Mining Company, through Eames, its agent, agreed to buy certain mineral lands in Ashe county. The agent delivered, in part payment, certain drafts; these were not paid, and suit was brought to recover on them. The defendant denied that it contracted, and pleaded the statute of frauds. But the Court said that the defendant must pay and that the agent can bind the principal, although the principal's name is not mentioned in the writing, and even if no writing, authorizing the agent to buy, were shown. This leads us very near to a principle of law exemplified daily. How is a man who bids and buys at an auction sale of land, bound? He signs no writing.

Down in Edgecombe in 1866, the auctioneer said, "Put it down to James S. Long;" whereupon the clerk of the sale enters on his sale list, in the presence of Long, "Rayner tract to James S. Long at $40 per acre."

Now, how is Long bound? Well, the advertisement of the sale is the "memorandum of the contract"; then, the auctioneer is the agent of the buyer and enters the bid in his presence. So the purchaser is bound, notwithstanding the statute of frauds.

So it has been held that a judgment may be assigned by parol; and then the parol purchaser may have execution to issue, and under it the land be sold.

Again, one party may sign a writing relating to land and thereby become bound in law, while the party with whom he contracts may not have signed and will not be bound.

Very often one person, relying on the word of another, will build a house on that other's land, before a deed is executed. Then, perhaps, the land-owner dies, or refuses to execute the deed. What remedy has the aggrieved party? He cannot get the land because the statute is in his way. Equity, that guardian of the oppressed, steps in, and says to the land-owner, "You shall not hold and enjoy the land, thus improved, without compensation for the additional value which these improvements have conferred on the property; it is against conscience that one man shall be enriched to the injury of another, induced by his own act."

Suppose there be two or more writings that contain the contract, can you offer parol evidence to connect the writings? No, you cannot. Unless the writings themselves show their connection with the subject matter, you cannot connect them by word of mouth.

Another interesting question arose: One can bind himself with respect to a contract relating to land only by some writing, can he abandon such a contract by word of mouth? Yes. Our Court say "that this opinion that a parol discharge of a written contract within the statute of frauds is available in equity to repel a claim upon that contract, to which the mind of Lord Hardwicke came so reluctantly, is since firmly established by many authorities."

So much for this one section of this famous statute, which is said to owe its origin to Sir Matthew Hale, its object being to "prevent the facility to frauds and the temptation to perjury held out by the enforcement of obligations depending for their evidence upon the unassisted memory of witnesses."

Its consideration has carried us somewhat into the niceties of the law; but the knowledge is not unimportant. However, our next "talk" will be more chatty.

Thoughts—No. 7.

BY SCATTERHEAD.

"They shall mount up with wings as eagles."

Satan is the fountain head of all meanness. He is very industrious, and this is about all the good we can say of him. He uses all of his endeavors to keep this world in a perpetual storm, arising from his hellish rage, in order to envelop the earth in midnight gloom and "Egyptian darkness." But thanks be unto our God there is a sure, peaceable and quiet habitation far above the murky mists and thundering storms of the valley, engendered by Satan's fury, and that dwelling place is in God. "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations."

It is said of the eagle that it soars above the storm-cloud and rests its pinions in the peaceful calm, where it can look down upon the raging storm and feel secure from danger. The true christian, like the eagle, mounts up above the world, and the trials and afflictions cannot harm him, because his dwelling place is in the most high God, whose will it is to lift up his children to the "heights of peace and trust." "The name of the Lord is a strong tower, the righteous runneth into it and is safe." A very safe dwelling place indeed, and Satan and all his imps combined cannot batter down the fortress. Sometimes we stray off from home, our God, our abiding place, and Satan wounds us with his darts. We are promised safety only when we are abiding in our God. It takes some very big storms to drive some christians into their place of refuge, but the Father wants his children to stay at home, without their wandering away, and then have to be driven back by a furious storm. Afflictions and trials will generally make a christian travel very fast towards his only place of safety. Many christians are very well satisfied to remain in their tower while Satan is "spending his shafts" and bellowing around.

Some christians, as soon as the storm is over and all looks very pretty below, soon find themselves midst the things of the world, trying to drink in its pleasures, and very soon they'll forget about "their refuge and strength," and their communion will be broken, and very soon they will be into some kind of meanness, and then it won't be very long before they'll see that they have lost something they once enjoyed—some say religion, but David said it was not salvation that he lost when he had committed such great sins against his God, but that he lost the joy of salvation. If David had gone and fought his enemies as he was accustomed to do, he would not have fallen into temptation, and would have been saved from much bitterness of soul. Satan is a very busy fellow around an idle christian.

I'll say right here, some church members who live very crooked lives, are very ready to show up David's sins, in order to excuse or justify their wicked conduct. If they would only repent like David, the Lord, and christians, too, would be exceedingly glad to excuse them. Let us endeavor "to mount up as on eagle's wings," and strive to stay up in company with the Lord Jesus and be occupied with him only. The christian dwells in a secret place—a hidden place. What a glorious and exalted privilege to be hidden "with Christ in God,"—safely and sweetly hidden from the annoyances of earth. We need to set our "affections on things above, not on the earth." We ought to remember that we are not citizens at this world, but foreigners—our citizenship is in heaven, from "whence also we look for the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile bodies." If we are true christians, everything will grow more and more unsuited to us in this vale of sorrow, as we are here only as "exotics," and we must bear up to things adverse to our heaven-born natures as best we can till the appearing of our Lord, or till we shall "fall asleep in Jesus." Christ alone must be the object of our affections "over all and in all." He alone can satisfy the cravings of our hearts. Let us endeavor to see naught but Jesus, and ever behold his lovely face from which "streams the light of knowledge of the glory of God." He is the object of our faith, hope and love. Let us strive to know more of that heavenly joy and rich blessedness which comes from seeing Jesus only. When we are beholding him we are kept at peace midst the howling tempests of this mortal life. In him we have all we need. "Unto you, therefore, which believe, he is precious." We must drop self and let our souls soar into God's presence, so that we may have our hearts and minds centered upon our Saviour, ever rejoicing in him with "joy unspeakable and full of glory." Christ Jesus was the object Paul was pressing on to while he was working and suffering for him—"counting all things but dross for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus." He had something in Christ more than the world could give, and he ever "pressed toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Dwelling in the presence of our Lord, we can always be enabled to rejoice, even if the "fig tree does not blossom, and there is no herd in the stalls," for by faith's eye we "look upon things not seen but eternal." May we by God's grace live above the corroding cares of the world, and may we ever "look unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." If we walk with our Lord, our prayers will always be in accordance with his will, our lives will be fruitful, and we will be much used by the Master for his glory and in leading souls to him. May we dwell in the presence of our King and so be prepared to do his service.

Lovable Christians.

There is no line of eulogy in the Bible that is more to be coveted than this single line, "the disciple whom Jesus loved." The original possessor of this precious encomium was John the evangelist, and the inspired writer of five wondrous books of holy Scripture. There is a very false conception of him in many minds, as if he were a mild, effeminate person, lacking in all the robust qualities of an athletic manhood. On the contrary, he was peculiarly bold and energetic and outspoken—one of two "sons of thunder." He was a man of flaming zeal for his Master's glory, and of red hot hatred for everything false and wicked. And yet he was the author of three marvelous love letters which have the effusive sweetness of the pressed honeycomb. There seems to have been a peculiar inner sympathy between Jesus Christ and this favorite disciple; he penetrated more fully into his Master's mission, understood mere deeply his Master's character, and partook more of his Master's spirit than any other of the twelve. He was the planet that rode nearest to the sun. That "leaning on the breast of Jesus" at the paschal supper had a meaning in it; it meant that John's heart drew so strongly to Christ's heart that their outward embrace was as natural as the kiss of a husband and a wife.

John might have sat for that portrait which Paul afterward painted when he described the christian character as possessing "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are honest," and then adds as a finishing touch, "whatsoever things are lovely and are of good report." This word "lovely" does not occur elsewhere in the New Testament. It signifies what is dear to any one, and the phrase "things of good report" signifies that which wins admiration and approval. We might paraphrase the expression, and render it—"be lovable; so live as to win converts to your Master." Every christian is, or ought to be, a representative of Jesus Christ before the world. He has been well styled "the world's Bible"—and is about the only Bible that thousands ever look at. It should be the aim of every follower of Christ to be a living epistle, not only legible but attractive to all who study him. Is this always so? Is the religion of every good man and good woman truly lovable? We fear not. Some men's piety has quite too much of the flavor of the "old Adam" still lingering about it. Others sour their religion with the acidity of censoriousness, and their conversation sets every one's teeth on edge. After an hour's talk with them, you find yourself almost insensibly prejudiced against some of the best people of your acquaintance. A fly has been dropped by these censorious dyspeptics into every pot of fragrant ointment, and a smirch has been left by their uncharitable tongues on the fairest characters. There is quite too much lemon and too little sugar in the composition of such people to make them agreeable to anybody. Only half converted themselves, they convert no one else.

Somewhat akin to these are a class of knotty and crabbed christians whom everybody respects, and almost nobody loves. In my early ministry I had a most conscientious and godly-minded officer in my church who rigidly practiced whatsoever things were true and whatsoever things were just, and whatsoever things were honorable. He was honest to a farthing, and devout to the very core. I never knew him to do a wrong deed, and I scarcely ever knew him to do a pleasant one. There was a deal of good, solid and most excellent meat in him, but no one liked to prick his fingers in coming at it. The rugged old chestnut bur christian might have been a great power in the church; but even the children in the street were afraid to speak to him; and so he went sturdily on his way to heaven, praying and working and growling as he went, reminding me of his famous countryman, Thomas Carlyle. If there had been a few drops of the Epistle of St. John distilled into him, he would have made a grand specimen of a christian, and probably he has become sweeter and mellower by this time in the warm atmosphere of heaven. That good man did more than make a mistake, he committed a sin by destroying a large part of his influence for winning others to Christ. As a soldier has no right to wet his powder or to blunt his sword when he goes into battle, so no christian has a right to make his religion offensive when he might make it attractive. His personal influence is a trust and a talent which he is bound to use for his Master. "He is wise that winneth souls," and no one of us is likely to win anybody until we have won both their respect and their affections. Influence is never to be gained by compromising with other people's sins, or conniving at their wrong-doings; trimmers and time-servers are only repaid with contempt. The price of permanent love is fidelity to the right of an unselfish aim to do good to others.

A lovable christian, therefore, is one who hits the golden mean between easy, good-natured laxity on the one hand, and stern or uncharitable moroseness on the other. He is sound and yet sweet; he is all the sweeter for living much in the sunshine of Christ's countenance. He never incurs suspicion or contempt by compromising with sinful prejudices, nor does he repel people by doing a righteous act in a churlish or bigoted fashion. The blessed Jesus is our model here as as in everything else. Was not his the sinless and ineffable majesty of holiness that awed his followers at the same time that his gentle benignity inspired their deepest loyalty and affection? If Jesus were now upon our earth the most wretched outcasts would be drawn to him; and the lowliest beggar child would be glad to climb upon his knee and to kiss that sad, sweet countenance of purity and love. There would be nothing in this derogatory to his dignity as the Son of God. Christ Jesus was love incarnate. By as much as he abhorred sin he loved sinners, and sought to save the guiltiest. He never spurned the vilest from his presence. When hard-hearted Pharisees scoffed at him for eating with publicans and sinners, his reply was that he came into the world for that very purpose—to seek and to win and to save those who were lost. Let us copy Christ. Let us learn from him how to combine the most unbending sense of justice, purity and loyalty to God with the lovable attractions of a sunny face, and kind words, and cordial courtesy, and unselfish sympathy with the most sinful as well as the most suffering.

Who are the best loved people in the community? I answer unhesitatingly they are the unselfish. They are those who have drank deepest of the spirit of Christ Jesus. They are those who have the most effectually cut that cursed cancer of self out of their hearts, and filled its place with that love that "seeketh not its own." This beautiful grace sometimes blooms out in most unexpected places. It was illustrated by the poor lad in the coal mine when a fatal accident occurred, and a man came down to relieve the sufferers, and the brave boy said to him, "Don't mind me; Joe Brown is a little lower down, and he's a'most gone; save him first!" There are enough "Joe Browns" who are lower down in poverty, and ignorance, in weakness and in want than we are, and christianity's first duty is to save them. It was to save sinners from sinking into the deeper pit of hell that Jesus died on Calvary. He who stoops the lowest to rescue lost souls will have the highest place in heaven. Will it not be these unselfish spirits who will have John's place up there on the Saviour's bosom and will be "the disciples whom Jesus loves?"—Dr. T. L. Cuyler, in the Independent.

God's Help.

Human love may change. The friendship of last year has grown cold. The gentleness of yesterday has turned to severity. But it is never thus with God's love. It is eternal. Our experience of it may be variable, but there is no variableness in the love. Our lives may change; our consciousness of his love may fade out, but the love clings forever; the gentleness of God abides eternal. "For the mountains shall depart and the hills be removed; but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee." There is never a moment, nor any experience, in the life of a true christian, from the heart of which a message may not instantly be sent up to God, and back to which may not instantly come. God is not off in some remote heaven merely. He is not away at the top of the long, steep life-ladder, looking down upon us in serene calm and watching us as we struggle upward in pain and tears. He is with each one of us on every part of the way. His promise of presence is an eternal present tense: "I am with thee." So "Thou, God, seest me" becomes to the believer a most cheering and inspiring assurance. We are never out of God's sight for a moment. His eye watches each one of us continually, and his heart in his eye. He comes instantly to our help and deliverance when we are in any need or danger.—Bits of Pasture.

The Situation—A Crisis.

In the last RECORDER was a statement in figures about the contributions of the Baptist churches connected with our Convention for State, Home and Foreign Missions from the session in Shelby to September 1st, 1891, and from the session in Goldsboro to September 1st, 1892. From this statement it is seen that the churches have given more for Home and Foreign Missions this year than they gave last year; but for State Missions they have not given so much. This falling off in State Missions has made it very hard on some of our missionaries who have been almost wholly dependent on the Board. That the pastors and churches may know just how it is with these faithful men I give a private letter just received from one of them:—

Rev. C. Durham, Raleigh, N. C.:

DEAR BROTHER:—I am very sorry to write to you this time, but I can't live on air. It was my bad fortune to have nothing to depend on when I came here except what I should make. I had no cash on hand. I am becoming very much in the condition of a man who finds it necessary to improve his finances or move to another place or else suffer. I don't see how I can remain here much longer with no money. Surely I know that the Board is trying to do the best it can with nothing with which to do. But I am now compelled to make some turn somehow, for I can't many days stay here as it is. If the Board can't pay me anything I shall be compelled to seek some other means of support. For nearly five months I have had to live on $68.81 and credit and furnish a house, for I have a family. I don't want to complain. But I can't see my way much further. Bills are over due, and duns are things that I can't convert into effective sermons.

I appreciate the circumstances of the Board, I think, so don't be too harsh at my complaint, but let me hear whether I may depend on any money and how soon.

Fraternally, ———

We cannot, my brethren, afford to neglect our own State Mission work. There is too much involved in it for us to allow it to fall behind. For sixty years this work has been supported, and from year to year enlarged, until now we have missionaries in almost every destitute section of the State. Through this work the foundation has been laid for our present and future denominational prosperity. From January 1st, 1893, to May 1st, 1893, can be given by pastors and churches to collections for Home and Foreign Missions. This will bring in these funds before the Southern Baptist Convention in May next. But September, October and November should be given to collections for State Missions.

Brethren, please do not forget, or neglect, or postpone attention to State Missions. We must not carry a debt to the Convention this year. C. DURHAM.

The Door Unlocked.

Some time ago I wanted to enter a strange church with a minister a little before time for service. We procured a key, but tried in vain to unlock the outside door with it. We concluded we had the wrong key, and sent to the janitor for the right one. But he came and told us the door was already unlocked. All we had to do was to push, and the doors would open. We thought ourselves locked out, when there was nothing to hinder us from entering. In the same way we fail to enter into love and fellowship with God. The door we think is locked against us. We try to fit some key of extraordinary faith to open it. We try to get our minds wrought up to some high pitch of feeling. We say we have the wrong key, must feel more sorry, must weep more. And all the time the door is ready to open, if we but come boldly with humble earnestness to the throne of grace. We may enter freely at once, for his heart is not shut against us. We must enter without stopping to fit our key of studied faith, for his mercy says, "Whosoever will may come." We must enter boldly, trustingly, not doubting his readiness to receive us just as we are. He is willing already, and we must not stop to make him willing by our prayers and tears. —Exchange.

You will not be able to go through life without being discovered; a lighted candle cannot be hid. There is a feeling among some good people that it will be wise to be very reticent, and hide their light under a bushel. They intend to lie low all the war time, and come out when the palms are being distributed. They hope to travel to heaven by the back lanes, and skulk into glory in disguise. . . . Rest assured, my fellow christians, that at some period or other, in the most quiet lives, there will come a moment for open decision. Days will come when we must speak out, or prove traitors to our Lord and to his truth. . . . You cannot long hold fire in the hollow of your hand, or keep a candle under the bed. Godliness, like murder, will out. You will not always be able to travel to heaven [illegible] —Spurgeon.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

THE SUNNY SIDE.

Notwithstanding the occurrence of events which from time to time disturb the peace of our Zion, there is a sunny side to the situation, and we desire to look at it in this paper. It is well to do this at times, because the editor of the religious newspaper sees so much error from within and without, that he is often constrained to battle against it, knowing that things that are going wrong need to be opposed, while those that are going right can be let alone. On this account the editor of such a paper so often appears as the opponent of error, and the champion of some truth that may be threatened, that he may be mistaken for a downright pessimist, and even some of his warmest friends may suppose that he is rather disposed to see the dark instead of the sunny side of things that are passing. Well, he would be a poor watchman indeed that did not sound the trumpet when danger approached, and he would be a poor editor indeed that always fed his people on soft, sweet generalities, and never grappled with any of the real issues of the day, or failed even to tell them sometimes about possible faults among themselves. But now for a glance at the sunny side of the situation.

1. Our people are growing rapidly in numbers, influence, and, we hope, piety. A rapid increase of numbers is not always an encouraging sign; but if such numbers are reached by gospel means, and are given as the manifestation of the divine blessing, it is quite an encouraging fact. We think we use gospel means to reach the people. It is a well known fact that we insist on repentance toward God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ as absolute conditions for baptism and fellowship in our churches. It is equally well known that such conditions are not insisted on by some other denominations, so that here and there, by the easy terms of admission they propose, they may increase more rapidly than our people. When it is remembered that we in no case depart from the New Testament models, that we have only one Lord one faith and one baptism; not trying to furnish others according to the preferences of the candidates for admission into our churches, it is a source of continual joy to us that our people are growing so rapidly. Baptist polity and Baptist preaching seem to suit the people, and they are flocking to us by the thousand. The Lord's signal favor is resting upon our pastors and congregations at this time. From many portions of the State, and of our country, come tidings of the outpouring of the Spirit and large ingatherings of precious souls. The baptismal waters are often disturbed, and pastors and churches are rejoicing over large additions to their membership. This demands not only joy and gratitude on our part, but should give us the spirit of devout praise and thankfulness to the Lord of life and glory who hath sent these blessings upon us.

The fact is also evident that our people are growing rapidly in influence and power. The time has been when our people were called, in many places, the "poor and ignorant Baptists," and as far as possible some of our friends (?) of other denominations are continuing this cry in communities where our people happen to be weak, and where their doctrines and principles have not permeated society. This convenient cry has about subsided in most places, and where it is still indulged in it happens to show the ignorance of those who use it. In other communities where our people are strong and influential the cry about the poor ignorant Baptists is succeeded by the cry, "Ah, they are selfish; they will not commune with us." What a transformation! Centuries ago the fathers of those who now indulge quite freely in this remark did not care at all about communing with us; in fact, were often more disposed to scoff at or persecute us; but now their descendants are grievously hurt, (so they say), because we do not commune with them. Well, brethren, some strange things have happened in this world, and this is among them.

We say it with no disposition to boast, but with humble thankfulness to God, the Baptists have become a mighty power in this land, and we may say in the world. We number in America over 3,000,000; and when it is remembered that we do not count the children, or those under the watchcare of the church, but simply real members, we have great occasion to say, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." Our ministers, in point of zeal for their work, talent and preaching power, will not suffer in a comparison with those of any denomination in this or other lands. Our theological and literary schools are first-class in their faculties and general appointments. One of the best endowed colleges in America is a Baptist institution. Some of the ablest scholars in America are Baptists. The principles for which our fathers contended, and for which many of them suffered persecution, and even martyrs' deaths, have so triumphed, especially in this highly-favored country, that many who once opposed us have adjusted their creeds to that condition of things they find in a free country, and are actually trying to divide with us the honor, which under God belongs to us more than to any other people. We hope our people are growing in piety, but on this we prefer to let others speak.

2. The missionary zeal of our people is increasing. Considering the weak beginning of the modern mission work, and that God has signally honored the Baptists by making them what they have a right to claim, the pioneers of modern missions, we are forcibly reminded of the words, "For God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty," &c. Just now there is some disturbance in the missionary atmosphere. Honored brethren think they have found a new and better way of pushing this divinely appointed work than that endorsed by our Associations, State and General Conventions. While we respect the men, and honor their convictions, yet we think their ideas or plans are not at all new ones. Time and again their feasibility has been tried, and here and there may have met with temporary or partial success; but, as a rule, have not worked satisfactorily. We are verily persuaded that much confusion has arisen on the great work of preaching the gospel to the heathen by confounding Christ's directions to his disciples that he first sent forth to preach among the people of their own country, (see Matt. 11), with the later and fuller instructions, (see Luke 23: 35-37, Matt. 28: 19, 20), with Paul's exposition of what the great commission meant as it affected the heathen, "How shall they hear without a preacher, and how shall they preach except they be sent."

3. Our people are growing in benevolence and liberality. This again is a source of great joy to us. Giving is a part of religion. God gave his only Son for the world, and the genius of Christ's religion requires a liberal spirit on the part of his disciples. We are far from claiming that there are no covetous spirits among us. There are rich church members among us that refuse to give to the Lord's work according to their means. They pay but little attention to the orphan's cry; they give but little for the great work of missions; the cheaper the preacher the better he suits them; but still we thank God when we remember that this is not true of a great host of our people, and that many that once seemed more or less covetous are growing in liberality. Here and there the rich are giving by the thousand into the Lord's treasury; but after all in one thing, as to giving, we are defective. We have never yet been able to reach systematically the masses of our membership. Oh, how many of our poorer or humbler members are robbing themselves of the blessing that comes with the gift of even the widow's mite! How to reach every member of every Baptist church, and secure regular gifts for the Lord's treasury, is a question yet unsolved. May the Lord hasten the day of its solution! When that day comes, our Boards will not be cramped, and our general work will be pushed with an energy and efficiency we have not yet reached.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Rev. E. D. Johnson of St. Paul is very sick.

....Rev. D. W. Herring is now rapidly improving.

....Wake Forest College, opened with one hundred and fifty students.

....Rev. T. J. Taylor expects to hold a meeting with his church at Warrenton next October.

....Bro. S. Huffman of Morganton spent a day or two in Raleigh last week, and called to see us.

....Rev. O. L. Stringfield, will aid Rev. G. W. Coppedge, in a meeting at Ephesus church, this week.

....Rev. Dr. J. W. Jones and family returned to Atlanta on Monday. They spent the summer in Virginia.

....We enjoyed a very pleasant visit from Bro. J. F. MacDuffie, pastor of the Second Baptist church, Durham.

....Rev. Mr. Daniel of Memphis, Tenn., has accepted the call to the First Presbyterian church of this city.

....The church in Elizabeth City has called the Rev. Dr. C. L. Blackwell of Norfolk, Va. He accepts the call.

....The Baptists of Maxton have decided to begin the erection of a church at once on the lot in front of their chapel.

....Rev. W. G. Jones, after passing the summer months at Jamaica Plain, Mass., has returned to Newton Centre, Mass.

....We are gratified to learn that the brethren at Wadesboro are delighted with their new pastor, Rev. J. W. Wildman.

....Prof. J. B. Carlyle passed through Raleigh Saturday on his way to see his mother in Robeson county, who is very ill.

....We learn with regret that Rev. J. H. Edwards, pastor at Goldsboro, is quite ill at the residence of his brother near Cheraw, S. C.

....Rev. G. W. Harmon recently conducted a meeting at Herman church, Union county. There were three accessions to the church.

....Bro. J. A. Beam, of Bethel Hill reports that his churches were never in a better spiritual condition than they are at present.

....Rev. I. W. Thomas, after spending a month in Watauga and Ashe counties, has returned to Caldwell and resumed his ministerial work.

....Revs. E. F. Rice and James Long, who graduated at Wake Forest last June, are attending the Rochester Theological Seminary, New York.

....Rev. James Gazaway Ryals, D. D., of the theological chair of Mercer University, died Friday night at his home near Cartersville, Ga.—Index.

....Our sincere thanks are due Rev. C. A. Jenkens of Oxford for a good club of subscribers. Bro. Jenkens is working for the RECORDER in all his churches.

....Rev. T. J. Taylor, of Warrenton requests us to say that the next Warren Union will meet at Quankie church, on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October.

....Rev. J. P. Spence, a recent graduate of Wake Forest, is now pastor of the Baptist church at Red Springs. Bro. Spence has also opened a school at that place.

....Rev. W. E. Crocker has returned to the Seminary at Louisville. It is stated that Bro. Crocker will enter the foreign field after spending another year at the Seminary.

....Rev. J. M. Bennett will begin a protracted meeting at Holloway's next Sunday. He will be assisted by Revs. Thomas Carrick and R. D. Cross.—Lexington Dispatch.

....Rev. W. R. Gwaltney of Wake Forest passed through Raleigh on his way home from the Associations and made us a pleasant call. Bro. Gwaltney has been resting for a week.

....Rev. Charles W. Cooper of Indiana is regularly stationed at Rocky Mount till November. The Phœnix states that he delivered two very fine sermons Sunday morning and night, August 4th.

....Rev. William J. Sholar began his ministry at the old First Point or Noble Street church, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sunday, the 4th inst. He was given a hearty welcome and cordial reception.

....Bro. W. H. Edwards has resigned the pastorate of Rock Spring church, to take effect December first next. He has been called to the charge of Wake Cross Roads church, and will probably accept.

....Rev. Z. D. Harrill, the pastor of the church at Forest City, assisted by brethren G. W. Rollins, T. Bright and S. A. Bridges, recently held a meeting at that place. There were four accessions to the church.

....Rev. A. T. Denny passed through Raleigh last Monday on his way to Wake Forest. He has recently been quite sick with fever, but is rapidly regaining his strength, and will soon be himself again.

....Rev. H. D. Lequeux, who has been pastor of the Baptist church at Morganton for some time, has joined the Presbyterian church. Mr. Lequeux came to the Baptist church a few years ago from the Methodists.

....The Baptists in and around the Metropolitan Tabernacle church, London, are much stirred up over the question of Dr. Pierson's return. They prefer that Rev. Thos. Spurgeon should become their pastor.

....Rev. James E. Hamilton, Ph. D., formerly pastor at Vineyard Haven, Mass., takes the "Head Fellowship in Philosophy" in the Chicago University.—Inquirer. This University promises to have more professors than students.

....Rev. Dr. M. B. Wharton and wife of Norfolk, Va., arrived here the latter part of last week on a visit to their son, Mr. M. B. Wharton, Jr. Dr. Wharton went South Saturday morning, leaving Mrs. Wharton here.—Graham Gleaner, Sept. 8.

....Rev. J. M. Bridges, who has been engaged in revival work in Spartanburg county for the last two weeks, returned home Wednesday. He conducted three meetings. There were forth three conversions and he baptized twenty.—Shelby Review, of 9th inst.

....Rev. W. S. Ballard closed his meeting at Dawson's last Sunday. There were sixteen persons baptized and others were restored to the fellowship of the church. It was said to be the best and most gracious meeting held in the church for a long time.—Scotland Neck Democrat, Sept. 8.

....Prof. T. M. Hufham has been sick and did not get to the French Broad Association until nearly the close of the session. Bro. Hufham has the universal esteem and confidence of the people, and by degrees he is putting Mars Hill College on a plane of efficiency that will hand his work down to the coming ages as a blessing both to the heads and hearts of the people.—Asheville Baptist.

....Under date of Sept. 10, Bro. J. B. Brewer says: "Chowan Institute has opened much better than its friends anticipated. Its patronage is extending to new sections. All the teachers are on duty, and those who have recently been added to the faculty are making a fine impression. The pupils seem ready and anxious to work. The indications are that this will be one of its most successful sessions."

....Rev. G. M. Duke of Nash declines the Democratic nomination to the Senate in an admirable card published in the Scotland Neck Democrat of the 8th inst.

....Rev. C. D. Peterson of Clinton, N. C., has done much good preaching this summer, but finds himself unable to return to Wake Forest College to complete his education, which he is anxious to do. He would like to have a country pastorate or a good school. Write to him at Clinton, N.C.

....Dr. W. H. Strickland of Sioux City, Iowa, has been on a trip to Europe. A few days ago he passed through Chicago on his return home. In company with Mr. Edward Goodman of The Standard, and Prof. Robert E. Harper of the Chicago University, he crossed the ocean on the "City of Paris."—American Baptist.

....We learn from the Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer that on Sunday, the 4th inst., Rev. T. S. Wright closed a five weeks' series of protracted meetings with his churches in Anson county, viz: Deep Creek, Rock Spring, Mount Olive and Peachland. During these meetings there were sixty conversions and thirty received into the various churches by baptism. The spiritual condition of all the congregations was greatly revived, and much and lasting good was accomplished.

....In last week's RECORDER you said: "In his circular of January 14th, 1892, addressed to the churches of the King's Mountain Association, Rev. G. P. Bostick says, 'If you will raise $600 yearly and put into the hands of my brethren I will become your missionary. My wife will look to her Association for a similar amount.' This is the salary Bro. Bostick thinks will be needed under the 'new plan,' and is the same that the Board pays under the present plan." It is not the same the Board pays under the present plan, for in addition to this ($600 for himself and $600 for his wife) the Board would allow $100 for his child, and besides pay the salary of his teacher of the languages, travelling expenses, &c. But what is more to the point, this proposition was made to this Association before the "new plan" was agreed upon.—J. P. H.

....Dr. J. B. Cranfill of Texas, prohibition candidate for Vice-President, in his paper, the Texas Baptist Standard, replies as follows to some of his brethren who think that a man cannot be a christian and vote for any other than the prohibition nominees: "Now and then some good prohibitionist is liable to say that no christian man will vote either of the old party tickets. As a matter of fact, a man may be a christian, and a good christian, and vote the ticket of any political party that now appeals to our people for their suffrage. A christian may even be in favor of a monarchy. A man might possibly favor woman suffrage and yet at last find a welcome at the gate of heaven. As a matter of fact the religious realm and the political realm are totally separate and distinct, and no man is to be judged in his christian life by what he conscientiously believes in his political life. We should remember, though in the heat of partisan contest, that the man who holds an opinion contrary to our own is just as honest as we are, is fully as conscientious and as truly consecrated to his God as if his lines of thought were similar to our own. Not only should there be tolerance of opinion among our people, but there should be tolerance of the expression of opinion. No cause is worth fighting for that cannot stand the attack of an adversary, and no man ought to be so jealous of his party faith as to fear its downfall on account of criticism by those who hold to a different political tenet. Let discussion be free and full, and let it be conducted in love, and no harm will come of it." We are glad that he has more sense than some of his followers in this State.

Here and There.

The brethren of the First church, Durham, have been very fortunate, and seem to be very well satisfied in their selection of a pastor. Bro. Tyree is a lovable brother, and so far as we have gotten acquainted with him, he has captivated us.

Bro. Butler, at the Second church, has the profound respect and confidence of his brethren. All things are working well, since he pulled the load out of the last "bad" place. He and his lovely little wife have settled down in the parsonage to do good, honest work for the Master.

We are in the midst of a glorious revival here at the Third Baptist church. Brother Blanchard, with his big head, heart and soul is magnifying his office and Master by doing some honest work for his people. Sinners are being convicted, mourners are being converted, and backsliders are being reclaimed. Last night the house was thronged, and many could not be admitted for lack of seats. Thirty-seven have professed conversion up to date. Eighteen have joined the church. There was greater interest manifested last night and yesterday than at any time before. The meeting continues on this week. Bro. W. S. Olive has been doing the preaching for us. He wields the "Sword of the Spirit" with power. He knows no man after the flesh, but cuts down irrespective of condition, and then directs them to the Great Physician for remedies to heal them. He is a good preacher.

I closed my last series of meetings on the fourth Sunday night in August at Mt. Hermon. We had a good meeting. Bro. A. J. Taylor's sickness was a hindrance to the meeting in the beginning, but towards the last of the week he commenced convalescing, and the attention of the church was directed to the sinners, and we had a very successful meeting.

At Roberson Grove we had one of the best meetings ever known in the history of the church. Eleven joined—seven by experience, three by letter, and one by restoration.

As usual, we had a good meeting at Bethesda. The church was alive and ready to work. We invited the Master to come and be our guest, and he remained with us throughout the meeting. Fifteen joined by experience, two by letter, and one by restoration.

In addition to the above, we held meetings at Mt. Adar and Belvin's school-house, mission stations under the supervision of the Mt. Zion Association. One professed at each point, and we trust good seed were sown, the result of which will be seen after awhile.

Bro. Taylor is much better, and we hope will soon be all right again. He has been very near the point of death, but the doctors and the good Lord raised him. He rendered very efficient aid on my fields. He bids fair to become one of our best preachers. Consecrated in soul and body, he loves his Master's service, and goes forward fearless to conquer sinners for Christ.

J. F. MACDUFFIE.

East Durham, Sept. 5, 1892.

LATER.

Sept. 10—Meeting still continues here. About fifty have professed. Closes Sunday night. There will be, I suppose, thirty or thirty-five additions to the church. Baptizing Sunday night. J. F. MacD.

Literary.

A Picnic in Palestine. By Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D. Published by the Wharton and Barron Pub. Co., Baltimore, Md. Price, cloth, illustrated, $2.00.

We have examined this book with no little interest. The fact that it dwelt with the Holy Land, and that it came from the pen of Dr. Wharton, justly well known for his many widely-read books and lectures, was enough to excite the interest of any Baptist.

The book in itself is in every way deserving of the greatest success, being told in Dr. Wharton's easy, graceful style, and treating of a subject in which all are interested, it stands in our opinion as one of the most interesting of books.

Dr. Wharton says in his preface: "I have endeavored to take the reader with our party, seeing and hearing and having a good time as we did." As far as we were concerned the author's efforts were in no way in vain. We would advise all who have had that longing, which comes to all christians, to see the Holy Land, to read this book, for although many of us can never enjoy the privilege of a sojourn in Palestine, the book will come next to compensating our loss, and in this it will be a priceless consolation.

A Picnic in Palestine is well and nicely bound in cloth, and has thirty-two excellent illustrations.

The Meeting at Broad Street, Winston.

Dear Recorder:—Our meeting at the Broad Street church continues with great interest. We have been meeting nearly three weeks, including the week of prayer. The church and community were ready for the work. On Sunday, the 28th of August, Dr. J. J. Hall of Raleigh was expected, but did not come until Tuesday following. The disappointment was not in the way of the work of the Holy Spirit, for on that the first night of the meeting, God gave us five conversions, and on Monday night he gave us five more. Tuesday, Bro. Hall came and remained until to day, Friday, Sept. 9th.

During the progress of the meeting, we have had in all between sixty and seventy converts, and the whole city has been shakened by the Spirit of God, and before the meetings close, we hope to be used of God in bringing scores yet into his kingdom. I shall do the preaching next week, aided in the work by Bro. Brown of the First church.

Let me say a word for Dr. Hall, not that he needs or wants it, but because he deserves it. God blessed him while here. His preaching was powerful. He preaches the love of Jesus with great power and tenderness, and by his lovely, tender and affectionate disposition, coupled with his pulpit power, he has won a lasting place in our hearts. The last night of his stay was one long to be remembered here.

We will occupy our new baptistery Sunday night for the first time and hope to wonderfully trouble the water.

Yours, &c., L. G. BROUGHTON.

Glen Alpine, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—Rev. C. E. Gower of Lincolnton has just closed a meeting here in which there were five converted. The church is greatly encouraged and revived. The baptizing was attended by all the denominations here. To say the least, the meeting was appreciated by all, and especially is Bro. Gower esteemed and regarded as a man in the right place. He was with us a week and made many friends, but his engagements elsewhere demanded him so that we could not keep him longer.

I would that Western North Carolina had more such men than she has, for there is a great work to be done in this part of the State for the Master. With men who combine culture and talent for the cause of Christ, as well as preaching the plain, sound gospel, there is an attraction that tells for good, and such a man is he who has just left us. WM. E. DODD.

Glen Alpine, Sept. 5, 1892.

Endorsed Resolutions.

The Baptist church at Macedonia unanimously endorsed the following:

Resolved 1. That we oppose the removal of the Association, as ordered by a part of the Executive Committee, without the sanction or knowledge of the churches.

2. That we request our sister churches to appoint their delegates to attend at Catawba, in accordance with the proceedings of the last session of the Association and in conformity to the constitution.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the sister churches for consideration and to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

J. MULLEN, C. C.

Derr, Sept. 6, 1892.

Another Word to Sunday-school Superintendents.

Dear Brethren:—Suffer a word of exhortation. We have sent out to the eight hundred Baptist Sunday-school Superintendents of the State a circular, appealing to them to try to get the children interested in the Centennial of Missions; also copies of the constitution of children's missionary societies, and notified them, through the papers, of the selection of the second of October as the children's Centennial day, and I come to say now that the date chosen is near at hand, and yet I fear, from the responses we have received, that many of you have forgotten it or fail to appreciate its importance. The program for Centennial day is a most interesting one, and if adopted at once and properly carried out, will, I doubt not, awaken much enthusiasm and bring in a large amount of money. These programs you can have free of cost by simply writing to Miss Fannie E. Heck of Raleigh; Miss Annie Armstrong, No. 10 East Fayette St., Baltimore, Md., or to myself, Wilmington, N. C.

Remember, you can either start the work in your school on this Centennial Day, if it has not already begun, or you can get reports and collect the money by the Chapel Card plan that day. What we want is to get the matter properly before the children of the churches. We sincerely believe this is an excellent plan to impress the little folks, it may be for life, with interest in this grand and glorious enterprise, and we entreat you not to let it go by unimproved.

And remember also, that the money given by what we call the Chapel Card plan does not go especially to the erection of chapels at home or abroad, but to the general Centennial Fund. This is simply an easy plan we have adopted for the children to work on. Your brother in the Lord,

T. H. PRITCHARD.

We append the following hints as to preparation for the Centennial Children's Day, which will be helpful to Superintendents and Sunday-schools:

1. For many schools there are in this Service more songs and recitations than can profitably be used. In some instances it may be desired to introduce other things than those herewith furnished. In such cases the Superintendent, of course, will leave out enough of this Service to bring the whole within a proper time limit.

2. It is manifest enough that as much depends upon the thoroughness with which such a service as this is prepared, as upon the excellence of the Service itself. Many a good Service is spoiled from being poorly rendered. Therefore begin the preparation sufficiently long beforehand to be sure that it will be mastered.

3. While the music will be generally familiar to the schools, it should be thoroughly practiced with the words to secure a rousing rendering of the vigorous pieces.

4. Be just as careful to see that the recitations given out are committed to memory. Put the matter in the hands of one who will be responsible for it, and who is the best qualified to drill the speakers. There should be no prompting when it comes to a final rendering.

5. It would be well to decorate the church with flowers, or autumn leaves. One of the finest effects is made by banking the pulpit with them. Appoint the committee on decoration in ample time.

6. In many places it may be desirable for the church to unite with the school in the celebration.

7. Certificates will be awarded at this time to those who have completely filled their Chapel Cards. Therefore the Superintendent should urge collections upon the Cards from now till October 2d, that this part of the exercises may be a success. If the school is not supplied with Chapel Cards, send for number desired to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, 9 West Lexington St., Baltimore.

NOTES FOR CENTENNIAL ADDRESS.

One hundred years ago, God put it into the heart of William Carey, an humble cobbler, schoolmaster and Baptist preacher of Moulton, England, to carry the gospel to the many millions of heathen in the world, especially to those in India. At this time, the christian world was asleep on the subject of missions, and Carey found little or no encouragement in his efforts to awaken any interest in this cause. But the fire had been kindled in his heart by the Spirit of God and could not be quenched, either by the sneers and ridicule of opponents, or by the discouraging doubts and fears of friends. In May, 1792, at the Baptist Association at Nottingham, he preached a powerful sermon from Isa. 54: 2, 3. From the text he deduced these thoughts: 1. Expect great things from God and 2. Attempt great things for God. This was God's trumpet blast, summoning his people to work.

The immediate result of the sermon was a resolution "to prepare a plan, to be laid before the next meeting, for forming a Baptist Society for propagating the gospel among the heathen." At a meeting held at Kettering, October 2d, 1792, a society was organized by twelve Baptist preachers and a collection taken amounting to 13£, 2s., 6d.—about $65.00. On June 13, 1793, William Carey and wife with Dr. John Thomas sailed for India, and began the great work of foreign missions, which has grown until all denominations are engaged in it, and its results are being seen in thousands and hundreds of thousands of saved souls all over the world—not to speak of the many who have gone to praise their Saviour in glory.

It is meet that the Baptists, whom God so signally honored in the inauguration of this work, and whom he has so blessed in it ever since, should celebrate the Centennial of that time when he called them out as his leaders in the world's evangelization. While Baptists in the other parts of the world are observing this Centennial, Southern Baptists—the largest body of them in the world—must not fail.—T. P. Bell.

FIRST SCHOLAR—JAPAN.

In 1638, after the massacre of the Roman Catholics, and expulsion of the Portuguese and Spaniards, because of plots against the government, this decree was issued: "So long as the sun shall warm the earth, let no christian be so bold as to come to Japan; and let all know that the King of Spain himself, or the christian's God, or the great God of all, if he violate this command, shall pay for it with his head." In 1852, Commodore Perry was sent by the United States government to look into the alleged maltreatment of some wrecked sailors, by the Japanese. "In 1853, on the Lord's day, he, with a squadron of seven ships-of-war, cast anchor in the bay of Yeddo. Spreading the American flag over the capstan of his vessel, he laid thereon an open Bible and read the one hundredth Psalm. So without firing a gun, or shedding a drop of blood, Japan's ports were thrown open to the commerce of the world and the evangel of God." There are now 527 Protestant missionaries in Japan, 274 churches, and 29,663 members.

SECOND SCHOLAR—CHINA.

Robert Morrison was the pioneer missionary to China. He entered Canton in 1807, employed by an American merchant, working by day for his employer, and at night by the light of his earthern lamp, seeking to give the Chinese the gospel in their native tongue. In seven years he produced a translation of the New Testament Scriptures, and the same year baptized his first convert. Several missionary societies soon entered the field, but their labors were restricted in many ways, till the war of 1856 opened the country to trade and to the missionary as well, giving protection and access to the people. Since that time, missions have prospered, and now we find Morrison's first convert, joined by a host numbering 36,000 church members, who gave last year $44,000 for the spread of the gospel in their own land.

THIRD SCHOLAR—AFRICA

"From Afric's glowing shores I come,
Where flows the lordly Nile
Where mountain-heights pierce heavens dome
And fair green valleys smile.
And there, how few the hearts that know
The Saviour's love and grace;
In heathen darkness, still they go
With hopeless, joyless face.
Oh! in the light you can bestow,
Give my poor land a place."

FOURTH SCHOLAR—ITALY.

"Italy is the land of great Cathedrals and splendid churches. Some of these have cost hundreds of years of labor and millions of dollars. St. Peter's in Rome, one of the largest Cathedrals in the world, with standing-room for more than fifty thousand persons, was founded hundreds of years ago, and is still unfinished. It is grand and beautiful beyond description, and cost the enormous sum of fifty million dollars, more than every Baptist church house in the Southern States. While we would not for a moment pretend, or even wish to imitate them in the building of fine churches, still we do earnestly desire, and greatly need, simple and comfortable houses of our own, which, however unpretending, the people will recognize as churches, places dedicated to the worship of God. A religious meeting in the hired shop, or a private room, is, perhaps, an unknown thing in Italy, except among Protestants, and yet this is just the kind of meeting we are forced to have at most of our stations."—John H. Eager.

FIFTH SCHOLAR—BRAZIL.

The country is inhabited by whites, blacks and Indians. The Brazilians are chiefly descendants of the Portuguese. The negroes number several millions, and the majority of them were slaves until May 13, 1888. The Indians are found in the forests of the great interior, and many of them are cannibals. The true white Brazilians are the dominant race. They are intelligent, progressive people, emotional, nervous and impulsive. They are hospitable, courteous and sympathetic. They follow European manners and customs in food and clothing. South America has but one Protestant missionary to every 400,000 of her deluded and ignorant souls. "How shall they hear without a preacher?"

SIXTH SCHOLAR—MEXICO.

The open world for Mexico!
O, Church of God, ring out the cry:
The light, the life, the truth, the way,
For darkened souls that fall and die!

Ten million souls! and papal hands
Have closed the book, shut out the light—
The open Bible for that land
For ages wrapped in awful night!

The open Word, the Word of God,
Whence all truth, light and life must flow,
Arise, O, Christian world and give
The life, the light to Mexico!

Our sister nation bound in chains!
Men going down to endless woe!
And shall the Church of God withhold
The Word of God from Mexico!

—Mary G. Crocker.

RECITATION—LITTLE CHAPEL BUILDERS.

We children can work this Centennial year
To help build the chapels for God,
Where people may hear about how to be saved
And start on the heavenly road.

Each one of us young folks can fill up a card—
Won't you?—won't you?—and won't you?.
(Offering the card in different directions)
Let's work and make money and buy all the bricks—
That's what little people can do.

Then, we'll get a Certificate-You know what that is!
A Certificate. It's a—Here's one to see.
(Showing one)
And we'll be awful glad when we're grow up to know
That Centennial builders were we.

Please take a card, every one, little and big,
Let's work just as hard as we can!
And as we prick holes in our bricks we shall feel
So glad that we ever began.

Alice Armstrong.

MISSIONS IN SOUTHERN STATES, STATE MISSIONS AND COLORED PEOPLE.

Missionaries 304, working among native population in cities, country, mountains and frontier, among colored people, German, French, Mexican and Swedes. Dr. J. Wm. Jones says: "From this teeming, pushing, prosperous, growing "New South" of ours, from the 'red men' of the forest, whose hunting grounds we possess, from the negroes of the South, who are neighbors and friends, from our sons and brothers, who have migrated from their old homes, and from the foreigners who are crowding into our States, and who must have the gospel, or they will be a constant menace and peril to our free institutions, there come imperative demands that our churches give to the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention warmest sympathies, most fervent prayers, and liberal contributions to aid in the grand work to which God has called us, and in which he is so richly blessing us."

For further information, see Convention minutes.

CUBA.

The Havana church has a very interesting history. It was built for a theatre, and of course a central location was desirable, so the people could readily come to it. The large and convenient audience room needed to be built back from the street, so noises could not disturb performances. And it is just these things which make it suitable as a church for the people. Being built back from the street is essential, because the Cuban law will not permit religious services to be held so they may be heard from outside. The theatre was valued at $100,000. The owner failed and was not able to keep it. When Dr. Tichenor was seeking to make arrangements about a church for Havana, this theatre was for sale; but its location, size and elegance seemed to put it entirely our of reach. Dr. Tichenor, unsuccessful in securing any place, either lot or building, was about leaving the island, but was detained one day longer by some harbor laws unknown in America. On that day, to his great surprise, the theatre was offered to him for $60,000. The providence of God seemed very plainly marked in preparing for the establishment of a successful church in Cuba, which would, from the first, command the respect of the natives. $40,000 have been paid on the amount agreed upon. The last $20,000 will be due in December, two months from now. If we are busy collecting money on our Chapel Cards, we can help finish the payment for this church, for whose possession by the Baptists, God seems to have specially made the way.

Biblical Museum Not Biblical on Baptism.

Dear Recorder:—Please allow me space for an honest inquiry.

We have often seen the Biblical Museum recommended by Rev. C. Durham through the columns of the RECORDER as being very helpful to ministers and Bible students. Feeling the need of such helps as those books are said to be, I bought them, thinking them orthodox, as they stand so highly recommended. But I find them unsound in doctrine. See notes on Mark 1: 6—"The people were baptized in the river as in the desert; within the banks of the one, and within the boundaries of the other; not being put into the water, or into the earth." Also on Mark 1: 10—"Coming up out of the water," he says: "Proceeding from the water up the inclining shore of the river. . . . The meaning is simply that our Lord walked up the ascending bank away from the water of the river." Such delusions and perversions of God's holy word!

Why do our bookstores keep such books for sale? Why do our brethren recommend such books? Who can tell to what denomination James Comter Gray, the author, belonged? Are not the Baptists able to have orthodox literature of their own?

Respectfully, D. S. MORTON.
Whitley, N. C.

Resolutions of Elizabeth City Church.

The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the Elizabeth City Baptist church on Sunday morning, August 21st, 1892:

WHEREAS, Our pastor, Rev. C. A. G. Thomas, who has served us for the past three and a half years, has resigned his charge here and accepted a call to the Baptist church at Greensboro, N. C.; therefore, be it Resolved 1. That we recognize in Brother Thomas a strong and fearless preacher of the gospel, a kind and faithful pastor—one always ready to administer material as well as spiritual aid to the needy, and one whose labors with us have been crowned with wonderful success, to the glory of God and to the building up of his church.

2. That while we sincerely regret to part with Bro. Thomas and his family, and feel that a vacuum has been created that will be hard to fill, we at the same time congratulate the church at Greensboro upon being so fortunate as to secure him for pastor.

3. That our prayers and sympathies shall go with Bro. Thomas and his family in their new field of labor.

4. That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the church, and a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

E. F. AYDLETT,
G. W. BROTHERS,
F. F. COHOON,
Committee.

South Fork Association.

In accordance with the mutual and unanimous agreement between the churches at Catawba and Newton, the Executive Committee have changed the meeting of the Association from Catawba to Newton. The date to remain as published in the minutes.

J. THOS. MCLEAN,
Clerk So. Fork Association.

Lincolnton, Sept. 3, 1892.

We are glad to learn that the prospects are fine for a good attendance at Bethel Hill Institute. This excellent school will open Sept. 27th. Rev. J. A. Beam is principal, and he is doing good work at Bethel Hill. We learn that at least ten young ministers will attend the Institute. See advertisement in this paper.

The Sweet Singer's Voice Hushed!

DEATH OF MRS. MINNIE EDDINS ROBERTS.

I have never had a sadder duty to perform than now falls to my lot in having to write of the death of that noble, matchless christian woman. She left this earth at 1 p. m. Friday, August 12th, after a few weeks' illness.

Miss Minnie Eddins was born at Yorkville, S. C., March 10th, 1855. She was the daughter of James Bolivar Eddins, the grandson of the South Carolina Revolutionary hero, William Eddins, who was not only a brave soldier but a consecrated and eloquent preacher. Her mother, nee Adelaide Alice Williams, was a daughter of Col. Geo. W. Williams, one of South Carolina's most distinguished lawyers.

Miss Eddins was educated at Yorkville Female College, at Charlotte Female College, and at the Raleigh Female Seminary under Prof. F. P. Hobgood. She took a thorough course in music under Prof. Bohlman, graduating with highest honors in 1873.

In 1873, she kindly consented to make a tour of the State with Miss Carrie Jenkins, for the benefit of the Oxford Orphan Asylum. Her wonderful soprano voice created a sensation wherever she went, and by general consent she has been since styled "The Mocking Bird of North Carolina." This high honor she carried to the day of her death. Unlike most singers, all of her notes were sweet. She had but to open her mouth, and the melody would pour forth.

While at school in Raleigh she made a bright profession of religion, and was baptized by Dr. T. H. Pritchard into the fellowship of the First Baptist church.

On Dec. 22, 1874, she was married to our dear Brother William Joshua Roberts. She then connected herself with the Baptist church in Shelby, and through her prayers in a few years, she saw her husband baptized into the fellowship of the church with her.

She leaves a husband and three sons to mourn her loss—Willie W., aged seventeen, James Eddins, aged seven, and George Williams, aged two years. She had the sweet pleasure of seeing her oldest son a consistent christian before she died.

She never recovered from the loss of her mother. The mother lived in the daughter, and the daughter in the mother. The daughter leaned on the mother. A cloud seemed to rest over her ever after her mother's death.

In reference to herself she said: "My friends, who know me best, can speak of my qualities." She asked her friends to be kind to her children, remembering the mother in the grave.

Her friends say they never saw one who had such a heart for humanity—gentle, kind and loving to all. Among her last words, she said, "I'll soon be passed through the gates of the new Jerusalem." "What a glorious meeting with my mother!" She regretted to leave her husband and children behind.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church on Saturday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. L. Sproles.

Just as the sun was sinking in the west, we laid away this honored christian woman beside her mother in the Shelby cemetery. Upon her grave, among the many flowers, was placed by kind friends a beautiful floral offering representing "Gates ajar."

Is it possible that we are never again on earth to hear the sweet voice of Sister Roberts! That sweet voice, the pride of North Carolina, so soul-inspiring, so bird-like, so angelic and so heavenly is now hushed in silence on earth, but in heaven, when we have passed through the gates of the new Jerusalem, we shall hear Her in the "grand hallelujah" of the redeemed.

"Sister, thou wast mild and lovely,
Gentle as the summer breeze;
Pleasant as the air of evening,
When it floats among the trees.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low;
Thou no more wilt join our number,
Thou no more our songs shalt know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled;
Then in heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed."

By her pastor: J. L. SPROLES.
Shelby, Sept. 7, 1892.

Gracious Meeting at Mars Hill Church.

Dear Recorder:—On the third Sunday in August we commenced a meeting of days with the church at Mars Hill in Bertie county, and continued for eight days. Bro. S. F. Bristow did the pulpit preaching for us, and did it to the satisfaction of all who heard him. Bro. D. Gilliland was with us, and helped greatly in the singing.

We had truly a good meeting, one long to be remembered. Thirty-nine were added to the church—thirty-five by baptism and four restored.

Mars Hill is a grand old church, and is doing a noble work for the Lord. She is on the upward move, doing more and more every year. She is represented in China, and will soon be able to take care of her own missionary. God speed the day.

W. P. JORDAN.

Meeting at Cedar Branch Church.

At the request of the pastor, Bro. Legget, I wish to report a gracious meeting at Cedar Branch church, Martin county. It was my privilege to preach from Monday till Saturday, and all along it was manifest that the Lord was with us.

On Sunday, Bro. Legget baptized sixteen young persons, ranging, I should say, between fifteen and twenty-two years of age. Bright, promising young people they are, and it may be expected, at least, that some of them will be heard from in the future. This good man has been sowing the seed for years, and so the harvest is already begun.

J. F. TUTTLE.

Plymouth, N. C., Sept. 7, 1892.

"As Ye Have Opportunity, Do Good."

It is a vain thing to withhold present benefaction in expectation of some better opportunity in the future. A friend once refused us a thousand dollars for Foreign Missions, because he expected "to turn the thousand over" and give us two thousand the next year. But supposing greater ability in the future, the question is, What is the demand of the present? Bread and meat and clothing are worth more to our missionaries now than convenient chapels will be next year. Does any one ask, "Do our missionaries lack food and raiment?" They certainly would if they depended on the churches to supply their necessities, and they certainly will in a short time if the churches do not send money to the Foreign Mission Board to return the $39,000 they have borrowed to supply with other things this bread and clothing. Banks have no indefinite amount of patience, and any day the Board may hear, "No more renewals of notes, no more discounts." What then as to the living of the missionaries? It is humbling to write this, but is not the truth more humbling? And serious minds begin to inquire, whether it might not be well for the Board, instead of allowing missionaries to draw upon the Board in advance, to forbid all drawing on our Treasurer and to send money to the missionaries, as in other times, when the churches send money to the Board. But will the churches force so retrograde a movement by their indifference and injustice? Will they not awake to the obligation upon them and do their duty to our missionaries and to the cause of Christ they represent promptly and fully? If any have funds of the Lord to be given to Foreign Missions this Centennial year, the Board begs that they will not wait to give, but give now, and give to the support of the present work. It is mockery to talk of giving later for chapels or anything else, while there is now so pressing, so perishing need for money to keep the work alive. Without hesitation, we say that the Foreign Mission Board prefer $50,000 now for the support of their work rather than $100,000 later for the erection of chapels: they prefer that at the end of the year they shall have received $150,000 for the support and enlargement of their work rather than that they shall have received only $100,000 for this work and $100,000 for chapels and distribution of Bibles. Each contributor will exercise his personal judgment, but those who know best of the work urge that every dollar that can be given now, be given, though there may not be a dollar more to give for the "Permanent Fund."

This is to be wisely considered only after the current necessities of the work are satisfied. There is no wiser law than the law of necessity. So imperative is necessity that it passed into an adage among the ancients: "There is no law to necessity"—this is paramount to all else. The wise, the needful thing, the thing of absolute necessity for God's people to do for their Foreign Mission work is to send their fullest offerings now as the best possible celebration of the centenary of the modern revival of Foreign Missions.

H. A. TUPPER, Cor. Sec.
Richmond, Va.

Macedonia and Maiden Meetings.

Dear Recorder:—I held a week's meeting with Macedonia church, Lincoln county, commencing on the third Sunday in August. The Holy Spirit was present from the beginning. The church was revived and the members were brought closer together than they have been for a long time, and say that this was the best meeting they ever had in their church. During the meeting ten converts were received for baptism.

From here I went to Maiden. Allow me to correct an error in your last issue. It was stated that Rev. J. M. Bridges assisted me in the meeting. Bro. Bridges was called over to Spartanburg, and Rev. C. H. Durham of Shelby, N. C., now at Wake Forest, took the place of Bro. Bridges. He was with me several days, but was taken sick and had to leave. Bro. Durham is a power now in the Lord's work, and gave satisfaction to all who heard him. We were all sorry to see him leave us. Maiden is a mission church—only organized July, 1891, with twenty-seven members. We now have about sixty-five on our roll. Eleven were baptized at the close of the meeting on Sunday. About forty professed faith in Christ during the meeting, and we look for quite a number to follow in fellowship. Our new house is completed except the painting. Our seating capacity is about five hundred, but does not seat the congregations. Truly the Lord is doing a great work at this place through his servants. Fraternally,

J. A. HOYLE.

Iron Station, Sept. 6, 1892.

The W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., of Brockton, Mass., have moved into their new factory. Their business has increased so rapidly that more room was needed. The new factory contains 50,000 square feet of floor room exclusive of office room. Mr. Douglas proposes turning out 8,600 pairs of shoes daily as soon as he gets well settled in the new building, but for the present the daily capacity will be 3,000 pairs. Mr. Douglas attributes a large measure of his success to the liberal use of printer's ink, and will spend $150,000 for advertising this year.

The Horner School of Oxford, N. C., begins the Fall Term with flattering prospects. The enrolment of students the first week is larger than ever before in the history of the institution. Every appointment of the School is complete, and no expense seems to have been spared to make the School a model in every respect. Messrs. Horner and Drewry are progressive educators, and the students prepared by them take high stand at the different colleges.

Dr. Charles G. Hill of Baltimore offers one hundred dollars for the best essay on North Carolina history by students in the University of North Carolina.

What Difference Does it Make?

It is our purpose now to offer several reasons why Baptist lips should never frame such a question as that which stands at the head of this article.

They have a history which forbids it. There is grave reason for suspecting that the fact that Baptists have a history is unknown to the great mass of the denomination. There is yet graver reason for the fear that even among those who know of its existence, few are familiar with the noble and illustrious record. Now the history of an individual, of a people, is never insignificant. And a constant reference to it will help very much in the way of warning or encouragement.

It so happens that the history of our fathers emphasizes on every page and in every paragraph the value of our peculiar tenets. The era of good-will had not begun when they lived, and suffered, and died. Nobody then complained that they taught restricted communion, for none of their christian brethren would have entertained for a moment the idea of recognizing them in any way as worthy of respect and affection. There were "none so poor as did them reverence." They stood for our peculiar views at the cost of social and political ostracism and too often of violent persecution. The jails opened for them, the lash awaited them, the fagots flamed about them. There is not a distinctive doctrine of the denomination that has not been baptized in the sacrifices, the sufferings, and even the blood of our denominational fathers. All this could have been easily avoided. It was only necessary for them to remain silent, as so many of their degenerate sons are doing. But silence was from their standpoint cowardice and treachery. They preferred to speak and suffer.

And shall the remembrance of them have no influence upon us? Shall we quietly surrender, or ignobly ignore, or foolishly undervalue what has been bought so dearly? Surely they thought these peculiar doctrines of great importance and through shame and suffering bore their clear and unwavering testimony. Before we remand these doctrines to the category of non-essentials we do well to remember our history. It has a message for us which we ought to hear with respect.

Moreover, there is a great general fact illustrated by our Baptist history which ought to be constantly borne in mind. Baptists have grown in numbers and influence wherever and whenever they have laid proper stress upon those phases of doctrine peculiarly theirs, and they have failed to grow wherever these views have been put in the back-ground. We may not stop here to verify this statement, nor is there any need that we shall do so. The merest tyro in denominational history knows that it is true and the slightest reflection will enable him to discover the reason for it.

The logic of the situation demands that we shall emphasize our distinctive tenets. We are maintaining a separate existence. On the surface of things we are guilty of schism. It does not matter, so far as this argument is concerned, whether the other bodies of christians went out from us or we separated from them. Here we are, divided and subdivided, and this in the face of the expressed wish and prayer of Christ that his disciples might be "one." Now, the fact that we thus maintain separate denominational existence is a perpetual challenge to us to show the grounds of separation. If we fail to respond to this challenge, which we ourselves invite and provoke, one of two results will follow. The people to whom we preach will either conclude that we cannot show good reason, or else they will suppose that it "makes no difference." So that our silence as to our peculiar views creates and promotes the very indifference which we deplore. Only the gravest and weightiest reasons could justify us in separating from the entire christian brotherhood. No questions of expediency, of mere policy, should be permitted to bring about, or to perpetuate, the direful divisions which now characterize the disciples of Christ. If then we have the "gravest and weightiest" reasons, what right have we to hide them?

There are various theological reasons why Baptists should in all christian fraternity and faithfulness persistently and prominently present their peculiar doctrines. We have already insisted that these doctrines have for us the same scriptural basis as the truth which we hold in common with the great body of evangelical christians. We cannot therefore ignore them, for we would thus impugn the authority of the Scriptures.

Moreover, let us again call attention to the fact that the doctrines which are peculiar to the Baptists are lost to the world if Baptists do not maintain and propagate them. It is quite certain that our brethren of other faiths will not perform this service. On the contrary they are logically and naturally found opposing them. If, then, we hold valuable truth, with a clear Bible basis, which is not held but is on the contrary opposed by other christians, the duty of making that truth known is imperative.

There is yet another aspect of this subject which ought to claim serious attention. The doctrines which are distinctively ours are important parts of the system of christian truth. When they are taken out, inevitable disarrangement and confusion follow. We are not contending for trifles. Such questions as the constitution of the christian church and the preservation of the ordinances in their original purity and monumental significance are not to be lightly set aside. The history of christianity abundantly shows that when these doctrines have been perverted, and there has been present no counteracting influence, inevitable and wide-spread demoralization has followed. We are not then mere bald literalists, tithing mint and anise and cummin and neglecting the weightier matters of the law. Among the doctrines which we alone are responsible are matters of the utmost importance in their relation to the general system of christian truth and to the progress of a pure christianity. If our peculiar views had no such significance and value, if we held them simply because they were taught in the Bible, we should still be compelled to hold them. For once the sole and supreme authority of the Scriptures is denied, we are loose from our moorings with a wild and uncharted sea ahead of us. But when to this plain teaching of the word there are added the intrinsic value of these distinctive truths, the importance of the function they discharge in the general system of christian truth, and the important part they played in the history of christianity, the argument for giving them prominence and emphasis in our teaching and preaching is quadrupled and ought to be irresistible.

Later on we hope to say something more in detail as to the nature of these doctrines, and the manner in which they ought to be presented.—Religious Herald.

Not a Fire-Escape.

It is a great mistake to suppose that christianity is merely a fire-escape, of value only to the soul, and that not until after death. Religion is a spiritual illumination, blessing the home and society with a quiet helpfulness in the present life and giving to us a foretaste of heaven. The fact is that heaven begins in this world, and the spiritual atmosphere which we breathe is the same in kind which shall surround us hereafter. There are some professing christians who would be asphyxiated if they should reach heaven.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

People who live in new countries are liable to be prostrated by malarial fevers. Inhabitants of cities, by reason of bad drainage and unwholesome odors, suffer from similar diseases. Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted a specific for all malarial poisons.

Please Keep Before the People.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE OF THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

[Adopted June 22d and 23d, 1892.]

* * * * *

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that the words "Permanent Centennial Fund of $350,000," as used in our last report to the Southern Baptist Convention, were not intended to designate an endowment fund the interest of which only shall be used, but a fund for "Bible translation, chapel building, a church edifice fund, and other permanent work." If, therefore, any donor of a special sum shall see fit to direct that his gift be invested and only the interest be expended, his wishes must be sacredly observed, but without such specific directions these gifts will be turned over to the Board for the benefit of their work, and the Boards will be authorized and expected to expend the said funds, as occasion may require, in work of a permanent character connected with their missionary operations.

* * * * *

Resolved, That this Centennial Committee respectfully recommend to the Boards to use all proper methods, by circulars, by instruction to their agents, and by use of their own publications and the denominational papers generally, to make clear to all our brethren that Centennial contributions may be either for the support and enlargement of the present work of the Boards or for the fund for permanent work at the option of the donors; and that it is understood that only those contributions specifically designated for the latter fund will be put to the credit of that fund.

* * * * *

Resolved, That the representatives of this Committee be hereby instructed, in advocating the interests and claims of the Centennial, to emphasize the idea of enlarged operations as well as the raising a fund for permanent work, and to strive constantly to uplift our people to a higher plane of living for Christ and giving systematically for the promotion of his cause.

* * * * *

Richmond, Va.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING

September

Three Forks—Meat Camp church, six miles east of Boone, Sep 13-15.
Ashe and Alleghany—Bethel church, ten miles south of Jefferson, Sep 15-17.
King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg Oct 4-7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River-Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARATIONS for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL

—AND—

BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 22, 1892. Write for catalogue to

L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

Raleigh Male Academy.

MORSON & DENSON, Principals.
C. L. HAYWOOD, Assistant.

The 14th Annual Session begins Monday, Aug. 29th, 1892. Pupils thoroughly prepared for college or for business life. For particulars, address the Principals for catalogue.

North Carolina Sends Greetings to Georgia.

What one of her Most Prominent Citizens Writes About one of Georgia's Great Remedies.

TO THE PUBLIC:—After several months' use of King's Royal Germetuer, I must pronounce it in many respects the most marvelous medicine I have ever seen or known for the multitude of its remedial virtues.

First, drawing upon experience, I know that it will cure catarrh. I succeeded the Rev. Dr Hawthorne as the pastor of a Baltimore church just twenty-one years ago. Removal to a colder and more changeable climate, with want of care in protecting myself, brought on an attack of catarrh that has continued with me ever since until I commenced taking Royal Germetuer some months ago, from the use of which I am now quite entirely well.

2. It is, as claimed, really a positive cure for stomach troubles, such as indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, etc. This I know from experience.

3. I have never found a better nerve tonic and general invigorator. It gives healthful and refreshing sleep, and as a cure for insomnia ought by all means to take the place of the bromides, chloral and other deleterious if not dangerous drugs. It is a fine tonic for public speakers, taken both before and after speaking, as I know from experience, and no other tonic or stimulant is needed in rallying from the exhaustion of public and especially outdoor speaking. In fine, I used to smile at the enthusiastic testimonials of my personal friends, Rev. Drs. Hawthorne and Henson, concerning Royal Germetuer, but having used a dozen bottles of it, and been made well nigh "every whit whole," I can but adopt the language of the queen of Sheba and say: "The half has never been told." Very respectfully,

G. W. SANDERLIN,
State Auditor North Carolina.

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Trouble, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Eczema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia, and General Debility.

You will find King's Royal Germetuer for sale by all druggists. Price One Dollar per bottle.

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

P-O-K-I-N-E.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.

J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.

Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:

Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,

ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,

F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.

Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:

Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:

Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,

J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept. 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D.,
Chester, Pa.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*8 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m	*7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	5 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	*12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	*8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.30 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leaves Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrives Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect August 10, 1892.

SO. BO'ND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BO'ND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv N & W Jt,	Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar N & W Jt,	Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 22 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 53 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
7 20 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
5 40 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 10 a m
4 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	10 00 a m
4 25 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	10 30 a m
3 10 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	11 55 a m
1 45 p m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	12 45 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Snuffers.

Snuffers and snuff dishes are almost forgotten. Time was when it was thought high art, an operation requiring much dexterity, deftly to take the burnt top of the candle or lamp wick off, without snuffing out the light.

In the old time church, lighted by candles set in hooks, it used to happen that about the middle of the service they would require snuffing. This generally occurred about the middle of the sermon. Then in came the janitor with his short steps, and commenced the performance. The preacher was literally nowhere. No matter what his ability, or the importance of his theme, or the interest of the congregation, all this paled before the snuffing of a few tallow candles. How everybody watched until the last one was snuffed, and if one happened to go out it caused a profound sensation. Going back into Old Testament history we find snuffers mentioned nine times. In the Holy Place of the Tabernacle stood the seven branched golden candlesticks, its only light, and to keep it bright, Moses was commanded to make snuffers; they were to be of pure gold, and made after the pattern shown him in the Mount, whilst it is understood that they were to be used by consecrated priestly hands. That light in its seven-fold form typified the perfect illumination of the Holy Spirit shining in the church.

In the christian, whose body is God's temple, that same spirit dwells in his glorious enlightening influences. That light within is manifest through the character, and in word and action becomes human. But the light is hindered, dimmed by reason of the poor medium through which it shines, so needs the snuffing process. The point is that in the reproving of the erring brother and sister, the snuffers used should be of pure gold, the same material as the candlestick and Mercy Seat and cherubim are made, fashioned after God's pattern, and are used by hands that are holy to him. Let me explain more fully. Each brother and sister has his or her faults. Here, it is a passionate temper, there is stinginess, again indolence, or in another untruthfulness. Even meanness may be found dimming the light of some of God's servants. Now, how are these things to be corrected? We cannot, ought not, to leave them alone; for the prevalence of them hinders the usefulness of the individual and hurts the whole of the church.

We all know how these things have often been met, by a censorious, unchristian spirit, driving the soul far away. When the little lad, who had done wrong, received a passionate whipping at his mother's hands, and was then sent by her upstairs to ask Jesus to take his naughty temper away, got there, he was heard to pray, "Jesus, take away my naughty temper," and then added, "and please take mamma's away too." That was not snuffing the candle with snuffers of pure gold.

Let him who undertakes this work, do it in the spirit represented by that precious metal.

Without the alloy of selfishness, or pride, or temper, or meanness, but in the spirit of him who is "the pattern shown to us on the Mount," and having hands that are clean for God's service.

How did Jesus administer the reproof? See the poor woman taken in adultery, as she is dragged into his presence. The men around her, her accusers, who wanted to snuff her light out, were as bad as she. Jesus heard the accusation with pain. Then, looking the men full in the face, said, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone at her." They slunk out of his presence like whipped curs. Then to the woman, see the pure gold of his snuffer, the sincerity of his spirit, "Doth no man condemn thee, neither do I condemn thee, go and sin no more." Here is another example: "If one be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual (having the pure gold) restore such a one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself lest thou also be tempted."

Sometimes after the candle had been snuffed, a most obnoxious perfume filled the room, and on investigation it was found that the snuffers had been left open. Then the smouldering wick had emitted the smell. Close the snuffers—close the snuffers! Don't go to a brother and sister and then come away, and right under the noses of friends hold what you have snuffed and tell what you have done. How often that fault, which would have been corrected if the spirit of love had reproved it, has had another spirit exhibit it to this and to that one until the whole community has been offended. Oh, if the light be dim, then lovingly, carefully, in the spirit of Christ, with hands given up for God to use, go to that member and seek personally to remove the clogging cause. Don't go to others first, nor yet last, unless you are sure 'twill do good, but directly to the offending one; and having carefully snuffed the wick, don't tell anybody what you have done, but close the snuffers.—Rev. H. W. Childs, in Journal and Messenger.

Weak stomach strengthened by Beecham's pills.

A certain gentleman when offered a package of infidel publications, answered as follows: "If you have anything better than the 'Sermon on the Mount,' the parable of the 'Prodigal Son,' and that of the 'Good Samaritan,' or if you have any better code of morals than the 'Ten Commandments,' or anything more consoling and beautiful than the twenty-third Psalm, or, on the whole, anything that will make this world more bright than the Bible, anything that will throw more light on the future, and reveal to me a Father more merciful and kind than the New Testament, please send it along."

What men want is not talent, it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor.—Bulwer-Lytton.

The richest treasures of earth cannot compare with the delicate, cultivated susceptibility of gathering a rich harvest of thought and feeling out of life and nature. The inner experience is all we have absolutely for our own, all we can count upon as enduring. The power to hear the song of summer, to feel the small thrills and vibrations, is only one of the keys that open all spiritual privilege.—Christian Register.

In the long run, the safest thing is the right thing. And in the long run, the wrong thing is the worst thing.—Wayland Hoyt.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for September:—Africa.

And he (the Ethiopian) said: "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Missionaries, 11; native assistants, 6; stations, 6; churches, 4; membership, 111; baptisms, 31; schools, 3; scholars, 124.

Study Topics.—One nation's share in the rum curse of Africa. Duty of American christians in evangelizing Africa. Obstacles an incentive, not an excuse, for missionary effort. The Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Graves of Congo.

Rev. Herbert Probert tells us in his "Life and Scenes in Congo," that in many parts of Africa the dead are buried beneath the floor of the native hut, but in Congo "they bury their dead on the edge of the forest, beneath the shade of graceful palm-trees, or the overhanging branches of the huge baobab, in a spot whence the evil spirits have been scared by the firing of guns. On the top of the mound they place bottles, jugs, dishes, wash-basins, demijohns, etc. All these are empty, and if the traveler will approach and examine them, he will find that each article has a hole in the bottom. I asked a native who was with me when I visited some graves, 'Why do you break holes in all the things you put on the graves?'

"'Thieves, white man. We break holes, and then no one will steal them.'

"'Don't you think it is very wrong to steal?'

"'It is very wrong if we are caught.'

"'Why do you put all these things on the graves?'

"'Perhaps the spirits of those who are buried here might want them.'

"'Why do you shoot over and around the grave when you bury?'

"'To frighten away the bad spirits.'

"'Do you really think you can frighten them away?'

"'Yes, power is with the Nganga. He can do it.'

"'Why do you think there are evil spirits around the grave?'

"'Sometimes the Nganga can see them.'

"'Why are you so much afraid of evil spirits?'

"'They come and steal our spirits, white man, when we die; they stole the spirits of those whom we buried.'"

Poor superstitious people! All their lifetime in bondage to such fear! Who will go to tell them, as Mr. Probert did, that "only the great God in heaven can help them to live, and make them ready to die?"—The Helping Hand.

The Meeting-House and the Missionary.

Two facts ever confront us in mission work, especially in the New West. The first is that we cannot gain a foot hold in a community, we cannot build up a church, we cannot even rally all the Baptists till we get a house of worship. It is comparatively useless to spend much money on mission fields where we have no meeting houses. There are frequent changes of population—the people "fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away,"—the membership of a church is present to-day and gone to-morrow. But the cases are comparatively rare in which a Baptist church has become totally and permanently extinct that had a meeting-house, while multitudes without houses have died leaving no sign. The identity of church life is established by a local habitation. By means of this the church takes "root downward and bears fruit upward."

The second fact is that the churches in the New West, as a rule, are as unable, unaided, to build meeting-houses as to support pastors. In western towns the religious element is very weak both numerically and financially. I can recall town after town with a population of from one thousand to five thousand in which there are not more than one hundred professed christians all told, and possibly not a dozen of any one denomination. The Baptists are often late to enter the field. They cannot under the specious plea of "Union" Church rally all christians. They often encounter the most bitter prejudices. "Interdenominational fellowship" is a grandly significant phrase. But in the New West the modest Baptists would oftentimes be grateful for simple christian courtesy, till they may show that they are not the Ishmaelites of the ecclesiastical world. We may as well accept the situation—our principles are unpopular till fully understood. It takes time for us to get a foot-hold. Our growth at first is naturally slow. Consequently, the Baptists more than any others need help in the erection of houses of worship.—Home Mission Monthly.

Heathen Giving.

Among the Centenary contributions received by the English Baptist Missionary Society was one from the native Congo church at San Salvador, amounting to £33 14s. 3d. (about $165) forwarded by the deacons of the church, Nlekai and Kivitidi, with a letter thanking the Society for the gospel which has done them so much good, and with the prayer that it may help to send out more missionaries "to those that are in benighted lands like ours." The subscription list is printed in full, and contains the names of forty-five native men and women, whose offerings were all in goods, the largest being "one pig and one piece of cloth." This certainly is a remarkable offering from people just out of heathenism, who, it is said, took up the matter entirely by themselves, and with great self-denial, but with equally great joy, made their large contribution.

Some such giving by our christians in this country would make our Centennial effort a glorious success. Many of our farmers could give a pig or a calf to this cause. Many a christian woman could give the price of the piece of cloth intended for a new dress. Self-sacrifice will accomplish the work.—Foreign Mission Journal.

Two Points of View.

Scarcely one hundred years have elapsed since the organization of the first Protestant Foreign Missionary Society. Now there are over two hundred doing work in different parts of the heathen world, with a force of over 6,000 foreign workers and 30,000 native helpers. Then there was not a Woman's Missionary Society in America. Now there are in Great Britain and America 19,286 auxiliaries and 5,193 bands, with an aggregate income in 1886 of $1,221,649.

Heathen religions are not dead, and by no means idle. The followers of the False Prophet are yearly making thousands of converts. A Mohammedan University at Cairo, Egypt, five hundred years older than Oxford, with a roof supported by 400 pillars, contains 10,000 students; and minor schools with great influence are scattered throughout many parts of Africa.

They have had war in Africa between the Roman Catholics and Protestants. The King of Uganda, a Catholic, collected a large force and undertook to drive the Protestants out of his realm. The result was that the Protestants gave them a genteel thrashing and let him know that they would not give up their religion and preferred not to leave the country either.—Baltimore Baptist.

As long as we refuse warm, loving sympathy with Christ's missionary purpose, and hold aloof from earnest co-operation with him in missionary enterprise, we shall have poor, dwarfed spiritual life, and be faithless to the great work that God has put into human hands.—Rev. Geo. Wilson.

Lost Opportunities.

In every one's life there are certain opportunities, certain chances, which once past, never return. The mistake of a lifetime is easily made. The turning of a corner, the refusal of advice; the neglect of the intimations of God's providence; the disregard of his word; the grieving of his Spirit for a single hour, may shift the course of a life, and turn its brightness and its beauty to sorrow, darkness and distress. How many lives there are which might have been filled with sunshine and gladness, but for some fatal mistake, some sad and ruinous failure, some silly caprice, some hasty word, some foolish error, made in a moment, but never to be repaired. And often these mistakes are made unthinkingly, and unnoticed until it is too late to remedy them. The gate of opportunity may stand open to-day; if we enter, it is well; if we neglect it, we may mourn and lament of folly, but can never correct the error.

The Lord is giving us opportunities from time to time; he is giving us opportunities to-day, they are before us if we will take note of them; if we will heed them, they are for us, if we neglect them, the time may come when we shall mourn their loss; and One who sees things more clearly than we can see them, will say, "Oh, that thou hadst known, even thou in this thy day, the things that belong to thy peace; but now they are hid from thine eyes."

What then shall we do with the opportunity of to-day? It is before us, it is upon us. Are our eyes open to see it; are our hearts open to embrace it; are we ready to heed the voice of God; and listen to the words he speaks? Are we ready to obey the command which he gives us to day, and so be ready for the blessing that to-morrow shall bring? There is no hour when disobedience, or neglect, or carelessness, or sin is safe; there is no moment which is of little importance. "Behold, now is the accepted time. Behold, to day is the day of salvation."—Exchange.

To rise in the morning with a bad taste in the mouth and no appetite, indicates that the stomach needs strengthening. For this purpose, there is nothing better than an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills taken at bed time.

Explorers state that probably one third of the people inhabiting the Congo basin are cannibals.

MANLY PURITY

To cleanse the blood, skin, and scalp of every eruption, impurity, and disease, whether simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or ulcerative, no agency in the world is so speedy, economical, and unfailing as the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier and greatest of humor remedies. In a word, they are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, and may be used in the treatment of every humor and disease, from eczema to scrofula, with the most gratifying and unfailing success. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORP., Boston.
"How to Cure Blood Humors" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough hands and falling hair cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. Price, 30c.

Morning
Noon
Night

Good all the time. It removes the languor of morning, sustains the energies of noon, lulls the weariness of night.

Hires' Root Beer

delicious, sparkling, appetizing.

Don't be deceived if a dealer, for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST
Theological Seminary,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDING CO. (CINCINNATI, OHIO.) SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE. Please mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A. Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

IRON FENCE SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN CATALOGUE FREE J. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 64th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.) Principal.
Please mention this paper.

STOP AT THE
Moseley House,
Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.
50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

Alleghany Institute,
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

The seventh session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, 1892. It is a thorough training school for boys and young men preparing for college or for business. Excellent courses well taught by experienced teachers. The situation is in the suburbs of the city upon a high ridge, commanding a magnificent view. Ample grounds for exercise. Comfortable rooms. Terms moderate. For further information send for catalogue, and address
WILMER O. WHITESCARVER Prin.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

NEW FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL
CARNERED GEMS
—By H. R. PALMER.—
A superb collection of new and standard Sunday School songs and Hymns, representing nearly 200 Hymn Writers and 100 Composers. Contains the celebrated sacred songs that have made Mr. Palmer's name famous wherever the English language is spoken. 192 pages of choice words and music, clearly and legibly printed, and handsomely bound in boards. Price 35 cents postpaid.

LITTLE SACRED SONGS
For LITTLE SINGERS. —By— J. R. Murray.
A new and most appropriate collection of songs for the Primary Department of the Sunday school. New and standard words and music. The Editor has the happy faculty of writing songs that please the children, and shows to the best advantage in this his latest work in that direction. 160 pp. bound in boards. Price 35 cents postpaid.
CHOIR LEADERS: Send 10 cts. for sample of Musical Visitor, containing new anthems and music.
PUBLISHED BY
THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
Sheet & Song Music Co., 19 & 21 Park Row, New York. | The John Church Co., 66 & 68 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Labors of Brother J. J. Pasour.

Dear Recorder:—For the last three months our pastor, Rev. J. F. Morris, has been prostrated by a malignant tumor. During this time his four churches have been acceptably supplied by Bro. J. J. Pasour, a Wake Forest student. He has done excellent work, and we hear nothing but praise of him from all the churches where he held meetings.

At Hickory Grove church, Gaston county, Bro. Pasour held a meeting without any ministerial aid, which resulted in a gracious revival of the church, and ten additions by baptism.

At Bruington, he was assisted by Brother Wyette, a most excellent brother. This was a good meeting, with several conversions and one addition.

At Link's Chapel church, assisted by Bro. Wyette, Bro. Pasour had a gracious meeting. Fifteen were added by baptism, two by letter, and one was restored.

Bro. Pasour is a poor boy, was raised in this community, and is now a beneficiary at Wake Forest. He is a most promising brother, and we earnestly appeal to the people of the South Fork Association to arise in their might and give him liberal aid in his struggle to secure an education.

Bro. Wyette is a good brother and a good preacher. He is much beloved by our people. He came to us from the Methodists, for whom he had preached seventeen years. He is now a whole souled Baptist, but his preaching sometimes betrays the fact that he has been a Methodist: we hope that time will remedy this. J. T. MORRIS.

Stanly's Creek, N. C.

South Fork Baptist Church.

Dear Recorder:—A successful revival meeting was held at South Fork Baptist church during the last week, conducted by Elders E. Blevins, I. W. Landreth and D. Eller.

There was considerable interest manifested, both with the church and the unconverted. A great many penitents presented themselves at the altar for prayer, of whom nine were converted. Among the number converted was one man sixty nine years old, who has joined the church, and says he intends, with God's help, to fight the battle for Christ the remainder of his days.

Brothers and sisters, pray for us, for we are in a hard part of the vineyard.

Yours in Christ, S. A. WADDELL.

Topia, Sept. 5, 1892.

Dedication on Oct. 2, 1892.

Dear Recorder:—The church at Lawrence's X Roads will be dedicated the first Sunday in October. Rev. L. M. Curtis will preach the sermon. There will be all-day services.

S. F. BRISTOW.

Colerain, Sept. 6, 1892.

Baptism and Remission.

Can baptism procure remission of sins? No! Is baptism essential to remission, or to salvation? No! But salvation is essential to baptism; for the saved only can properly be baptized.

It would be quite wrong for us to say that Peter, in Acts 2: 38, intends to have us understand that baptism is means, by which we obtain forgiveness; or that baptism is in order to or necessary for obtaining forgiveness. He means that baptism is a christian duty to be performed and is a figure "figure" or symbol of sins washed away and, consequently, of salvation. (See 1 Peter 3: 21.) So, in Romans 6: 5 Paul calls baptism a "likeness" of Christ's death and resurrection.

Forgiveness and salvation can NEVER, indeed, be obtained by a mere form, rite or ceremony, such as baptism is. It can be obtained through repentance and faith only; and these always go together. All through the Bible, over and over again, it is said that salvation by forgiveness comes to us through or by means of FAITH. "The just shall live by faith." (Gal. 3: 11) "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." (Read Acts 3: 19; 8: 22; 10: 43; 11: 18; Rom. 3: 26.) When Peter was preaching to the household of Cornelius, he said (Acts 10: 43) "To him (Jesus) give all the prophets witness, that through his name (through him,) whosoever believeth on him shall receive remission of sins,"—or forgiveness. (See also Rom. 3: 25) We are never told that baptism can save us: only as a figure or symbol, can it represent sins washed away and salvation. (It was this very thing that Paul contended about at Antioch, so earnestly, Gal. 2: 5,) when some Jews from Jerusalem said to the Gentile converts, "Except ye be circumcised, after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved." He KNEW that salvation is due to no mere rite, such as circumcision or baptism; but to faith, as you can read plainly, in Galatians 2: 16. Baptism or circumcision are works or deeds: and we are not saved by works or deeds, but "by grace, through faith." (Gal. 2: 8, 9; 1 Tim. 2: 9; Titus 3: 5)

Remember, now, that Christ died and made atonement for sin, that God might forgive and save all who repent and believe in Jesus; that is, have faith in him. Because Christ died, God can be just and yet be the justifier of the ungodly (Rom. 3: 26) forgiving, and acquiting them of guilt, because of the imputation of Christ's righteousness to them. (See Rom. 3: 28; 5: 9.) Baptism, to which Christ has commanded all believers to submit, is a public sign or symbol that the person has repented of sins and professes to have faith in Jesus and intends to be his follower, in his life. Baptism is, therefore, merely a sign or symbol, that his soul is regenerated and that his sins are washed away, or forgiven by the Lord.

Baptism cannot possibly regenerate the soul, or procure forgiveness. It is not essential to salvation. Cornelius believed and was regenerated and forgiven, in Cæsarea, before he was baptized. The penitent thief was saved without being baptized, because he had faith in Jesus and begged for mercy and salvation. We have been teaching you these truths for twenty-five or thirty years, as thousands can testify, and we have written this so plainly for you, because a few words appeared in the Advanced Quarterly page eight, which seem to teach that baptism procures forgiveness. And yet in a dozen places in the Advanced Quarterly for 1892, you will find it stated most plainly that salvation and forgiveness always come by faith and never by baptism or any rite or deed whatever. It would be impossible for us knowingly to teach you anything so unscriptural as regeneration by baptism; or that baptism procures, or is in order to, the forgiveness of sin. Any one reading carefully the exposition of Acts 2: 38, in the Advanced Quarterly can see, plainly, that we meant to teach that remission comes through repentance, and that baptism is a sign or token of faith and a public profession of it But, still the expression, "in order that your sins may be forgiven," though used as the means of "unto the remission of sins," and referring to repentance alone, as is plainly shown by the sentence following, was an unfortunate and loose expression. And, as it gives a wrong impression of my meaning, I am sorry I used it. I do not believe the passage contains anything in support of "Campbellism," and I desire to say so in the plainest terms.—S. Boykin, in Kind Words.

Not "In Order That."

In the exposition of the Sunday school lesson in the Advanced Quarterly occur a few words, in connection with Acts 2: 38, which have caused complaint among some of our honored brethren. We are not surprised that complaint has been made. The words were a surprise to us, not having been seen until the whole issue was mailed and in the hand of the schools—beyond our recall. This is our first opportunity for any public mention of the matter. The exposition was prepared by Dr. Samuel Boykin, who is as much surprised and grieved over the matter as we are. We do not sanction, for one moment, any interpretation of that passage which even seems in harmony with the views of Alexander Campbell and his school. In writing his notes, which necessarily are very brief, Dr. Boykin inadvertently used the expression "in order that," but even then he had no allusion to baptism, having previously, a few lines before, said that baptism is "a sign and token." He utterly repudiates the view which makes baptism in any sense a cause or agency in the remission of sins, and so requests us to say this publicly for him. This statement is not necessary for those who know him, and others may accept it in the fullest confidence. We are amenable to our brethren, and cheerfully acknowledge their right to call us to account. And it is quite refreshing to find the doctrinal conscience of our people so sensitive and ready to demand sound doctrine. Sound doctrine—even soundness in speech and expression—is of the utmost importance, lying at the base of all christian life.—The Convention Teacher.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—W M S, Pollocksville, $2.25; Henderson ch, Tar River, 20.60; Warlick's ch, South Fork, 1.00; Brushy Mountain, 6 82; Bethlehem ch, 8.78; Sandy Creek Asso, 3.89; Carey ch, Raleigh, 2.60; Morganton ch, Catawba River, 8.00; Beaver Dam ch, Three Forks, 5.00; Republican ch, 10.00; Bethel ch, Flat River, 13.13; Enon ch, ditto, 12.90; Flat River Union, ditto, 8.23; Fellowship ch, ditto, 6.00; Hester's ch, ditto, 11.28; Mary's Chapel, ditto, 75c; Mt Zion ch, ditto, 23.35; Olive Grove ch, ditto, 75c; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 5.00; Poplar Creek ch, ditto, 14 60; Poplar Creek S S, ditto, 6.29; Y M C E, Henderson, 2.31; Bethany ch, West Chowan, 12.00; Sunbeams, Carey, 1.00; Cashie S S Miss Soc, West Chowan, 3.46; Cashie ch, West Chowan, 4 90; Beaufort ch, (part of pledge), 5.00; Mt Zion ch, 124.55; Roberts' Chapel, W Chowan, 3.84; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 2.00; W M S, Mt Tabor ch, West Chowan, 1 40; Sunbeams, Cedar Rock, 48c; W M S, Mt Tabor ch, West Chowan, 1.40; W M S, Morrisville ch, Raleigh, 2.00. Total, 335.46. Previously reported, 3,729.79. Total this year, 4,065 25.

Foreign Missions—Liberty Asso, $44.71; Ephesus ch, Sandy Creek, 1.52; Warlick's ch, South Fork, 2.00; Penelope ch, ditto, 2.00; W M S, Warren Plains ch, 3.00; W M S, Garner ch, 2.00; Brushy Mountain, 13.81; Corinth ch, 12.77; Antioch ch, Flat River, 4.45; Bethel ch, ditto, 50c; Bethany ch, ditto, 1.55; Enon ch, ditto, 21.09; Enon S S, ditto, 8.61; Florence Avenue ch, ditto, 6.99; Fellowship ch, ditto, 5.50; Grassy Creek ch, ditto, 6.07; Grassy Creek S S, ditto, 3.19; Hester's ch, ditto, 17.85; Hester's S S, ditto, 5.00; Mt Zion ch, ditto, 32.90; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 5.00; Poplar Creek ch, ditto, 13.30; Poplar Creek S S, ditto, 6.28; Tally Ho ch, ditto, 2.20; Y M C E, Henderson, 2.31; Meherrin ch, W Chowan, for T C Britton, 25.00; Mt Zion ch, 124.55; W M S, Red Bud ch, Tar River, 2.00; Cane Creek ch, Mt Zion, 1.30; Mrs M J Blackwood, ditto, 1.00; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 2.00; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 12.15; Reidsville ch, Beulah, 95.76; Sunbeams, Enon ch, Yadkin, 16.00; Sunbeams, Cedar Rock, 50c; W M S, Morrisville, Raleigh, 2.00; Antioch ch, Yadkin, 10.00; W E Stone, Raleigh, 24.00; Greenville ch, Tar River, 8.50; W M S, Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, 11.40; Sunbeams, First ch, Wilmington, 14.00. Total, 579.32. Previously reported, 5,394.66. Total this year, 5,974;18.

Home Missions—Liberty Association, $23.14; Brushy Mountain, 5.62; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 3.60; Bethany ch, Flat River, 1.75; Enon ch, ditto, 14.00; Florence Avenue ch, ditto, 6.99; Fellowship ch, ditto, 5.50; Hester's ch, ditto, 7.87; Mary's Chapel, ditto, 75c; Mt Zion S S, ditto, 34.99; Olive Branch ch, ditto, 11.00; Olive Grove ch, ditto, 50c; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 5.00; Peace Chapel, ditto, 1.00; Poplar Creek ch, ditto, 7.00; Tally Ho ch, 2.25; Sunbeams, Carey ch, 50c; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 2.00; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 3.75; Sunbeams, Cedar Rock ch, 45c; W M S, Morrisville ch, Raleigh, 1.87; Newbern ch, Eastern, 6.75; Sunbeams, First ch, Wilmington, 10.00. Total, 155.78. Previously reported, 2,089.95. Total this year, 2,245.73.

Orphanage—S S, Yeopim, $5.00; S S, First Baptist ch, Raleigh, 15.00; Cape Fear ch, Cedar Creek, 3.03; Republican S S, 2.50; Sunbeams, Carey ch, 1.00; Carthage S S, 3 70; Cane Creek ch, Mt Zion, 35c; Bethel ch, ditto, 1.35; W M S, Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, 20.00, Total, 51.93 Previously reported, 856.67. Total this year, 908.60.

Education—Liberty Asso, $38.33; Brushy Mtn Asso, 4.46; Brushy Mountain ch, 75c; Enon ch, Flat River, 8.00; Hester's ch, ditto, 5.25; Mt Zion ch, ditto, 23.00; Mill Creek ch, ditto, 5.60; Olive Branch ch, ditto, 11.00; Poplar Creek ch, ditto, 6.60; Tally Ho ch, ditto, 2.00; G W R Hendren, 170.00; Amis Chapel ch, Flat River, 3.50; Salisbury ch, (pledge) 10.00; Ramoth Gilead ch, Chowan, 15.00; Roberts' Chapel ch, W Chowan, 5.54; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 1.10. Total, 330.13. Previously reported, 1,522.97. Total this year, 1,853.10.

Colportage—Liberty Asso, $52.00.

Centennial Chapel Fund—W M S, Aulander ch, W Chowan, 20.00; W E Stone, Raleigh, (For. Miss.) 5.00.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Louisburg ch, Tar River, $1.36. Previously reported, 244.31. Total this year, 245.67.

Havana House—Liberty Asso, $1.32. Previously reported, 3,334.88. Total this year, 3,836.20.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Sept. 10, 1892.

P. S.—On account of sickness, I was unable to make a report last week. J. D. B.

That Your Hair
may retain its youthful color,
fullness, and beauty,
dress it daily
with
Ayer's Hair Vigor
It cleanses the scalp, cures humors, and stimulates a new growth
of hair
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.
Lowell, Mass.

Hollins Institute.

The improvements and additions to its accommodations previously announced are now completed at a cost of $30,000, making an aggregate of 180 rooms.

The New Art Building, Dining Room, with culinary attachment Society Halls, Infirmary, Rooms and Parlors are much admired by all visitors. The accommodations are for a full faculty of some 30 persons and 180 boarding pupils. About 40 rooms are used for Music and Art alone. Over 30 pianos (three grand) and other instruments are used. The school affords first-class accommodation for both officers and pupils, and is now prepared to give greater satisfaction, and do better work than ever before in its long history. Young ladies who wish to spend the summer in this climate, preparatory to commencing the next session, will find this a most delightful home, with advantages of superior mineral waters. They and their immediate relatives will be accommodated at regular school rates for board. There are already some of these classes present. The region around is redolent of health and abounds in picturesque mountain scenery. The faculty is composed of ladies and gentlemen of high social position, broad scholarship, and great variety of talent and adaptedness. They devote their whole time to the interest of the school and the advancement of their pupils. The 50th annual session will open Sept. 14th. P. O., Hollins, Va. CHAS L. COCKE, Supt.

CHOWAN
Baptist Female Institute,
MURFREESBORO, N. C.

Parties having young ladies to educate will do well to consider the following facts:—

The Institute offers superior advantages in Literature, Science, Music and Art. Only the best talent is employed to give instruction in the different departments.

The situation is one of remarkable beauty. There are twenty-eight acres of land within the corporation, but so located as to give the school all the privacy of the country, while near enough to the town to secure any advantages it may offer.

The health record is unsurpassed. During the last ten years there have been two cases of pneumonia, one of typhoid fever (brought by the pupil with her) no case of diphtheria, scarlet fever or measles. Chills have been strangers, and bilious fever almost unknown. The average of medical bills since the organization of the school has been about twenty five cents per pupil for the scholastic year. The amount paid for medical bills by the entire boarding patronage the past session was ten dollars.

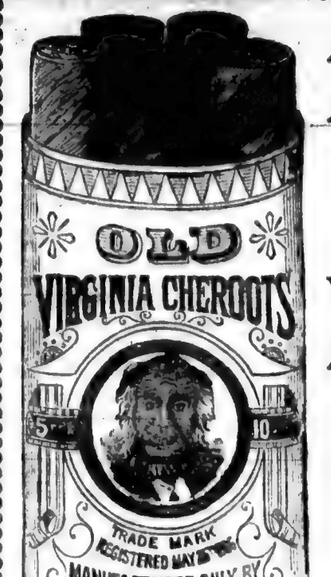
This institution is the unencumbered property of the Baptists, and is the only property owned by them in the State used exclusively for the education of girls.

The dormitories have recently been refurnished, and only two pupils occupy the same room. Parties leaving points east of Charlotte, Danville, Richmond and Washington reach the school the same afternoon via Boykins, Va., and the Murfreesboro railroad. As the property is unencumbered, the charges can be made very moderate. Board, literary and music tuition, if paid in advance, are two hundred dollars for scholastic year. The fall session begins on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. For catalogue or additional information, address

JNO. B. BREWER, President.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 2960, New York City, N. Y.

DOUBLE Breech-Loader $7.50. RIFLES $1.00 WATCHES GUNS BICYCLES $15 Sold elsewhere for $25 and upwards. Before you buy, send stamp for catalogue to THE POWELL & CLEMENT CO. 126 Main St., Cincinnati, O.



A MAN
that never takes advice is almost certain to make a failure.
WE ADVISE
when selecting something to smoke that you buy OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS. You get five rich, sweet and pure smokes for ten cents. Don't pay ten cents for one smoke. 11

Sunday-school Periodicals
For Fourth Quarter.

PERIODICALS AND PRICES.
In clubs for one year each as follows: Convention Teacher, 50c.; Kind Words, Weekly, 50c.; Semi-monthly, 25c.; Monthly, 16c.; Child's Gem, 25c.; Lesson Leaflets, 10c. Per quarter each as follows: Quarterlies, Advanced, 3c; Intermediate, 2½c; Primary, 2½c; Picture Lesson Cards, 4c; Bible Lesson Picture, size 28x18 inches, $1.25.

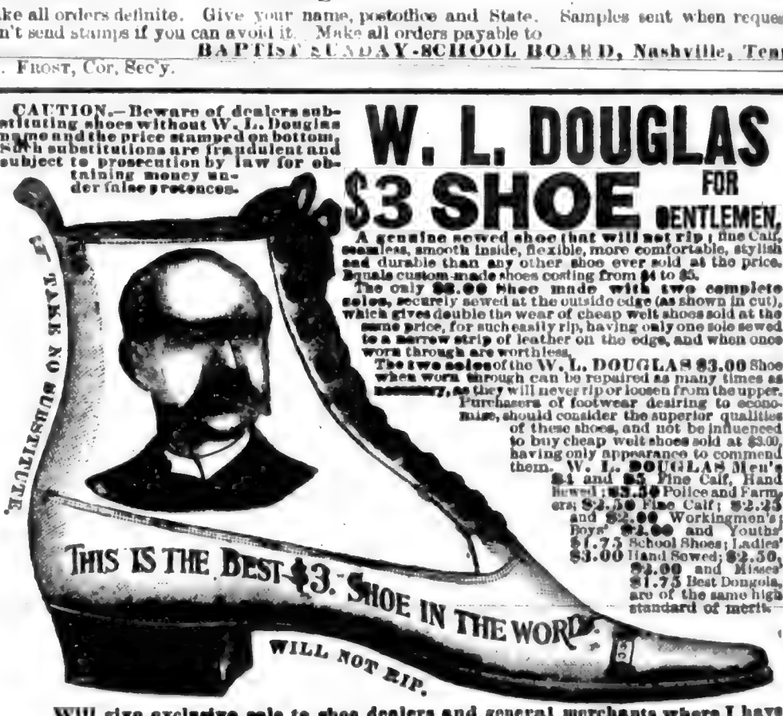
THE BROADUS CATECHISM.
A Catechism of Bible Teaching by Rev. John A. Broadus, D. D., just-published by the Sunday-school Board, under order of the Southern Baptist Convention. Price, 5c. sing'e copy or in quantities. This will be the leading catechism in the Sunday-school and in the home circle.

In Getting Your Sunday-school Supplies
From the Sunday-school Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Nashville, besides making a direct contribution to its treasury, you put your school in touch and co-operation with the Convention, and train the children in all its great missionary enterprises.

Instructions for Ordering.
Make all orders definite. Give your name, postoffice and State. Samples sent when requested. Don't send stamps if you can avoid it. Make all orders payable to
BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOARD, Nashville, Tenn.
J. M. FROST, Cor. Sec'y.

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.



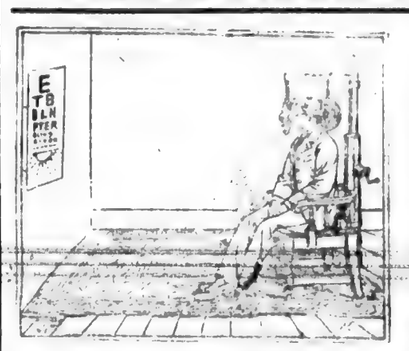
A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; fine Calf, seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom-made shoes costing from $4 to $5.

The only $3.00 Shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.

The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper.

Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold at $3.00, having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS Men's $4 and $5 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $3.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingmen's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola, are of the same high standard of merit.

Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.



OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.

EDWARD FASNACH, JEWELER AND OPTICIAN, RALEIGH, N. C.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, Jewelry, —AND— Sterling Silverware.

Optical Goods.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,
RICHMOND.

The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.

For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.

"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools. 120 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is, write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or

S. D. JONES, Principal.

High Point Female College.

The next Annual Session will begin September 14th, 1892. This institution has a full corps of excellent teachers, representing the best schools, and is

A CHRISTIAN HOME

for all that attend, where they will have advantages for culture equal to the very best, at charges lower than those at most colleges. Write for Kastalian and for catalogue. Address
J. N. STALLINGS, D. D., President, High Point, N. C.

Eastern Association.

Dear Recorder:—I wish to state through your columns that I have been authorized to say that the committee of arrangments will meet the ministers and delegates, who cannot go by private conveyance, that wish to attend the next session of the Eastern Association to be held held with Emma's Chapel at Richland's, Onslow county, Oct. 4—6, 1892, at Jacksonville, the nearest point, which is fifteen miles from the Wilmington, Onslow and East Carolina Railroad. Those wishing to accept this kindness will please notify T. D. Shaw (Richlands), chairman of the committee of arrangements for the church.

I also wish to state that the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad has kindly consented to give reduced rates to Wilmington on that occasion, tickets being good from Oct. 3d to Oct. 8th. I have also written to the Wilmington, Onslow and East Carolina R. R. and the W. & W. R. R., for the same favor, but as yet have not had a definite answer, but will write the RECORDER as soon as I hear from them.

It is earnestly desired that every church in this Association be represented by delegates and letter at this session.

Introductory sermon to be preached by Rev. J. L. Stewart on Tuesday, Oct. 4th, at 11 a. m., and missionary sermon on Wednesday by Rev. R. E. Peele.

OLIVER BLACKBURN,
Clerk of the Eastern Association.
Ingold, Sept. 8, 1892.

The annoyance of breaking lamp-chimneys need not be borne.

Get tough glass chimneys. Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" are tough against heat; they do not break, except from accident.

They are also clear, transparent, not misty or milky; they fit and stand upright; shape and proportions are right to direct the draft upon the flame.

They cost a little more than rough and wrong chimneys of common glass that break continually.

Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Please permit me to say to Bro. A. W. Setzer that when he gets so he can write in the spirit of Christ, I will answer him. Truly,

M. P. MATHENEY.
Lincolnton, Sept. 9, 1892.

SUMTER, S. C.

For two years past Mrs. E. has suffered with what was regarded as malarial attacks, which began about May and continued through the summer and fall. Her sickness last summer was more severe and more protracted than that of the year before, and we, therefore, looked forward with apprehension to its return the present season. Early in the year she began the use of the Electropoise, and has continued to use it ever since without the use of other remedies. At present her health is excellent, and there are no indications of the return of her malady.
REV. N. W. EDMONDS.

AIKEN, S. C.

The Electropoise has worked wonders in my household. I introduced it to Mrs. Cuthbert last March as a remedy for rheumatism, and since then she has laid aside stick and crutches and is able to attend to all of her household duties. Another member of my family by using it is better than she has ever been, and I myself find it an admirable tonic when tired out after three services on the Sabbath. Several parties have invested in this instrument because of our experience and expression of opinion.
Very gratefully,
REV. LUCIUS CUTHBERT.

A fifty-page book containing information and testimonials, free, on application.
ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO.,
1405 New York Avenue,
Washington, D. C.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The Democratic State Executive Committee met here Tuesday, 6th inst. The object of the meeting was to decide whether the committee should nominate a candidate for Associate Justice or call a convention to make the nomination. It was decided by a unanimous vote that the committee should nominate. Judge James C. McRae, who was a short time ago appointed by Gov. Holt to fill the vacancy, was then nominated by acclamation. Resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Associate Justice, Joseph J. Davis, were adopted.

The Republican State Convention was held here last Wednesday. J. V. Walser of Davidson was made permanent chairman, and W. D. Baker, colored, secretary. The following State ticket was nominated: For Governor—David M. Furches of Iredell; Lieutenant Governor—James M. Moody of Haywood; Secretary of State—Rufus Amis of Granville; Treasurer—H. C. Dockery of Richmond; State Superintendent of Public Instruction—E. C. Parrish of Guilford; Auditor—Hiram D. Grant of Wayne; Attorney General—Thos. L. Purnell of Wake; Associate Justice—William S. Ball of Guilford; Judge Superior Court, Twelfth District—W. L. Norwood of Haywood.

Prof. J. H. Kinealy, Professor of Mechanics and Mathematics in A. & M. College, has resigned to accept a similar position in Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

The State Board of Education met here Tuesday of last week, and ordered General Lewis, its engineer, to survey at once thirty thousand acres of State swamp lands in Craven county, which will be sold.

Thos. P. Devereux received the nomination for elector, and John Sanders for Congress, at the hands of the Republican Congressional Convention for the Fourth District, which met in this city last Thursday.

State News.

The sorghum crop in this State is a very large one this year, exceeding last year's crop.

It is stated that in the near future a handsome school building will be erected at Elkin.

The Ocean View Hotel Company proposes to build a $150,000 hotel on the banks near Morehead City.

A Lenoir merchant is filling an order for $20,000 worth of poplar and other timbers for a New York firm.

A Miss Eddens of Onslow county, aged forty years, committed suicide recently by swallowing "Rough on Rats."

A boiler explosion at a saw-mill near Aberdeen recently, killed Robert Adams, and seriously scalded another man.

The Concord fair was held last week. The exhibit was stated to have been ordinary. Financially, the fair was a success.

The office of superintendent of the Western North Carolina railroad has been abolished, and the management falls into the hands of Capt. V. E. McBee.

Ethel, the three year old daughter of Herman Jones of Gray's Creek township, Cumberland county, was killed by lightning recently. Also, another child was stunned.

Lester Chambers, colored, left her three-year old baby girl in her home two miles from Salisbury and went to town. On her return she found the child burned to death, leaning against the bed, and the bed on fire.

Misses Ona Patterson and Ella Houston, members of Hopewell Presbyterian church, Mecklenburg county, are on their way to San Francisco, where they will sail as missionaries to San Francisco.

Branning's mills at Edenton were destroyed by fire on Saturday, the 3d inst. The large mill, dry kiln, and between three and four thousand feet of lumber was consumed. Loss about $200,000; insurance small.

Edward Brown and John Noell got into a quarrel near Asheville last Wednesday night, over a woman to whom both had paid undue attention. Noell knocked Brown down with a stone and left him. Brown died from the effects of the blow Thursday night.

Last Saturday, during a circus parade in Winston, Minnie Merrick, a circus girl, while riding in the lion cage, was attacked and painfully injured by a lioness. The enraged brute gashed the girl's head in two places and also bit her in the face.

The Board of Directors of the North Carolina Railroad, in special session at Goldsboro last Wednesday, declared a two per cent. dividend on the capital stock of the road to be paid Oct. 1st. This is the first dividend that the road has been able to pay, and it carried $24,000 into the State Treasury. W. S. Chadwick is president of the road.

The Lenoir Topic of the 7th contains the following strange statement: "It may be remembered that, several months since, The Topic published an eloquent and touching funeral oration, delivered at the grave of his wife near Banner Elk, Watauga county, by Mr. S. M. Dugger, the author of the popular and attractive book, the 'Balsam Groves of the Grandfather.' Several weeks ago Mr. Dugger's infant child died, and, instead of burying the body in a grave by itself, he opened the grave of his dead wife, removed the top of the coffin, and laid the little child gently to rest in the arms of its sleeping mother."

General News.

Cholera is on the decrease in Russia, Persia and Hamburg, Germany.

John G. Whittier, the poet, died at Hampton Falls, N. H., on the 7th inst., aged eighty-two years.

Mrs. John A. Logan has undertaken the task of raising $1,000,000 from the women of this country for the American University at Washington City. This is a national institution founded by the Methodists, and $10,000,000 is expected to be secured for buildings and endowments.

The Scandia, another vessel from Europe, reached New York harbor several days ago, with thirteen cholera patients on board. Thirty-two deaths from the disease occured on the voyage, and two more died after reaching the harbor. Gov. Flower and Dr. Jenkins, health officer, have purchased Fire Island for the State, to be used as an asylum for cabin passengers from cholera-infected ships.

The daily secular press of the country has devoted large space in giving details of a prize fight between the pugilists Sullivan and Corbett at New Orleans recently. The championship of the world was wrested from Sullivan by Corbett, besides a purse of $35,000. These two men pummeled each other for more than an hour, and the contest was witnessed by thousands of spectators. Some rejoiced and some wept over this first defeat of Sullivan, and one poor man is reported to have committed suicide because he lost all his money and property on the issue.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

MARRIED.

PETREE—CREWS—On Sept. 6th, 1892, at Germanton, N. C., by Rev. R. W. Crews, father of the bride, Rev. D. H. Petree and Miss Roberta Crews.

GARRISON—DAVIS—At the residence of Mr. Wm. F. Davis, in Caswell county, N C., by Rev. T. W. Strowd, Mr. Thos. G. Garrison and Miss Fannie B. Davis.

PETTY—BOOKER—On Sept. 1st, 1892, at the residence of Mrs. Ann Booker, near Chapel Hill, in Orange county, N. C., by Rev. T. W. Strowd, Mr. R. S. Petty and Miss Nannie L. Booker.

DIED.

LEIGH—Little Marion, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Leigh, was born August 15th, 1891, and died August 22d, 1892, aged one year and seven days. Little Marion heard the voice of Jesus saying, "Suffer little children to come unto me," and she has gone home to God. God lent this little one to her parents for a short while, then called her to live with him forever in that home where sorrow never comes. EVA GREEN.
Thomasville, N. C.

SHAW—Norman Leslie Shaw, Jr., only son of Capt. N. L. Shaw of Warrenton, N. C., died at Drurysville, Va, on August 11th, after a brief but violent attack of typho-malarial fever.

Norman was in the sixteenth year of his age. About eighteen months ago he professed faith in Christ and united with the Warrenton Baptist church. He had been a faithful Sunday-school scholar nearly all his life, and was an active member of the Young People's Missionary Society. He attended Prof. Bagley's school in Littleton during the last session preparing himself for a business career. Soon after leaving school he secured a position at Drurysville and went there to live. Just before he passed away he was asked if he was afraid to die. He answered, "I am not afraid; I am ready to die, but I wish I could see papa once more." These were his last words. We believe that he has gone to be with God.

His remains were brought to Warrenton for burial. A large number of sympathizing friends followed him to his last resting place. May our Father comfort the bereaved family.
T. J. TAYLOR.

GOMAR—On August 30th, 1892, sister Lydia A. Gomar, wife of Bro. Dempsey Gomar, died after a long and tiresome illness, being about thirty-six years of age. Sister Gomar was taken with dropsy last January. Much was done for her relief, but she continued to get worse. Two or three months ago, having secured the services of a distinguished dropsy physician, she soon began to get better, and would probably have entirely recovered had not the doctor himself been taken very sick and was thereby prevented from attending her for some time. A few weeks ago she began to grow worse, and suffered much till death came to her relief.

About ten years ago she professed faith in Christ and united with Eureka Baptist church, Gates county, N. C., and through the remainder of life was an earnest, active christian, ever ready to help on the work of the Master. Some days before her death, thinking the end was near, she called her loved ones around her and bade them good-by, earnestly urging one of her brothers, who was not a christian, to get ready to meet her in heaven.

She leaves a husband and three children, an aged father and mother, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

"Dear as thou wert, and justly dear,
We would not weep for thee;
One thought shall check the starting tear,
It is, that thou art free.

Triumphant in thy closing eye
The hope of glory shone;
Joy breathed in thy expiring sigh,
To think the race was run.

Gently the passing spirit fled,
Sustained by grace divine;
Oh, may such grace on us be shed,
And make our end like thine."
W. B. WAFF.

Tribute of Respect.

Died, near Mapleton, on April 12th, in the sixtieth year of her age, sister Martha L. Cross. She joined the Baptist church in early life, and was a consistent member until her death. Since the organization of our W. M. Society she has been an esteemed and faithful member of it; therefore, be it Resolved 1. That in the death of our sister this society and church have lost a loyal member, the pastor a true friend, and the people, both white and colored, a kind neighbor.

2. That we humbly submit to this dispensation of an unerring Providence, believing that our loss is her gain, as we feel sure she is now with those she loved best.

3. That these resolutions be recorded on our minutes, and that a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

MRS. W. N. WIGGINS,
MRS. J. E. JONES,
Committee.

In behalf of W. M. Society of Mt. Tabor church, West Chowan Association.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst on July 29th, sister Mary Eliza Fairless, one of our purest and most beloved sisters; therefore be it

Resolved 1. That we, the Ladies' Aid Society of Christian Harbor church, mourn the loss of our dear sister in the church, Sunday-school and Society, also the example of purity and candor which she exhibited in church work. She was confined to her bed five months, yet there was not a meeting past that she did not send her contribution. We bow in submission to the will of him who doeth all things well, for we have the sweet assurance that all is well with her.

Resolved 2. That we mingle our tears with the heart-broken husband and children, and commit them to the tender love and mercy of our Heavenly Father. We earnestly pray that they may imitate the example of her whose life was full of love and sunshine, and whose sun sank to rest in a cloudless sky.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions be tendered to the bereaved husband, and also sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

Done by order of L. A. Society.
MRS. J. R. WHITE, Com.

WHEREAS, The Supreme Ruler of the universe in his mysterious providence has seen fit in his wisdom to remove from us on June 24th, 1892, our beloved brother and deacon, S. E Cole; therefore we, the members of Lystra Baptist church,

Resolved 1, That we bow in humble submission to the will of him who "doeth all things well," and that in his death we lose a deacon in whose daily life was exhibited the true principles of the religion he so loved and practiced; and that we hold in loving remembrance his wise counsel, his unwavering devotion to the church to which he belonged and to the Baptist cause; that we will strive to emulate the example of humility, candor, purity, and holiness, which it was ever his desire to instill into the hearts and lives of those with whom he came in contact.

2. That while holding and filling the office of deacon he was plain, honest, practical and intensely earnest in dealing with the souls of men; that we feel keenly our bereavement from the fact that we have lost such a good man, and that he had been with us so long to guide, counsel and encourage us in every good work for the Master's kingdom.

3. That we deplore his loss to the church and the community in which he lived, and to the Baptist denomination as one who ever stood firm and true to the faith once delivered to the saints, yet charitable and inoffensive to those who saw fit to differ with him.

4. That as a model christian his influence upon the young people of this community will be felt for years to come, and that the good influence of such a man and such a life can only be rebuilded fully in eternity.

5. That the church tender its sympathy to the bereaved family in this their sad bereavement, and commend them to the Heavenly Father who will keep them 'til they meet him on the other shore where parting is no more.

6. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our church, and a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER with request to publish.

Done in conference July 20th, 1892.
J. J. JENKINS,
P. M. PEARSON,
J. W. WATSON,
Committee

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion & Debility.

Asthma The African Kola Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, is Nature's sure Cure for Asthma. Cure Guaranteed or No Pay. Export Office, 1164 Broadway, New York. For Large Trial Case, FREE by Mail, address KOLA IMPORTING CO., 112 Vine St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

BAILEY'S
For Electric Light or Gas
Improved Light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass
REFLECTORS
A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.
Handsome designs.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.
No. 709 Penn Ave. Pittsburgh, Pa.
For Coal Oil

STUDY LAW AT HOME.
TAKE A COURSE IN THE SPRAGUE CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF LAW. (Incorporated.)
Send ten cents (stamps) for particulars to
J. COTNER, JR., SEC'Y.
DETROIT, MICH.
509 WHITNEY BLOCK.

WANTED.

As a partner in a good and well-established newspaper and job office, a good printer who is a member of the Baptist church. A fine opportunity. No capital required. Address, at once,
PIEDMONT HERALD,
Leaksville, N. C.

Bethel Hill Institute,
MALE AND FEMALE.

About five miles from the junction of the Atlantic & Danville and Lynchburg and Durham railroads at Denniston, Virginia; healthful location; expenses minimum; surroundings, pleasant and elevating; spiritual and moral training excellent.

TERMS:

Board, furnished room and lights, per month,	$6.75
Fuel	.70
Washing	.70
Tuition	$1.50 to 2.75
Instrumental music (vocal free)	5.00
Free tuition to young ministers.

Next session opens Tuesday, Septen ber 27th, 1892. For further information apply to the principal,
REV. J. A. BEAM,
Bethel Hill, N. C.

Graded Series OF SUNDAY SCHOOL PERIODICALS.
Compare these Prices with those of Similar Publications.

Primary Grade.
Picture Lessons. 3 cts. per quarter, 12 cts. per year.
Primary Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
Our Little Ones. In clubs of five, 25 cts. per year.

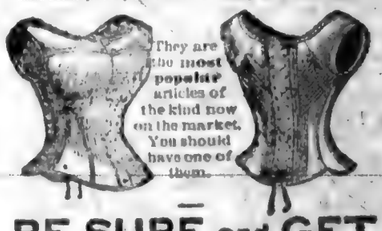
Intermediate Grade.
Intermediate Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter. 9 cts. per year.
The Sunlight. 8 cts. and 16 cts. per year.

Advanced Grade.
Advanced Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 10 cts. per year.
Bible Lessons. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.
Young Reaper. 10 cts. and 20 cts. per year.

Senior or Adult Grade.
Senior Quarterly. 6 cts. per quarter, 24 cts. per year.
Our Young People. In clubs of five, 40 cts. per year.
The Worker. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.

Teachers, Superintendents.
Baptist Teacher. In clubs of five, 50 cts. per year.
Baptist Superintendent. 25 cts. per year.

Am. Baptist Publication Society.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut St.;
BOSTON: 256 Washington St.;
NEW YORK: Times Building;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Ave.;
ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive St.;
ATLANTA: 66½ Whitehall St.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON
CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.


They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.
BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

A Choice Gift
A Grand Family Educator
A Library in Itself
The Standard Authority
WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY
NEW FROM COVER TO COVER.
Fully Abreast of the Times.
Successor of the authentic "Unabridged." Ten years spent in revising; 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.
SOLD BY ALL BOOKSELLERS.
GET THE BEST.
Do not buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages and FULL PARTICULARS.
G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

TOBACCO HABIT
For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free by mail. Address THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.
HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days.
EASILY CURED

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

The Home Circle.

Rest.

When the long night of weariness and pain
Is full of bitter thoughts, and doubts that sting,
Do we not long to hear some holy strain
That far-off angels sing?

When every golden deed the heart hath planned
Is darkened by the fears of failing powers,
And all our life seems like a barren land,
Unblessed by sun and showers;

When every word that loving lips have said
Sounds to the morbid fancy, falsely sweet;
And every truth that we have heard or read
Seems poor and incomplete;

When the one thing whereon our hopes are set
Is still withheld, although we pray and weep,
Until we murmur "Can the Lord forget
Or doth the Master sleep?"

When the old sin that we have nearly crushed,
Arrayed in all its fearful might appears,
And yearning voices that we thought were hushed,
Call from departed years;

Then, like an evening wind the unperceived
Beareth an odor from the rose's breast,
Comes the remembrance: "We which have believed
Do enter into rest."

And our eyes close, and all the phantom throng
Of doubts and troubles vanish into air;
And the one face that we have loved so long,
Smiles on us calm and fair.

The face that in our darkest hour is bright,
The tranquil brow that never wears a frown,
The steadfast eyes that never lose their light
Beneath the thorny crown.

So at his word the clouds are all withdrawn,
The small, sharp pains of life are smoothed away;
After the night of weeping comes the dawn,
And then, his perfect day.

—Sunday Magazine.

"Business is Business."

There is a man who lives in the city of New York who has accumulated quite a fortune by simply advising people what to do. There always will be a large number of persons who are unable to rely on their own judgment. Others come to a conclusion with ease and certainty.

A young man had accumulated $1,000, and was debating whether he should buy a small candy store with it or whether he should lend it on a mortgage. The latter he knew was a secure way. The other promised great profits. In this perplexity he saw an advertisement: "Advice given to those going into business."

After stating his case, the counselor said: "My fee will be five dollars in advance."

When this was paid, he asked:—

"Do you understand the candy business?"

"No; I did not think it was necessary. I expect to supervise it merely."

"Then you will lose all your money in three months."

"You think I had better lend the money on the mortgage?"

"I do not say that. What is your business? that is, what do you perfectly understand?"

"I know the pickle business through and through. I can make pickles of all kinds, but I do not like it."

"Never mind what you like. Go and get a small place and make pickles. Go from hotel to hotel, restaurant to restaurant, and sell them. In ten years come back and see me. You will have ten thousand dollars at least."

"Here is a card. I want you to put it where you can see it a hundred times a day." These were the words on the card: "Business is business. Men don't do what they like; they do what they can."

The card had a strange fascination for him. He read it with care as he walked along the street. As he studied it new light seemed to enter his mind.

He found a dingy basement, and began to arrange for his operations. Of course, vinegar must be got, several barrels of it. Some was offered him at ten cents a gallon, some more was shown at five cents. "Which shall I take?" He thought of the words on his card. He seemed to see people testing his pickles, and, not liking them, depart without buying. "They will know good vinegar," thought he; and so he bought the honest stuff.

In a few days several tubs of materials were ready; and he knew he must market them. Now he greatly dreaded to face strange people and push his goods upon their notice. He never had courage when a boy, and now as a young man he felt more timid, it seemed. But he thought of the words of the card and entered a restaurant. The evident manager was a blooming young woman; and the pickle dealer was more afraid of women than men. But "business is business" repeated itself over and over and over in his mind.

The answer to his statement was that his pickles would be tried, and, if found all right, would be purchased.

"Glad I got that good vinegar," thought the young man; and he began to feel there was a certain power in the maxim his adviser had given. He began to feel a courage he had never expected in meeting people and trying to sell his goods to them.

Calling at a store to get, if possible, an order for pickles in bottles, he was quickly and rudely met with: "Don't want to see any such stuff." Noticing the utter dismay on the young man's face, the merchant said, short and sharp: "Don't you know enough of business to put up your goods attractively?"

As he retreated, ruffled and disheartened, the maxim repeated itself over and over, with this additional sentence: "It is business to put up goods attractively." He sought out a lithographer, and had some handsomely colored labels printed.

"They will buy the bottles," said a friend, "just for the picture you have on them."

When he had gained sufficient courage, he sought out again the merchant who had rebuffed him. "I have come to make you a present of a box of fine pickles."

"Why do you make me a present of them?"

"Because you gave me advice that is worth a great deal."

The morning of one Fourth of July came, and he pondered whether to go to his store or not. All at once he thought: "People going on picnics will want pickles." It was the magic words on the little card that ran through his mind. He found as he had thought, a large number of buyers waiting for him.

The little card was consulted in all sorts of weather. If a man made a proposition to him of any kind and he was in doubt, he would go and look at the words, though he knew them by heart already. One day a cheese merchant came to persuade him to buy his stock.

"People," said he, "who buy pickles always buy cheese. You will do a big trade."

It was a temptation. He went and looked at the words, and studied them intently, trying to think out their application to the case in hand. "Men do what they can," he reflected. "I would like to sell cheese; but I know I can sell pickles." Then he returned. Now he was resolute and firm, although by nature easily bent and swayed by the words of others.

"Business is business," he said. "I am in the pickle business. If I cannot make money in this I shall quit and go into something else; but I will not have two kinds on my hands."

It was a turning point. After this he could refuse all influence to go into something that seemed at the time more lucrative. He was not only industrious; it is plain he had a fixed principle of action. Of course he was successful. All men who put industry and mind to their work are bound to be successful. When the ten years were up, of course he had the ten thousand dollars, and more too.—Treasure Trove.

A Life Wasted.

About thirty years ago a gentleman from New York, who was traveling in the South, met a young girl of great beauty and wealth and married her. They returned to New York, and plunged into a mad whirl of gayety. The young wife had been a gentle, thoughtful girl, anxious to help all suffering and want, and to serve her God faithfully; but, as Mrs. L——, she had troops of flatterers. Her beauty and dress were described in the society journals; her bon mots flew from mouth to mouth; her equipage was one of the most attractive in the park. In a few months she was intoxicated with admiration. She and her husband flitted from New York to Newport, from London to Paris, with no object but enjoyment. There were other men and women of their class who had some other worthier pursuit—literature, or art, or the elevation of the poor classes—but L——and his wife lived solely for amusements. They dressed, danced, flirted, hurried from ball to reception and from opera to dinner. Young girls looked at Mrs. L——with fervent admiration, perhaps with envy, as the foremost leader of society. About ten years ago she was returning alone from California, when an accident occurred on the railroad train in which she was a passenger, and she received a fatal internal injury. She was carried into a wayside station, and there, attended only by a physician from a neighboring village, she died.

Dr. Blank has said it was one of the most painful experiences of his life.

"I had to tell her that she had but an hour to live. She was not suffering any pain; her only consciousness of hurt was that she was unable to move, so that it was no wonder she could not believe me.

"'I must go home,' she said imperatively, 'to New York.'

"'Madame, it is impossible. If you are moved it will shorten the time you have to live.'

"She was lying on the floor. The brakemen had rolled their coats to make her a pillow. She looked about her at the little dingy station with the stove, stained with tobacco, in the midst.

"'I have but an hour, you tell me?'

"'Not more.'

"'And this is all that is left me of the world? It is not much, doctor,' with a half smile.

"The men left the room, and I locked the door that she might not be disturbed. She threw her arms over her face and lay quiet a long time; then she turned on me in a frenzy:—

"'To think all that I might have done with my money and my time! God wanted me to help the poor and the sick; it's too late, now. I've only an hour!' She struggled up wildly. 'Why, doctor, I did nothing—nothing but lead the fashion! Great God! The fashion! Now, I've only an hour! An hour!'

"But she had not even that, for the exertion had proved fatal, and in a moment she lay dead at my feet.

"No sermon that I ever heard was like that woman's despairing cry, 'It's too late!" —Selected.

A Stranger in a Strange Land.

A. Black, Jr., writes from Andalusia, Alabama, that he was taken with dysentery of the bloodiest type. Doctors were called in to no effect. A stranger suggested Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial, and to its use he owes his life.

Marriage.

We deplore the fact that because of the fearful extravagance of modern society many of the best people conclude that they cannot possibly afford to marry. We are getting a fearful crop of old bachelors. They swarm around us. They go through life lop sided. Half-dressed, they sit around cold mornings, all a-shivering, sewing on buttons and darning socks, and then go down to a long boarding house table, which is bounded on the north and south and east and west by the Great Sahara desert. We do not pity them at all. May all their buttons be off to-morrow morning! Why do they not set up a plain house of their own and come into the ark two and two? The supporting of a wife is looked upon as a great horror. Why dear friends, with right and healthy notions of time and eternity it is very easy to support a wife if she be of the kind worth supporting. If she be educated into false notions of refinement and have "young ladies' institutes" piled on her head till she be imbecile, you will never be able to support her. Everything depends on whether you take for your wife a woman or a doll-baby. Our opinion is that three-fourths of the successful men of the day owe much of their prosperity to their wife's help. The load of life is so heavy it takes a team of two to draw it.—Exchange.

Japanese Hair Pins.

The chief distinction between the appearance of the male and female Japanese lies in the hair, writes W. P. Pond in the July Ladies' Home Journal. The men shave nearly the whole of the head, while the women allow it to grow, and even add to it by art when required. It is then twisted and coiled into elaborate and fantastic patterns which few eastern hairdressers could imitate or equal. The hairpins used are not so much for confining the locks in their places as for actual adornment, and are very fashionable. They are of enormous size, seven or eight inches in length, and half an inch wide, and are made of various substances, tortoise shell, carved wood and ivory, many of them being composed of carved figures adroitly pivoted so as to appear to dance at every breath drawn by the wearer. Others are made of glass, and are hollow, and nearly filled with some brightly colored liquid, so that at every movement of the head an air bubble runs from one end of the pin to the other, producing a most curious effect in a strong light. Sometimes an extra fashionable woman will wear a dozen or more of these pins in her hair, so that at a little distance her head looks as if a bundle of firewood had been loosely stuck into it. The higher in rank the Japanese woman the more elaborate her coiffure is likely to be.

Give the Boys a Trade.

Go where you will and you will find youths entering manhood without any equipment for the struggle before them. Tens of thousands of them hope to become merchants when they have no aptitude whatever for commercial affairs, and are doomed to lives of bitter toil and grinding poverty. This ought not to be. Everybody in America is justly entitled to a trade, and he ought to have the chance to master one. Many sons of poor parents and many orphan boys are compelled to forego the inestimable benefits of apprenticeship, and these ought to be assisted by wise philanthrophy, but very many more fail to improve the great opportunity of becoming a skilled worker, and so drift into the laboring army to become helpless victims of poverty all their lives. Boys in town and country, learn a trade. It will be your surest and best friend through life. Parents, in whatever else you come short, don't fail to see to this matter. You will be insuring the happiness and comfort of your sons, the welfare of those who come after them, and discharging a solemn duty you owe to society and the country.—Ex.

How to Fatten Poultry.

Prof. Corbett says that although the manner of fattening poultry may seem plain, yet there is, nevertheless, a right and a wrong way, a long and a short mode of accomplishing the object desired.

Never let poultry forage or shift for themselves for at least ten days before killing, for they are apt to range in the barn-yards and pick up filthy food, which permeates all through the bird, its flesh frequently becoming so tainted that it is unfit to be eaten.

The best method for steady and regular profit, or for domestic use, is to keep them constantly in high feed from the beginning with plenty of clean, cool water; then they are always ready for the table, with but very little extra attention, their flesh will be juicier and richer in flavor than those fattened from a low and emaciated state, always commanding quick sale, at the highest prices in the market, a healthful, flourishing and restorative food.—Ex.

Let us pray for those who never pray for themselves. God's power can do for them weat is far beyond our power.—Spurgeon.

VERTIGO.

Persons apparently in good health are often troubled with "swimming in the head;" nausea and vomiting often follow. It results from a deranged state of the digestive organs and constipation. This unpleasant and often dangerous affliction will be cured by which relieves the engorged liver and removes the cause through the bowels. 25c. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

TUTT'S Tiny Liver Pills

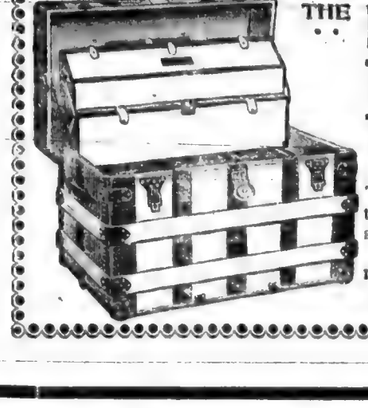
University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address Hon. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.



THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK

THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.

The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.

Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.

If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers,

H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
School Books and Stationery
— BY —
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.

OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.

All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.

Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch—Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL.
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.

RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.

Julius Lewis & Co.,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Guns and PISTOLS

"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1892. Number 13.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

The Baptists and the Bible.

The following address was delivered by Dr. A. E. Dickinson of Richmond, Va., at the Centennial meeting of the Goshen Baptist Association, recently held at County Line Baptist church, Caroline county, Va.:

Baptists have always and everywhere been the champions of an open Bible. Others have maintained the supreme authority of the Bible, but Baptists have always and everywhere stood for something more than that. They are satisfied with nothing short of the sole authority of the sacred Scriptures. Our beliefs concerning God and duty must come from the Bible since there is nothing else to give us any light worth having on these great themes. And right here lies the fundamental principle upon which are based the doctrines that separate us from all other Christian communities. We put the Bible before everything else because it is what it claims to be, a full and sure revelation from God. Whatever may be one's theory of inspiration, if he believes that holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, he will wish to hear and heed what the Holy Ghost says. Right here is the starting point for every true Baptist. He has no pet ideas of his own about church organization. The ordinances of the gospel are nothing to him, except as they constitute a part of the only revelation God has given to man. It is because it is the Lord's baptism and the Lord's supper that we let them stand just as the Lord gave them in his own revealed word. We love our own children and all the dear little ones around us and seek for them the largest possible good. It is from no lack of prayerful interest in them that we withhold church membership from them until they give evidence of a new heart. The revealed word makes faith and repentance and a new heart prerequisites to baptism, and we dare not teach otherwise. We have no right to do it. And, besides the inspired volume closes with denunciations upon all who add to or take from its teachings. "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book, and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city and from the things which are written in this book." Thus speaks God to us in the last chapter of the last volume of the books which go to make up our Holy Bible.

THE APPARENT INCONVENIENCE OF THE BAPTIST IDEA.

In many particulars, the Baptist idea of church polity seems to fall short of what is most needed, when we come to the actual test with the material God has given us to work upon. From a human standpoint the most convenient arrangement for governing our churches would seem to be that used with such marvellous results by the Roman Catholics—just as from a human standpoint the most effective form of civil government would be a despotism. Instead of all the trials and tribulations we now have in nominating and electing the man we would have to serve us, how much easier to let some one man and his children after him rule over us. That would save us from manifold inconveniences, especially about election times. And so, too, in administering the affairs of the churches of Jesus Christ. Instead of putting the care and responsibility of the government of the churches upon superior officers as they are called—Presiding Elders, Bishops, and the like, and leaving them to direct and control, Baptists leave every local church to control its own affairs, because, when we turn to the New Testament, we see nothing more plainly taught there than that such ought to be the case. Whatever may be the real or apparent evils of our Baptist church polity, the churches founded by the inspired apostles seem to have been of the same kind. Then the power to govern was lodged in each little local church. You will search the Divine record in vain for great officials and privileged classes with special rights for interpreting the word of God and for ruling over God's elect. The great ecclesiastics who rule and reign in splendor and power, hold a high place in their respective sects and denominations, but they have no place in the New Testament church polity after which our Baptist way of doing things is modelled.

BY THEIR FRUITS YE SHALL KNOW THEM.

If the tree is to be judged by its fruit, we are not afraid of that test as to our church polity and that of others. Without any such human appliances as they have for unifying and directing their forces, the Baptists hold together very closely, and they are growing every day into more loving accord, as they work together for common interests affecting the glory of their great King.

To many this is a great mystery. They do not see how it is possible for a denomination numbering millions to be so solid and compact, without any authoritative standards or any ecclesiastical powers. Instead of falling to pieces like a rope of sand, these thousands of little republics, each separate and distinct and independent of every other, are as wide awake and effective in diffusing the gospel at home and abroad as are any of the great Pedobaptist denominations, with their strong Episcopal or Presbyterial governments. How is this? Why is this? The secret of it all is to be found in the theme now under consideration.

THE BAPTISTS AND THE BIBLE.

If others have a book, so have we, and it is our confession of faith, our discipline, our creed, our standard—and that book is the Bible. That book holds us together and makes us one people, one in faith and one in practice; and the more closely we follow its word of command—the more we regard it as our supreme and sole authority in all matters of faith and practice, the more we shall be drawn together and the more we shall be led of God in all the great work committed to us.

So far from looking to great ecclesiastics for guidance, Baptists have ever recognized the fact that heresy is most likely to develop its rankest forms among religious leaders, and they have ever sought to guard such tendencies by giving people an open Bible, and by encouraging them to form their own views of its teachings by sedulously searching for themselves its sacred pages.

Baptists allow no doctrine which cannot be sustained from God's word; they countenance no custom contrary to its teachings. With them the word of God is not only supreme, but sole and alone in matters of faith and doctrine.

Here and there you may find a Baptist church with its articles of faith, but these are simply declarations of what such a church believes the Bible to teach, and no one claims for them any ecclesiastical authority whatever.

To the Bible the Baptist points as the sole and efficient source from which he draws his creed. He will not only point to the book, but he will give you the chapter and verse, and many chapters and verses, all of which unmistakably tell what he believes and why he believes it.

THE LOGIC OF OUR POSITION

As illustrating the logic of our denominational positions, let me say that it is not a mere accident that Baptists have always been the promoters and champions of religious liberty. Believing as they do they were of necessity compelled to be the advocates of soul freedom. We might say they could not help it. That doctrine was wrapped up in the Baptist idea; that every man must repent for himself, believe for himself, and be baptized for himself, and that no man or devil or angel—no power on earth, in hell or in heaven—has any right to interfere with our own personal obligation to do what God in his word enjoins upon us. As effect follows cause, so the logic of the Baptist position compels us to be as we ever have been, the unwavering advocates of soul freedom.

And, right here, let me add that to refuse baptism to the infant and leave it to follow its own convictions, as it grows to years of accountability, follows as logically from our position in regard to soul freedom. To take an infant out of its mother's arms, and by mere physical force baptize it, without its knowledge or consent, is as antagonistic to our views of soul freedom as to inflict physical punishment upon the same infant after he has grown to years of maturity because he refuses to believe as we do.

Baptists believe that one must be called out of darkness into light by the power of God—must be born again—and that prior to this mighty life giving change no one has any right to assume the name of a disciple. They believe that the blood comes before the water, and that faith and repentance and a new heart are essential to a proper observance of the ordinances. The Baptists believe this, and they are the only people on earth who do believe it.

As to what is baptism, and where it belongs in the christian system, and the Lord's supper and its place, we point to our Lord's commission and to the practice of his apostles. If they made faith and baptism precede the supper we dare not invert the divine order, or in any way deviate from it.

A PEDOBAPTIST'S REMARK.

A Pedobaptist clergyman said to a Baptist brother, with whom he was having a very pleasant talk: "I wonder very much that you Baptists have not a far greater following. I know you have millions of adherents, but it is a wonder to me that you have not many more millions. Your denominational platform is unique and one of the most striking that was ever put before any people. Your preachers, when they baptize, rarely do more than read from the New Testament a collection of verses bearing upon that subject, after which they give in the baptism of the candidate what seems to be an object lesson upon all they have read. And then, when you are asked about infant baptism, you generally content yourselves by challenging your Pedobaptist brother to produce in all the New Testament a single passage which either directly or indirectly teaches infant baptism—a challenge which has never been successfully met. Then, as to your church government, what can be more in keeping with our democratic way of doing things than is your way of leaving every church free and untrammelled to do just as it pleases? I repeat, it is a wonder to me that millions more have not given in their allegiance to this Baptist platform."

In reply to that very apt and striking remark of an honored Pedobaptist brother, it may be said that the explanation of our failure to grow and multiply as we should have done, is to be found in the fact that Baptists have not supported the Bible as strongly as the Bible has supported the Baptists. Our theory is right, and that is a great point gained. Theory underlies practice, and as long as the theory is good, we may hope that it will work its way into the life and character of those who maintain it. Baptists were a very feeble band when Neander, the great church historian, said of them, "There is a great future for the Baptists." How wonderfully they have grown since the day upon which Neander uttered that prediction, and yet we have scarcely begun to reach up to the great things which the God of the Bible has placed before us. But thank God if our principles are in accord with his divine word, they will yet get a mightier hold upon us, who too feebly champion them, and upon the multitudes who now reject them. Like leaven they will leaven the whole lump, sending their quickening power into all sects and sections, the world over.

LEAVENING THE LUMP.

I do not say that all good people will, in the coming ages, leave their respective denominations and come to us and wear the Baptist name. That may never come to pass, but a thing almost as desirable will, I doubt not, take place. Whatever is scriptural in our teachings will, in God's good time, be appropriated by others and be incorporated into their systems. Something like this has been going on for generations, and the good work has by no means ceased. Doctrines for which, in by-gone ages, Baptists endured stripes and imprisonment and death have become the possession of the christian world. They are not only held by others now, but believed so firmly that the bare suggestion that there ever was a time when they did not hold to these truths is repelled with more or less of feeling. This process will go on in the coming years, until the happy day shall dawn, when there will be no Baptist peculiar views, since such views will belong equally to all God's dear people.

And yet there may be then as now many denominational names. It is not the name Baptist for which we are contending, (that name you know was given us by our enemies), but for the things for which that name stands, and if others accept our doctrines we will not quarrel with them as to the name.

In politics, if a man votes as you do, you do not care very much whether he wears your party name or not. It is the vote you wish. The influence he may exert over others with whom, for the time being, he is associated may be more potential than if he were to come right over and wear the name of the party with which he casts his vote. He may do the better "missionary work," as the politicians sometimes designate such services, by lingering nominally at least with his old associates.

And thus, while Baptists would of course greatly prefer that all who take their doctrine should also take their name, and stand shoulder to shoulder with them, bearing the heat and burden of the day, still they must look with profound gratitude upon the great and ever growing multitudes in other communions who really are Baptists in everything except the name. They believe as we do as to immersion being the only Bible baptism. They reject as we do infant baptism, and hold as we do that no one has a right to the ordinances unless he comes as a penitent believer, and they are holding too with more or less tenacity other things which the world calls "Baptist peculiarities," as it once counted us heretics and schismatics for our peculiar views as to religious liberty.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

While good comes from a true theory, evil and only evil is likely to flow from a false theory. It has been well said that no one can point out the precise period when the Roman Catholic corruptions began. They crept in very slyly one by one, and often grew out of natural, if not praiseworthy impulses, but with this came the widespread ruin which the Roman hierarchy has brought upon the human family. It was all wrapped up in the false theory with which it started, that the church had the right to change and modify the ordinances and teachings of the word of God.

And what better thing can we now hope from Pedobaptist denominations except as we influence them? If they have a right to substitute sprinkling for baptism, and infants for penitent believers, and hierarchies for the New Testament form of church government, they have the right to make other sweeping changes until the blessed book itself is swept away. When once you begin to deviate from the strict teachings of the inspired word, who can tell what the end will be? How often even good people deceive themselves or are deceived by others with such declarations as these: "It does not matter so you are sincere," or that one thing is more convenient than something else—or that the strict observance of a Scriptural command is not essential to salvation and the like. And yet who would apply the same kind of reasoning to other things? We know well enough that sincerity in the man who takes the wrong medicine does not save him from its effects, and no loving child will be found obeying his parents simply from the fear of being disinherited.

A HOPEFUL INDICATION

One of the most encouraging indications of the progress of Baptist principles is to be found in the fact that our adversaries substantially concede almost all that we claim, only they think that we err in holding too firmly to the strict letter of God's word, and that we make it too much a matter of conscience to follow it literally and fully. Dr. Lyman Beecher wrote to his son Edward, whose conscience seems to have been a little troubled as to baptism, saying: "I have reason to believe that through excess of conscience many a man has been worried till he became a Baptist."

Some time since a tired Baptist preacher went off on a steamboat seeking rest and refreshment for body and mind. He met among the passengers an old Pedobaptist friend who was constantly worrying the tired preacher by attempts to draw him into discussing the baptismal question, but presently the Baptist turned upon him and with no little emphasis asked: "If this very moment it were revealed to you from heaven that you could never enter there without Scripture baptism, what would you do?" The Pedobaptist brother paused a moment and then replied: "I would beg the captain to haul in the boat that you might immerse me here and now." Of course that carried the whole point and made further discussion of the subject unnecessary. There are multitudes like him in Pedobaptist denominations who cannot rid themselves of the conviction that the baptism of the Baptists is the baptism of the New Testament.

Baptists stand for the ordinances as they were delivered, and attach to them no more importance than is given them by the inspired writers. If we emphasize them, it is because Christ and his apostles did the same thing. We follow in their footsteps. And besides, as we look over the history of the church, we find that wherever and whenever Baptists have failed of doing this, the most serious evils have come to the cause of God.

AN ILLUSTRATION FROM THE GOSHEN.

Of the truth of what I am saying, this old Goshen Association, whose Centennial we are now celebrating, affords many illustrations. We stand to day upon the very soil over which the Craigs and Waller and Webber and many more were hurried to gloomy dungeons, and in almost every instance the men who were foremost in those diabolical persecutions were the "Parish parsons." Often when the hearts of the sheriffs and other civil officers were moved with pity at the beautiful martyr spirit with which those old Baptist preachers went to jail and lingered there half starved, the parish preachers would be clamoring for yet other and severer punishment, and why? You know why. It was because for long years Pedobaptism had enjoyed undisputed sway in all the counties covered by this Goshen Association, and it had worked out the same results here that it has wrought everywhere else under the same conditions. Almost the entire population had been brought into the church—brought in without the least regard to what the Bible teaches about such great matters. The church and the world had come to be one, and New Testament religion had disappeared from the land.

Then it was that God sent these brave Baptists, who rejoiced to suffer with their Lord. Much of the good that our Pedobaptist brethren are now doing is due largely to the faithful and persistent protest which we make to the evils inherent in their respective systems. We hold them back from the logical results of their teachings. We keep their errors from running to seed, and thus save them from the untold calamities which always and everywhere follow where such views are not thus antagonized. If to day Baptists were to abandon the field and give up the struggle, in a generation or two Pedobaptists would have brought into the church every child in the land, and once in, there they would remain, and soon the church and the State would be as much one here in America, as they are to-day in other lands where Baptist principles are unknown, as much one as they were when the pioneers of this Association, sentenced to close confinement, passed through the streets of Fredericksburg on their way to jail singing:

"Broad is the road that leads to death,
And thousands walk together there;
But wisdom shows a narrow path,
With here and there a traveller."

A FEW INQUIRIES.

A few inquiries suggested by the subject in hand, may fitly close this address.

Are Baptists doing their part in printing and circulating the Bible? Freely we have received, freely we should give. The Bible has done everything for the Baptists, and yet it may be a question whether others, who believe in courts and councils and standards of one sort and another, along with the Scriptures, are not outstripping us in giving the gospel to the people?

Are Baptists adhering as strictly to scriptural order, in their denominational work, as the logic of their position demands? Are there not tendencies to distrust and abandon the primitive church and its polity? Are we not taken up too much with mere temporary expedients without caring much whether they conform to Scripture principle and precept? While our theory, that baptism and church membership are only for the regenerated, is all right, is not our practice of hurrying masses of those who afterwards prove to be not regenerated, through the forms of church membership, all wrong? Every such addition from the world lowers the standard of piety just as the placing of a block of ice in this room would lower the temperature. When loaded down with unconverted material there is nothing for a Baptist church to do but to die, and the sooner it dies the better. Others may and do grow without spiritual power. Their ecclesiastical machinery is so elaborate and so well adjusted that it will run about as well without vital godliness as with it. That is, so far as apparent growth and worldly influence are concerned. Rome and State churches everywhere are proving the same thing as are other sects which have virtually set aside the Bible.

Again, are Baptists who owe their existence to the Bible and who are shorn of their power when it loses its authority, any more reverent in their interpretation of the sacred word than others, or any more earnest in studying its truths and in imparting them in the home and in the school, and to all over whom their influence reaches? Lewis Craig, and others of your old Goshen Baptist brethren, were once arrested by the sheriff of Spottsylvania county, and when they came before the court the prosecuting attorney said: "May it please your worship, these men cannot meet a man upon the road, but they must ram a text of Scripture down his throat." That's the way the men who laid the foundations of this Association felt about the Bible. But I fear that not many of their descendants lay themselves liable to the charge brought against Lewis Craig and his colaborers.

Are Baptists more than others expressing in their lives the principles of the Bible? Are they more loyal friends of righteousness, or sturdier foes of evil? Do the sweet humanities and charities of religion, of Bible religion, flourish more among Baptists than elsewhere?

As Baptists grow in numbers, in wealth, in social power, are they not in great danger of forgetting the secret of their strength? Alas for us that so often our children turn away from the old faith, carrying all the treasures won for them by their Baptist fathers to others, where they may be used with the most telling effect against us. With the increase of culture and wealth, if we are wise, we shall strive more than ever for the humble zeal and quenchless fervor and abundant labors which characterized our Baptist fathers.

NEED OF WISE LEADERS.

If what has been claimed in this address is true, the Baptists ought to be the most wide-awake, pushing, enterprising people in the world. We ought to prepare for the great multitudes that are sure to flow into our ranks. We shall need larger church buildings, and more of them. We shall need ten dollars for denominational schools and colleges where we now have ten cents. And our mission work at home and abroad should be enormously extended. To do all this we must have God given leaders. No people need leaders as the Baptists do. Never since Christ ascended to heaven has any Baptist cause failed of great prosperity which was in charge of wise and energetic leaders. But the God of the Bible is not likely to come down and work miracles for the Baptists.

If we put the wrong men in charge of our churches and schools and colleges and boards and papers, and then wait for them to die that we may fill their places with men better suited to lead in such matters, if we are too cowardly to assume our share of the responsibility needed to bring about desired changes and modifications, then there can be no Baptist progress. There is a man for every position, a God-made man. When he and the place meet, the victory is assured. No longer then can there be any question as to men and means for carrying forward the work. No people follow more magnificently than the Baptists if they have a sure enough leader, and no people hold back more stubbornly than they if they lack faith in those who undertake to lead them.

Finally, in this Centennial year of Foreign Missions, as we tell over and over the story of Carey and Judson and Rice, let us bear in mind that they and many more of the brightest lights among our Baptist worthies were won to our faith by the Bible. The Bible has made more Baptists than all other books ever printed. As certain as we build upon "the impregnable rock," as certain shall this doctrine of ours win in the great fight. We need only to be faithful to our great trust to secure full and complete triumph for the Baptists and the cause.

In the worst trials God often makes the sweetest discoveries of himself.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

SEVERAL queries have been sent to us inquiring into the right of an Association to drop from their membership a church that retains members in fellowship who make and sell spirituous liquors. In answer to them all we say an Association is not a law-making body. It is simply a missionary body, organized for the purpose of combined effort in propagating and disseminating the gospel; and hence they have nothing to do with the discipline of the churches. Every Baptist church must be allowed to exercise its own discipline. It is the prerogative of the church to do that and not the Association. The Association has no more right to pass a law to regulate the discipline in regard to making and selling liquor than it has to pass one to regulate the discipline in regard to adultery, swindling, or any other sin.

While the foregoing is true, still an Association can use proper means to influence a church, by counsel and suggestion, whenever manifest unscriptural or harmful practice is in vogue therein; and should such efforts fail to produce a reformation, then the Association can protect itself and vindicate true religion by withdrawing fellowship from such church.

ANY departure from primitive faith and practice, just like any attempt to improve the simple words of Revelation, is to be looked upon with caution, and sometimes with suspicion. There are some customs becoming quite common among our churches which certainly have no precedent in New Testament times, and hence they need careful study on the part of our people before adoption. It quite often happens that some leading Baptist church, catching a certain plan or idea from some other church that is considered quite advanced, liberal, intelligent, etc., or from organizations that are not baptistic, sets the example in the way of an innovation, and other churches all over the country thinking that such plan or practice is "nice and harmless," fall into line at once and adopt it. Thus it at times happens that almost before one is aware of it the whole denomination is committed to something which is an evident departure from the models of apostolic times.

At the risk of being considered rather pessimistic, we desire to state candidly that we have serious doubts about the propriety and scripturalness of some customs that are now prevailing to some extent among us, and yet are not so firmly established as to be considered really baptistic. One custom to which we allude is that of having formal when our pastors occupy new fields. We emphasize the word formal for a reason. We do not object to a gathering of a few representative brethren and sisters, at some simple service, when the new pastor is inducted into the pastorate. But to suspend services at most or all of the churches of the community, to ask the pastors of all other denominations to attend, to have a combination of all of the choirs of the town, with speech-making, feasting, and a general flourish of religious trumpets, strikes us as being a decided departure from Scripture simplicity and of quite questionable religious taste.

INSTALLATION SERVICES

Besides the main argument against this custom which is, as just intimated, that it has no encouragement in Scripture command or precedent, it is open to objection on other grounds. In the first place, if the ministers and people of the various denominations are invited, it is expected of course that nothing will be said that will grate in the least upon their feelings. If a sermon is to be preached by the pastor, or by a visiting minister it would be considered in bad taste to say anything "doctrinal," as it is called. If the pastor should dimly outline his ideas, plan of work, etc., he would be expected not to make a dim allusion to any intention of antagonizing any of the many faiths of the town or community. Is this best; can Baptists afford it? And then, under the pressure of what seems to be almost an ovation from people of all creeds, is there not great danger of the incoming pastor making quite liberal promises, and of giving quite liberal assurances, and if he departs, or seems to, from them, will he not be accused of bad faith?

In the second place, does not the whole thing smack too much of the idea of honoring the servant at the expense of the Master? If there is any spirit that ought to characterize the minister of Christ, above any other, it is the spirit of humility. The installation or recognition service as it is now often conducted certainly has no tendency to humble God's servant, but rather to "unduly exalt him." We have no account whatever of Timothy, Titus, or any other settled pastors of New Testament times, being installed when they took charge of churches. The "kingdom of God cometh not with observation." Christ went to different towns unheralded. When Spurgeon went to London there was scarcely a "churchman" in the city that knew him or paid any attention to his coming, and yet there is not a churchman on the Island that does not now know and feel his power. Brethren are fond of praying and preaching about preachers "hiding behind the cross," but in the installation service the preacher, if anybody, is brought to the front, and the cross, if present at all, is relegated to a dark corner. If any such service is held then at all, let it be simple; and it is decidedly wiser, we think, for the services to be of such an order as to honor Christ, and keep the preacher in the background.

Another custom, quite the rage now in many Baptist and other churches, is to have a grand display of sympathy, feeling, speech-making and present-giving at the of departing pastors. Here again we plead for simplicity, and for the absence of formality and ostentation. Why should the retiring pastor talk so much about his leaving the church? Why should he and others make the religious "welkin ring" for weeks over his going? Why should the dear brethren and sisters be crying over him like he was their Saviour, and his going would be something like the going of Christ himself. Spurgeon was right in saying that a minister should always so preach to a church as to have the members more in love with Christ than himself, so that they as readily fell in love with any other true messenger of Christ as they did with him.

FAREWELL SERVICES

It is true that Paul once had a "farewell service," but it was quite a simple and private affair, for he called the elders of Ephesus down to Miletus, and there on the seashore delivered his farewell talk. Christ preached a farewell sermon to his disciples, but that was still more private, and came spontaneously in the path of duty, unheralded, and with no straining after effect. Such as these we heartily commend. More beautiful than the brightest gem is the tear of sympathy and affection that flows for one who has made no conscious effort to bring it forth. Deliver us from a program in which crying is an expected part of the exercises, and hence arranged for. It is about as heartless and as open to criticism as the plan of an English preacher of a theatrical turn, who had his manuscript marked here and there in such a way as to enable him to show off to the best advantage in the delivery of his sermon, and among other indices this was found, "Weep here." If brethren then will have farewell services, let them be simple and in good taste. Let them invite no popular outburst of sympathy, and if the recipients of presents and expressions of good will, it would certainly be in better taste not to regale the public with any account of them through the papers.

Another plan becoming more or less common among us is that of building to reach the poor of our great cities. A few years since Dr. Judson, son of the distinguished missionary, A. Judson, resigned a good pastorate and went to labor among the poor of New York City. That was a noble act of a noble man. But even such men sometimes make mistakes, and we fear that Dr. Judson has made one in building a costly church which has been erected as a memorial to his father. Adoniram Judson needs no costly building to perpetuate his fame. His monument is the Bible in the Burmese language, and his life of self-denial; and that costly church, doctor, will hardly do the poor of New York the good that some ten or dozen plainer structures would have done scattered over the city among the poor, and which might have been built with the money put into one. When a denomination of christians have no showing in a large city, and when their prestige and power as a people are not known, then it is wise for them to build some churches which are up to the demands of the age and the needs of the intelligent and cultured part of the population. We consider the sixty thousand dollars paid by our Home Mission Board for a suitable place for worship in the city of Havana, Cuba, as money wisely spent. But the Baptists are well known in New York. Their churches will compare favorably with the churches of the leading denominations represented there, and if our people in New York, or any other large city where they are as well known as they are there, wish to reach the poor and neglected, let them build plain and neat buildings among them, and near their homes.

FINE AND COSTLY CHURCHES

If preachers cannot be found to fill all such pulpits, let the churches send out their consecrated laymen and active workers to push the Sunday school work and hold religious services. This blessed work thus done would stop the rapid multiplication of societies by giving those who fritter away their time and means upon them, something practical to do for Christ.

THE GENERAL CATALOGUE of Wake Forest College by Dr. C. E. Taylor is an interesting and valuable publication, and makes a book of 199 pages. Those interested in the history of the College, its alumni and students should get a copy of this excellent Catalogue. It embraces a period from the foundation of the College in 1834 to 1892, and contains the names of all the Trustees of the College and their officers, all the professors and other instructors, all the graduates in annual classes, who have matriculated at Wake Forest, with a short historical account of each since leaving College, their societies, counties, towns, occupations, degrees, removals and present addresses. Copies will be mailed post paid, by Dr. C. E. Taylor, Wake Forest, on receipt of fifty cents. This amount will barely cover the cost of publication. In getting up this Catalogue Dr. Taylor has performed a valuable service to the College and its friends, which we know they will appreciate when they see the Catalogue.

THE crops in some sections of North Carolina are poor; in other sections we learn they are good; but we believe in all sections of the State the people have this year made a greater effort to raise home supplies than at any time since the war, and have succeeded. While the price of the money crops, cotton and tobacco, is very low, the people of the State have more to live upon the next year than in some other years when they got better prices for their products. On this account what money does come into the State from the money crops we are glad to believe will not be hurried out again as rapidly as formerly, and the dearth of money will not be so great. We trust such will be the case. Certainly the lack of money in this State for the past year with short money crops, low prices and inadequate food crops have been quite appalling to the people in their secular business as well as in the Lord's work.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

SOUTH YADKIN ASSOCIATION.

We found all the churches well represented at this Association, and a good start was taken by a splendid sermon by Rev. W. A. Pool of Statesville.

Several of the brethren spent the night before going to the Association with Bro. J. C. Turner, who made us welcome to his pleasant home in Statesville. Those who know Bro. Turner can form a correct idea of the real hospitality to be enjoyed at his home.

The discussions of the different interests were freely participated in by a large number of the brethren, and the most perfect harmony seems to be in all the churches. They not only desire to see the work enlarged and accelerated, but so far as I saw there seemed to be perfect agreement as to the methods to be used in doing this work.

Bro. John B. Holman, who has been the moderator of the Association for years, is one of those level-headed men, whose consistent christian character, and fair and open dealing make him a power in whatever position he holds.

Bro. L. R. Carroll is here, and made a very able speech on Foreign Missions. Bro. Carroll is probably as well posted on this subject as any man in the State, and when you add to this the fact that his heart is full of love for all christian work, his very presence seems to inspire the whole Association.

On Wednesday Dr. Durham was appointed to preach; took a text and then made one of his best speeches on Foreign Missions.

On Thursday Bro. Matheney was on the program to speak, and he preached a most excellent sermon. This Jonah proceedings were not excepted to by the brethren, but both sermon and speech were well received by all who heard them.

Bro. Stallings is with us, and expects to go on the entire trip over the mountains in the interest of High Point Female College and education in general, and certainly we are glad to have him with us. The clear and forcible manner in which he deals with this subject will not soon be forgotten by those who listen to him.

Thursday we leave for the

CALDWELL ASSOCIATION,

which we reached on Friday morning. The Association was already organized, Bro. I. W. Thomas having been elected moderator, and Bro. J. V. McCall, the old clerk, still in his place. Bro. Thomas makes a first-rate presiding officer, and Bro. McCall, who is sheriff of his county, is one of the best clerks in the State.

This session is a very great improvement over that of last year, both as regards the number present and the amount of work reported by the churches.

We did not hear the introductory sermon preached by Bro. J. C. Crisp, but heard it well spoken of by the brethren.

We had a splendid discussion on education and upon Wake Forest College, participated in by Dr. Stallings and other friends of the institution.

I can see that our people are showing a growing interest in the prosperity and success of the College, and are always glad to hear it discussed as one of the objects of the Convention. There ought to be no Association in the State at which Wake Forest College is not specifically presented to our people. If the Baptists of the State do not take care of the College, who will?

Bro. Edwards is succeeding well in his new work for the Orphanage. He is faithful and well adapted to his work, and will be of great service to the Orphanage. The brethren never fail to ask about Bro. Mills, whom they have heard so often in behalf of the children at the Orphanage.

The Association increased their pledges largely over what they did last year. This was specially marked in Foreign Missions and in Ministerial Education.

Dr. Durham left us on Saturday to attend the Stony Fork Association. This Association has been anti-missionary, and for the first time in its history on last Sunday took a collection for Foreign Missions and appointed delegates to the Baptist State Convention. It looks now that the time is not far distant when this entire mountain section will be in line with all of the denominational work.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Rev. Jasper Howell of Lenoir has returned from Florida.

....Rev. S. W. Mitchell has moved from Cooper's to Asheville.

....Rev. H. A. Bagby has declined the call to Richmond and will remain at Suffolk.

....Rev. Dr. W. A Montgomery, formerly of Mossy Creek, Tenn., is now at Bowman, Ga.

....The Shelby Review states that Rev. Thos. Dixon, Sr., has been elected pastor of Elizabeth church.

....Rev. G. W. Harmon preached the dedication sermon of the new Shiloh Baptist church Sunday.

....Rev. J. E. White of Wilson was on a visit to his parents in Apex, last week and called to see us on Thursday.

....Prof. Mills of Wake Forest called to see us on Saturday. He reports one hundred and sixty five students at the College.

....Rev. O. Churchill of Moncure was in Raleigh on Friday last to hear the speaking. He is seventy-two years old, well and hearty.

....Dr. Thos. Hume of the University has been invited to deliver twelve lectures before the National School of Methods at Chicago next year.

....Rev. L. M. Berry has removed from Columbia, Mo., to Boonville, Mo., and requests that his friends address him at the latter place in future.

...."Talks About Law" by Judge Winston are widely read, and generally appreciated. A brother writes us that they have been worth $1,000 to him.

Rev. Dr. H. M. Tupper, President of Shaw University, returned to Raleigh several days ago from Massachusetts, where he has pleasantly passed the summer.

....The Baptist State Convention of North Carolina meets with the Tabernacle church, Raleigh, on Thursday evening after the first Sunday in December, 1892.

....Bro. Lang Tayloe of Hertford county was in Raleigh last Wednesday and called to see us. His visit here was for the purpose of entering his daughter in Peace Institute.

....Bro. H. C. Edwards of Woodland, Northampton county, has our thanks for a good list of renewal subscriptions, with the cash. Bro. Edwards is one of the RECORDER'S best friends.

....Rev. F. M. Royal, writes us from the Seminary, at Louisville, September 15th, as follows: "New building not yet finished. Old building repaired. The faculty are expecting a large number of students this year."

....Bro. Thomas L. Dozier of Southport writes us September 8th as follows: "Our good pastor, Bro. Howell, has had a week's meeting. Much success. Ten have joined us in the work at Bethel church."

....Rev. A. B. Caudle conducted a splendid meeting at the new church near Mr. A. J. Griffin's in Buford township last week. A large number professed conversion and joined the church.—Monroe Inquirer, Sept. 15th.

....Bro. E. W. Timberlake, Louisburg, N. C., requests all persons who expect to attend the next session of the Tar River Association, to inform him at once of their intention, and also on what day they will reach Louisburg.

... Bro. J. B. Richardson, High Point, Sept. 15th, 1892, says: "A little cyclone dropped down on 'Meadow Branch' church in Union county on the 13th inst. and completely unroofed it, doing no other damage in the community. This church-house is one of the best country houses I know. It seats six hundred."

....Rev. William Bland has removed from Hawley's Store to Autryville, N. C.

....We are informed by Mr. J. A. Ware who had all the correspondence with Bill Fife with reference to the latter's holding services here, that no word was said about the amount he should be paid, nothing being said even about his expenses.—Shelby Review, Sept. 9, '92.

....Rev. J. R. Jones, Milton, N. C., September 12th, 1892, writes: "On yesterday I baptized eleven persons into the fellowship of Shiloh church. They make the number of accessions to the church this summer twenty, eighteen by baptism, and two by restoration. There are two or three others to be baptized."

....Rev. C. G. Jones, pastor of the First Baptist church of Chattanooga, Tenn., delighted good and attentive congregations at the Baptist church Sunday morning and night with splendid sermons. The sermon of the morning was pronounced, by many competent judges, to be one of the best ever preached in Chatham.—T., Chatham.

....During the past two weeks we have attended five Associations—all in the western part of the State—two of them west of the Blue Ridge—viz., South Yadkin, Caldwell, Stoney Fork, Three Forks and Ashe and Alleghany. At each of these Associations the attendance was large, the brethren hopeful and the spirit of missions good. —C. Durham.

....Bro. F. S. Stine of Petra Mills, Caldwell county, writes: "There was a five days' meeting held with Antioch church, commencing the fourth Sunday in August, conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. W. Pool, assisted by Revs. Jas. Shaver, C. C. Pool and Solomon Gwaltney. The meeting resulted in sixteen additions by baptism, and others by letter, number not known."

....Bro. J. H. Austin, Rockingham, September 15th, 1892, writes: "We have had a glorious meeting and Hoffman and all the surrounding country were greatly revived by the presence of God's Spirit during the week. Four confessed Jesus as their Saviour. We closed Friday night, leaving eleven penitents inquiring the way of life. May God bless and save them with all others who want to be saved."

....Rev. T. B. Thames, pastor of the First Baptist church, Danville, Va., together with his wife and little son, had a narrow escape from serious injury last Wednesday. They were out for a drive, and one side of the shafts becoming detached, the horse made a sudden spring upsetting the vehicle and throwing all of the occupants out. Mrs. Thames and the boy escaped unhurt. Mr. Thames was painfully, though not seriously injured in the back.

...."Will the Chicago University receive negroes as students? Please answer in the Recorder." Yes; the University of Chicago will make no distinction on account of race or color. We happen to know of a colored young man from Louisville who is arranging to enter, and who has received every assurance of being cordially welcomed. Among the students at Chicago there will be an increasing number of negroes from the South.—Western Recorder.

....Rev. J. M. White of Apex, N. C., has accepted work in Edgefield, S. C. He becomes principal of the Edgefield High School, and will serve probably one or two churches in adjoining communities. His correspondents will hereafter address him as above. This leaves a vacant pastorate—Apex, Carthage, Swift Creek and Cumberland Union. Bro. C. W. Blanchard also will move to Durham. Who will fill the void created by the removal of these brethren?

....Rev. Dr. A. G. McManaway arrived in the city yesterday morning from Little Rock, Ark. Dr. McManaway will remain here a few days packing his furniture and having it shipped, after which he will go to join his family in Virginia. He begins his pastorate in Little Rock the first Sunday in October. The church is one of the largest and most influential in the city, and under Dr. McManaway will, no doubt, still increase in number and usefulness.—Charlotte Observer, September 10.

....Rev. J. K. Fant, High Point, N. C., Sept. 17, 1892, writes: "We have had a meeting that was uplifting and infilling. Bro. D. M. Austin did the preaching, and mightily did he magnify the Lord—Christ never seemed so precious as now. High Point Female College has started out under the most favorable auspices. We are delighted with the new faculty, and are encouraged to say that those who are committed to their care will do well. Let there be no hesitation.

....Rev. J. B. Marsh of Abernathy, writes as follows September 14th: "Bro. W. E. Crocker is aiding me in a meeting at Olivet church, preaching the word acceptably, and the Holy Spirit is using the word to the conversion of souls. Ten have professed trust in Christ, and the number of inquirers larger to-day than any time since the service commenced. I have just read your cheering editorial in this week's RECORDER, "Sunny Side" I wish you could have spoken more confidently of our growth in piety. But I fear you could not truthfully."

....Rev. Dr. C. S. Blackwell, on the eve of his departure for Elizabeth City, N. C., writes: "I closed a meeting some days ago at Blackwater, Va., but half of the church is in North Carolina, and baptized twenty-five. I close my pastorate with the Third church, Norfolk, to-night (Sept. 11th), after baptizing two at the last service. During the fourteen months with this church, ninety-four have been added to its membership. I leave it with all of its departments of work thoroughly organized. I begin my work in Elizabeth City next Lord's day. I leave Virginia fresh from the waters of baptism, and pray for God's blessing upon my work in North Carolina."

Board of Education.

This Board needs immediate help. Forty-two young ministers were aided last year, more than ever received help at any time before. They appealed to us for assistance, and their churches highly recommended them and urged us to adopt them, and we did so, and we do not regret it. Several of them are now settled in their fields doing excellent work. I have recently seen some of their work, and know whereof I speak. Others of them have returned to the College, and are making diligent application in preparation for their life work.

We have about seventy applications for help this year, but we owe a debt on last year's work, which we are providing for as rapidly as we can, and can see our way so far as to adopt only thirty this year. More than forty have earnestly called on us for aid, and their pastors and brethren have written me asking that help shall be given them if possible, and telling us that the young men are not able to pay their own way, and that they are young men of promise—indeed, they give them all the recommendation we could ask. But the way does not yet seem open to aid more than the thirty already adopted. We must avoid going in debt. And besides those who wish to come, we have already here five who cannot possibly pay their own way longer than Christmas, if that long. Without aid they must leave, and so far as we can now judge, we have never had better young men here than these.

Brethren, what shall we say to them? Shall we let them leave with such meagre preparation for their responsible calling? Are they as well prepared as they should be to become leaders of the Lord's people, the pastors of Christ's churches, his undershepherds to feed the church of God which he has purchased with his own blood? Brethren on the farm, in the office, in the store, if God should call you to preach his gospel, you will know what it is to need all the preparation possible to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ to a lost world. And if like nearly all the young men whom God is calling in his ministry, you should be poor and unable to educate yourself, you will know something of their embarrassment.

No work of our denomination has been more blessed of God than our Education Board work. For the last ten years a majority of our best preachers and pastors in North Carolina were once our beneficiaries. The best preachers and pastors who have come to us from other States were aided by the Education Boards of these respective States. All but two of the missionaries who ever went from North Carolina to foreign fields were our beneficiaries. Our grand old College has furnished the men who have built up the churches in the destitute places, are to-day filling acceptably our strongest preaching places, and taken all together they compose the most efficient body of preachers in the State, and these for the most part were aided by our Board. No one can look over the list of ordained Baptist preachers in North Carolina, and learn where they came from, and the help they had, can ever find it in his heart to say, that he has no sympathy with our beneficiary education. But why need I say this? No thinking liberal Baptist is wanting in hearty sympathy with this work. But, brethren, here is the trouble: we need help now. We must not let these young men leave, and surely we ought to say to more of these applicants, "Come, and we will help you get ready for your God-given work." Several of the Associations last year at their annual meetings promised us help, but it has not yet been given. Brethren, please send it now.

W. R. GWALTNEY.

Report of Meetings by Rev. J. H. Hildreth.

Dear Recorder:—Our meeting at Point Caswell resulted in ten additions by baptism. Bro. A. T. Howell of Southport did the preaching. He is a power in the pulpit, and will long be remembered by the church and people at this place.

I have just closed a series of meetings with my churches at Willard and Mt. Holly, which resulted in three additions at Willard, and four at Mt. Holly. Brother Howell did the preaching at both of these places, and we were all edified and made better by the sweet gospel sermons which he preached for us. Fraternally yours,

J. H. HILDRETH.

Point Caswell, Sept. 14, 1892.

Our Vacation.

On the morning of July 1st, Mrs. Martin and I left our pleasant home in Lumberton for a three months' vacation, to be spent in South Carolina and Virginia, doing evangelistic work.

Our first meeting was held in Orangeburg county, S. C., in which thirty-six souls were happily converted. We spent three days in the city of Orangeburg, preaching twice a day. We could not remain longer, as we had to meet our next engagement at Concord, Va.

Here the Spirit of God was with us in great power. I feel interested in this church, because it was my privilege, under the blessing of God, two years ago, to hold a meeting there, which resulted in the awakening of the church from a five years' slumber to an earnest, faithful work. They called a pastor, and to-day Concord is numbered among the best churckes in that community, and averaged last year over a dollar per member for missions. Our meeting there this summer resulted in thirteen conversions.

Our next meeting was held at Keysville, Va. This was in many respects a remarkable meeting. After the first day every place of business, with the exception of one barroom, was closed, and at every service that large church was crowded. Many christians, who were following Christ at a distance, renewed their vows, and started out with renewed energy to live and work for God, and forty-five souls were converted. Our meeting here lasted eight days.

From Keysville, we went to New Hope, where we had another glorious meeting, which resulted in thirty-four conversions, and the reclaiming of a large number of backsliders.

We then came to Mt. Zion, my wife's old home church, and held our next meeting. The result was twenty-three conversions.

We managed to hold out a few days at our next engagement (Buckingham), and during that time there were seven conversions.

We had to come to my father-in-law's and take some rest, as the doctor told me my strength would not permit me to work any more this summer. So I had to refuse quite a number of invitations to hold meetings at other points. We will rest several weeks and return to our home in Lumberton on Oct. 1st. Bro. V. I. Masters, who is supplying for me, will then return to the Seminary.

F. H. MARTIN.

Gilliamsville, Va., Sept. 13, 1892.

South Yadkin Association.

The recent session of this body was a feast of good things to Bethel church and that portion of Iredell county.

Pastor and people regret not being equal in expression of gratitude to the deserts of the delegations and visitors.

The Spirit seemed to lead, and everyone followed in sermon, speech and song, during the whole meeting, with such earnest discussion, tender sympathy, and with such cheery disposition, that it was sad when we witnessed the close drawing near.

Bro. Durham's missionary sermon on Wednesday, and Bro. L. R. Carroll's running history and vivid incidents of modern missions Thursday will, in many minds, remain while life lasts, and be an inspiration to every lover of the work who heard them.

These were not the only striking and sweeping speeches, but space will not allow mention of all.

When we thank you all with full hearts and quickened energies, we still have somewhat against you, brethren and sisters. While there was a goodly number of you, and our lives are made brighter by your presence with us, yet there were not enough of you to fill the homes prepared for you, and those who came did not stay long enough to help us eat half the fatted calves, shoats and lambs. While the sideboards groan under the unused sweets throughout the land of Bethel. Come again when the fruit is not all killed, and the mellon crop is not a failure, and we will make your stay more pleasant.

W. J. HOPKINS.

September 10, 1892.

Meeting at Pantego.

Dear Recorder:—On the 19th of August, accompanied by Rev. B. B. Williams, we went down to Pantego, and on Saturday night began a meeting which lasted seven days.

Bro. C. W. Matthews came to our aid on Monday night and preached one sermon during his stay. Subject—"The Two Builders." Matt. 7: 24—27. But for the fact that he is kin to us, we would tell what an impression this sermon made upon the people.

Bro. Williams gave us the fundamental doctrines of the New Testament church, and his sermons were impressive and instructive. His discourse on "The Office of the Holy Spirit" was superb, and gave Campbellism some death dealing blows. Three came to us from the Campbellites and one by baptism.

The meeting was a good one for the Baptists of Pantego. But the salary of the missionary is not enough. It would be about all he could do to get along if the salary was doubled.

Others have expressed a desire to come to us from the Campbellites.

There are very many people here who belong to no church. Hence, Pantego is an important mission field. It is an absolute necessity that the salary should be increased, in order to enable missionaries who go there to do better work. Will not the Mission Board take this matter deeply to heart?

J. R. MATTHEWS, Missionary.

Meeting at Cherry's Hall.

Dear Recorder:—On the third Sunday in August I began a meeting at a place known as Cherry's Hall near Coakley in Edgcombe county, and continued it two weeks, closing on Monday night after the first Sunday in this month. We had Dr. Hufham and Bro. J. W. Powell to assist us part of the time. We have no church in that vicinity, and until last March, when your unworthy servant began to preach there, those people knew nothing of the Missionary Baptists or their doctrine; and when we began to talk about holding a meeting there, the people hooted at the idea, saying those who lived in that neighborhood would not attend a protracted meeting. For the first few days our congregations were indeed small; but, bless God, though we had heavy thunderclouds and rains, the crowd continued to increase until there were very few persons in the whole community who did not get into the meeting. They were very attentive to the services, and there were great manifestations of the Holy Spirit's working in the minds of the people.

We received three for baptism, and there were other professions, but these are held back from uniting with the church by those who have control of them. Let us pray the Lord to remove the scales from their eyes and expand the hearts of those would-be christians who stand as obstacles between Christ and their children. We hope to see a Baptist church organized there before very long. The Lord has poured out his Spirit on the people of that community, and if we could have continued the meeting a few days longer, we feel sure there would have been other accessions, but circumstances compelled us to stop. The last week of the meeting was exceedingly warm and interesting, and the congregation kept steadily increasing. There was one profession, and six who asked for prayer on the last night of the meeting.

Though that community has heretofore been possessed of a conglomeration of religious notions, such as Episcopalians, Methodists and Kehukee Baptists, there is very little doubt now that the Bible as taught by the Missionary Baptists has a greater hold on the minds of those people than any other denomination, and the Lord is going to give us that country, brethren, if we properly tend it; for all of which let us "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Yours in Christ,

J. H. JOHNSTON.

Bethel, Sept. 9, 1892.

Center Hill Church.

Dear Recorder:—I have just been in a most delightful meeting at Center Hill in Chowan county. It was indeed a glorious harvest of souls. Bro. Josiah Elliott is pastor of the church. Brethren Burfoot and Jordan assisted in preaching the word in its simplicity and purity.

The result was a general revival of the church and thirty-one professions of faith. We felt that the Lord was indeed with us in our humble efforts.

Center Hill church is the fruits of Bro. Elliott's progressive spirit. He organized and built it in the midst of a strong Methodist community, and without even the encouragement which might have been expected from his own faith and order. It is in the midst of a wide-awake, progressive, God-fearing people, and is destined to be our enduring monument to the founders long after they have entered into the great beyond. It was dedicated last fall, and this is its first revival.

The writer carried away with him many pleasant memories of the place and its people whose kindness to one who has just started forth as an humble proclaimer of the gospel of peace will serve to encourage him to pursue with renewed zeal the calling which God has placed upon him.

Bro. Elliott was taken seriously ill during the meeting, but thanks be to God, he was enabled to lead the candidates down to baptism on Sunday morning.

That God may bless Center Hill, and especially those who have just professed Christ, is the prayer of a brother in Christ.

Yours fraternally,

CHAS. L. GRAVES.

Hertford, Sept. 8, 1892.

From Rev. C. W. Blanchard.

Dear Recorder:—The second Lord's day in August we began a series of meetings with Pleasant Grove church (Raleigh Association), which lasted a week. The blessing of God rested upon us from the beginning of the services, which were well attended. About twenty made professions of faith, and the whole community seemed to be filled with the Holy Spirit. We look for the church to receive several additions by baptism.

This is an interesting church, in fine spiritual plight, devoted to their Master's work and the shepherd that goes in and out among them. It is with sadness that the writer is compelled to leave this church after serving it for five years with so much pleasure and, we trust, with some profit; but our field at Durham demands more time than we have been able to give it, and we have to leave this dear people and our mother church for a season in the hands of, we trust, a better shepherd. May the blessing of God ever be upon the church and its leader.

THIRD CHURCH, DURHAM.

On the fourth Sunday night in August, we began services with the Third church, Durham, which lasted for two weeks. Rev. W. S. Olive did most of the preaching and delighted all who heard him plead so earnestly for his Master's claims. Large congregations attended the services throughout, and good order was a special characteristic of the throng.

About fifty confessed Christ, twenty-five united with the church, twenty-one were baptized on Sunday night, Sept. 11th, and others await the ordinance at our next meeting.

This church has a bright future, and we believe we have made no mistake by casting our lot with such a people. We will spend most of our time with this church another year.

C. W. BLANCHARD.

Varina, Sept. 13, 1892.

Raleigh Association.

CENTENNIAL MISSION MEETINGS POSTPONED.

Rev. J. M. White, one of the speakers appointed for the proposed mass meetings to be held with churches in the Raleigh Association, will leave in a few days for South Carolina, his new field of labor. Rev. J. L. Cottingham, Rev. O. C. Horton and Rev. Dr. Hall are so engaged in work upon their own fields that they cannot fill their appointments. Others of the speakers find it difficult to enter upon the work.

Therefore, in view of these facts and for other causes that appear to be much in the way of a successful and profitable canvass of the churches, as proposed, the appointments for mass meetings are hereby recalled, and the same will not be held until further notice.

For the conference:

N. B. BROUGHTON, Secretary.

Raleigh, Sept. 17, 1892.

Rev. W. E. Penn has greatly reduced the price of his song books, and the sales now run over two thousand a month. He is selling a good song book, one that contains no unsound doctrine. See advertisement in this paper.

Revival.

Bro. Bailey:—Revs. J. A. Hoyle and C. H. Durham, commenced a series of meetings at Maiden Baptist church on Saturday night before the fourth Sunday in August, which continued eight days. Bro. Durham did most of the preaching until Friday: then he was taken sick, and on Saturday left for home. Bro. Hoyle continued the meetings until Sunday. The Holy Spirit seemed to be present to bless and encourage the christians, and awaken the ungodly. We had large congregations the whole time, and great interest was manifested in the services. Over thirty persons professed faith in Christ, during these meetings.

On Sunday, Elder Hoyle baptized twelve happy converts in a pool in the presence of a large concourse of people. Three were received by letter. Others are expected in a short time to follow their Saviour.

The faithful little band of Baptists at Maiden have struggled hard, endured many privations, and made sacrifices in order to build a house for the Lord at this place, and there is still a small debt on the building. But the Lord has abundantly blessed their labors; to him be all the glory.

A. B. ERVIN.

Maiden, N. C.

From Berea Church.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We have many things which call forth our most profound gratitude to our Heavenly Father. Under the leadership of Bro. Josiah Elliott, we rebuilt our house, making it larger and more comfortable.

The membership of our church is increasing. Thirty seven by baptism and restoration this year. We have large attendance at our services—preaching one Sabbath and Saturday before in each month, and prayer meeting every Sabbath night at the church. In these prayer meetings the young brethren are very active and useful.

The Sunday-school interest is increasing. Bro. G. W. Ward, a young lawyer, by request came out last Friday to a picnic at the church and favored us with one of the best addresses on Sabbath-school work we ever heard. The house was packed, but for thirty minutes quietness pervaded the entire audience, from the youngest to the oldest. A father at the close of this address said, "I will for the future attend Sunday-school and also bring my children." Others decided to do likewise.

I think we are stronger spiritually than ever before. The church is united in her work, both pastor and people. Last Saturday we elected pastor for the year '93. One hundred and forty-seven votes were given by private ballot, and every one of them for Bro. Elliott. He has served us four years. He has a grip upon the people and the people upon him. This meeting on Saturday, Sept. 10th, will never be forgotten. God bless this union.

We have laid plans to raise more money for missions this year than ever before in one year. God bless all the pastors and churches and make them one is my prayer.

SIMEON PRITCHARD.

Elizabeth City, Sept. 13, 1892.

Need of the Sandy Creek Association.

During this week the delegates from all parts of the Sandy Creek Association will be leaving home to attend the meeting of this body at Bethlehem church in Moore county.

Dear brethren, I trust that you will not think I wish to make myself conspicuous, or assume the hated quality of being dictatorial; but in love for human souls and in honor to our common Master, I desire to call your attention to the pressing need in our Association—the preaching of the word.

As is well known to the ministry, but perhaps not quite so well known to some of the laity, there is alarming destitution of the gospel as we hold it, and even in any form, in the Association. There are sections in Moore fifteen or twenty miles square with scarcely a church of any denomination, and surely not a Baptist church.

The same thing can be said of Randolph with equal truth.

Now, brethren, this ought not to be. If we have the truth, which we certainly have if the Bible be true, then we should give it to others, especially those immediately around us.

I venture the assertion that gray-headed men in the bounds of the Association have never witnessed a baptism by a Baptist minister. This unoccupied territory will soon be occupied by some one of the leading denominations. Why not by the Baptists? What is there to hinder the selecting and sending out at least two good men to preach the gospel of Jesus in the destitute parts of Moore and Randolph? This much is needed outside of a good energetic man to travel as colporteur.

Objections to this may be urged on the ground that we are not able to pay missionaries to do the work. How silly the argument! He who holds all things in his hands is able to supply all our wants. It is the Lord's work, and he will not see it fail if we undertake it in his name. He has commanded us to go and preach, which should be enough for us to obey. We have stood still long enough; let us go forward. Let us try it, and God's word for it, we will soon see the reward of our efforts in a great harvest of souls and an ingathering of men and women into the church of Christ.

W. F. FRY.

A living, loving christian—true of tongue, honest of heart, pure of conduct and yet lovable in daily life, is the most unanswerable argument for christianity. He is indeed the "world's Bible," and he needs no commentary.—Zion's Advocate.

I never knew one who made it his business to lash the faults of others that was not guilty of greater ones himself.—Addison.

Literary.

Conwell's System of Oratory. A Practical Exposition of the Principles of the Science of Effective Speech. 74 pp. Published by Henry Neil, 118 S. Seventh St., Philadelphia.

This is a suggestive text-book, prepared by Horace G. McKean, with the special permission of Russell H. Conwell, President of Temple College, Philadelphia, and originator of the system. The work treats of oratory pure and simple. Conwell's system is a natural system, and has stood the test of years. Also, the system is logical, laying the foundation in "premises," then advances to the "conclusion" by use always and only of the true manners and workings of strict logical precision. The work is embodied in eight chapters, and the subjects are as follows: 1. The Uses of Language. 2. The Divisions of the System. 3. On Introduction. 4. On the Statements of Facts. 5. On Conclusion. 6. On the Appeal, or Peroration. 7. On Illustrations. 8. Some Eminent Orators. The work closes with some remarks to students. Every young minister should acquire, if possible, a knowledge of the principles of effective oratory, and a study of Conwell's System will be very helpful to him in securing such knowledge.

The Forum for October will contain an article on the Cholera, how it has been prevented and may be prevented, with a statement of preceeding epidemics, by the eminent Dr. Lewis A. Sayre, who was resident physician of the City of New York when the disease came to that port in 1866.

La Mode de Paris and Paris Album of Fashion are $3.50 per year each. They are the most artistic Fashion Magazines published. La Couturiere is a fine home journal for $3.00 and La Mode is only $1.50 per year. An important fact to remember is that the three former publications contain each month a lesson on some popular garment with valuable practical suggestions. You can generally get single copies from your newsdealer, but if you fail to get them there, write to the publishers, Messrs. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th St., New York.

The Review of Reviews for September is so edited as to remind its readers that there are, even in a presidential year, many other topics besides politics that claim a share in the general attention. In timeliness, freshness and originality this September issue of the Review is fully equal to any of its predecessors. It is a remarkably general testimony, on the part of the readers of this enterprising periodical, that every succeeding number is a fresh surprise, and a welcome one. Among the many interesting articles of this number, we notice the following: "Strikes and their Remedies," "A King's Daughter Among the Lepers of Siberia," "How Miss Bentley Lifted the Czar." The illustrations are abundant and generally well executed.

The Californian for September is a striking number. It contains a sensational expose of spirit photograpy, from the pen of the well-known scientist, Dr. Elliot Coues of the Smithsonian Institute. Dr. Coues slashes the bogus spirit photographers without mercy, and makes most entertaining reading—having traced down all the fraudulent pictures. The illustrations to this paper are striking and will create consternation in the army of frauds who prey upon unsuspecting people. Higher education in California is well illustrated in a well-written article on Throop University. Dr. Simms the well-known author and scientist has an interesting article on India. The magazine contains many other attractions, and is splendidly illustrated. Published in San Francisco. $3.00 a year.

In the Baptist Teacher for October are three contributed articles which will repay a careful reading. Dr. Hovey, in his usual careful style, discusses the doctrinal teaching of the lessons for the quarter. Attention is called to that portion of his article which ticle which treats of the sphere of obedience in uniting with Christ's church. Dr. Pidge speaks interestingly of the character of Paul, with especial reference to the practical shrewdness which characterized his ministry and life. Dr. Gifford tells us of angelic messengers—those ministers of his who do his pleasure—who are far more concerned, perhaps, in affairs pertaining to us than we think. The Teacher is exceedingly useful and helpful, and ought to be the helper in every Baptist school in the land. It is a compact commentary upon the lessons, giving concisely the best thoughts of the most competent scholars. This number, we are sure, will be found of interest and help to all to whom it may come. Published by the American Baptist Publication Society at the remarkably low price of fifty cents in clubs of five or more.

Ten Windows Needed for St. Joseph Church.

Bro. D. J. Clark, Clarkton, N. C., says that ten windows, at a cost of three dollars each, are needed for the new St. Joseph Baptist church. He asks: "What church, Sunday-school, friend or brother will put one window in our church, to be named in their honor, if desired, or left with us. We want them in the next twenty-five days." Who will assist this struggling church by contributing enough for one or more windows. Amounts can be forwarded to Bro. Clark at Clarkton, N. C. Bro. Clark also requests that all promised amounts of help be sent him.

Tar River Association Meets Oct. 5th, 1892.

The Tar River Association meets in Louisburg on Wednesday, Oct. 5th, instead of the 4th, as has been published in the RECORDER. The Wilmington and Weldon and Raleigh and Gaston Railroads will sell tickets at reduced rates to delegates and visitors.

Letter from Rev. E. F. Tatum in China.

TO BE READ TO THE YADKIN AND THEN TO THE SOUTH YADKIN ASSOCIATION.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—When I come to think of it, I find it has been two years since I have written to you. I have waited a long time, but you will forgive me to some extent when you remember that the former letter has not been replied to. But I did not ask for a reply, did I? I should delight to receive a letter from you. The Association might request some one to write, or, better, some one might volunteer to do so. If a letter from me next year should be desirable, yours with some questions concerning desirable information would help me to write it.

I must be excused for speaking of a new experience that was mine on last Sunday. I had the pleasure of baptizing a Chinese convert. This is my first, and it has been a great blessing to me and to all of us concerned. In this reaping I have entered into the joys of sowers who have gone before. The candidate was the daughter of Deacon Wong. Some of you, no doubt, remember how, some years ago, with fullness of joy Dr. M. T. Yates made us acquainted with Deacon Wong. He had just built his chapel and was constantly preaching, in his peculiarly earnest way, the glorious gospel to his fellow countrymen. Deacon Wong is most seventy five years old. Often he is in feeble health, but when strength of body permits, he may still be found three days per week testifying to the truth that has made him free. His wife and two of his daughters are christians. He has one other daughter and one son who are out of the fold. Let us pray that he may early see them consecrated christians.

While I write to you I remember that my friend and brother, D. W. Herring, is very likely somewhere in North Carolina. I hope he may be present at your meetings. If so, don't take time to read letters; get him to speak to you from the fullness of his heart. He may talk to the churches on the subject of sending himself with others to the interior of China. Whatever it may cost me, or the mission at Shanghai, I say send him. I believe in sending missionaries to the interior, because it is obeying the Master's command to preach the gospel to every creature. Plenty of work to do here, to be sure. Let us do this and not neglect that. If the Southern Baptists are to have a part in this interior work, I see no use in waiting to begin. Others are going forward and God is blessing their efforts. It is in the going that we may claim the presence of the Master.

If Brother and Sister Herring are sent to the interior, the Shanghai Mission will be left with only three foreign workers, Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Tatum and myself. Pray the Lord to send us some workers to be associated with us here. Mrs. Yates' health has been good and she has been very active and very helpful. She is feeble since summer has come, and will be obliged to leave us for a cooler climate for two or three months.

By the last mail came the BIBLICAL RECORDER containing a reprint of an essay read some years ago before the Shanghai Missionary Conference by Dr. M. T. Yates on "Native Agency." Of him it may truly be said: He still speaks. His warnings are timely. They cause me to think seriously of the character of the work we are doing here now. Are we using foreign money to employ pastors and evangelists with little or no regard to the office of the Holy Spirit in the matter? Are we putting the heathen under obligation to us by our good treatment of them in boarding schools, &c., and then catechising them into the church—having a name to live, but are dead? No; I am sure we are not. Mrs. Yates and Mrs. Tatum have their day-schools. Mrs. Tatum meets women and children in the women's chapel twice a week. These are not supported by the Board. The Bible with its gospel truths are constantly taught with the prayer that the obligation to believe these truths may come from the spirit of God.

My work is the study of the language and preaching, preaching, preaching. I distribute (by selling, not by giving away, except in rare cases,) gospels and christian tracts.

We have a church of about eighty members, one native pastor and two deacons. This native pastor is paid a salary of seven dollars per month by the native church. This pastor and I preach alternate Sundays to the church. We have Sunday-school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Ours is an evergreen Sunday-school. Is yours of this kind, brethren? Besides the Deacon Wong spoken of above, we have a young Deacon Wong, who, by the way, is our Sunday-school superintendent. He, too, preaches at his own charges.

The church here buys the Sunday-school papers, pays its sexton and sends a collection of more than one dollar monthly to a poor widow who lives in Quin Sau, some fifty miles from Shanghai. One widow, a sister in our church, is employed by Mrs. Yates as a day-school teacher. In the face of these facts, I do not see how the Shanghai mission could be regarded as getting a following for the loaves and fishes. We labor and pray to the end that such as are saved may be added to the church.

Closely allied to the subject of using money to employ natives comes the question of how much we shall accept for ourselves. For two and a half years we have accepted four hundred dollars each. I promised you I would tell you if I found that insufficient. Circumstances have changed some. We have two children now. Alice Joy of 1890, Eva Rich of 1892. Sometimes I think it might be better for the work and all concerned for us to accept one hundred dollars more per year. For example: I doubt the wisdom of missionary wives sitting down to sew day after day where Chinese tailors may be employed so cheaply. In the meantime we try eight hundred for another year. We are allowed one hundred dollars extra per year for the support of each child. Should the question concerning the wisdom of accepting more grow into a conviction, if left to myself, I shall act upon it.

My fraternal greeting to all—the children not excepted—who are watching and working for the coming of the Master's kingdom. We have reason to expect to see great things done in China in the near future if God's children are faithful. May the good Lord enlarge our desires, increase our faith and quicken our zeal as we remember that in this work may be applied the principle of the injunction, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." "He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully." We have the key to a bountiful harvest. The Lord bless us, and help us to be faithful to the end.

Yours fraternally, E. F. TATUM.
Shanghai, China, July 12, 1892.

Orthodoxy or Heterodoxy—Which?

Dear Recorder:—The pastor of a certain Baptist church was away on account of sickness. During his absence, his church was supplied by a young man who had not been ordained to the ministry. While the pastor was away, the regular time for the celebration of the Lord's Supper came on, and the deacons made their preparations, went to the church, and with the young man who had been preaching for them, celebrated the Lord's Supper in the absence of their pastor, without any ordained minister. The man who preached for the church in the pastor's absence is a member of the church. He officiated with the deacons in the celebration of the Supper.

Now, will Revs. Dr. J. D. Hufham, Dr. T. H. Pritchard, John T. Albritton, C. A. Woodson and J. J. Lansdell tell us whether this church was orthodox in its practice or not?

Brethren, will you please answer the following questions through the RECORDER, by Dr. Bailey's permission?

1. Did this church act inconsistently with Scriptural teaching?
2. Is such action in a church contrary to Baptist usage?
3. Has a church the right to ask any one in whom it may have confidence, and whom it may choose to officiate in the celebration of the ordinances?

The above mentioned church has no desire to depart from Bible teaching. Nor from Baptist usage. It only wants to know the truth with reference to the matters mentioned above that it may act accordingly.

Will the brethren whose names appear in this article tell us through the RECORDER what they think about the matter? Speak out, brethren, please.

Fraternally, R. D. CARROLL.

Centennial Notice.

The Baptist churches of Louisville will entertain, during the Centennial Missionary Meeting which convenes in the Walnut Street Church October 2d, 1892, appointed speakers, officers and Boards of the Convention, State Boards, State Centennial Committees, returned and appointed missionaries.

Persons of the above classes who expect to attend will please notify at once M. D. Jeffries, 612 Gray St., Louisville, Ky., that they may be assigned homes.

Railroad rates will be full fare going, one-third returning on certificate. Hotel rates per day have been secured as follows:—

Galt House, $3.00; Louisville Hotel, $3.00; Willard, $2.00; Hotel Kentucky, $2 00; Fifth Avenue, $1.75; Southern, $1.00; Planters, $1.00; Metcalf House, $1.00; Sennings, $1.50; Waverly, $1.50; Bellevue, $1.25. Boarding houses from $1.00 to $1.50 per day.

J. W. WARDER,
J. G. BOW,
M. D. JEFFRIES,
Committee.

No person should travel without a box of Ayer's pills. As a safe and speedy remedy for constipation and all irregularities of the stomach and bowels, they have no equal, and, being skillfully sugar-coated, are pleasant to take, and long retain their virtues.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

September

King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22–24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22–24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29–Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29–Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4–6.
Tar River—Louisburg, Oct 4–7.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6–8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6–8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6–8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6–8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11–13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12–14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13–15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13–15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13–15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18–20.
South River-Autryville, Oct 19–21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20–22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20–22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20–22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25–27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27–29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27–29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1–3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3–5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3–5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4–5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Travellers' Outfits,

BLAZER SUITS,

—AND OTHER—

Travelling Requisites.

WE HAVE MADE UNUSUAL PREPARATIONS for those who will leave home this summer, providing materials and wares suited for travellers at home or abroad, visiting the sea shore or mountains.

Blazer Suits.

Blazer Suits, Shirt and Blazer, in Serge, Flannel and Cravenette, invaluable as a travelling dress.

Shirt Waists.

Shirt Waists in Percals, Cotton Corduroy, Batiste, Wash Silk, Surah and India Silk.

Dress Materials

For Evening and General Wear.

Trunks, Bags, Grips & Canvas Telescopes.

Water-proof Over-Garments, Walking Shoes, Riding Gloves, &c.

Cash with the order, of $5 and over, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery) to the nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL

—AND—

BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 23, 1892. Write for catalogue to

L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1892.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 58 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 43 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.

Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.

Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 3:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.

Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 3:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.

JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

Dated May 31, 1892.

GOING SOUTH.	No 23. Daily.	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41. Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 30 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 20 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

GOING NORTH.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	2 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		‡9 0 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡3 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4.00 p m, Halifax 4 22 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.52 p m Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.10 a m, Greenville 8.25 a m. Arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.25 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives A & R Junction 8.40 a m; returning leaves A & R Junction 7.10 p m, arrives Washington 8.45 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.03 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m, 5.20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.00 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.30 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 10 40 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7.35 p m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 5.15 p m, arrives Nashville 5.55 p m, Spring Hope 6.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.30 p m, and 11.15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 08 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m	*7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 00 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*3 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	*12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	†8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leaves Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sundays arrive Oxford 11.15 a m, and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D C. Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect September 10, 1892.

No. 50 Daily No 1.	MAIN LINE.			No. 50 Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 22 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
6 35 p m	Arrive	Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
4 55 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 05 a m
4 00 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	9 50 a m

No 17				No 18
9 10 a m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	3 55 p m
7 55 a m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	5 13 p m
7 10 a m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	6 05 p m

Train No 3 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. H. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

The Need of United Prayer for the Success of the Centennial Movement.

Let it be constantly borne in upon all interested in this Centennial of modern missions, that the end sought is the glory of God. Success depends, therefore, upon the blessing of God. Think of what is proposed. It is thus proposed to more than double the work of our two Missionary Boards. It is hoped to interest, to a greater extent than ever before our Associations, churches, religious papers, the brethren, the women and youth of our churches, the children of homes and Sunday-schools, in mission work at home and abroad. How can this be done apart from the special blessing of God.

The need of prayer must be acknowledged by all, but the need of a season of united prayer, so far as possible by all our people, may not seem so obvious to all. It was the united prayer of the disciples at Pentecost that brought in the "Promise of the Father." Great movements in the past that have concerned Christ's kingdom have been the subject not only of individual prayer, but objects of which the united petitions of the church universal have sought the Divine blessing.

Assuming, therefore, the need of such a union of God's people in prayer for his blessing upon our Centennial movement, (1) because it is God's work, (2) because without his blessing we cannot succeed.

The Centennial Committee have decided to ask our churches to observe the first week in October, and especially the first Sabbath in October as a time of special, earnest, united prayer for God's gracious blessing upon the efforts now employed to lead forth our people to a fuller dedication of themselves, and a larger consecration of their means to the great work of the churches of Christ—the evangelization of the nations. Let this urgency of Divine help move our pastors to press this great need upon their people. Let our churches everywhere set apart the first Sabbath, and the succeeding days of that week of October, to believing prayer to the God of missions for a great blessing upon our Centennial movement. Let this prayer find a welcome place in the petitions of our family altars and in our closets. We may not meet as churches on this Sabbath in many places throughout the South—then as soon after as possible let the assembled church earnestly pray for God's blessing on this great work in which our people are so deeply concerned. Brethren, God's Spirit can move the hearts of our people as they have never been moved before. He can incline them to give to the cause of missions as they have never given. He can touch the hearts of children and youth, of parents and teachers upon the "Children's Centennial Sunday" as they have never been touched before. Let us believe this, and in his faith beseech him to thus graciously manifest his blessing and power.

F. M. Ellis,
In behalf of Centennial Committee.

Office of York Enterprise,
Yorkville, S. C., Aug. 14, '91.

Atlantic Electropoise,
222 King St., Charleston, S. C.

Gentlemen:—For the past five years my wife has been a sufferer from dyspepsia. So completely did the disease make a wreck of her former self that life was almost despaired of. Her nervous system was almost entirely destroyed, and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for an hour. Medical skill failed to bring any relief.

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine, we were induced to try the Electropoise. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its almost normal condition; her digestion is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful curative powers of the Electropoise, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electropoise, and its wonderful powers will quickly dispel all doubts.

Yours truly, W. M. Propst.

A fifty-page book containing information and testimonials, free, on application.

Atlantic Electropoise Co.,
1405 New York Avenue,
Washington, D. C.

Why Should the Board Fuss about the New Plan of Missions?

Why should the Board make such a fuss about the new plan of missions? And about Bro. Herring and others that are on that side? The Sanhedrin commanded that the Apostles preach no more in the name of Jesus Christ. And when the Sanhedrin threatened their lives because they did not obey their command, Gamaliel, a Pharisee, arose and said unto them, "Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men." Acts 5: 35. "And now I say unto you, refrain from these men, and leave them alone; for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought: but if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God." Acts 5: 38, 39.

Now, opposing brothers, would it not be better for you to act toward this new plan of missions as Gamaliel advised the Sanhedrin to act towards the Apostles? Don't be uneasy about this work, and I pray you don't abuse it any more, for if it is of men, it will come to nought, and if it is of God, who can overthrow it?

Think of the sin that will rest upon you for fighting again God! My humble prayer is, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge.

Lucy.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will favor the publisher, as well as the advertiser, by stating that you saw the advertisement in the Biblical Recorder.

Just as you now play a piece without the music and do not think what notes you strike, though once you picked them out by slow and patient toil, so if you begin of slow and set purpose, you will learn the law of kindness in utterance so perfectly that it will be second nature to you, and make more music in your life than all the songs the sweetest voice has ever sung.—Frances E. Willard.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Briggs, Raleigh, N. C.

Important.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for September:—Africa.

And he (the Ethiopian) said: "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Missionaries, 11; native assistants, 6; stations, 6; churches, 4; membership, 111; baptisms, 31; schools, 3; scholars, 124.

Study Topics.—One nation's share in the rum curse of Africa. Duty of American christians in evangelizing Africa. Obstacles an incentive, not an excuse, for missionary effort. The Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

West Africa.

From a recent letter in the Foreign Mission Journal from Rev. C. C. Newton, missionary at Lagos, West Africa, we gather information that should drive us to earnest prayer. The tribal wars are blockading roads, keeping supplies and money from brethren Lumbley, Pennock and Smith, who are at Abbeokuta and Ogbomishaw.

The need of more money and more missionaries has been reiterated until it has almost lost its meaning to some of us; but if we make it a subject of prayer, the Holy Spirit will bring its importance anew to our remembrance, and we can earnestly plead with our God to send men and money to spread the news of his salvation. But some one has reminded us that prayer is a costly experiment, and none can really pray and not give. "Thy kingdom come" means much when prayed in the right spirit.

The Arabs are found mostly in Egypt, but are scattered through North and Central Africa. The Zulus in South Africa. They are well built and fine looking. The Kabyles are dwellers in Algiers and Tunis, light in color and intelligent as well as industrious. The Kaffirs occupy the greater portion of South Africa and are agricultural. The Berbers are found in Morocco, Tunis and Tripoli. Hottentots are found in South Africa. In disposition they are mild and timid. The Moors of Morocco are handsome and intellectual, but often cruel and revengeful. The Abyssinians are a fine, strong race of a copper color. Copts of Egypt are considered to be the descendants of the ancient Egyptians. In complexion they are darker than the Arabs. The Fellaheen of Egypt are the laboring classes of the country. The Nubians are slim and well made and are a roving people.

There are 591 languages and dialects in Africa. But it is estimated that less than one hundred translations of the Scripture will meet all the needs of the people. Of this number sixty-six translations have already been made.

The Morning Light is Breaking.

A CENTENNIAL MISSIONARY EXERCISE.

[We often pray and sing of the morning light, yet fail to learn how fast its bright beams are driving away the darkness of the heathen world. It is to tell of this, that the following exercise has been prepared.]

SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION.

"The morning light is breaking,
The darkness disappears;
The sons of God are waking
To penitential tears.
Each breeze that sweeps the ocean
Brings tidings from afar,
Of nations in commotion,
Prepared for Zion's war."

RECITATION.

The morning light is breaking,
And we our song of praise
To Thee, the nations waking
With joyous hearts would raise.
While, hark! from every nation
Eight hundred thousand strong,
Joining our acclamation,
The grateful praise prolong.

CONGREGATION.

"Rich dews of grace come o'er us
In many a gentle shower;
And brighter scenes before us
Are opening every hour.
Each cry to heaven going
Abundant answer brings;
And heavenly gales are blowing
With peace upon their wings."

RECITATION.

Rich dews of grace refreshing
Pacific's thousand isles;
Samoa's thirty thousand
With new found blessing smiles.
From Madagascar's darkness,
From martyr's blood and shame,
Another sixty thousand
Their dauntless love proclaim.

CONGREGATION.

"See heathen nations bending
Before the God we love,
A thousand hearts ascending
In gratitude and love.
While sinners now confessing
The gospel call obey,
And seek the Saviour's blessing,
A nation in a day."

RECITATION.

See heathen nations bowing
No more to gods of stone;
In China forty thousand
Bow to our God alone.
Japan, from tottering idols,
To Jesus turns away,
And thirty thousand bending
Own Christ's most gracious sway.

CONGREGATION.

"Blest river of salvation,
Pursue thy onward way;
Flow thou to every nation,
Nor in thy richness stay.
Stay not till all the lowly,
Triumphant reach their home,
Stay not till all the holy Proclaim, 'The Lord is come.'"

RECITATION.

Blest river for the healing
Of these dark nation's sins,
Mid India's many millions,
A hundred thousand wins;
And Afric's lands of darkness
Have felt thy healing wave;
Ten thousand poor and lowly
Proclaim thy power to save.

On flow our hearts with praises,
Jehovah, God and King,
Let every Christian nation
Their grateful tribute bring.
The Lord of victory hastens!
A century proclaimed
To every heathen nation
The Saviour Christ is named.

F. E. H.

A list of the cargoes of vessels on their way from the United States and Europe to Africa which stopped at Madeira in one week has been published. It is enough to make one wonder the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah does not come upon us. Observe, this is the record for one single week: 960,000 cases of gin; 24,000 butts of rum; 80,000 cases of brandy; 28,000 cases of Irish whisky; 800,000 demijohns of rum; 26,000 barrels of rum; 30,000 cases of old Tom; 15,000 barrels of absinthe; 47,000 cases of vermuth. It will surely be more tolerable for Sodom in the day of judgment than for nations which allow their people thus in cold blood to destroy their weaker brethren in order that they may make money.

The Native Missionary Society in the province of Imerina, Madagascar, has raised $15,000 during the past ten years, and sent out twenty-three agents. And this is followed by a revival in Antananarivo, the capital city. "He that watereth shall himself be watered."

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

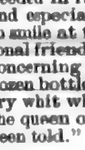
BABY'S BLOOD AND SKIN

Cleansed and purified of every humor, eruption, and disease by the celebrated

CUTICURA REMEDIES

These great skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies afford immediate relief in the most torturing of Itching and Burning Eczemas and other itching, scaly, crusted, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because most speedy) cure when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Thousands of grateful testimonials attest their wonderful, unfailing, and incomparable efficacy. Sold everywhere. Potter Drug and Chem. Corp., Boston. "All About the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by Cuticura Soap. Absolutely pure.



HOW MY SIDE ACHES! Aching Sides and Back, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains, and Rheumatism relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing, strengthening plaster.

North Carolina Sends Greetings to Georgia.

What one of her Most Prominent Citizens Writes About one of Georgia's Great Remedies.

To the Public:—After several months' use of King's Royal Germetuer, I must pronounce it in many respects the most marvelous medicine I have ever seen or known for the multitude of its remedial virtues.

First, drawing upon experience, I know that it will cure catarrh. I succeeded the Rev. Dr. Hawthorne as the pastor of a Baltimore church just twenty-one years ago. Removal to a colder and more changeable climate, with want of care in protecting myself, brought on an attack of catarrh that has continued with me ever since until I commenced taking Royal Germetuer some months ago, from the use of which I am now quite entirely well.

2. It is, as claimed, really a positive cure for stomach troubles, such as indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, etc. This I know from experience.

3. I have never found a better nerve tonic and general invigorator. It gives healthful and refreshing sleep, and as a cure for insomnia ought by all means to take the place of the bromides, chloral and other deleterious if not dangerous drugs. It is a fine tonic for public speakers, taken both before and after speaking, as I know from experience, and no other tonic or stimulant is needed in rallying from the exhaustion of public and especially outdoor speaking. In fine, I used to smile at the enthusiastic testimonials of my personal friends, Rev. Drs. Hawthorne and Henson, concerning Royal Germetuer, but having used a dozen bottles of it, and been made well nigh "every whit whole," I can but adopt the language of the queen of Sheba and say: "The half has never been told." Very respectfully,

G. W. Sanderlin,
State Auditor North Carolina.

We are endorsed by thousands of our best known people, and are authorized in saying that Germetuer will permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Bowel and Liver Trouble, Female Diseases, Catarrh, Asthma, Bladder and Kidney diseases. Skin diseases, such as Scrofula, Eczema, etc., Paralysis, Epilepsy, Erysipelas, Insomnia, and General Debility.

You will find King's Royal Germetuer for sale by all druggists. Price One Dollar per bottle.

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Crozer Theological Seminary

UPLAND, PA.

(P. O. address, Chester, Pa.)

A complete and thorough course of instruction; furnished rooms; convenient and satisfactory arrangements for board; excellent library.

Next session begins Wednesday, Sept 28th, 1892. For catalogue and further information, address

REV. HENRY G. WESTON, D. D., LL. D.,
Chester, Pa.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.

JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.

Please mention this paper.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST
Theological Seminary,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 236, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY
OF MUSIC,
Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjée. Carl Faelten, Director.

Music, Elocution, Fine Arts, Literature, Languages and Tuning. A safe and inviting Home for lady pupils. Send for Illustrated Calendar.

FRANK W. HALE, Gen'l Manager, Boston, Mass.

The Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co.
Cincinnati, Ohio.
Sole Makers of the Blymyer Bells
For Church, School, Fire Alarm &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms free.
Please mention this paper.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. James H. Lassiter.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. Missillier.

March 6, 1891.
For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. Dowtin.

Henderson, N. C., March 7, '91.
Mr. W. T. Cheatham:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
Zack Davis.

Mr. W. T. Cheatham, Jr.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. Mitchell.

January 19, 1891.
W. T. Cheatham, Jr.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
Charles G. Burroughs.

Henderson, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.
Mr. W. T. Cheatham, Jr.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. Green.

Mr. W. T. Cheatham, Jr., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. Kelly.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
Henderson, N. C.

IRON FENCE
ORNAMENTAL
CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. ROSE MFG. CO.

October 2d, 1792.

October 21, 1792, was the day on which the first collection for the conversion of the heathen was made.

In the house of Mrs. Wallis, in Kettering, England, there was a meeting of twelve men, who that night made an offering of 13£ 12s, and 6d, about $65.00 in our money, for the world's conversion. Among these men were William Carey, Andrew Fuller and Dr. Ryland. They organized then and there the first society for preaching the gospel among the heathen, and William Carey became their first missionary. Since that time the christian world has been awakened to this great work, and thousands of godly men and women have gone into heathen lands to preach the gospel. And hundreds of thousands of those born in countries where the name of Jesus was not known, have become children of God. This work of giving the gospel to all people is the greatest work in which men and women ever engaged, and God has abundantly blessed them in it.

OCTOBER 2d, 1892,

will be just one hundred years since the first collection was made. The 2d of October comes on Sunday, and it is a good time to take another collection for this work. The first contribution was made by twelve men, but in this one, taken just one hundred years after, the twelve hundred thousand christians of the Southern Baptist Convention should join. What a glorious thing it would be if this could be done—then twelve men, and now twelve hundred thousand—a hundred thousand now for one in 1792. But we cannot hope for this. All cannot be induced to join in this offering, but let all who can unite and make an offering to God on Sunday, October 2d, just one hundred years after the first offering was made.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

are especially desired to make this day the day in which they will make a liberal offering to God for this work. How many Sunday schools could give a sum equal to that given by the twelve men who made the first contribution? If thirteen individuals or classes would raise each five dollars, that would make just that amount. How many Sunday-schools will do it?

CHILDREN'S DAY.

It is proposed to have as many as possible of our Sunday schools devote this day to thinking, and talking and praying about mission work, and to make their offering to the Lord. Let every Superintendent who is willing to help in this cause send to the Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, 9 West Lexington St, Baltimore, Md., and he will receive in return Centennial programs and other literature that will aid him in this matter. Drop a postal card there, telling how many teachers and pupils you have in your school, and you will secure a prompt response that will gladden your eyes and your heart.

I. T. TICHENOR,
For Centennial Committee.

If you are not able to make arrangements to observe Sunday, October 2d as Centennial Children's Day, do not hesitate to appoint the nearest suitable time, sending for the programs, etc., as above.

Meeting at Dawson's.

Dear Recorder:—Our pastor, Rev. W. S. Ballard, with the assistance of Rev. R. T. Vann, has just closed one of the best meetings we have ever had since our church was organized about twelve years ago. Fourteen were baptized, two restored, and the church greatly revived. We feel that the blessings will continue.

Rev. Mr. Ballard is one of the most godly, consecrated men I have ever known—full of zeal, seasoned by tenderness, love and gentle kindness. His sermons rarely ever fail to reach the heart. Oh, for a world full of such men of God! And how we love him! And Bro. Vann—well, he is simply a power, close, logical, cogent in reason, chaste, elegant and clear in diction, with only an occasional flight of oratory, but always eloquent.

We had a good team, and through their instrumentality God has greatly blessed us at Dawson's. God be praised.

O. C. STALLINGS.

Dawson's X Roads, Sept. 8, 1892.

OFFICE OF MERCHANT MILLS,
Jas. D. McNeill Prop.,
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 16th, 1892.

My Dear Sir:—I gladly give you my opinion of the Electropoise. I consider it Sciences' best gift to man. It has been of such wonderful benefit to me that I feel as if I could not say too much in its favor. A very severe attack of Grippe in the winter of 1890, left me with a shattered nervous system and almost no digestive powers at all, and for eighteen months, people in Hades had as much fun and as good a time as I did. I tried Allopathic, Homœopathic and "jam of the fence" remedies all to no good. The Electropoise has made me almost myself again and I believe will eventually make me a better man. It has been used on every member of my household of seven children from the youngest, up to their mother (who is also a convert) with marked beneficial results; so much so, that I have not paid one penny for drugs since it entered my house, the first of last March. I have recommended it to many who have taken my advice and I have never known of any one to regret having done so. It is the most economical physician on earth, I would not be without one under any circumstances.

Yours truly,
JAS. D. MCNEILL.

A fifty-page book containing information and testimonials, free, on application.
ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO.,
1405 New York Avenue,
Washington, D. C.

Meetings.

OLIVE BRANCH, MT. ZION ASSOCIATION

We began a series of meetings at Olive Branch church on the third Sunday in July and continued until Friday following. The meeting resulted in a glorious revival in the hearts of God's people, and also in eight accessions to the church. Some who were backslidden were made to rejoice and take up their cross.

MT. CARMEL, MT. ZION ASSOCIATION.

The meeting at Mt. Carmel was a success. The christians seemed much revived and strengthened. Seventeen united with the church, including three restored. The meeting began on the first Sunday in August and closed the second.

EMMAUS, SANDY CREEK ASSOCIATION.

The meeting began at Emmaus the fourth Sunday in August and closed the first Sunday in September. Over twenty professed faith in Christ. Nineteen were added to the church. Christians worked earnestly, and consequently greatly rejoiced. I think I can safely say that in this church is a set of the most zealous young workers I know. Rev. C. V. Brooks of Wake Forest College was with us and did good work. He is small of stature but large hearted. He will not soon be forgotten by the people around Emmaus.

OLIVE'S CHAPEL AND SWEPSONVILLE.

It was my pleasure to be in a glorious meeting with Rev. J. W. Millard at Olive's Chapel, Mt. Zion Association. Rev. J. C. Wilson, who is pastor there, was sick during the meeting, and was not with us after Monday. At this place some twenty or twenty-five professed faith in Christ, and sixteen joined the church.

I was also in a good meeting with Rev. O. T. Edwards at Swepsonville.

I have been greatly rejoiced as I have seen the lost coming home to God and am much encouraged in the Master's great and glorious work.

God be praised for his unspeakable love—to him be all the glory forever.

W. A. SMITH

Sept. 12, 1892.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters Rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

Catawba County Fair, Newton, N. C.

For above occasion, the Richmond & Danville Railroad will sell tickets and return to Newton, N. C., from Sept. 26 to 30th inclusive—good to Oct. 1, 1892, at following rates from points named:

From Charlotte, $1 40; Greensboro, 2 00; Marion, 1 10; Asheville, 1.90; Durham, 3 20; Raleigh, 3 60; Winston-Salem, 2 60.

Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

A Minister Excluded.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—As the undersigned were appointed a committee to publish a brief statement of the proceedings of Gold Hill Baptist church, Rowan county, N. C., in the exclusion of Rev. J. C. Denny, please allow space in the RECORDER for the following:

Certain rumors were circulated against his moral character as to truth, which the church, feeling it a duty, decided to investigate. Therefore, an investigation committee was appointed, and Rev. J. C. Denny was notified to meet with the church and answer such charges as might be preferred against him. He refused to meet the church, which he had not favored with his presence for years. Although he had never belonged to any other Baptist church and had regularly represented this church in the sessions of the Stanly Association and in Union meetings, he denied being a member of this church, and said this church had no right to discipline him. Though he would not meet the church, he wrote to the church an abrupt letter in which he cast several gross insinuations upon the church and pastor, Rev. W. G. Morton.

The evidence was at hand to substantiate the report against him, the church unanimously excluded him on a charge for contempt.

Done in regular conference on September 10, 1892.

L. D. MCCARNES,
J. M. CROSS,
Committee.

Roanoke Union.

This body will meet with the church at Mildred, Oct. 28—30, 1892.

Friday, 11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. C. W. Cooper.

2 p. m.—The Deacon and his Duties. J. D. Hufham, J. R. Pace.

3 p. m.—Covetousness in the Churches—Its Cause, Curse and Cure. G. J. Dowell, W. S. Ballard.

4 p. m.—The Influence of Literature upon Morals. R. T. Vann, J. E. White.

8 p. m.—Sermon by A. D. Hunter.

Saturday, 9:30 a. m.—Prayer and praise.

10 a. m.—Intemperate Church Members, and How to Deal with Them. J. H. Johnson, E. E. Hilliard.

11 a. m.—Our Orphanage and Its Needs. J. D. Hufham, G. L. Parker.

2 p. m.—Our College and Its Relation to the Rising Ministry. R. T. Vann, Q. C. Davis.

3 p. m.—The Relation of our Boards of Missions to our Churches. J. D. Hufham, A. D. Hunter.

8 p. m.—Sermon by Q. C. Davis.

Sunday 9:30 a. m.—Mass-meeting addressed by the brethren.

11 a. m.—Sermon by R. T. Vann.

8 p. m.—Sermon by J. E. White.

J. W. POWELL.

Flint Hill Church.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—This church is in Moore county, about ten miles northwest of Carthage. I have just closed a meeting of eight days with this church. The meeting was one of much spiritual good to the church and in the salvation of sinners. Twenty-one made a profession of faith in Christ, and fifteen joined the church and were baptized by Rev. K. C. Horner. Nearly half of the professions were made by heads of families, and the rest were grown young ladies and gentlemen. The congregations were large every day of the meeting, and the members of other churches took part in it, and aided much in the work. The meeting was one of great influence for good, and I believe others will join the church who received impression in the meeting.

Rev. K. C. Horner is a member of this church and did some good preaching, though it was to his own father, mother, sisters, brothers, and those with whom he grew up to manhood. The sermons he preached had their influence for good.

I am now at Candor, Montgomery county, and Bro. Horner is with me. He preached a good sermon to night. Will let you hear from me when this meeting is over. God be praised for his blessings.

W. A. BARRETT.

Candor, Sept. 5, 1892.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—W M S, Lilesville ch, Anson, $1.00; Ditto, Inwood ch, Raleigh, 2.00; Siler City ch, Sandy Creek, 2.37; W M S, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, 1.50; Smyrna ch, 1.94. Total, 8.81. Previously reported, 4,065.25. Total this year, 4,074.06.

Foreign Missions—W M S, Lilesville ch, Anson, $2.50; Ditto, Inwood ch, Raleigh, 2.00; Ditto, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, 3.00; Potecasi ch, 33.00; Lenoir ch, Caldwell, (for G. W. Greene), 17.20; Concord ch, 1.78; Sunbeams, First ch, Central, 3.97; W M S, First ch, Durham, 45.00; Smyrna ch, 1.80. Total, 110.25. Previously reported, 5,974.18. Total this year, 6,085.43.

Home Missions—W M S, Lilesville ch, Anson, $1 00; Ditto, Inwood ch, Raleigh, 1.00; Ditto, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, 1.50; Lenoir ch, Caldwell, 6.00; Smyrna ch, 1.73. Total, 11.23. Previously reported, 2,245.73. Total this year, 2,256.96.

Orphanage—Reboboth ch, $1 94; Columbia ch, N. C, 4.00; Pine Forest ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Mt Carmel ch, Mt Zion, 1.75; Poplar Springs ch, Tar River, 5.27. Total, 22.96. Previously reported, 908.60. Total this year, 931.56.

Education—Jonesboro ch, Sandy Creek, 76c; Albemarle ch, 1.00; Lenoir ch, Caldwell, 11.50. Total, 13.26. Previously reported, 1,853.10. Total this year, 1,866.36.

Ministerial Relief Fund—W M S, Inwood ch, Raleigh, $2.00; Smyrna ch, 5.00. Total, 7 00. Previously reported, 245.67. Total this year, 252.67.

Centennial Fund (Home Missions)—Smyrna ch, $2.00.

Colportage—Smyrna ch, 53c.

CORRECTIONS: In last RECORDER, the sums $124.55 each for State and Foreign Missions from Mt Zion ch, should be Mt Zion, Flat River, interest on Slaughter Fund. Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, for Orphanage, $20.00, should be $10.00. $1.40 for State Missions, Mt. Tabor ch, West Chowan, was entered twice, once in error.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Sept. 17, 1892.

FOR SCROFULA
scrofulous humor in the blood, ulcers, catarrh, and consumption, use
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
The most economical, safe, speedy, and effective of all blood-purifiers.
Has Cured Others
will cure you.

Asthma The African Kola Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, is Nature's Sure Cure for Asthma. Cures Guaranteed or No Pay. Export Office, 1164 Broadway, New York. For Large Trial Case, FREE by Mail, address KOLA IMPORTING CO., 132 Vine St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Virginia Grey Winter Oats.
(Also called Turf or Grazing Oats.)
The best Oat for the Southern and Middle States. Hardy, standing the winter nearly as well as Wheat. Yields on good land, from 50 to 70 bushels to the acre, of fine heavy grain, weighing from 35 to 40 lbs. to the measured bushel. Furnishes excellent fall, winter and early spring grazing without injnry to the grain crop.
Price, 65 cts. per bushel. In 10 bushel lots and over, 60 cts. per bushel. Bags included. Fall Catalogue, giving full information, mailed free.
T. W. Wood & Sons,
SEEDSMEN,
8 & 10 S. 14th St., Richmond, Va.
We carry one of the largest and best stocks of GRASS, CLOVER and FIELD SEEDS in this country. Prices quoted and samples mailed on application.

LABOR AND CAPITAL AGREE that there is five times as much solid enjoyment in smoking five
OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS
as there is in one ten-cent cigar, and they cost the same.
If You Don't Believe It, TRY THEM. 12

Sunday-school Periodicals
For Fourth Quarter.

PERIODICALS AND PRICES.
In clubs for one year each as follows: Convention Teacher, 50c.; Kind Words, Weekly, 50c.; Semi-monthly, 25c.; Monthly, 16c.; Child's Gem, 25c.; Lesson Leaflets, 10c. Per quarter each as follows: Quarterlies, Advanced, 3c; Intermediate, 2½c; Primary, 2½c; Picture Lesson Cards, 4c; Bible Lesson Picture, size 28x18 inches, $1.25.

THE BROADUS CATECHISM.
A Catechism of Bible Teaching by Rev. John A. Broadus, D. D., just published by the Sunday-school Board, under order of the Southern Baptist Convention. Price, 5c. sing'e copy or in quantities. This will be the leading catechism in the Sunday-school and in the home circle.

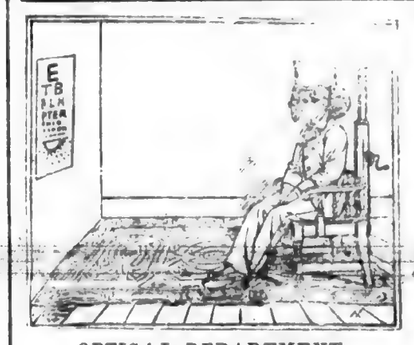
In Getting Your Sunday-school Supplies
From the Sunday-school Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Nashville, besides making a direct contribution to its treasury, you put your school in touch and co-operation with the Convention, and train the children in all its great missionary enterprises.

Instructions for Ordering.
Make all orders definite. Give your name, postoffice and State. Samples sent when requested. Don't send stamps if you can avoid it. Make all orders payable to
BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOARD, Nashville, Tenn.
J. M. FROST, Cor. Sec'y.

TOBACCO HABIT
For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free by mail. Address THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.
HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days.
EASILY CURED

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS
I. B. SEELEY & CO.
WARRANTED.
SEELEY'S HARD-RUBBER TRUSSES
Will retain the most difficult forms of HERNIA or RUPTURE with comfort and safety, thereby completing a radical cure of all curable cases. Impervious to moisture, may be used in bathing; and fitting perfectly to the form of body, are worn without inconvenience by the youngest child, most delicate lady, or the laboring man, avoiding all scour, sweaty, padded appliances, being Light, Cool, Cleanly, and always reliable. The correct and skillful mechanical treatment of HERNIA OR RUPTURE A SPECIALTY, EITHER IN PERSON OR BY MAIL.
25 YEARS REFERENCES:—Profs. S. D. Gross, D. Hayes Agnew, Willard Parker, W. H. Pancoast, Dr. Thomas G. Morton, and Surgeon-Generals of the U. S. Army and Navy. Our "Mechanical Treatment of Hernia or Rupture and Price List," with illustrations and directions for self-measurement, mailed on application. I. B. SEELEY & CO., 23 South 11th Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.



OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.
EDWARD FASNACH,
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN,
RALEIGH, N. C.
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, Jewelry, —AND— Sterling Silverware.
Optical Goods.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,
RICHMOND.
The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.
For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN,
Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

Southwest Virginia Institute
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
GLADE SPRING, VIRGINIA.
"The Highest and Broadest Culture at Lowest Cost." Eighteen officers and teachers unexcelled. Health record unsurpassed. Home comforts. Good fare. Ten Schools, 190 boarders. Low prices. Ninth session opens 15th September, 1892. If you would see how replete this institution is, write for catalogue to REV. J. R. HARRISON or
S. D. JONES, Principal.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge; no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3290, New York City, N. Y.

DOUBLE Breech-Loader $7.50. RIFLES $2.00 WATCHES
GUNS
BICYCLES $15 All kinds cheaper than elsewhere. Before you buy, send Stamp for catalogue to THE POWELL & CLEMENT CO. 124 Main St., Cincinnati, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin School and Church
BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.
BELLS
Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & Co., Hillsboro, O.

Southern Business College, Asheville, N. C.

This institution is open all the year around for both ladies and gentlemen. Its students are graduated in the full Business and Shorthand courses, including Book-keeping, Practical Business, Banking, Wholesaling, Commission, Business Law, Business Forms, Business Arithmetic, English, Correspondence, Spelling, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typewriting, Political Economy, Civil Government, Literary Society work and Parliamentary Law. It has a full corps of thoroughly experienced Business College teachers and a course as modern and comprehensive as any institution to be found, including lectures upon various practical subjects by distinguished gentlemen. It has large elegant apartments, new modern furniture, Bank, Wholesale, Commission and Exchange offices and is fully equipped to compete with the best institutions of the country. Asheville is a beautiful and progressive city of about 13,000 inhabitants with climate and scenery famous the world over and is said to entertain fully 100,000 visitors annually, being crowded both winter and summer.

Efforts are made to secure good positions for all worthy graduates of this institution.

Rates of tuition and board for students quite reasonable.

For further information, address,

M. M. LEMMOND, President.

If every suffering lady who reads the BIBLICAL RECORDER knew how easily and pleasantly she can be relieved she would suffer no longer. Send 2c. stamp to Mrs. Jos W. Ashby, Mt. Airy, N. C., for free sample, or $1.00 for one month's treatment sent in plain wrapper. Six months treatment for $5.00.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

It is rumored that The Progressive Farmer is soon to be sold.

The insane asylum here now has the largest number of inmates in its history. The number is 326.

Last Friday was a notable day in Raleigh's history. The occasion was the visit of Gen. Adlai E. Stephenson, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, and party. The distinguished guests were given a warm welcome. The attendance on the occasion was very large, many citizens of other counties being present. The speaking took place at the grove in front of St. Mary's school, and the procession was large and imposing. In the absence of Gov. Holt, Gen. Stephenson was introduced by Col. Thos. S. Kenan. Gen. Stephenson's speech was attentively listened to by the large crowd. Gen. Chas. Adlai Ewing of Illinois was also present and spoke.

State News.

The North Carolina W. C. T. U. met in Greensboro last week.

Goldsboro is to have a complete and uniform system of sewerage. The contract has been let.

It is said that North Carolina has double as many cotton factories as any other Southern State.

Miss Dora Powell of Greensboro, N. C., was run over and killed by a train at Poughkeepsi, N. Y., recently.

The Branning Manufacturing Company of Edenton will, it is learned, rebuild their mill which was recently destroyed by fire.

The house of Canon Smith, Farmington, N. C., was completely destroyed by fire one night recently while Mr. Smith was at church.

Mr. Albert Waller, a young white man, was killed by a falling tree while coon-hunting on Mr. Jesse Jackson's place in Lenoir county recently.

Abram Kennedy, colored, was run over and killed by a train near East Durham, Sunday, the 11th inst. He was in a drunken sleep on the track.

A blind lady, Mrs. Fentress of Durham's Creek, Beaufort county, fell accidentally from a piazza recently and sustained injuries which caused her death.

A fire recently destroyed a cotton gin, eighteen bales of cotton and a wagon, belonging to Mr. Hector McLean of Laurinburg. Loss, $2,000; no insurance.

The Treasury Department has awarded to Robert Clark of Peoria, Ill., the contract for heating and ventilating the public building at Statesville. His bid was the lowest—$6,000.

Mr. Donald McRae, Sr., a prominent and influential citizen of Wilmington, died at his summer residence in Linville, Mitchell county, last Wednesday night, aged nearly sixty-seven years.

The Easternfield Trial Club and Sporting Society of New York and Philadelphia has purchased 10,000 acres of land near Jamestown, Guilford county, and will erect at once a $100,000 club-house.

Charles Reynolds, the young white man who is condemned to be hanged in Greensboro on October 20th for the murder of Solathiel Swaim at Pleasant Garden, expresses a desire that he be hung publicly.

A Mr. Cromartie, a guard on the penitentiary farms across the Roanoke river from Halifax, was killed by a cyclone on Sept. 13th. Considerable property was destroyed in Halifax and Northampton counties.

The Lexington Dispatch learns that the Silver Valley mines are being pushed to great success. About seventy-five hands are employed, and they are mining from ten to sixteen tons of solid ore per day.

Evangelist Fife expects to commence a ten-days meeting at Weldon on Sept. 25th.

Mr. Martin Lane, of Wayne county, was accidentally killed on the tram-road of Mr. T. T. Gooding, in Craven county recently. He was working alone and it is supposed he accidentally fell in front of the truck and the wheels passed over him.

"Pegleg" Williams, the "nigger trader," has been quietly working up business in this State and South Carolina, and says that he has got 5,000 negroes enrolled and ready to be moved to Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.—Charlotte News.

Thos. H. Allison, who shot and killed W. H. Brown on the streets of Mt. Airy, Aug. 20th, was taken from the jail at Dobson, the county seat of Surry, Monday night, the 12th inst., by a band of masked men and hanged to a tree about two miles from the town.

O. M. Cawthorn of Selma, Ala., while stopping with his bride at Hickory, shot and killed Sam Tully colored, in front of the Hickory Inn, on the evening of the 10th inst. Cawthorn claimed that the negro insulted his wife. Cawthorn surrendered to the officers, but afterwards made his escape.

The Chatham Record reports the work of a destructive wind-storm in Baldwin township, Chatham county, on the night of Sept. 13th. The Haw river bridge at Pace's mill was blown from its brick tiers and the mill unroofed. Many buildings were destroyed and trees blown down. A schoolhouse was blown to pieces near Mr. John Mann's.

The Wilmington Messenger of the 18th contains an account of a rattlesnake plague in Shallotte township, Brunswick county, about fifty-five miles from Wilmington. Within the past sixty days three negroes and one white woman have been bitten and killed by these venemous reptiles. Numbers of horses, cattle and dogs have also been killed by these snakes. The reptiles are of very great size. The Messenger says that the facts stated above are vouched for as true.

General News.

A half million dollar fire occurred at Albany, N. Y., on Monday of last week.

Ex-Gov. Thos. H. Watts of Alabama died at his home in Montgomery on the 16th inst., of heart failure.

Three persons were burned to death in a Montreal, Quebec, hotel, on the 12th inst. Loss on hotel $10,000.

The wife of President Harrison is very ill at Loon Lake, N. Y. Serious apprehensions are entertained as to her recovery.

Five deaths from cholera in New York City have been reported since our last issue. No new cases have been reported in a day or two.

Nine persons were killed and thirty-five injured in a railroad wreck at West Cambridge Junction, Mass., on the night of the 10th inst.

Congressman Springer of Illinois says that during the past fifteen years there have been over 6,000 strikes and lockouts in the United States.

A number of large building societies in England have failed. The liabilities aggregate nearly $30,000,000. Many poor men lose a life's savings.

A fire at the Brooklyn (N. Y.) navy yard on the 17th inst. did $500,000 damage. The machinery for the new cruiser Cincinnati was totally destroyed.

The corner-stone of the monument to Christopher Columbus was laid at Eighth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, New York, last Friday, with imposing ceremonies.

Several train robbers, of the notorious Dalton gang, were arrested near Deming, N. M., recently. The rewards for the capture of the robbers amount to $22,000.

Mr. Archibald J. Campbell and Frazier Morrison were drowned in the Appamattox river, a few miles below Petersburg, Va., during a gale on Tuesday night of last week.

Three men were suffocated by sewer gas in a sewer at Jersey City, N. J., on the 12th inst. Two of the men were attempting to rescue the third man when death overtook them.

The Bohemia from Hamburg reached the New York quarantine last Thursday night. Eleven children died from cholera on the voyage. No new cases have been reported on the vessel.

A fire in the printing establishment of James B. Long of Albany, N. Y., who is State Printer, destroyed many original copies of State reports on the 12th inst. The total loss is estimated at from $250,000 to $300,000.

Four sisters, living at North Adams, Mass., together with their little neice, were tried in a police court several days ago for shoplifting. They were all well dressed and refined looking women, but they wanted pretty trinkets, so each one committed theft in order to get them.

The four-masted schooner, Benjamin A. Van Brunt, owned by parties in Manasquan, N. J., was sunk at Fall River, Mass., on the 11th inst. by the steamer Providence. The sunken vessel cost $58,000. There was little insurance on the vessel and none at all on the cargo.

The life of Roswell P. Flower, Governor of New York, was threatened several days ago by a box of giant powder so arranged that it would explode when opened, sent him through the mail by some unknown person. With the package he received an anonymous letter warning him of the character of the package. The package was sent to police head quarters, where it was soaked in water, and then opened. Twenty detectives are at work on the case.

Moszko Kaufman, a native of Roumania, not quite fifteen years old, working in New York City, saved his money for three years so as to pay the passage of his mother and sisters from their native land to this country. The poor boy expected his mother and sisters on the steamer Scandia, but when the vessel reached port, it was learned that his mother had died on the voyage from cholera, and that his sisters were ill with the disease.

Mr. Hanna, the American consul at La Guavra, Venezuela, called on foreign warships to compel Dictator Mendoza to release other consuls who had been arrested. This move was successful and Mendoza ordered the consuls to be released. He then resigned the Dictatorship, proclaiming Guillermo Tell Villegas Pulido, a nephew of ex-Villegas, as President and a member of the Federal Council.

The Peary North Greenland Expedition reached St. Johns, N. F., on the 11th inst., safe and well with one exception. Mr. Verhoeff, one of the party, went off alone on a geological trip, expecting to return in two days. Failing to return by that time, search was made for him, but with no avail. It is thought that he lost his life in a glacier. The expedition was a very successful one, the plans being carried out almost to the letter. Lieut. Peary reached a point on the east coast of Greenland many degrees higher than had before been reached by an explorer.

One of the troubles of life is the breaking of lamp-chimneys.

Needless. Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" are tough against heat.

You will save nine-tenths of your chimney-money by using them,

"Pearl top" fits most of the little lamps; "pearl glass" is for "Rochester," "Pittsburgh," "Duplex," etc.

We make a great many sizes and shapes, all of tough glass. You can get the right ones. Talk with your dealer about it.

Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & Co.

MARRIED.

BOST—WILSON—On Sept. 4th, 1892, by Rev. J. O. Alderman, Mr. Alfred W. Bost and Miss Matilda W. Wilson, all of Cabarrus county, N. C.

RHOADES—CARTER—On Sept. 12th, 1892, at the residence of Mr. F. P. Smith, in Concord, N. C., by Rev. J. O. Alderman, Mr. James E. Rhoades of Charlotte, N. C., and Miss Elena Carter of Concord, N. C.

DIED.

DUPREE—On Sept. 7th, 1892, Sister Sarah Dupree, wife of Bro. W. R. Dupree, of East Durham, passed into rest in her twenty-ninth year. She leaves a companion and five little children to mourn her loss, the youngest being four days old at her death. She was a bright christian and ripe for the Master's use.

C. W. B.

HALL—On July 13th, 1892, passed from earth to heaven, bright-eyed little Royall, only son of brother and sister R. N. Hall. He was a good and dutiful child, and though only seven years, seven months and seventeen days old, his mental and moral qualifications were unusually flattering for a bright future. Weep not, loved ones, he is with the angels.

PASTOR.

MIZELLS—Cynthia A. Mizells was born Aug. 8th, 1811, and died Sept. 5th, 1892. She was a faithful member of Lawrence's Cross Roads church, Bertie county, N. C. The writer does not know how long she had been a member of the church. She united with us by letter in 1882 from Green's Cross Roads church. We buried her in the church yard, Bro. John Williams reading the burial service. Weep not, dear children, but strive to meet mother in heaven.

J. W. LONGDALE.

PEARCE—Died, at his home in Bertie county, N. C., Aug. 11th, 1892, Mr. Richardson Pearce, in the eightieth year of his age. Brother Pearce started life a poor boy, but by his own exertions he amassed sufficient property to live at his ease the last years of his life and leave a goodly sum to his bereaved wife and children. He made a profession of religion when he was somewhat advanced in life, united with the Methodist Episcopal church, and from that time to the day of his death he remained an earnest, consistent member of that body of christians. He was liberal and unsectarian in his views, charitable in disposition, never turning a deaf ear to any appeal for any worthy object, especially liberal to the poor of his community, many of whom will sadly miss his aid.

He leaves a wife, three children, eleven grandchildren, and a host of friends to mourn his death; but we sorrow not as those who have no hope, but as those who believing in Christ as our Saviour, and believing too that our friend and brother has gone to dwell with Christ, believe that we shall meet him again in that fair beyond, where sorrow and trouble are never known, with our Saviour and loved ones, may we all spend an eternity of bliss, praising our Heavenly Father who doeth all things well.

FRIEND.

MITCHELL—Mary W., daughter of A. C. and Sallie Mitchell, departed this life at Youngsville, N. C., August 27th, 1892, in the twenty-first year of her age. For several months she had complained of not feeling well, but not until she was forced to yield to typhoid fever did we feel any anxiety about her. During the few weeks she was confined to bed she was quiet and patient, and so peaceful and happy that when the end came we felt that she had gone to be with God. For three years she had been a consistent and devoted member of the Baptist church, and her daily walk proved that she was trying to follow in the footsteps of her Saviour. She was kind to all, willing and ready to help those who needed help, and always had a smile for every one she met. We all loved Mary, and those who knew her best loved her most. She has not ceased to communicate with us, though the visible chain is broken.

From that bright sphere, from that calm region, from the bowers of the life immortal, she speaks to us. For her the storms of the pilgrimage are hushed to silence, fierce tempests cease to blow; all is blessed sunshine, calm and sweet repose, there in her home above. We feel desolate, and our hearts are full and overflowing with grief, but we know our loss is her gain.

"There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forevermore.

There is no death! The leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away,
They only wait through wintry hours
For coming of the May.

The bird-like voice whose joyous notes
Made glad these scenes of sin and strife,
Sings now an everlasting song
Amidst the trees of life.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread,
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there are no dead."

AUNTIE.

Tribute of Respect.

A. J. Smith was born in Rockingham county about thirty-four years ago. In early life he attended Sunday-school and church at old Hogan's Creek, where he learned the principles of the christian religion. The church was moved to Reidsville about 1870. Young Andrew Smith was among the first to join the church after the removal. He was then about fifteen years old. His life and character were of unusual purity and chastity. He loved the Lord and his gospel. As a public officer Bro. Smith had the implicit confidence of all. He was a faithful deacon and always looked well to the interest of Christ's lambs in the church. His liberality was accompanied with a heavenly grace that made his soul happy in his work. In the midst of his sore trials he looked to Jesus for help, and experienced the soul thrilling joy of his presence. Many of the traits of his life and character were examples for young men just starting in search of life's greatest good. Lives of the pure and redeemed are given to us as examples of God's goodness and love. His married life of five years was happy, and his noble companion has sustained an irreparable loss. He spent thirty-four years on earth and has gone to spend eternity with God.

M. A. ALLEN,
C. A. ROMINGER,
T. M. TUCKER,
Committee

Bethel Sunday-school met on Sunday, Aug. 21st, and passed the following resolutions in regard to the death of Bro. S. W. Wescott:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our beloved Bro. S. W. Wescott, who died Aug. 14th, 1892.

Resolved 1. That in his death Bethel Sunday-school and church have lost one of their most faithful members, the family a beloved son and brother, and the community at large a kind and sympathizing friend and neighbor.

Resolved 2. That while we deeply deplore the loss of one who seemed so well fitted for great usefulness, we have a well-grounded hope that our loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved 3. That the highest tribute of respect which loving hearts can pay him will be to emulate his example by a consistent walk and faithful discharge of the various duties of life, and like him to strive earnestly for that crown which awaits those only who are faithful unto death.

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be placed on the Sunday-school records, one sent the bereaved family, and one sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, with request that the N. C. Baptist copy.

B. D. WESCOTT,
W. A. PRICE,
JNO. WESCOTT,
A. E. WESCOTT,
Committee.

Southport, N. C., Sept. 9, 1892.

"Just and true are thy ways, thou king of saints."

WHEREAS, He who holdeth the destinies of men in his hands, and who ruleth in the kingdom of nature and grace, even God the Father Almighty hath so ordered in his wisdom that the shadow of death should again rest upon our Sunday-school in the removal of one of our most faithful members, Mary W. Mitchell, from our ranks to the ranks of the glorified;

Resolved 1. That we feel that some tribute is due to the memory of one who was so faithful in her duties in every relation of life, a life that was so attractive in its modest worth and which shone among those admitted to the more intimate circle of her acquaintance.

Resolved 2. That we shall miss her quiet example, her kindly greeting, her modest deportment and the many quiet graces which made up her christian character.

Resolved 3. That we will strive to emulate the good we saw in her; her evenness of disposition, her serenity of temper, her unselfishness of spirit.

Resolved 4. That we extend to her family our most heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement, commending them to him who doeth all things well, and who will show them hereafter the things that are unsearchable to us now.

Resolved 5. That a copy of these resolutions be sent for publication to the Gold Leaf, the BIBLICAL RECORDER and the Methodist Protestant, and that a copy be sent to the parents of the deceased.

F. R. HARRIS,
R. R. SATTERWHITE,
F. S. HARRIS,
Committee.

The foregoing resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Henderson Methodist Protestant Sunday-school on September 11th, 1892, and they were ordered to be spread upon the minutes of the school.

B. R. TAYLOR,
Sec. M. P. Sunday school.

Henderson, N. C., Sept. 12, 1892.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will cure you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

Graded Series
OF
SUNDAY SCHOOL PERIODICALS.
Compare these Prices with those of Similar Publications.

Primary Grade.
Picture Lessons. 8 cts. per quarter, 12 cts. per year.
Primary Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
Our Little Ones. In clubs of five, 25 cts. per year.

Intermediate Grade.
Intermediate Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter. 9 cts. per year.
The Sunlight. 8 cts. and 16 cts. per year.

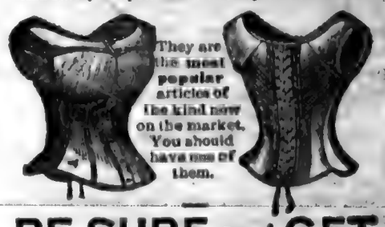
Advanced Grade.
Advanced Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 10 cts. per year.
Bible Lessons. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.
Young Reaper. 10 cts. and 20 cts. per year.

Senior or Adult Grade.
Senior Quarterly. 6 cts. per quarter, 24 cts. per year.
Our Young People. In clubs of five, 40 cts. per year.
The Worker. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.

Teachers, Superintendents.
Baptist Teacher. In clubs of five, 50 cts. per year.
Baptist Superintendent. 25 cts. per year.

Am. Baptist Publication Society.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut St.;
BOSTON: 256 Washington St.;
NEW YORK: Times Building;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Ave.;
ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive St.;
ATLANTA: 66½ Whitehall St.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON
CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.



They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

At a Bargain.

For want of room we will close out our stock of CANE MILLS, with EVAPORATORS AND FURNACES complete, at greatly reduced rates. Apply right off, if you are in need to the ALDERMAN HARDWARE CO.,
Wilmington, N. C.

Cheapest Song Books Ever Offered for Sale.

When I combined my song books I had a large number of Nos. 1 and 3 on hand, 112 and 128 pages, board bound. I sold them at twenty-five and thirty dollars per hundred, and I now offer them at ten and twelve dollars by express or freight. This is the first time I have advertised them at these prices. Round and shape notes. Send orders at once if you want the greatest bargain to be had in song books.

W. E. PENN,
St Louis, Mo.

Bethel Hill Institute,
MALE AND FEMALE.

About five miles from the junction of the Atlantic & Danville and Lynchburg and Durham railroads at Dennistion, Virginia; healthful location; expenses minimum; surroundings, pleasant and elevating; spiritual and moral training excellent.

TERMS:

Board, furnished room and lights, per month,	$6.75
Fuel	.70
Washing	.70
Tuition	$1.50 to 2.75
Instrumental music (vocal free)	3.00

Free tuition to young ministers.

Next session opens Tuesday, September 27th, 1892. For further information apply to the principal,

REV. J. A. BEAM,
Bethel Hill, N. C.

VOSE & SONS PIANOS. ESTABLISHED IN 1851.
Celebrated for their Pure Tone, Elegant Designs, Superior Workmanship, and Great Durability. Sold on easy terms. Old Instruments taken in exchange. Write for catalogue and full information.
170 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

The Home Circle.

The Way of the World.

Did you ever notice, my little lad,
That the reddest apple on all the tree
Has always swung from the highest limb
Just to plague good people like you and me?
You may look and long, you may scold and sigh—
You will find as we all have found, in time,
That looking and longing will not avail,
If you get the apple you will have to climb.

Did you ever notice, my little lass,
That the sweetest rose is hedged about
With the sharpest thorns? If you gather it
You must conquer the thorns, or do without,
But the poison flower has no guarding thorns,
And the deadly fruit ever lowest lies.
They grow in our path within easy grasp,
With a fatal beauty to longing eyes.

You must learn this lesson and learn it well,
'Tis a lesson that all the world must learn,
Whether big or little, or rich or poor,
You'll meet it no matter which way you turn
In this queer old world, the best things hang high.
So high that we must climb to reach,
But the vile lies low in easy grasp,
And the choice to be made, God leaves to each.
—Florence A. Jones.

A Singular Example.

Who has not been touched by the sight of one or more of God's dear disciples, seated here and there in our Sabbath congregations, who by their eager, sympathetic, intelligent look and reverent attitude seem to catch every sentence and every word that the minister utters, as alternately they watch his lips and the responsive faces of the people? Alas, they are deaf; communication through the ear is denied them, but the quickened organ of the eye comes to their aid, and even they drink in the preached word with avidity. They are also, hardly without exception, constant attendants at church; and their wholesome example is not always lost upon the thoughtless and indolent.

On Saturday night, while journeying between two large cities, the trains missed connection, and we were obliged to spend Sunday in the village where we were detained. It was a cold, blustering day, and as we entered the church, after a long and laborious walk, we were surprised to see so large a congregation gathered. Presently we were impressed with the evident enthusiasm of both the minister and people. We could not fail to notice, also, the hearty and reverent way in which the large, well-trained choir performed their part.

In an arm chair, just in front of the pulpit, sat a venerable, white-haired man. His devout manner was striking, while at the same time he seemed to be greatly interested in all that was going on about him; but it was apparent to me that, during the sermon, his enthusiasm was drawn more from the faces of the congregation in front of him, as his gentle eyes roved continually from one to another, than it was from the words of the speaker.

Little by little I became interested in him, and was glad to find him, immediately after the benediction was pronounced, at my side proffering his hand, with a cordial smile lighting up his strong, rugged face.

"It's no use for you, madam, to say a word," he said, "for I am as deaf as a post; but I'm glad to see you here, and I'm glad you enjoyed the sermon. I know that you did enjoy it, for I saw the pleasure and appreciation showing out of your eyes.

"I noticed your glance at me now and then, and I knew that you were wondering why I sat in that conspicuous place. Strangers are always puzzled over it; so I generally tell them myself, at the same time letting them know how cordially they are welcomed to God's house.

"You see, madam, when I began to grow deaf, I took to sitting nearer and nearer the pulpit; and at last took to sitting where I do now, in one of the deacon's chairs. For a time I could hear there quite well; but after awhile the sermon became only a confusion of sounds to me, and soon I could not hear at all, not even when close to the pulpit.

"But, thanks to God, my eye sight was good, and I derived great comfort from looking at the faces of the people. The love of God was in my heart, and as the love in their hearts was set on fire by the dear pastor's words, the light shone through the windows of their souls, and my heart was set all aglow from the warmth that I had caught from them. So, you see, every one in the church who shows himself interested helps me to hear and enjoy. I have gained a great deal from you this morning, and I want to thank you.

"Some folks wonder why I come to church at all, when I cannot hear a word; but I tell them that I come not only for my own profit, but for the sake of my example. My life-long habit of attending, and love for the house of the Lord, will not let me stay at home. I am a church-member; my place is in his temple on his holy day, and while he graciously gives me strength to get there I shall be present, although I cannot hear a word."

"He is known through all the village and country-side as 'Father' Harvey," said the pastor, who came up to greet me just then; "and it would be impossible for me to tell you all the good his example has done in influencing people to come out to church.

"If any one is tempted to stay at home from meeting on Sunday, or from any one of the week-day church gatherings, on account of the weather or for some other unchristian excuse, the sight of 'Father' Harvey's old white great-coat fluttering down the street will shame them into starting out.

"'If that poor, old, lame, deaf saint hasn't got any excuse to stay at home, I'm sure I haven't one,' they say; and they hasten to prepare themselves for the service.

"Then, too, the dear old brother knows every face in the congregation as an artist does the keys of a piano. He says: 'If there is one gone, it makes a discord, and I lose a part of my enjoyment.' Then he makes it his business to look up the missing member, and to inquire, in love, into the cause for the absence; and he presses home the absentee's responsibility in the premises in such a kindly and winning way that the brother or sister's seat is not vacant again without a very good reason.

"'Father' Harvey was always extremely fond of music, especially that employed in the service and praise of God in his courts and in the social meetings of the church; and it is owing largely to his social influence and loving counsel that our large choir are all church-members, and sing indeed with the spirit and understanding; and any frivolity on their part during divine service is something unthought of in this house.

"We call him 'Father' Harvey in great affection, for we feel that his example and his talk are a great blessing to the entire community, and very profitable to us who are more immediately associated with him in the church."—Morning Star.

A Father's Lesson to his Son.

One day Robert's father saw him playing with some boys who were rude and unmannerly. He had observed for some time a change for the worse in his son, and now he knew the cause. He was very sorry, but he said nothing to Robert at the time. In the evening he brought from the garden six rosy cheeked apples, put them on a plate, and presented them to Robert. He was much pleased at his father's kindness, and thanked him. "You must lay them aside for a few days, that they may become mellow, said the father; and Robert cheerfully placed the apples in his mother's store room.

Just as he was putting them aside, his father laid on the plate the seventh apple, and desired him to allow it to remain there.

"But, father," said Robert, "this apple will spoil all the others."

"Do you think so? Why should not the fresh apples rather make the rotten one fresh?" said the father; and with these words he shut the door of the room.

Eight days afterward he asked his son to open the door and take out the apples. But what a sight presented itself! The six apples which had been so round and rosy-cheeked were quite rotten, and spread a bad smell through the room.

"Father," cried he, "did I not tell you that the rotten apple would spoil the good ones? You did not listen to me."

"My boy," said the father, "have I not told you often that the company of bad children will make you bad? Yet you do not listen to me. See in the state of the apples that which will happen to you if you keep company with wicked boys."—Exchange.

A Well Meant Warning.

Not long ago I saw a young man come out of church with a nice young girl, and as soon as the sidewalk was reached he rolled a cigarette, struck a match, and complacently puffed his noxious smoke to the disgust of those walking behind. If I were that young lady never would I walk with that young man until he had learned that it shows a lack of good breeding to smoke in the company of a young lady. The other day I saw a young gentleman call for a lady to take her driving. He assisted her into the buggy and then deliberately crawled over her lap to his seat. I saw a young man and young lady walking on the street the other night. He held her arm in that demoralizing grip called the "clutch," and so near were they to each other that the Siamese twins would have blushed to have been seen in such close propinquity. I mentally thanked God that that girl was not my sister. Girls beware of the "clutch." It is too familiar, breeds contempt and the young man loses respect for you.

Much of the ill manners young men of this day display results from the want of a dignified and womanly stand on the part of young women. If I see a young man squeezing or pinching a young lady's arm while talking to her, I feel sorry for that girl. She has her standard. If I were a young woman I would enforce respect from every man. He should not bring me to his level and thus be able to boast with his associates of the liberties he has taken with me. How many foul, blighting things do young men say of young ladies with whom they are intimate. A true gentleman will never say anything derogatory to a young lady's character, nor will he compromise her in any way. I fear there way be some grounds, however small, for the damaging disparagements, and that the young lady has lowered her standard. I again urge that a young woman cannot be too modest, or too discreet. Young woman, raise your standard of virtue and morality high.—Exchange.

The Effect of Warm Days and Cool Nights.

A leading physician writes that he has noticed warm days and cool nights always affect the bowels, and suggests some preventative remedy. Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is the one.

"He's a Little Fellow."

Walking down the street the other day I saw a newsboy seated on a grating in the sidewalk, up through which came a little warmth from the basement below. He had something beside him covered up with a dirty, ragged old handkerchief, and as I sat down alongside he cautioned:

"Look out, now; don't hurt him."

"What is it?"

He lifted the handkerchief with the greatest care, and there on one of the iron bars, huddled up and half frozen, was a little brown sparrow, just able to fly.

"Where did you get him?"

"In the street out there. Got so cold he was tuckered."

"What will you do with him?"

"Get him good and warm and let him go. He is such a little feller, and so he orter have a fair show."

"And he shall!" said I.

I added my efforts to Jack's, and after a few minutes the bird began moving about in a lively manner and giving vent to his satisfaction in a series of chirps. Jack lifted him, gave him a toss in the air, and away he sailed for his nest under a cornice.

"He's all right now, Jack."

"Yes, 'cause he's had a boost. Boys kin git along almost anyhow," said Jack, as he shivered in the cold blast sweeping up from the river, "but birds are such little fellers that we've got to sort o' h'ist and tote 'm round now and then. He's all right now, and we're all right, and goodbye to you."

"Goodbye, Jackie," I said, involuntarily raising my hat as the tattered, kind-hearted chappie flew round the corner.—Exchange.

Reading the Bible.

When Mr. Hone, who wrote the "Every-day Book," and was of skeptical views, was travelling through Wales, he stopped at a cottage to ask for a drink of water, and a little girl answered him: "O yes, sir; I have no doubt mother will give you some milk. Come in."

He went in, and sat down. The little girl was reading the Bible. Mr. Hone said: "Well, my little girl, are you getting your task?"

"No, sir, I am not," she replied; "I am reading the Bible."

"Yes," said he, "you are getting your task out of the Bible."

"O no," she replied. "It is no task to read the Bible; I love the Bible."

"And why do you love the Bible?" said he.

Her simple, child-like answer was: "I thought everybody loved the Bible."

Her own love for the precious volume had made her innocently believe that everybody else was equally delighted to read God's word. Mr. Hone was so touched with the sincerity of that expression that he read the Bible himself, and, instead of being an opponent to the things of God, came to be a friend of divine truth.—The Pacific.

Cherish Your Girlhood.

Dear girls, don't be so often wishing you were grown up women that you will neglect your girlhood. In the rush and hurry of these fast times, there is danger that you will reach and strain after "young ladyhood" too much.

Be girls a while yet; tender, joyous, loving, obedient, and industrious. Womanhood, with its privileges and power, its burdens and its trials, will come soon enough. On this point, one has said:

"Wait patiently, my children, through the whole limit of your girlhood. Go not after womanhood; let it come to you. Keep out of public view. Cultivate refinement and modesty. The cares and responsibilities of life will come soon enough. When they come, you will meet them, I trust, as true women should. But oh, be not so unwise as to throw away you girlhood. Rob not yourself of this beautiful season, which, wisely spent, will brighten all your future life."—Exchange.

If you have sick or nervous headache, take Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They will cleanse the stomach, restore healthy action to the digestive organs, remove effete matter (the presence of which depresses the nerves and brain), and thus give speedy relief.

The Presidential Nominees.

The nominees of both political parties furnish a fresh illustration of the fact that the small colleges of the country turn out more distinguished men in proportion than the larger colleges. Both Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reid are graduates of Miami College, Oxford, O. Mr. Cleveland is not a college man and Mr. Stevenson entered Center College at Danville, Ky., but did not complete the course. Perhaps one explanation of the record in favor of the smaller colleges is this: they are patronized generally by men of moderate means, who rely on their own exertions rather than on the money of rich parents to put them through.—The Exponent.

It is an old story of the Scotch Presbyterian who said: "That the devil is bad, you can tell by his very name, for if you take away the d, it is evil, and take away the de, it is vile, and take away the dev, it is ill; so that he is an ile, vile, evil devil!"

The smallest Pill in the World!
THE SECRET of recruiting health is discovered in
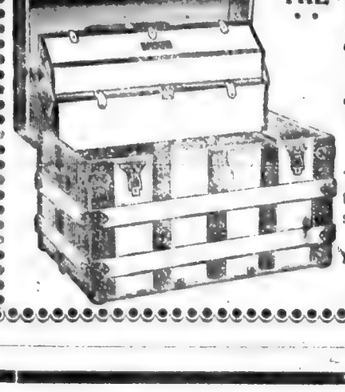
TUTT'S
Tiny Liver Pills
In liver affections, sick headache, dyspepsia, flatulence, heartburn, bilious colic, eruptions of the skin, and all troubles of the bowels, their curative effects are marvelous. They are a corrective as well as a gentle cathartic. Very small and easy to take. Price, 25c. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.



THE ROLLER TRAY TRUNK
THE MOST CONVENIENT TRUNK EVER DEVISED.
The Tray is arranged to roll back, leaving the bottom of the Trunk easy of access.
Nothing to break or get out of order. The Tray can be lifted out if desired, and to buy this style is a guarantee that you will get the strongest Trunk made.
If your Dealer cannot furnish you, notify the manufacturers,
H. W. ROUNTREE & BRO., Richmond, Va.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
School Books and Stationery
— BY —
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.

OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.
All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.
MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.
Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch, —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.
THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.
Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.
RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.
Julius Lewis & Co., RALEIGH, N. C.
Guns and PISTOLS
"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1892. Number 14.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months.....1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender).....20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Talks About Law.—No. 8.

BY JUDGE R. W. WINSTON.

DIVORCE LAWS.

With one consent, historians agree that Alfred was the wisest, best and greatest of English kings. His title to this distinction rests in a large measure upon a "most great and necessary work" which he executed in a masterly manner. "He reduced the whole kingdom under one regular and gradual subordination of government." That masterpiece of judicial polity, the subdivision of England into tithings and hundreds, if not into counties, had its birth in his brain.

He recognized the fact, which characterized the patriarchal days, that the family is a unit of which the father is the head; that the sum total of these units is the State; and finally, that the purity and goodness of the State exactly equals the purity and goodness of its component parts.

These principles are simple, but they are basal. Alas! how much wiser we have grown than were our parents!

A bird's-eye view of our American laws on the subject of divorce will disclose the fact that the family fireside, in many States of the Union, possesses not the charm and beauty and purity that once sanctified it.

Before proceeding, it is proper to state that good old North Carolina, conservative in all things, is also slow and conservative in wrong doing. She practically holds to the New Testament rule and will not grant a divorce, unless the marriage vow is broken. In South Carolina when a man and woman are joined together, they cannot be torn asunder.

We all know that a statute of a State is simply the enactment of the will of a majority of the people of that State into law.

So that a statute is what the people think and wish. What must be the state of society of Dakota, where a husband may get a divorce if his wife slanders him, or is cruel to him? Or in Pennsylvania even, where desertion and cruelty entitle one to a divorce? Or specially in Utah, where the frail marriage tie is unloosed, "whenever it is made to appear that the parties cannot live in peace and union."

We in North Carolina are made to feel the evil of these immoral laws. For "full faith and credit" must be given to the judgments of courts of other States.

Sometimes it will happen that a man, divorced by the laws of Utah or Dakota, will marry again. Perhaps he was a resident of New York before going to Utah, and perhaps he did not serve an actual notice of his suit upon his New York wife. Such a divorce would not be good in New York, and perhaps in some other States.

If he and his new wife set out on a bridal tour, in some States, as Dakotah and Utah, they would be married, but in other States, as New York or South Carolina, they would not be married!

Hence an effort has been made to have the Congress pass a uniform law regulating divorce. But this cannot be, because the views of the South generally differ so much from the views of the North and West.

The tendency of divorce legislation is towards evil, rather than better, things—as witness the "advanced" thought bought at great price and elaborately spread on the pages of the The Arena, The Forum, and other magazines. There we learn that it is cruel and barbarous to compel husband and wife to live together when love is dead.

There a dozen short-haired women, in Bloomer costumes, will cackle to their own satisfaction, and the editor will gravely denominate their mental output "a symposium"!

Col. Ingersoll, the arch-infidel, "by merit raised to that bad eminence," is a leader of thought along this line, as well. To purify their thoughts and chasten their style, we commend the opinion of Lord Stowell, delivered in a celebrated divorce case: "To vindicate the policy of the law is no necessary part of the office of a judge; but if it were, it would not be difficult to show that the law, in this respect, has acted with its usual wisdom and humanity, with that true wisdom, and that real humanity that regards the general interests of mankind. For though in particular cases the repugnance of the law to dissolve the obligations of matrimonial cohabitation may operate with great severity upon individuals, yet it must be carefully remembered that the general happiness of the married life is secured by its indissolubility. When people understand that they must live together, except for a very few reasons known to the law, they learn to soften by mutual accommodation that yoke which they know that they cannot shake off; they become good husbands and good wives from the necessity of remaining husbands and wives; for necessity is a powerful master in teaching the duties which it imposes. If it were once understood that, upon mutual disgust married persons might be legally separated, many couples who now pass through the world with mutual comfort, with attention to their common offspring and to the moral order of civil society, might have been at this moment living in a state of mutual unkindness, in a state of estrangement from their common offspring, and in a state of the most licentious and unreserved immorality. In this case, as in many others, the happiness of some individuals must be sacrificed to the greater and more general good."

Indeed we have often wished that all men and women, who are "advanced thinkers," might come together in one place. They think that man is a machine, that can of itself attain perfection, and that if you will put away all temptation he will attain unto it. Of course, they would abolish God the first thing; then women would vote; then when love died between man and wife, a pair of couples would swap around; whiskey and opium would be dumped into the sea (a good thing perhaps); then everybody should be educated; and then—why then, man is perfect!!

"There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

"A dwarf on a giant's shoulder sees farther of the two," was not said of morals.

Honest, conservative, God-fearing North Carolina, and States sister to her in simplicity, the day may not be remote when you shall be called upon to stay the tide of infidelity, licentiousness and lawlessness that are corrupting the life of some of your rich, self sufficient and godless sisters.

Truth-Given Freedom.

SERMON BY REV. J. E. WHITE, WILSON, N. C., SEPTEMBER 18, 1892.

Text—"Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

When pride and conscious guilt shake hands they seal their friendship with a lie. Here on this occasion in the temple, under the burning words of Christ, conscious guilt has smitten the hearts of the Jews, and they have summoned pride to ease them. The result is a flaring, impudent lie, thrown right into the teeth of Christ. Christ has just uttered the words of the text, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." They answered him, "We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man." This was plainly a lie, and they were bound to know that Christ knew it. But they stoop to it just the same in order to interrupt him and turn the current of his preaching into a channel more comfortable to themselves. A mean low, dishonest subterfuge. Will any one suppose that they had forgotten the long years of Egypt and Pharaoh? Or the time of the Judges when they were in frequent bondage to the neighboring nations, or the seventy years in Babylon, or their present bondage to the hateful rule of the Romans! And yet to confuse and distract Christ they have the colossal impudence to say, "We were never in bondage."

I have read here to you these very words which Christ uttered to the Jews, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free,"—words throbbing with the same power that filled them on that day, nearly nineteen hundred years ago. Has any one present who has heard them as I read been dishonest enough with himself to take refuge in the trumped-up reflection, "I am not in bondage to anybody; I am as free as I want to be!" If there is, I charge such an one to consider carefully what he is, what his character is, what his habits are, what the tendencies of his nature are, and if after a conscientious scrutiny of himself he can honestly pronounce himself free in every respect that a man ought to be, I am ready to acquit him of any intentional subterfuge.

This is an important utterance: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." We are not to understand it as a declarative sentence. It is an implied condition. The force of the if in the preceding verse is conveyed by attraction to that which follows.

Christ never meant to force the truth or a knowledge of the truth on any man. It is said somewhat in the same sense employed by the physician as he hands a bottle of medicine to a patient with the injunction, "You shall take this now and it will cure you." The condition is implied. The patient does not understand that the doctor is coming to pour it down his throat. Just so with this text. Christ has looked upon you, has seen the shackles of habit, the manacles of sin on you, beholds you a slave to wicked influences and vicious associations, and has said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." No man is to think that Christ is going to force the truth into his brain and understanding, but that a knowledge of it can come only through a desire to know it, and the application of one's self to its acquirement.

The word "know" is the pivotal word of the text. It is not the word that we use so lightly and frequently in our common parlance. "To know the truth" is to go a great ways beyond an introduction to it. We use the word very loosely. We say we know a man, and if asked to tell something about him, his character, &c., we can hardly get through a dozen sentences. It is not knowledge. The truth is that the knowledge which is required in this text is of a much deeper nature than that required by any of the ordinary relations of life. It embraces not merely the offices of the five senses, but the whole heart and nature. It means not only the apprehension of the truth, but an appropriation of it. It means that the whole nature is to be infused with the truth, filled with it till there is no room for other masters. The freedom then comes naturally.

Reference here is plainly not to truth as an all-embracing term, nor to a truth as an isolated fact, but to the truth—the truth as it is in Christ. Unmistakably the Saviour meant the true understanding of the purpose of his kingdom, the complete comprehension of his mission, and the full acceptance of his gospel. It was the truth towards which in concentric circles all human life must tend, as swallows circling around a chimney. It was the door of salvation—the city of refuge for the escaped slave.

Although all truth of whatever nature was related to it, in that both came from God, yet this was the selected truth that led not only to God's presence, but to the inner fold of his heart. "Ye shall know the truth." It is to be observed also that while very properly much stress is to be laid on the word know, the repetition of the word truth as the subject of the last predicate prevents misconception of the true meaning. It is not the knowledge that makes free, but the truth; not the knowledge of it, but the thing itself. Christ evidently meant that there should be no mistake here. The exact relation which our knowledge and understanding of the truth, and even our appropriation of it, bears to the result, is very plain. It is the relation that the taking of the medicine bears to the physiological conditions that follow. The power of the effect is traceable not to the taking, but to the nature of the drug. Knowledge is power of a certain kind, but not the power of salvation. No mere knowledge of the Bible can make a man free. The devil can quote Scripture, and it is understood that his friend Col. Ingersoll has a very accurate textual knowlege of the Bible, but who will claim that either are free?

"Him the almighty power
Hurled headlong flaming from the ethereal sky,
With hideous ruin and combustion down
To bottomless perdition; there to dwell
In adamantine chains and penal fire."

And his follower who with impious arm dares to mail his blasphemous utterance with the thunder of God's word and truth, walks the streets of New York no freer than his master—the slave of a slave, bound, manacled, shackled, and held with chains more invincible than those which held his fit prototype Prometheus to the cold rocks of Mount Caucasus.

"The vulture at his vitals
And the links of the lame Lemnian festering in his flesh."

Few men in this land of enlightenment but have a more or less accurate knowledge of the Bible. But it cannot be urged too strongly that the truth requires a warmer resting place than cold intellectuality before it makes free. Theologians are not always disciples. Disciples they are of a system, but not of Christ. To Christ as one of the actors in the play they may pay a certain kind of devotion, but it is the play they worship after all. To him as an abstract moral force they do some reverence, but the living Christ, the personal vital center of spiritual life, they do not see.

The marked characteristic of christianity is that it is not a method, but it is Christ—his personality, his character. Mohammedanism is method—the Koran is the center of the system. The character of Mahomet has but little to do with Mohammedanism, and this distinguishing feature of christianity is its strength.

Not to knowledge, then, are you to look, my friend, but to the truth. It is a warmer light than the cold torch of intellectual belief that reveals a saving Christ. It is a burning, yearning eye that finds the rich pearls of liberty in God's word. It is a heart surcharged with want and need that wears the diamonds of his truth. Study the Book of Truth not for its beauty, though beautiful it is, but for its Christ. He is there throbbing in every word, but discern him, and not the glass through which he is to be seen. The Bible is the mirror. See the reflection, not the mirror. In that is light. In that is liberty.

"And the truth shall make you free." The truth does this work as all other mightily. The slavery is great, the dungeon strong, the watch alert, the freedom therefore is high wrought. It is not æsthetic, but at the same time it is of a nature as much higher than mere manual freedom as soul is superior to hand of flesh. It is the exultation of all that is good in a man, the lifting up of his better nature. It is the emancipation of soul. Every man is conscious of the superiority of these higher qualities in him. To impute to him their absence is to offer the grossest possible insult—such an insult as no man has the right to offer. I have heard a man say very recently that "a negro didn't have any soul." I felt like placing my finger to my lips and saying solemnly, "Hush, you are invading the realm of God with unhallowed feet." No man has the right to say that. In whatever there is human mind there is human soul. No man can define it, and yet you do not doubt its existence. It is something felt, not seen. Have you a soul? Do I insult you by asking? Yet, man, do you dare to treat God's holiest gift to you so impiously as to let this gift of gifts remain in chains and slavery. I have looked at the beautiful mocking bird drooped and silent in its cage, and thought, "Poor bird, within that tiny breast is locked the richest stores of music and song, needing only the billowy fields, the swinging cradle of the tree top, and the expanding liberty of the summer air to call it forth." Thus in your soul, brooding in its prison house of sin, there is melody divine, melody that would stir every pulse of life if the truth but free it. It is not necessary for you to spend any time trying to trace soul's captivity to its commencement. It is enough for you to know that it is being sunk to deeper dungeons every day of your life. Its slavery is progressive downwards. I have not said that this is the natural condition of man's soul. Just the opposite. The true condition of man is liberty. The geologist sometimes find imprisoned in stone a live toad. How the toad got there is a great mystery, but it is no greater mystery than how man becomes incarcerated in sin. The geologist breaks the rock and the toad leaps out and away. It is very plain that that was not its true home. Its home is by the bubbling brookside, in the waving grass or on the green earth. It is so with your soul. Its home is not in this dark prison house of sin. Its place is the liberty spoken of in the text.

THE FREEDOM OF GOD'S MORAL UNIVERSE.

There are yet in every man's nature some voices that speak a celestial language, some verses of a song sung by divine humanity long ago in the palmy days of its freedom, some emotions that tell of a diviner nature. Dr. Parker has in his Ecce Deus well expressed this truth: "Man was cut out of the very heart of God. His erectness, faculty of speech, dominion over inferior life, and power of reasoning upon the future, have a strange light of divinity lingering upon them even now. Man is as a fallen god upon the earth. In his wildest talk there are accents and snatches of expression which must have come from heaven. His magistracy is a blurred reprint of an ancient charter; his thinking is the dim light which struggles through an eclipsed genius. He does not know himself as a fallen member of the heavenly hierarchy; he gropes and flounders as though he had lost something; and now and again there come through his daily life gushes of tenderness and glitterings of mind which have a deep meaning—a meaning which makes the heart sore and sad as it vainly tries to piece itself into wholeness and render the ciphers into intelligible language."

Yet, whatever may have been the true state of man, we see him as he is to-day immured in the veriest slavery of thought, nature and habit.

It would seem as he feels, as every man does, the pulsing of a nature intended to be free, and the longing of a soul to which at least some conception of its possibilities now and then must come, that when freedom was offered he would gladly accept it. But sin has taught him a strange perversity. As the flesh pots of Egypt blinded many Israelites to the fact that they were slaves, the pleasures of sin have blinded men to the real tyranny of their condition. And this unconscious slavery, this satisfied serfdom of the human heart is the darkest problem with which christianity has to deal. Oh, if men would only see, only feel their chains. See! See! There it is—a wide, deep dent in your character—an open gash almost. The chain of habit, a lie told, a fellow wronged, a vice seeking action—it is tearing your soul. The links are pressing deep—slowly, slowly, but surely, surely, they are approaching the vital part, tightening its hold and fold like a python killing its prey. It presses on till every drop of life-blood is squeezed out, and then the devil, his work accomplished, drags what his chains hold down with him to its hell of remorse—alive, but helpless forever. Men, men, be men, not slaves. Realize what is before you. In your reason, you do not doubt it. In your calm thinking moments, you see it. Is evidence of any worth? Is testimony to be heard? Hear the voices of thousands telling that a sin-infested life is an enslaved life, and that in the freedom which the truth brings, every want is satisfied. Hear even the voices of those who have lost hope ringing out from the darkness of despair, crying, "Back! back! Come not here!"

"And the truth shall make you free." How does the truth do this? Well, how does the Keeley Institute at Greensboro make a man free from slavery to the whiskey disease? Well, you answer, "They inject into his system a preparation called bichloride of gold which destroys the taste or love for whiskey." In the same way the injection of the truth destroys the love for sin. The love for it destroyed, its power is gone, and therefore we are no longer slaves to it. It does it not only for single sins, but all the whole realm of sin is fenced off, and labeled by our quickened consciences—sin. It does even more than that. It follows the natural law that two things cannot occupy the same space at the same time, and as soon as the power of sin is driven out a new standard is set up in its place—the standard of love for Christ and men. It is not a new nature in the most accurate sense of the term. It is the old nature transformed—the forces of the old nature turned in another direction. The love that before was given to the devil is now given to Christ. It is re creation out of old material.

No new slaves were made to fit the new conditions after the emancipation proclamation. Old slaves became new free men. And the man whom the truth makes free ought to throw into the current of the new life's direction all the energy and force and bounding buoyancy of spirit that characterized the old life. True religion is not æstheticism. True christianity is not dyspepsia. If you were an athletic devil man, be an athletic Christ man. And keep up the training. The truth when it commences its work of making free begins at the right place. It begins from the center and works outward. The heart as the seat of motive is the point of attack. Systems of morality adopt a different plan of campaign. They strive for the out posts. Instead of cutting off the base of supplies they capture, or attempt to, the pickets. And in this lies the cause of their failure. A captured picket line, as every old soldier knows, is very far from meaning a captured army. The truth takes possession of that which supplies the motive. It captures the heart, possesses it for Christ, and hands and tongue and feet responding naturally to the hearts suggestion are found employed in christian work. It gives a new law—love. There is no such thing as liberty without law. The freest people are those with whom law is most sacredly observed. Our statute books are the very bulwarks of our civil liberty. Outside of law are torches and mobs and anarchy. Law is no restraint to the honest, virtuous citizen. Only rogues feel its restraint. The law of love enacted in the heart of man gives every freedom that the heart wants. It supplies every condition of liberty that it can demand. When the heart breaks over this law of love it has entered not the realm of liberty, but the realm of license. A man who loves God supremely, and his neighbor as himself, may do exactly what he pleases—all that his love moves him to do. The truth in establishing this law of perfect love drives out fear. The life thus entered walks its highway with dauntless tread. The sun shines before it, lighting up all its hedges and forms that used to fashion themselves into ghosts, and robbers take angels wings as we approach. Two boys see as they walk along the road a large misshapen object in the fence corner. One goes up to the cause of their terror, puts his hand on it, and finds that it is only a black stump. He knows the truth, and the truth has made him free, and he pursues his course without fear. The other boy, affrighted when he sees it, takes off his hat and burns the wind—a slave to terror, a slave to fear.

My friend, the truth will free your life of all these hideous phantoms of dread and terror. It will teach you to know them and understand them. The freedom it brings is the freedom of peace. It will give you rest. Freedom from care is not what you want. Care is the chastener of life. But the truth will pour a flood of light, star light, heaven light, divine light, upon your cares; duties are seen to be love, and the responsibilities that now weigh like millstones will become but the steadying ballast of a love lit life. Care is a blessing if we but see it. It is worry that galls us. The truth casts out worry, kicks it down the back steps headlong. Phillips Brooks, with much truth, has said, "Care is the gentle sunshine, waking you to the beautiful, real world, in the morning. Worry is the mosquito that bites you during the night."

The world needs this liberty—such liberty as never arm of conqueror established or pen of liberator proclaimed. Let but the freeness of this truth-wrought liberty touch your life, and the hand of the love it brings stray among the mute strings of its harp, and the awakened slumberer joy within you shall rise unbidden at the music's irresistible strains, shouting, "I'm free, I'm free." "Love rules his kingdom without a sword." It is into this kingdom that the truth calls you. More love—more love. Hate is hell. Love is heaven.

"More love to thee, oh Christ,
More love to thee.
Hear thou the prayer I make
On bended knee,
This is my earnest plea,
More love to thee,
More love to thee."

Earth recedes and heaven approaches. The skies bend down and gather the soul to its vaulted bosom, up to the freest air man ever breathed. It is into such liberty as this that we invite you. It is for the coming of this freedom to all the earth that we pray. Come this liberty. We invoke it with all our ardor. Let a sickened earth feel thy healing touch. Let enslaved hearts receive thy freedom, thy kingdom, love kingdom, Christ's kingdom on earth as it is in heaven.

Honor is like the eye, which cannot suffer the least impurity without harm; it is a precious stone, the price of which is lessened by the least flaw.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

TRAINING NEW CONVERTS.

It is evident that one of the great duties pertaining to the pastor's work and office is to feed Christ's sheep. He is the shepherd of the flock, over which the Holy Ghost has placed him, and as far as possible he should look after and care for the members of his flock. This remark is especially true of the young and inexperienced members, or new converts regardless of their age. So far as these are concerned there are three great duties of such paramount importance that the pastor ought to insist upon their performance with great earnestness. He should advise them :—

1. To be regular and faithful in attending the public worship of the sanctuary, the prayer meeting, the Sunday-school, and all gatherings of the church at work. Christ has appointed the church, the public gatherings of his people, the prayer meeting, and other agencies for the comfort, encouragement and safety of his people; and if the new convert neglects attendance at church, prayer meeting, &c., he robs his soul of one great means that God has provided for his growth in grace. If public worship had not been necessary, then no provision for it would have been made in the Jewish synagogue or the New Testament church. If prayer meetings had not been necessary, then the Master had not encouraged them, and the early christians had not been found in the "upper room" praying. It is well and wise, then, for new converts to resolve, by the Lord's help, to be regular and faithful in attending God's house, to hear the preaching of his word, and other gatherings of his people. He needs society, and christian society is the kind he should seek. If he prefers in its stead the society of the ungodly, or that of the world, it will not be long before his feet begin to slide.

2. To read their Bibles regularly and systematically. How can the mariner regulate his course on the stormy sea without his compass? How can a man walk securely in a dark night without a light to guide his footsteps? No more can a christian journey through this life without the Book which is as a lamp to his footsteps. The christian should endeavor to read God's Holy Book every day; but what he does read, whether only a few verses or a chapter, or more, let him read devoutly and prayerfully, trying to take in and be benefitted by what he reads. It is wise at times to read a whole book of God's word at one sitting, at others the reader may read only a few verses, but the point is to read reverently, carefully and devoutly. If one would be a strong christian, if he would be kept from many snares that the enemy lays for his soul, if he would be helped every day and hour in his christian pilgrimage, he must read God's word.

3. To be regular and faithful in private prayer. Christ says "but thou when thou prayest enter thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father in secret," etc. This teaches the convert that he must have his Bethel, his private place of prayer, at his home. Those who can pray publicly should use that talent, but after all, the great place for prayer is at our homes. Prayer is truly the christian's vital breath; he cannot live without it. It is just as impossible for the spirit to live without prayer as for the body to live without breath.

Besides these all-important duties, there are of course others of a collateral kind, many of which spring out of the faithful performance of the above, that the pastor would do well to call the attention of the new converts to. Among these one of very great importance is that he should insist that the new convert at once place himself in full sympathy with the people among whom he has cast his lot. To do this he should be encouraged to read Baptist history, denominational literature, and especially his denominational paper or papers. How can a man be an intelligent supporter of the principles and doctrines of a people that he knows little about? How can he be an intelligent Baptist and keep in line with his people when he does not even read his State paper? The pastor is very much in his own light, and certainly neglects one great means of developing his new converts, when he fails to place in their hands at once, if possible, his denominational paper. If he is (or thinks he is) too poor to take it, it would be a wise investment for his church to pay for it. It will be soon appreciate its value, and then he will pay for it himself.

SEVERAL communications, for want of room, cannot be printed in this issue.

ADMINISTRATION OF BAPTISM.

Baptism is a very solemn and impressive ordinance. It is a symbolic representation of the burial and resurrection of Christ, and also includes the idea of our death to the old life and resurrection to the new. Owing to the solemnity of the ordinance, pastors should be careful to remind the giddy crowd of sight-seers that often go to the baptism that it is not a pic nic, a frolic, or a time and place for light and giddy talk and laughter, such as one may sometimes see among the unconverted, or even among professed christians, who are not unwilling by misbehaviour to defeat the force of the impression that the administration of the ordinance, in the manner that Christ commanded, always makes upon those who reverently witness it. Paul says, "Let all things be done decently and in order." This will apply to baptism as well as other christian duties. There is nothing indecent about baptism, as some shallow-headed people have claimed; but still it is wise, and a christian duty, that such arrangement be made for its administration as that it can be performed with comfort and convenience on the part of the convert and the administrator. Baptisteries are generally in order. When the church is located near a river, or large stream of water, a suitable place can usually be found. We use the word usually as above advisedly, because such places cannot always be found ready to hand even in large streams. In this case it is a duty that any church of Christ should be ashamed to neglect to find or provide a suitable place, even though the providing of it cost the members some labor and expense. To call a company of converts and a crowd of people to a place where the banks of the stream are deep and slippery, the bottom a foot deep in slimy mud, or covered with rough, sharp rocks, or where the bottom is so uneven, that the candidate and administrator are in danger of going beyond the proper depth, and then expect the baptism to be administered in an impressive manner is to expect something that does not often happen. We have seen pastors placed in such unsuitable places to administer baptism that even their own members would laugh at their slips or blunders as they call them. Our people ought to be ashamed of this, when with a little labor or expense they could provide a suitable place for baptism.

Those who oppose us are delighted when they see blunders or slips in the administration of the ordinance, and it does really seem as if some of our people delight in giving them such opportunities. What church that respects itself, or the Master, would be content to have the pastor administer the Lord's Supper, one ordinance of Christ, with soiled linen on the table, with stale bread, and with rusty vessels to hold the bread and wine? If we are thus careful about the Lord's Supper, (and we ought to be), why not exercise proper care about the place of baptism and the proper administration of the other great ordinance of the Master? We will close with the practical suggestion that a church that has no baptistery had better go miles to find a suitable place in a clear running stream than resort for convenience sake to some of the miserable, muddy ponds, or other places, that are sometimes used for baptism. The people in the days of Christ journeyed, as did the Master, some distance to be baptized of John in Jordan. They can afford now to go a few miles rather than select an unsuitable place, or with some little expense they can provide one nearer home.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The Supreme Court of North Carolina was first established in 1818. It has had altogether twenty nine judges, including the present incumbents. In running over these judges we find the following interesting facts as to their nativity, ages and religious persuasion :—

Chief Justice Taylor was born in England, Chief Justice Ruffin, Judges Hall and Shepherd were born in Virginia, and Judge Boyden in Massachusetts. The other twenty-four were native North Carolinians. Judge Settle was the youngest judge, having ascended the bench at thirty-seven. Next came the elder Ruffin, Pearson, Murphey, Shepherd and Clark, who all went on at forty-two or forty-three. Judge Nash went on at sixty-three, and was in his seventy second year when made Chief Justice. Judge Smith went on the bench at sixty-five, Ashe at sixty-six, Boyden at seventy-four, and yet served two and a half years. Smith and Ashe were each in their seventy-fifth year when elected the second time. As to religious persuasion, five were Presbyterians—Nash, Reade, Dick, Smith and Avery; two Roman Catholics—Gaston and Manly; one Methodist—Clark; one Baptist—Faircloth; two members of no church; and the remaining eighteen, being nearly two-thirds of the whole number, were Episcopalians.

THE NEED OF PRACTICAL RELIGION.

Notwithstanding this has been styled "the utilitarian age," it is true that the greatest need among our churches to day is practical religion. If our religious theories could be put into practice it would work a revolution in our land. The doctrines of our different denominations have been so thoroughly discussed that they are understood, both by those who accept them and those who reject them.

But it would astonish almost any one to know how very many professors of religion neglect to practice the commonest duties in life.

1. Personal piety lies at the foundation of the whole system, and let any pastor undertake the task of ascertaining how many of his flock have good systematic habits of piety, and he would perhaps be alarmed at the result. Let him start thus and ask every member he meets: "Do you read your Bible and pray regularly every day?" Many will have to say "Well, sometimes I don't have time to read my Bible every day," and many would be the evasions that he would meet. In fact, many young church members can be found, who have no Bible, and who have no fixed habits of daily devotion at all. And the pity is that it is not confined to the young.

2. Home religion, or family religion, is the most important department of all, and it is the most sadly neglected. It will be safe to assert that the majority of the heads of families in our churches have no regular system of home religion. Very many fail to read the Bible and pray in their families daily, and some not at all. And there are some who do not even ask a blessing at their meals.

The cause of Christ is suffering more for the lack of the practical exercise of religion in the homes of church members than from all the forms of infidelity combined. Every member of the household receives the benefit of family worship. Consequently when it is neglected every one suffers the loss of it.

3. In business relations there is a sad neglect of practical religion. So many fail to impress upon their fellows, with whom they come in contact, a proper regard for their welfare, but instead, the rule is for every man to get all he can for himself, and to get the best of every bargain. Such a course among professors of religion has a bad effect upon the world. If christians generally could be aroused at this point and induced to act upon the example set before them by the Master, a great forward movement would be seen all along the line of the Lord's hosts.

4. In our church work there is, in many instancies, a great need of the practical, many golden opportunities are lost to church members by being indifferent towards their brethren.

In many cases they do not allow themselves to become acquainted with each other.

On one occasion, a city pastor found it necessary to preach a sermon to his charge from the text, "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." (Heb. 13: 2). He pointed out some instances in which he had found his brethren living near together and not knowing each other. The effect of the sermon was to set quite a number of the members to hunting up their neighbors, and soon a great many surprises were reported and instances were found where brethren were living in adjoining houses and yet strangers.

How can we obey the plain injunction in Gal. 6: 10, "As we have, therefore, opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith," unless we be willing to know strangers who come into our midst.

Great remission is often found in some of our churches in the neglect of wayward members and new members generally. Not infrequently our pastors and church workers fail to work up these classes until they fall under the discipline of the church. A boy thirteen years old joins the church, his father is not a christian, his mother a nominal member of the church. At eighteen years old the young man is reported at a deacon's meeting as a delinquent, he doesn't attend church, nor Sunday-school, he is set down for discipline. A committee is sent to notify him to appear at the next conference, and show cause why he should not be expelled. He fails to come, some one moves to withdraw fellowship from him. But inquiries are made and these facts come out: the pastor has not had any special conversation with him on his church relations or religious condition. The superintendent of the Sunday-school and all the teachers have failed to go to see him and invite him to attend Sunday-school, and no one has urged him to attend prayer meeting. Now, where is there the most blame, on the part of the young man or, on the part of the church? "As we sow, so shall we reap," and is not the fault of that young man the legitimate harvest of such sowing?

There are many other things that might be appropriately mentioned, but enough has been said for the present. The remedy is plain and simple. Let pastors and church workers devote their arguments less to theories and direct them to practical godliness, and let the efforts be turned in the direction of persuading their church members to practice religion in their lives, in their homes and in their business relations. It is not a very popular thing to do, but it is the right thing to do.

QUERIES.

Bro. Bailey:—I want to know if a second ordination of a deacon is required where the brother elect once served his church as deacon and was relieved of the responsible position at his own request.

I also wish to know if a church has a right to reconsider a case like the following: An excluded member applies for restoration and letter of dismission. The request is granted, but shortly after, and before the letter is delivered, the brethren hear rumors of unbecoming acts on the part of applicant, committed before restoration, and which would have induced a more thorough looking into the request of the applicant had they been known to the brethren before the restoration and granting letter.

JNO. P. BOYD.

Polkton, N. C., Sept. 9, 1892.

ANSWER.—To first query, we say, it is not; and to second, we say, it has.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

THREE FORKS ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday morning the rain was pouring down in torrents as we made our way to "Meat Camp" church, where the Association was held. The house, however, was full of people who had come through the rain to be at the Association.

"Meat Camp" creek, from which the church was called, took its name from the custom of the Indians who were accustomed to meet here for the purpose of cooking and curing the wild game which they killed in these mountain forests.

Wednesday we had a perfect day—fair, cool, and no dust,—and the people came in crowds from all directions in buggies, wagons, steer carts, and on foot. Only a small portion of the crowd could be accommodated in the church, so while the delegates were doing the business of the Association a great multitude spent the time under the tall poplars, magnificent oaks and walnut trees which have stood here for centuries. A considerable number of our Tennessee brethren were here; in fact, some churches in the Association are just across the line. More men who were over six feet tall came to this Association than I have seen in any portion of the State. I wish I knew how many old soldiers I saw who lost a limb in the war. There were certainly more than I ever saw at any other like gathering of men.

Bro. A. C. Farthing, who has been moderator of the Association for fifteen years, declined to serve longer, and Bro. W. S. Farthing was elected in his stead. He has represented his county in the legislature, is very popular with his people, and makes a good presiding officer.

After the discussion of Foreign Missions by brethren Durham, Spainhour and Jones, a letter from Bro. G. W. Greene, missionary to China, was read to the Association. This body last year pledged for the support of Bro. Greene more than three hundred dollars. I do not know the amount pledged this year, but think it considerably under this amount. The amount for the other objects were about the same as last year. But for the stringency in money matters we should see a great increase in all the departments of our work. I met many brethren who would delight in doubling all of their contributions if they only had the money with which to do it. For the past two weeks I have seen scores of young men who are longing for an opportunity to go to school in order to fit themselves for better work, and yet they are kept away from college for the want of means to pay necessary expenses. These are the men who ought to be looked after by such of our schools and colleges which, by the aid they may get from the State and other sources, are enabled to lessen the expenses of education.

Dr. Stallings was here in the interest of education. His efforts were highly appreciated by the Association, and we think he secured several girls for his school at High Point.

The RECORDER is much appreciated in this Association, and by the special kindness and interest which several of the brethren manifested we secured a number of new subscribers.

Thursday evening, in a bran new hack and a pair of good horses, we start for the

ASHE AND ALLEGHANY ASSOCIATION.

We were among the first to reach the church next morning, having gotten up early enough to see a good size frost Friday morning. Mr. Hamilton, a leading citizen of Ashe county, was very kind to us, took us in at 9 p. m., gave us a good supper, and started us on our way at 7 next morning.

This was a much larger gathering than we saw at this Association last year. Bro. Fields was again elected moderator, and exhibited his accustomed skill for business and interest in the work of his Association. He has represented his district in the State Senate for many years, and has recently been nominated again for the same office. When enough of the State and National offices are filled by men like W. C. Fields, then there will be reform indeed in politics.

This Association has shown marked improvement every year since its organization, six or seven years ago, and this year it will do more than it has done in any previous year.

The business of the Association being practically over, we take another early start for the nearest railroad point, and thence to Raleigh on the 2 a. m. train Sunday morning. The rails and wood-piles at six in the morning were white with frost, and my travelling companions were in their overcoats buttoned clear up to the neck.

The mountains could never be more beautiful than just now. The people have plenty of hay, corn, fruit and honey, but money is exceedingly scarce, more so than I ever saw it before. This will not always be so. It will not be many years before steel rails will be laid over and through all of this magnificent section, and this splendid timber, fruits, cabbages and minerals will be distributed all over the world. So far as the Baptists are concerned they will participate largely in any future development which may come to this section, for they well nigh possess this entire section, so far as churches and school houses tend to give possession. Every few miles you pass a church, and it is hardly worth while to ask what denomination it is, for nine out of every ten are Missionary Baptist. J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Eighteen missionaries left Boston last week for the foreign field.

....The Tar River Association meets in Louisburg, Oct. 5th, 1892.

....Rev. B. Craig has resigned the pastorate of Mt. Tabor church.

....Dr. T. T. Eaton, editor of the Western Recorder, has returned from Europe.

....A protracted meeting is in progress at the Baptist church in Edenton, N. C.

....Rev. E. J. Edwards baptized nine orphans at Thomasville on the 19th inst.

....Rev. O. P. Meeks began a meeting at Rowan church, Sampson county, last Monday.

....Rev. Tom Dixon of New York delivered a lecture in Richmond, Va., last Monday night.

....Rev. O. T. Edwards was made moderater of the Sandy Creek Association at its last session.

....Rev. R. E. Peele recently held a meeting at Maxton. There were a number of professions.

....Rev. C. A. Woodson of Durham aided Rev. William L. Fitcher of Virginia in a meeting last week.

....Rev. D. P. Bridges of Catawba will attend the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville.

....Rev. Chas. A. G. Thomas, Greensboro, writes September 19th: "Baptized two last night and had a packed house."

....Rev. F. R. Underwood, lately of North Carolina, is now missionary to the James River Association, Virginia.

....It is published that Rev. Dr. G. C. Lorimer will receive a call to the Regent's Park Baptist church, London, England.

....Rev. Jno. W. Suttle, on account of ill health, has resigned his charge at Louisville, and returned to his home in Shelby.

....W. C. Douglass, a rising young lawyer of Carthage, was made clerk of the Sandy Creek Association at its session last week.

....Mrs. Stella W. Blalock will be united in marriage to Mr. A. D. Harris on October 5th, at Gardner's church, Warren county.

....Rev. W. J. Sholar, pastor of Noble Street Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., was the guest of Capt. C. P. Powell at Oxford last week.

....Rev. J. S. Hardaway of Oxford has recently been called to mourn the death of his father, J. S. Hardaway, of Amelia county, Virginia.

....Rev. Mr. Huneycutt recently baptized ten persons in Rocky river, as a result of a protracted meeting at Log Cabin, Tyson's township, Montgomery county.

....Dr. N. B. Cobb preached a fine sermon at Manly last Sunday morning on Foreign Missions, and the congregation made a large contribution for that object.

....Revs. Thomas Carrick and N. S. Jones held a meeting with Jersey church, Linwood, last week. We have not yet learned the results of the meeting.

....Rev. J. R. Harrison, the Virginia Evangelist, will hold a series of meetings with the Tabernacle Baptist church, Dr. J. J. Hall, pastor, commencing Oct. 1st.

....The Atlantic Association meets on Tuesday, Oct. 11th, at Newbern. Brethren who intend going will write a postal to the pastor, Rev. R. Ford, Newbern, N. C.

....Rev. J. A. Hursey of Ashpole, N. C., was in Raleigh a day or two last week visiting his friend, Mr. Thad Ivey, and called to see us. We were very glad to see him.

....Rev. Wm. H. Strickland is pastor of three churches in or near Decatur, Ga. His health is not good, but is better than it was last year, and he preaches every Sunday.

....Rev. S. H. Thompson of South Boston, Va., will assist Rev. J. K. Howell in a protracted meeting at Providence, beginning on the first Sunday in October.—Caswell News.

....Bro. Oliver Blackburn, Clerk of the Eastern Association, writes: "The Wilmington, Onslow and East Carolina Railroad has consented to pass delegates, who wish to go to the next session of the Eastern Baptist Association at Richlands, via Wilmington, from Wilmington to Jacksonville, round trip tickets, for $2 00—good for five days."

....The Alexander and the Green River Associations meet this week—the former at Taylorsville, and the latter at Old Fort. Dr. Durham expects to be at both of these meetings.

....Rev. A. T. Denny of Roxboro was taken sick recently while on his way to Wake Forest College, and has returned home. He was accompanied by Rev. R. R. Day.

....Rev. W. M. Gilmore, a graduate of Wake Forest College in the class of '91, was ordained to the work of the gospel ministry on last Sunday at the Sandy Creek Association.

....Rev. F. H. Poston intends to begin a series of meetings at the Baptist church in Smithfield on the first Sunday night in October. Rev. O. L. Stringfield is expected to aid him.

....Rev. C. S. Cashwell closed his meeting at Cana on last Sunday. He was assisted by Rev. S. F. Conrad. Fifteen persons connected themselves with the church.—Davie Times, Sept. 23.

....Rev. F. H. Martin will return to his church in Lumberton, Oct. 1st. During his summer vacation, Rev. V. I. Masters supplied the pulpit, and greatly endeared himself to the people.

....Tickets are out for the marriage of Miss Julia Evelyn, daughter of Major and Mrs. Wm. A. Graham, and Mr. Slaughter W. Huff, on Wednesday evening, October 5th, at Forest Home, N. C.

....Rev. A. A. Newhall of Southern Pines, a returned missionary from the Telugu country, attended the Sandy Association, and added much to the interest of the session by his speech on missions.

....The Sandy Creek Association at Bethlehem church last week was the best session of that body for many years. The spirit and the work of missions are being developed in this body as never before.

....Mr. Daniel Shepardson, Jr., youngest son of the Rev. Dr. Shephardson of Granville has been elected assistant pastor of the First Baptist church, Chicago, of which the Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson is pastor.—Ex.

....Delegates to the Eastern Association will come to Jacksonville, Onslow county, by way of Wilmington. Conveyances, sufficient to accommodate all, will be at Jacksonville Monday and Tuesday.—R. E. Peele.

....Rev. Mr. Wharton baptized eight persons on Sunday last in the creek near the Baptist church. There was a large crowd present. Others will be baptized at the same place next Sunday.—Waynesville Courier, Sept. 22.

....A "Womans' Missionary Society" has been recently organized at the Baptist church, this place (Magnolia, N. C.) It is in good condition (membership of thirteen), prospect good for more. Mrs. R. P. Hamblin, President, Miss Annie Glission, Secretary.

....The widow of Bro. Ira Beckwith, deceased, and daughter, Miss Mollie, left Raleigh on last Thursday morning for Providence, R. I., which latter place will be their future home. We commend these worthy Baptist sisters to the Baptist people of Providence.

....A correspondent of the Leaksville Woolen Mills Company, writing from Harrellsville, September 14th, and desiring to exchange wool for cloth, failed to sign his name to the letter. If this is seen by him, he will oblige the manufacturers by letting them here from him at once.

....At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of Agricultural and Mechanical College held in Raleigh on Thursday last, Prof. B. Irby of Georgia and Prof. Wallace Riddick of Wake county were elected to fill the places of Prof. J. R. Chamberlain and Prof. J. H. Kineally, resigned.

....Bro. J. M. Prim of Silver writes: "A very interesting series of meetings has closed at Holloway's church. The pastor, Rev. J. M. Bennett, was assisted by Rev. Thos. Carrick of Lexington." Night and day services were largely attended, much interest was manifested, and at the close of the meeting ten were baptized by the pastor.

....Prof. Chas. Lee Smith of William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., writes: "William Jewell College opened with two hundred students. Three hundred will probably be enrolled this session, the largest attendance in the history of the College. All are delighted with the new President, Dr. S. P. Green, who comes to us from St. Louis."

....The new Southside Baptist church at Birmingham, Ala., was dedicated on Sunday, the 18th inst., Dr. P. S. Henson of Chicago preaching the sermon. Rev. Dr. P. T. Hale, the pastor, is a good worker. The membership of the church has increased in two years from 171 to 538. This is the first (white) Baptist church of brick in the entire county.

....Rev. C. W. Matthews writes us from Harrellsville, September 19: "We have just closed a good meeting here conducted by Rev. B. Craig, assisted by the writer. Five have been received for baptism, and we had three more confessions last night." Bro. Matthews left Harrellsville last Wednesday to attend the Crozer Theological Seminary, at Chester, Pa.

....Rev. G. A. Sowell writes us from Seymour, Conn., September 19th, as follows: "We leave to-morrow for Crozer Theological Seminary Chester, Pa. Have had a pleasant visit to this delightful country. This State is much in need of Baptist preachers of pluck and unswerving perseverance. The great mass of the people here seem eager for the gospel of our fathers. The RECORDER is a most welcome visitor to our house—more welcome indeed than ever before."

....Bro. J. D. Newton, writes: "Died at the home of her father and mother in Duplin county, N. C., September 2, 1892, Miss Mary Tignor, daughter of Rev. John T. and Mrs. Dorcas Albritton, aged twenty-three years. She was a devoted member of Mount Olive Baptist church, and a beautiful christian. May the Lord bestow needed grace upon the bereaved in this sad hour."

....Please state in your paper that it is requested, that all parties expecting to attend the Mecklenburg and Cabarrus Association, write to Rev. J. O. Alderman at Concord, N. C., at which place parties coming by rail will get off. Please let the names of all attending by rail be sent in at once so that arrangements may be made for conveyance to the church.—J. O. Alderman.

....Rev. J. H. Edwards and family have returned to their home at Goldsboro, after an extended visit to relatives near Cheraw, S. C. The Baptist Courier says: "Over one hundred have been added to the membership of the church of which he is pastor, and a second Baptist church has been organized in the town. Bro. Edwards attended the Ridge Association and was frequently called out to speak."

....I wish to state through your columns, that I have been authorized to say, that the committee of arrangements will meet the ministers and delegates, who expect to go by rail, that wish to attend the next session of the Mt. Zion Association, to be held with Olive's Chapel church, Wake county, Oct. 18 to 20th, 1892. Those wishing to accept this kindness, will please notify the undersigned at Apex.—James H. Olive, Chairman Committee.

...."Bible Day" is the second Sunday in November. The schools and churches should by this time be perfectly familiar with the fact. A carefully prepared programme has been printed and is furnished free on condition that the contribution shall be made for the Bible work of our denomination, and that the money received shall be forwarded promptly to Dr. Bitting, Bible Secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia.

....The Board of Missions was instructed by the Convention at Shelby to use in its State Mission work, during 1891, $16,500, and at the Goldsboro Convention the amount fixed for this work in 1892 was $15,000, with the $2,000 additional brought over as a debt from the past year, making the amount needed this year, $17,000. Up to Sept. 30th, 1891, the Treasurer had received and acknowledged for State Missions, on that year's work, $6,210.72, and for this year's work to date, he has received for State Missions, as his report in this paper shows, $6,135.70. Brethren, please aid us in this work NOW.—C. Durham.

Letter from Sister Crawford in China

Bro. Editor:—May I ask space in your columns to lay some recent events of our missionary life before the readers of the BIBLICAL RECORDER? I need not begin farther back than my husband's visit to the United States in 1885. He made this visit under a sense of duty and at his own expense for the purpose of trying to induce our Baptist Boards and churches, North and South, to consider some serious evils connected with our Foreign Mission methods, and to urge them to adopt, if possible, what is called the "native self-support policy." This policy is in short, preach Christ, and let adjuncts alone, or, as Dr. Ashmore says: "Give the heathen the gospel, and let them develop their own civilization." In other words, it means to evangelize the world without the accompanying inducements of foreign money in employing native preachers and Bible women, in building chapels, carrying on schools, hospitals and other charitable institutions which should have a natural growth on the native soil. Mr. Crawford's "self-support" ideas began upon our arrival at Hong Kong early in 1863 from what we there heard regarding the ways of certain "native assistants," and grew with his years and experience until they reached their present form.

A careful study of Scriptural principles and methods of work, with a determination to do God's will wherever recognized at all hazards, also led him stage by stage to the conclusions set forth in his recent tract, 'Churches to the Front." The publication of this tract, as he anticipated, caused the Foreign Mission Board to drop his name from the roll of their missionaries. The views therein expressed did not originate, as insinuated in the May number of the Foreign Mission Journal, from "wrath" engendered by the failure of his efforts to introduce the "self-support" policy, or from any personal grievance (for he has none), but from "many years of observation in connection with missionary operations and deep seated Baptist convictions," as clearly stated on the twelfth page of the tract.

To challenge the Scripturalness, wisdom or practicability of his position is legitimate and open to all; but, without proof, to impugn his motives and turn aside to personal attacks and inuendoes, as various persons have been doing, is, to say the least, unbrotherly. As lately said in the Baptist and Reflector, freedom of the press is one thing, license another, and so of speech. When christian men feel at liberty to defeat a measure by making such attacks upon its supporters, it is surely time to call a halt and study the Golden Rule. Because a man advocates new or unpopular views, may he therefore be called "half crazy", "off in mind," "crank," "erratic," and the like? Many brethren in this way attempt to defeat his arguments by trying to undermine the confidence of the brotherhood in his motives and personal character! Surely such "campaign tricks" should not prevail among the children of God. Mr. Crawford and the other faithful missionaries, of whom these harsh things are now being circulated, are, as they believe (each from his own point of view), bravely contending, at the sacrifice of their own interests, for great principles involving the well-being of the church of God and the success of Foreign Missions. They criticise public methods, not individual men. If their views are wrong, let them be met by arguments and facts, not by personal insinuations and attempts to suppress freedom of speech.

Mr. Crawford determined at the beginning of his efforts for reform not to turn aside to defend himself under any provocation, but to keep steadily on in pushing the principles for which he was contending. Early in 1889 he wrote the Secretary of the Board, resigning his salary and the responsibilities of the work which he felt unable to bear. That he has "since continued to associate himself with the missionaries of the Board" is gladly admitted. With whom else should he associate except with Baptist brethren of the same faith and order, laboring in the same field? That he has tried to "direct the policy" of these missionaries is not true, unless the free expression of his opinions on matters of public concern (a right held sacred by every true man) be so construed; for he has never voted since then on a single question coming before the mission, and has no means whatever for putting pressure upon them, even if he so desired.

On account of the publication of the tract, "Churches to the Front," Dr. Tupper wrote Mr. Crawford a kindly-expressed letter (as his letters have always been), informing him that his name would be omitted in the list of missionaries where it had remained by courtesy since his retirement from responsibilities in the spring of 1889. It left me in doubt as to what would be done with my name until a few days ago, when the June number of the Foreign Mission Journal was received, dropping his and retaining my name. I then wrote the Board as follows:

"Dear Dr. Tupper:—Since seeing your letter of April 7th to my husband, informing him that on account of the publication of his tract 'Churches to the Front,' his name had been removed from the roll of missionaries, I have been waiting to know what disposition had been made of mine. By the mail just in, I see from the Foreign Mission Journal that my name has been retained, and I now write to ask that at the next meeting of the Board the relations and responsibilities hitherto existing between that body and myself may terminate. Though henceforth identifying myself fully with the 'Gospel Mission' movement, it is our desire to live and labor in most cordial and fraternal relations with all our Baptist brotherhood. We expect to continue our work for the Master here, as members of the Tung Chow Baptist church, as in the past. The Board is welcome to the results of these labors. We shall leave them with God and be content. It will also be our care and study to keep the 'unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace,' both among missionaries and the natives. It is not possible for us to transfer to others the personal respect and confidence of the community which we have acquired by nearly thirty years of going in and out among those for whom we have laid down more than our lives many times. We shall, as heretofore, try always to use these for no selfish ends, earnestly striving to bring souls to Christ and bring them up in the faith as God may give us opportunity.

With our best wishes for yourself and all the members of the Board, and with high appreciation of all your labors and anxieties in our behalf through our many years of service in this heathen land, believe me, as ever, yours sincerely,

M. F. CRAWFORD."

As stated above, it is our purpose to remain and labor in this field as heretofore, not for personal convenience, but because the necessities of the work demand it. Should duty call we shall not hesitate to remove to the ends of the earth. Should we and the Bosticks "seek some other field of labor," as suggested in the May Journal, there would be only one man left for Tungchow and Hwanghien, and he as yet unable for want of the language to shepherd these little flocks and preach to the heathen of this region. This would be an irreparable loss to the denomination. By the blessing of God and the support of the churches either directly or through the Board, we all hope to remain at our posts, and pray to be largely reinforced immediately. In laboring for our Lord, does it matter whether the missionaries derive their support in one way or the other? Surely the Baptist denomination has not become so consolidated, centralized and controlled, that a matter of this kind can make a breach of fellowship between them.

It is not my purpose to enter the controversial arena. As hitherto, I shall bend my energies to the presenting of Christ as the way of life to these perishing people. At the same time I do not ignore the fact that I owe some duties on the other side of the Pacific, and will not shrink from speaking when it seems to me right to do so. We are thankful to say that we do not need to ask pecuniary aid ourselves, as we have an income sufficient to maintain us in the same simple style to which we have adhered throughout our more than forty years of missionary life. We are both as good—as sane—as orthodox—and as worthy as in the days when we were "so much honored and beloved." M. F. CRAWFORD.

Tungchow, China, August, 1892.
(Chefoo P. O.)

Help! Help!!

Dear Recorder:—To one accustomed only to do quietly the work assigned him, it is sometimes difficult to tell others of his struggles, lest, in so doing, he seem to be giving undue prominence to it. Now, I have a somewhat similar feeling in breaking the silence to speak to my brethren all over North Carolina about our needs at Washington.

First, about Washington itself. Well, let me say at once, it is one of the most enterprising, progressive towns of the east, with a population of between 4,000 and 5,000, and having the promise of a more rapid growth than at any period of its history.

Other denominations—Presbyterians, Disciples, Methodists and Episcopalians—are well established, having well located, commodious and attractive houses of worship; while we can scarcely claim organic representation, and have to worship in an old dilapidated building that many of our better-to-do farmers would not use as a barn. This is not now, neither has it been, the fault of the few Baptists in Washington. They are now, and have been, powerless to help themselves, and yet, so far as I know, no general appeal has been made for them. Strange to say, too, this is true, while some other places of nothing like its promise have been helped, possibly to their injury. But enough of this.

Brethren and sisters in the Lord, I am profoundly stirred over this matter. If as Baptists we are to do anything worthy of mention in Washington, we must have a better house. The "Lord's hidden ones" there have not lost hope. They still have faith in God and their more favored brethren and sisters. They have said to me, "Tell them of our condition, and ask them to help us."

It is a modest request—not what, looking to the future, would be desirable, but simply what will meet present necessities. We ask only $1,000 or $1,200 from abroad, hoping to raise $300 or $400 on the field. With this amount we can so remodel and repair the old building as to give our work a show of permanency and supply a present need. This done, we can with confidence leave the future to provide for itself.

What say you, my brethren? Shall we cry in vain for help? I am persuaded, not; for one good brother, whose heart and purse are always open to the cry of the needy, has said, substantially, "Provide for the other, and look to me for the last one hundred dollars." Will no other brethren follow the example of this brother? Are there not many pastors who will aid us in this work? And may we not look for responses from a host of churches and Sunday schools? Brethren, if you could but see the imperative need for this thing, and then what there is of promise in it, I am sure you would make haste to help us.

Once more, I ask it for the dear Master's sake, as I am sure it will be for his glory. Remit to Mrs. M. I. Riley, Washington, N. C., or J. F. Tuttle, Plymouth, N. C.

Plymouth, N. C. J. F. TUTTLE.

Revival in Lilesville Church.

Dear Recorder:—We closed a most gracious meeting at Lilesville last Saturday. Bro. Harman came to assist me Monday after second Sunday in August, the regular time for holding the meeting; but as I was too unwell to be there, he was unwilling to continue the meeting, and after preaching a few most excellent sermons, he closed.

Saturday before the second Sunday in September we began again, and on Monday Bro. Wildman of Wadesboro came to my assistance. Bro. Wildman has evangelistic gifts to an eminent degree. His preaching is plain, simple and forceful; his manner is very winning, and he has enough generalship to manage a congregation admirably. He resorts to none of the tricks and methods of the modern evangelist; but relies on the old gospel, accompanied by God's Spirit, to do the work. There was no "high pressure," no excitement, but a deep quiet interest throughout the entire meeting.

There were thirteen professions and as many more anxious inquirers when the meeting closed. Bro. Wildman has completely won the hearts of all my people, and the Wadesboro people are enlarging the parsonage and making it more comfortable with the hope that they are settling a pastor for life. It was a real treat for me to have Bro. Wildman with me for a week as he was my pastor in by-gone days.

About a year ago the young men of Lilesville church organized a weekly prayer-meeting, which has been a means of spiritual devotion to those who took part in it.

This year the Lilesville church has preaching twice a month, instead of once, and are so well pleased with the change, that I don't think they'll ever be satisfied to go back to once a-month preaching.

Providence permitting, will administer the ordinance of baptism next Sunday.

Fraternally, L. JOHNSON.

Rockingham, September 21, 1892.

Gracious Meetings.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I commenced a meeting at Waxhaw on the 30th of July, which lasted six days. Bro. N. B. Broughton of Raleigh was with me three days and done some good gospel preaching.

He is a good brother and a good preacher, and he holds a place in the hearts of our brethren and sisters. No additions during the meeting, but I baptized two yesterday and two more restored. We have had additions at this place at almost every meeting this year.

On the first Sunday in August, I began to assist Bro. D. A. Snider in a meeting at Macadonia, which lasted six days. Five were added by baptism.

On the second Sunday I began a meeting at Mt. Pleasant. Here I had no help. We had a gracious meeting. Five more added by baptism. Others will join.

On the first Sunday in September, myself and Bro. J. W. Little held a meeting at a newly-organized church in this county. This was the best meeting I have been in, in many years. Thirty-seven by baptism and four by letter were added. The Holy Spirit was with us from the first—conversions at every service, at home, in the field, on the road, and everywhere. At some of the services, every unconverted person present come forward for prayer. We go there again next Wednesday the 21st of September to baptize. The work is still going on in the community. Many others have sent me word of their intention to be baptised. On Wednesday next, when we return, the meeting will be carried on a few days more. This is a point where there has been no Baptist preaching. One man and his wife, aged seventy-six and seventy-nine years, were converted and joined the church. Most of the people who joined the church are fathers and mothers. Many were converted who did not join during the meeting, but will unite with us at next appointment.

God bless you, Bro. Bailey, and the dear old RECORDER which is as a letter of good news from friends every week.

Yours in Christ, A. B. CAUDLE.

Acknowledgment of Favors Received.

Dr. Bailey:—Please allow me space in the columns of the RECORDER to make some acknowledgment of the favors received at the hands of our white Baptist brethren. Permit me to say that it is with a great deal of pleasure that I note the increase of brotherly co operation among the white and colored brethren of North Carolina. So deep rooted is that feeling of friendship that it cannot be overwhelmed by the surging and boisterous tide of political strife. When I think of the fact that the white Baptist State Convention set apart such a large part of its funds for the better equipment of our colored ministry (together with the most hearty endorsement of that act by the people at large), I am forced to believe that we are in the midst of those who would have us advance to the highest civilization known to man. For truly there is no theory of government, no human ingenuity, that can lift a people into higher realms of purity than adherence to christian principles. I rejoice to see wise and sagacious statesmen eloquently pleading in Senate halls in behalf of my people, but I am more willing to leave our cause to the righteous consideration of a God fearing people, moved by motives of purity and love and actuated by the sublime teachings of christianity.

But to the point. I am at present engaged in building Belton Creek church, a colored Baptist church at Clay, Granville county, N. C. This church was organized several years ago. It was once very strong. The first building was upon a piece of land for which they could never get a deed. Finally, they moved out into a log school house. In consequence of this removal, many members deserted, while others went into open sin. The church was in this condition, when I was called about fifteen months ago.

My first step was to arouse the church spiritually. We had a seven-days' meeting. Twenty were happily converted, the most of whom united with our church. It was a gracious outpouring of God's Spirit which caused many souls to consecrate themselves to the service of the Master.

Now for the house of worship. Having done what I could among my members and people, I called upon the members of Corinth (white) Baptist church. They directed me to their forests, there to cut and hew such timbers as I needed. Even the widows gave timber. We gathered sills, sleepers, scantling, rafters, &c., and carried them to the piece of land for which we had bargained.

When we attempted to pay for the land, we were surprised to hear the words: "I'll give you the land, keep your money to aid you in building."

Surely, there is no community in all the land whose people are more interested in the spiritual elevation of the colored people.

We raised our church, and were ready for lumber that could not be sawed near by on account of dry weather. So the second Saturday in September found me seated in the conference of Corinth (white) Baptist church. After the business was over, I was voted permission to present my work. Notwithstanding the large amount of lumber given, yet they were so much interested in my talk that they voluntarily gave me five dollars, which was, indeed, a great help at that stage of the work. They expressed the willingness to give me twenty-five dollars had they known I was coming.

Brethren, when you pass Clay on the Durham and Northern Railroad, you will see a nice church building which stands as a monument to the generosity of a christian community.

May this spirit of brotherly love continue till it shall pervade every part of our common country.

In our prayer-meetings, while building, we have had four conversions and several inquirers.

Our meeting commences on the fourth Sunday in September.

Thanking you for this opportunity, I am

Yours for Christ, T. O. FULLER,
Pastor Belton Creek Church.

Sixty-five Dollars Less.

Sixty-five dollars less has been received by the Treasurer for State Missions this year than was received by him for the same object up to this date last year. While this is doing well, under the circumstances, the fact will serve as a reminder of the special object—State Missions—that should be kept prominently before our churches for the months of October and November. With a united effort we can go to the Convention this year without a debt on our State Mission department. We ought, most certainly, to have the hearty co operation of every pastor and church in this work during the months indicated above, and, if we have it, all will be well, and we will have no debt on State Missions this year. Brethren, please do not forget or postpone, or neglect this work. C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

A question for North Carolina Baptists: Who is to write the biography of our missionary to China, Matthew T. Yates? Shall his labors perish from the earth, or lie in scattered minutes and periodicals, in an inaccessible form to the general reader? See what the English did for their Carey, Marshman and Ward and others. Judson died in 1850 and behold the different pens which chronicled his labors and success—[illegible] Boardman and others. Yates lies after near forty years of missionary work, and not a line, so far as known, has been written! Brethren, this ought not to be.

Acts 5: 38.

John Wesley was called the "quiescence of turbulence," because of the advice he gave, especially in times of excitement. Like men in our time, because of their influence, can pour "oil on the troubled waters." About the same thing might be said about Gamaliel. When there was a probability that trouble would occur, when the distant sound of thunder warned of the coming storm, a few words from this great man scattered the clouds and the sky was clear again for awhile. Might he not have used his influence to better advantage? He did the cause of Christ a kindness—did he? He only said "Let them alone." He was not for the cause of Christ, he simply was not against it. If the cause were left to such friends, a million would not advance it.

Gamaliel's policy was to let the matter alone. It, with the advice of Pilate's wife to have "nothing to do with that just person," is the policy of many church-members to-day. What per cent. of our churches know the work intimately? How many of them are absolutely ignorant of the interests the churches are trying to foster? Many of them will absent themselves in order to keep from taking any part in important church affairs, and are very prompt to declare they had nothing to do with it. They disclaim any interest in the transaction, and congratulate themselves that none of the responsibility can rest upon them.

When people form a partnership, and transactions are made in the name of the firm, each one is responsible, it don't make any difference if each one is not present; but when people join the church, they say I will let the thing alone and I will not be responsible. This is not a question to be settled by human law, but if they were taken before the divine tribunal, the righteous Judge would put upon them their part of the obligation.

The policy of Gamaliel was faulty because the matter concerned every Jew. This new doctrine meant to establish the fact that Jesus was the Messiah; that the Jews crucified the Son of God; that when the Messiah came to his own people, they would not receive him. They could not keep quiet; they could not let this thing alone. If it were established, they would be looked upon as guilty of the blackest crime. Their future as a nation demanded that they should not let these men alone.

There are questions that come up before us for settlement. The policy of some is moderation. The policy of others is indifference. What should be our attitude?

Suppose the Presbyterians in the North should listen to some modern Gamaliel, and let Dr. Briggs alone, what would be the result? What does the issue involve in the matter?

Suppose the Baptists in the South, a few years ago, had listened to some Gamaliel and let Dr. Toy alone, what would have come of it? Will any one say the people made a mistake in dealing with that question. Have we not a similar question before us now? Can we afford to be silent on the subject of mission methods, to let those alone who threaten disorganization?

Let the churches be christian in their attitude, but let them be firm in the defence of what proves to be best.

Gamaliel's policy was faulty, because it did not settle the question before them; it did not adjust matters. It answered for the present, but to-morrow the troublesome question was before them again. Is it true that the "easiest way is the best way?" We have seen questions settled in this way in our yearly meeting, only to come up at the next meeting for settlement, and so on until adjustment was made. As we look into our lives and see hidden vices, no one will listen to the tempter's voice "let them alone."

Should a sinner come to ask you what to do to be saved, you would not advise him to let the question of salvation alone. When these vital questions come up for settlement, as God's children and custodians of the truth, let us seek adjustment on Scriptural grounds.

Gamaliel's policy followed would not discharge his obligation.

For Pilate to wash his hands before the people, saying "I am clear of the blood of this man," did not cleanse him from any part in this the world's tragedy. He had the power to save Jesus' life. It would have brought on him the curses of the Jews, no doubt, and involved him in other ways, but he would not have been responsible for the death of Jesus.

The community may be benefited by the godly lives of others, but how about the obligation you are under to help people to be better in your community? The gospel will be given to the heathen, but how about the obligation you are under to give the gospel to the heathen? The kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ, but are you not under obligation to help the kingdom of the Lord to come? Can you let these things alone?

Gamaliel's policy followed will cause men to miss a great opportunity to defend the truth. If the truth is in question, it is your concern. If the truth is on trial, it is your duty to defend it. Can we be true and loyal servants of the Lord and adopt the policy of Gamaliel?

TRUTH.

Separate.

How fitting a designation for christians. They are called to separateness as a duty. "Come out from among them, and be ye separate." They are actually separated by the spirit and motive of their lives. "They are not of the world, as I am not of the world." They are to be separated finally by divine provision and providence. "And they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity." There is and there will be no violence in this separation of men. The entrance of sin as a spirit and practice into the human heart separated men from God. This is a separation of antagonism, an irreconcilable antagonism. If any men are saved, they must be separated by the tendency and spirit of their lives from the lost mass of men. Birth to God does thus constitute an actual separateness of christians from the world. The development of the christian spirit and character, of the Christlikeness in men separates them more widely from the unchristian world. The development, in the unsaved, of their sinful tendencies separates them further and further from the christian. Each class naturally moves apart from the other. Each is an unwelcome and disturbing element to the other. Left to themselves they gravitate asunder toward a complete and final separation.

There is an element of judicial righteousness in the fact of final separation of the two classes. As no herdsman would herd together wolves and sheep, lions and oxen, so no justice will allot to the christian and the unchristian an eternal mingling. Heaven can be heaven only to such as are heavenly in character. To the ungodly it is unsuited. They do not gravitate toward it. They who will not go in the way toward heaven because their hearts are not in accord with it, would not enter it if they stood before its open door. If they were by authority forced into it now, it would fail to please them. The very characteristics which make it suitable to God and holy angels and redeemed men, would fatally mar it for the unchristian. Heaven itself repels the class of people who find christian society and Christ's lordship repulsive now. The worst of all violence done to the sinner is the murderous violence of his own sin. This is more than a menace, a threat or a sentence against him. It is an actual attack upon him. "Sin when it is finished bringeth forth death." The feet of the sinner are continually sliding now. It is of the very nature of sin that is a downward way, a way on which sliding is natural and easy. They have slidden away from the innocence of childhood, the hopefulness of youth, toward the hardness of confirmed habits. They are sliding away from heaven, away from God, away from those who are on their way to heaven, to sad separateness.—Christian Inquirer.

Fishing for Souls.

A poor, half clad boy was fishing for trout. With amazing success he kept drawing in the fish. A student sat upon the hillside watching the boy. He returned to his boarding-house, and in a half hour was back at the stream, adjacent to the boy, having with him new fishing tackle with modern appliances, excellent bait, etc. The student threw out his line, but did not get a single bite. He changed his position closer to the boy, fished another hour, and no success whatever. He then drew near to the side of the creek, seated himself upon a convenient rock, and patiently held his fishing rod, now and then examining his bait, until all the afternoon had passed away, and he caught nothing.

Just as the boy was about leave with his "big haul," the student exclaimed:

"My young fellow, how is this? I've caught no fish, and yet I have splendid tackle. How is it that you, with your rude fishing-pole and twine string, catch the fish?"

The boy replied: "It is not my old fishing rod, nor twine string, nor the bait, nor the hook that make the trout bite; but I kept hiding myself under the bushes while I was fishing. The fish will not bite, and you won't catch 'em, so long as you don't keep yourself out of sight."

The illustration and application of this incident is a peculiarly suggestive lesson for those who are "fishers of men."

One may have culture, intellectual endowments, style of address, elocution, reasoning powers, rhetorical attractions and admirable gifts, winning much attention to themselves, and wonderful words of encomium and praise about themselves, yet prove to be dead failures so far as winning souls to Christ is concerned.

In all work for Jesus, reader, "keep yourself out of sight." Let the people see "Jesus only."—Exchange.

To eradicate the poisons which produce fever and ague, take Ayer's Ague Cure. It cures without leaving any injurious effect upon the system, and is the only medicine in existence which may be considered an absolute antidote for malaria.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

September

King's Mountain—Gastonia, Sep 22-24.
Sandy Creek—Bethlehem church, Sep 22-24.
Green River—Old Fort, Sep 29-Oct 1.
Alexander—Taylorsville, Sep 29-Oct 1.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4-6.
Tar River—Louisburg, Oct 5-8.
Briar Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6-8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6-8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6-8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6-8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River, church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River-Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-23.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Charlotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

THE LEADING

Dry Goods and Carpet House

—OF—

North Carolina.

Mail Order Department.

A complete Mail Order Department, in which experienced help only is used. All mail orders receive the most intelligent attention.

Dress Goods,

Wraps, Blankets, Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Underwear, &c., &c

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

☞ Cash with order, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery), to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

Carpets, Curtains and Furniture.

Everything in Carpets, Curtains and Furniture. Are prepared to furnish, complete, hotels or residences. Correspondence solicited.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,

123 and 125 Fayetteville Street.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL

—AND—

BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 29, 1893. Write for catalogue to

L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c. JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 101½ Whitehall St.

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1892.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 58 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 43 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.

Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.

Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 3:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.

Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 3:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.

JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

Dated May 31, 1892.

GOING SOUTH.	No 23. Daily.	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41. Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 36 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 20 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

GOING NORTH.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	3 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		‡9 10 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4.00 p m, Halifax 4 22 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.32 p m Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.10 a m, Greenville 8.35 a m. Arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.25 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives A & R Junction 8.40 a m; returning leaves A & R Junction 7.10 p m, arrives Washington 8.45 p m Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.06 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m, 5.20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.00 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.30 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 10 40 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7.35 p m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 5.15 p m, arrives Nashville 8.55 p m, Spring Hope 6.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.20 p m, and 11.15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*8 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 08 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m	*7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	†12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	†8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.50 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.50 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York. Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D C. Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect September 10, 1892.

SO. BOUND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.		NO. BOUND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 13 p m	" Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION		No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 22 p m	" Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	" Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	" Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave Fayetteville	Arrive	8 03 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.		No 16 Daily ex Sunday
6 35 p m	Arrive Ramseur	Leave	7 15 a m
4 55 p m	Lv Climax	Lv	9 05 a m
4 00 p m	Lv Greensboro	Ar	9 50 a m

No 17			No 18
9 10 a m	Ar Greensboro	Lv	3 55 p m
7 55 a m	Lv Stokesdale	Lv	5 13 p m
7 00 a m	Leave Madison	Arrive	6 05 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Marston, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Calm Thought.

There is nothing which makes so great a difference between one man and another as the practice of calm and serious thinking. To those who have been unaccustomed to it there is required at first an effort; but it is entirely in their own power to repeat this effort if they will and when they will. It becomes every day easier by perseverance and habit—and the habit so acquired exerts a material influence upon their condition as responsible and immortal beings. In that great process, therefore, in which consists the healthy condition of any man as a moral being, there is a most important step, of which he must be conscious as an exercise of his own mind.

You feel that you have here a power, however little you may attend to the exercise of it. You can direct your thoughts to any subject you please; you can confine them to objects which are before you at the time, or occurrences which have passed during the day—or you can send them back to events which took place many years ago. You can direct them to persons whom you are in the habit of meeting from day to day, or to those who are separated from you by thousands of miles. You can place before you persons who lived, and events which occurred long before you came into existence, and you can anticipate and realize events which are not likely to occur until you have ceased to exist. Study these wondrous processes of your mind; observe what power you have over them, and what consequences of eternal importance must arise from exercising them aright.

If you can thus think of any subject you please, why cannot you think of God—of his power, his wisdom, his holiness, his justice—of his law, which he has written in your heart, and in his revealed word? Why cannot you think of and realize the period when you shall lie down in the grave—and that tremendous moment when all that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live, and shall arise to judgment? Such truths as these, duly considered or thought of, could not fail, under divine influence, to exercise a powerful effect upon all our habits of thinking and acting in this life.—N. Y. Ledger.

OXFORD, N. C., Aug. 4th, 1892.

Dear Sir:—You ask me about the Electropoise. In reply will say, that I had rheumatism in both shoulders so bad that I could not put on my coat without help, and from the use of the Electropoise a short while I am glad to say that I am entirely well. I recommend it to all who suffer with rheumatism. Respectfully, R. F. KNOTT.

HENDERSON, N. C., July 29th, 1892.

Dear Sir:—I have been suffering with grippe, and by a short use of the Electropoise find that it has benefited me a great deal. I would recommend it for rheumatism, as it has done me more good in the short time I have used it than all the other remedies I have ever used. My wife says it is the greatest remedy she ever tried for swollen ankles and that it gives her a good appetite and makes her sleep well.

Very truly, JOHN D. CLARK.

OXFORD, N. C., Aug. 19th, 1892.

Dear Sir:—I have suffered much from indigestion within the past three years, also from inability to sleep. I have used much medicine and have been to the Springs with only temporary relief. I began using the Electropoise about three months ago, and now have a good appetite, sleep well and feel better than I have done within three years past. While using the Electropoise I have used no medicine whatever.

Very truly, LAWSON KNOTT.

A fifty-page book containing information and testimonials, free, on application.

ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO.,
1405 New York Avenue,
Washington, D. C.

The Undying Book.

Nothing in the history of literature is so remarkable as the divine vitality which seems to pervade the book of God. No book has lived so long, or encountered such opposition; passed through such conflicts or spread so widely; and no book has maintained its existence with a hundredth part of the vigor which this book exhibits. It does not exhaust its energy, it does not grow old, it does not become obsolete; it lives in perennial freshness. The generations that have gone found it precious; the generations that remain find it equally precious, and whoever shall come after us shall find it is still the living and abiding word of God. Says Bishop Jewel:

"Cities fall, kingdoms come to nothing, empires fade away as smoke. Where are Numa, Minos, Lycurgus? Where are their books, and what has become of their laws? But that the Bible no tyrant should have been able to consume, no tradition to choke, no heretic maliciously to corrupt; that it should stand unto this day, amid the wreck of all that is human, without the alteration of one sentence so as to change the doctrine taught therein surely here is a very singular providence claiming our attention in a most remarkable manner."—Christian.

Preachers and Politics.

In the opinion probably of the majority of people, the clergyman in politics is altogether out of his sphere. It seems to them to be incongruous, out of all accord with the fitness of things. If a man is called to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, he is certainly not called to go upon the hustings to advocate protection or tariff reform, or any other political issue. The two spheres of action are wide apart, one pertaining to the things of this world and the other to the things of the eternal world. The kingdom of Christ, to which men are called into the ministry for the specific purpose of advancing, is a spiritual kingdom. It is not of this world. If one who is in the ministry is disposed to enter political life, he ought to quit the ministry. The preacher who goes into politics under the impression that he is going to infuse religion into it will, sooner or later, discover that so much politics has been infused into his religion, that but little of the latter is left.—United Presbyterian.

Centenary of Baptist Missions.

1792—OCTOBER 2—1892.

This meeting will be held in Louisville, Ky., with the Walnut Street church. The two vacancies will be supplied. There will be devotional exercises at the beginning of each session. Except Sunday morning and night, the brother who presents a topic will leave at least half an hour for general discussion in five-minute speeches.

Sunday, Oct. 2, 10 a. m.—Address of Welcome. Pastor T. T. Eaton.

10:15 a. m.—Results of a Century of Missions. Prof. H. H. Harris, Richmond, Va.

11 a. m.—Sermon on Moral Basis of Missions. Rev. F. M. Ellis, D. D., Baltimore.

3 p. m.—State and Fate of the Unevangelized. Rev. R. H. Harris, D. D., Columbus, Ga. Followed by general discussion.

7:30 p. m.—Condition of Papal Lands. Rev. J. V. Cova of Cuba, Rev. W. D. Powell of Mexico.

Monday, Oct. 3, 9:30 a. m.—America as a Factor in Missions. Rev. W. Pope Yeaman, D. D., Columbia, Mo.

11 a. m.—Needs of the Home Field. Rev. B. H. Carroll, D. D., Waco, Texas.

3:30 p. m.—Missionary Methods. Rev. B. D. Gray, Hazlehurst, Miss.

7:30 p. m.—Beginnings of Modern Missions. Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D., Atlanta, Ga.

Tuesday, Oct. 4, 9:30 a. m.—Commerce and Missions. Prof. O. T. Mason, Washington, D. C.

10:45 a. m.—Our Centennial Fund. (To be supplied).

3:30 p. m.—Moral Heroism in Missions. Rev. P. S. Henson, D. D., Chicago.

7:30 p. m.—The Outlook of Missions. (To be supplied).

9 p. m.—General conference and closing exercises.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for September:—Africa.

And he (the Ethiopian) said: "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Missionaries, 11; native assistants, 6; stations, 6; churches, 4; membership, 111; baptisms, 31; schools, 3; scholars, 124.

Study Topics.—One nation's share in the rum curse of Africa. Duty of American christians in evangelizing Africa. Obstacles an incentive, not an excuse, for missionary effort. The Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

How Majuta Found the Light.

Some years ago, among the low trees on the banks of the Congo, lived a little boy named Majuta. He was about twelve years old, though if you had asked him his age, he would probably have told you 144 moons. He was an active, bright little fellow, brown in color, with big black eyes, and kinky hair. His mother, Fida, had been a belle in her tribe, and had in her youth done everything possible, according to the African taste, to make herself more beautiful. She had had many long cuts made with a sharp knife on both cheeks, and in the cuts had been rubbed a powder, so that when they healed, there were long, deep scars. Perhaps we would think these horrible, but they considered them beautiful; and her upper lip had been drawn out to a great length, and kept out by a lovely round ivory plate fastened on it, so when she was angry she had no need to put out her lip and make a shelf, as some of our little boys and girls do, for she had her shelf there all the time.

Her hair was brushed straight up and plastered so thickly with grease that it stayed up beautifully without any need of hairpins or combs, and her teeth which had in her youth been filed to sharp points, had become black from the breaking of the enamel. Perhaps this hurt her as much as our dentists' work hurts us, and I think she must have had a great deal of toothache, but you know one must sometimes suffer to be beautiful.

Majuta's father, Lolo, was a large, strong warrior, with many beautiful gashes on his face, too, and he wore a goatee braided into a rat-tail on his chin, and when he went to war, he painted himself in various colors, and hung a necklace about his neck made of the teeth of men he had killed in other battles, and was so dreadful looking that it made his enemies tremble even to see him, and he gave such a loud, fierce war-cry, that I think even Majuta was a little afraid, though he was very proud of him, and longed for the time to come when he too could have his face marked and his teeth filed.

Then Majuta had a sister, too, Ludi, who wore her hair braided into little knots, much as you sometimes see the little "picanninies" wear in our Southern States; and her face was marked with little cuts, and through each of her ears were two bars of ivory instead of only one earring, as perhaps your sister has. She and Fida both wore a long fringe made of coarse grass, tied around their waists for a dress, but little Majuta wore nothing at all; so when he got up in the morning he never was tempted to forget to button his shoes, or to put on his collar and necktie.

They lived, or at least slept, for they spent all their days out-of-doors, in a small, round house, thatched with palm leaves and coarse grass, and ornamented all around with a triple row of skulls which showed the number of foes Lolo had killed; and they raised fields of manioc, which Fida and the children cultivated.

The women and children did all the work among the people, and the men attended to the fighting, and since they had nothing else to do, they fought a great deal, just to keep busy. In the morning, Fida and Majuta and Ludi, got up early and dug the manioc or cassava roots, which are large tubers, just about the color of potatoes outside, but inside white like cocoanut. These they dry for three or four days, then bruise them and make bread of them.

The cassava, boiled, tastes very much like an underdone or watery potato, and is not nearly so nice as the tapioca, which is made from it, for our market. Then they roast plaintains or bananas, and yams, which are much like our sweet potatoes; and these constitute their morning meal.

But this diet of vegetables gets very monotonous, and the kinds of game in the forests good to eat are so few and so very hard to kill with their simple weapons, that sometimes they long for meat so intensely they do not know what to do; and it was this craving originally that led them, long ago, to commit a dreadful crime, which at first seemed as horrible to them as it does now to us. This was the crime of cannibalism. But they have now for so many years eaten the enemies they have killed in battle, or when they had none of these handy, have killed their slaves for food, that they now think nothing of it.

Well, Fida and Majuta and Ludi got up early one morning, and after taking a morning dip in the river, prepared breakfast, and when it was ready, called Lolo. He had also been up early, polishing his spears, tightening his bow-strings, and dipping his arrow-heads in poison, for he was going to battle the next day.

After breakfast was over, they gathered another supply of manioc and bruised it, in preparation for more bread, and then, after working in the fields until about ten o'clock, they all took a long nap, for in this part of Africa the sun is too hot for work in the middle of the day. After they awoke, Fida and Ludi busied themselves with braiding some of the coarse grass into hampers in which to carry their vegetables and fruit, while Majuta watched their father in his preparations for the next day.

Lolo got ready all his weapons, and then decorated himself so as to look as fierce as possible, and then went off to bring the "nganga nkissi," or charm doctor. These poor, ignorant creatures, who do not know of God, believe in a great number of spirits—a rain spirit, a cloud spirit, a thunder spirit, a spirit of sickness, and in fact a spirit for everything, and the charm doctor is supposed to have great influence over all these. So, whenever anything important occurs, he is sent for, and comes dressed in the most fantastic attire possible, with feathers in his hair, and necklaces of fish-bones, snake heads, teeth and egg-shells, strung about his neck, shoulders and breast, and with wild-cat or leopard skins hanging from his waist.

* * * * * *

However, Lolo purchased a leopard's claw and hung it upon a string about his neck, as a protection from danger, and after most of the others had done the same, the "nganga" went away, and Majuta crept out from his hiding-place much relieved.

Just before sunset the warriors were to set out on their march to the country of their enemies, and they were all about to start, when a hideous cry rang out all around them. It was the war cry of their foes, who had crept silently up and surprised them. In an instant all was uproar and confusion. Poor Majuta and Ludi fled to the shelter of their house, and there, hidden with their mother, saw their father fall, pierced with a spear. The battle continued a long time, until all of Majuta's tribe were either killed or made prisoners, except a few who fled. Among these was Majuta, though Fida and Ludi were both captured and taken off to be slaves, and finally killed and eaten.

Majuta, full of sorrow, made his way stealthily down the river, hiding in the swamps by day and walking by night, eating ground-nuts and such wild fruits as he could find. Fidally, after many days wandering and much suffering, he saw before him one of the mission-stations of the Upper Congo. Here, although he approached with fear and trembling, he was taken in, fed and cared for. He was taught about Jesus, and soon learned to love him, and to look with abhorrence upon his own former life, and is now a most useful missionary himself to all his former neighbors.

This is the story of Majuta, but I wish to say a few words to you about the missions established in Congo Land, on the lower Congo where the tribes are not cannibals, among the fierce tribes of the upper river. It is impossible for us here to realize the sufferings of white men and women in Africa. The climate is hard upon them, and they all suffer, and many die from fever. There insects of almost all the stinging varieties fairly swarm; snakes, poisonous and otherwise, are everywhere, while the forests abound in dangerous animals. The natives themselves, too, are a constant source of danger, for many of them are very suspicious of the white man, and to fall into the hands of most of them would mean certain death.

However, some few devoted souls have gone there, and they report most encouraging progress, although they constantly need more money and more workers. The natives are very sincere and single-hearted in their conversions. Once a christian, they never go back to heathenism, and they cannot understand any middle ground. Every man is to them either a child of God or of Satan, and when, in answer to their question, "Are you a child of God?" you give any response but a hearty "Yes," they promptly exclaim, "Then you are a child of the devil." This whole-heartedness is very encouraging, and it behooves us all to keep them ever in our hearts, helping with our prayers and singing ever for their aid and support, "Our hearts, our hands, our voices, our pennies, too, we bring."—Clara B. Sears, in Children's Work for Children.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

ITCHING HUMORS

Torturing, disfiguring eczemas, and every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp diseases, with dry, thin, and falling hair, are relieved in most cases by a single application, and speedily and economically cured by the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies, when the best physicians fail. CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every humor, eruption, and disease from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston. "How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough and oily skin prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

FREE FROM RHEUMATISM.

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. The first and only pain-killing strengthening plaster.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.
Please mention this paper.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST
Theological Seminary,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Session of eight months begins first day of October. All studies elective; separate graduation in each subject. Many attend one session, choosing their studies. Degree of English Graduate (Th. G.), or of Eclectic Graduate (Th. B.), often obtained in two sessions; that of Full Graduate (Th. M.) often in three, including a very wide range of scholarly work. Many special studies if desired. Students 230, with 8 instructors. Tuition and rooms free; no fees of any kind. If help is needed for board, address Rev. William H. Whitsitt; for catalogues or other information, Rev. John A. Broadus, Louisville, Ky.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. (LIMITED) CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE GENUINE BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &C.
Catalogue with 2000 testimonials, Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSELLEM.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
JACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by
W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON N. C.

IRON FENCE
CITY RETAILS FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. RICE, ATLANTA GA.

A Baltimore Letter.

Through the RECORDER, which seems to grow better as the years go by, I am pleased to note week by week the indications of Baptist advance all along the lines in the Old North State. Everything considered, perhaps the Baptists of no other State are doing better service for our Lord.

The signs of the times, however, seem to indicate that the Baptist churches of our country are now developing enterprise and consecration as never before since Apostolic times. It looks like the Centennial year of modern missions may do much to bring on the golden era of christianity and prepare the way for the second coming of the Lord.

But I simply took pencil in hand to give the RECORDER a few Baltimore news notes. And first of all, I wonder if many outside of Maryland know that we have a Baptist Orphanage in this city? Over the door of 109 West Lanvale street, we read with thankfulness "Baptist Orphanage." This institution came almost as the kingdom of God cometh, "without observation." There were no meetings called to consider the matter, no long newspaper discussions of the subject; but the first thing most of us knew the above named sign was out. A sufficient explanation is to say that Dr. H. M. Wharton is at the head of the enterprise. And this is also a sufficient guarantee that the institution is bound to live and prosper. There has been no loud begging in its behalf and no lack of means for its support. The work is being well done, and everything runs like clockwork. And here we have another illustration of the old saw, "The best way to do a thing is to do it."

And this leads me to say that the Brantly Memorial church, of which Dr. Wharton is pastor, dedicated on last Sunday one of the best, if not the very best, of all the Baptist church houses in this city. When Bro. Wharton took hold of this interest, it was a weak mission enterprise without church organization. Under his ministry they "out of weakness were made strong"—not strong in worldly goods, but strong in numbers, in the grace of God and in a mind to work. The beautiful house in which they now worship and work, costing over $50,000, is a striking attestation of their strength; and the splendid location of this house is likewise an attestation of their far-sightedness and wisdom. Last Sunday was a day of joy and gladness to church and pastor; and all our churches in the city, I hope, join in hearty congratulation and bid them God speed.

Others of our churches are doing notably well. Among these we can only take time to name Lee Street, Pastor Mullins, and Fuller Memorial, Pastor Henson. Until within the last two years, the last named had rather a discouraged and discouraging history. The recent prosperity enjoyed shows, I think, in a most striking way, the advantage of good leadership. How much depends upon the right sort of leadership! This is the secret of success in many churches and of failure in others. Ministers who cannot lead and organize and set their people to work, whatever their piety and ability, must largely fail of the best success.

Our dear Bro. Love, well known in Eastern North Carolina where he served his apprenticeship in the ministry, is doing well as Dr. Williams' lieutenant at the old First church, and winning the hearts of all who meet him by his manly and modest deportment.

But time would fail me to tell of all our good churches and ministers, and of the good work they are doing for God and humanity. A. J. HIRES.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 20, 1892.

Tribute to Rev. J. M. White.

Apex Baptist church, in conference Sunday night, Sept. 18th, 1892, adopted the following:

WHEREAS, In separating with our brother and pastor, Rev. J. M. White, we wish to give this expression of our confidence in, and appreciation of, him:

Resolved, That it is with profound gratitude to our Heavenly Father that we acknowledge his protecting care over us, the prosperity he has given us, and the peace and brotherly love that has existed among us during the three years' pastorate of Rev. J. M. White.

Resolved, That we still hold Bro. White in high esteem, and commend him to all wherever he may go, as a christian brother, able minister and faithful expounder of gospel truth. We wish for, and will ever pray for his success wherever he may go, and will at all times hail his return to us with joy. Our best wishes attend him and his interesting family. They are an accession to the church and to society, of which any community may be proud.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and also be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

W. M. PENNY, JR., Church Clerk.

Union Association.

The Union Association will meet with the Waxhaw church, one and a half miles south of Waxhaw Station on the C. C. & N. Railroad, on Thursday before the second Sunday in October, at eleven o'clock a. m.

Visitors coming by rail will please notify Bro. W. J. McGuirt at Waxhaw, N. C., and they will be met at the Station with conveyance to the church.

We invite brethren of the State Board, the RECORDER brethren, and any others who feel interested, to come and be with us.

A. B. CAUDLE, Pastor.

Monroe, Sept. 19, 1892.

LADIES
Reading a book or children who want health in an unusual taste
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is necessary to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Southern Business College, Asheville, N. C.

This institution is open all the year around for both ladies and gentlemen. Its students are graduated in the full Business and Shorthand courses, including Book keeping, Practical Business, Banking, Wholesaling, Commission, Business Law, Business Forms, Business Arithmetic, English, Correspondence, Spelling, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typewriting, Political Economy, Civil Government, Literary Society work and Parliamentary Law. It has a full corps of thoroughly experienced Business College teachers and a course as modern and comprehensive as any institution to be found, including lectures upon various practical subjects by distinguished gentlemen. It has large elegant apartments, new modern furniture, Bank, Wholesale, Commission and Exchange offices and is fully equipped to compete with the best institutions of the country. Asheville is a beautiful and progressive city of about 13,000 inhabitants with climate and scenery famous the world over and is said to entertain fully 100,000 visitors annually, being crowded both winter and summer.

Efforts are made to secure good positions for all worthy graduates of this institution.

Rates of tuition and board for students quite reasonable.

For further information, address,

M. M. LEMMOND, President.

A Meeting of Young Preachers.

On the second Sunday afternoon of September, about thirty young preachers of Wake Forest College met in the small chapel, and gave brief accounts of their work during vacation. Not one of them has been idle during the summer. Some have sold good books, some have taught school, some have labored on the farm, and some have preached all the time, and all of them have labored more or less in protracted meetings. As they told of the number of professions of faith in the several meetings in which they were engaged, I counted 450. The hour was thus delightfully spent, and not more than half of the young men had spoken. If we could have heard from all, doubtless we could have counted two or three hundred more professions; I have heard from several of these, and they report many conversions where they labored.

Since the second Sunday in this month, several others of our young ministers have come in, and they report many good meetings out of which they have just come. All report the churches strengthened, and some church difficulties of long standing entirely removed.

I think it safe to say that nearly one thousand people have professed conversion in meetings in which Wake Forest young preachers have labored this summer. One of them baptized sixty at the close of one meeting which he conducted himself. I have been in sixteen counties this summer, and have heard of much of this work on the fields. W. R. GWALTNEY.

Work in Robeson County.

The Lord continues to bless my work in Robeson. The congregations that I have served for some time may be considered in a state of revival all the time, are constantly receiving additions, manifest a perceptible growth in grace and concert of action, con contributions, good works, etc.

I expect to use our nice new house of worship the next time I visit Bloomingdale, a new organization.

I had the pleasure of giving the right hand of fellowship to seven new members at Cape Fear church, Cedar Creek Association, recently.

I have two more meetings to hold for my people. They and the Lord are good to me, and I am "happy on the way."

Yours in Christ, R. A. MOORE

Red Springs, Sept. 20, 1892.

DR. BIGGER'S HUCKLEBERRY CORDIAL cures all bowel and stomach troubles and children teething. Sold by all dealers.

Bertie Union.

The next session of this body convenes with Harrellsville church, on Friday before the fifth Lord's day in October.

Elder J. N. Hoggard is appointed to preach the introductory sermon, Elder C. W. Scarboro, alternate. Elder T. T. Speight, the missionary sermon, Elder C. B. Williams, alternate.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

1. Should any difference be observed in discipline between drunkenness and other flagrant immoralities? To Dr. Wm. Early and Elder Scarboro.

2. What is a pastor's duty to the church and community? To Bro. W. P. Shaw and Elder C. B. Williams.

3. What do we mean by a good moral character? To Bro. C. W. Mitchell and Elder Cree.

4. (Brought over from last meeting). Our mission in Africa: its history, success and prospects. To Bro. Fouchee and Elder C. B. Williams. A. J. COBB, Sec

"Not by Might or Power."

Great are the exertions made to replenish the exhausted treasury of the Foreign Mission Board, to enable it to meet the heavy expenses of the evangelizing work in pagan and papal lands.

But the hearts of the people do not open in liberal response to the most earnest appeals.

Should not the appeals now be made directly to God? "Not by might nor power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord."

H. A. TUPPER, Cor. Sec.

Richmond, Va.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Liberty ch, Sandy Creek, $2.15; Connaritsa ch West Chowan, 6.00; Sawyer's Creek ch, 30.00; Noah Biggs, 80.00; Cool Springs ch, Mt Zion, 1.11; Raleigh Asso, 161.50; Macedonia ch, South Fork, 5 00; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 17.80; Hebron ch, West Chowan, 10.00; St John's ch, West Chowan, 5.00; W M S, Lumberton ch, Robeson, 7.00; Liberty Asso, 163.81; Caldwell Asso, 50.81; Moden ch, South Fork, 3.00; South Yadkin Asso, 29.00; Tar River Asso, 1,476.65; Three Forks Asso, 12 81. Total, 2,061,64. Previously reported, 4,074.06. Total this year, 6,135.70.

Foreign Missions—Newbern ch, Eastern, $5.00; W M S, Louisburg ch, Tar River, 1.40; Galeed ch, Cape Fear, 11.76; Round Hill ch, Green River, 5.00; Pleasant Hill ch, ditto, 6.60; Rutherfordton ch, ditto, 11.00; Liberty ch, Sandy Creek, 81c; Connaritsa ch, West Chowan, 6.00; W M S, Apex ch, 8.40; Mis Soc, Henderson ch, 4.82; South Yadkin Asso, 26 90; Hebron ch, West Chowan, 5.00; Sunbeams, Lumberton ch, Robeson, 2 05; W M S, Cedar Grove ch, ditto, 1.77; W M S, Long Branch ch, 5.00; Rev D C McMillan, 50c; Stony Fork Asso, 7.21; Mission Home ch, Ashe and Alleghany, 2.60; Caldwell Asso, for G W Greene, Canton, China, 7.40; Three Forks Asso, 46.17; Nelson Greene, for G W Greene, China, 2,00; Adam Greene, ditto, 2.00; L W Farthing, ditto, 5.00; J J T Reece, ditto, 5.00; Rufus Smith, ditto, 1.50; James Isaacs, ditto, 50c; Henry Grogan, ditto, 50c; Solomon Younce, ditto, 1.00; W S Farthing, ditto, 5.00; L C Wilson, 2 50. Total, 190.39. Previously reported, 6,085.43. Total this year, 6,275.82.

Home Missions—Marion ch, Green River, $2.25; Round Hill ch, ditto, 2.00; Rutherfordton ch, ditto, 6.75; South Yadkin Asso, 19.75; Three Forks Asso, 12 72. Total, 43.47. Previously reported, 2,256.96. T tal this year, 2,300.43.

Orphanage—Rutherfordton ch, Green River, $2.40; Sunbeams, Apex ch, 10.00; So Yadkin Asso, 35c; Rockingham ch, Richmond County Asso, 10.00. Total, 22.75 Previously reported, 931.56. Total this year, 954.31.

Education—Liberty ch, Sandy Creek, $1.62; Connaritsa ch, West Chowan, 10.00; South Yadkin Asso, 84.50; Island Creek ch, Flat River, 6.30; Hebron ch, West Chowan, 2.00; Ten Mile ch, Robeson, 1 64; Tolarsville ch, ditto, 1.04. Total, 57.10. Previously reported, 1,866 36, Total this year, 1,923.46.

Sunday-schools—Sunday-school Board of Southern Baptist Convention, $44.27

Centennial Fund—W M S, Sawyer's Creek ch (Foreign Missions), $10.00; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 5.00.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Mis Soc, Winton ch, $5.00. Previously reported, 252.67. Total this year, 257.67.

In last RECORDER the amounts acknowledged from Lenoir ch, Caldwell Co Asso, should be Caldwell Co Asso simply.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Sept. 24, 1892.

CONSUMPTION
In its early stages can be cured by the prompt use of
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
It soothes the inflamed tissues, aids expectoration, and hastens recovery.
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.
Lowell, Mass.

For Sale or Rent.
My store building, cottage dwelling, all necessary out houses, on lot of four acres. Connected by private telephone with Wake Forest, 4 miles. For further particulars, address
J. W. PERNELL, Pernell, N. C.
Sept. 23d, 1892.

BUCKEYE CYCLE CO CINCINNATI, O.
want an Agent in your Place.
We will sell you a BICYCLE at manufacturers' prices if you will try to sell our goods. Please write for Catalogue and full information.
EVERY WHEEL WARRANTED.

Virginia Grey Winter Oats.
(Also called Turf or Grazing Oats.)
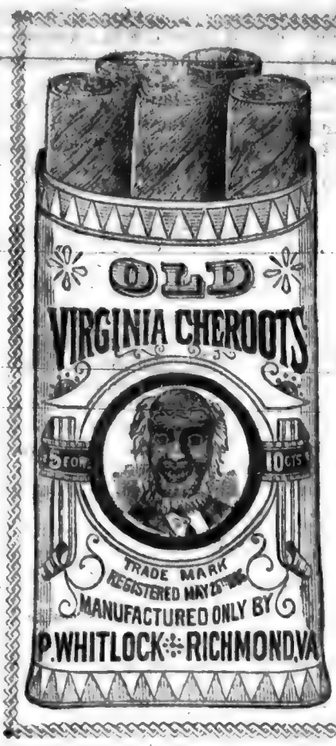
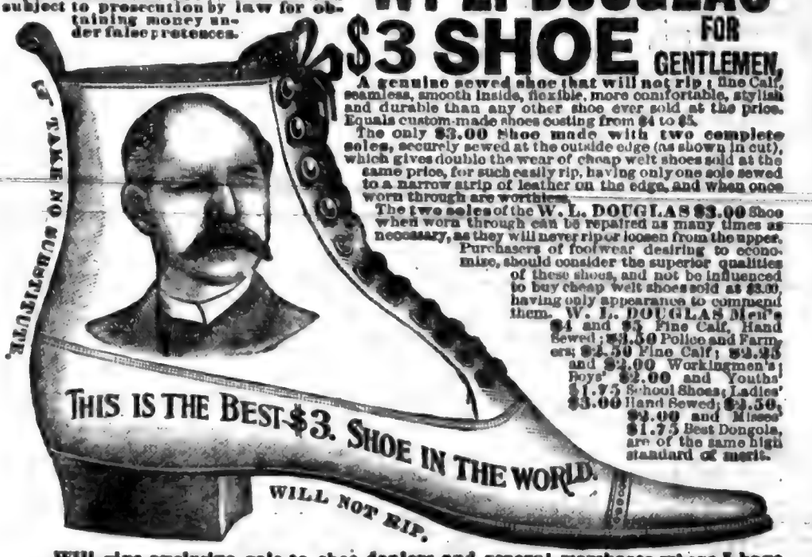
The best Oat for the Southern and Middle States. Hardy, standing the winter nearly as well as Wheat. Yields on good land, from 50 to 70 bushels to the acre, of fine heavy grain, weighing from 35 to 40 lbs. to the measured bushel. Furnishes excellent fall, winter and early spring grazing without injury to the grain crop.
Price, 65 cts. per bushel. In 10 bushel lots and over, 60 cts. per bushel. Bags included. Fall Catalogue, giving full information, mailed free.
T. W. Wood & Sons,
SEEDSMEN,
8 & 10 S. 14th St., Richmond, Va.
We carry one of the largest and best stocks of GRASS, CLOVER and FIELD SEEDS in this country. Prices quoted and samples mailed on application.



At Home
Smoke a pipe if you will, but when you are away where you are thrown into the society of ladies and gentlemen,
OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS
are the correct thing and establish you as a man of good taste and breeding.
FIVE FOR TEN CENTS. 13

TOBACCO HABIT
For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free by mail. Address THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.
HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days
EASILY CURED

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.
W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN,
A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; fine Calf, seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom-made shoes costing from $4 to $5.
The only $3.00 Shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.
The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper. Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold at $3.00 having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS Men's $4 and $3 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $2.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingmen's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola, are of the same high standard of merit.



Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH,
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA.
RICHMOND.
The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.
For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN, Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.

They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.
BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

STUDY LAW AT HOME.
TAKE A COURSE IN THE LA SALLE CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF LAW. (Incorporated.)
Send for circulars giving full particulars to
J. COTHEN, JR., Sec'y.
DETROIT, MICH.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. B. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Final cure in 10 days. Never returns. (No purge, no salve; no suppository. A victim tried in vain every remedy has discovered a simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3260, New York City, N. Y.

DOUBLE Breech Loading $7.50. RIFLES $3.00 WATCHES GUNS BICYCLES $15 All kinds cheaper than elsewhere. Before you buy, send stamp for catalogue to THE POWELL & CLEMENT CO. Cincinnati, O.

The Baptist claims that the Western Recorder has made an "unfair attack" on the B. Y. P. U. in commenting on the pledge each member is expected to take. The pledge is "to take some part in the services aside from singing, if it be possible to do so with sincerity and truth," and the RECORDER interpreted this to mean that all the members, including the girls, were "not only to speak or pray in one meeting, but to do so in every meeting of the society."

The Baptist objects to this and says that a girl may comply with her pledge by reading a passage of Scripture, and also that if she be so opposed to public speaking that "it is not possible to do so with sincerity and truth," she may be excused. "It is," says the Baptist, "a question she alone must decide."

It is a case of tweedledum tweedledee. To have a girl pledge herself to take part in every meeting, aside from singing, "if it is possible to do it with sincerity and truth," comes very near to insisting that she shall speak or pray, or both, and it is so understood generally. The girl who refuses to do these things, out of respect for New Testament teaching, is simply tolerated, the whole influence of the society being thrown in favor of speaking and praying. Else, why have such language in the pledge at all?

To say "it is a question she alone must decide," is very wide of the mark, since it is a question the Holy Spirit has long since decided for her. As well say to a woman who proposes to join a Baptist church, that whether she will be immersed or not "is a question she alone must decide;" or to a woman who wishes to be ordained to the ministry that "it is a question she alone must decide." Baptists have not in the past been in the habit of having the commands of God to be alone decided by the individual, and it will be a sad day for the denomination if this principle shall prevail.

The simple, and undenied and undeniable fact is, that the whole trend of this B. Y. P. U. is in favor of having the women speak and pray in mixed assemblies. And it is difficult to resist the conviction that the slight qualification, mentioned by the Baptist, is put there simply to catch those Baptists, particularly in the South, who are not "sufficiently advanced" to believe that it is a matter of little or no importance whether they obey the commands of God or not. The great mass of the Baptists, in the South at least, still believe that the Bible is a seriously written book, and that what it teaches we are solemnly bound to believe and to do. —Western Recorder.

You are right, brother. That is the main object of the society, and of all others lately organized, whether B. Y. P. U. or the Y. P. S. C. E.

Peace Institute.

My Dear Friends:—A "Prince and a great man has fallen this day in Israel." Prof. A. Baumann, on this the 20th anniversary of his connection with Peace Institute, has laid down his armour and is now at rest. No words can express our loss—a loss not only to Peace Institute, but an irreparable loss to his family and friends, to the church, the State and the South.

We shall supply his place immediately, as far as it can be done, by the ablest man we can find, and we beg our friends and patrons to stand by dear old Peace in this her saddest hour of trial.

We shall spare no effort or expense in honoring Prof. Baumann's memory by maintaining the high standard of his department.

Hopefully, but sadly,

Yours, &c.,

JAS. DINWIDDIE.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

Judge A. S. Merrimon is seriously ill.

The Supreme Court granted license to practice law to twenty-eight applicants last Saturday.

Dave Ayers, colored, of Selma, was run over by a train here Monday night of last week, and almost instantly killed.

On Friday the penitentiary board made its statement for the quarter ending August 31st, showing total earnings $23,959 and expenses $40,000.

The City Board of Health has issued an order prohibiting the importation into the city of second hand clothing during the existence of cholera in the United States.

The Trustees of the State University met here last week and accepted as a gift the library of the late Dr. Thomas F. Wood of Wilmington, which is valued at $5,000. Two scholarships named in honor of Dr. Wood, and each conferring free tuition were at once established.

Professor Albert Baumann, for many years instructor of music in Peace Institute, here, died early last Friday morning of congestion of the lungs, aged sixty-two years. Prof. Baumann was a native of Germany, and was one of the most successful music teachers in the country. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and has also acceptably filled for twenty years the position of organist of his church. His death is generally lamented.

State News.

The Burke county fair opens at Morganton October 11th and will continue four days.

Mr. W. P. Fife the evangelist, is to conduct a meeting at Mocksville beginning Sunday October 9th.

It is estimated that the cotton crop of the State is the poorest grown for the past ten years and probably a longer period.

O. M. Cawthorn, the white man who shot and killed the negro Sam Tully at Hickory a short time ago has been captured at Selma, Ala.

Mr. Eugene L. Harris, who went from this State to Alabama, has been called to the Robeson county secretaryship of the Y. M. C. A.

A Buncombe county farmer recently lost $400 in trying to buy $1,000 "green goods." He sent his money on to "headquarters" and received a box of sawdust in return.

The opening of the Normal and Industrial school at Greensboro, has been postponed from September 7th to October 5th, because of a failure to get in the heating apparatus in time.

Mr. Pierre Cox, son of Gen. Wm. R. Cox, died at the residence of Mr. Parker in Warrenton last Thursday night. Mr. Cox was in his twenty-sixth year. His remains were carried to Raleigh for burial.

In Union township, Wilkes county, recently, a seven-year-old son of John Milans, shot and killed his little sister two years of age. It is not known how the accident occurred, as the children were alone at the time.

Bradley Murray, of Gastonia, aged seventeen years, accidentally shot and killed himself while examining a pistol Sunday before last while on his way to church. It is not known why the young man carried a pistol, as his parents had forbidden his having one.

Week before last, the thirteen-year old daughter of Mr. Wesley Phillips, who lives near Pittsboro, Chatham county, was abducted from her home by a man who called himself James Chathams. Chathams borrowed a horse and buggy from a Mr. Watson and asked the girl to take a ride. After some hesitation she consented to go. Chathams was discovered at Darlington, S. C., and arrested and placed in jail. He was finally lodged for safe keeping in the jail at Raleigh, as it had been rumored that if Chathams was placed in the Chatham county jail he would be lynched. The young Phillips girl is now at home. She states that Chathams forced her to go with him and had abused her.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Do you know that you can buy a chimney to fit your lamp that will last till some accident happens to it?

Do you know that Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass" is that chimney?

You can have it—your dealer will get it—if you insist on it. He may tell you it costs him three times as much as some others. That is true. He may say they are just as good. Don't you believe it—they may be better for him; he may like the breaking.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

MARRIED.

RHODES—ROGERS—On Sept. 21st, 1892, in Oak Hill Township, Granville county, N. C., by Rev. J. A. Stradley, Mr. Mark A. Rhodes and Miss Bettie C. Rogers.

KING—THOMAS—On Sept. 18th, 1892, at the residence of Mr. Dallas Alford, East Durham, Durham county, N. C., by Rev. M. H. Ellen, Mr. G. H. King and Miss Mattie Thomas.

JONES—JORDAN—On Sept. 15th, 1892, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Lennox Jordan, by Rev. E. W. Wooten, Mr. Alexander Jones and Miss Mattie Jordan, all of Columbus county.

CHRISTOPHER—SCOTT—On Sept. 18th, 1892, at the residence of the bride's father, in Orange county, N. C., by Rev. R. R. Day, Mr. Alex. Christopher and Miss Alice Scott, all of Orange county, N. C.

DIED.

DODD—Dr. G. H. Dodd was born Nov. 30th, 1837, and died at his home in Clayton, Johnston county, N. C., Sept. 6th, 1892, aged about fifty-five year. He was a member of Clayton Baptist church, and leaves one child to mourn the loss of a father. His funeral was preached on the 7th, and his body laid to rest by the side of his companion who had gone before. O. C. HORTON, Pastor.

MARTIN—Sister E. A. Martin, beloved wife of Mr. J. H. Martin of Warren county, passed away on the first day of May. She became a christian in early life and united with New Bethel church. Some years ago she united with Brown's church. She loved her church, and was a faithful Sunday-school worker. She was a good woman and highly esteemed by her neighbors. May God bless her bereaved husband and children.

T. J. TAYLOR.

THOMAS—At her home in Nash county, N. C., Aug. 8th, 1892, Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas departed this life after a sickness of a few days. She was a daughter of the late Rev. W. H. Edwards and wife of Mr. A. Thomas. She leaves a husband, eleven children, a number of brothers and sisters, and many friends to mourn her death. She had been a consistent follower of her Lord for thirty-nine years, and was a true Baptist. She had sore trials and troubles in life, and died rejoicing in her faith in the Saviour. She was fifty four years of age. COM.

GREEN—Cynthia Green departed this life Sept. 14th, 1892. Sister Green was a consistent member of the Baptist church. She first joined Colerain church, and remained there thirteen years. She then took letter to Mars Hill, and there remained until her death. She leaves behind a christian husband and three children to mourn her loss. Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth. Sister Green died at the age of eighty. The funeral services were conducted by the writer in the presence of a large crowd of relatives and others. Sister Green was loved by all who knew her. It is a glorious thought that we have mothers in in heaven. S. F. BRISTOW.

DICKENS—On Sept. 8th, 1892, at High Point, N. C., Mrs. Amelia Belle, the beloved wife of Frank A. Dickens, was called home to heaven, after an illness of two weeks. She was twenty-three years, eleven months and twelve days old. She professed conversion about six years ago, and was baptized by Rev. Henry Sheets into the fellowship of Rich Fork church.

During her illness she frequently spoke of dying, but when her husband would tell her that it grieved him to hear her speak of death, she would refrain from speaking of it for a time. Just before dying she said she saw the Tree of Life, and its fruit was indeed as crystal, that she gathered thereof with both hands. A devoted wife, an affectionate daughter, and loving friend has left us.

"'Meta,' thou wast mild and lovely,
Gentle as the summer breeze,
Pleasant as the air of evening,
As it floats among the trees."

J. M. P.

CARLYLE—The sickle has been thrust in, the ripe fruit of the harvest has been gathered. One by one the landmarks of maternal love, truth and piety are being removed; but those who were reared under the shadow of her influence show to posterity the value of such godly women as Mrs. Annie Carlyle, relict of the late Irvin Carlyle. She peacefully, trustfully fell asleep on the 10th inst., aged fifty-two years, five months and one day, surrounded by her devoted and honored children and friends, and was laid to rest in the family burying ground on the quiet Sabbath following, Rev. A. R. Pittman, her pastor, conducting appropriate services. Seldom such a concourse of sorrowing relatives, neighbors and friends follow one to her last resting place, all vying with each other to do her honor.

Little acts of loving, tender affection by some neighbor, or ante bellum servant, more beautifully and more truthfully attested her worth than rearing a shaft of finest Pareen marble could have done. When such a woman leaves this for a higher, better home, one suited to the full expansion of her consecrated sanctified powers to work for the Master, she deserves the honor of loving remembrance, for "she did what she could." T.

HARRELL—Sister Harriet Suzan Harrell, wife of Bro. J. P. Harrell, Union, N. C., departed this life Sept. 6th, 1892.

She remembered her Creator in the days of her youth, and at the age of fourteen gave her tender heart to Jesus and united with Mt. Tabor Baptist church. From that time her life was spent in the service of God. Her life was filled with the fragrance of heaven, and all who mingled with her caught some of the balmy sweetness which emanated from her Christ-like, consecrated life. She was good and gentle, cheerful and happy. For the last five years of her life she was afflicted, but in the darkest hours of affliction's night her heart was the spring of joy and gladness, her face was the reflector of radiant cheerfulness. She was not moved, for she trusted in her God and her soul's anchor of hope was fixed within the veil. Her death was a glorious triumph. For two or three weeks she knew she must soon meet the monster. She was perfectly resigned to the will of God, though she was loth to leave two little girls in the world without a mother to love and train them. The day she died she shouted to God, and told her weeping husband she was going to dine in heaven that day. She has gone, but gone, we all believe, to feast her immortal spirit on the perennial fruits of bliss and glory. G. B. WILLIAMS.

Tributes of Respect.

At the regular meeting of the Young People's Missionary Society of Warrenton Baptist church, Warrenton, N. C., Sunday evening, August 14th, 1892, the following resolutions were offered and adopted:—

WHEREAS, The Supreme Being has seen fit in his wisdom to call to rest our young and much beloved Bro. N. L. Shaw, Jr., therefore be it

Resolved 1. That we gratefully accept with reverence and humility all of God's dealings with us and his own. That in the death of our brother the Society has lost one of its most faithful members.

Resolved 2. That we extend to his family our sympathy in their loss, and commend them to the God in whom their loved one trusted, and who has been called home to a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family; that they be spread upon the records of our Society, and that a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER and Charity and Children for publication.

G. M. FOOTE,
W. T. FLEMING,
W. G. WILLIAMS,
Committee.

WHEREAS, It pleased God Sept. 6th, 1892, to take from us our music teacher, Mrs. Dr. J. R. Rogers.

Resolved 1. That while we intensely feel the loss and lament the departure of our friend and teacher, we meekly say to him whom she served, "Thy will be done."

Resolved 2. That in her death the village loses a genuine supporter of its social interest, and we a faithful associate and teacher, and a sympathizing friend.

Resolved 3. That we sympathize with the bereaved in this dark hour of affliction, and pray that our Heavenly Father may make this a blessing to all.

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband, to the BIBLICAL RECORDER and the North Carolina Teacher for publication, and that we publish the same in our School Journal.

Read and adopted by the school September 15th, 1892.

EDNA HUDSON,
LOTTIE UTLEY,
EMMA PARKER,
Committee

Apex, N. C.

Graded Series
OF
SUNDAY SCHOOL PERIODICALS.
Compare these Prices with those of Similar Publications.

Primary Grade.
Picture Lessons. 8 cts. per quarter, 12 cts. per year.
Primary Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
Our Little Ones. In clubs of five, 2½ cts. per year.

Intermediate Grade.
Intermediate Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 9 cts. per year.
The Sunlight. 6 cts. and 12 cts. per year.

Advanced Grade.
Advanced Quarterly. 2½ cts. per quarter, 10 cts. per year.
Bible Lessons. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.
Young Reaper. 10 cts. and 20 cts. per year.

Senior or Adult Grade.
Senior Quarterly. 4 cts. per quarter, 16 cts. per year.
Our Young People. In clubs of five, 40 cts. per year.
The Worker. In clubs of five, 6 cts. per year.

Teachers, Superintendents.
Baptist Teacher. In clubs of five, 50 cts. per year.
Baptist Superintendent. 25 cts. per year.

Am. Baptist Publication Society.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut St.;
BOSTON: 420 Washington St.;
NEW YORK: Times Building;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Ave.;
ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive St.;
ATLANTA: 66½ Whitehall St.

At a Bargain.

For want of room we will close out our stock of CANE MILLS, with EVAPORATORS AND FURNACES complete, at greatly reduced rates. Apply right away, if you are in need, to the ALDERMAN HARDWARE CO., Wilmington, N. C.

BAILEY'S REFLECTORS
A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue free.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.

Asthma The African Kola Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, is Nature's own Cure for Asthma. CURE absolutely guaranteed. Pay. Expert Office: 1164 Broadway, New York. For Large Trial Case, FREE by Mail, address KOLA IMPORTING CO., 152 Vine St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Electropoise. TRADE MARK.

ELECTROPOISE!

Electropoise. TRADE MARK.

LETTERS FROM REPRESENTATIVE NORTH CAROLINIANS.

NEWTON, N. C., Aug. 12th 1892.

Dear Sir:—I feel it my grateful duty to testify to all sufferers, particularly the weakly, worn-down females, of the great benefits that I have derived from the faithful use of the Electropoise. I have been raised from such a depth of suffering and misery that those who knew my condition a few months since consider me a walking wonder. I had suffered for several years from a distressing affliction peculiar to my sex, and for a year past my whole system had been involved. Constipation, most obstinate digestion, fearful periodical headaches, and worst of all, sleeplessness and nervousness, which no remedies would relieve. I had the best medical attention, and just lived on tonics and medicines, but found little even temporary relief. I could not walk to my nearest neighbors for three months, and suffered almost agony when on my feet. So much for my condition when in April last I began using the Electropoise. In one week I could sleep soundly all night with no nervous attacks, and now am entirely relieved of my distressing female trouble, constipation and headaches; appetite and digestion good, and I have walked two miles without inconvenience; my sleep is sound and refreshing, and my complexion is good. I have used the Electropoise with great success in my family, have cured croup, bronchitis, cramp and inflammation of the kidneys, with which my family have suffered. Several others here are using the wonderful little instrument with like success. I only recommend it to others from what it has done for me and mine.

Suffering worn-out wives and mothers are to be found everywhere, and I earnestly beg such to try the Electropoise—the womans friend. Where can you find one sufferer from female complaint who has been cured and her health built up by medicines and instruments? Yet many can be found who are to-day well and strong from a few months use of the Electropoise without medicine. I feel that under a kind providence I owe my life and health to the 'Poise, and I bid adieu to medicine, for I have my doctor and medicines always here in the never-failing Electropoise. It is cheap at any price, for it cures where other remedies fail.

Most respectfully, MRS. J. M. BROWN.

STATESVILLE, N. C., Sept. 10th, 1892.

Mr. John N. Webb:—Several weeks ago my husband was very violently attacked with Renal Calculi. The paroxisms coming on at frequent intervals caused him intense suffering. I minutely treated him with the Electropoise, relying upon my own judgment until I could communicate with you. So soon as your letter directing me in his case came, I followed your instructions to the letter, and although his case was a critical one (and my son a physician in the house with me) I stuck squarely to the 'Poise, and never gave a dose of medicine, relieving him altogether with the Electropoise. In a few weeks he was gradually restored to health, and his recovery was a marvel to his many friends, who never expected to see him up again. During his sickness he passed fully as much as three full tablespoons of sharp stones, often several at a time, but they gradually dissolved, and finally passed without pain. He is now able to go to his office and resume his business. What a blessing is the Electropoise to suffering humanity! Wonderful, wonderful in its magic effects, silently and surely reaching and arresting the most obstinate diseases, and causing pain and suffering to flee away. Would that every sufferer would possess this God-sent remedy, and try its wonderful effects, which are far reaching out to overstep the medical profession. Every word that I have written can be relied upon as a true statement of facts which I have experienced in my own home. The case of my husband is a marked one, he having passed the average of human life. Very sincerely yours,

MRS. C. A. CARLTON.
Endorsed by Mr. C. A. Carlton.

OFFICE OF MERCHANT MILLS.
JAS. D. MCNEILL, Prop.
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. Aug. 10th, '92.

My Dear Sir:—I gladly give you my opinion of the Electropoise. I consider it solomon' best gift to man. It has been of such wonderful benefit to me that I feel as if I could not say too much in its favor. A very severe attack of grippe in the winter of 1891 left me with a shattered, nervous system, and almost no digestive powers at all, and for eighteen months people in trades had as much fun and as good a time as I did. I tried allopathic, homopathic and "Jain of the fence" remedies, all to no good. The Electropoise has made me almost myself again, and I believe will eventually make me a better man. It has been used on every member of my household of seven children from the youngest up to their mother (who is also a convert) with marked beneficial results; so much so that I have not paid one penny for drugs since it entered my house, the first of last March. I have recommended it to many who have taken my advice, and I have never known of any one to regret having done so. It is the most economical physician in earth. I would not be without one under any circumstances. Yours truly,

JAS. D. MCNEILL, Cape Fear Mills.

A 50 PAGE BOOK SENT FREE ON APPLICATION.

FEVER. Shall we not send you a special circular for prevention and cure of Fever and Cholera. CHOLERA.

Correspondence Invited and Held Strictly Confidential. ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE COMPANY, Washington D. C.

The Home Circle.

The Resurrection.

The seal is broken from the tomb,
The stone is rolled away;
Dispelled are all the shades of gloom;
Breaks o'er the earth new day.

The Son of God has rent the veil
In triumph from the dead;
No more may death our faith assail
Or chill our souls with dread.

The sepulcher is now the gate
Of glory full confest,
Where shining angels joyful wait
To bear us to our rest,

"The Way, the Truth, the Life," we sing—
Our risen, reigning Lord;
With holy hosts we tribute bring
And hymn his conquering word.

Bring anthems high to every shrine,
Bring joy to every home;
Fill all the earth with songs divine;
The Lord has rent the tomb.
—Rev. F. Denison, in Christian Secretary.

Why I Totally Abstain.

What led me to make up my mind never to touch liquor was the damage which I saw wrought by it upon some of the finest minds with which it was ever my privilege to come in contact, and I concluded that what has resulted injuriously to others might prove so to me. I have seen, even in my few years of professional life, some of the most brilliant literary men dethroned from splendid positions owing to nothing else but their indulgence in wine. I have known men with salaries of thousands of dollars per year, occupy positions which hundreds would strive a life-time to attain, come to beggary from drink. Only recently there applied to me, for any position I could offer him, one of the most brilliant editorial writers in the newspaper profession—a man who two years ago, easily comanded one hundred dollars for a single editorial in his special field. That man became so unreliable from drink, that editors are now afraid of his articles, and, although he can to-day write as forcible editorials as at any time during his life, he sits in a cellar in one of our cities writing newspaper wrappers for one dollar per thousand. And that is only one instance of several I could recite here. I do not hold my friend up as a terrible example; he is only one of a type of men who convince me and may convince others that a clear mind and liquor do not go together.

Then, as I looked around and came to know more of people and things, I found the always unanswerable argument in favor of a young man's abstinence, i. e., that the most successful men in America to-day are those who never lift a wine-glass to their lips. Becoming interested in this fact, I had the curiosity to personally inquire into it, and of twenty-eight of the leading business men in the country whose names I selected at random, twenty two never touched a drop of wine of any sort. I made up my mind that there was some reason for this. If liquor brought safe pleasures, why did these men abstain from it? If as some say, it is a stimulant to a busy man, why did not these men, directing the largest business interests in this country, resort to it? And when I saw that these were the men whose opinions in great business matters were accepted by the leading concerns of the world, I concluded that their judgment in the use of liquor would satisfy me. If their judgment in business matters could command the respect and attention of the leaders of trade on both sides of the sea, their decision as to the use of liquor was not apt to be wrong.

And as opportunities come to me to go around in homes and at public places, I find that I do not occupy a solitary position. The tendency to abstain from liquors is growing more and more among young men of to-day. The brightest young men I know, young men who are filling positions of power and promise, never touch a drop of beer, wines or intoxicants of any sort. And the young man who to-day makes up his mind that he will be on the safe side and adhere to strict abstinence will find that he is not alone. He has now the very best element in business and social life in the largest cities of our land with him.—Edward W. Bok, editor Ladies' Home Journal.

Another Cashier.

Mr. R. M. Farrar of the Merchants Bank, Atlanta, says to have money is to save it. In the use of Dr. Bigger's Huckleberry Cordial for all bowel troubles, he saves doctor's bills and prevents a panic of suffering.

Silenced by a Prayer.

"We were a round dozen of the gloomiest passengers that ever got together in a Pullman car one warm June night coming up from Atlanta over the Piedmont Line," says a writer in the Philadelphia Times. There were several reasons for the surly dullness, which deepened as the evening wore on. The weather was clammy and uncomfortable, while to open the windows was to invite a coat of soot and showers of cinders. Moreover, the supper at Charlotte had been undeniably bad.

With such conditions it was not to be wondered at that an air of gloomy moroseness pervaded the car. The only party who did not openly evince any evidence of discontent was a group of a sad-faced man, a woman with a subdued countenance, and a tiny tot of five, apparently the daughter of the man and the niece of the lady. We all knew well enough why they were so quiet. In the baggage-car was a rough box, and the little girl clutched tightly a bouquet of the same tuberoses we had seen carried in with the coffin.

By and by there were sounds of a slight disturbance from the back part of the car, which caused everyone to turn his eyes thither. In the middle of the aisle stood a little fairy form, clad in a snowy night dress, her golden curls shaking over her shoulders by the rocking of the car, while her blue eyes were troubled and half afloat in tears. She was saying in a baby voice, which opposition had caused to rise to its highest pitch, distinguishable above the rumble of the train: "Papa and auntie, I must; mamma told me to before she went to sleep." Seeing the attention of the other passengers drawn upon them, the father flushed and made no further remonstrance, and the lady also drew back. The little tot got down reverently upon her knees by the side of the berth, clasped her tiny hands and began:

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to keep,"

and so on through it all until the final "amen," adding: "God b'ess papa and auntie and poor 'ittle Annie, whose mamma has gone away."

Then, unresisting, they tucked her into the berth. There was no more story telling, no more grumbling, no more growling that night. The train rumbled on with the sleeping mother in the baggage car and the sleeping orphan.—New York Advocate.

A Touching Incident.

There is a family in one of our large cities dependent upon a little child for their present sunshine. A few weeks ago the young wife and mother was stricken down to die. It was so sudden, so dreadful, when the grave family physician called them together in the parlor, and in his solemn, professional way intimated to them the truth there was no help.

Then came the question who was to tell her. Not the doctor. It would be cruel to let the man of science go to their dear one on such an errand. Not the aged mother who was to be left childless and alone. Not the young husband who was walking the floor with clenched hands and a rebellious heart. Not—there was only one other, and at this moment he looked up from the book he had been playing with, unnoticed by them all, and asked gravely:

"Is mamma doin' to die?"

"Then without waiting for an answer, he sped from the room and up the stairs as fast as his little legs would carry him.

Friends and neighbors were watching by the sick woman. They wonderingly noticed the pale face of the child as he climbed on the bed and laid his little head on his mother's pillow.

"Mamma, is you 'fraid to die?" he asked, in sweet, caressing tones.

"Who—who—told—you—Charlie?"

"Doctor and papa, and gamma—everybody," he whispered.

"Mamma, dear little mamma, don't be afraid to die, will you?"

"No, Charlie," said the young mother, after one supreme pang of grief; "no, mamma won't be afraid."

"Just shut your eyes in the dark, mamma; teep hold of my hand—and when you open 'em, mamma, it will be all light there."

When the family gathered awe-stricken at the bed side, Charlie held up his little hand, saying solemnly:

"Hush! My mamma doin' to sleep. Her won't wake up here any more!"

And so it proved. There was no heart-rending farewell, no agony of parting; for when the young mother awoke she had passed beyond, and, as baby Charlie said:

"It is all light there."—Selected.

Women in the Garden

There are many women living in the country who would be glad to do something to earn a little money. Though it were but a little, it would give them a feeling of independence, especially those who are obliged to ask father or husband for every penny they need. To those whose husbands or fathers have land, I would say, why not coax them to let you have a small plot near the house for your own use, that you may raise a few vegetables to sell? Then when they are in extra good humor persuade them to plough or spade up the ground for you some day when they are not too busy elsewhere. If ploughed, of course they will harrow it for you, and then you can begin a garden for profit and pleasure, for I think you will find it a pleasure also to watch your garden grow and gather the fruit of your labors. First rake the soil until it is fine and even, then with a line stretched the desired length, mark with a pointed stick the rows for various kinds of vegetables, leaving a space between to walk when sowing and cultivating, a narrow path made by pressing the feet in the soil each side of the line. The place between each row for the planting of seeds must be determined by the kind of vegetable to be raised. Much can be learned by watching some one who understands the art lay out a garden or patch. If you are a novice at the business, do not attempt to cultivate too large a space the first year, or try to raise too great a variety of vegetables.

Unless one has been accustomed to use the hoe and rake occasionally, she will find it beyond her strength to work very long at a time at first, and so will become discouraged. But soon the fresh air and moderate exercise will not only strengthen the muscles, but if one's health is not perfect will tone up the whole system, especially the nervous system. I know from personal experience that they are excellent tonics for both body and mind.

If you live near a village or town, so much the better. You will be likely to find a ready market for all first-class vegetables you can find time and strength to grow, provided they are put up in attractive shape when offered for sale.—Exchange.

As a general rule, it is best not to correct costiveness by the use of saline or drastic medicines. When a purgative is needed, the most prompt, effective, and beneficial is Ayer's Pills. Their tendency is to restore, and not weaken, the normal action of the bowels.

Pin Feathers.

Corn is the best food for sitting hens.

Give the egg shells back to the hens.

Pounded or ground bone is a good egg-forming food.

The artificial incubator is growing in favor with farmers.

Fresh water should be given to your chickens at least once a day.

Your young chickens will relish milk. Give them all the sweet milk they will take.

It is economy to keep your fowls in thrifty condition, neither too fat nor too lean.

If your fowls eat feathers, they should be given meat, bone and chopped vegetables.

Much of the disagreeableness ordinarily arising from the care of fowls may be obviated by keeping the houses as clean as possible.

Wheat in moderate quantities will make hens lay. It is much better than corn, but like corn it will make them fat if enough is given them.

If you are a small fruit raiser, or apiarist, you may add another branch to your business by starting a poultry yard. These three make an excellent triangle.

A small poultry raiser says that last year from sixty hens he sold 496 dozen eggs for $75 83 and 175 chicks for $41.77. He retained 102 pullets, valued at $43.70 and used $2 64 worth for table. In all $163.94. His expense was $96 21, leaving a net profit of $67.73, or over one dollar each for his hens.

Persons contemplating raising chickens for the New York market, says the "Poultry Monthly," are reminded that from March 1 to May 14 broilers of one to one and a half pounds bring more per pound than heavier weights. About May 15 they begin to decline, and after June 1 those weighing two pounds and over, bring more per pound than chicks of less weight.

One of the best fowls we have, says the "National Stockman," is the Houdan, layers equal to the Minorca, and beautiful in plumage and form. They are more suitable to the farmer's needs than the Polish, but in both these breeds the crests on their heads make them easy victims to that cruel enemy, the hawk. In comparison with any of our useful fowls we are sure the Houdan will hold a high position.

When hens are first allowed to run out after confinement for the winter, if they have not had an abundance of green food or good clover hay, says the "American Cultivator," they will sometimes eat so greedily of the grass that they find, and which is dead and dry, that it will pack their crops and they become "crop bound." There is but one remedy. Cut open the crop with a sharp knife, remove the hay and sew up the wound. But a hearty feed of cabbage leaves is a preventive of the trouble, and that is better than a cure.—Exchange.

A Child's Early Influences.

Nothing is so easily spoiled as a child. Walk with your little babe a few nights when you wish to put it to sleep; or accustom it to rocking, then attempt to put it to sleep without this habit, and see how difficult it will be to get it to sleep. The parent must from the beginning of the child's existence do those things to which the child is to conform. It is allowing children to have their own way during the first few years of their lives that makes them so hard to control. Before they are able to talk they are being molded by the actions of those around them.

It is therefore highly important that from the beginning the best influence and example should be about the child. It is a serious mistake in parents to commit their children wholly into the hands of a nurse. No parent can afford to do this, even though they have a very kind and careful nurse. Every mother desires that her child bear the impress of her own image. This cannot be when it is with the nurse more than with the mother.

Few people have any idea of the extent of the part performed by nurses in the formation of society. Many a mother wonders where her son or daughter learned these things, or formed that habit, or heard such and such an expression. Let her listen a few minutes at the nursery door and all will be made plain.—Housekeeper.

The foregoing contains golden words. A great need of the day is the sensible and faithful mother, one who will not transfer her responsible office to the hands of a nurse. How many mothers there are who will carefully guard their pantries from servants, but who do not hesitate to commit their children to them. How much more important is the child than the pantry or the wardrobe!

SPECIAL MENTION.

If you have no appetite, indigestion, headache, "all run down" or losing flesh, you will find the remedy you need. They give tone to the stomach, strength to the body, brilliancy to the complexion and healthful enjoyment of daily life. Their action is mild and does not interfere with any employment. Price, 25c. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

TUTT'S Tiny Liver Pills

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.

EDWARD FASNACH, JEWELER AND OPTICIAN, RALEIGH, N. C.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, Jewelry, —AND— Sterling Silverware.

Optical Goods.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
School Books and Stationery
— BY —
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.

OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.

All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.

Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS, WAGON-MAKERS, PAINTERS, MILL-MEN —AND— SPORTSMEN'S SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER, CEMENT, HAIR, NAILS, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils, COLORS, GLASS, BELTING, PACKING, FILES, IRON AND STEEL.
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES, ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.

RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.
Julius Lewis & Co., RALEIGH, N. C.
Guns and PISTOLS

"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1892. Number 15.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

To R. D. Carroll.

In the RECORDER of September 21st Bro. R. D. Carroll calls on me and other brethren to say whether a certain practice which he mentions is orthodox.

By way of refreshing the memory of the reader, I will re-state the case. During the absence of the pastor, a church employed a young man who was a member of the church, and not ordained, to conduct the services of the church. During the time he served the church the regular time for observing the Lord's supper came on, and the church authorized the young brother to officiate in administering the supper. This, I suppose, is a true statement of the case. There is one sentence in Bro. Carroll's communication that is not quite clear to my mind. It is this: "He officiated with the deacons in the celebration of the supper." The most natural conclusion from that statement is, to my mind, that he acted the part of a deacon with the deacons of the church. But I suppose the fact is he acted the part of an elder, and the deacons acted their part as deacons.

In passing, I take the liberty of saying that I have no great fancy for the word "orthodox." It is a technical word, and has been much abused. Whenever I see or hear it used I am reminded of the old pun, "my doxy is orthodoxy, and your doxy is heterodoxy." But the questions put by Bro. Carroll make the matter plain so far as his particular inquiry is concerned. I re-state the questions:—

"1. Did this church act inconsistently with scriptural teaching?

2. Is such action in a church contrary to Baptist usage?

3. Has a church the right to ask any one in whom it may have confidence, and whom it may choose to officiate in the celebration of the ordinances?"

As to the second question, I would unhesitatingly say, It is. That is, so far as my information extends. This, however, does not necessarily make it right or wrong, but it does raise a strong presumption that it is wrong. I have lived long enough to set quite a high estimate on Baptist usage, because the Baptists from the days of John the Baptist until now have taken the Scriptures alone to regulate their usage. That has caused, from time to time, a careful study of the Scripture on points pertaining to usage, and I think our predecessors through whom usage has been handed down had quite as much sense and grace as most of us in the present decade. It is proper, however, for all people, Baptists especially, at all times, to settle for themselves the teaching of the Scriptures, and better for them to conform their acts to such teaching.

As to the third question, the answer to that depends to a great degree, if not entirely, on the answer to the first question. If it is contrary to the teaching of the Scriptures for a church to celebrate the Lord's supper in the manner stated by Bro. Carroll, then the third question amounts to no more or less than asking the question, has a church the right to do wrong? This brings us to a consideration of the first question.

This involves the teaching of the Scriptures on the subject. When the supper was instituted none were present but the twelve, Matt. 26: 20. After the resurrection, and just before the ascension of the Lord, he gave his great command to the eleven in Galilee, and in it is this: "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Among the things commanded was the Lord's supper. But this throws no light on the particular question in hand, except that the Lord's supper was to be observed. Paul says, 1 Cor. 11: 23, "For I received of the Lord that which I also delivered unto you, that the Lord Jesus, the same night in which he was betrayed, took bread," &c., down to and including v. 25. We gather here that the Apostle Paul received a revelation from the Lord concerning the supper, and what he received from the Lord he delivered to the church at Corinth. In v. 2, same chapter, we have these words: "Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the ordinances as I delivered them to you." By "ordinances" I suppose the apostle meant whatever he had established in the church, including the Lord's supper. Acts 20: 7, Paul and his company being at Troas, it is written: "And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow." By the expression "to break bread," I have no doubt the Lord's supper is meant, for I don't see why there should be an assembling of the disciples just to partake of a common repast. But who presided at the Lord's supper on this occasion—provided it was observed—we are not informed.

So that we search in vain for an example in the New Testament of an elder presiding at the observance of the Lord's supper. In fact we are not informed who presided at any time except when it was instituted, when Christ himself presided. But we are left to settle the matter on general principles. To the ministry is given "the ministry of reconciliation," 2 Cor. 5: 18, and baptism and the Lord's supper are a part of that ministry. It is the symbolical part. With the preaching of the gospel, wherever it is successful, the ordinances always follow. They are object lessons, teaching the same gospel truth by symbol that is taught by word. It is only on these general principles pertaining to the office of the ministry that I conclude that the administration of the ordinances, the Lord's supper included, belongs to the ordained ministry. As to baptism, I think that rather clearer.

It may as well be observed before concluding that the ordinances, although given to the church by the ministry in virtue of their office, still the apostle makes the church their custodian, and they are to be kept as originally delivered by the apostles. I think a church may appoint one to administer baptism or the Lord's supper in the absence of the pastor, but I do not think a church has the right to appoint a person who is not officially qualified; and with the present lights before me, I think an ordained minister, in good standing, alone is qualified for that service.

Now, I have had my say. I hope the other brethren can do better.

Roxboro, N. C. J. J. LANSDELL.

Thoughts—No. 8.

BY SCATTERHEAD.

"What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits?"

"Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase."

I once heard a "Hard Shell" preacher say in his sermon that "man is like a hog under a big acorn tree, champing and champing and eating the acorns, and never taking time to look up to see where the acorns came from." His illustration of man's ingratitude, though a little homely, is very apt. Man is the biggest hog on this terrestrial ball. I have often wondered how the Lord has endured man so long. Truly God's patience is not like ours. I have often thought of man's unthankfulness, and I was stirred up a few days ago by hearing a brother talk on this subject. Satan's imps entered a lot of hogs when our Saviour was here, and they all ran into the sea and were drowned, i. e., the hogs, not the evil spirits. The people of that country entreated the Lord to leave after the death of their hogs, as they thought a heap more of their hogs than they did of Christ. Jesus left them, and it is not recorded that he ever visited them again. It is an awful thought that Jesus, for the last time, has "passed by." He can't stay where he is not wanted. There are lots of Gadarenes left in the world.

We as followers of the Lord Jesus must make a very big effort to keep down the hog nature in us, and the best way for us to do this is to often consider what the Lord has done for us. It seems to be a hard matter for us to appreciate in a very small degree God's goodness towards us, on account of our worldly occupations, and mixing up so much with the world, and like the hog under the tree, we are prone to forget the many benefits and mercies received. We ought to review every day, not once a year only, the untold blessings God has showered upon us during our stay in the world, and especially, since we started out on the pilgrimage to our "Father's house" on high, we need often to take a retrospective view of the way by which we have been led by our Lord, so that the spirit of gratitude may not only be kept alive within us, but increase more and more until it would kindle in a "holy flame" to ever burn upon the altar of our hearts, so that there might continually well up in our souls a song of thanksgiving such as uttered by the Lord's ancient servant: "Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me bless his holy name." Our thankfulness must not be by spurts, but should be constant, neither should our praise be for special blessings alone, but should be universal for all benefits received—"Giving thanks always for all things unto God, and the Father, in the name of Jesus Christ." Eph. 5: 2. We cannot recall all the benefits received, but we must give thanks for all. Many times we bow in prayer and beg the Lord to give us everything we want, and fail to thank him for the untold blessings already received. What selfish hearts we possess! We are very full of wants, too. Our God has not promised to supply our wants but all of our needs, "according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

Unthankfulness in any one is a good sign that Satan is a right welcome guest. Some of us may be pretty good at figuring, but I don't know that we have the ability to add up the blessings received. If we would endeavor to cultivate a spirit of gratitude, we would be a great deal happier, and many of the sorrows of life, real as well as imaginary, would flee away like darkness before the sun. It is said every dark cloud has its silver lining. We very often find what we are looking for. I guess if we are looking for blessings, we will stand a good chance to obtain them. Let us all endeavor, by God's grace, to abide in his presence, ever praising him for his goodness and wonderful works unto the sons of men, ever looking upon the bright side of things, knowing that all things shall work together for our good. The Lord, by his grace, has brought us thus far on our journey and will lead us the balance of the way.

We look back along the road and thousands of untold blessings rise up to our view, all given by a merciful God and a loving Father. Innumerable temporal blessings have been bestowed upon us all along our pathway. Food, raiment, health, good parents, kind friends, are the common blessings received, and many things we have been kept from, such as sickness, death, sorrow. From our infancy the Lord has unceasingly provided for us. His tender and loving care has ever been about us. But why have we received all these blessings? Have we deserved them? No, I would answer, whilst in the dust I bow, and cry aloud, wrath we all deserve. Surely he has not dealt with us as we deserve, and of a certainty we say, "He is slow to anger and plenteous in mercy." Many of us have been down upon beds of sickness, but the Lord in his mercy has raised us up, and we are still in the land of the living, where there is life, where there is hope. We look around us and we behold many graves, and some of them filled by our friends unprepared for eternity. Why are not our bodies in their graves and our souls in hell? Brother, why is it you are not that drunkard wallowing in the mud, or that felon behind the bars, that convict with his chains, or that poor heathen bowing down to "stocks and stones," who has never heard the way of life and salvation? Seriously consider these questions, and may the Holy Spirit enable you to give the true answers.

Let us constantly think of the spiritual blessings received. "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift"—the gift of his Son. All our blessings come through the Lord Jesus, the greatest gift ever bestowed upon man. Think of the magnitude of God's love—so loved us as to give his only Son to rescue us from eternal death. "God is love." "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Rom. 5: 8.

We need to thank our God every day for the gift of his precious word of truth, which makes known to us our duty to God and to our fellowman. Our hearts should constantly be filled with thankfulness to our Father for the gift of the Holy Spirit whose mission it is to "reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment," to guide the Lord's people into all truth, and who does not testify of himself, but takes the things of Jesus and shows them to us. All of us who are now children of God, remember the times when we were "without hope and God in the world," were on the broad way which led to hell, and the Holy Spirit came to us through the word, and showed us our lost, ruined and helpless condition, and revealed unto us the Lord Jesus as our only Saviour, and our faith taking hold on him, we found life eternal, were enabled to rejoice in him with "joy unspeakble and full of glory." A quiet peace took possession of our souls like a peaceful calm after a raging storm. We found our life, our hope, our faith, our love, all centered in Jesus only. "Therefore, being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." Rom. 5: 1.

When can we get through thanking our God for benefits received? I am very certain thanksgiving will continue through all eternity in the home of the redeemed. Gratitude is very good soil for love to flourish in, and I am very certain if we are truly grateful, we will love the Lord, and will honor him with our hope and trust, service and substance, too. It would be a very good thing all through the day for us to have our minds fixed upon the Lord Jesus Christ, "who was rich, yet for our sakes became poor, that we through his poverty might be rich." Some church-members who possess a portion of this world's goods, talk much about walking in the Master's footsteps, but are greatly afraid to give to the Lord's cause a few dollars, as they seem to think they might land into the "poor-house" sometime if they are not very saving; they seem to forget the poverty of Christ while in this world—so very poor he had no home here, though maker and owner of all things.

Our blessed Saviour denied himself of earthly enjoyments for our sakes. He was the only perfect man that dwelt long in this world, and we all rejected him and murdered him to get him out of the way. All who have not repented and believed on him are charged with the guilt of the murder of God's dear Son. Our God should have the best we have. He freely gave his best to us. He spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all. Every thing we have ever enjoyed came from God. "Every good and perfect gift is from above." How can we be satisfied to withhold anything from him? We are his stewards. We belong to him, being bought with the price of his own blood; so then our hearts, time and money all belong to our Lord, and all should be used in his service. If we love God we will be very apt to show it by our actions anyhow, as it is said, "Actions speak louder than words." God's children all favor him, and they will be moved by his love within their hearts to imitate him, especially in the grace of giving. Giving is God-like. If we have no disposition to give to the Lord's cause, we may know of a truth that we are no kin to God. Considering the mercies of God in the right way will move us to give our first, and our best, and our all to the service of our God.

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice." Brother, if you are not doing anything for the Lord's cause, you had better examine yourselves in the light of God's word.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."

[Published by Request.]

Quench not the Spirit—1 Thess. 5: 16.

THE SUBSTANCE OF A PRAYER-MEETING TALK, AFTERWARDS WRITTEN OUT FOR THE CHINESE RECORDER.

We often speak of hindrances to our work; but are they not, for the most part, of an outward nature? Our work is a spiritual work; the chief desire of every one of us is the salvation of souls; then, if there be hindrances of a spiritual nature, they must be most important, because they have to do with the very cause of all the results we hope to accomplish. Now, I believe in the sovereignty of God, and yet I believe it is possible to hinder the Spirit, otherwise this caution would never have been given. If we would not quench the Spirit, we should rely wholly on him for the conversion of souls. But working for this end, do we not in fact rely a great deal on material means? The Chinese are thoroughly materialistic. Whether he be Buddhist, Taoist or Confucian, or all combined, as is generally the case, the average Chinaman looks for present and material good in connection with his religious action. The popular expression "eat the religion," shows that they expect all who join the religion, that is, those who identify themselves with it, will simply patronize it when they have occasion to live of it. While the methods of christian missions are not responsible for the prevalent expectation thus expressed,—for it was here doubtless even before the Catholics began missionary work,—yet is it not quite possible that our way of working through charitable institutions, good in themselves, undertaken and diligently prosecuted with the best of motives, with the glorious end, the salvation of souls, in view, is fostering this base materialism that is absolutely opposed to the work of the Spirit? Do they not mistake the means for the end?

But there is another way of hindering the Spirit, and it is all the more dangerous because it is more subtle, in that it is not so material but partakes more of the nature of philosophy. The class spoken of above join the church for gain. There is another class of persons who join, and are not hypocrites as those are. These think they are christians. They have accepted christianity as a system of truth, as a religion, but have not yet accepted Christ as their personal Saviour. That is, they have never been born again. "That which is born of the flesh, is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit, is spirit," (John 3: 6). I am indebted to my non-professing teacher for calling my attention to the important distinction between believing in christianity and believing in Christ. Talking with him one day about his soul's welfare, I asked him if he believed; he, an honest, noble fellow, replied, "Yes, I believe, but I do not believe like you believe." Then he proceeded to explain what he meant. He had come to believe in christianity as a system of truth, I might say as the truth. Comparing it with the other religions with which he was acquainted, he saw it was true; they were false, and that was as far as he had gone; while he saw that I was trusting in Jesus as my Saviour, having swung off on him and given my life to his service. May it not be that many of our church members are right where he was? It is painfully suggestive to hear them speak so often of believing the doctrine (tau-li) and so seldom of believing on Jesus. Some of us complain that some of the native christians, even some of our preachers, do not tell out their spiritual experience. Have they had it? We wonder why more of them do not feel their responsibility to the Saviour of their souls. Have they made that personal transaction with him that involves responsibility? This responsibility is a tremendous effect that must have an adequate cause, even the Spirit himself. We wonder that some of them do not show more life. Have they been made alive in Christ Jesus, and does the life-giving Spirit dwell within them? What means this dead formalism we sometimes feel in our native prayer meetings, where they go through with the same motions that we do here? Does the Spirit himself make intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered?

Let us preach Christ, a personal Saviour, more and "doctrine" less, and certainly this is along the line of the Spirit's workings; for it was to show unto us the things of Christ that he came.

Further, when our fathers in the work first came to this land, they saw an enormous need of preachers. They perhaps almost felt as though a machine that could preach the gospel would be better than nothing. Any way, in some cases they proceeded to manufacture them. Alas! some of these preachers were worse than machines; for machines are dead, while they, though dead towards God, were alive towards evil. Now, I am not finding fault with these pioneer missionaries. I would vie with any man in honoring them. Let him that would criticise them improve on what they have done even now. We would, probably, have made greater mistakes, for they were wise men. With the light they have given us, and having been warned against their mistakes with almost their dying breath, some of us find it hard not to follow in the wake and be pressed forward beyond the lead of God by what seems to us the appalling need. Not long ago I was talking with a missionary belonging to a denomination that believes in God's calling men into the ministry, as to what was his principle of selection of men for his theological school; his answer was to the effect that now in the beginning the emergency was so great that we could not always wait for God to call them. But if God doesn't know the need, who does? We shall gain nothing spiritually by going ahead of him. We shall quench the Spirit.

Having lost our pastor, I was leading our church in prayer that God would call us one, if not from among our preachers or even our members, then from without, wheeling some sinner right about as he did Saul and sending him forth as a chosen vessel. But the other day I was reminded by one of our preachers that in that prayer I could not have been sincere, that it must have been for effect; for God could not call a man and put him into this work here in that way. Now that brother had been led to that conclusion by observing the method usually pursued in making preachers, and though he would grant that in a sense God must call them, there must be a certain process of turning them out. They must go through the mill, and in this case, as that of the heathen gods of old, they grind slow. I am afraid of a system that produces such an impression, lest it quench the Spirit. For it is no matter how diligently we preach the doctrine of a divine call, it is what we practice. Who makes our preachers? The natives know. Some of them are of God, as their works do show.

But that which most vitally concerns us is, what effect do our methods of work and dependence upon material helps, whether in making converts or preachers, have upon us personally in our spiritual life? If I pray God to convert men and yet depend on a school or some other means of making these converts, the prayer is a farce and damaging to my spiritual life. If I pray God to give us a pastor or an evangelist and yet go right on and appoint one myself, conscious of his showing no evidence of having been called of God, it reduces my prayer to solemn mockery and destroys my confidence in my own sincerity. I knew of one dear brother missionary making shipwreck of his faith. The first symptom of his drift toward infidelity was to doubt the power of the gospel unattended by some material help, to save the Chinaman. That naturally helped to lead him to doubt its Author and to cease to regard him as divine. Thanks to the grace of God, his is a rare case; but anything that tends to help toward infidelity is to be shunned; it is sin to doubt. Who of us have not felt that out here there was a tendency to shrivel up spiritually? A good many things are attributable to the climate, but certainly this is not. May it not be that one of the causes is the reflex influence of our work, that it is too materialistic?

Those of us who may be engaged, not so much in charitable work or in making native preachers and directing them, as in preaching the gospel ourselves, are subject to the same danger of quenching the Spirit. We may, in our routine of preaching to the heathen, fall into not only neglecting mental preparation, but what is worse, to neglecting heart preparation, the enduement with power from on high. This work of discipling all nations may become—the tendency is for it to become—so humdrum that we fail to claim the promise, "Lo I am with you alway." The fact is that we should never let the habit of preaching, the power of using the language and otherwise accommodating our message to the heathen audience, or any other thing, keep us from leaning hard upon the present Lord. Our greatest need, we all know, is the Spirit's presence and power; then, instead of quenching him, we should give him room in our hearts and work, and do all that God's word requires, in order to get him to come and abide.

"Come Holy Spirit, come,
With all thy quickening powers."

D. W. HERRING.

I Have Not Got Any.

Dr. Horace Bushnell was an invalid during the last years of his noble and useful life, and when people in Hartford inquired of him, "How is your health?" he used to reply playfully, "I have not got any." This might be the honest answer of many professed Christians in regard to their souls. Their spiritual pulse is feeble; their appetite for God's word is poor; they are more fit for the hospital than for service. They no more enjoy their religion than a fever patient would enjoy a slice of roast beef or a plum pudding.—Dr. T. L. Cuyler.

The past cannot be changed, but the future is still in your hands. Use it to doing better.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1892.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

There is a tendency now rather noticeable among our theological students to seek, or at least prefer, town or city pastorates, and consequently to avoid village and country fields where they expect more labor and smaller salaries. This tendency needs watching and curbing, not only on the part of students themselves, but also on the part of the professors who instruct them. It is a well-known fact that a great many of our pastorless churches write to the president or professors at our theological seminaries to recommend to them students suited to the demands of their fields of labor. The faculties of such schools, of course, often answer such letters by commending some student whom they think competent to perform the work. More or less of this is to be expected, and often pastorless churches can in this way be supplied; but still there is need of some caution here on the part of those who write letters of inquiry, and on the part of those who answer them. It is well for our theological schools to be what they are expected to be—centers for the thorough training and development of our coming ministry; but they are not expected to be regular depots for the supply of pastorless churches, and they should be rather careful not to acquire a reputation in this line.

The above remarks are intended to apply especially to the faculties in charge of our theological schools, and even of literary schools at which there are ministerial students; but there is a tendency among theological students to prefer and to seek good pastorates, soft places, which needs curbing, even more than rather indiscriminate recommendations on the part of professors who teach in such institutions. Students who have a decided preference for soft places are in great danger of actually seeking such places, and hence, making direct overtures themselves, or through their friends, for them. There is great need of care and caution in these matters, and there are reasons why professors and students should be careful, lest the tendency referred to become more perceptible than it is now. We give a few such reasons:—

1. A theological student, it matters not though he be a regular college or seminary graduate, is as a rule young and inexperienced. He is generally unmarried. When he settles down in his pastorate, if not engaged, he is apt to begin at once to look around that he may find a wife to help him in his work. Very often he may fancy some member of his flock, and soon there is talk of a match between the pastor and Miss —. The parents may oppose it. The pastor's attention may be very much to the grief of other young men, and possibly, of other young ladies in the community; and before the affair is adjusted the pastor's influence may be seriously crippled, and usually he has to find a new field soon after he finds a wife. During this struggle, being young and not having learned to control his temper, he may say some very unministerial things to those who oppose him. Not only in matters of the heart, but in the general work and business of the church he may differ radically from his deacons or other leading members, and may bring reproach on the cause by having several "church fusses." All this might be avoided if the brother had gone to an humbler field, and the church had made a wiser selection. Some young and inexperienced pastors do remarkably well, even in important pastorates; but it is not always the case by any means, and as a rule even the talented young minister would do better to commence work in an humbler sphere, and if he has talent and capacity he will soon find, or be called, to more important work. An humbler field may not be so near a sinecure, but it develops the young minister, and gives him an experience that will be invaluable in a more important pastorate.

2. The marked development of this tendency necessarily creates a prejudice against theological schools in the minds and hearts of older brethren, or those who have not enjoyed the advantages of special theological training. A great many of our ministers, including some of our ablest men, have never had regular theological training, and it is quite important that there should be hearty sympathy and co-operation between this class of men and those trained or developed at our theological schools. They are constantly thrown together in the active work of the ministry, in Associations, Conventions, &c., and if there is a want of sympathy and co-operation between them, this [illegible] to that extent crippled, and the progress of the gospel impeded. Now it is often the case that older and more experienced ministers who live near important pastorates, and who are well qualified to fill them, are overlooked by churches, and perhaps a beardless youth is called from the seminary who, in many respects, is not as well qualified for the work as his older and more experienced brother. The continual recurrence of such as this is well calculated to create in the minds of these older brethren a prejudice against theological schools in general; and they are often not slow in showing it by withholding from their younger brethren that sympathy and co-operation that would be very helpful to them.

We sincerely hope we are not misunderstood in these remarks. Our sympathy and our heart go out toward our younger brethren. We are a warm friend to sound theological seminaries; yet we are writing some things we think that need to be written, and we are only showing, we think, real friendship for our young theological students when we remind them that many preachers are talented theologians who never received a theological course. They have learned theology as thoroughly, and sometimes more so, than even the well trained theological student. The difference is, they have been laboring for a long time to acquire what the seminary has given the student in a few years. If there are soft places in our Zion, if there are easy pastorates, without controversy they ought to be enjoyed, as a rule, by those who have borne the heat and burden of the day, if they are competent to fill them. Beyond a doubt, age and experience ought to tell for what they are worth in the ministry more than in any other calling. But strange to say they are more at a discount. Some churches have learned the force of this remark by sad experience. But again we say, men who have toiled long and faithfully in the ministry, and whose mellowed wisdom, mental and spiritual culture, fit them for important pastorates, ought not by any means to be ignored when safe and judicious pastors are needed. It is manifestly unjust that men, who by toil, labor and prayer make good pastors, should be pushed aside just when they are capable of doing effective work for the Master in favor of even the seminary graduate who is young, strong and vigorous, and capable of doing if need be pioneer work. And after all, it is a grand thing for a young and talented minister to build on his own foundation; to make by God's blessing a good pastorate of his own. This shows superior ability, piety, and manhood on his part, and furnishes undoubted evidence that he is vastly the superior of the man who lingers at college, at the seminary, or at home, and works the professors or his friends for all they are worth until he finds a soft place or an easy pastorate.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

KING'S MOUNTAIN ASSOCIATION.

The meeting of the Association was a real joy to the brethren and sisters of Gastonia. After every one had been provided with a pleasant home there still remained plenty of room, and nobody had as many delegates and visitors as had been provided for and wanted. The church here is small in the number of its members, but under the administration of Bro. Hickson these one hundred members are doing a work second to only one other church in the entire Association. The total amount sent up during the year for all purposes by the church at Gastonia, as shown by their letter, was $1,400, an average of $14 per member. I have not seen in the State a church where the members seem to be more united or possessed the spirit for work in a greater degree than does the church in Gastonia.

Maj. H. F. Schenck was again elected moderator, and the good judgment which led the Association to re-elect their old officers was seen in the entire proceedings of the Association. A good moderator who can stimulate discussion when the interest of the Association requires it, and who will indicate his desire to stop it at the proper time, is invaluable to an Association.

This Association contains a large number of ministers, besides a good number of active laymen, and on this account we had the most thorough discussion of all the objects which came before the Association.

If space allowed, it would be well to outline many of the speeches of the brethren who spoke on the different subjects. They were strong and to the point.

When Bro. D. M. Austin had spoken the time allowed him on State Missions, the entire Association would have voted an extension of time. His presentation of the subject was clear, vigorous and forcible, and was followed by liberal pledges by the churches and a good contribution by the audience.

Bro. F. C. Hickson made one of the finest speeches on Foreign Missions we have ever heard on the subject. Being himself once a missionary he is in possession of some facts in regard to the methods of doing missionary work which will be of much real benefit to the entire denomination in the State, so we have asked Bro. Hickson to furnish a manuscript of his argument to the RECORDER, and this he has kindly consented to do at as early a day as it can be prepared.

We had a "field day" on education. The discussion was led by Rev. W. R. Gwaltney, and he was followed by brethren Hamrick, Stallings, R. H. Griffith of South Carolina, and J. B. Boone.

Bro. C. A. Jenkins was here in the interest of Oxford Female Seminary, and had talked to the brethren privately about the school at Oxford, and was on his way home when the discussion came off.

Bro. Mills, in addition to the special work he did for the Orphanage, made a very practical and interesting talk on Home Missions.

We had, as the moderator declared, a first rate discussion on periodicals, which was participated in by brethren Matheney, Hamrick, and several lay brethren, whose speeches were appreciated especially.

We were especially glad to see brethren T. Dixon, S. E. Bostick, B. Blanton, and some other of the old landmarks, whose health and vigor have been so wonderfully preserved. The places now filled by these men will soon have to be occupied by others. The question may well be asked, will the men who are to come after them do their part as well as those who have gone before.

A fit conclusion of a most delightful session of the Association was the Sunday-school mass-meeting Sunday morning conducted by Bro. Moore, the superintendent at Gastonia. Bro. Moore is a very handsome man, and this is not to be overlooked in the selecting of a Sunday-school superintendent. All other things being equal, a good looking man has great advantages in this position over his less fortunate brother. But better than this, Bro. Moore's heart is in his work, and I learn that nearly every member of Gastonia Baptist church is also a member of the Sunday-school.

All the pulpits in the town were filled Sunday morning and night by brethren who were in attendance at the Association.

Every courtesy and kindness possible was extended by the citizens of the town toward the Association, and was duly appreciated by all present. I enjoyed especially a home with my old college friend, Bro. Marshall. He has a model home, with nothing to do but edit a paper, keep the politics of his county straight, and take care of a beautiful pair of twin babies.

I am indebted to Mrs. Dr. Hoffman for a delightful ride over the town, as well as a pleasant ride to the old homestead of her father, Bro. D. A. Jenkins. This is one of the finest farms and most delightful country homes in the State, where the children, as many as can, meet once a year to keep in mind the memories of a pleasant home.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Dr. J. L. M. Curry was in Asheville last week.

....Read Miss Fannie Knight's letter from China.

....Rev. W. P. Fife is holding a big meeting at Weldon, N. C.

....E. W. Timberlake, Esq., of Louisburg was in Richmond recently.

....The completion of a railroad from Jaffa to Jerusalem is announced.

....Dr. Pritchard writes some very interesting notes to the Central Baptist.

....Rev. J. A. Howard of Reidsville returned from his vacation last week.

....Dr. A. E. Owen of Portsmouth, Va., will aid in a meeting at Winston, N. C.

....We regret to hear of the extreme illness of Bro. A. R. Vann of Wake Forest.

....The Baptists of St. Louis have spent $13,000 in improving their orphans home.

....Rev. N. S. Jones is conducting revival services at the Baptist church in Salisbury.

....Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith of Nashville, Tenn., goes to the Third church of St. Louis.

....Bro. A. C. Dixon expects to attend our Baptist State Convention in this city in December.

....Bro. R. D. Cross of Marsh, N. C., has entered the Seminary at Louisville for a two years course.

....Prof. L. R. Mills of Wake Forest called to see us last Saturday. He reports all well at the College.

....Rev. Baylus Cade of Richmond, Va., received one by letter recently. There are 308 in Sunday-school.

....The A. & N. C. R. R. will pass delegates and visitors to the Atlantic Association at reduced rates.

....Rev. Carter Helm Jones has returned from Nag's Head, where he spent his vacation, and is preaching with renewed zeal and energy to great congregations at the First church, Knoxville.

....Dr. C. E. Taylor was among the number present at the Ministers' Conference held in New York. He spoke feelingly of the late Mr. Bostwick and his great work in the South.

....The Baptist church at Peachland has unanimously called Rev. T. S. Wright to serve the church another year.

....E. F. Aydlett, Esq., of Elizabeth City, N. C., was in Raleigh last week attending the Supreme Court.

....Mr. Vernon Howell, a graduate of Wake Forest College last June, has gone to Philadelphia to study pharmacy.

....Rev. W. R. Gwaltney attended the Alexander and Green River Associations in the interest of ministerial education.

....Rev. T. Bright left Forest City last Wednesday for Louisville, Ky., where he expects to take a course in theology.

....Rev. R. B. Collier reports a good meeting at Fountain Creek church, Va., with about twenty-seven professions of faith.

....Rev. W. T. Jones, pastor of several churches in the western part of the State, is visiting his father, Mr. J. H. Jones, at Wilmington.

....Rev. C. S. Cashwell, assisted by Rev. S. F. Conrad, held a meeting at Cana, Davie county, recently. Fifteen persons joined the church.

....Mrs. J. A. Bostwick has sold her country home in Long Island where Mr. Bostwick lost his life, for $100,000.—Christian Herald.

....Rev. W. R. Cullom of Creedmore, Granville county, has left to attend the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

....Prof. Wallace C. Riddick has arrived and assumed the duties of the Chair of Mechanics at the A. and M. College to which he was recently elected.

....Mr. J. A. Holloman of the State Chronicle and Miss Minnie Kerner of Kernersville were married at the Yarborough House, this city, last week.

....Mrs. A. E. Montague, Mrs. Sallie A. Hooker and Mrs. E. E. Hilliard, of Scotland Neck, are on a visit to their kinsman, B. F. Montague, Esq., of this city.

....Rev. J. A. White, who has done good work for the church at Blacksburg, S. C., and other churches in that community, has removed to Taylorsville, N. C.

....There was a great Centennial meeting in Louisville last Sunday. A large crowd was present. This is the first meeting of the kind the Baptists ever had.

....A protracted meeting is being held at the Baptist church, West Norfolk, by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Dunnaway. The church is insufficient to hold the congregations.

....Rev. W. B Oliver has recently returned from Virginia. The Sunday after his return he delivered a discourse on "Political Fanaticism among Church Members."

....Dr. C. S. Blackwell is holding a protracted meeting with his church in Elizabeth City, N. C. The congregations are very large, and great good is being accomplished.

....Bro. Theodore Wood of Peachland, who has been ill since the middle of June, has so far recovered as to be able to resume his work, teaching congregational classes in vocal music.

....Rev. Dr. E. E. Hoss, editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, is to deliver the sermon at the dedication of the grounds and buildings of Trinity College at Durham, the 12th inst.

....A preacher recently asked a college president what he thought of his sermon. "I heard in it what I never hope to hear again." "What was that?" "The clock strike twice."—Standard, Sept. 29.

....Rev. A. W. Burfoot of Hertford writes Sept. 27th: "I have just closed a good meeting at Great Hope. Fourteen added. Bro. Elliott helped me. I go to Yeopim this week. Bro. C. J. Jones is to help me."

....Elder D. W. Herring is still sick of typhoid fever, this being his fifty-third day in bed. He is now improving from his relapse, and we hope he may be out in a few weeks.—J. P. Herring, Wilmington, Oct. 1.

....Rev. J. C. Stowell, who once preached in North Carolina, was tried by a council convened with the church at Springsboro, Pa., and vindicated by that body of the charges brought against him by members of his church in Kane, Pa.

....If Baptist parents, who have girls in the State Normal and Industrial Female College at Greensboro, will drop me a postal to that effect, I will take pleasure in rendering any service in my power and give them a hearty welcome to our church.—Chas. A. G. Thomas.

....I baptized ten at Yates's as the result of a meeting in which I was aided by Rev. W. C. Tyree of First church, Durham. The First church had a first-class Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, and closed at night with a large mass meeting of all the Baptist churches of Durham.—C. A. Woodson.

....Rev. S. P. Huff of Westmoreland county, Va., after spending several days in Raleigh, left Monday night for Machpelah, where he will on Wednesday evening officiate at the marriage of his son, Bro. S. W. Huff of Raleigh and Miss Julia Evelyn Graham, daughter of Maj. W. A. Graham.

....Sunday was a good time at the Tabernacle church of this city. Rev. J. R. Harrison of Virginia, commenced a series of meetings and was encouraged by a crowded house. The work opens well, and promises to be a great meeting. Mr. G. T. Thompson is assisting in the music. He is a sweet singer, and an earnest worker.

....Last Sunday was "Children's Day" at Wake Forest for the Centennial of Modern Missions, and $65.51 was reported as collected by the little folks. We have heard a great deal of talk and a number of heavy speeches on the Centennial; but this is the kind of fruit such speeches should produce. Let the brethren from now on discuss the needs of our work and take collections to meet the urgent demands of the Boards.

....If our ministers would do their whole duty in the matter of training and developing their churches, they would have no trouble in obtaining a decent support; neither would there be any trouble in providing for the other objects of our work.—Rev. T. Dixon, at King's Mountain Association.

....The ordination of Rev. Jno. T. Edmundson in the Baptist church Sunday night was an impressive ceremony and was largely attended. The ordination sermon was preached by Rev. Junius Millard, brother-in-law of Mr. Edmundson, and was an able and eloquent effort.—Goldsboro Argus, September 29.

....There were several conversions as a result of a protracted meeting conducted by Rev. Thomas Carrick with Jersey church, near Linwood, recently. Baptism will be administered the third Sunday of this month. Rev. N. S. Jones of Salisbury, who was expected to assist Bro. Carrick in the meeting, was prevented from attending by sickness.

....Rev. Arthur T. Pierson, D. D., will return to London about Nov. 1st, and occupy the pulpit of the Metropolitan Tabernacle during the winter. The statements that he has been called to the pastorate, temporarily or permanently, are now said to be without foundation; in other words, "As to the published statements, not one true paragraph has appeared yet."—Zion's Advocate.

....Sister Bettie Bell died on Friday, September 30th, at the North Carolina Hospital near Raleigh, aged sixty-two years. Her death was sudden from heart trouble, but the dread messenger did not come upon her before she was ready for his approach: she had been a faithful follower of Christ many years. She was the relict of the late John Bell and sister of brethren Rufus and Dr. J. B. Dunn of this city. She leaves one son to mourn her death.

....Dr. T. H. Pritchard is attending the meeting of the Centennial Committee now in session at Louisville, Ky. By invitation of the brethren of the First church in Charlotte, he stopped over and preached Sunday at eleven o'clock, and at night took part in the dedicatory services of the new Presbyterian church. He also spent a day at the Green River Association and made one of his best speeches on the Centennial of Modern Missions.

....President Hobgood of Oxford Female Seminary writes: "As I wrote you previously, Oxford Seminary opened under the most favorable auspices. The number of boarding students has been and still is steadily increasing, and is now nearly double the number that we found here on resuming charge last January. The history of the Seminary clearly shows that it occupies an important place in the educational system of the State, and that it is firmly established in the hearts and minds of our people. Many valuable improvements have been made to put it fully abreast of the times."

....The Board of Missions was instructed by the Convention at Shelby to use in its State Mission work, during 1891, $10,500, and at the Goldsboro Convention the amount fixed for this work in 1892 was $15,000, with the $2,000 additional brought over as a debt from the past year, making the amount needed this year, $17,000. Up to Oct. 7th, 1891, the Treasurer had received and acknowledged for State Missions, on that year's work, $7,011.00, and for this year's work to date, he has received for State Missions, as his report in this paper shows, $6,249.90. Brethren, please aid us in this work NOW.—C. Durham.

....The following editorial notice is printed in a Baptist paper a little north of us: "Thursday evening of this week at the St. Peter's Episcopal church on the corner of Druid Hill Avenue and Lanvale street, will occur the quarterly meeting of the city C. E. Union. Let all our societies be on hand. One great advantage the C. E. societies have over the others, is that they can attend both C. E. and the B. Y. P. U. Conventions. They thus have a double advantage which our Baptist societies other than C. E., and which our C. E. societies that are not in the B. Y. P. U. do not enjoy." Well may the editor add: "After this we will have the unique and novel service of 'The Salutation of Flags.'"

....The Roxboro Courier of Sept. 29th says: "At a regular business meeting of the Baptist church held at the church last Monday night, Rev. J. H. Lamberth handed in his resignation as pastor of the church. He has been pastor for a little more than seven years, and during that time has built up the church greatly. He is a good preacher, and very popular, not only with his denomination, but with others, and has the reputation of being a hard worker. Mr. Lamberth has a host of friends who will regret to see him leave this field. The resignation will not be acted on until the Monday after the fourth Sunday in October." Bro. Lamberth's congregation has granted him a month's vacation, and we learn he expects to occupy the time in evangelistic work.

....The steamer Pavonia, with the missionary party, did not sail from Boston until a little after noon on Sunday, owing to causes connected with quarantine delay. The party included sixteen for the Telugu Mission in India, two for Assam, four for Burma, and three for the Congo. The following is the list: To Madras, Rev. D. S. Bagshaw and wife, Rev. W. S. Davis and wife, Rev. W. A. Stanton and wife, Rev. A. H. Curtis and wife, Rev. J. Dussman and wife, Rev. F. H. Levering, Rev. P. G. Guernsey, Mrs. O. R. McRay, Miss S. J. Kurtz; to Calcutta, Rev. S. A. Perrine, and wife; to Rangoon, Miss M. Sheldon, Miss F. E. Palmer, Miss N. Garton, Miss A. E. Frederickson; to the Congo, C. B. Antisdel, Thomas Adams, Miss Bessie Gardner. Rev. W. E. Hopkins and wife, G. P. Dudley, and C. R. Marsh are going later with R. Maplesden to the upper part of India, and W. M. Young and wife are also going. Many of the friends of the departing missionaries accompanied them to the steamer, and there bade them farewell.—Zion's Advocate.

....The Western Baptist Convention meets in Hendersonville on October 19th.

....The First church, Raleigh, and its Sunday-school, are in the midst of the Centennial campaign. The exercises thus far have been both educational and practical. On Sunday, July 3d, the Sunday-school resolved itself into a missionary society, its members thereby enlisting for life in the endeavor to give the gospel to others. The constitution then adopted imposed the duty of aiding the Centennial Permanent Fund during the centennial year, and afterwards to aid State, Home and Foreign Missions. The different classes pursue their own methods in the raising of funds. On each fourth Sunday in every month the school devotes the day's study to the life and work of some illustrious missionary, and the classes take a mission collection. Then in the church prayer-meeting on the following Wednesday night, the Sunday-school topic is discussed for the instruction of the church-members and others who may be present. The lay brethren unite with the pastor in making short talks on these occasions. The fourth Sunday in August, the life of William Carey was the subject of study by the Sunday-school. In the church prayer-meeting succeeding, Carey's work was discussed by the lay brethren. On the fourth Sunday in September, Adoniram Judson was the Sunday-school topic. In the church prayer-meeting on the next Wednesday night, the lay brethren made short talks on Judson, Boardman, and the three wives of Mr. Judson, followed with a summary by the pastor. On October 2d last, Doctor Carter, preached a stirring missionary sermon from Isaiah 54: 2, 3—the same text from which William Carey preached his memorable sermon at Nottingham, England, May 31, 1792. The day (being the hundredth anniversary of the first Baptist missionary society formed in Kettering, England,) was observed as "Children's Day," and instead of the usual sermon at night, that time was given to the Sunday-school, and the exercises were performed by the children of the school, under the direction of the Assistant Superintendent, Bro. J. D. Boushall. Mrs. W. H. Dodd conducted the music on the occasion. The house was crowded, and the audience was greatly pleased. Information was given on the mission work in Japan, China, Africa, Italy, Brazil, Mexico, &c., in short speeches by the young people. The exercises were interspersed by singing on the part of the children and by the congregation. A number of the children received certificates for $5.00 collected in the "missionary barrels." The pulpit was beautifully festooned with evergreens. On canvass in the rear of the stand were the words and figures, "Centennial of Missions: 1792—1892." A "string of facts" was stated by a number of the children, imparting missionary instruction; such as that William Carey acquired a knowledge of forty languages, and lived to see God's word given in the vernacular of one-third of the people on the globe; that a million of heathen had been saved; that there were fifty thousand heathen saved in 1891; some facts about the cause in China and Japan; that there were seven thousand missionaries and thirty thousand native helpers now working among the heathen; that the Scriptures had been translated in 265 languages—much of this being done in the past one hundred years; that the Southern Baptists would endeavor to send, as the result of this year's work, one hundred additional missionaries to the foreign field, &c. The services closed by taking a mission collection, singing the doxology, and pronouncing the benediction.

64 Days and $10,750.10 Needed.

It is now only sixty-four days to the next Baptist State Convention, and in addition to all acknowledged in this paper, we will need $10,750.10 for

STATE MISSIONS

to take us to the Convention without a debt on this department. Eighteen Associations have already been held and have done well. There are yet to be held before the Convention. Each pastor can greatly aid us just now. Please tell the people the facts about the work, the workers and their needs. My heart is burdened this year as never before with the work before us. Brethren, pray for us.

TWENTY-THREE ASSOCIATIONS

C. DURHAM.

Dots.

On Monday, Sept. 12th, 1892, I rode twenty-five miles to preach the funeral sermon of Brother Thomas Wallace, of Duplin county, and for many years a leading member of Island Creek Baptist church. He was a good man, and his death is an irreparable loss to his family and church. He was about seventy-five years of age, at the time of his death which occurred Sept. 10th, 1892, from heart failure. It was a sad duty to the pastor, to bury a brother who had, for ten years, been faithful, loving, serving helper in every good work that engaged the pastor and his people. In the midst of my grief over the death of my daughter Mary, who fell asleep in Jesus Sept. 2d, 1892, I had to preach the word of consolation to broken hearts over the loss of a beloved father and brother. A very large audience listened attentively and, I trust, profitably, as I preached from Rev. 21: 1–4.

A PROTRACTED MEETING,

previously appointed, was begun at Piny Grove church, Sampson county, Sept. 17th and closed Sept. 23d, with four accessions to the church. Brother J. E. Boyette, a man of sterling worth and deep piety, came over to us from another denomination. Brother Peele had promised to aid me, but failed to come. After the meeting had closed, he wrote me that he was broken down by hard work at the time he should have been at Piny Grove.

JNO. T. ALBRITTON.

Mt. Olive, Sept. 24, 1892.

Resignation of Rev. J. B. Boone.

TO THE FINANCE COMMITTEE OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY:

Brethren:—On account of the continued financial pressure upon our people, rendering it almost impossible to collect money, and at the same time impelled by an ardent desire to devote my entire time to the work of preaching the gospel, I deem it my duty to tender to you my resignation as Financial Secretary of the Baptist Female University, to take effect the 1st of October.

With my hearty sympathy in the important work in which you are engaged, and with best wishes for your personal welfare,

I am yours respectfully,

J. B. BOONE,

Fin. Sec. Baptist Female University.

Raleigh, Sept. 30, 1892.

For the reasons stated above, the Finance Committee have accepted the resignation of Bro. Boone as Financial Secretary. In doing so, they desire to express their appreciation of the work done by him for the University during the past year of unexampled financial stress among our people. They desire also to say that the collection of the remaining subscriptions will be pressed by them, and they hope to finish paying for the site selected for the University by the meeting of the Convention in December.

W. N. JONES,
J. N. HOLDING,
C. J. HUNTER,
Fin. Committee.

Letter from Rev. W. R. Cullom.

Bro. Bailey:—I am now on my way to the S. B. T. Seminary, where I hope to spend a year. It is a great cross to me to leave my churches, but I leave them in good hands, and for the most part in good working condition, so I shall expect them to do some good work while I am away.

I have recently closed meetings with all my churches. Rev. N. S. Jones helped me at Warren Plains, and Rev. W. C. Y. Parker at Knap of Reeds and Concord (Flat River Association), and at Corinth (Tar River Association.) Both these brethren did faithful work, and the Lord greatly blessed our efforts. I have had the pleasure of burying sixty with their Lord in baptism this summer, and "still there are more to follow."

Brethren C. M. Billings and R. R. Day will take charge of my work for me while I am away. Very truly,

W. R. CULLOM.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 30, 1892.

There Need Be No Hesitation.

Dear Recorder:—I thank Bro. Fant for the commendation he gives our Faculty in your last issue. He closes by saying: "Let there be no hesitation."

I desire to say, there need be none. Each member of the Faculty is a specialist in her department, exceptionally well qualified by natural endowment and by the most thorough training and extensive experience for her position. All are earnest christians, members of the Baptist denomination, selected with special reference to their personal piety as well as to their thorough qualifications otherwise.

There need be no hesitation as to the continuance of the institution. I have just returned from a canvass of two weeks and have secured enough pupils to insure its success. Let the friends of the school send in their daughters and work for the institution, and the school will not only live but soon be in a most flourishing condition.

Our terms are so exceedingly low that any person of moderate means can patronize us, notwithstanding the hard times. Let all write for terms. We ought to have every room filled at once.

Fraternally, J. N. STALLINGS.

Fem. Col., High Point, Sept. 23, 1892.

Letter from Rev. O. W. Matthews.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We arrived here last Tuesday night, and were immediately taken up to the Seminary, where we found Dr. B. C. Taylor ready to help and make us feel at home.

Chester Seminary is, perhaps, situated in one of the most beautiful places in the United States. Situated on a hill, rising above the city of Chester and the Delaware River, it presents to the eye quite a picturesque scenery. It is surrounded by beautiful cottages, the most lovely of which are occupied by the faculty, and others are occupied by students who are here with their families. We were hoping to rent one for ourselves, but long before we came they were rented, and so we were compelled to rent a house, at a very high price per month, in the city. This is the only objectionable feature we have found.

We enjoyed the last few days we spent in North Carolina and Virginia splendidly. We had the pleasure of preaching to the people of my old mother church (Conaritsa) the day before we left. Four or five professed faith in Christ that afternoon. After the sermon we had a general handshaking. Some whom we have known from childhood, whose loved ones are waiting for them on the other shore, told us how happy they were with the prospects of soon being at rest with them and Jesus.

Last Sunday we preached our farewell sermon to the dear Oak Grove and Knott's Island people of Virginia. Oh how we were grieved to part with them. They were all the while so kind to us. They not only paid our salary monthly, but fed us free. God bless them, and may he soon send them another shepherd who will do better for them than we have ever been able to do.

In this short time we have begun to love the work of the Seminary. Though the way looks dark, we are trusting in God, and we are thankful that he led us here. We must confess that we never felt so humble, and so dependent upon the mercies of the Lord before.

Before I close this letter it may not be out of order to say that Rev. Braxton Craig, aided by Rev. W. W. Holden and the writer, conducted a meeting at Harrellsville Baptist church the week preceding the third Sunday in this month with good results. Bro. Craig did most of the preaching. He is an enthusiastic and earnest worker, possibly too much so for his physical being. Five were received for baptism, and there are others to follow; perhaps by this time they have been received and baptized. We greatly enjoyed working with the Harrellsville people. They are among our best friends and sympathizers.

Affectionately yours,

CHAS. W. MATTHEWS.

315 Fourteenth St., Chester, Pa., Sept. 29.

Dedication and Revival Meetings.

Some time ago my church at Roberdel in Richmond Association was dedicated to God. At the close of the dedicatory sermon, preached by Rev. M. L. Kesler, about eighty dollars were subscribed for paying the church indebtedness. I am glad to state that nearly all the amount subscribed has been paid up and we feel sure that the remainder will be paid early. Thanks to the people for their help.

Recently we conducted a meeting of a few days at Roberdel, which resulted in great good. It has been my great delight to baptize over thirty at this place since last May. My little band of workers here are earnest and energetic.

The meeting at one of my country churches, Pleasant Grove, was a success—twelve or fifteen conversions, and last Sunday I baptized nine there.

Bro. W. C. Wallace aided me in both of these meetings and did good work. He has returned to Wake Forest to resume his studies. May he be successful.

Since I commenced labor here last January, God has blessed the work to the conversion of many souls, nearly one hundred of whom I have baptized. I feel much encouraged, and shall push on with renewed zeal. To God I ascribe all the praise.

Sincerely, I. S. BOYLES.

Rockingham, Sept. 21, 1892.

Colerain Baptist Church.

Dear Recorder:—On Tuesday after second Sunday in August, Bro. Bristow, our pastor, aided by Bro. Herbert Williams, began a meeting with this church, holding evening and night services. Bro. Williams did the preaching and did it well, as only a consecrated man of God could do. The meeting lasted a week, resulting in a thorough revival of the church, and an addition of five by baptism. If the apparent good to the church should prove to be permanent, Bro. Williams' work among us will be a crown of perpetual rejoicing to him, and a work for which this church and this neighborhood should forever hold him in grateful remembrance. His simple, plain style of placing the truths of God's word before the people, and his earnest and forcible way of entreating them to accept, seems to us to imitate the simplicity of Peter's preaching on the day of Pentecost when thousands were made to exclaim, "What must we do to be saved?" He must indeed be a servant of the meek and lowly Jesus, for mingling with him socially inspires one with a feeling that he has been in the presence of a good and holy man. Would that the lives of all our preachers could so strongly impress the people. We hope to have Bro. Williams in our midst again.

I cannot close without speaking a word of congratulation for our pastor, Bro. Bristow, who has been with us the past year, and has endeared himself to our church, and is beloved by the whole community. His kind and gentle demeanor, his unselfish and holy life have already rooted him deeply in the affections of this people. In attestation of their appreciation of him, this church in conference on Saturday before the third Sabbath in this month extended to him unanimously a call for the next year. He has done a good work for us, and may his labors continue to be as prosperous for the next year as they have been for the past, is my prayer. A. P. W.

Colerain, Sept. 28, 1892.

Who Shall Administer the Lord's Supper?

In the RECORDER of Sept. 21st, Brother R. D. Carroll calls upon me, with other brethren, to answer some questions concerning the administration of the Lord's Supper.

Answer to the first question: It may not be anti-scriptural, yet it is generally so considered, for an unordained brother to administer the Lord's Supper. Christ, the Head of the Church, was the first administrator. Baptists generally believe that the pastor or under shepherd, or one officially qualified to act as such, should administer the ordinance to the flock. Departure from this rule is considered an irregularity, and one for which there is no good excuse in a country filled with Baptist churches and ministers.

Answer to the second question: For an unordained brother to administer the Supper, is contrary to Baptist usage.

Answer to the third question: A church has a right to invite any one it may choose to administer the Lord's Supper, provided such an one is officially qualified for the work.

As to the deacons, their presence and assistance did not detract from the irregularity of the proceeding. Any brother can pass the emblems around among the members. Custom, and not Scripture, has imposed this work upon the deacons. It is unfortunate that some deacons think this to be the sum total of their official duties.

Dr. Reynolds says: "The distribution of the bread and wine at the Lord's Supper, in which they (deacons) are now employed, is a mere matter of custom or convenience, and forms no part of the original design of the office."—Church Polity, pp. 135, 136.

Dr. Howell says of deacons: "They generally receive, at the Lord's Supper, the bread and the wine from the hands of the pastor, and distribute them to the communicants. This, however, is not by authority, but only as a matter of convenience. Any other person might do the same thing."—Deaconship, p. 75.

While it is generally believed among Baptists that it is neither essential nor improper for deacons to receive from the administrator the emblems for distribution among the communicants, they also believe that the administrator should be the pastor or some other ordained minister. The observance of the Lord's Supper, with any other administrator, would be generally regarded as an irregular proceeding.

Dr. Mell, one of the clearest thinkers and hardest students of church polity the Baptists have ever had, says: "Some believe that any church member is authorized to administer the ordinances; but, with very general unanimity, Baptists hold that only ordained ministers are authorized to do so."—Cor. Ch. Discipline, p. 88.

A contrary policy would bring the ordinances into disrepute.

JNO. T. ALBRITTON.

Mt. Olive, N. C.

Holly Mount.

Bro. Editor:—This is the name of a Baptist church in Montgomery county, and it is in the southeastern part of the county. I have had the privilege and the pleasure of being in a meeting of eight days with this church and her pastor, Rev. H. M. Ingram.

I wish to state something about this part of our dear Old North State before I give the result of the meeting.

I have been in several States of the Union, and I am glad to be able to say that this State has been favored by the hand of the great Creator, and that within her limits he has made just as beautiful mountains, hills, rivers, creeks and fruitful dales as can be found in any of the other States.

About two miles west of Holly Mount church is one of the most beautiful groups of hills that I have ever seen. Looking into the distance from the top of the highest of these hills impresses the mind with the greatness of God in creation and in his power to hold them in his hand. Among these hills are some fruitful farms and pleasant homes occupied by happy and hospitable families. I am not surprised to hear some sing the sweet song, "I love my mountain home," &c.

The meeting was one of much spiritual good to the church, and eight or ten made professions of faith in Christ. On September 24th, the pastor baptized twelve. A large number of people witnessed the baptismal scene. The writer stood on the bank of the stream near the place of baptizing, and preached a sermon from 2 Peter 3: 18—"But grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever."

God be praised for his temporal blessings, and most for his spiritual blessings. Thanks are truly tendered to Bro. D. A. Thompson for his kind treatment given us during our stay at his pleasant home, and also to other friends for the christian regard shown. I know that I have been made a better man and the more prepared to grapple with the trials of this life by having been in the company of the members of Holly Mount church.

W. A. BARRETT.

Camden, Sept. 27, 1892.

From Stanly County.

Dear Recorder:—On the third Sunday in September Rev. Haywood Morris began a series of meetings at Dicksville school-house in Stanly county, aided by G. W. Henderson, who did all he could to honor the Lord's cause, and in leading sinners to Christ.

The Lord was in the work to own and bless the preached word. Twenty-two professed faith in Christ, and a large number of these are good, well-to-do people, who will become members of the Ebenezer and Palmersville Baptist churches.

This was the first meeting ever held at this place. Bro. H. Merris had gone there and preached three sermons during the summer. The harvest was ready for the reaper, and it was easy to gather. Brethren, may the Lord enable us to sow the good seed in other destitute sections. G. W. H.

Black Creek Church.

Dear Recorder:—Black Creek church has just closed a series of meetings with gratifying results. Rev. George J. Dowell of Williamston, N. C., (brother of our pastor, C. L. Dowell,) came to us on Wednesday before the third Sunday in August, and preached day and night for eight days. His sermons were strong, earnest and helpful to the large congregations that attended the meetings. As a result of the meeting, our church has been greatly revived, and the earnest labor of our consecrated pastor has been rewarded by the ingathering of many souls—seventeen by baptism, five restored, and we will doubtless reap more good results. P. P. CHAMBERS.

Dovesville, S. C., Sept. 10, 1892.

South Fork Association.

This body will hold its regular session (Oct. 20—23) with the church at Olivet, six miles south of Catawba Station on the Western N. C. Railroad, at which point delegates and visitors will be met, if they will send their names and time of arrival to I. A. Litten, Shawnee, N. C.

It is unnecessary to give any reasons for going to Olivet; it is sufficient, that there are good and sufficient reasons, and that the Olivet church cordially accepts it.

On behalf of the Exec. Committee,

J. S. BRIDGES, Chairman.

Mt. Gilead Church.

Dear Recorder:—On the third Sunday morning in September there gathered a large crowd of earnest persons at Taylor's bridge on Haw river, Chatham county, to witness the ordinance of baptism, which was administered to twenty-one persons, all of whom were grown, and some fifty and sixty years old, except three or four, who were about twelve and fourteen years of age. This number makes the total membership of Mt. Gilead church two hundred.

The writer will serve this church during the ensuing year as pastor. It has never been my privilege to labor with a more earnest, consecrated band of christians than these. Devoted to their Master's cause they are ready to make great sacrifices for its advancement. Their unbounded hospitality is seen and appreciated by all who go among them. W. H. EDWARDS.

Wake Forest, Sept. 24, 1892.

Railroad Across the Sahara.

One is surprised at learning that the French are pushing their way rapidly toward Lake Tchad in Central Africa. Already the trains run inland 250 miles to the oasis of Biscara. If now the British would build their road to Lake Victoria, Central Africa would soon be a well-known region.—Missionary Herald.

Literary.

Gospel from Two Testaments. 450 pp. E. A. Johnson & Co., Providence, R. I. Price, $1.25.

A book of expository sermons by Baptist ministers on the International S. S. Lessons for 1893. The work is edited by President E. Benj. Andrews of Brown University, and its contributors include some of the ablest preachers in the denomination. This book will prove helpful to two classes of biblical students, teachers in Sunday-schools and ministers engaged in preaching. Judges of expository preaching will find in the volume many rich and model specimens of this. The lessons of each quarter form a beautiful unity. Those of the first quarter are historical, sketching in a most interesting way Israel's career after the captivity. The studies of the second quarter present many of the Old Testament's finest moral teachings. Some of the knottiest problems of the Book of Job are discussed in a masterly manner by Dr. Judson and Rev. Geo. E. Merrill. The third group offers an entertaining resume of Paul's missionary labors after his call to Europe. The fourth group, more doctrinal, is taken up with fresh studies in the epistolary parts of the New Testament. This volume should do much to stimulate love for the Bible and to further the christian graces in all who read it.

A New Harmony of the Four Gospels in English. Revised Edition. By Rev. Geo. W. Clark, D. D., 12mo., 302 pages. Price, $1.50. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

Twenty-two years ago Dr. Clark gave his Harmony of the Gospels to the public, and especially to our own denomination. It has had a large sale, and has sustained itself among standard works of its kind. In the interval between that period and the present, the life of Christ has been studied as never before. Farrar, Geikie, Andrews, Edersheim, and others, have written on the wondrous story, and in Sunday-school helps the ground has been again and again gone over. Also, during this interval the Revised Version of the New Testament has appeared, throwing new meaning on the word.

The progress of a quarter of a century must of necessity throw new light on familiar paths, and cause some modification of positions once securely held. It was felt then by the author of the Harmony, as well as by others, that the times were not only ripe for, but really demanded a revised edition. This edition has now been made. All recent Harmonies have been consulted, and all helps have been employed in order to make it as perfect as possible. In his preface the author says: "While the general arrangement of the text remains substantially the same as in the first edition, certain changes have been made to facilitate study, and get more closely into accord with the majority of recent harmonists." By virtue of these changes the Harmony can now be used in conjunction with all standard Harmonies.

At the bottom of the pages the readings of the Revised Version are given, thus grouping for the student the rendering and harmony of the several passages considered. Supplementary matter has been added, sustaining by argument and authority the arrangement made, although this matter has been reduced from that in the old edition.

The work has been well done and is a credit to the learning and industry of its author. No pains have been spared, either by him or by the publishers, to make this Harmony complete. In it we have a work the equal of the best. It is one that our denomination will not need to pass by for any other, and one which, like that whose place it takes, will find a large circulation among all, of whatever denomination, who desire a good Harmony of the Gospels.

We call attention to the advertisement of Mr. David Rosenthal which appears in this paper. He is a first class merchant, and you will always find his house full of the very best goods, and his prices, as stated in his advertisement, are as low as the lowest. We take pleasure in commending him to our people and the public generally.

If your church or school-house is in need of a good bell, we believe you can get what you want from the Cincinnati Bell Foundry Company, Cincinnati, O. This firm manufactures the celebrated "Clymer Bells." See advertisement in this paper.

Rutherford College and its Degrees.

W. D. Kirkland, Editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, an organ of the M. E. Church, South, published at Columbia, S. C., is making an exposure of this institution and its methods, of a very remarkable character. More than a page of its issue of July 21st is devoted to an excoriation of its Faculty that makes one hold his breath while reading it. Nearly as much space is taken up in the issue of Sept. 1st with an expression of favorable opinions of the criticism, congratulations, thanks and endorsement by two or three dozens of preachers, college officials, lawyers and others, some offering confirmatory testimony, others wanting to pay the expenses of a defence in a threatened suit for libel, and others offering gratuitously their services in such suit, &c.

The last article is in the issue of September 15th, and is headed "The Degree Peddlers." I quote, as specimens of its character, two sentences in the concluding paragraph:

"Its degrees and titles are evidently on the market for sale, and can be purchased by anybody at very cheap rates."

"No self-respecting man can afford to wear a title coming from such a rotten source, even if it has been bestowed without consideration."

The necessity for such publications must be very humiliating to every friend of sound education and worthy educational institutions. The Faculty and Trustees of "Rutherford College, so called" owe it to themselves and to the public to answer to this fearful indictment of their management, or else surrender the charter of the institution. If these charges are false, let it be so shown. If they are true, the charter of the school ought to cease and determine.

By the way, in conclusion, would it not be a good thing for the cause of sound learning to have an Educational Commission, charged with the duty of looking after the schools chartered by the State and seeing that the powers granted them are not applied to unworthy ends?

J. L. CARROLL.

Chapel Hill, Sept. 20, 1892.

From Georgia.

If your correspondent writes you upon the topic that of all others engages universal attention and excites universal remark, he will discuss politics. Aaron's rod swallowed up all the rods of Pharaoh's magicians, which was good, as one big snake is not so pestiferous as many snakes of moderate size—but politics seems to absorb, swallow up everything. Pastors are complaining of failures in protracted meeting efforts, lack of interest in the great cause of missions, smallness of congregations and general apathy on every subject save politics.

This scribe knows of more than one country church that abandoned the time honored "August protracted meeting," and held none at all because the "primary was on." He knows of one pastor who last Sunday pounded and "lambasted" the "third party" from his pulpit, calling that the gospel. He knows three other preachers who are running (!) for office in their county on "the third party" issue. He has the word of the venerable clerk of one of the largest district associations in the State for this: "In several instances Baptist preachers are leaving their pulpits and going into the political arena."

When delegates to Associations are being voted for, "third partyites" won't vote for Democrats, and vice versa, and I have heard "third partyites" say, "I wouldn't believe a Democrat on his oath." And I heard a Democrat who felt sure he could not get an impartial verdict at the hands of a "third party" jury. These I hear often.

These things are as true as they are sad. Near me are two brothers, one of each of the above named parties. One is a Baptist preacher and offering himself for judge of the Court of Ordinary on the "third party" ticket. His brother refuses to vote for him. I hear of churches divided upon this issue and running in pastors on these questions. Just last week a good pastor was thrown overboard for being a Democrat, and another "Peoples' party" man chosen, and so its town and city against country, and vice versa. When will it end? I know not. What will it do for the Master's cause? Paralyze it. What can we do to arrest all this? Nothing, so far as I can see, but pray.

Our District Associations are in full blast. Dr. Gibson, Bro. Hatcher, and other agents, are trying to attend two and three a week, presenting their different claims with varied success.

The Christian Index has much improved of late, furnishing its readers with editorials and correspondence of high character. The owner and proprietor has four gentlemen in the field actively canvassing, and declares that he must have five thousand new subscribers this fall and winter. With 350,000 Baptists in Georgia this ought to be accomplished easily.

Mercer University is just about to open with most flattering prospects.

The death of Dr. J. G. Ryals removes one of our most useful ministers, and leaves vacant the chair of theology in our Mercer University. I have heard of no one mentioned as his successor. The young ministers whom he taught are all greatly attached to him and mourn sincerely his loss. He and Dr. Mell were devoted friends.

But to conclude, I greatly enjoy the RECORDER. Never knew it when it was better and stronger than now. I read it eagerly every week, and, like Oliver Twist, cry for more. SKYE.

September 20, 1892.

"Behold I Stand at the Door."

One of the most beautiful of Holman Hunt's many beautiful pictures is one which represents our Lord clothed in a robe of purest white, with a sweet, benignant countenance, patiently knocking and waiting at a quaint, iron-bound door-way, which is overgrown with briers and thorns. This is, alas! a too faithful representation of the unregenerate human soul, barred and bolted against its rightful Lord, and overgrown with obstructions to his entrance. And yet all the while he stands "knocking, knocking, O how fair!" seeking admission by every means, seeking to arouse the conscience, to bend the stubborn will, to woo the reluctant spirit. Every sorrow we have known, every providence of God, every sickness and bereavement, has been a summons and a call to open wide the door of the heart.

What wonderful condescension, to seek, by a thousand means, to win our love and gain admission to our hearts! What a gracious promise: "If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." If we will but hush the wild din of sorrowful pleasure, the confusion of worldly employments; if we will but listen to that voice of soft entreaty; if we will but hearken to that mild beseeching; if we will but open the long-barred heart, he will come in and dwell with us not as a transient guest, but as an abiding presence.

He will dwell with us, even though in a cottage of poverty, and will make it evermore a palace of delight. "Will dwell with him, and he with me." When the earthly home of this tabernacle is dissolved, then will he receive us into the many mansions of his Father's house, which he has gone to prepare for us, there to abide with him forever.

Are there any who read these words who still keep the Saviour knocking at the door of their hearts? How unkind! how perilous! If we open not, then will even his patience become exhausted, and he will turn sorrowfully away. And if this heavenly guest thus turn away and leave us to ourselves, then will enter in seven devils worse than the first, and will take possession of the soul, and sinful riot will reign there.

How long will you keep him without? If you propose ever to open wide the door, why not now? The time is fast coming when it will be forever impossible. Soon the last knock will be heard, the last entreaty will be uttered, and death will knock with mailed hand and will not be denied; death, that knocks with equal hand at the palace of the king or the peasant's cot.—Epworth Budget.

Mr. T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City, says that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured him of a dry and scaly humor, from which he had suffered intolerably. He adds: "I have not now a blemish on my body, and my cure is wholly due to Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

The only hotel in Jerusalem is kept by a man from Philadelphia, and its pilgrim visitors are numerous. The guides are said to be well versed in the Bible, and the conversations at the hotel tables are largely about Biblical scenes, characters and localities.—Selected.

Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith of the First church, Nashville, Tenn., will probably be called to the pastorate of the Third church, St. Louis, Mo.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

October.

Eastern—Emma's Chapel, Onslow county, October 4–6.
Tar River—Louisburg Oct 5–8.
Brier Creek—Lewis church, Oct 6–8.
Catawba River—Zion, eight miles northwest of Morganton, Oct 6–8.
Sandy Run—Floyd's Creek church, Oct 6–8.
Union—Waxhaw, Oct 6–8.
Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11–13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12–14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13–15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13–15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13–15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18–20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19–21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20–22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20–22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20–22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25–27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27–29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27–31.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1–3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3–5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3–5.
Columbus—Chadbourn, Nov 4–5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

The hypophosphites of lime and soda combined with cod-liver oil in Scott's Emulsion improve the appetite, promote digestion, and increase the weight.

They are thought by some to be food; but this is not proved. They are tonics; this is admitted by all.

Cod-liver oil is mainly a food, but also a tonic.

In Scott's Emulsion the cod-liver oil and hypophosphites are so combined as to get the full advantage of both.

Let us send you a book on CAREFUL LIVING; free.

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, 132 South 5th Avenue, New York.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co
RALEIGH N. C.

THE LEADING
Dry Goods and Carpet House
—OF—
North Carolina.

Mail Order Department.

A complete Mail Order Department, in which experienced help only is used. All mail orders receive the most intelligent attention.

Dress Goods,
Wraps, Blankets, Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Underwear, &c., &c

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

☞ Cash with order, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery), to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

Carpets, Curtains and Furniture.

Everything in Carpets, Curtains and Furniture. Are prepared to furnish, complete, hotels or residences. Correspondence solicited.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
123 and 125 Fayetteville Street.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

LITTLETON HIGH SCHOOL
—AND—
BUSINESS INSTITUTE.

College Preparatory Course, Commercial Course, together with Telegraphy, Penmanship, Shorthand and Typewriting. The number of students last session was fifty per cent. in advance of any previous year. Prices low. Opens Aug. 22, 1892. Write for catalogue to
L. W. BAGLEY, Principal,
LITTLETON N. C.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

STOP AT THE
Moseley House,
Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,
RALEIGH, N. C.
Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.
50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1892.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 58 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 43 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.
Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.
Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 3:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.
Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 3:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.
JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
Dated May 31, 1892.

GOING SOUTH.	No 23. Daily.	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41. Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 30 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 20 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

GOING NORTH.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	2 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		‡9 10 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4.00 p m, Halifax 4 22 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.52 p m Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.10 a m, Greenville 8.25 a m. Arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.25 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives A & R Junction 8.40 a m; returning leaves A & R Junction 7.10 p m, arrives Washington 8.45 p m Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.03 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m, 5 20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.00 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.30 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 10 40 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7.35 p m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 5.15 p m, arrives Nashville 5.55 p m, Spring Hope 6.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.20 p m, and 11.15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 06 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*8 50 p m	†7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	†12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	*8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect September 10, 1892.

SO. BOND DAILY No 1.	MAIN LINE.			NO. BOND Daily No 2.
11 00 p m	Arrive	Wilmington	Leave	5 00 a m
7 45 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 02 a m
7 20 p m	Arrive	Fayetteville	Leave	8 27 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 48 a m
4 18 p m	"	Climax	"	11 44 a m
3 45 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	12 15 p m
3 40 p m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	12 25 p m
2 57 p m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	1 22 p m
2 30 p m	Lv	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Ar	1 55 p m
1 52 p m	Ar	N & W Jt, Wal Cove	Lv	2 33 p m
1 22 p m	Lv	Rural Hall	Lv	3 02 p m
12 00 m	Leave	Mt Airy	Arrive	4 25 p m

No 3. Daily	BENNETTSVILLE DIVISION			No 4 Daily
10 15 p m	Arrive	Bennettsville	Leave	5 40 a m
9 22 p m	"	Maxton	"	6 30 a m
8 52 p m	"	Red Springs	"	7 02 a m
8 06 p m	"	Hope Mills	"	7 43 a m
7 46 p m	Leave	Fayetteville	Arrive	8 03 a m

No 15 Daily ex Sunday	FACTORY AND MADISON BRANCHES.			No 16 Daily ex Sunday
6 35 p m	Arrive	Rainseur	Leave	7 15 a m
4 55 p m	Lv	Climax	Lv	9 05 a m
4 00 p m	Lv	Greensboro	Ar	9 50 a m

No 17				No 18
9 10 a m	Ar	Greensboro	Lv	3 55 p m
7 55 a m	Lv	Stokesdale	Lv	5 13 p m
7 00 a m	Leave	Madison	Arrive	6 05 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. B. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

The Century's Story.

BY THE REV. J. J. HALL.

The second day of October, 1892, has passed away. It meant much as the centennial day of an event which has done more for the good of the world and the awakening of the church of Jesus Christ to its responsibility than any other one thing during the past one hundred years. And, yet, it is well that we observe the Centennial year rather than the day, as many churches and Sunday-schools that did not fall in line in observing that day still have an opportunity of raising some memorial to celebrate in fitting manner all that the second day of October commemorated. We look back with devout gratitude to God for what has been accomplished since the consecration in Kettering, England, of twelve men to the work of giving the gospel to the heathen.

A great man is the gift of God. We thank him for Paul, Luther, John Bunyan, C. H. Spurgeon, and many others. Shall the church ever cease to thank him for William Carey? In the Teacher of September, we have so choice a summary of the results that have followed that humble effort one hundred years ago, that I insert it in part here. What do we now see?

"One hundred and fifty missionary societies are at work. They have an annual income of $11,000,000. There are 7,000 foreign missionaries, assisted by 35,000 native helpers, now laboring in the different mission countries. The native converts number about 1,000,000, while the adherents of christianity will number over 3,000,000. The Bible has been translated into 250 languages and dialects. The leaves of that tree are being scattered throughout the world, and the nations are being healed. Carey rests from his labors, but his works do follow him. What a grand following! More than a million souls, who sat in the regions of darkness and in the shadow of death, have seen a great light and walk in the strength of a new life. Millions more have caught up the theme, "Attempt great things for God; expect great things from God," and with joyful voices repeat the refrain, while they move on to new fields and more glorious triumphs. Carey the cobbler, Carey the christian, Carey the preacher, Carey the missionary—look at the throngs that bless him, at the honors that crown him."

But this is only one half the story. Who can tell what deliverance from the curse of heathendom means to the millions thus saved? Who can measure the blessing that is yet to come to the world by the fresh wave of holy enthusiasm that is coming to the churches during this centennial year. Never before were so many persons going forth as missionaries as are going to day. Never before so much literature devoted to this subject, nor so much thought given. And never before so many efforts as are now being made to give the gospel to the world. Some brethren are alarmed over proposed changes in our work; and without much prayer, love and caution, great evil may result. But God is at work among his people, and from it all more good will come to his cause. Let no one make it an excuse to be personally indifferent. Let us stand by our Boards until God shows us a better way. They are manned by men who have the work at heart and need our prayers, encouragement and heartiest co operation.

The world's redemption must not tarry through our negligence. Let the pressure upon our souls of a great cause bear us forward in this work, and the knowledge that it is given us to hasten the day of our Lord.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

"I Say Unto You."

It makes all the difference who says a thing. If you could get near enough to a king or queen to hear them say anything, you would listen with all your might. And if they began, "I say," you would lean forward to make sure of hearing what they had to say. But if they said "I say to you," I am sure no one would need to tell you to pay attention.

Now, the Lord Jesus says over and over again, "I say unto you." It was not only that he did say it a long time ago, but whenever you look at the words, he is saying it still. For his words are not dead; these are live words, just as much as if he had said them a minute ago. For he says they are spirit and life, and that they shall never pass away. So when you come to "I say unto you," remember Jesus means it, and that he really means you to pay the same attention to what comes next as if he were speaking aloud to you.

And then remember it always means "I say unto you!" not only the disciples who went up to him in the mountain, but each of you who are just beginning to be one of his learners, for that is what "disciple" means. Some of the things he says may be a little more than you can understand yet, but they are said to you all the same. When I was a little girl, I had a gold piece given to me. If it had been a penny, I might have put it in my own little purse, and spent it at once; but, being gold, my dear father took care of it for me, and I expect I forgot all about it. But one day, when I was grown up, he called me into his study and gave me the very same piece of money, reminding me how it had been given me when I was about as big as the back of the chair. And I was very glad to have it then, for I understood how much it was worth, and knew very well what to do with it.

Now when you come to some saying of the Lord Jesus that you do not understand or see how to make any use of for yourself, do not think it of no consequence whether you read it or not. When you are older, you will find that it is just like my gold piece, coming back to you when you want it, and are able to make use of it. But how good it is of the Lord Jesus to have said so many things that are just what will help you now! Be on the lookout for them every time you read, and see if you don't find something every day which is for you now.—Frances Ridley Havergal.

Yeopim Union Meeting.

The Yeopim Union expects to meet with the church at Reynoldson on Friday, October 28th, Rev. C. J. Woodson to preach the introductory sermon, Rev. A. W. Burfoot alternate, Rev. C. N. Donaldson the missionary sermon, Rev. W. P. Jordan alternate.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

1. Are our protracted meetings a blessing to our churches? If so, how often should we hold them? J. H. Parker and C. N. Donaldson.

2. How can we abolish the use of intoxicants among our members? C. J. Jones and W. H. Bufkin.

3. Our mission work in Africa, and should we enlarge our work there? W. B. Waff and W. W. Knight.

JOS. T. WAFF, Clerk.

HILLSBORO, N. C., Aug. 9th, 1892.

My Dear Sir:—I have used for nearly five years your Electropoise with best results upon myself, especially for nervousness and nervous prostration where its results were wonderful; also for colds, rheumatism, &c. I have also observed its effects upon others in nervousness, debility, sores, &c., some of which I regard even more remarkable than my personal experience. I would not be without it. Most truly,

JAMES NORWOOD.

MAXTON, N. C., Aug. 13th, 1892.

Dear Brother:—You ask me about the Electropoise. One of my children has been troubled with eczema on arms and shoulder; medicine did not assist it. In the last eight weeks it has been assisted and almost removed by the Electropoise.

Yours truly, A. D. BETTS.

NEWBERN, N. C., July 17th, 1892.

My Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in recommending the Electropoise. I began the use of one the first of September last, discarded medicine entirely, and am much improved in health. Am under lasting obligations for the good it has done me.

Very gratefully yours,
WM. G. BOYD.

A fifty-page book containing information and testimonials, free, on application.

ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO.,
1405 New York Avenue,
Washington, D. C.

The Influence of the Heart.

A man's heart—that is what makes him, that is what determines a man's choice at all the great critical points in life. A man's heart it is that settles what his home is to be, that chooses the partner that is to be his, for better, for worse, for him, for her. It is a man's heart that chooses fleshly, that chooses spiritually; that chooses unselfishly, that chooses selfishly; that chooses for the outward appearance, or chooses for heart worth. It is a man's heart. Oh, you say, there is not much heart in a great many of these things. I beg your pardon, there is; plenty of heart, but it is base, worldly, greedy, grasping heart; or silly, selfish, vain, flattered heart. When a man's life shows little or nothing of the echoes of lofty, generous, chivalrous thought, purpose and endeavor, we constantly use a false expression, saying, "He has got no heart." How is that a score of men that are your daily associates or friends, all of them educated pretty much on the same level, similar to one another in manner, of the same deportment, and even the same politics—how is it they are all so unlike you? Is it that the one man's talk is tiresome and wearisome? How is it that you feel as if he were made of wood! How is it that the other man has that glow and sparkle that sends a thrill through you, that stimulates you, that makes you think, that so brings out responses that you admire your own cleverness? What makes the difference? Why, it is not the amount of grammar the one learned more than the other, or that the one has read more books. No, not that. It is the inner core and the kernel of the one man compared with what is inside the other. Heart, heart, rich heart! for out of the heart in every deed and truth are the ripe, supreme issues of life—life social, life personal, life earthly, and life eternal.—Prof. Elmslie.

Never Questioned.

The scholarship, clearness, and doctrinal soundness of the American Commentary published by the American Baptist Publication Society, are freely acknowledged by all who are acquainted with it. They represent the highest scholarship in the simplest form. Thousands of preachers and families are ordering them. You will never regret making the purchase. They can be bought separately or for $16.00 for the entire set.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for October:—Colored People.

"Open thy mouth * * * and plead the cause of the poor and needy." Missionaries, 60. Institutes held for education of ministers and deacons. No more important mission field for Southern Baptists. The Home Board needs money to employ colored missionaries and help to educate ministerial students.

Study Topics.—Not "what shall we do with, but for, the negro?" The best christians, the best citizens. Help that help others to help themselves, the best help. Participation of the colored people in the Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

An Interesting Statement.

Another still more hopeful sign is the success of the colored people in helping themselves. This is of the most importance. "Wards of the Nation" as a watchword for the future would be an injury and blight to the colored people. Self-help and self-development and self-guidance are essential in all proper progress. The colored people are disposed to build up their religious enterprises. They need help, counsel and direction in securing their own development. Upon the whole I think they have done well.

I have faith and hope in God for the solution of all the enigmas and doubts and darkness that surround the future of the colored people. One may well avoid theorizing, but when the past is considered that Divine Providence allows such a large number of Africans to come into this land, and place them in close relationship with a superior people for an education and development, which seemingly could be had in no other way, and then allowed this relationship to be broken up and a new career to be opened, then we may well confess that he works beyond our knowledge. The christian may rest in hope that the same provident care will work out the great, strange problem. No man need prophesy what their future shall be, for prophecies shall fail; but the plain, simple facts of duty to God, to help the weak, to raise up those that be bowed down—are upon us. A great problem but a great opportunity, let us wisely and patiently do what lies in our power. Let no rude interferences "bate one jot of heart or hope" in joining hands with all good people, in the great work of helping the colored people in every way which fairly promises good for them. I have written these things, praying that God may stir the hearts and hands of our people in this large field.

Let us cherish kindness and patience. Let us aid them by counsel and contributions in their work. Wherever there is an open door for usefulness and help, let us enter it for their good and the glory of Christ. Methods and opportunities will suggest themselves to the earnest, hopeful, helpful spirit which we should constantly increase and cherish.

WHAT OUR ATTITUDE SHOULD BE TO THEM.

When emancipation came they had been in the United States 255 years. What was their condition? I speak of those in slavery. Physically, they were the best cared for laborers that the sun ever shone upon. From infancy to old age, they were free from all anxiety as to the future. It mattered not to them that commercial panics swept over the land, or failure of crops brought disaster and ruin, they were unaffected by either; come what might, food and raiment and a home was sure. In sickness they were nursed by tender hands, in old age supported, and in death decently buried. Their daily contact with christianity taught them its divine lessons. The rest and spiritual refreshment of the holy Sabbath came to them with the benedictions it bore to the master, more highly favored, but counterbalanced by weightier responsibilities. With a modern exaction of work, they literally "took no thought of the morrow." True, there were exceptions. There were masters who cared not for the souls of their servants (they were unconcerned about their own), and even among them it was not uncommon that provision was made, at their expense, for the religious instruction of their servants.

Gratitude for their fidelity in the past forbids that they should be overlooked in our benevolent efforts for the good of mankind. They were our servants and were faithful; they cultivated our fields; they nursed our children; they guarded our families in times of danger; they ministered to us in temporal things. Is it an unreasonable appeal to Southern men and women to minister to them in spiritual things?—Rev. William McIntosh.

Missions.

Think of this: during the first 350 years of the christian era, more than 60,000,000 prayers ascended for the second coming of Christ. From one voice, our Lord's five million voices in 330 years had caught the refrain. In 500 years the one voice had become 30,000,000. In the year 1892, the one voice has increased ninety fold! To-day 450,000,000 christians are praying, "Thy kingdom come!" And every time we pray thus, we hasten the coming. There is a burning fire of enthusiasm in the thought. Christians outnumber the Confucians, Buddhists and Taoists combined. Four-fifths of the territory of the earth is under christian control. Think what could be done by the united, determined, enthusiastic cuort of each individual of 450,000,000 christians! We who are praying, yet not doing, are hindering his coming.

"And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole world for a testimony unto all nations; and then shall the end come." Matt. 24: 14. Some of us are afraid of that time. Afraid, though they pray daily, "Thy kingdom come." We tremble at the words, "then shall the end come." Let us consider. When his kingdom comes, his will will be done on earth as it is in heaven, and it is his will that all men shall be saved. It will be the end of the kingdoms of the world. An end to sinful luxury and corruption in high places—an end to the grinding tyranny of capital over honest labor—an end to injustice and man's inhumanity to man—an end to bitterness and jealousy and contention among churches and christians—an end to cruelty to God's dumb creatures—an end to pestilence—for God's money will be used so justly that Russia's starving serfs, England's famished Hindus, and Italy's filthy Lazaretto shall be warmed and fed, and clothed and saved instead of existing as a perpetual hotbed of contagion for the world. God send the end.—L. C., in Florida Witness.

HOW BABIES SUFFER

When their tender Skins are literally ON FIRE with Itching and Burning Eczemas and other Itching, Scaly, and Blotchy Skin and Scalp Diseases, with Loss of Hair, none but mothers realize. To know that a single application of the

CUTICURA

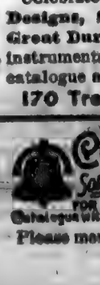
Remedies will afford immediate relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy and economical cure, and not to use them, is to fail in your duty. Parents, save your children years of needless suffering from torturing and disfiguring eruptions. CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

PAINS AND WEAKNESSES

Relieved in one minute by that new, elegant, and infallible Antidote to Pain, Inflammation, and Weakness, the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster.



FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.
Please mention this paper.

VOSE & SONS PIANOS.
ESTABLISHED IN 1851.
Celebrated for their Pure Tone, Elegant Designs, Superior Workmanship, and Great Durability. Sold on easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Write for catalogue and full information.
170 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. (INCORPORATED)
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BUCKEYE BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. RIOS, ATLANTA, GA.

Letter from Sister Fannie Knight, Pingtu, North China.

Bro. Bailey:—I have this week made my fifth visit to a village about seven miles from Pingtu city, called Mentsen. I believe I have not told you anything about the interest at this place. Some of the men of the village heard the gospel several years ago, and received several religious books from the hands of some missionaries. Since that time they have been talking about the things contained in these books as well as what they heard the missionaries say on that occasion. One woman also had heard. She came to the city on the tenth of Chinese sixth month, now more than a year since. On that day she sought to speak to me and ask about what she had heard of the gospel. There were so many people and the press was so great, she did not get to talk with me, or hear much except what she heard from other women present at that time, after a few weeks she again came to my home. I instructed her as well as I could and gave her some books including a copy of the New Testament Scriptures. She said her husband was a reading man. She came to see me again and again, each time begging me to go to her village, visit her home and remain several days. I went, the people flocked to see me and many were anxious to hear. At the time of my third visit I spent three days. During this visit I could scarcely find time to eat. It was teaching, talking, singing, and visiting other homes in the village most of the time during the day and night found me tired, so tired. On the third day of this visit Mrs. League and Mrs. Sears went out. The crowd was immense. Mentsen is a large village containing many people and it seemed to me most of her inhabitants with many people from neighboring villages turned out to see the "foreign women."

Since that time I have endeavored to take the people by surprise so as to avoid so many curiosity seekers. My last visit was a good one. Many came to see me and seemed anxious to hear. I want to visit them again in the fall and spend several days.

August 8.—I went yesterday to visit the christians at Saling, I was with them during morning and afternoon services. At the time of the first service one of the native brethren read first chapter Epistle of James and made some very appropriate and impressive remarks. He exhorted his brethren and sisters to patiently and earnestly press forward in the Master's service asking for help of the Lord to overcome all temptations. He pointed out many Scriptural examples of patience, perseverance and faith which overcame all temptations. He told them they must be tried like unto gold tried by fire in order that they may become purified and fit for the Master's use. In the afternoon they held a Sunday-school service. These morning and afternoon services are held every Sunday in the home of one of the native brethren. I suppose there is not a happier body of christians anywhere than these Saling brethren and sisters. It does one good to visit them. They hope to build a small chapel sometime in the future. Concerning this matter they proceed slowly, of course. It is Chinese nature to move slowly in most things. Besides, these brethren and sisters have not much of this world's goods. But we want them to help themselves all they can. We want them to become strong. I believe if brother T. J. League can remain here and carry on the work as he has begun we shall be able to have this work to "stand alone" in the course of ten or twelve years, and we ourselves press into the interior. Bro. League is a man who looks deep into mission work, and he endeavors to build upon sure foundation—using only gospel methods and looking to God for increase.

I am alone in Pingtu at present. The other members of our mission are in Tungchow. I keep almost perfectly well. I hope to go to Tungchow and spend a few days with the friends there. It has been nearly two years since I had the pleasure of such a visit. With christian love and best wishes for all my brethren and sisters in the home land, and praying that it may please God to give you yet many years in which to serve him on earth. I am sincerely

Your friend and sister,

FANNIE KNIGHT.

Pingtu, North China, Aug. 5, 1892.

Southern Business College, Asheville, N. C.

This institution is open all the year around for both ladies and gentlemen. Its students are graduated in the full Business and Shorthand courses, including Book keeping, Practical Business, Banking, Wholesaling, Commission, Business Law, Business Forms, Business Arithmetic, English, Correspondence, Spelling, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typewriting, Political Economy, Civil Government, Literary Society work and Parliamentary Law. It has a full corps of thoroughly experienced Business College teachers and a course as modern and comprehensive as any institution to be found, including lectures upon various practical subjects by distinguished gentlemen. It has large elegant apartments, new modern furniture, Bank, Wholesale, Commission and Exchange offices and is fully equipped to compete with the best institutions of the country. Asheville is a beautiful and progressive city of about 13,000 inhabitants with climate and scenery famous the world over and is said to entertain fully 100,000 visitors annually, being crowded both winter and summer.

Efforts are made to secure good positions for all worthy graduates of this institution.

Rates of tuition and board for students are reasonable.

For further information, address,

M. M. LAMBETH, President.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Sunday-school Board.

We have made a new contract for printing our Sunday school literature for 1893. The prices which are much reduced by virtue of increase in circulation, take effect with the issue of the fourth quarter of this year, by which we will save several hundred dollars. We have no charges to pay for room rent, fuel, light, or porter's care—all this being allowed us, notwithstanding the low prices made for printing.

We are trying to conduct the business entrusted to us by the Southern Baptist Convention in a business like way, such as will win and maintain the confidence of our people.

The Board has decided to expend during this Convention year the sum of three thousand dollars in the interest of Sunday school missions. In appropriating this amount the more needy districts must of course be first considered, and yet it seems to us only fair that each State should have some recognition. The Board therefore decides, for the present at least, upon a kind of double policy, namely, to return to each State a per centum upon the basis of its cash patronage, and then to make such further appropriation, as we may be able, to the more needy fields. In pursuance of this policy, ten per cent. of our cash receipts for May, June and July, the first quarter of the Convention year, has been appropriated, each State receiving its pro rata. In addition to the one thousand dollars given in this way, we have also appropriated one hundred dollars to Florida and five hundred dollars to Texas. In this matter we are acting in conjunction with the existing State organizations as required by the instruction of the Convention. While neither the amount sent to any one State, nor the aggregate sum of these amounts is large, yet it shows what may be done, and indicates, in part at least, the line along which we can direct our future policy. We are also giving away a large amount of Sunday-school literature—this, however, only to mission schools as recommended by the proper authorities in their respective States.

The Sunday-school Board, as a part of the Convention machinery, is a business which is not only self maintaining from the first, as shown by its report at the last sessions of the Convention, but may easily be made an influential factor in the interest of our denominational enterprises, helping all our work and hindering none. Its power to do good increases with the patronage it receives; and every order for Sunday school supplies becomes a direct contribution to missions and to the advancement of all the interests of the Convention.

As to the literature, we are aiming all the while for its improvement. We are making the periodicals missionary in the broadest sense. The quarterlies contain missionary lessons relative especially to the mission fields of the Convention. Kind Words, the illustrated paper for children and young people, devotes the fourth page in every issue, both in weekly and semi monthly editions, to missions, under the energetic management of Miss Alice Armstrong for the Woman's Missionary Union. The Convention Teacher, a monthly in the series for teachers and families, is growing rapidly in popular favor. Its expositions of the lessons for 1893 will be made by J. C. Hiden, D. D., Gordon B. Moore, D. D., E. C. Dargan, D. D., and Henry McDonald, D. D.—each taking three months, in the order named. Besides this, we will have twelve articles from B. H. Carroll, D. D.; twelve from Wm. E. Hatcher, D. D.; twelve from F. M. Ellis, D. D.; several from John A. Broadus, D. D.; and twelve missionary articles following the Mission Card by twelve different writers, with other articles from time to time, and the Book Review department a specialty.

God helping us, the literature shall be eminently worthy of the place which is being so liberally given it in our Sunday-schools, and shall be for the furtherance of the cause of Christ. Our constant, careful and most watchful aim is to make the work of the Sunday-school Board, as Dr. J. B. Gambrell was kind enough to say for us, "constructive rather than destructive." The need for building is so great in almost every direction, and at almost every point, as to call for the centering of the united energies of our people. Our Sunday-schools should be missionary bodies in the noblest sense. Here we should aim, not only to discover the missionary himself, who shall carry the glad tidings of salvation to the remotest bounds of the earth, but also to grow the conviction, the missionary sense of duty, which shall transform our home churches into a base of supplies such as is worthy of the noble work and commensurate with our obligations.

For doing this God has surely opened to us a great door, and has thrown upon our work the light of his approving smile. There are difficulties here as well as in every other undertaking; but in this, as in all else, difficulties call not for abandonment, but discretion, patience and prayer, with mutual confidence and helpfulness.

With reference to the policy which the Board has adopted in making its first appropriations, or with reference to any other part of its work, we would gladly receive suggestions which any of the brethren feel inclined to make, whether it be to approve or disapprove.

For the most part, these suggestions, we modestly venture to say, will do the greatest good, if they can be sent directly to the Board, and not communicated through the papers.

We desire to adopt the plan which is the best under the circumstances, and this can be best determined in the wisdom which comes from a multitude of counsel. We earnestly desire to be in touch with our brethren, and have them feel the utmost freedom, in dealing with us in regard to any matters which we may have in hand pertaining to the interest of our Master's cause, and we assure them that any suggestion which they may make will be received in the kindest spirit, and will be given the most considerate attention.

Feeling sure the Board will grow in power as the years go on, we desire to direct its energies along the line most acceptable and effective.

J. M. FROST.

Middleburg.

Dear Recorder:—We are having a great meeting at Middleburg. The Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists and "Christians" have united in a protracted meeting, and already fourteen have professed conversion, and about fifteen others have presented themselves as enquirers. The interest and the congregations are increasing daily. There has not been such a religious awakening in Middleburg for many years.

The preaching has been done by Rev. Peter Clapp, Rev. W. Jenkins and myself. We now have four services a day—at 10 and 11 a. m., and 2 and 8 p. m.

N. B. COBB.

Notes on the University.

Before another issue of The Standard, the doors of the University of Chicago will open to students and its educational work will begin. On Saturday morning, October 1, the classes will meet for the first time and at noon the first chapel service will be held. There will be no formal public opening, but the work will begin as quietly on Saturday morning as on any succeeding day. After deliberate consideration this method of beginning work was adopted, the president and trustees feeling averse to any public display. A hundred members of the various faculties are on the ground. The schedule of recitations has been already prepared and printed. The students are coming in daily and getting settled in their rooms in the dormitories or elsewhere, and the classes will meet and the work go forward without confusion and with perfect regularity from the beginning.

The candidates for the freshman class were examined on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week in the University chapel, and when The Standard reaches its readers the candidates for admission to the academy will be undergoing examination at Morgan Park. The three academy dormitories are ready to receive students and will be well occupied. The work of the academy will begin as quietly as that of the University and on the same day and hour.

The past few weeks have witnessed extraordinary activity on the University campus. Hundreds of workmen have been engaged in pushing the buildings to completion and preparing the grounds. President Harper and his assistants established their offices in the recitation building, Cobb lecture hall, about the first of the month, and have met and examined students, conferred with professors, entertained visitors and organized their work amid the rush of workmen and the thunder of the construction of a great building. Little by little order has emerged out of confusion, and it is now believed that on the last day of September the last workman will lay down his tool and surrender the completed structure to the professors and students.

But the workmen will not leave the campus. No less than eight new buildings are now going up in different parts of the grounds. The first of these to be completed will be the temporary gymnasium and library, which will be ready for occupancy in November. The walls of the Kent Chemical Hall are now ten feet above the ground. The foundations of three women's halls are now in and the excavation is made for a fourth. The foundations of the Walker Museum and of the Snell Dormitory for undergraduates are being laid. The Field Biological Laboratory and the Ryerson Physical Laboratory will be begun as soon as the plans can be completed, probably within sixty days. For a year to come the campus will present a busy scene, and a curious and interesting one. Hundreds of students and hundreds of workmen will fill every part of it and make it one of the liveliest places in the great city.

It is not possible at this time to give any very accurate statement as to the number of students. It being possible for students to enter at the beginning of any six weeks term, the numbers will increase throughout the year. It is known that many new Freshmen will enter six or twelve weeks late. The Divinity School is quite certain to have two hundred students, and all the departments will open well.

Large as the numbers will be, they would have been very much larger had the requirements for admission been lower. Correspondence has been had with nearly three thousand students who expressed a desire to enter. Very many of them will spend another year in preparatory studies and report for entrance next year. Meantime the University will have as great an attendance as it is prepared to care for during its first year. Thereafter it will be ready to receive all who come prepared to take its courses.—T. W. Goodspeed, Secretary, 1212 Chamber of Commerce, Chicago, in Standard.

A Chance to Make Money.

I have berries, grapes and peaches, a year old, fresh as when picked. I use "Hood's improved process;" do not heat or seal the fruit, just put it up cold. Keeps perfectly fresh and costs almost nothing; can put up a bushel in ten minutes. Last week I sold directions to over one hundred families. Anyone will pay a dollar for directions when they see the beautiful fruit samples. Fall and winter are the best time to sell directions, so people can experiment and be ready for next fruit season. As there are many poor people like myself I consider it my duty to give my experience to such, and feel confident anyone can make one or two hundred dollars around home in a few days. I will mail sample of fruit and complete directions to any of your readers for thirteen two-cent stamps, which is only the actual cost of the sample, postage, etc., to me. Mrs. Henry Griffith, New Concord, Ohio.

Sandy Creek Association.

The Sandy Creek Association met with Bethlehem church, four miles west of Carthage, September 22, 1892. Introductory sermon by Rev. W. T. Jones, from Rev. 2:7. The sermon was good and to the point. Rev. O. T. Edwards was elected moderator, and W. C. Douglas, clerk. The former moderator, W. H. H. Lawhon, thanked the brethren for relieving him of his office which he had held for nearly twenty years. Brother Lawhon is not like some of our brethren in the State, who are not satisfied, with holding the Lord's offices, but are seeking to hold the offices of Cæsar, but we think Brother Lawhon is a man like the "Master," willing to do what is best for the Lord's cause.

The usual reports came up in their regular order, and we had a good many good speeches, and especially those made by Dr. Durham on State, Home and Foreign Missions, and Dr. Mitchell and Rev. F. P. Hobgood on Education. All the objects of the Convention received a collection, and while the collections were not large, we noticed, that nearly all gave something.

Rev. A. A. Newhall was with us and gave us two good talks on the "Telugu Mission."

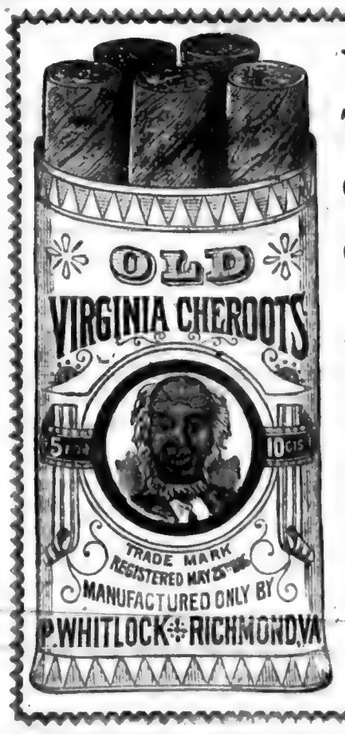
The newspaper brethren were out in full force. Subscribers were taken for the RECORDER, North Carolina Baptist and Charity and Children.

We did not hear but one sermon at the stand and that was good, for it was preached by Dr. Cobb, and he can always give us something good; and I understood that Bro. Fisher preached a good sermon on Friday evening at the stand.

I forgot to mention the sermon that was preached by our young Brother, Walter M. Gilmore, at the stand, after the Association adjourned on Saturday evening. The young brother's sermon was well gotten up, and delivered with much earnestness and reached the people. Brother Gilmore was set apart to the full work of the ministry on Sunday morning by a Presbytery appointed by the Association.

Dr. Mitchell and the writer did the preaching on Sunday.

J. M. H.



Why Not Try Old Virginia Cheroots?

They are made of the best obtainable stock, made by skilled hands in our mammoth factory, where every attention is given to details to make a perfect smoke. Sold in every town in the United States.

FIVE FOR TEN CENTS. 14

TOBACCO HABIT

HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days

For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free. THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., by mail. Address 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.

EASILY CURED

Rosenthal Clothing Company,

305 Fayetteville St., opp. Postoffice, Raleigh, N. C.

Largest and Best Selected Stock

of Fine Tailor-made Clothing, at Lower Prices, than any other house in the State.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

CHAS. M. WALSH,

Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.

PETERSBURG, VA.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA,

RICHMOND.

The Fifty-fifth Annual Session of the above-named institution will begin September 27th, 1892, and continue six months.

For catalogue or other information write to Dr. J. S. DORSEY CULLEN, Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Surgery.

THE ORIGINAL

Patented Feb. 25, 1836. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.

TAKE NO OTHER.

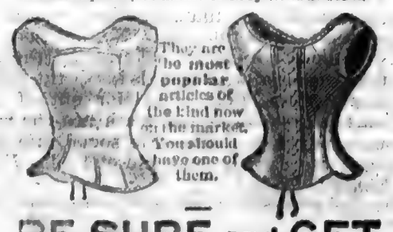
REMEMBER THE GENUINE

JACKSON CORSET WAISTS

ARE MADE ONLY BY THE

JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.



They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING

If your dealer hasn't them write to us.

CANVASSERS WANTED.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. E. A. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A. Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR

A POLICY

—IN THE—

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, RALEIGH, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

PILES Remedy Free. INSTANT RELIEF. Positive cure in 10 days. Never returns; no purge, no salve, no suppository. A victim has tried in vain every remedy has discovered this simple cure, which he will mail free to his fellow sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, Box 3200, New York City.

Robeson Association.

Visiting brethren who expect to attend the Robeson Association, which meets in Fair Bluff Nov. 1st, will please notify me by postal card. J. A. SMITH.

Fair Bluff, Oct. 1, 1892.

Union Meeting of Liberty Association.

The next Union Meeting of Liberty Association will convene with Abbott's Creek church on Friday at eleven o'clock before the fifth Sunday in October, 1892, Elder Thomas Carrick preaching the introductory sermon.

PROGRAM.

1. Can our churches hope for a revival of religion when we fail to exercise strict discipline? Speaker—Elder H. Sheets.
2. What is meant by "Modern Missions"? Speaker—Elder Thomas Carrick.
3. What is the duty of our deacons, and are they doing their duty? Elder J. K. Fant.
4. If it is right to give to the Lord's cause, why not take public collections? Elder H. Morton. COM.

Centennial Day at Mt. Zion Association.

The program provides for an opening address by Prof. J. W. Gore at 10:30 a. m., to be followed by Dr. Thos. E. Skinner on the Life and Character of Dr. M. T. Yates.

After the recess, Rev. W. C. Tyree will speak on the Result of One Hundred Years of Foreign Mission Work and its Lessons. Dr. Thos. Hume will follow him with an address on the general subject.

These services will come on the second or third day of the session as the Association shall determine. This will be on the 19th or 20th of October.

The Association meets at Olive's Chapel in Wake county, commencing Oct. 18th.

J. D. CARROLL, Chm'n Cen. Com.

From Rockingham

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We raised $65.00 yesterday for missions. That, you remember, was the amount raised by those twelve men one hundred years ago. Bro. H. C. Dockery generously proposed to give $25.00 of the amount. In five minutes the whole amount was raised. In addition to this the Sunday school sends $8.00, and the Woman's Missionary Society perhaps as much more. I believe that contributing to foreign missions is necessary to keep our churches in a healthful condition at home. As Dr. Broadus says, "christianity is essentially missionary. It must grow at the circumference or it will die at the center."

L. JOHNSON.

Rockingham, N. C., Oct. 3, 1892.

State Fair, Raleigh, N. C.

For above occasion, the Richmond & Danville R. R. Co. will sell tickets to Raleigh, N. C., and return, at rates given below. Tickets include one admission to Fair Grounds, and must be stamped by proper agent at the Fair Grounds before being valid for return passage. From Charlotte, $4.10; Concord, 3.70; Salisbury, 3 30; High Point, 2.50; Greensboro, 2.70; Burlington, 1.70; Durham, 1.30; Selma, 1.30; Goldsboro, 1.50; Oxford, 1.70; Lincolnton, 4 50; Asheville, 6.10; Marion, 5.10; Statesville, 3.70; Winston-Salem, 2.70; Wilkesboro, 4.30; Rural Hall, 3.10; Reidsville, 2.70. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion. Dates of sale, October 17th to 21st, inclusive; limit, returning, October 24, 1892.

Have you a Pittsburgh, Rochester, Duplex, or a Student Lamp?

Do they work satisfactorily?

Do your Lamp Chimneys break? You get the wrong sort!

The RIGHT ones are the "PEARL GLASS," made by Geo. A. Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh, makers of the celebrated "Pearl-top" lamp chimney, which have given universal satisfaction.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The Bedal Institute here has been removed to Tarboro.

Chief Justice Merrimon who has been very ill, continues to improve.

W. H. Jernigan, Co., I, Twenty-sixth N. C., regiment, died at the Soldiers Home here last Wednesday night.

The Wake county tax lists show that $9,576,293 worth of property is held by white people, and $419,837 worth by negroes.

General J. B. Weaver, Third Party candidate for President of the United States, and Mrs. Lease his co adjutor in the campaign, addressed a large crowd at Brookside Park in this city last Thursday. Many persons from neighboring counties were present.

During the past few months, a number of people here have been troubled with thieves. Small articles of almost every description have been taken from houses during the day time. The police have captured two little negro boys, who, it appears, have committed these thefts. A large amount of the stolen property has been recovered, it having been concealed in the homes of the two boys.

State News.

The Edenton fair will be held October 25th to 28th.

The Catawba county fair, held last week, is reported a complete success.

A new cotton factory is to be established at Durham, making four at that place.

A syndicate of Northern physicians contemplate building a sanitarium at Mt. Airy.

The Oxford & Coast Line Railroad Co., has been reorganized and work on its road resumed.

The Tarboro Water Works Company, at Tarboro, has been incorporated with a capital stock of $60,000.

A man-eating shark, seventeen feet in length was caught at the Hammocks near Wilmington last Wednesday.

A basket factory has been erected at Wilmington, which will have a capacity of 15,000 baskets a day, it is said.

M. R. Lang, merchant at Greenville, with a branch store at Wilson, has made an assignment. His liabilities aggregate about $40,000.

Gov. Holt offers a reward of $200 for Alonza West, of Madison county who is charged with the murder of Matt Rector in that county September 16th.

Mr. J. W. M. Barefoot and industrious young farmer of Ingram's township, Johnston county, was accidentally drowned one day recently while seining in Hannah's creek.

The milling plant of Julius Stroup in Lincoln county, which included flour, corn, saw and shingle mills, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday of last week. Loss, $4,000; no insurance.

Mr. Neill McMillan, formerly of Robeson county, was shot and killed in Georgia on last Friday, by a negro outlaw whom the sheriff ordered him to arrest.—Laurinburg Exchange.

The management of the Three C's road has just awarded the contract for construction of four splendid iron bridges to the Phœnix Bridge Company of Pennsylvania.—Shelby Review.

A little negro child was accidentally run over and killed by a train near Greensboro several days ago. The mother in trying to save the child, was struck by the engine and badly hurt.

The negro, Redman, who killed Frank Spicer, white, some time last spring, by almost decapitating him with a razor, was tried at Wilkes court recently and sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years.

A Mrs. Catherine Williams of Bladen county committed suicide recently, by drowning herself in a canal. She tied her hands together and laid down in the water which was about six inches deep.

Jack Edwards an engineer on the Western road, and Will Cowan got into a fight at Asheville several nights ago over politics. Edwards was badly cut and died from the effects of his wounds some time after. Cowan was jailed.

Mr. Alexander Holt, a brother of Gov. Holt, died suddenly at his home at Burlington, last Saturday morning aged fifty-seven years. The gentleman just deceased was the fourth son of the late Edwin M. Holt, who was founder of plaid manufacturing in the South.

We have been shown by Mr. J. A. D. Stephenson a beautiful diamond which was found in Silver Creek township, Burke county. It is a very interesting crystal, the faces being so wonderfully wrought that it appears to be almost spherical.—Statesville Landmark.

On September 22d a committee of five men from Boston, members of the Ninth Massachusetts regiment, arrived at Shelby, and there restored to the Cleveland Guards, Company E, Twelfth North Carolina regiment, the flag captured from it at the battle of Hanover May 27th 1865.

The trial of Willis H. Brogden for the murder of Fab. F. Sasser, recently came off at Goldsboro. Brogden was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to six years imprisonment. An appeal to the Supreme Court was granted him under a $5,000 bond, and he was released from jail.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, aged sixty-six years died at her home in Dilworth, a suburb of Charlotte Sunday, the 2d inst. The Charlotte Observer states that last Saturday the deceased told her relatives that she would die Sunday at six o'clock. Her prophecy came true to the day and hour.

Circulars are coming to Charlotte exposing the workings of watch-cigar schemes in Winston. A pack of sharpers have settled down there, and it is said that nearly 1,000 persons in the State have been duped by the brass watches and cabbage-leaf cigars put out by them.—Charlotte News.

Some unknown person or persons entered a store in Mooresboro Tuesday night of last week and blew open a safe with ordinary gunpowder. The safe was robbed of $600 of guano notes belonging to a Mr. Scruggs, and of $740 in cash belonging to Thomasson & Co. Suspicion points to Chauncey Proctor, a notorious burglar and escaped convict, who is said to have been lurking in the neighborhood.

A company of Northern capitalists, who own 70,000 acres of land in Madison county, in order to bring the farmers and especially the lumber from that rich forest region nearer a market, have decided to build a twenty-four inch gauge railroad from Hot Springs through the cliffs and mountains of that region in a northeasterly direction twenty-two miles in length. It is proposed to have the road completed by 1893, and the cost is estimated at $150,000.

To Cumberland county and Bordeaux Vineyard, through Mr. A. S. Huske, of this city, has been awarded the contract to furnish North Carolina's scuppernong grape exhibit at the World's Fair in Chicago. Accordingly Mr. Huske made a shipment of 500 to 1,000 lbs. yesterday, by express, directly to the Union Cold Storage Company, of Chicago, where the grapes will be kept in perfect condition until the great Exposition opens next April.—Fayetteville Gazette.

General News.

New York City is entirely free from cholera.

Stuart Knell, a Roman Catholic, has been elected Lord Mayor of London.

Patrick S. Gilmore, the well known bandmaster, died recently in St. Louis, Mo.

A cloud-burst at Brunswick, Ga., on the 28th ult. damaged property to the extent of $20,000.

Cholera continues its ravages across the water, but the disease has greatly decreased in extent.

Half of the business portion of North Bend, Neb., has been destroyed by fire. Loss, $50,000.

Nine persons were killed and nine others injured in a railroad accident at Shreve, O., on the 21st ult.

Four persons were killed and several injured in a recent fire in a Jewish Synagogue, New York City.

A Confederate monument was unveiled with appropriate exercises at Greenville, S. C., on September 27th.

It is reported that nine negroes and two white men were killed in a recent race war in Calhoun county, Ark.

About thirty small cottages were destroyed by fire in New Orleans, La., one night last week. Loss, $50,000.

The corner-stone of the Jefferson Davis monument to be erected in Richmond, will be laid some time in May, 1893.

A terrible typhoon in Japan is reported to have destroyed nearly 5,000 houses and caused the deaths of many people.

The yellow river (Hoang Ho) in China has again overflowed its banks inundating twelve towns and causing great loss of life.

General Diaz was last week publicly declared President of the Republic of Mexico for four years more, commencing Dec. 1.

Gen. Carl Muller, the last surviving officer who took part in the battle of Waterloo, died on the 30th ult., aged ninety-nine years.

A Captain Andrews sailed from Atlantic City, N. J., on July 20th in a sixteen-foot dory and arrived safely at Lisbon, Spain, on Sept. 21st.

Daniel Dougherty, the celebrated Philadelphia lawyer and orator who died recently left an estate to his wife during her life valued at $140,000.

Mrs. Harrison, wife of President Harrison, continues ill, but there is some improvement in her condition since her return to Washington from Loon Lake.

Rockaway Beach, the famous summer resort near Brooklyn, N. Y., was visited by a very destructive fire on the 20th ult. The losses aggregate over $800,000.

Gen. John Pope, one of the commanders of the Army of the Patomac, for many years a resident of St. Louis, died at the Soldiers' Home at Sandusky, O., recently.

The new Spanish minister to the United States Senor Enrique Dupuy de Lome was formally presented to the President last Friday by the Secretary of State.

The Lima Car Works at Lima, Ohio, were destroyed by fire on the 28th ult., together with two hundred and ten cars. The gross loss is estimated at $100,000.

A San Antonio, Tex., dispatch says: "The overflow of the Rio Grande river continues to cause a great amount of damage in the neighborhood of Rio Grande city."

A wreck on the Western railroad near Opelika, Ala., Sept. 27th, caused the death of two men and the injury of others. The wreck caught fire and several cars were destroyed.

Nancy Hanks, a celebrated mare, trotted a mile in two minutes and four seconds on a regulation track at Terre Haute, Ind., on the 28th ult., thus breaking all previous records.

The anarchist Bergman, who attempted to assassinate Henry C. Frick, of the Carnegie Iron and Steel Co., at Pittsburg, has been sentenced to twenty-one years imprisonment.

Col. W. P. Cannady, at one time mayor of Wilmington, N. C., and ex sergeant-at-arms of the United States Senate, committed suicide in Washington City Tuesday of last week by blowing out his brains.

A lone highwayman held up a stage about thirty miles from Creede, Col., one night last week and made about a dozen passengers hand over their cash to him. He also secured $100 from the driver.

The large factory of the Singer Sewing Machine Company at Elizabethtown, N. J., was damaged by fire last Wednesday to the extent of over $300,000. About seven hundred men are thrown out of work by the fire.

Thirty-three of the Homestead, Pa., strikers are to be tried for treason. This is the first time that the charge of treason has been brought in any State for acts arising from a strike or labor trouble. It is stated that counter charges may be brought against the Carnegie Company.

Frank Sweeney, grand chief of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, was defeated by the convention for re-election at Dallas, Texas, last week. George W. Wilson of La Crosse, Wis., was elected in his stead.

The Grand Army of the Republic held its annual gathering at Washington City recently. Vast crowds attended. Seventy thousand men took part in the annual parade. Gen. A. G. Weissert was elected commander-in chief of the Army. The next gathering will be at Indianapolis.

Train robbers wrecked a train near Osage City, Kansas, several days ago which resulted in the killing of five persons and the injury of over twenty-five others. One million dollars was in the express car of the train, which was being taken from the city of Mexico to Boston. The sum of money was so completely covered up by the debris as to prevent the robbers from obtaining any of it, and it was subsequently recovered and sent to Boston.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

The Baptist missionaries of Japan, at their recent Conference, voted to reiterate their appeal for the twenty-three men for Japan. They note especially the facts that there are more than 63,000 Shintu preachers, and 92,000 Buddhist preachers and priests; there are more than 65,000 heads of temples, not counting the females, who alone outnumber the Protestant missionaries by over 100; the increase of Shintu preachers from 1884-89 was greater than the present membership of all the Protestant churches. There is also a specific appeal for Northern Japan, where there is only one Baptist worker to 500,000 people, and where they wish especially to occupy the city of Hakodate.

SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN is a sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, consumption, and all throat and lung troubles.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Cedar Fork ch, Mt Zion, $1.42; Maiden ch, South Fork, 2.00; W M S, Henderson ch, 3.60; Sandy Creek Asso, 2.06; Bethlehem ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Sandy Creek Asso, 56.18 and 4.44—60.62; South Yadkin Asso, 11 00; John D Davis (pledge), 5.00; W M S, Rock Springs ch, Asso Missions, 5.10; Mt Gilead ch, Mt. Zion Asso, 3.50. Total, 114.20. Previously reported, 6,135.70. Total this year, 6,249.90.

Foreign Missions—Pleasant Hill ch, Green River, $11.95; Rutherfordton ch, ditto, 11.30; W M S, Reynoldson ch, Chowan, 3.00; Cane Creek ch. Mt Zion, 5.20; Sandy Creek Asso, 137.89; Elon ch, West Chowan, 4.00; W M S, Warsaw ch, 5.75; W H Edwards, Central Asso, 7.50; Mars Hill ch, West Chowan, 26.50. Total, 213.08. Previously reported, $6,275.82. Total this year, 6,488.90.

Home Missions—Rutherfordton ch, Green River Asso, $8.59; Star ch, Montgomery, 5.00; Sandy Creek Asso, 48 64; Bethel ch, Eastern, 1.25; W H Edwards, Central, 7.50. Total, 70.98. Previously reported, 2,300.43. Total this year, 2,371.41.

Education—Palmersville ch, Stanly, $1.23; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 6.33; Warsaw ch, 4.25; W M S, Beaufort ch, Atlantic, 8.00; Rock Springs ch, Flat River, 7.00; Bethlehem ch, W Chowan, 4.56; Mt Airy ch, Pilot Mountain, 5.04; Sandy Creek Asso, 48.21; Bethel ch, Eastern, 1.08; Mars Hill ch, West Chowan, 12.50. Total, 98.20. Previously reported, 1,923.46. Total this year, 2,021.66.

Orphanage—Republican S S, W Chowan, $2.50; Cane Creek ch, Mt Zion, 40c; S S, Rock Springs ch, Flat River, 2.75. Total, 5.65. Previously reported, 954.31. Total this year, 959.96.

Sunday-schools—Rutherfordton ch, Green River, $2.43; Sandy Creek Asso, 57c. Total, 3.00.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Sandy Creek Asso, $5.78. Previously reported, 257.67. Total this year, 263.45.

Centennial Fund—Back Swamp ch, Robeson, $6.31.

Havana House—Ebenezer ch, Union, $3.00.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Oct. 1, 1892.

MARRIED.

ALLEN—KNOTT—On Sept. 21st, 1892, at Stovall, N. C., by Rev. C. A. Jenkens, Mr. W. C. Allen of Berea and Mrs. Ida J. Knott of Stovall.

DIED.

COOPER—Little Berta, daughter of Erastus and Lou Cooper, died July 21st, 1892, aged nine months and twenty-one days. Dear little Berta, we miss thee. MAMA.

WRIGHT—Samuel Jasper Wright died on August 23d, 1892. He was seventeen years, nine months and eleven days old. He was a member of the McAdensville (N. C.) Baptist church, having united therewith about three years ago. He belonged to the church choir, and will be much missed. He leaves a widowed and godly mother, two brothers and a sister (all good Baptists) to mourn his death. But they mourn in hope of meeting him in the heavenly home beyond the skies. He was a popular young man, and his influence was for good. His body has been committed to the ground to await a happy resurrection.

K. W.

EURE—Minnie E. Eure, daughter of Bro. Elmore Eure and wife Sophia, died of typhoid pneumonia on Sept. 15th, 1892, aged six years and nine months. Minnie being the only young child in the family, was the pet of the household, and almost idolized by her parents. She loved to sing "O how I love Jesus," and in her last illness would ask her mother and sister to get "The Story of the Bible" and read to her about Jesus. Now she is forever safe with him in heaven. May the Holy Spirit comfort the sorrowing ones and sanctify this bereavement to their good.

W. B. W.

PERKINSON—In Raleigh, N. C., September 16th, 1892, just as the day was drawing to a close, Mr. Benjamin J. Perkinson quietly and peacefully breathed his last. He was in his sixty-fourth year and was a consistent member of the Baptist church for forty years, walking uprightly in the fear and admonition of the Lord. He possessed a hospitable and generous nature, adorned by christian graces that held him in the highest respect of all who knew him. He was confined at home for more than nine months, suffering continually, but was patient to the last, and when the summons came he was ready, and felt that he was guided safely across the dark river to the blissful joys of paradise. He leaves a wife and six children, along with many friends, to mourn their loss. May the protecting arms of a loving Saviour be around them and keep them until they are called to join the loved ones gone before. The funeral was conducted at the residence by Dr. J. J. Hall and was attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends. The remains were interred in the family burying ground four miles from Raleigh, N. C. COM.

MOIR—Mrs. Ruth Moir, Sr., died in Leaksville at the residence of her step son, Mr. Alex Moir, on Sept. 17th, 1892. On the following day her remains, followed by a large concourse of sympathizing friends, were laid to rest in the old family cemetery beside her departed husband, Rev. D. E. Field officiating at the funeral. Sister Moir was a daughter of Zachariah and Ruth Strong, and was born near Leaksville on March 25th, 1815, being at the date of her death in her seventy-eighth year. After arriving to mature age, and having given her heart to Jesus, she was on the fourth Sunday in July, 1841, baptized to fellowship in the Leaksville Baptist church by Rev. John Robertson. She, from the day of her baptism, entered actively into the work of the Master. She was diligent in the prayer meetings and Sunday-school, and as a punctual attendant on her Saturday church meetings she excelled all others.

Sister Moir was a Baptist from Bible convictions, and while she was charitable to all who saw fit to differ with her, she on all occasions stood firm for the faith once delivered to the saints. She was liberal with her means, always contributing to all the enterprises of the church, never turning away the poor empty. Her house at all times was a refuge for the weary preacher.

In June, 1854, she was united in marriage to Mr. John Moir, one of Leaksville's most popular and enterprising citizens, who, after marriage, was converted, and became a useful and honored member of the Baptist church. C. G. J., Sr.

Tributes of Respect.

WHEREAS, In the unerring providence of our Heavenly Father he has seen fit to send among us the angel of death, and remove from our midst three most worthy members of the Woman's Missionary Society of Wake Forest, our dear friends and co-workers, Mrs. Elimbeth Royall, Misses Alice and Hollie Fort, therefore Resolved 1. That while we regret deeply the loss of members so valuable, and sincerely mourn the death of friends so highly esteemed, we will bow in humble submission to this heavy stroke laid upon us by the allwise Creator.

2. That though deep sorrow fills our hearts, and clouds hang thickly over us, yet we can rejoice because we believe it is well with them, for they have entered into the rest that remaineth to the people of God.

3. That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved families, and pray God to comfort them in this hour of deep affliction.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the families of the deceased, and to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

H. B. POWERS,
E. J. POTEAT,
L. M. BREWER,
Committee.

RHEUMATISM
neuralgia, and sciatica
can always be successfully treated
with
Ayer's Sarsaparilla
A cure
is sure to follow
the persistent use of this medicine.
Has Cured Others
will cure you.

For Sale or Rent.
My store building, cottage dwelling, all necessary out houses, on lot of four acres. Connected by private telephone with Wake Forest, 4 miles. For further particulars, address
J. W. PERNELL, Pernell, N. C.
Sept. 23d, 1892.

BUCKEYE CYCLE CO CINCINNATI O.
want an Agent in your Place.
We will sell you a BICYCLE at manufacturers' prices if you will try to sell our goods. Please write for Catalogue and full information.
EVERY WHEEL WARRANTED.

Asthma
The African Mahn Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, is Nature's Sure Cure for Asthma. Cures Guaranteed or No Pay. Export office, 191 Broadway, New York. Package Trial Cure, FREE by Mail, as long as they last. DOCTORS CO., 182 Vine St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

GUNS BICYCLES $18
DOUBLE BARREL SHOT GUNS $7.50
RIFLES $3.00
WATCHES

The Home Circle.

Pathways Through Life.

You say that your life is a failure,
Your future holds naught that is sweet,
That the troublous years bring little but tears,
And always, always defeat.

Mistakes—aye, sins you call them—
May cover your past like a pall,
But the soul that is strong to outlive its wrong
Is the bravest soul of all.

You long to go forth in the battle,
But your feet are fettered quite;
Remember, who serve in the corps of reserve
May be able as those who fight.

You chafe to enter the races
For pleasure and gold and fame;
Yet many who win 'mid the plaudits' din
Find the prize but an empty name.

The toil that is yours seems fruitless,
Your days are dreary and long;
But the lowliest duty may glow with beauty
When wrought with a cheerful song.

The world's best sweets are denied you,
You have tasted earth's cup of woe;
But who suffers to give that others may live
Has the noblest life, I trow.

Oh, let us, my friend, do bravely
The work that to us is given,
And smile in belief that what causes us grief
May keep us the closer to heaven.

The pathways we traverse are many,
And some are by barrenest strand;
But with vision grown wide we shall wonder we sighed,
For they led to the Beautiful Land.

—Emma C. Dowd in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Money for Everything but Books.

It is an undeniable fact that, in the better circles of society, and even in those of the very elect, the amount of money actually spent for books is pitiably small. People will find means to gratify their lower tastes, and will surround themselves with all so-called objects of refinement, while their mental pabulum will remain meager in quantity and poor in quality. A woman who will not object to spending thirty dollars for a bonnet or two hundred for a dress, will deem a book for a dollar a luxury she cannot afford, and will not hesitate to beg or borrow it, rather than make this prodigious outlay.

For some occult reason, many people consider books expensive. They regard them not as luxuries, nor as necessities, so much apparently as curosities—valued more for their variety and bindings than for their contents. As a consequence, the number of books in the average household is extremely small.

Families that possess everything in the way of luxury and elegance, allow their minds to starve in a desert of magnificence; and the man of culture who passes much time in such a household, longs for some oasis of books where he may slake his intellectual thirst. Yet in these same houses there is lack of nothing else to minister to the desires. The table is furnished with every delicacy to tempt the palate; the walls are hung with paintings that almost cheat one into a belief in the reality of the scenes they depict; the wall paper, the furniture, and the decorations are marvels of artistic skill—every ordinary taste being gratified at the expense of the higher ones.

This state of things comes largely from a false notion of culture. Culture cannot be acquired by merely surrounding one's self with objects of beauty and refinement. It can be attained only by thought rightly directed. It is the outcome of ideas, and no mind can be considered cultured in any serious sense that has not become familiarized with many subjects by study and reflection. It is through books, more than through any other one means, that genuine cultivation is attained.

Henry Ward Beecher says that though a man may cultivate many tastes merely because his neighbors do so, he is not likely to buy books unless he wants them. There may occasionally be some illiterate Mr. Potiphar who constructs cunningly devised shelves, consisting merely of backs of books, to impress his neighbors, but in general books are bought because there is a need felt for them. They are in reality the greatest possible evidence of refinement that a house can contain; and yet there are houses by the hundreds in any city, where it would not be safe to ask for a dictionary or an atlas, and as for an encyclopedia, he would be rash, indeed, who would hazard the request.

Any one who would realize vividly the disposition that exists between the desire for dress and that for literature, may be taught a profitable object lesson by stopping, first, into some dry-goods store, and, secondly, into some bookstore in any one of our large cities. In the former he will see struggling humanity by the score—elbowing one another, and often with scant courtesy, to secure the so-called essential things of life. In the latter he will find very few, relatively speaking, examining the products of literary labor. It may be alleged in reply that the first-named things are the necessities, and the second the luxuries of life, and that while we must have the clothes, we can do without the books. Yet books are not luxuries merely, nor can we afford to be without them. They are necessaries as well, and half the articles bought for wearing apparel, especially by the wealthy, could, with more propriety, be deemed superfluous.

People do not realize the necessity of owning books. This is often true even of great readers. There is a satisfaction in possessing the books that one reads that cannot well be overestimated. If a book makes any impression upon its reader, that impression will be strengthened by possession. In the case of novels, it is somewhat different, and yet, unfortunately, novels form the staple of the average private library.

Dictionaries, atlases, and encyclopedias should always be at hand and frequently used. Let the habit be once formed of endeavoring to settle questions as they suggest themselves by reference to authority, and much may be done in the direction of acquiring culture. It has been truly said that the difference in intelligence between two families at the end of ten years, if the one family has and uses "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary" and the other does not, will be marked. Much greater will be the difference if the family possesses a well-selected library for easy and convenient reference.

Great influence is exerted upon children especially, by surrounding them with good books at an early age. The love of reading is a habit, and grows from intercourse with books, and a fondness for reading is almost a warrant against the lower tastes and desires of youth.

A great work yet awaits the philanthropically disposed individual who shall strive to induce the American people to surround themselves and their children with good books—books that will help to mold in generous outline the generation of the future.

"Books are," says Cicero, "the food of youth, the delight of old age; the ornament of prosperity, the refuge and comfort of adversity." These words of the illustrious Roman were never more suggestive than at the present time, and are as significant as any that can be addressed to the people of to day.—Exchange.

Poor but Pure.

In the early days of American art there went from Boston to London a young man of luminous genius and a pure heart. He was poor in everything but character. The inspiration of the great masters of painting which he saw filled him with a high sense of his calling; he desired to paint nobly, and leave an influence that would help mankind. Among the pictures that he painted was one that was in itself pure, but such as a sensuous mind might pervert by an evil interpretation. To a good mind its influence was good; to an evil imagination it might be made food for evil.

A connoisseur of rank and wealth came to this young man's studio, saw this picture, and purchased it. The money relieved the young artist from pressing needs, and the compliment at first made him happy. But when the picture was gone the artist began to think of the bad influence it might have over the weak and tempted. His conscience began to torture him; he could not rest. He went at last to his patron.

"I have come to buy my picture back."

"Buy it back? Did I not pay you well for it? Do you not deed money?"

"Yes, I am poor. But art is my life. Its mission must be good. The influence of that picture is not good. I cannot be happy with it before the eyes of the world. It must be withdrawn if I can recall it."

The patron admired the heroic purpose of the young artist's life, and sent back the picture. The dialogue was like that we have given, though not in the exact words. The young artist became great, and his character came to command the respect of the two nations.

This man corrected his first mistake in life, and never repeated it. He died full of years and honors, and was buried by torchlight in the old cemetery in Cambridge, Mass. It is said that the moonlight fell upon the bier as the last rites were being performed, revealing a face so morally and spiritually beautiful as to be of itself an artistic inspiration.—Hezekiah Butterworth, in Chautauquan.

A Georgian in Texas.

G. R. Wallace, Sherman, Texas, writes: Have been using Huckleberry Cordial for many years. We consider it the only safe and reliable medicine for the bowels and children teething.

Horace Greeley on the Misery of Being in Debt.

Among the many good things which Horace Greeley wrote for the New York Ledger is the following vivid article on the misery of being in debt:

To be hungry, ragged, and penniless, is not pleasant; but this is nothing to the horror of bankruptcy. All the wealth of the Rothschilds would be a poor recompense for a five years' struggle, with the consciousness that you had taken the money or property of trusting friends—promising to return or pay for it when required, and had betrayed their confidence through insolvency.

I dwell on this point, for I would deter others from entering that place of torment. Half the young men in the country, with many old enough to know better, would "go into business"—that is, into debt—to-morrow if they could. Most poor men are so ignorant as to envy the merchant or manufacturer whose life is an incessant struggle with pecuniary difficulties, who is driven to constant "shinning," and who, from month to month, barely evades that insolvency which sooner or later overtakes most men in business; so that it has been computed that but one in twenty of them achieves a pecuniary success.

For my own part—and I speak from sad experience—I would rather be a convict in State prison, a slave in the rice-swamp, than to pass through life under the harrow of debt. Let no young man misjudge himself unfortunate, or truly poor, so long as he has the full use of his limbs and faculties and is substantially free from debt.

Hunger, cold, rags, hard work, contempt, suspicion, unjust reproach, are disagreeable; but debt is infinitely worse than them all. And, if it had pleased God to spare either or all of my sons to be the support and solace of my declining years, the lesson which I should have most earnestly sought to impress upon them is: "Never run into debt! Avoid pecuniary obligations as you would pestilence or famine. If you have but fifty cents, and can get no more for a week, buy a peck of corn, parch it, and live on it, rather than owe any man a dollar!"

Of course I know that some men must do business that involves risks, and must give notes and other obligations; and I do not consider him really in debt who can lay his hands directly on the means of paying at some little sacrifice all he owes; I speak of real debt—that which involves risk or sacrifice on the one side, obligation and dependence on the other—and I say, from all such let every youth humbly pray God to preserve him evermore!

There can be no health for either mind or body so long as the blood is vitiated. Cleanse the vital current from all impurities by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine recruits the wasted energies, strengthens the nerves, and restores health to the debilitated system.

A Happy Home.

The first year of married life is a most important era in the history of man and wife. Generally, as it is spent so is almost all subsequent existence. The wife and the husband assimilate their views and their desires, or else, conjuring up their dislikes, they add fuel to their prejudices and animosities forever afterwards.

"I have somewhere read," says the Rev. Mr. Wise, in his "Bridal Greetings," "of a bridegroom who gloried in his eccentricities. He requested his bride to accompany him into the garden a day or two after their wedding. He then drew a line over the roof of their cottage. Giving his wife one end of it, he retreated to the other side, and exclaimed:

"'Pull the line!'

"She pulled at his request, so far as she could.

"'Pull it over.'

"'I can't,' she replied.

"'But pull with all your might,' still shouted the whimsical husband.

"But vain were all the efforts of the bride to pull over the line so long as her husband held the opposite end. But when he came round and they pulled at the same end, it came over with great ease.

"'There!' as the line fell from the roof, 'you see how hard and ineffectual was our labor when we both pulled in opposition to each other; but how easy and pleasant it was when we both pulled together. It will be so with us in life.'"—Exchange.

Wash oil cloth in borax water.

Ox gall, in lukewarm water, will clean dirty carpets and renew their freshness.

Cold tea is the best wash to clean grained wood or natural woodwork.

The smallest Pill in the World!
Provided the great Organs of the body are not irreparably injured, there are few diseases that TUTT'S
Tiny Liver Pills
will not cure. By their action the Liver, the Spleen, the Heart and the Kidneys are brought into harmonious action, and health, vigor of mind and body follow their use. Dose small. Price, 25c. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address Hon. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

LOVELY FACES,
WHITE HANDS.
Nothing will WHITEN and CLEAR the skin so quickly as
Derma-Royale
The new discovery for dissolving and removing discolorations from the cuticle, and bleaching and brightening the complexion. In experimenting in the laundry with a new bleach for fine fabrics it was discovered that all spots, freckles, tan and other discolorations were quickly removed from the hands and arms without the slightest injury to the skin. The discovery was submitted to experienced Dermatologists and Physicians who prepared for us the formula of the marvelous Derma-Royale. THERE NEVER WAS ANYTHING LIKE IT. It is perfectly harmless and so simple a child can use it. Apply at night—the improvement apparent after a single application will surprise and delight you. It quickly dissolves and removes the worst forms of moth-patches, brown or liver spots, freckles, blackheads, blotches, sallowness, redness, tan and every discoloration of the cuticle. One bottle completely removes and cures the most aggravated case and thoroughly clears, whitens and beautifies the complexion. It has never failed—IT CANNOT FAIL. It is highly recommended by Physicians and its sure results warrant us in offering $500 REWARD.—To assure the public of its merits we agree to forfeit Five Hundred Dollars CASH, for any case of moth-patches, brown spots, liver spots, blackheads, ugly or muddy skin, unnatural redness, freckles, tan or any other cutaneous discolorations, (excepting birth-marks, scars, and those of a scrofulous or kindred nature) that Derma-Royale will not quickly remove and cure. We also agree to forfeit Five Hundred Dollars to any person whose skin can be injured in the slightest possible manner, or to anyone whose complexion (no matter how bad it may be), will not be cleared, whitened, improved and beautified by the use of Derma-Royale.
Put up in elegant style in large eight-ounce bottles.
Price, $1. EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED.
Derma-Royale sent to any address, safely packed and securely sealed from observation, safe delivery guaranteed, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Send money by registered letter or money order with your full post-office address written plainly; be sure to give your County, and mention this paper. Correspondence sacredly private. Postage stamps received the same as cash.
AGENTS WANTED Send for Terms Sells on Sight $10 A DAY.
Address The DERMA-ROYALE COMPANY, Corner Main and Third Sts. CINCINNATI, OHIO.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.
EDWARD FASNACH, JEWELER AND OPTICIAN, RALEIGH, N. C.
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, Jewelry, —AND— Sterling Silverware.
Optical Goods.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH School Books and Stationery
—BY—
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.
OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.
All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.
MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.
Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice."—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts.; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS, WAGON-MAKERS, PAINTERS, MILL-MEN —AND— SPORTSMEN'S SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER, CEMENT, HAIR, NAILS, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS.
THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.
Paints, Oils, COLORS, GLASS, BELTING, PACKING, FILES, IRON AND STEEL.
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES, ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices. SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.
RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.
Julius Lewis & Co., RALEIGH, N. C.
Guns and PISTOLS
"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1892. Number 16.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

Talks About Law.—No. 9.

BY JUDGE R. W. WINSTON.

HOW TO WRITE YOUR WILL.

A person, under twenty-one years of age, is not capable of making a will. One, more than twenty-one years of age, being of sound mind, may make a will; and this applies to married women. But no man can, by his will, cut his wife out of her dower; nor can any woman, by her will, deprive the husband of his right of courtesy.

We are told that three things in this life are certain—death, dower, and taxes.

The husband's right of courtesy, which is his right to use and occupy, during life, all the lands that his wife owned, is not so certain; because, a husband, having no children, has not this right.

A deed conveying land is good, without a witness; but a will is not good, unless it has two witnesses, who signed the same in the life time of the testator, at his request and in his presence.

There is but one exception to this rule. If a man write his will himself and write his name in the body of the will or at its end, and the same is found among his valuable papers and effects after his death, or if it shall have been lodged in the hands of any person for safekeeping, it is a good will. It is then called a holograph will, and will pass personalty and realty.

It will not tend to confuse matters, if we state that there are besides two kinds of wills, which need not be in writing at all, and which are effectual to pass personalty only.

One is called a donatio causa mortis. A father for example, dying, hands his gold watch to his son and says this is to be yours. The watch is the son's. The other kind of will, the law calls nuncupative.

By this will, one may dispose of all his "belongings" except land. It comes about in this wise: A man is in his last sickness, and at his own home (unless he is on a journey, &c.), he calls up two witnesses specially to bear testimony as to his will, and to them he confides the disposition of his property, and dies. This must, generally speaking, be put in writing in six months after the death of the party.

Suppose that one makes a will and afterwards marries, what effect has the marriage on the will? Why it absolutely revokes it; and the man dies without a will.

Suppose that a child is born to a couple after the father's will is made, what effect has this event on the will? It does not revoke it; but it lets in the child just as if the father had left no will.

Suppose that one of the witnesses to the will is named as a legatee therein, does this vitiate the will? No. But the witness loses his legacy.

Suppose that a father makes his will, and leaves his son John a farm and certain other things, suppose that John dies first, does the legacy to John lapse? This depends; if John has children, it does not lapse, but goes to his children. But if John had had no issue, it would have lapsed and gone back to the father's estate.

How long may a man tie up his estate by will? A very rich man, named Peter Thellusson, in England, once tried the law in this respect. He appointed trustees to manage his estate, and directed that it be turned over and over, and finally given to a particular person, then unborn.

His heirs appealed to the law and broke the will. And the rule since then is this: A life or lives in being, and twenty-one years thereafter, is the limit of perpetuity. That is to say, you may tie up property until the youngest person living, naming him, shall have died and until twenty-one years thereafter.

A long will is a dangerous thing, unless drawn by a lawyer.

Roscoe Conkling's will was a model of brevity: "I give my entire estate, real and personal, to my wife to do with it as she pleases."

The great Tilden's will was successfully attacked; so was A. T. Stewart's and James K. Polk's.

A clause in the will of our profound North Carolina lawyer, R. F. Moore, however, withstood the legal probe. On the contrary, a will, drawn with great care, and disposing of large interests, prepared by our profoundest Chief Justice, was lately declared by our courts to mean what the draughtsman did not intend to say.

We often hear the expression, "The law makes the last will." What does this mean?

First, as the land: It means that the wife gets her dower herein; which is one-third part in value of all the land, at any time owned by the husband; or, that the husband gets his courtesy, which has already been explained; and that all the other lands are equally divided among the children. We will not discuss the law of descents, when there are no children.

Second, as to the personal estate: If there are more than two children, the widow shall have a child's part; if not more than two, then the widow gets one third. If no children or issue of dead children, the widow gets half.

On the death of the wife, the husband gets all of her personal estate. This is the law's will.

Let us conclude with a case that happened in North Carolina in the fifties. All will agree, too, that it was a pity that it occurred as it did.

Maxwell Chambers gave, by will, $200,000 to Davidson College, a handsome bequest. But at that time the Trustees of the College, by its charter, could not, at any one time, own real and personal property exceeding $200,000. The College owned valuable property before the Maxwell Chambers bequest; and so the College lost nearly all of it. Nor did an act of the Legislature, passed soon after, extending the amount that the College might own, help matters. So Mr. Chambers' heirs got the property.

Faith.

If all the doctrines of the Bible were blotted out, God would still have his witnesses, and man would still be without excuse for disobedience. So deeply has every principle of God's spiritual kingdom been implanted in the nature of man, that to be entirely ignorant thereof would be to forget self and to ignore the teachings of daily surroundings.

The God of nature is the same as the God of grace, and, being unchangeable, the same yesterday, to-day, and forever—it is but natural that we should expect to recognize (in some points at least) his handiwork wherever seen. He calls himself our Heavenly Father. Why? To impress upon us the vast difference between himself and our earthly father, as well as to illustrate and enforce by our own experience the various duties growing out of this relation of child to parent, namely, dependence for food, for instruction, for guidance, for control, for assistance, for correction, &c. Man recognizes the necessity of this law of our temporal being and cheerfully yields thereto, rendering unto his earthly father that homage and obedience which the law demands until such a time when he shall be freed therefrom. And even then his freedom compels a deeper, broader and more affectionate reverence. So is it also in every other God-given relation of human life as well as in every principle underlying the government of our Father's kingdom, whether in the family, in the community, in the State, or in the general government, whether in the individual or in the church as governed by the laws of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Faith is no exception to this rule. With its nature, necessity and requirements, men are perfectly familiar in every-day life. It lies at the very foundation of society. It is the connecting link in all the commercial, industrial, social and religious transactions of the world. See how God has interwoven it into every part of life, into the experience of every man, woman and child upon the face of the earth. Indeed it is one of the first intelligent acts of human life, long before the tongue can give expression thereto, or the infantile mind can formulate an idea thereof, as the child fondly, trustingly clings to the parent in moments of sorrow, suffering or fear. Nor is there any new principle involved in what is called Bible faith. God requires the very same kind of confidence and reliance in himself as the infant must and does place in its affectionate, long-suffering, providing parent. "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." What a beautiful object lesson is thus placed before us almost everywhere and in almost every household to teach and enforce every principle, and the application thereof, of God's spiritual kingdom. Circumstances and conditions make no difference in these requirements, because all have realized and experienced the innocency, the affection, the confidence and the obedience of childhood. Let us continually recall and faithfully practice the lessons then taught us, turning our thoughts heavenward as to our home, our affections and obedience Godward as to our loving Father.

Some tell us that faith is simply belief on testimony; but how far short of the faith of which we speak and without which no one shall see God does it come. Such is but the beginning of faith, and indeed but the smallest part of it. The child who only believes that one is his father on the testimony of others and gives no other evidence thereof, believes only in theory, and practically denies the fact. Yet such is the faith of the greater part of the christian world to day.

There must also be confidence in the thing or person believed, drawn largely from personal observation or experience, or both. Take this away and you remove the link that holds together the chain that binds man to man; you make earth a hell in lifting every man's hand against his fellowman, against nature and against God, forcing him down to the confines of dark despair. And yet men may be fully persuaded as to these elements of faith and still be unbelievers in the sense of not being saved. Thus far the devils believe, and believing, tremble.

There must also be the element of trust. We must not only believe what God has said, but we must also trust God to do what he has promised. For instance: I may believe my friend to be perfectly honest and capable, and yet be unwilling to trust him with my property or life. God wishes, yea, demands, that we trust him with all that we are, all that we have, and all that we ever expect to be, whether of a temporal or spiritual nature; a trust that permeates the whole life, giving to every thought an inspiration, to every word an air of deep devotion, to every act a sweet cadence of unfaltering allegiance, to every feeling a devotedness of undying love, and to the whole life a constancy of filial obedience that finds in itself the smile of God, and hence its greatest joy, its chief delight. This is the magic wand of christian life smoothing its rough places, rounding its sharp corners, leveling its hills and mountains, bridging its caverns, and building a highway for man's passage from earth to heaven, erecting all along the journey many a wayside inn where the sweet refreshments of God's unspeakable love are supplied to cheer, comfort and strengthen the way-worn traveler in his toilsome pilgrimage, thus affording many precious foretastes of the blessings reserved in our Father's house on high. This is the power that turns darkness into light, sorrow into joy, trouble into peace, weariness into rest, and death into life eternal.

"O for a faith that will not shrink,
Though pressed by every foe;
That will not tremble on the brink,
Of any earthly woe"

It is the staff upon which the christian leans, the food upon which he feeds, the garment that protects him from the chilling blasts of infidelity, the shield that wards off the fiery darts of the world's temptations and enmity, and his refuge in every hour of grief or pain, his watchword at the gates of death, he enters heaven by faith. "Lord, increase our faith." Unbelief brought into the world all the unnumbered evils that have befallen our race; hence God only asks us to undo what we did in Adam—believe. Christ says, "Ye believe in God, believe also in me." No new thing is required, but simply that the exercise of this old familiar, social and business principle be applied spiritually. It calls into being no new powers, but simply sanctifies and uses the old powers to the glory of God and for the good of our fellowmen. A father on one occasion called to his son, who was playing with a companion near by, and bade him hold out his arm to receive some bundles to carry home. The boy promptly obeyed, and as the father placed bundle after bundle upon his outstretched arm, his companion said to him, "James, you have enough of those bundles." Turning upon him a face beaming with loving confidence, he replied, "My father knows what I can carry." Thus should we, when our Heavenly Father lays upon us the burdens of life, turn with holy trust and say to the fainting hearts within us and to the doubting ones around us, "Our Father knows what we can bear, for it is his hand that places them upon us and it is his strength that enables us to bear them."

Let us, then, be sure that our faith is founded on the word of God, and that all our works are the fruits of faith. O God, give unto each one of us a child like faith, simple, earnest, active faith, that knows no fear, feels no doubt, and hesitates at nothing in doing whatever our Father's cause may require, and our Father's word may command. God speaks on this wise:

Mark 11: 12—"Jesus saith, have faith in God." John 14: 1—"Ye believe in God, believe also in me." Acts 14: 22—"And exhorting them to continue in the faith." Rom. 3: 27—"Where is boasting, then, it is excluded. By what law? Of works? Nay, but by the law of faith." Gal. 5: 6—"For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision, but faith which worketh by love." Eph. 4: 5—"One Lord, one faith." Heb. 10: 39—"Let us draw near with a true heart and full assurance of faith." Heb. 11: 6—"Without faith it is impossible to please God." Heb. 12: 2—"Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." James 2: 17—"Even so faith, if it have not works, is dead."

V. D. M.

Bro. R. D. Carroll Answered.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I notice in the RECORDER of September 21st that Bro. R. D. Carroll asks of me, and of several other brethren whom he calls by name, whether a certain church that administered the Lord's Supper in the absence of the pastor—a young unordained minister officiating—was orthodox in its practice? He follows this question by three more specific questions bearing upon the action of said church.

I may answer all the questions asked by saying that in the case mentioned the church did wrong, and its action was contrary to Baptist usage and Scripture precedent so far as I understand them.

C. A. WOODSON.

A Valiant Soldier of the Cross Fallen.

On July 12th, 1892, at the home of his brother, Dr. Evans McBrayer, Col. Reuben McBrayer died. He died in the full triumphs of faith. Like a ripe shock of corn, he was ready for the garner.

He professed faith in Christ during a meeting held in the Shelby Baptist church by Rev. W. A. Nelson twelve years ago. He was baptized by Rev. J. A. White, then acting as a supply for the church. From the time of his connection with the church he has been active in its every department. He commenced the study of law in Shelby, N. C., under the talented, though now lamented, Plato Durham. Afterwards he graduated at Pearson's Law School on June 3d, 1873. Pearson was well known as one of the most distinguished jurists in the United States, his decisions even being quoted in the English courts.

On December 18th, 1877, he was married to Mary E. Fulenwider of Shelby, N. C. They were blessed in their happy union with six children, three boys and three girls, the oldest now being fourteen years old, and the youngest a bright little girl of eighteen months.

He was one of the founders of the Baptist Female College in Shelby, N. C. At his death he owned half of its stock, the property being valued at $10,000. He was one of the moving spirits in the erection of the handsome brick church at Shelby, his individual subscription being $500.

In 1889 he moved with his family to Asheville, N. C., to engage in the practice of his profession. Soon after, he and his wife connected themselves with the First Baptist church. In connection with Bro. Melke, now deceased, and their beloved pastor, Rev. W. A. Nelson, he commenced the movement of building the handsome new church in Asheville of which the Baptists of that city and of the State of North Carolina are so justly proud. His individual subscription to it was between five and seven hundred dollars. After Bro. Melke's death he acted as chairman of the building committee.

He was liberal in giving to all objects of charity, never turning a deaf ear to the cry of the poor. He was always found in his seat on the Lord's day in the sanctuary unless providentially hindered. He was ever ready to speak a word for Christ in prayer meeting, at church, or on the streets. He never gave any uncertain sound as to where he stood on moral, political and religious questions. As a lawyer he maintained the strictest integrity, as a deacon he faithfully discharged his duties to his church, as a husband he was devoted, as a father he was affectionate; as a citizen and lawyer, conscientious in the discharge of his duties; as a christian, consecrated to his Master's cause.

In addition to his work in his church, he was always present, unless prevented, with his class at the West End Mission, among the poor, often going when not physically able. He was one of the regular supporters of Miss Green, sent out as a missionary to China by the First Baptist church of Asheville.

For eighteen months before his death his friends saw that his health was failing. Soon it was found that he was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys. Like a wounded bird, he came home to Shelby to die. For three months he lay in his bed waiting for the summons. He was constantly attended by his brother, Dr. Evans McBrayer, who, giving up his large practice, devoted himself lovingly to his brother's case. Noble act of a noble man. His aged mother, of whom we cannot say too much, watched with him and waited upon him as only a mother can do. At last she was forced to lay her darling baby boy away to rest. His partner in law, Robert L. Rybum, was an almost constant attendant at his bedside.

At last, quietly and peacefully he passed away, trusting alone in the finished work of Jesus, of which he so delighted to converse. He has left a noble heritage to his family in a good name and a worthy example. May they ever emulate his virtues, and then meet him again in that world where death never enters. May God comfort the heart of his disconsolate widow.

J. L. STROLES.

How to Love God.

A woman once said to her pastor, "I do love God very much, but want to love him more. How can I?"

"You must become better acquainted with him," was the reply. "We love those who are worthy of our love in proportion as we become acquainted with them."

"How can I get better acquainted?" she asked.

"Study the Bible more," he said. "God speaks to you, reveals himself to you in the Bible. Read in the New Testament the life of Jesus, and imagine you had been with him as John and Peter and Mary were."

"And pray more. Tell him all your joys and troubles and needs. He will answer you, and every answer will draw you closer and closer to him.

"Then try to please him in everything you do and say. We always love those whom we try to please. Love makes us wish to please the Lord, and love rewards us when we have done it."

The woman followed these rules, simple as they were, and her love to God grew and spread all through her heart.—Word and Work.

A Stolen Bible.

Some years ago there lived, in a peaceful mountain home, an Arabian vine-dresser. His life was quiet and uneventful. But suddenly war broke out, and he was drafted into the Turkish army, and forced away from his budding vines and quiet home. The change in his life was bad for him, and before long he had become as rough and reckless as any of his comrades, the Mussulman soldiers.

While the company with which he served was out on one of their foraging expeditions, they attacked a small christian village. The terrified villagers fled, and the soldiers ransacked their houses, seizing all the booty they could carry off. The Arabian soldier was very fond of reading, and he took away several books, choosing them hap-hazard, regardless of their contents.

One of the books thus carried off proved to be a Bible. He scarcely glanced at its contents till the war was over; but as soon as he was allowed to return home, and he was away from the excitement of camp life, he began to read the stolen Bible. Then he determined to read it carefully. As he read, his attention and interest grew, and soon he said to himself, "This book is far better than the Koran," and he was filled with wonder at its contents.

Then he began to wonder at himself; for in the study of his word God revealed himself to the young soldier, and in its light the poor man saw the sinfulness of his own heart and life. He had no human teacher, but earnestly he studied and searched God's word. It taught him to pray, and to whom to pray. It taught him his sinfulness, and pointed him to the Saviour. He came to the Redeemer of whom he read, and was soon rejoicing in him as his own Saviour and Friend.

His family and friends were most indignant when they found that he had "turned christian," and persecuted and insulted him as much as they could. They mobbed him in the streets. They destroyed his carefully kept fruit trees. But nothing could shake his faith and his love to his God.

An English minister heard of his distress, and gave him employment. More and more precious did the Bible become to the persecuted Arabian vine dresser. Prayerfully he studied it, and rapidly did he "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." Three years afterwards he was happily settled as a christian teacher and preacher, in a Syrian village on Mount Lebanon; and among the converts there under his charge were some who had been his bitterest enemies and persecutors, when first he began to serve the Lord.

This is just one proof that "the word of God is quick, and powerful, ... piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart."—Selected.

The Business of the King.

"The King's business requires haste."—1 Sam. 21: 8.

And yet there is no other business about which average christians are so easy. They "must" go their usual round, they "must" write their letters, they "must" pay off their visits and other social claims, they "must" do all that is expected of them, and then after this and that and the other thing is cleared off they will do what they can of the King's business. They no not say "must" about that, unless it is some part of his business which is undertaken at second hand and with more sense of responsibility to one's clergyman than to one's King. Is this being faithful and loyal and single-hearted? If it has been so, O let it be so no more. How can "Jesus only" be our motto when we have not even said "Jesus first?"

The King's business requires haste. It is always pressing, and may never be put off. Much of it has to do with souls that may be in eternity to-morrow, and with opportunities which are gone forever if not used then and there; there is no convenient season for it but to-day. Often it is not done in the spirit of holy haste. . . . Delay in the Lord's errands is next to disobedience, and generally springs out of it or issues in it. "God commanded me to make haste." Let us see to it that we can say, "I made haste, and delayed not to keep thy commandment." . . . We find four rules for doing the King's business in his word. We are to do it—first, heartily; second, diligently; third, faithfully; fourth, speedily. Let us ask him to give us the grace of energy to apply them this day to whatever he indicates as our part of his business, remembering that he said, "I must be about my Father's business."

Especially in that part of it which is between himself and ourselves alone, let us never delay. O, the incalculable blessings that we have already lost by putting off our own dealings with the King! Thus hasting, we shall rise from privilege to privilege, and "go from strength to strength."—F. Ridley Havergal.

Every unkind speech comes from an unkind thought, and every unkind thought is the creation of an unloving mind. One who condemns freely thereby shows that he thinks harshly.—Indiana Farmer.

Silence is not always golden. There are sins of omission as well as commission, and silence is often one of them.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1892.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

OUR PREACHERS.

As a matter of fact, the large majority of our ministers are men in moderate circumstances, and quite a number are poor men. This is more or less true of other denominations, especially those that have the best hold on the masses of the people. It seems also that the large majority of those whom the Lord calls to preach his gospel are from the humbler walks of life, and as a rule are not from wealthy families. Many of our brethren in the ministry may wonder why God in his providence seems to have so ordered things. Some may think this is not the Lord's ordering, but that most of our ministers are in humble circumstances because of the stinginess, or else the poverty, of the churches they are serving. We do not pretend to assert that there is no force in this remark, and we readily assert that many of our ministers deserve a better support than they receive, and that they would receive such more frequently than they do but for the stinginess of some churches and the possible poverty of others. But still we claim that there is force in the reasoning that the Lord would have most of those whom he has called to the work of the ministry to remain in moderate circumstances. When we think of it properly, there are decided advantages accruing to the cause of Christ by this arrangement. Among others we may mention the following:—

1. For the mass of our preachers to be in such circumstances, places them in closer sympathy with the masses of men than they would be otherwise. It would doubtless be an unmitigated misfortune for our preachers as a class to be wealthy. The large majority of the human race are in moderate circumstances, many are poor in this world's goods, and this condition of things may continue to the end of time. Now place a wealthy preacher before an average congregation and let him exhort his hearers to bear up under adversity, to endure the trials and tribulations of life that come from excessive taxation, failure of crops, privation or poverty in their homes, and his words fall almost still-born on the congregation, because they know that because of his circumstances he knows little by personal experience about the trials that he speaks of; but let a preacher rise before them whom they know is one with them in trials, tribulations, suffering, and his words will have much more effect than those of his wealthy fellow laborers in the gospel ministry. When the prophet of old cried, "I am the man that hath seen affliction," he at once makes a strong plea for the attention of those who were passing through affliction. There is indeed a fellowship in suffering. One great reason why the suffering and poor of this world are drawn, as they often are, to Jesus Christ the Saviour, is they know "he was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief," and hence prepared by his own personal experience to sympathize with them, and feel for them, as they pass through the waters of affliction, or as poverty and want invade their homes. There is no use to disguise the fact that the poor, suffering, toiling men and women of this world have many burdens and cares to which the rich are strangers. Hence they are more willing to listen to the man who suffers with them and whose personal experience prepares him more or less to sympathize with them.

2. The possession of riches is fraught with great danger to a man's spirituality. This is true of any man, and hence true of the preacher. We have known men who, while they were in moderate circumstances, were faithful as church members, zealous in church exercises, prayer meetings, &c.; but when they became rich they were very careless about attending church, were seldom seen at the prayer meeting, and exerted but little spiritual influence among the membership of their church, and sometimes seem to drift back to the world. This shows that there is real danger to our spirituality in the possession of riches. Christ knew what he was talking about when he taught the difficulties connected with a rich man entering the kingdom of heaven. Instead of being a cause for regret, then, that so many of our preachers are poor men, it may after all be a cause for thankfulness.

3. It is a well-known fact that the possession of wealth brings additional, and sometimes great care, to the minds of those who have it. We contend that the minister should have a proper support from his church or churches, for otherwise the care on his mind about a temporal support, the education of his children, &c., may greatly hinder him in his work. On the contrary, it is, as a rule, best for him not to be rich, for the care that wealth engenders would be greatly more in his way than some anxiety about temporal things. And anxiety about a temporal support would be apt to drive him to the Lord in prayer, whilst anxiety about how to retain or how to increase his wealth would be apt to have no such effect on him. The life, then, in which the minister is relieved from the constant care which the possession of wealth necessarily brings, is best adapted to his spirituality, activity, and usefulness in the Master's service.

4. And again, the christian's life is, or ought to be, largely one of faith or trust in God; and if the minister is in moderate circumstances he is better qualified to look to the Lord for his daily bread, and to teach his people to walk by faith rather than by sight. One great thing in the way of the constant joy and happiness of even God's people is their failure to regard the plain teaching of Christ as to what they need to eat, drink and wear. God feeds the fowls of the air; shall he not much rather feed his own children? He clothes the lily of the field with a beauty that surpasses Solomon's raiment when seen in all his glory; shall he not then clothe those whom he hath redeemed? If the minister, then, is in a condition to teach by personal example that he is leading a life of trust in God, and is not hoarding the wealth of the world as if there was no God to provide for him, then it follows that he has more influence with the people whom he is serving when he exhorts them not to be too much concerned about the things of this world, but to lay up for themselves treasures in heaven "where moth and rust do not corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal."

These words are written partly to comfort and encourage our poor toiling ministers who are working on faithfully year after year in the Master's vineyard with barely enough to support themselves and their families. They are certainly written with no desire to encourage any of our churches to be covetous, and to withhold from their faithful shepherds what is justly their due. Very few of our churches are so poor but that they could give the pastors who are serving them a proper support. They need not expect faithful and efficient service without it. Pastors, after all, are men, and it is just a matter of impossibility that they should come before their people with bright faces and preach as earnestly and effectively as they otherwise would when they know that home supplies are nearly exhausted and they have not the means of purchasing more. And we again exhort church members to remember that what they pay their pastor is not charity, but simply the discharge of a debt due him for services rendered. Do you think you have done a charitable act when you pay your physician for medical service? No more have you done a charitable act when you pay your pastor for his time and labor among you.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

The Green River Association met at Old Fort at the foot of the Blue Ridge. The Presbyterians and Methodists had each held a conference there during the present year, yet we found the greatest abundance for the support of the Association, and all the citizens of the town anxious to participate in the entertainment of the delegates and visitors to the Association.

Dr. M. M. Landrum has greatly improved in health, and was again elected Moderator of the Association. The former clerk was also re-elected. He is the nominee of the Democratic party of his county for the legislature, and if he is as constant in his efforts to get votes in the day as he is in snoring and keeping his bed fellow awake at night, he will be elected beyond question.

The brethren had an extensive "Centennial program." They do not seem to be very much moved by these centennial services. The truth is, our people want to learn about the work to be done, and not so much about the old brethren who have long ago passed away.

Every Baptist must ever hold dear the lives of the men who did so much to carry the gospel to the heathen, but the recital of the history of these men is certainly not the best way to send the brethren and churches forward in their work.

The Association showed great earnestness in all the departments of our work. Bro. Mills went home with a good contribution to the Orphanage. Bro. Gwaltney found that the brethren had not lost any interest in the Board of Education.

Brother C. B. Justice was in good shape; preached a most excellent sermon, and was, as he usually is, useful and enthusiastic in all the exercises of the Association.

From here I go to the Tar River. This was the first opportunity I had ever had to be at this Association. For extent of territory, the number of churches, and for the intelligence of the body as a whole, excell any other Association in the State. Certainly no gathering of people ever met with a more cordial reception or were better entertained than that extended to us by the people of Louisburg. To those of us who knew the people of the town, this was no surprise. Dick Yann was at his best when he preached the introductory sermon Wednesday night.

Bro. VanDeventer spoke Thursday on the part Baptists have taken in missions for the past hundred years.

Bro. W. A. Montgomery read a paper on the relation of the schools to our Foreign Mission work. The Association requested that this be printed in the Biblical Recorder.

Bro. N. B. Cobb delivered an interesting address on woman's work in missions.

Bro. Mills presented the claims of the Orphanage, and the church and individuals pledged something over $500, to be paid by the first of January.

The subject of State Missions was being discussed when our leaving time arrived. This is the choice work of the Association, and there will be no letting down on this work.

Bro. Woodson was much encouraged by the sympathy and aid he received for the board of disabled and worn out ministers.

Profs. W. B. Royall of Wake Forest, Brewer of Murfreesboro, and Hobgood of Oxford, were present in the interest specially of education.

Leaving Louisburg at 11 a. m., at 11 p. m. our train had reached Waxhaw, on the G. C. & N. R. R., two hundred miles away, where the Union county brethren were holding the Union Association.

Bro. B. C. Ashcraft, the youthful moderator, did his work well. Bro. R. Redfern, the old clerk, was again elected.

I was impressed with the spirit of work which seemed to possess the brethren. Nobody seemed to be called on to talk for "buncombe," but the work of the Association was pressed from the beginning to the close.

Bro. J. B. Richardson of High Point contributed much to the interest of the meeting by the part he took in the discussion of the different objects of the Association.

Bro. Stallings was here in the interest of High Point Female College, but he always helps in any work which the brethren lay upon him. He has made a most thorough and earnest canvass for his school, and richly deserves all the success he may obtain.

Bro. G. W. Harmon and others did me valuable service in aiding me to obtain a good list of subscribers to the Recorder.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....The Tennessee State Convention meets in Knoxville, Oct. 12.

....Rev. J. I. Kendrick, of Charlotte has returned to the Seminary.

....Bro. Smith of Salisbury made us a pleasant call last Saturday.

....Rev. O. L. Stringfield, pastor of the church at Hephzibah, has resigned.

....The church at Marietta, Ga., is erecting a house of worship to cost $12,000.

....Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D., of Baltimore, will aid Dr. Hatcher in a meeting.

....Hon. C. B. Aycock of Goldsboro gave the Recorder office a pleasant call Monday.

....Rev. L. C. Brickhouse of Sandy Bottom, Va., writes us a very interesting letter.

....A church of twenty-three members has been organized in Hanna county, Texas.

....Rev. J. K. Fant of High Point, N. C., is assisting in a meeting at Kernersville, N. C.

....Philadelphia is to have a hospital to be called "The Baptist Hospital in Philadelphia."

....Rev. Baylus Cade of Richmond attended the Tar River Association which met in Louisburg.

....The Atlantic Association convenes at Newbern this week. A very pleasant time is anticipated.

....The Baptist church in Culpepper, Va., was destroyed by fire on the 8th inst. It cost $14,000.

....Rev. W. H. Sowell, of Athens, Texas, has left that place to attend the Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

....Rev. R. T. Bryan has been stationed at Shanghai by the Foreign Mission Board of Richmond, Va.

....Dr. Chas. E. Taylor passed through the city yesterday on his way to the Atlantic Association.

....Rev. Thomas Dixon delivered a lecture in Freemason Street Church, Norfolk, last Tuesday night.

....Rev. R. C. Reed, D. D., has resigned the pastorate of the Second Presbyterian church at Charlotte.

....Prof. Gaines of Richmond College has returned from his trip to Europe, very much improved in health.

....The Sunday-school of the Second church, Richmond, expects to raise $5,000 for the Centennial fund.

....Dr. T. E. Skinner of Raleigh will deliver an address at the Mt. Zion Association on Wednesday, Oct. 19th.

....Rev. C. B. Justice preached the introductory sermon at the meeting of the Green River Association.

....Brethren J. E. White and J. A. McKaughan called to see us on their return from the Tar River Association.

....The great Chicago University opened with three hundred students. One thousand are expected within two weeks.

....Rev. J. L. White, of Asheville, will assist Dr. Cooper in special meetings to be held in November, in Richmond.

....Bro. J. B. Boone attended the Tar River Association and preached for the brethren in Weldon on Sunday.

....The General Association of Kentucky Baptists will meet with the First Baptist church in Covington, Nov. 12, 1892.

....Rev. D. M. Ramsey, the new pastor of the Citadel Square church, Charleston, S. C., is preaching to large congregations.

....It is generally understood that Dr. Pritchard will accept the call to the Tryon Street Baptist church.—Charlotte Observer.

....Dr. J. R. Graves of Memphis, Tenn., is very feeble, and expects to go to the Sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich., for treatment.

....Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, during his pastorate at Atlanta, Ga., received over sixteen hundred people into his church.—Kentucky Baptist.

....Dr. A. G. McManaway reports a fine outlook in his new field at Little Rock, Ark. He began a protracted meeting there on the 6th inst.

....Dr. T. H. Pritchard, of Wilmington, has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of Tryon Street Baptist church, Charlotte, N. C.

....Dr. J. L. M. Curry, of Washington, D. C., was in the city last week in the interest of Shaw University and while here called to see us.

...The church at Southport, N. C., is without a pastor and desires to secure one. For particulars write to Bro. D. T. Watson at that place.

....Rev. J. T. Crocker, a Methodist minister, was run over and killed by the vestibule train near Jamestown on Monday morning of last week.

....Rev. W. R. Gwaltney, of Wake Forest, who has been attending Associations in the western part of the State, called to see us last week.

....Dr. W. D. Powell, of Mexico, will spend the first two weeks of the month speaking in Texas in the interest of the Centennial of Missions.

....Dr. H. A. Tupper of Richmond has returned from his trip in the Rocky Mountains, and is again at his work in the Foreign Mission Rooms.

....One hundred years ago, not more than twenty versions of the Bible were in use, and now there are about 350 versions in whole or in part in use.

....The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary has opened with two hundred students. This is the best opening in the history of the institution.

....The new house of worship at Colesbury, Ky., was dedicated in September. The church was built mainly through the labor of Seminary students.

....Rev. J. S. Hardaway, the greatly beloved pastor of the Baptist church, preached an unusually good sermon to his flock on Sunday morning.—Public Ledger.

....One hundred years ago there were practically no converted heathen, now there are about one million, and five millions of adherents to the christian religion.

....The address of Rev. A. E. Dickinson on "The Baptists and the Bible," has been published in tract form, and can be obtained from Rev. R. H. Pitt, Richmond, Va.

....We learn that a very successful revival meeting was held with Waughtown church, Forsyth county, last week, conducted by Rev. W. H. Wilson of Madison.

....Rev. D. S. Williams having passed several months with his children at Allensville, Ky., has returned to Arkansas. His address is 1,114 W. Water St., Little Rock.

....Rev. W. L. Wright of Richmond preached his first anniversary sermon Sunday. Baptized seventy eight and has only preached sixteen sermons elsewhere.—Baptist.

....Visiting brethren who expect to attend the Columbus Association, which meets in Chadbourn Nov. 4th, will please write me a postal card directed to Chadbourn.—T. J. Cobb.

....Rev. H. W. Battle of Petersburg writes us a very interesting letter. We are always glad to hear from Bro. Battle, who is so much beloved and sadly missed in North Carolina.

....A series of meetings is to be commenced at the First church, Winston, on the 18th inst. Rev. H. A. Brown, the pastor, will be assisted by Rev. O. L. Stringfield of Wakefield.

....The Tar River Association pledged more than ever before for Associational Missions. It also obligated to support two young men on the Board of Education at Wake Forest College.

....Bro. S. W. Carter of Leaksville, N. C., says: "I cannot afford to miss the weekly visits of the dear old Recorder. It seems to me that it grows better as the years pass by. Some of the editorials recently have been worth a year's subscription to the paper."

....Rev. William M. Sorrell, of Carey, N. C., has organized a church at Mount Olivet. A house has been bought and a protracted meeting will be held this week.

....Dr. F. M. Ellis of Baltimore says that the "moral basis of missions" is found (1) in the benevolent nature of God, (2) in the character of the work of Christ, and (3) in the commission of Christ.

....The Baptist church at Deadwood, S. D., was recently destroyed by fire. The building had just been completed, and was valued at $12,000. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

....The sessions of the Baptist Centennial of Missions at Louisville were interesting and well attended. Many able speeches were made. Dr. Pritchard did not speak, being prevented by indisposition.

....William Jewell College, Missouri, opened with two hundred students. All are delighted with the new President, Dr. J. P. Green, and the most prosperous session in the history of the College is expected.

....Brother and Sister C. B. Edwards returned Thursday of last week from Portland, Oregon, where Bro. Edwards attended the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows as grand representative from this State.

....Joseph Ernest Renan, author of the celebrated "Life of Jesus," formerly professor in the College of France, died on Sunday, October, 2d, at Paris, at the age of sixty nine. He was a leading infidel. He knows better now.

....A leading man of Mexico married his own sister. For $30,000 the Pope gave him authority for the marriage. For $16,000, a man in Mexico obtained permission from the church of Rome permission to marry his neice.—W. D. Powell.

....One hundred years ago it required five months for William Carey to make the voyage from England to Calcutta, but it can now be made in two weeks. It was about one year after his departure before the news of his safe arrival reached London.

....Rev. Arthur T. Pierson, D. D., will return to London about November 1st, and will occupy the pulpit of Metropolitan Tabernacle during the winter. The statement that he has been called to the pastorate, either temporarily or permanently, is without foundation.

....Rev. L. G. Broughton, of Winston writes us: "We are having additions every Sunday morning and night, open "church doors" at every service. Our membership has increased about two hundred per cent. since March and still they come in. Our Sunday-school is also increasing.

....Rev. D. P. Bridges of Catawba is now in Louisville, Ky. He desires that his correspondents should address him at that place, 1,116 Eighth St. He writes October 5th: "I am now just beginning work in the Seminary, and am very busy. We have about eight North Carolina boys here now."

....Rev. J. B. Marsh has just paid the church at Piedmont a visit and we think we captured him, as he has captivated us. He preached an able sermon Sunday morning on Missions, and at night preached and administered the Lord's Supper to three hundred members. We hope he will accept our call.—F. M. Allison, Piedmont, S. C., Oct. 4, 1892.

....Rev. Dr. S. S. McBride, of the Baptist church, who resigned a prominent pastorate some months ago, to enter upon an effort for the evangelization of Ireland, has recently received a check of $5,500 from a merchant in New York City, who is a native of the North of Ireland, to aid in carrying forward the good work.—Christian Index.

....How do the women receive the gospel in China? Bro. Durham said at the Three Forks Association "that the men could not reach the women with the gospel." Do the women preach there? who are sent as missionaries. Please explain through the Recorder. This is merely for information on this subject.—J. F. McBride. As a general thing, Chinese women never attend public assemblies. They have to be reached by going to their homes and talking with them, which only a lady could. Our women do not preach. Read Miss Fannie Knight's letter in the Recorder of Oct. 5th.

....Rev. H. A. Brown of Winston, N. C., writes October 6th: "The editorial in this week's paper is on the right line. If theological professors and college presidents are to supply our vacant churches with pastors, wherein do we differ from the plan pursued by our Methodist brethren? The advantage is with them because the bishop is advised by the presiding elders who know something of the field and the man, and with us it often happens that the field and its needs are unknown to those who do the recommending."

....The meetings in the Tabernacle of this city are progressing with greatly increased power, and are being felt in every direction. Sunday last was a great day. A crowded house greeted the evangelist, Bro. Harrison, three times during the day, and his preaching was with great directness, earnestness, tenderness and power. He preaches the word of God. In the evening Dr. Hall baptized twenty one converts. At night the audience more than filled the large church, so that the Sunday school room had to be opened. It was a service of great spiritual power, and about thirty persons professed conversion. Bro. Harrison preached to children during the day. It is not an easy thing to do, but never was it done better. The little ones were charmed by the interesting way in which Scriptural truth was imparted to them. Prof. Thompson continues singing sweetly the message of God's love to man, and is a great assistance in this good work. The church is awakened and laboring earnestly and harmoniously for the salvation of the unsaved. A meeting of much interest was held on Saturday at the A. and M. College, and several students requested prayers.

.... Dr. Oscar Baxter died very suddenly in Currituck county on Sunday, aged seventy-three years. At the time of his death he was the oldest living graduate of Wake Forest College.

.... The Board of Missions was instructed by the Convention at Shelby to use in its State Mission work, during 1891, $16,500, and at the Goldsboro Convention the amount fixed for this work in 1892 was $15,000, with the $3,000 additional brought over as a debt from the past year, making the amount needed this year, $17,000. Up to Oct. 14th, 1891, the Treasurer had received and acknowledged for State Missions, on that year's work, $7,613.80, and for this year's work to date, he has received for State Missions, as his report in this paper shows, $6,765.53. Brethren, please aid us in this work NOW.—C. Durham.

.... The marriage of Miss Eva, daughter of Major and Mrs. W. A. Graham, to Mr. S. W. Huff of Raleigh was one of the most beautiful and impressive scenes I have ever witnessed. The company witnessing it was large but select, and the ceremony by the father of the groom was timely and beautiful. The presents to the fortunate couple were exquisitely beautiful, and of great variety, aggregating in value between $500 and $600. The silver service by the father and mother of the groom was a noble gift to a noble couple, while the gifts of the Electric Railway Company, with which the groom is connected, spoke volumes in his praise. "Flowers be in their pathway."—M. P. Matheney.

....A right lively incident occurred at Mallard Creek Presbyterian church last Sunday. The preacher was humming along on the home stretch, when the congregation was suddenly startled by a man who was seated on a front bench throwing up his hands and shouting "whoa! whoa!" He shouted loud, too, and then he plunged forward on the floor. The disturber was a well known farmer of Mallard Creek and a pillar in the church. It came out afterward that he had dozed off during the sermon and got to dreaming. His dream was that he was driving along in the wagon when his mules got frightened and started to run off. It was at that moment that he threw up his hands and shouted "whoa!" Then he saw the couplin-pin falling out and he lunged forward to catch, and waked to find himself standing on the floor just under the pulpit and a very much surprised preacher glaring down at him. This is a true incident, and Mr. Bryce Cochrane can verify it.—Charlotte News.

From Dr. C. E. Taylor.

Did you ever see a bed of tulips or crocuses bursting into bloom in the early spring? Then you can form some idea as to how Broadway, the great thoroughfare of New York looks in the sunshine these bright October mornings. The whole city is preparing for the great Columbian celebration, and the work of the decorator reveals itself in every direction. Flags of every nation, streams of bunting of every color, hang from windows or float from masts in every direction.

Never have I seen the city so thoroughly clean. The cholera scare was not without its blessing. And never in all my visits to the city have I seen streets more crowded or evidences of prosperity more abundant.

For the first time in my life I have had the pleasure of attending one of the Associations of our Northern brethren. It was the Southern New York which met with the Judson Memorial church. It was evidently a success, but vastly different from the Southern gatherings. The crowd, the enthusiasm, the quickened pulses and warmed hearts of our North Carolina Associations were not there. There was a definite programme which allotted each speaker his time on the floor, and indicated just when he was to speak. The perfect decorum of the meeting was chilling to me; but, on the other hand, perhaps our North Carolina meetings would appear too boisterous and disorderly for the brethren of the New York Associations.

There are in and immediately around New York not less than seventeen old Wake Forest students. Most of them I had the pleasure of meeting in my recent visit. Of many of them I heard most flattering things said by others. Bro. A. C. Dixon is doing a work in Brooklyn which is second to that of none in the great metropolis. Delighted crowds attend upon his ministry and he preaches just as if he was in the midst of a North Carolina protracted meeting. Though one of the most hardest worked men in the city, he seems to thrive under it, weighing now nearly two hundred pounds.

Tom Dixon is drawing great crowds in attendance upon the Sabbath services at Association Hall and probably reaches many who hear no other minister.

Rev. W. J. Sholar was installed last week as pastor of an excellent church in Brooklyn.

Rev. J. M. Davis is in charge of no church, but preaches as often as any pastor in the city. During the week he is in the employ of the Electric Light Company.

I had the pleasure during my two weeks sojourn in the city of meeting quite a number of New York and New Jersey pastors. A strong body of men they are both in numbers and personnel, as they assemble in their conference on Monday mornings at the Baptist Tabernacle.

How wonderful it is to leave New York at nine o'clock at night and be at Wake Forest in time for a late dinner the next day. When we think of it as a reality, it transcends the dreams of the Arabian Nights. But, after all, the best of such a trip as I have taken is always in the return home and in the joy of being at the College again, of meeting my colleagues and of greeting the young men. One hundred and seventy of these are now registered.

I am receiving many requests for the General Catalogue, and many letters from old students expressing the pleasure they have found in its perusal. There are several hundred in our hands yet. Every old student of the College should have one. If many more do not purchase than have already done so, there will be a considerable deficit in the cost of publication.

C. E. TAYLOR

Answer to Bro. Carroll's Question.

Dear Recorder:—The question raised by Bro. R. D. Carroll as to the right of a church to appoint one of its own members to administer the Lord's Supper has been answered, in a measure, already by brethren J. J. Lansdell and Jno. T. Albritton, both recognized as safe men to follow in matters of Baptist church polity; but it may interest Bro. Carroll and the church he mentions to know that neither of these brethren express the faith of all the saints in their views on this subject. In his "System of Theology," Dr. A. H. Strong of Rochester Theological Seminary, says: "The responsibility of seeing that the ordinance is properly administered rests with the church as a body; and the pastor is, in this matter, the proper representative and organ of the church. In cases of extreme exigency, however, as where the church has no pastor and no ordained minister can be secured, it is competent for the church to appoint one from its own number to administer the ordinance." 1 Cor. 2: 23, "Now I praise you that ye remember me in all things, and hold fast the traditions, even as I delivered them to you. For I received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, how that the Lord Jesus, in the night in which he was betrayed, took bread." Here the responsibility of administering the Lord's Supper is laid upon the body of believers. It seems to me that the church has the right to appoint whomsoever it will of its members to administer either baptism or the Lord's Supper. Any other view rests on what is known as sacerdotalism. While the church has the right to appoint an unordained member or minister to administer the ordinances, it should use very great wisdom in the exercise of that right lest the ordinance be brought into disrepute. This leads me to say that the altogether too common custom of the churches in the country to pour out the wine from a black bottle has always seemed to me to be calculated to bring the ordinance into disrepute. The black bottle, like the pack of cards, in itself may not be sinful, but it has immoral associations. So has the decanter and "the little brown jug." For this reason, neither of these should be used on the Lord's table. A silver communion set can be purchased for a few dollars, and will be less suggestive of intemperance if used in the administration of the Lord's Supper than is a black bottle or a decanter. "Let everything be done decently and in order." M. V. McDUFFIE.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 6, 1892.

Statements Replied to by Rev. G. P. Bostick.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Will you kindly permit me to reply to certain statements in the RECORDER of July 20th and July 27th?

1. I desire to reaffirm that Dr. Crawford was in America in the years 1889 and 1890, as his enclosed statement shows, and as various delegates of the S. B. Convention, who went to Fort Worth, can testify. He went at the advice of his physician to avoid an attack of paralysis. Your statements in the RECORDER to the contrary leave the people shut up to a very serious inference against me, since I claimed to be living in his house at the time. Would you kindly insert Dr. C.'s own statement?

2. Your statement to the effect that I drew salary from Jan. 12th to June the first after resigning, is correct, but leaves the people to infer that I drew four months' salary after the connection was dissolved. This is not the case. We sent in our resignation Jan. 12th, but owing to the distance, did not have a reply from the Board for nearly four months. In this time I drew salary as I had always done, and was justly entitled to it. As to the expenses for the home trip, it was asked and granted unconditioned on when I should go home. I have written July 15th, 1892, to the Board agreeing to return this money at once, if they inform me that I have, in their judgment, been unfair. This I am prepared to do, and only await their reply.

3. The impression is also made in your paper that the Board discontinued Dr. C.'s salary April, 1889. This is not the fact, but he did voluntarily cease to take salary after that date, and also returned the amount already paid him from Jan. 1st of that year, $129.75, to the mission, as the Treasurer's books now before me clearly show.

4. In your issue of July 20th, Bro. Bell reviews my tract, laboring hard over my figures, as he previously did over very similar ones in the Western Baptist, insinuating that they are far from truth. Reviewing my tract, he says, "Bro. Bostick uses these figures to suit himself," and of the "excess," he says, "a large part of which exists only in Bro. Bostick's figures—not in fact." To these two points I simply reply that it is exceeding strange that Bro. Bell does not give the correct figures from the Board's books, so that all may compare for themselves with mine and see how far from truth mine are, and how large a part of the excess does really exist in fact. Surely he could give such correct figures, occupying the position he does. Would not such a course most effectively offset once for all wrong statements? Mere assertions, even from Brother Bell, count nothing on this subject with me, and it may be with some others also. Again, he supposes that, according to my statements, missionaries are to depend upon the raven's railroad and steamship companies for outfit and passage, and upon orphan asylums to take care of their children. By no means will this be necessary. In a small tract I could not discuss and make plain everything. But for each one of the five sent out in the year, about which my tract specially treats, I did allow $400 to $600 for outfit and passage, without itemizing. Besides, the $700 is sufficient to send out and sustain for the first year a missionary, if his salary begin when he is appointed and ends only with death or the breaking of the contract. This, I think, should be the case. As to living on the field, I know one missionary in China who takes only $600 from our Board, and this has been found ample to cover every living and working expense, including renting and repairing a house, and also enabled the party to save for the first three years on the field at least $400. I know that said missionary lives comfortably and has been in such good health as not to need even the advice of a physician. Not every one can live so economically. But this is $100 less than what I allowed to each one in China. Besides, it is generally admitted that two or more can live together on an average less than what it costs a single individual to keep house. Last year I drew from the Board for myself and child for everything, including an amount sufficient for house rent, $681.38. I had some special expenses and contributed to various objects and was still able to lay by nearly $150. I know that our Board does provide for some of those resting at home, but I do not know how much. It was only that point about which I said I did not know. As to the "self support" idea run mad, Bro. Bell alone runs it mad, for I know nowhere a missionary who says if the native christians "turn them loose to struggle unaided and alone against the fearful odds that surround them." He simply misrepresents us. But I prefer the "self-support" even run mad to the "subsidy" run mad. Bro. Bell and others make much of the following language from Dr. Yates: "I have discussed these peculiar views with him (Dr. C.) more than once and rejected them as absurd for Central China Mission." But I ask what peculiar views? Certainly not those regarding the evils of the employment of natives to do religious work. Dr. Yates' words immediately preceding the above quotation are:

"I have been much concerned about the effect of the republication of my paper, to be used in connection with Dr. C.'s rules under Article V.," and then says: "There are evils to be abated in which we agree, but he has not made them prominent." Dr. C.'s Article V. is subdivided, and subdivision three reads as follows: "For the rent of of dwelling place or house, for the use of each missionary, a sum, including repairs, not exceeding $150."

It was simply this sum of money that Dr. Y. objected to have his paper quoted as supporting. It was only this one single point to which he objected, so far as anything I have seen published from him proves. This appears more fully from another and larger letter from him in the Foreign Mission Journal of August, 1866, the same paper from which Bro. Bell quotes, but a different letter. In this other and larger letter, Dr. Y. complains that Dr. C. has not laid sufficient emphasis on the evils of the "subsidy plan," and goes on to deplore its baneful effects in the strongest language. It was simply to confirm my statements as to the evils of this system that I quoted Dr. Y. in the body of my tract, and for this purpose alone. His paper is on this single theme, and is sufficiently clear to speak for itself; and moreover I defy Bro. Bell, Dr. Harris or any one else to show that Dr. Y. ever changed his views as to the evils of the employment system—"church business," as he calls it. Bro. Bell quotes Dr. Harris where he is quoting from Dr. Yates' paper as follows: "What then? Dispense with native agents altogether!" "And he (Dr. Y.) answers in italics, 'By no means,'" and Dr. H. says: "He proceeds to discuss the method of testing their consecration and the best plan for assisting those who stand the test." Dr. H. found this a most convenient point at which to stop quoting from that remarkably strong discussion, and Bro. Bell is very careful not to quote beyond the same point. But I desire to give this "best method," as set forth by Dr. Y. It is found in full on page thirty-five of my tract. I quote simply two connected sentences. Dr. Y. says:

"To secure the native ministry that will do the work required, we must reconstruct our whole system of work and commence anew and on the basis of voluntary workers. And to do this effectively, it will be necessary to cut off absolutely and for ever not only all claims of the natives upon the foreign treasury, but all expectation of temporal aid from the missions."

This is the manner in which he "proceeded to discuss" how to test and how to aid the "native helpers." He was pleading against the employment of any with foreign money, whether consecrated or unconsecrated. I do not see how Dr. H. thought he meant only "unconsecrated men," since Dr. Y. said nothing of the kind, but the exact opposite. "Cut off absolutely and for ever all expectation of temporal aid from the missions." Nor is it sufficient to say that Dr. Y. was laboring to correct only the evils of other denominations, while the Baptists were free from them. He could not pursue his own work in the way he desired, as he himself says, "while this church business is dominating everything connected with mission work." See his longer letter in the F. M. Journal, August, 1866. The Baptists were engaged in this "church business" then, and are still in it. One of our Southern Baptist missions in China reports one employed native to every twenty-six and a half of the reported membership. See statistical table in Foreign Mission Board's report in Minutes S. B. Conv., 1873. Is it not just as bad or worse for Baptists to engage in it, as for others? Now, it does seem to me not exactly the fair thing to quote Doctor Yates against himself, as is certainly being done, while others are accused of dishonesty because they give his paper in full to show what he thought of certain evils in mission methods.

With this article I hope I may be permitted to retire from further discussion of these matters in the papers. I felt that for me to say this much was due to all concerned.

Praying the blessings of God upon all those who serve him in sincerity and truth,

I remain yours in the Lord,

G. P. BOSTICK, P. O. Chefoo.

Tung Chow, China, Sept. 8, 1892.

STATEMENT BY DR. T. P. CRAWFORD.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—In the summer of 1889 I went to America to prevent the trouble with which you have been afflicted and at my own charges. I remained among my relatives in Texas more than ten months, but did not go further east. While in Texas, I attended the State Convention at Houston in October, 1889, and the Southern Baptist Convention at Fort Worth in May, 1890, but I took no part in that meeting. A few days after its adjournment I set out for China, arriving at my home in Tung Chow early in July, where I first saw Bro. Bostick. I have since been in good health.

T. P. CRAWFORD.

DR. CRAWFORD TO REV. G. P. BOSTICK.

Dear Bro. Bostick:—In your note yesterday you asked me the following question:

"Did you ever use Dr. Yates' article now republished in my tract to support your scheme for remedying "the subsidy" and other evils in our mission work? I mean the scheme you presented to our Board and Convention in 1885-6, fixing a limit to the amount of money to be appropriated to the use of each missionary per annum, or found in your printed schedule now lying before me."

To this question I unhesitatingly reply, that I never used Dr. Yates' article for any such purpose, his suspicions and the assertions of Dr. Harris and Dr. Bell to the contrary notwithstanding. I used it to show the "evils," but not the remedy, for it has nothing on the latter point. On my return to China I asked him what reasons he had for entertaining the suspicions he had expressed in letters published in the BIBLICAL RECORDER and in the Foreign Mission Journal, but he gave none of a satisfactory kind. Dr. Yates does not say that I so used his article, but, "if" I did, &c. Yet Dr. Harris seized upon Dr. Yates' words in these letters and by making skillful turns, incomplete quotations, and various remarks of his own, fixed up a certain composition which he employed to overthrow the influence of my mission lectures among the churches. And now Dr. Bell comes forward and employing these same old letters with Dr. Harris' production and various remarks of his own, attempts to destroy the influence of Dr. Yates' article upon the churches as it goes forth in your tract. Vain attempts! Dr. Yates and myself agreed perfectly as to the "evils" in our mission work, but not as to the remedy. We tried hard to come together on this point but could not—a matter of regret to us both. He formulated no remedy of his own but opposed the practical remedy which I attempted, in my own name alone, to present for the consideration of the denomination. I do not regret its failure as God is revealing the true remedy for the evils which afflict our mission efforts at home and abroad as well as the scriptural method of evangelizing the world to Christ.

Yours in the Lord,

T. P. CRAWFORD.

Tung Chow, Sept. 2d, 1892.

ITEMS FROM BRO. BOSTICK.

All the Pingtu friends were in Tung Chow with us recently. Brethren League and Sears and their wives and our own Miss Fannie Knight. This is her first visit to us for two years. She looks well and happy, though she has been the only foreigner in Pingtu for much of these two years. This is our hot and rainy season, so that we can do but little country work. We eleven Southern Baptist missionaries and the two Swedish Baptist brethren who are here now, met daily for one week, for prayer and Bible study. The burden of our prayers was mainly for the gift of the Holy Spirit in our own hearts and to prepare Chinese hearts for the reception of God's truth as we present it. These were exceedingly precious meetings. Our friends at home can scarcely imagine how much we miss such special meetings as are constantly occurring with them at home. Certainly we appreciate such seasons as this; and we all believe that we are greatly helped by these few days for the special work of the fall and winter.

I say amen to your recent article about the heathen "not being hungry for the gospel." To give fourth the idea that they are generally so is seriously wrong. Far better that the missionary and those who support him know fully that it is a long tedious work. Let us give them the gospel, because Christ commands us to do so, not because we are going to make big reports of large ingatherings. But all around us are growing signs of friendliness, and some occasionally do want the gospel.

My wife has been quite ill, but is much improved now.

This has been my best summer as to physical health that I have had for ten years, for which I greatly thank God.

Our rainy season has not been so long this summer as I have formerly seen it, nor the weather so hot. Hence there is likely to be less sickness among both natives and foreigners.

Soon we all hope to be fully into our country work for the fall and winter.

Bro. King will soon go to Hwanghien and the Pingtu friends will all return.

Will our friends pray earnestly for the Spirit of God to be poured out graciously upon us and our work? and may the same Spirit guide all of us into just the path in which he would have us walk.

Yours in the work of the Lord,

G. P. BOSTICK.

Tung Chow, China, Sept. 5, 1892.

See advertisement in this issue of position wanted as teacher in private family or academy, by a graduate of Roanoke Baptist Female College. The lady is qualified to teach any branch.

Letter from Bro. R. H. Smith.

The following letter was sent by the Clerk of the Swain or Cherokee Indian Association to one of the Secretaries of the Baptist State Convention, accompanied with a report of the statistics of the three Indian churches which compose this Association. The report shows a membership of eighty-two in the Association. The writer, we are informed, is a son of N. J. Smith, Chief of the Cherokees in North Carolina.

Dear Brother:—It is a deplorable fact that the above report meagerly indicates as the condition of our church work in this country. We have had many obstacles to contend with, even the greatest in the form of those sent here to teach and instruct our people in the way of a superior civilization—christianity.

The Western (N. C.) Convention sent us a missionary, Rev. S. C. Owen, two years ago; he labored with us a year, and notwithstanding the decided opposition referred to, he did much good—no one may know the evil he averted. But as to the "opposition," you would be surprised to know it is by those who have had charge of our Government Indian Training School for the last eight years. To be plain, it has been the policy of one H. W. Spray in the control and management of said school—instead of the christian fellowship and co-operation our Cherokee brethren naturally expected and needed, the said Spray gave them the cold hand of indifference, and shut himself up in a petit tyrannical social despotism in their schools. As a result, our churches have gone down, our preachers became discouraged, and, later through his desperate efforts to continue his hold on our school interests, in his efforts to create and hold a following that he may have somewhat of excuse to cover up his unwarranted course, our people have been arrayed in the most partisan and wicked factions and discussions. The Government has sent a Mr. Andrew Speemer of Milford, N. Y., to take control of this school and all our tribal affairs, but said Spray still contends and refuses to give possession of the government buildings and get away. Our schools have been blocked since June 30 last by this man, and there is not much prospect of any immediate satisfactory settlement.

Therefore, it is but a small report I have to make. Our mission work has become of no effect. Our people have become intensely impatient; they pine for their peace of home, the protection of their liberties—for relief, for relief!

Pardon this deviation from a regular report. Yours fraternally,

R. H. SMITH.

Clayton Meeting, No. 2.

Two protracted meetings in one year, and still another wanted, makes some people complain and others rejoice. Clayton's second meeting with the Baptist church began on the second Sunday in August and closed on the following Lord's day, resulting in the addition of twenty-two to the membership of the church. I could not secure any ministerial aid in this meeting; but a live church and the presence of the Lord made the work go on delightfully from the beginning to the close. It has been a pleasure to serve this church so far, and I think she will give some other pastor a better time and more pleasure than I have enjoyed, or, it may be that increase of pleasure is in reserve for the present pastor.

Rev. R. T. Vann was with us last spring and we had nine additions at the close of his meeting, and the influence left behind has been a lasting blessing—working out good ever since. We often think of his short stay and earnest work for the Lord and wish the pleasure and profit could be repeated. From Clayton we go to

PRINCETON.

This little collection of God's people are still struggling for a house of worship. We held a meeting from the third to the fourth Sunday in August, but with the same disadvantages as heretofore. We came in collision with the "Free Wills" and lacked other helpful influences to success. But the day is coming for the Missionary Baptists at Princeton, and this predicted day is not many years in the future. Rev. F. H. Poston, of Smithfield, preached some very good sermons and made a place for himself in the affection of some of God's people by his faithful use of the truth. Here we are at

SELMA.

The meeting here continued nearly three weeks and closed Oct. 2d, resulting in the addition of twenty-four to the fellowship of the church. Twenty-one by baptism and three by restoration and letter. Four had been received before the meeting, making twenty-eight additions to the church during this year. This was the most precious meeting of my life, because of the revival of God's people after a long season of almost spiritual death. Rev. Worley Creech, of Hare's Store, aided me in the meeting, and worked his way into the affection of everybody. He is a curiosity, of the spiritual sort, full of faith, good works and original sayings. I never met a more pious and earnest worker for the Lord. He conceals Creech and makes his Lord's love and goodness prominent in everything he does—in the church and out of it. I close with a heart full of gratitude to God for his blessings upon my work "in His name."

O. C. HORTON.

Selma, Oct. 4th, 1892.

West Chowan Association.

The West Chowan Association will hold its next session with the church at Mt. Carmel, Northampton county, N. C., commencing Oct. 25th, 1892. Visitors and delegates coming by train and desiring conveyances, will please notify J. D. Pruden, Seaboard, N. C. H. T. WILLIAMS.

Seaboard, Oct. 10, 1892.

Church Organized.

Dear Recorder:—By request, I will say that on Tuesday, Sept. 27th, a party consisting of Revs. B. Leggett and D. Cole, and some other Bertie Baptists, took shipping by a large cypress canoe on the lordly old Roanoke with its eight feet of high water, and just went gliding with the current for Williamston, N. C.

From that point we went by mule carts a few miles into the country to a mission station occupied by Rev. B. Leggett, amid those people will all their "isms," for the purpose of organizing a Missionary Baptist church. We found a goodly number of people of many different creeds awaiting our arrival. Bro. Leggett was soon chosen chairman, and your humble scribe clerk.

Very soon we were settled down for business, and a short while afterwards we had passed through a very harmonious conference, and one more Baptist church organized with eight members, all grown people, which was the result of a recent meeting of days held by Bro. Leggett. Also one deacon chosen and set apart to that great work. Not having time for preaching, the Lord's Supper was celebrated, and we dispersed for dinner.

After being shaken by our mule carts we found ourselves stemming the tide of the river. But how different from the trip in the morning! We were not "gliding" very swiftly—only about two and a half knots per hour. However, our steersman who tips the scales at two hundred, had a sufficient quantity of Martin county beef aboard to enable him to do his duty, and quite nobly did he do it, and at 9 o'clock we found ourselves at "home, sweet home."

How suggestive of Peter's sins, and others also, was our downward trip—nothing to do but turn loose and drift, and when once started, how easy a matter to drift!

For some time I have had a desire to visit that section, and we found that from Williamston to Jamesville, a distance of about thirteen miles, and from Williamston to Washington, a distance of twenty-five miles, there was no Baptist church of missionary faith.

Bro. Leggett preached for them last year at his own expenses, but I learn that he is allowed $50 for his services this year, and to my mind he is doing a greater work over there among those people than some men of more ability might do.

The deacon who was ordained was a former Methodist, but left that church of his own accord some months since. A good man I think.

May the Lord bless and protect the infant church is the prayer of

D. E. MODLIN

Windsor, N. C., Oct. 1, 1892.

SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN is a sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, consumption, and all throat and lung troubles.

"The Story of Pot. Hooks."

Rev. C. A. Jenkens again comes before the public in the role of author, but this time not as an exponent of Baptist doctrines, but as a humorist. He gives to the world the story of Pot. Hooks. "Pot.," or, not to be so familiar, Mr. Hooks sees the world from many sides, and especially from the funny side, and in his history he gives us the benefit of his experience.

It will be a surprise to many, who are acquainted with the author as the eloquent preacher, the gifted teacher, and the well-known author of "Baptist Doctrines," to know what a fund of genuine humor is in his nature. No one can read "Pot. Hooks" and not perceive that the writer is a born humorist. But the fun of the book has always beneath it a serious purpose. The aim of the writer in the midst of all his fun is the exposure of frauds; frauds in religion; in medicine; in law; in business; in society; in education; frauds clerical, medical, legal, mercantile, matrimonial, etc. Our author is their sworn enemy; and a sham is held up by him to the world as a laughing stock.

Perhaps, it would be well to caution the reader, that in attacking the counterfeit the author had no desire to wound the genuine. For instance, he is a friend and advocate of protracted meetings, but his book will show that he has no respect for the clap-trap employed by some that conduct them. There is danger that the careless reader would conclude that all revival meetings are made light of. The book is well written; natural, and thoroughly enjoyable. It has not a tiresome page in it. There is nothing bombastic about it. The humor varies from the softest and most delicate shades to the most exaggerated drollery. I will be mistaken in my estimate of it if it is not ranked high as a book of humor. "Mark Twain" might covet the honor of being the author of some of its chapters.

The make up of the book is excellent. It is a volume of about 400 pages, well bound in cloth, of clear, good type, on excellent paper. It is also well furnished with laughable illustrations. It is published by C. R. Barnes & Co., of St. Louis, and is sold only on subscription.

JNO. S. HARDAWAY.

Western Union Eastern Association.

The Western Union of the Eastern Association will meet with the church at Boykin's Chapel, Sampson county, N. C., on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October.

TOPICS.

1. Home Missions—the relation of the Home to the State Board. Rev. C. G. Wells.
2. What is our special duty to the Indian and the Negro? Rev. J. L. Stewart.
3. The Cuban Mission. Rev. C. F. Hopper.

Sermons—Friday, 11 a. m., Rev. W. L. Bilbro; Saturday, 11 a. m., Rev. R. E. Peele; Sunday, 11 a. m., Rev. O. P. Meeks.

C. E. DANIEL, Clerk.

Evangelistic.

Rev. N. B. Randall, D. D., 31 Ely Ave., Long Island City, N. Y., and Prof. G. Tabor Thompson, singer, 318 West 44th street, New York City, will labor together, or singly, as evangelists. Both have had much experience and are endorsed by those with whom they have labored.

Dr. Randall has for years been a pastor in prominent Baptist churches, and Professor Thompson has had wide experience as composer and leader of sacred song, and is a fine soloist.

Pastors or churches, intending to hold special meetings, will do well to write to them.

South Fork Association.

This body will hold its regular session (Oct. 20—23) with the church at Olivet, six miles south of Catawba Station on the Western N. C Railroad, at which point delegates and visitors will be met, if they will send their names and time of arrival to I. A. Litten, Shawnee, N. C.

It is unnecessary to give any reasons for going to Olivet; it is sufficient, that there are good and sufficient reasons, and that the Olivet church cordially accepts it.

On behalf of the Exec. Committee,

J. S. BRIDGES, Chairman.

A Great Blessing.

What a great blessing the Baptists of this nation enjoy in having a National Bible Society from which to draw a full supply of Bibles. For the Bible Department of the American Baptist Publication Society is nothing more nor less than a Bible Society. This is the only source from which Baptists, as a denomination, can get supplies of Bibles for the necessary colportage work in all the States. Is it necessary? Within four months appeals came from twenty-four sources of the States of the South and West for Bibles, where Sunday-schools and individuals were without them. The American Baptist Publication Society can furnish these only as it is enabled to do so by the friends of the Bible sending it funds. Send contributions from your Sunday-schools and churches to the Bible Secretary, 1420 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Divine Touch.

I saw a sign-painter take a dish full of gold dust and pour it over the board upon which he was working; but when he turned it over, it nearly all seemed to slide off. But no! not all; the lines where his brush had been drawn a few moments before, with the adhesive preparation, these caught the glittering particles, and held them firm. And so, thought I, must the teachers of God now do. Pour the golden sand of the gospel over the whole congregation, and if it seems to slide off, and get no hold upon their hearts, let us know that many a one who has been touched with the preparing grace of the Holy Spirit will catch and hold fast the word of life, and so the word shall not return to God void.—Dr. A. J. Gordon.

When the hair begins to come out in combing, it shows a weakness of the scalp that calls for immediate attention. The best preparation to arrest further loss of hair and restore the scalp to a healthy condition is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING

October.

Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Roberson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourne, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

Ask your doctor what happens to cod-liver oil when it gets inside of you.

He will say it is shaken and broken up into tiny drops, becomes an emulsion; there are other changes, but this is the first.

He will tell you also that it is economy to take the oil broken up, as it is in Scott's Emulsion, rather than burden yourself with this work. You skip the taste too.

Let us send you an interesting book on CAREFUL LIVING; free.

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, 132 South 5th Avenue, New York.
Your druggist keeps Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil—all druggists everywhere do. $1.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

THE LEADING

Dry Goods and Carpet House

—OF—

North Carolina.

Mail Order Department.

A complete Mail Order Department, in which experienced help only is used. All mail orders receive the most intelligent attention.

Dress Goods,

Wraps, Blankets, Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Underwear, &c., &c

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

☞ Cash with order, we will deliver goods free (except Furniture and Crockery), to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

Carpets, Curtains and Furniture.

Everything in Carpets, Curtains and Furniture. Are prepared to furnish, complete, hotels or residences. Correspondence solicited.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,

123 and 125 Fayetteville Street.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

STOP AT THE

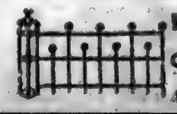
Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.



IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
A. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.
For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.
MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.
W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS.

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.
MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
Dated May 31, 1892.

GOING SOUTH.	No 23. Daily.	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41. Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 36 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 30 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

GOING NORTH.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	2 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		29 0 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡3 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4.00 p m, Halifax 4.23 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.59 p m Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.10 a m, Greenville 8.25 a m. Arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.25 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives A & R Junction 8.40 a m; returning leaves A & R Junction 7.10 p m, arrives Washington 8.45 p m Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.03 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m. 5 20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.00 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.30 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 10 40 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7 35 p m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 5.15 p m, arrives Nashville 5.55 p m, Spring Hope 6.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.20 p m, and 11 15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect August 28, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 08 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 44 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 10 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m	*7 45 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m	11 30 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 20 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	6 07 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	9 37 a m	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*7 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	10 50 p m	11 35 p m
Ar Charlotte	3 10 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	7 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 39 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 40 a m	*12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 09 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m	*8 45 a m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m	12 30 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.55 a m; arrive at Oxford 8.08 a m, Henderson 9.20 a m, Durham 9.30 a m, Raleigh 10.40 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.20 a m.

Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Richmond and Raleigh on above train.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Keysville 2 35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6:00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3:15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta.

On trains 9 and 12 Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars between Raleigh and Asheville.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1892.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 58 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 43 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.

Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.

Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 3:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.

Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 3:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.

JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 1044½ Whitehall St.

Earnest Appeal from Bro. Newton.

LAGOS, WEST AFRICA, July 14, 1892.

Dear Dr. Tupper:—In enclosing my estimate I will say that we are in great need of more missionaries for Africa. Can the Board not send us a few good men. I fear there is a mistaken idea in regard to this field among the people, if not in the mind of the Board. They seem to think it will not pay to cultivate Africa. It is a mistake. This field will yield as satisfactory results as any, if you push the work. If you slacken your hand I cannot say what the result may be. I hope you will not try the experiment, for it will be a costly one. We now have good mission houses in four of the leading cities. We have a missionary in each of them, and each missionary has a nucleus about him for good work in the future. No society need begin mission work in Africa that is not willing to run fifty years, results or no results. We have not run so long in this Yoruba section. No mission has spent so little and lost so few lives that has any more to show for its work than ours. The Baptist mission never had a better outlook than it has to-day. Somebody has said it has made progress backwards. It is all a mistake. There was never a time in the history of Baptist missions in Yoruba when there were more Baptists and when Baptists were doing more work than now. There never was a year when more were baptized than were last year. Baptists never gave more money in Yoruba than they gave last year. Much that has been done heretofore has been done by outsiders, but now we may stand or fall according to our ability. They have left us to sink or swim. By the help of our Lord we will swim and are swimming. Our people show a great determination to push on and do something, and they will do a great work yet. We only need the sympathy, prayers and support of the Board and the brethren, together with the promised blessings of God, and we shall yet see a harvest that will bring joy to our hearts and blessings to thousands of souls. Send us more missionaries.

We have recently baptized nine in Lagos. Among those baptized are some promising boys who have had good opportunities in a government school. Our church is more alive than I have before seen it. Our congregations are larger. More heathen attend. Mrs. Newton and Alberta are having interesting weekly meetings with the women.

The Ijebu war has closed. The roads are open. The king of Ilorin has returned the Ibadan prisoners and is negotiating for peace. This means the breaking up of the Ibadan and Ilorin camps, and open roads to the Niger, and we need more missionaries. —C. C. Newton, in Foreign Mission Journal.

God as a Sun.

The Psalmist says: "The Lord is a sun." The sun is needful to give heat and light. There are many days in the winter when the cold is very intense—so much so that there is a great deal of suffering in various ways. Why? Because the sun is at a greater distance from us in the winter than it is in the summer. But supposing that the sun should be blotted out. All life would soon perish. The whole year would be a perpetual winter. In the polar seas there are vast icebergs the year around, and there is an eternal chill in all that region. But in other portions of the world where the rays of the sun fall more or less directly there is plenty of warmth. The very heat with which we are warmed at our firesides is nothing more nor less than the heat of the sun in another form. The sun is a marvelous heat producer, in many different ways and forms.

And so it is with regard to the Lord God, our great spiritual Sun. He is the great moral and spiritual heat producer of all the world. If it were not for the warmth which comes to us from the glowing heart of God our hearts would be under the bonds of a perpetual frost and an eternal chill. If we have any experience of true spiritual warmth it is because the spiritual beams of God, the Sun, have found entrance into our souls through Christ, the Light and the Son of God.

And our hearts are warm just in proportion to the amount of spiritual heat which has been kindled in us, and fanned and fed here by the Lord God through the ministry of the Holy Spirit. If our hearts have been once aflame by the glow of God's great love and by the ardor of his blessed life, but now have become considerably cold, it is because the Sun of Righteousness is, practically, at too great a distance from us. We have let winter get into our hearts, and there is spiritual frost there, if not ice itself. And our hearts are sure to keep cold just as long as we keep at a long distance from Christ.

It matters not though he be a great and burning Sun, and capable of sending a mighty heat into our hearts; yet if we obstruct the rays of heat which he would throw into our souls, by obstacles of our own choosing and making, we have no right to expect to be warm with his love and glowing with his grace. It is an easy thing to throw water on a fire and put it out. It is a great deal easier than it is to start a fire where the materials have been drenched with water. If we be cold it is because we have extinguished the warmth of God which was in our hearts.—Rev. C. H. Wetherbee, in Christian Inquirer.

Habits of Prayer.

When a pump is frequently used, but little pains are necessary to have water; the water pours out at the first stroke, because it is high. But if the pump has not been used for a very long time the water gets very low, and the water comes only after great effort. It is so in prayer—if we are constant in prayer, every little circumstance awakens the disposition to pray, and desires and words are always ready; but if we neglect prayer, it is difficult for us to pray, for the water in the well gets low.—Anonymous.

Bible Reading.

In all our homes are scattered extracts from the Bible, bound in attractive forms and labelled with fanciful names. From these tiny volumes we snatch a scrumb for our daily living, meanwhile admiring the tiny landscape or delicately painted flower which encircles our text, which we often forget as soon as read.

The word of God is called the sword of the spirit. But, perhaps, these verses, read in this manner, are not weapons keen enough to carve our way through the snares laid by the wicked one.

In a certain minister's family it was the custom to repeat verses of Scripture at the evening family worship, and the children were instructed to learn a new verse every day. The youngest of the family brought as his offering one night, "Ever raven after his kind." He was indulgently smiled upon because it was a new verse. I am afraid that some of our texts have no more to do with our daily life than this example. They will only be like the counted beads in a rosary if they do not help to bear fruit in renewed courage and patience, or lead us to God, who alone can give us spiritual life.

There is another way of reading the Bible. It is not new, but one which has been practiced by every devoted follower of Christ who has been a power in the world. There is one great objection to it. It will take time. The housewife will have to pause in her cares, the newspaper will have to wait. Many things will bar the way, but they can be put aside.

Enter into your closet, with a prayer for enlightenment, study the Bible, and meditate upon its precepts. Take the verses which you think were meant for the Ephesians and Colossians, for yourself. Read as if you were the only person to whom all those wonderful messages were given.

Read what Peter has to say to you as if you were one of the early christians; and the words of our Lord himself, as though you were the only soul on this earth who needed pardon and love. This way of reading will draw you nearer to him who is ready to perform all the wonderful promises in which you delight, if they are claimed in faith.—Mrs. E. M. Albee, in the Watchman.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Like Christ.

He who would be most like Christ must pay the cost. If a furnace is needed to purify and brighten you, do not shirk the furnace. Patience is an admirable grace, but it is not oftenest worn by those who walk on the sunny side of the street in silver slippers. It is usually the products of head winds and hard fights; of crosses carried and of steep hills climbed on the road to heaven. "The trial of your faith worketh patience." So it is with all the noblest traits of a robust, healthy and symmetrical character. No man is rocked into godliness in a hammock. Christ offers you no free ride to heaven in a cushioned parlor car. John Bunyan sent his sturdy "Pilgrim" to the "celestial city" on foot, and some pretty rough walking and hard conflicts did he encounter before the pearly portals welcomed him to the streets of flashing gold. His piety was self-denying, stalwart and uncompromising; he relished even the stiff severities of duty, and was never coddled with confectioneries. Self-indulgence is the besetting sin of the times; but if you long to be a strong, athletic christian, you must count the cost. It will cost you the cutting up of old favorite sins by the roots, and the cutting loose from entangling alliances, and some sharp set-tos with the temper; it will cost you the submitting of your will to the will of Christ.—T. L. Cuyler.

The unit of the christian church is the converted soul. Innumerable attempts have been made to "mass men in the christian fold on the basis of some human regulation or opinion without regard to a distinct individual experience."

But the doctrine of the New Testament which the Reformation emphasized, that "men must be converted into the church" has won its way among Protestants, until the dogmas of baptismal regeneration and of infant baptism are the principal vestiges of the Romish theory. Many Protestant churches, to be sure, are remanding infant baptism to "innocuous desuetude," but a church practising infant baptism practically says that there is another basis of church membership than conversion. It is replied to this that baptized infants are not members of the church, but it will be time enough to consider that reply when Pedobaptists agree upon the status of baptized infants in regard to the church, a matter upon which they are hopelessly divided.—Watchman.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for October:—Colored People.

"Open thy mouth * * * and plead the cause of the poor and needy." Missionaries, 60. Institutes held for education of ministers and deacons. No more important mission field for Southern Baptists. The Home Board needs money to employ colored missionaries and help to educate ministerial students.

Study Topics.—Not "what shall we do with, but for, the negro?" The best christians, the best citizens. Help that help others to help themselves, the best help. Participation of the colored people in the Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Report of the Womans' Central Committee for Quarter Ending August 31, 1892.

Anson Association—Lilesville, $4.50.

Atlantic Association—Goldsboro, $9.42; Pollocksville, 4 80.

Beulah Association—Yanceyville, $13.50; Greensboro, 5.00; Sunbeams, Reidsville, 2.95.

Cape Fear Association—Cedar Creek, $3.03.

Central Association—First ch., Raleigh, $35.53; Sunbeams, Rolesville, 1.50; Youngsville, 6.00; Wake Cross Roads, 1.44; Sunbeams, New Hope, 3 80; Sunbeams, Firstch, Raleigh, 3.97; Wake Forest, 27.30.

Chowan Association—Sunbeams, Reynoldson, $7.60; Aulander, 40 00; Buckhorn, 5.20.

West Chowan Association—Elim, $9.22; Mt. Tabor, 30 80.

Eastern Association—Box for orphans, First ch., Wilmington, 3.50; Siloam, 5.00; Sunbeams, First ch, Wilmington, 19 00; Mt. Olive, 4.40; Sunbeams, Mt. Olive, 55c.; Barlow's Chapel, 8.00; First ch., Wilmington, 28.75.

Flat River Association—Oxford, $24.73; Flat River Union, 3.90; Henderson, 11.45.

Liberty Association—Lexington, $13 45.

Mt. Zion Association—Mt. Pisgah, $3.00; Box for orphans, Berea, 13.00; First church, Durham, 45.00; Berea, 1.52.

Raleigh Association—Green Level, $5 00; Garners, 3.00; Cary, 9.00; Sunbeams, Cary, 2.50; Morrisville, 5.35; Holly Springs, 6.10; Inwood, 4.00; Tabernacle, 19.25.

Robeson Association—Cedar Grove, $1.77; Ten Mile, 1.80; Raft Swamp, 10.27; Long Branch, 3.65; Saddle Tree, 13.42; Lumberton, 18 50; Cen. Fund, Back Swamp, 6.31; Sunbeams, Lumberton, 7.50.

Richmond Association—Spring Hill, $6.50; Rockingham, 8.00.

Tar River Association—Warren Plains, $3 06; Sunbeams, Cedar Rock, 1.43; Poplar Springs, 6.40; Red Bud, 2.00.

Yadkin Association—Sunbeams, Enon, 16.00.

Western Convention—Berea, $1.50; Mt. Airy, 5.00.

DIVIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Foreign Missions	$341.31
Home Missions	110.93
State Missions	60.92
Orphanage	47.75
Box for Home Missionary	2.50
Aged minister's fund	1.21
Education	50
Expense fund	40
Total	$565.52

Decrease from last report, $58.45. Societies reporting, 59; decrease from last report, 16. New societies, 5.

Letters written, 559; letter circulars sent out, 800; leaflets, 3,584; mission cards, 1,500; chapel cards (by request), 618; sample chapel cards, 800; "Missionary Talks," 3,600; Centennial leaflets, 10,000.

MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Pres. C. C.
MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Cor. Sec. C. C.

Words of Cheer.

The following letter, says the Foreign Mission Journal, comes to us from the wife of one of the missionaries of our Home Board, and has brought such cheer to our own heart, amid the many anxieties that press upon us just now, that we cannot refrain from letting others enjoy it as we did. May her earnest prayer that "others who read the Journal will do likewise," be abundantly answered.

Enclosed find $10, $5 for the Chapel Fund from W. W. of my Sunbeam Band, the other from myself. I had intended it for the same purpose, but I have just read the first article in the Foreign Mission Journal, and the present wants of the Board are so great that you can use it as you deem best. I will go to work on another card. When I read that article my heart was filled with sadness and I knelt and asked God what he would have me do. I had sent my filled card to the Home Board about a month ago. As it had been contributing to Mr. E.'s support since we have been here, I felt my first allegiance was to it, but I was none the less loyal to the Foreign Board. My heart ever goes out in deep sympathy for those noble men of God, upon whom the Southern Baptist Convention has placed such a heavy burden, and who now must feel almost appalled as they look on, not only an empty treasury, but a heavy debt, and so many noble missionaries looking to them for a support. Surely our Southern Zion are robbing God, have robbed him for years, and for this reason he is sending poverty upon us, I had almost written "a curse." Have they forgotten that God is not a beggar, and that if they will not give to him that which belongs to him he will take it from them. I fully believe this is why this has been so disastrous a year. Oh, that our people would unstop their ears and listen to the urgent appeals of our Boards. Will our Centennial year be a failure, and will the Baptists allow themselves to be a laughing stock for other denominations for having boasted of the honor of sending out the first foreign missionary, and then proving themselves so unworthy of their great leader by being omissionary in practice! God forbid!

I have a very little fund I have laid aside, as I usually do for Christmas, but I gladly finish my card with it. I send it with an earnest prayer that others who read the Journal will do likewise.

Please pardon my having written at such length, but my heart is so full my pen could not stop.

Praying God to open the hearts and the purses of the people, I am,

Sincerely yours, ——.

A Call to Protestants.

The Roman Catholic church is making strenuous efforts in the United States to win the negro race, and with skillful methods, as well as no inconsiderable success. Thus an annual collection is called for; and on Jan. 1st, 1891, twenty one churches were set apart for the use of colored Catholics, with thirty-four priests in charge. During 1890, baptism was administered to 4,883 children and 704 adults. From the same report we learn that in 115 schools and 8 280 children were in attendance. Over twenty different sisterhoods are in charge of these schools, of which two are composed of colored women—the Oblates of Baltimore, and the Holy Family Sisters of New Orleans. There are, moreover, a foundling asylum, six orphanages, three industrial schools, a guild for servant girls, an academy, and a home for the aged. The Catholic negroes are put at 152,692.—Missionary Review.

A fine head of hair is an indispensable element of beauty. Ayer's Hair Vigor maintains youthful freshness and luxuriance, restores to faded and gray hair its original color, prevents baldness, removes dandruff, and cures scalp diseases. It gives perfect satisfaction.

SKINS ON FIRE

With agonizing Eczemas and other Itching, Burning, Bleeding, Scaly, Blotchy, and Pimply Skin and Scalp Diseases are instantly relieved and speedily cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure,

CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies. This is strong language, but every word is true, as proven by thousands of grateful testimonials. CUTICURA REMEDIES are, beyond all doubt, the greatest Skin Cures, Blood Purifiers, and Humor Remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped, and oily skin cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

WEAK, PAINFUL KIDNEYS, With their weary, dull, aching, lifeless, all-gone sensation, relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing strengthening plaster. 25 cents.

Peace Institute,

RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.

JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.) Principal.

Please mention this paper.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. (LIMITED), CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials, Prices and Terms Free.

Please mention this paper.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs, RALEIGH, N. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect October 1, 1892.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily.	No. 4. Daily.	No. 12. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	5 00 a m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	8 02 a m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	8 37 a m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	9 48 a m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	11 44 a m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	12 15 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	12 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Stokesdale	1 02 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun
Walnut Cove	1 55 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun
Walnut Cove	2 33 p m	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	3 03 p m	.....	.....
Ar Mt Airy	4 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Bennettsville	.....	5 40 a m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	6 30 a m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	7 02 a m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	7 43 a m	.....
Ar Fayetteville	.....	8 02 a m	.....
Lv Ramseur	.....	.....	7.00 a m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	9 50 a m
Ar Greensboro	.....	.....	9.55 a m

	No 16 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 18 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Greensboro	7.00 a m	2.00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	8.15 a m	3.40 p m
Ar Madison	9.05 a m	4.30 p m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily.	No. 3. Daily.	No. 11. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	12.00 noon	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	1.22 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun
Walnut Cove	1.52 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun	2.30 p m	.....	.....
Walnut Cove
Lv Stokesdale	2.57 p m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	3.40 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	3.45 p m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	4.13 p m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	6.00 p m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	7.20 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	7.40 p m	.....	.....
Ar Wilmington	11.00 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	.....	7 45 p m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	8 02 p m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	8 48 p m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	9 13 p m	.....
Ar Bennettsville	.....	10 05 p m	.....
Lv Greensboro	.....	.....	6 35 p m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	9 20 p m
Ar Ramseur	.....	.....	11 00 p m

	No 15 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 17 Mixed Daily ex Sunday
Lv Madison	9 55 a m	5 00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	10 50 a m	5.50 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 00 noon	7 00 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R. R. for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a. m., and have six hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. J. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Letter from New Mexico.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Every mail that brings the dear old RECORDER reminds me of my negligence, and every time I have purposed writing you, but work of some kind has so crowded me that I have until now failed. I wonder sometimes if everybody loves the RECORDER as I do, and if it gladdens every heart as it does mine. I know it is the best and dearest old paper in the world.

I am beginning to feel at home away out here in New Mexico, my health being so far improved as to greatly add to my physical strength, making the joy in my work almost full. But oh how I long to get a peep into the sanctum of the RECORDER and behold the faces in reality that are at most times in my minds eye. The Lord willing, I shall experience this blessedness sometime next year. While I am rejoicing and feeling specially grateful to God for thus far bringing back my health, as I before intimated, the fullness of joy experienced in being enabled to do better the work of my Master has so filled my heart that I am sometimes beside myself, for, indeed, I had hardly hoped for such a blessing, but its just like our dear Lord to bless us, though we be ever so undeserving.

I was somewhat surprised to find in the far west a so nearly perfect Baptist church. There is undoubtedly no Baptist church assuming perfection, no Baptist church that does not need a more exemplary following of the Saviour; and like most churches our little church here could be much improved; but withal they are an earnest little people, and are doing a great deal for the Master's cause. They are Baptists in the strictest Southern sense.

I heard a brother remark one day in the RECORDER office that the Missionary Baptists, as such, were not so named in the north, and yet away out here in New Mexico is a little Baptist church planted by our northern brethren that is, as I said, Missionary Baptist, corresponding to the letter with our southern churches, save in one particular, that of women speaking and praying in public meetings.

I wonder as I write what those brethren would think who left a Baptist Sunday-school (not a thousand miles from Raleigh) because two Chinamen were admitted, when told that our congregations in New Mexico are made up of Chinese, Negro, German, Welch, Dane, Scotch, &c. We do not feel that this cosmopolitan mixture is intolerable, but rather thank God for the unselfish spirit manifested in our people.

There is much more that I could speak about relative to our work, but I have already written quite a long letter. Love to all the dear brethren. May God richly and abundantly bless you and the brethren who labor in the Old North State.

Yours in the Lord.

JONATHAN WOOD.

Raton, New Mexico, Oct. 3, 1892.

North Carolina's Quota of the Centennial Fund.

Shall it be forthcoming in due time? What is being done to raise it? We hear frequently from Dr. Pritchard as the representative of the committee of the Southern Baptist Convention. But was there not a State committee appointed at the Convention at Goldsboro? What of them? Perhaps they are quietly at work in the "campaign of education" on the subject. But is it not time for the "campaign of education" to begin to bear fruit? Now that our people are getting in their crops, the matter of subscriptions might well be pressed, and reports made of what the churches will give to the $15,000 apportioned to our State. Somebody must start the reporting, so here goes:

The little church at Chapel Hill sends fraternal greeting to the 1,456 white Baptist churches of the State, and proposes to raise a hundredth part of our apportionment.

When the requisition was made for the Cuban chapel fund, we paid a hundredth part of the State's quota, and we propose to do as much for the Centennial fund.

Now, who will speak next?

J. L. CARROLL.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 6, 1892.

Notice.

The next Union Meeting of the Pilot Mountain Association will be held with the Lewisville church. It will begin on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October. The introductory sermon will be preached by Elder R. M. Loftis. It is desired that every member of the executive committee be present. Important business will come up for consideration. The programme will be arranged on the first day. Let us have a full attendance.

H. A. BROWN,
For the Clerk.

"Continual dropping wears away the stone."

The continual breaking of lamp-chimneys costs a good deal in the course of a year.

You can stop it. Get Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass." You will have no more trouble with breaking from heat. You will have clear glass instead of misty; fine instead of rough; right shape instead of wrong; and uniform, one the same as another.

You will pay a nickel a chimney more; and your dealer will gain in good-will what he loses in trade; he will widen his trade by better service.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

West Chowan Association Centennial Day.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1892

PROGRAM.

1. The Bible and Missions. Rev. A Cree.
2. Missions and the Holy Spirit. Rev. L. M. Curtis.
3. North Carolina's contribution in men and money. Rev. C. Williams.
4. Discussion of the general subject of Missions. Rev. C. Durham.

C. N. DONALDSON,
W. P. TAYLOE,
B. CRAIG,
Committee.

Ordination.

Pursuant to a call of the Fort Barnwell Baptist church, there convened at Goldsboro on Sunday, Sept. 25th, 1892, a presbytery for the purpose of examining Bro. John T. Edmundson with a view to ordaining him to the gospel ministry.

The presbytery was composed of Revs. C. J. Nelson, J. Hartwell Edwards, and Junius W. Millard, with Rev. C. J. Nelson as Moderator, and Rev. J. W. Millard as Secretary.

The examination being satisfactory, the ordination took place at the evening service in the Goldsboro church. Rev. J. W. Millard preached the sermon, after which Rev. C. J. Nelson presented the Bible, and offered the ordaining prayer. After the laying on of the hands of the presbytery, Rev. J. H. Edwards delivered the charge, short and to the point.

Bro. Edmundson is another minister coming from the ranks of the business men of State. With a good presence, and a fine speaking ability, and full of enthusiasm, his friends expect good work from him.

J. W. MILLARD.

Rev. J. R. Maynard.

WHEREAS, Bro. John R. Maynard has resigned the pastorate of New Bethel church, Wake county; therefore Resolved 1. That the church owes a debt of love and gratitude to him for his efficient ministry while their shepherd, which the world will never know, but eternity will reveal.

Resolved 2. That we part with him in love, and commend him to the churches of the Raleigh Association as a zealous gospel minister worthy of any church who may call him.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our church-book, and request the BIBLICAL RECORDER to publish.

T. L. BANKS,
D. B. BUFFALO,
Committee.

Wilson's Grove Church.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I began a meeting at Wilson's Grove church on Friday night before the fourth Sunday in August, which lasted seven days and nights. There were fifty professions of conversion and twenty-five additions to the church. Two of the latter were aged people, a man and his wife. The husband was seventy-eight years old, and the wife was about seventy-five.

We also raised one hundred dollars to pay off a mortgage on the church property.

I don't think I ever witnessed a better meeting under the trouble the church was going through. I rejoice and thank God that Arlington and Wilson's Grove are out of King's heresy.

Bro. J. O Bennet preached three sermons in the meeting, and Bro. W. A Willcox was with me from Sunday until Saturday and did good preaching. He is just starting out in the ministry. I think he will make a good preacher

I baptized one at Hopewell on the third Sunday in September. Others will soon follow at all my churches. This makes ninety-two additions to my four churches in thirty days' work.

I am happy in my work. I will begin next year's work without trouble.

I think we all should praise the Lord for what he has done for our land and country during the year.

I am your brother in the work,

A. W. CRABTREE.

Hornet, Oct. 5, 1892.

Tidings from Maple Springs Church.

Dear Recorder:—On the 2d of October, Rev. G. M. Duke (our pastor) closed the best meeting at this church that we have enjoyed for many years. Bro. Duke labored hard for the conversion of souls, and his labors were rewarded with more than thirty conversions. Twenty-two were baptized into the fellowship of the church Sunday evening. Bro. Duke has baptized 108 persons since Aug. 1st at his different churches. He is truly a man sent of God. When the meeting closed there was scarcely an unconverted person to be found in the large congregation. The Lord has done a great work for this community, whereof we are thankful.

A. W. JACKSON.

Franklin County Union.

This body will meet with the church at Corinth in Frankin county, on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October at 10 o'clock a. m.

A full representation of all the churches is earnestly requested.

A. W. JACKSON, Clerk.

Most men break down when afflicted with rheumatism. If they would try Salvation Oil, they would find relief at once.

The building of a railroad from Asheville, N. C., to Bristol, Tenn., is talked of.

Letter from Bro. Tatum, Shanghai, China.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—In the Baptist Missionary Magazine for June, there is such a good article on "China, the Greatest Mission Field in the World," by Rev. William Ashmore, D. D., who has been in China forty-one years. Won't you kindly republish this article in two chapters, if it is too long for one. It will be so helpful to those who study China and long for the coming of the kingdom.

Have you heard that Brother and Sister Bryan of Chinkiang are to come and be associated with us here in Shanghai? It is even so. At any rate the arrangement has been made. We expect to welcome them as our next-door neighbors in a few weeks. Can't you congratulate us heartily? The Herrings went. The Bryans come. We lost much. We gain much.

Bro. Bryan is still in feeble health. (Diarrhœa). In all probability he and family will go home next year. I know from him that he desires to have some missionaries come out this fall, live here and study till he returns from home, and then take a new station, perhaps at Quin San, between Shanghai and Soochow. I join eagerly in the hope that this plan may be carried out. Don't forget either that Brother and Sister Britton need a family to be associated with them even more than we do. Who will come?

Yours fraternally, E. F. TATUM.

Shanghai, China, Sept. 13, 1892.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has issued an order modifying the postal regulations, and directing that hereafter the mails must be made up and despatched on holidays as on other days.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion & Debility.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Elizabeth City ch, $52.75; Ashe and Alleghany Asso, 26.95; Union ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Self-sacrificing S S Union, ditto, 5.00; Lawrence's Cross Roads ch, ditto, 12.00; Henderson ch, 3.10; Beaufort, 5.00; Ebenezer ch, Eastern, 5.00; Shelby ch, 104.18; Sandy Creek Asso, 93 65; Green River Asso, 115.00; Atlantic Asso, 83 00. Total, 515.63. Previously reported, 6,249.04. Total this year, 6,765 53

Foreign Missions—W M S, Elizabeth City ch, $5.70; Laurinburg ch, 10.50; Ashe and Alleghany Asso, 18.86; W M S, Barlow's Chapel ch, 7.00; Bethel ch, W M S, Flat River, 7.93; Mt Olive Sunday-school for G W Greene, China, 1.60; Ebenezer ch, Eastern Asso, 2.50; Shelby ch, 321.08; W M S, Sawyer's Creek ch, Chowan, for Miss Knight, 15.00; Green River Asso, 135.00; Piny Grove S S, W Chowan, 1.05.

Home Missions—W M S, Barlow's Chapel ch, $4.00; White Oak ch, South River, 1.18; Shelby ch, 52.28. Total, 57.46. Previously reported, 2,371.41. Total this year, 2,428.87.

Education—Tar River Asso, $28.98; Berry's Grove ch, Mt Zion, 2.05; Lawrence's Cross Roads ch, West Chowan, 3.00; Alexander Asso, 10.76; King's Creek ch, Caldwell, 1.00; J W Watts, Taylorsville, 5.00; Green River Asso, 15.00; Hickory ch, So Fork, 5.20; Corinth ch, Chowan, 3.45; White Oak ch, South River Asso, 1.51; Ebenezer ch, Eastern, 52; Shelby ch, 60.55. Total, 137.02. Previously reported, 2,021.66. Total this year, 2,158.68.

Orphanage—S S, Bethlehem ch, W Chowan, $5.79; Ashe and Alleghany Asso, 1.14; Lawrence's Cross Roads ch, 2.00; S S, First ch, Raleigh, Central, 15.00; Ebenezer ch, Eastern, 1.02. Total 24 95. Previously reported, 959.06. Total this year, 984 01.

Centennial Fund—S S, Yanceyville ch, For Mis, $5.30; Miss Ida Poteat's S S Class, Home Mis, 5.00; Sunbeams, Wake Forest ch, Home and Foreign Mis, 36.60; S S, ditto, ditto, 21.00; W M S, Barlow's Chapel ch, 2.00; Hephzibah S S, Raleigh, 5 00; W M S, Bethel ch, Flat River, Home and For Mis, 10.00; Henderson ch, Home Mis, 31.00; Ditto, For Mis, 31.95. Total, 147.85.

Students Aid Fund, Louisville—White Oak ch, So River, 90c.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Beaufort ch, $5.00.

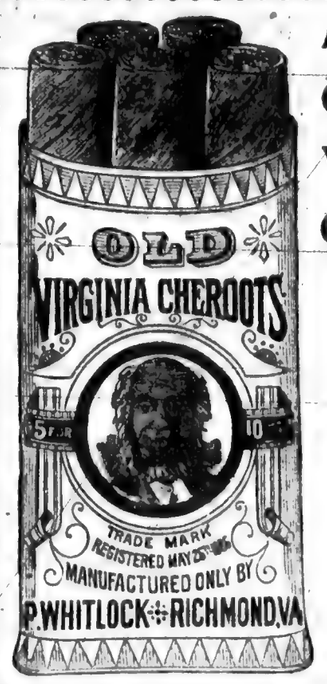
J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Oct. 8, 1892.

CONSUMPTION
In its early stages can be cured by the prompt use of
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
It soothes the inflamed tissues, aids expectoration, and hastens recovery.
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.
Lowell, Mass.

WANTED!
A graduate of Roanoke Baptist Female College would like to teach in private family or an academy. Can take any branch. Address BIBLICAL RECORDER, Raleigh, N. C.

For Sale or Rent.
My store building, cottage dwelling, all necessary out-houses, on lot of four acres. Connected by private telephone with Wake Forest, 4 miles. For further particulars, address
J. W. PERNELL, Pernell, N. C.
Sept. 23d, 1892.



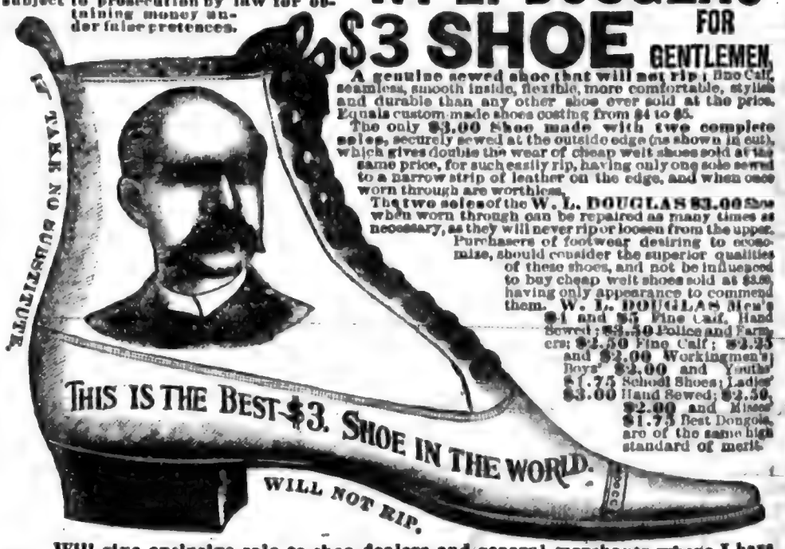
IF YOU SMOKE
OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS
Your friends will always be glad to meet you, and strangers will be pleased to make your acquaintance. They are the BEST SMOKE and at the same time the CHEAPEST.
FIVE for TEN CENTS.
15

TOBACCO HABIT
For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free. THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., by mail. Address 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.
HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days
EASILY CURED

Rosenthal Clothing Company,
305 Fayetteville St., opp. Postoffice, Raleigh, N. C.
Largest and Best Selected Stock
of Fine Tailor-made Clothing, at Lower Prices, than any other house in the State.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
CHAS. M. WALSH.
Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs &c.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.
W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.
A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; fine Calf, seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom made shoes costing from $4 to $5.
The only $3.00 shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.
The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper. Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold at $3.00, having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS Men's $4 and $5 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $3.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingmen's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola, are of the same high standard of merit.
TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.



Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.

They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.
BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING
If your dealer hasn't them write to us.
CANVASSERS WANTED.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

BUCKEYE CYCLE CO
CINCINNATI, O.
Want an Agent in your Place.
We will sell you a BICYCLE at manufacturers' prices if you will try to sell our goods. Please write for Catalogue and full information.
EVERY WHEEL WARRANTED.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
— IN THE —
N. C. Home Insurance Co
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE. RALEIGH, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BAILEY'S
Compound light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass REFLECTORS
A wonderful invention for lighting Churches, Halls, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Letter from Rev. H. W. Battle, Petersburg, Va.

Dear Recorder:—A rushing train on the Atlantic Coast Line paused, for a moment, as I was passing, and an impulse caused me to mount the steps and look in. I have long ago quietly admitted to myself that I am very much in the dark in regard to some of the subtler laws of mind, so I did not try to analyze the impulse when I saw just in front of me that big-hearted, big-brained brother, Baylus Cade. "On my way to the Tar River Association; come, Battle, and go with me." Oh, what a flood of tender memories! Oh, what longing to look upon the faces, and grasp the generous hands of the saints of the Old North State! But alas, it may not be this time, so I seize my pen and send my love (by your favor, Mr. Editor,) to many a brother whose cherished form decks the gallery of memory, and the incense of whose holy influence will fill the sanctuary of being so long as life shall last. I will not call names—they are many—but let me say that, whatever of usefulness the Master may accord to my life, I shall owe, in a very large measure—from the human side—to the moulding influences of personal association during my seven years stay in North Carolina. God bless you for ever!

I am quite sure many of my friends will be glad to hear from me in my new home; so, without apology, I shall write a letter somewhat egotistic in character. First, let me say,—I believe, with all my soul, in the doctrine of special providences, and I have reason since my settlement as pastor of the First Baptist church of this city to be confirmed in the faith.

My health has greatly improved. The distressing barrier of physical incapacity has melted away, and the sympathetic expressions of anxious friends are things of the past.

I have one of the best churches in the State of Virginia—and that means one of the best churches anywhere. With a membership of over six hundred, there is perfect harmony, and the pastor receives tokens of a love and sympathy as full and generous as the angels look down upon. I did fear that, in a church so venerable and conservative, I would find some difficulties in bringing about any progress that might involve innovations. But even that fear has vanished, and we are smashing hoary customs when they stand in the way of the forward march of the Lord's militant host. Last Wednesday evening witnessed the largest attendance upon prayer-meeting within the memory of the oldest member present, and we decreed that the Sunday school should have a handsome new upright piano and $250 worth of books added to the library. The finances of the church run like clock-work, and next Sunday the tones of that piano will add to our music, and the books, if the committee agree on the selections, will be on our shelves. But recently a collection for the building fund of a struggling sister church brought upon the instant $1,800 from the congregation, and every cent as good as cash. Yet this is not a very wealthy church. Religion and system is the secret. The pastor baptized last Sabbath, and will again baptize next Sunday. God seems about to pour out a gracious spiritual blessing upon us. Dear friend, I beg you pray that it may come.

At Petersburg we have two other Baptist churches now doing splendid work. The West End church is a model church with a model pastor, Rev. John A. Barker. The Second is doing finely under the leadership of that Murat of the pulpit, Rev. A. J. Fristoe.

Here, too, is located the Sunday school and Bible Board, of which the writer has the honor to be President. It employs a large number of colporteurs (twenty-seven, I believe, at present) and sends the preached gospel, the Bible and good books all over the State. The success of the work has been phenomenal. Under its direct agency Sunday-schools have been multiplied, interest in the other departments of our associated work vastly quickened, churches organized, and a host of souls saved. Rev. Dr. J. M. Pilcher is the business manager, and to him, more than to all other human agencies combined, is due our success. If my brethren of North Carolina are still contemplating some such noble project, they would do well to get the results of Dr. P.'s large experience and consecrated wisdom. Virginia has given generously in that richest treasure, men, to North Carolina, now let North Carolina send a large delegation to gladden our hearts at the meeting of the General Association in Danville next month.

1 Cor. 16: 23, 24. HENRY W. BATTLE.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 5, 1892.

Revival Meetings.

I began a meeting with Bell's church on the first Sunday in August, which lasted one week. The church was greatly revived and several souls were converted. On the first Sabbath in September, it was my pleasure to baptize ten who had joined the church by experience.

The next meeting held was with Bethesden church where our souls were made to rejoice because of the goodness of God in saving, perhaps, more than fifteen souls. Six joined the church and were baptized on the fourth Sunday in September. Those who were at variance before the meeting began were drawn closely together by the gentle cords of God's love. We trust that they all are now of one mind and one heart.

Bro. J. C. Hocutt assisted me in a meeting at Lystra. He is truly a devoted, consecrated and faithful worker for the Lord. Favored people are they among whom he labors! As to the visible results of the meeting, one was restored, twenty-three joined by experience, and there are more to follow. There will be twenty-five or more to be baptized on the third Sunday in this month.

The Lord's name be magnified for his wonderful work among the children of men.

J. W. WATSON.

Riggsbee's Store, Oct. 6, 1892.

Montgomery County Union Meeting.

This meeting is to be held with the Baptist church at Mt. Gilead, commencing on Friday, Oct. 28, 1892.

Sermon at 11 o'clock a. m. by Rev. W. M. Bostick.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

Women Preachers Using our Church Houses. Rev. G. O. Wilhoit and William Deaton.

Annual Calling of Pastors. T. F. Haywood and W. B. Owen.

Are We Doing Our Part towards Christianizing the World? Rev. Haywood Morris and James Covington.

What Should be Done with Members who Refuse to Bear their Part of the Church Expenses, and with Those who so Act as to Lose their Influence for Good? Revs. W. M. Bostick and S. Fuquay.

The Sunday-school Work. Prof. A. Harris and H. Shepherd.

Let all come and we will have a good time.

J. F. MCMILLAN,
J. W. DIXON,
Committee.

Union Meetings of Central Association.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY, OCT. 29TH AND 30TH.

The First Section will meet with the Wake Union church, and the Second, with the New Hope church. The following program is proposed:

1. Women's Missionary Societies in Country Churches. To lead in the discussion at Wake Union—W. R. Gwaltney, P. M. Harrison; at New Hope—B. B. Buffaloe, I. T. Newton.

2. Children's Work in the Churches. Wake Union—A. B. Wester, W. O. Allen. New Hope—J. M. Alderman, J. D. Boushall.

3. Baptists and the Bible. Wake Union—John Mitchell, Wm. Royall. New Hope—J. W. Carter, J. B. Carlyle.

4. Lessons from the History of Christian Missions. Wake Union—S. F. Allen, W. J. Ferrell. New Hope—G. W. Coppedge, J. F. Lanneau.

W. B. ROYALL,
I. T. NEWTON,
W. L. POTEAT,
Committee.

Oct. 5, 1892.

Although many remedies are pushed into the market by spicy advertisements, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup still takes the lead.

Camden and Currituck Union Committees.

Pursuant to a former resolution of the Camden and Currituck Union Meeting, the moderator appointed the following committees to report at the next Union Meeting to be held with the church at Pleasant Grove on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October, 1892:—

On Missions—Rev. J. B. Harrell and W. D. Barnard.

On Periodicals—Bros. W. G. Ferebee and I. M. Duncan.

On Benevolence—Dr. R. R. Overby and John Brock.

On Education—Rev. N. P. Stallings and B. D. Taylor.

On Prohibition—Rev. P. S. C. Davis and E. P. Daily.

On Sabbath-schools—Bros. W. G. Ferebee and J. M. Whitson.

T. B. BOUSHALL, Mod.
W. E. MCCOY, Clerk.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will cure you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

The colored people will have no State Fair this year.

There were twenty-one deaths and twenty-two births in this city during the month of September.

A fire did several hundred dollars damage in the Yarboro house kitchen early last Friday morning.

The Railroad Commission has reported to the Governor $200,000 worth of taxable steamboat property, wholly or in part in the State.

Last Sunday morning the little three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thaxton was accidentally scalded so severely that the child died the next day.

Mr. David B. Avera, a well-known merchant and cotton-dealer in this city for some years in the past, committed suicide in his room at the Yarborough House on last Saturday morning, by stabbing himself in the neck with a blade of a small pocket-knife. He was a son-in-law of the late Governor Fowle, and a native of Johnston county, in which county he and wife were residing. The deceased leaves no children, and was about forty-five years of age.

Next Tuesday the Raleigh Centennial celebration begins, and on this day also the State Fair opens. Heretofore Thursday has been the big day of Fair week, but the management proposes to change this custom, and will make the opening day, Tuesday, the great day of the week. On that day a grand trades and civic procession will take place in which there will be a half dozen magnificent allegorical and historical floats and about forty trades floats. In the procession there will be in carriages about fifty honorary marshals composed of the older citizens of Raleigh. Hon. Kemp P. Battle will deliver the Centennial address on Tuesday night. There will be fireworks on Wednesday night; laying the corner stone of the Confederate monument on Thursday; military prize drills on Friday, &c. A cordial welcome will be extended to all. The railroads will give low rates.

State News.

A boiler explosion at Mr. Henry Williams' cotton gin in Warren county on the 3d inst., killed one man, two boys and a woman, all colored.

The 21st of this month will be observed as Columbus Day by the public schools of the State, in accordance with Gov. Holt's proclamation.

The Roanoke News says that it is reported that a line of steamers will be put on Roanoke river this fall and winter to remove cotton and other farm products.

James R. Chatums, the man who abducted and abused the young Phillips girl of Chatham county, has been sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary.

Jack Edwards, the engineer on the Western road who was severely stabbed by Wm. Cowan in Asheville, did not die, as was stated last week, but is recovering.

The two men who killed old man Swain at Pleasant Garden a short time ago, are to be hanged at Greensboro Oct. 20th. The execution will be public at their own request.

Clinton was visited by a disastrous fire last Wednesday. The county jail and fourteen business houses, including the office of the Caucassian, were destroyed. Loss about $75,000.

Little Ray, the three-year old son of Mr. Albert Smith of Gastonia, was recently burned to death in that place. The child was playing with matches when his clothes caught, and his body was burned almost to a crisp.

Mrs. Jas. Anderson of Brushy Mountain, Wilkes county, was recently burned to death. She went before daylight to get some potatoes from a corn-crib. She carried a light and some straw in the crib caught fire, with the result stated.

O. M. Cawthorn, the man who killed Sam Tilley, colored, in Hickory a short time ago, appeared in Newton Monday morning of last week, and gave bail in the sum of three thousand dollars for his appearance at court next January to stand trial.

The dwelling house of Mr. William Mitchell, of Rolesville was destroyed by an incendiary fire early on the morning of the 3d inst. Mr. Mitchell who is quite old, barely escaped with his life. Everything in the house was consumed including a considerable sum of money.

Mrs. John A. Barringer and Mrs. Dr. Logan of Greensboro were violently thrown from a buggy by a runaway horse in that city last Thursday. Mrs. Barringer was seriously hurt. Her shoulder blade was broken and she received other injuries. Mrs. Logan was badly bruised.

Mrs. Frank Sanderlin, a highly respected young married woman living near Shiloh, Camden county, was criminally assaulted and then horribly butchered by a negro brute named Joe Barco on Sept. 30th. On the following night Barco was taken from jail by several hundred men and hanged.

On the 6th inst., Cicero Cooper and Jesse Kersey of Randleman were turkey-hunting in the woods near that place. They separated, and Cooper seeing Kersey's head and hearing him yelp for turkeys, and mistaking him for a turkey, shot and instantly killed him. So we glean from the High Point Enterprise.

The fishing with nets at Morehead and Beaufort has been very good this year. Every morning quantities of the fish pass through being shipped to interior points of the State and farther. The hook and line fishing season is now opening in good earnest to the delight of those who enjoy that sport.—Newbern Journal.

Tony Rogers, colored, living near Caledonia, gave his sick wife a large dose of rat poison, which he had purchased in Laurinburg, telling her the medicine was from the doctor. After giving the poison to his wife he sent for a physician, but the woman died before the doctor got there. The doctor saw that something was wrong, and had the man arrested. Rogers is in jail.

General News.

The Democrats were largely victorious in the Florida and Georgia elections.

The Nickle paper mills at Richmond, Ind., have been destroyed by fire. Loss about $100,000.

Another extensive fire has done great damage in New Jersey. Thousands of acres of fine timber have been destroyed.

Five murderers were hanged in South Carolina last Friday—two at Spartanburg, and one each at Anderson, Pickens and Newborry.

The American Type Founders Company has been incorporated under the laws of New Jersey. Its is to control all the type founders in the country. The capital will be $9,000,000.

Lord Tennyson, the poet laureate of England, passed peacefully away in London early on the morning of the 6th inst., being in his eighty-fifth year. His death, it is said, was a glorious triumph.

A great prairie fire occurred in the Bear river valley, Idaho, recently, in which one thousand head of fat cattle were burned to death. Several houses were destroyed, and three men fatally injured.

Five men, members of the notorious Dalton band of outlaws, made a raid on two banks in the town of Coffeyville, Kansas, last Wednesday morning. While they were robbing the banks, citizens of the town surprised and attacked them. Four of the gang, including the leader, Bob Dalton, were killed, and the other was seriously injured. Four of the citizens who made the attack were killed and three injured.

Southern Business College, Asheville, N. C.

This institution is open all the year around for both ladies and gentlemen. Its students are graduated in the full Business and Shorthand courses, including Book-keeping, Practical Business, Banking, Wholesaling, Commission, Business Law, Business Forms, Business Arithmetic, English, Correspondence, Spelling, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typewriting, Political Economy, Civil Government, Literary Society work and Parliamentary Law. It has a full corps of thoroughly experienced Business College teachers and a course as modern and comprehensive as any institution to be found, including lectures upon various practical subjects by distinguished gentlemen. It has large elegant apartments, new modern furniture, Bank, Wholesale, Commission and Exchange offices and is fully equipped to compete with the best institutions of the country. Asheville is a beautiful and progressive city of about 13,000 inhabitants with climate and scenery famous the world over and is said to entertain fully 100,000 visitors annually, being crowded both winter and summer.

Efforts are made to secure good positions for all worthy graduates of this institution.

Rates of tuition and board for students quite reasonable.

For further information, address,

M. M. LEMMOND, President.

MARRIED.

POWELL—WATKINS—On Sept. 18th, 1892, by Rev. J. W. Atkinson, Mr. J. A. Powell and Miss R. A. Watkins, all of Wake county.

MCGOWAN—MOTLEY—On Sept. 4th, 1892, at the residence of the bride's father, in Cabarrus county, by Rev. A. W. Crabtree, Joseph McGowan and Bettie A. Motley.

DIED.

CATES—Bro. Isaiah Cates died at his home in Durham, N. C., Oct. 3d. He had been expecting to be "called up higher" for some months. He told the writer only a few days before he died that he was ready to go. We have seen many die, but we have seen but few exercise so great a faith. A. A. BUTLER.

Durham, Oct 4, 1892.

BRADY—Died at her residence, Sister Lottie Brady, wife of Bro. J. W. Brady. She was twenty years old, and had been for four years a faithful member of New Life church. In her brief life she had given evidence of deep piety and true womanhood. The community has lost a bright ornament, the church one of its best members, the husband a faithful and loving wife. W. S. M.

Excelsior, N. C., Sept. 17, 1892.

PIVER—At Morehead City, on Sept. 12th, Mrs. Frances A. Piver passed quietly away at the advanced age of eighty-one. She was the oldest Baptist in this section. Our early preachers held meetings in her home before churches were built in the county. One of the first members of Beaufort church, she came here later and lived a consistent christian till death. Her husband died eleven years ago. She was ready to die. Three devoted daughters and many relatives weep by the river, but rejoice in anticipation of a glorious re-union on the banks of sweet deliverance. H. C. M.

TROTMAN—Died, at his residence in Hertford, Perquimans county, on Sept. 9th, 1892, Rev. Jos. W. Trotman, in the fifty-eighth year of his age. He was next to the oldest son of Rev. Q. H. Trotman, and was educated at Wake Forest College. In early life he became a member of the church at Sandy Cross, subsequently connecting himself with the church at Bethel, Perquimans county, from which separating he joined the Disciples, was ordained, and became the pastor of several churches of that persuasion. Suffering with prolonged disease he passed away in the full possession of his mental faculties, humbly relying upon the efficacy of the atonement for salvation. M.

BISHOP—Mr. H. M. Bishop of Myrtle Grove Sound, New Hanover county, died Sept. 17th, 1892, aged seventy-four years. He was a man of fine character, and esteemed in all the relations of life. He was a good neighbor and a good citizen. He was a warm-hearted, generous man, ever ready to respond to the wants of the poor and needy. For orphan children he had an especial sympathy. He never sought publicity in his benevolences, but was content to be kind for the love of doing good. He was a kind, affectionate husband and father, and was greatly loved by his family.

He was a Baptist in sentiment. Though not a member of the church, he professed faith in Christ as his personal Saviour, and one who knew him well and had conversed with him on religion, believed him to be a devout christian.

A stroke of paralysis received three years ago caused him to live in constant anticipation of death, but he did not fear it. He wanted to die suddenly, and his wish was gratified. Instantly the "silver cord was loosed." Amid the holy quietude of the Sabbath day, friends and loved ones laid him to rest in the grave. F. D. SWINDELL.

Wilmington, N. C.

DELLINGER—Mrs. Janie C. Dellinger, wife of Wm. Dellinger of Marion, N. C., was born in Wheeling, Va., Jan. 26th, 1838; married Jan. 10th, 1866; joined the Methodist church at Bakersville, N. C., in 1867, and died after six weeks of great suffering in Marion, N. C., Oct. 2d, 1892, at 10 p. m. She was the daughter of E. K. and Ellen Evins. She was a kind, gentle and devoted wife, and a great friend of the poor. The funeral services were held at the residence, conducted by the pastors of the Methodist and Baptist churches, on Oct. 4th, after which she was laid to rest by loving hands in the Marion cemetery to await the "resurrection morn."

We can truly say none knew this dear woman but to love her. With Christ as her model, she came so near to the measure of the stature that all who knew Christ's characteristics could in our sister see the close resemblance to the Master, she loved and served in life, and more especially so was this seen in her care for the sick, the poor and the orphan. Of the latter she in her short life reared wholly and in part seven or eight, and she was unexcelled in caring for the comfort of all with whom she had to do, as she had given a large portion of her life to the comfort of guests in a public hotel, and thousands will testify to her untiring kindness. So her courage, benevolence, her hopeful spirit will be missed where it once reached. Eternity alone will reveal the good done by her, "the kind word spoken to hearts aching and broken." In computing the success of life from the world's standpoint, many have possibly surpassed her, but when we put the true plumb-line in every respect, how earth's estimate pales, and the true proportions of christian womanhood swells out. She was really too unselfish to think of self; too willing to render service and sacrifice at any cost, and really if the true one is that one who masters self, then here we have another incarnation of the poetic utterance of Emerson,

"The hero is not fed on sweets,
Daily his own heart he eats;
Chambers of the great are jails,
And head-winds right for loyal sails."

Bitter is the thought that we shall see her face no more. The charming inspiration and cheerfulness, ever busy and doing with her might what her hands found to do, all her beautiful character gone, we dwell on it with sorrow, the memory of it fills us with grief. Yet is it gone? Lift up the head. Those rich endowments in which we all rejoiced, and by which we were benefitted, are still with us, not lost, for nothing good can be or is lost, for "Blessed are the dead which died in the Lord; from henceforth, yea saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." They are gone before; their works follow after, not lost.

But no reference to our sister would be perfect without allusion to her home life. So gentle, kind and hospitable, "here fresh flowers strewed the narrow way of life." Here where the loving, cheering, comforting words dropped for the strengthening of the husband, now left desolate; here where the kind admonitions, advice, and prayers in faith, were daily poured forth for the orphans in her special charge and care; here where every effort was put forth for the comfort of all her guests; here where the pleasant, cheerful smile greeted every one; and oh, how her neighbors will miss her, to whom she ever had an open hand and heart, truly all mankind was by her considered 'her neighbor."

But she rests from all this now. She we believe to be at "home" where there is no want, no pain, no death. God grant that those left behind may "choose that good part," so that when they shall be called her blessed home may be theirs to share with her forever.

"With us her name shall live
Through long succeeding years,
Embalmed with all our hearts can give,
Our praises and our tears."

M. M. LANDRUM.

Marion, N. C., Oct. 5, 1892.

Tributes of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by the First Baptist Sunday-school, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 2d, 1892:—

Miss Minnie V. Debnam died of malarial fever, at her father's, near Rolesville, September 12th, 1892, aged twenty-one years. She joined the church when quite young, and was a consistent christian. During her three years stay in our midst she made many friends, and endeared herself to them by her bright, cheerful disposition.

Resolved 1. That in the death of our sister the Sunday-school has lost a faithful member and her teacher a beloved scholar.

Resolved 2. That we humbly submit to this disposition of him "who doeth all things well," believing that our loss is her gain.

Resolved 3. That we endeavor so to live as to meet her and other loved ones in the home of the blessed.

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, and spread upon our minutes.

A. L. FERRELL,
MISS LIZZIE TERRELL,
MRS. ANNIE JUSTICE.
Committee.

GALVANIZED
GEARED AERMOTOR
Re-designed and much improved, furnishes power to PUMP, GRIND, CUT FEED, and SAW WOOD.
Price Cut to $75
For 12-ft. Steel Geared Aermotor.
Does the work of 4 horses at half the cost of one, and is always harnessed and never gets tired. With our Steel Stub Tower it is easy to put on barn. Send for elaborate designs for putting power in barn.
AERMOTOR CO. 12th & Rockwell Sts., Chicago, & 20 Beale St., San Francisco

YOU CAN BECOME A
Trained Nurse
BY STUDY AT HOME.
Write for particulars with 10c (stamps). CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF HEALTH AND HYGIENE, 34 Telephone Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE
A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the TOBACCO HABIT in all its forms. For proof write
BRAZEAL & CO., 2105 & 2107 3d Ave., Birmingham, Ala

Asthma
The Adrian Kola Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, is Nature's Sure Cure for Asthma. Send for Circular. Sold by Druggists. Price 50c. Express Prepaid. Office, 1211 Broadway, New York. For Express Orders Call or Send by Mail. ADRIAN KOLA IMPORTING CO., 1211 Broadway, New York.

BOYS'RIFLE Breech Loader $7.50. RIFLES $2.00 WATCHES
GUNS
BICYCLES $15 All kinds cheap and good. Write for catalogue and sample. Please say you saw this. Send stamp for catalogue. THE POWELL & CLEVELAND CO., 306 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

The Home Circle.

"Not Lost, But Gone Before."

"I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me."—2 Sam. 12: 23.
"Sorrow not, even as others which have no hope."—1 Thes. 4: 13.

"Not lost, but gone before!"—O heart
Bereft and void,
Whose gilded cup of earthly bliss
Proves thus alloyed;
Take this, God's consolation now,
And be o'erjoyed.

"Not lost but gone before!"—Not lost—
Ah! 'tis not so;
Though God's fair plant shall blossom here
No more below,
Yet in his lovelier Eden there
'Twill better grow.

"Not lost, but gone before!"—Swift on
Sped the dear feet
Gaining ere thine the pearly gate,
The golden street,
To stand for aye before the King
In rapture sweet.

"Not lost, but gone before!"—Yea, gone
With Christ to be,
Life's conflict o'er, to find at last
Full liberty,
And wait with all expectant joy
To welcome thee.

"Not lost, but gone before!"—Ah! soon,
The waiting o'er,
In blest re-union each to each
God shall restore;
Henceforth to know no parting pang,
Forevermore.

"Not lost, but gone before!"—'Tis thus
God pours his balm,
In wounded hearts, and for unrest
Gives wondrous calm;
Changing the lamentation sore,
To praiseful psalm.

—Winifred A. Iverson.

Polly's Short Journey.

It was rather a sour faced little maid who got on the train by herself, or, rather, was put on the train by a tall brother, at Glenburn Station. She had on a nice little brown suit, brown hat and gloves, and carried a brown basket that suggested a delightful lunch. But she didn't look half as pleased as you would expect a little brown sparrow of a girl to be, who was going on a journey in a nice plush-lined car, through a beautiful country of woods and streams and wild, leafy gorges.

The car was very full, and Polly Imboden flopped herself down in the first seat she came to, which was occupied by a sweet looking old lady in Quaker bonnet and gown. The Friend eyed her with quiet amusement, noted the clouded brow, the listless air, the lowered eyes, and presently asked gently.

"Is thee going far to day."

"Only to Midvale," answered the little traveller, shortly, without looking up.

"Then thee will not have time to grow tired; but I am going a thousand miles."

"A thousand miles!" exclaimed Polly; and as soon as she forgot Polly, and began to be interested in somebody else, the ugly look took itself off somewhere, and you began to see that Polly had a sweet, bright face, and actually two dimples.

Her companion soon found out that Polly was pouting because her mother had gone to Philadelphia for a week, and, instead of taking her along, as had been expected, had sent her out to Midvale to stay with Aunt Mary till she got back. Mother did not seem to be much to blame, as there was some fear of scarlet fever in the Square to which she was going; but that did not keep Polly from being cross about it.

"This is a patience lesson set thee, child," said the old Friend; "there are many more waiting for thee to learn, but if thee skips this one, the next will be harder."

But Polly wasn't listening to this little sermon. Having once got her eyes up from the toes of her boots, she was making them acquainted with the people in the car; and, to her surprise, there were rows upon rows of little girls and boys about her own age.

"Is thee looking at my children?" asked the old lady, smiling. "They are all going with me that long thousand miles to find homes in the West."

"Aren't they coming back to their fathers and mothers?" asked Polly, her lips beginning to tremble a little.

"They have no fathers and mothers on earth," answered the Friend; "but their Heavenly Father takes care of them."

Little country Polly had never seen an orphan asylum. Perhaps she had never realized that children could live without mothers. Why, who heard their prayers and kissed them good-night, and buttoned the top buttons, and heard their spelling for fear they'd be "trapped," and—but by this time the tears were beginning to run down Polly's cheeks at the thought of all that these little children had to do without. The Friend laid her hand lightly on the little brown gloved fingers. "Hast thee ever seen a lesson book?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," answered Polly, in surprise.

"What are the pictures for?"

"Why," said Polly, still more surprised, "why, to show the things."

"Yes, that is it. Now, the great Teacher wants my little friend to be contented with her lot, to be so glad she has a dear mother and father, a home and friends to take care of her; but she wasn't learning that lesson very fast, so he puts her on this train for a little journey, and shows her all these little ones of his who have to do without these blessings. Will this picture make thee learn faster?"

Polly pulled out her little blue bordered handkerchief, and scrubbed away the tear-drops. "I'd like to give one of them my basket," she said, eagerly; "its got a lot of good things that mother put in it for me."

"Then will have to hurry, then," said the Friend, well pleased, "for Midvale is in sight."

Hastily Polly slipped off the plush seat, and, picking out a pale, grave-looking child, she put the heavy basket in her hand, smiled a good-bye under the Quaker bonnet of her old lady, and here was Midvale!

And for a long time to come, when mother felt Polly's arms close round her, so tight that she could hardly breathe, she knew she was thinking about the old Friend and the rows of motherless children.—Child's Hour.

"Women in Miniature."

The women of the middle classes in Japan—the women of the shop and factory—are seen everywhere so freely, and their intimacy is won so soon, that, without understanding them to their very souls, one can attempt to say a little more about them. Of these thousands of little persons met with everywhere—in the tea houses, the theatres, the pagodas—the impression that remains is absolutely deficient of seriousness. Whenever I think of them I involuntarily smile.

Astonishing figurines, that I see once more agitated, assiduous, a little similesque, running about with continual courtesies addressed to everybody, among their infinitesimal doll's baubles, in apartments as big as the hand, whose paper walls would fall in at the least blow. Women in miniature, both childish and aged, whose excessive grace, so mannered and mincing is it, turns to grimaces; whose everlasting laughter, contagious without gayety, is as irresistible as a titillation, and brings on at length the same irritating lassitude. They laugh from excess of amiability or from acquired habit; they laugh in the gravest circumstancies of life; they laugh in the temples and at funerals.

Very small creatures, living in the midst of trifles as artificial and light as themselves. Their household utensils, in fine porcelain or thin metal, look like children's toys; their cups, their tea kettles, are Liliputian, and their everlasting pipes are filled to overflowing with half a pinch of very fine tobacco, taken with the tips of their elegant little fingers.

Never seated, but crouching all day on mats of immaculate whiteness, they accomplish in that invariable posture almost all the acts of their life. It is on the floor that they take their doll's dinners, served in microscopic crockery, and eating delicately with the aid of chopsticks. It is on the floor, behind frail screens that barely conceal them, and surrounded with a confusion of queer little instruments—of little powder-boxes, of little pots—that they proceed to their toilet, before mock mirrors that make one laugh. It is on the floor that they work, sew, embroider, play on their long-handled guitars, dream of imperceptible things, or address to their incomprehensible gods the long prayers of morning and evening.—From "Japanese Women," by Pierre Loti, in Harpers Magazine.

A Laughable Incident.

A writer in the New York World, tells the following. He says:

It happened in the spring of 1883. The four of us had gone to Europe together—Dr. McVickar, of Philadelphia, Phillips Brooks, and Mr Robinson, the builder of Boston's Trinity church. Robinson stands six feet two inches in his stockings, Dr. McVickar measures six feet four inches, and Brooks exceeds six feet in height. Robinson is sensitive about his length, and suggested that in order to avoid comment the three tall men avoid being seen together. Arriving in England, they went direct to Leeds, where they learned that a lecturer would address the working classes on "America and Americans." Anxious to hear what Englishmen thought of the great Republic, they went to the hall. They entered separately, and took seats apart. The lecturer, after some uninteresting remarks, said that Americans were, as a rule, short, and seldom if ever rose to the height of five feet ten inches. He did not know to what cause he could attribute this fact, but he wished he could present examples to the audience.

Phillips Brooks rose to his feet and said: "I am an American, and, as you see, about six feet in height, and sincerely hope that if there be any other representative of my country present he will rise."

After a moment's interval, Mr. Robinson rose and said: "I am from America, in which country my height—six feet two—is the subject of no remark. If there be any other American here, I hope that he will rise."

The house was in a jolly humor. Waiting until the excitement could abate in some degree, and the lecturer regain control of his shattered nerves, Dr. McVickar slowly drew his majestic form to its full height, and exclaimed: "I am an——." But he got no further. The audience roared, and the lecturer said no more on that subject.

Why Do We Die?

Vital statistics classified shows the respiratory organs to be the feeble point in man. Diseases of the lungs are out of all proportion in fatality. Take Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein for coughs, colds and consumption.

A Mother's Opportunity.

The mother who always sends a servant to put the children to bed, or who allows them to go upstairs alone, loses a rare opportunity for learning their true characters. In the subdued light after the prayer has been said and the son or daughter is tucked into bed, the mother will find them in a mood for confidences. It is easy for them to make confessions of naughtiness or to tell their small victories over a bad habit. This begets confidence between parent and child, and strengthens them in future efforts to do right. The errors which have been learned by contact with other children can be corrected more easily at this bedtime hour than in the restlessness of daylight, when it is more difficult to hold a child's attention. The mother, too, often sees the relation of things more clearly. Perhaps she finds that she herself has not been without fault in the governing of her children. By mutual explanations and apologies, if need be, everything can be made right, and a new day begun with a better understanding of each other. Let her not hesitate to apologize if she has been hasty and unjust. There is no danger of lowering herself in the eyes of her children by such a course of action, and she will find them more ready to ask her forgiveness when occasion requires.—Anonymous.

How to Use Onions.

This excellent and valuable, but often times despised, vegetable may frequently be used as a household remedy in cases of sickness. For coughs, colds and hoarseness, peel and cut in very thin slices sufficient onions to fill a glass tumbler, scatter a little fine sugar on each slice, cover the top of the tumbler, and set on the stove hearth or in any warm place. There will soon be a thick syrup formed, of which a tablespoonful should be taken every half hour. The syrup is also good for children who are croupy. If you have a cold on the chest or lungs, and feel a pressure of tightness there, apply an onion poultice. Either roast or boil the onions soft in a small quantity of water, mash fine, add hen's or goose oil, or lard in small quantity, put in a bag, apply to the affected part and keep warm.

Onions are said to be excellent as a soporific. One way to use them is to eat one or two just before retiring; or, to a good handful of dried lettuce leaves add two sliced onions and a pint of boiling water, boil over a brisk fire until there is but a half pint of liquid, of which take one ounce, repeating the dose if necessary. It is said that onions given to children two or three times a week will prevent worms, and their use is certainly conducive to a good complexion. As a remedy for several internal disorders the taking of onion juice and the free use of the raw vegetable is recommended. As a medicine onions are certainly frequently efficacious and always harmless; as a flavor for soups, dressing, etc., they are much liked by most people, consequently I should advise all housekeepers to lay in a good stock of them.—Selected.

Handshaking.

A good shake of the hand has been to many a lonely soul a veritable means of grace. The trouble with not a few of our churches and young people's meetings is their lack of sociability. Strangers are allowed to come and go without brotherly recognition and welcome. The atmosphere of the place is cold and formal. Because the saloon and the club house are warmer than the church, many young men drift into them and are lost to God and good.

We do hope, therefore, that all the readers of this paper will cultivate the custom of handshaking. Let each one appoint himself, or herself, a committee of one to extend a fraternal hand to every stranger who presents himself, and show him by a warm grasp that he is welcome. In this way many a tempted soul may be rescued, and many a desolate soul made happy. Don't wait for an introduction. Don't allow timidity to stand in the way of duty. In Christ's name, and for his sake, be willing to lend a hand to help others. A warm welcome has turned many a visitor into a regular attendant upon the church services, and has brought him eventually to the feet of Jesus.—Our Young Folks.

How to Make a Good Boy.

The following incident, from an exchange, is very suggestive: "They all put brandy in them," said one. "They all don't. My mother has never put a drop of brandy into her mince pies since the day Bob said he could taste the brandy and it tasted good. Mother said then it was wrong, and she never would be guilty of it again. And if mother says a thing is wrong, you may be sure it is wrong; for what mother knows she knows." "How about mince pies? Are you sure she knows how to make pies good?" and a laugh went up from a group of girls gathered around the register of the recitation room, eating their lunch. But some of them winced a little when back were tossed these words: "If she doesn't, she knows how to make a boy good; and isn't a boy worth more than a mince pie?"—Ex.

Sour Eructations,
fullness after eating, with disinclination to exertion of body or mind; irritability of temper, general weariness and debility are speedily removed by the use of
TUTT'S Tiny Liver Pills
and good appetite, strong digestion, activity of body and mind, sociability, buoyancy of spirits, and health and strength take their place. Price, 25 cents. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, N. Y.

University Law School.
40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T Winston, LL. D., K. P Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address HON. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.
ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.

EDWARD FASNACH,
JEWELER AND OPTICIAN,
RALEIGH, N. C.

DIAMONDS,
WATCHES,
Jewelry,
—AND—
Sterling Silverware.
Optical Goods.

North Carolina Schools
CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH
School Books and Stationery
—BY—
ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY
In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.
Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.

OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,
RALEIGH, N. C.
All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.
MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.
Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts; paper, 15 cts.
Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS,
WAGON-MAKERS,
PAINTERS, MILL-MEN
—AND—SPORTSMEN'S
SUPPLIES.
HARDWARE,
LIME, PLASTER,
CEMENT,
HAIR, NAILS,
SASH,
DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils,
COLORS, GLASS,
BELTING, PACKING,
FILES,
IRON AND STEEL
Raleigh, N. C.
BELLOWS, VISES,
ANVILS.
Best Goods. Low Prices.
SQUARE DEALING.
SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.
LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.
Hardware of Every Description.
RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.
Julius Lewis & Co.,
RALEIGH, N. C.
Guns and PISTOLS
"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1892. Number 17.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year	$ 2.00
One copy, six months	1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)	20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

The Mind of Jesus.

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."—Phil. 2: 5.

Here we are not told to make this mind, but simply to let it be in us. It is the work of God's Holy Spirit to implant this mind within us. It is our duty to open our hearts and receive the Spirit in them. Our hearts are too full of the love of the world for God's Spirit to dwell in them. We must pray for our hearts to be emptied of selfish and worldly things. God was alone in creation. He must also be alone in regeneration and redemption. When we take our right position before God the christian graces will shine forth serenely. Let us have the mind of Christ, for it is the most important thing about him. There are many distinguishing characteristics of this mind, but we can only mention a few of them.

1. This was a mind always active in God's service. Life means work, activity, punctuality, perseverance, endurance and faithfulness. Inactivity means death. Inaction is the sign of death. The soul of an idle church member is the seat of demons. He is as a sluggish pond which sends forth its sickening malaria to poison adjacent communities. He is, as a rotting apple, causing others to rot and waste away. We don't need idlers and dead beats in God's kingdom. We need workers. Life is entirely too short for us to spend twenty or thirty years dreaming about what we are going to do in the future. God has given us a tremendous work to do. We must be up and doing it with our might, or else meet God empty-handed. I dread the inactivity of our churches more than infidelity, skepticism, and all the devil's isms combined. If our church members would live according to gospel principles for one year they would shake the world from centre to circumference. The gospel would be scattered broadcast over the world in twelve months, and men would be flocking into the kingdom. Men must recognize the fact that they are not their own, but belong to God because they are bought with Christ's precious blood. Men should lay themselves and their wealth upon God's altar. They should give until they feel it, for nothing less than this is self-denial. Some men don't mind giving five thousand dollars for a cook to cook a wedding supper. There are some who rejoice to give a pugilist a vast sum to beat another within an inch of his life. Some don't mind spending thousands for the ball, theatre and other useless and worldly amusements. But they do dread to give a little to God's cause. Man ought not to engage in anything that he can't sincerely ask God's blessings upon. Religion that can't make us turn our backs upon the world will not save us. Religion that can't make us hurl the wine cup down is a poor religion. Religion that can't give us the mind of Christ will not save us. Any theology that does not have Jesus Christ as the centre is not much account. Let every one of us have a mind active in God's cause. Action is the great law of the universe. Every atom and every word proclaim it. The murmuring brook and the roaring cataract shout it. It is whispered by every breeze, and reflected from every one of heaven's stars. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge. Below, around, above—all things are in motion. The inanimate elements of which organized substances are composed never become idle. All animal and vegetable life are always undergoing changes, which if they ceased would cause decay and dissolution.

The atoms of all material things are always constructing, rearing, cleansing, repairing and beautifying. Were the sun to relax those invisible but potent chains by which he holds the planets to his center, death and chaos would be the result. So when man ceases to be active he dies, spiritually, morally and mentally. "To him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he seemeth to have." Christ's mind was active. "Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business?" He did not listen to idlers and loafers. He came to do his father's will, and did it. He had no time to loose—neither have we.

2. His was a compassionate mind. The heart of Jesus bled and yearned over poor lost sinners. "But when he saw the multitude, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd." His disciples wanted to send them away, but Jesus would not do it until he had fed them. Jesus never did send a poor sinner away hungry. He always feeds them with life giving bread. He cried and wept over the lost condition of those who would not come unto him. He never refused to bless them. The fault was in them and not in him. He never did anybody any harm. The devils in hell and the angels of God would tell you that. "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how oft would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wing, and ye would not." O man of God, open your heart and pocket book and do something to alleviate the burden of sin resting on mankind.

Were our rich city brethren to visit the country and see the toiling, surging, discontented masses groping their way in sin and darkness, they would be bound to open their hearts and do something for them. Every child of God yearns after the poor, blindfolded sinner, because he is on his way to hell and don't know it. Stop, man, and think what you can do with your wealth by giving it to God. "But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother hath need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" A man can't be a christian without sympathy for the poor sinner. Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.

3. A mind that does not spurn little things. Little things make up life. Some think because they can't do great things they will not do anything. Every man has capacity to serve God in some way, and God holds him accountable for the management of that capacity. Christ never found anything too simple or insignificant to get a lesson from. He honored the poor widow that cast in her little mite more than all the rich men's gifts. Let every servant of God, male and female, do something to extend the kingdom. "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much." As a whisper shakes the ether throughout the universe, so a good deed makes the devil's tremble, earth clap her hands and the angels shout for joy.

4. Christ had a forgiving mind. Some one rumples our feelings. We say we can forgive but not forget. If you have Christ's mind you can wipe out even the thought of the offence, and let God's Spirit abide therein instead. If any man upon the earth has his feelings rumpled and can't forgive, his prayers will never be heard as long as he remains in that condition. "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," we find in the disciples' prayer. Further on we have it explained, "For if we forgive men their trespasses our Heavenly Father will forgive us our trespasses." But if we forgive not men their trespasses neither will our Heavenly Father forgive us. Unconfessed sin is unforgiven sin. There is nothing blacker and fouler on this sin cursed earth than unforgiven sin. Christ, while suffering the agony of the cross, prayed that his murderers and haters might be forgiven. "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Oh the magnanimity and sublimity of Christ's mind. My reader, if you have anything against anybody, make up, wipe it out as quick as possible. Let this mind be in you.

5. A mind that pleased not himself. He did not leave the courts of glory to please himself. He suffered and sacrificed down here to please his Father. Were you and I to die the world would not miss us much. They miss something when they please themselves, and miss the religion of Jesus Christ.

Remove from your hearts all selfish and devilish motives. Choke the Adamic nature to death and be like Christ. If you have not his spirit you are none of his.

6. A mind that likes to abide under God's shadow. You get low and put God high. None were too low or poor for Christ to associate with. The humble are the ones God loves.

7. A mind of prayer. Christ was preeminently a man of prayer. Every great event of his life was preceded by prayer. And he prayed all night. The next day he preached the memorable sermon on the mount. Christianity in some places don't mean much because we christians are not men of prayer. What the church of God needs to day is that old apostolic power, a double portion of the spirit of Elijah. We have the God that the prophets and apostles had. We can have the same power by going to God on our knees to get it. We need power over ourselves, over the world to influence, and power with God. The world never can be converted by eloquent and brilliant sermons. The work is to be done largely by the instrumentality of the prayers of God's people. As man dies without air, so does the christian die without prayer.

When we take a reatrospective glance at the achievements and revolutions of men, we see that every one of them that has blessed the world has been wrought by men of prayer. In fact the wicked have not affected the christian world. It is the prayer of the righteous that prevails with God. O the power of a righteous man. O for more Daniels to take a solid stand against sin and the devil. My brother, don't get discouraged because God does not answer your prayers immediately. God will in his own time and in his own way answer all true prayers. It took God fifteen hundred years to answer Moses' prayer. He prayed to enter Canaan. God permitted him to enter on the day of transfiguration, fifteen hundred years afterward. We will find a great many of our prayers answered when we get to heaven. Paul prayed that the thorn in the flesh might be removed. God did not choose to remove it, but gave him sufficient grace to endure it. When we pray and don't get an answer it is our fault and not God's. A great many times God don't hear us because we don't mean anything. God knows we are not in earnest. Let us pray fervently and pointedly. Mothers, pray for your boys and teach them to pray. Fathers, pray for your sons. By and by when you are dead and gone your prayer will be answered. The devils in hell quake when you pray earnestly. God would stop the music of heaven to hear you if he could not hear without it. The pillars of heaven would totter were God to fail to hear the cry of his children.

"Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

"More like Jesus when I pray,
More like Jesus day by day,
May I rest me by his side,
Where the tranquil waters glide,
Born of him, through grace renewed,
By his love my will subdued,
Rich in faith I still would be,
Let my Saviour dwell in me."

A. T. HOWELL

Bladenboro, N. C.

An International Sunday-school Building in Connection with the World's Columbian Exposition.

EXECUTIVE ACTION.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the International Sunday school Convention in connection with the Conference of Sunday-school Workers held in Chatauqua, New York, August 13th to 16th, 1892, the plan previously proposed for the erection of a Sunday school building in connection with the World's Columbian Exposition, was duly reconsidered.

In answer to Circular No. 1, about $1,500 was contributed or pledged, but from all parts of the United States and Canada came earnest protests against the opening of the Exposition on the Lord's Day and against the erection of a Sunday-school building until that question was settled. These answers, without exception, gave promise of hearty co operation in case the decision should be reached, that the Exposition would be closed on the Lord's Day. The action of Congress accepted by the Directors of the Fair has settled the question that the gates of the Exposition are to remain closed upon the Lord's Day. This action fairly binds the Sunday-school workers of the United States and Canada to erect this building, and the conference unanimously decided that the effort should be made.

The delay was so great that it has prevented our securing a site for the building within the grounds of the Exposition; more than all the space at the disposal of the Commissioners has already been applied for. It is further believed that the closing of the Exposition on the Lord's Day will make the building more serviceable if erected without the grounds, but conveniently near to them.

In the proposition previously made it was expected that the building would be erected of wood with a fire proof coating known as "staff" similar to that used on the Exposition buildings, but the erection of the building without the grounds will require that it shall be built of brick, which will increase the expense, and it will also be necessary to lease the ground for this purpose.

The Conference decided that it would be desirable to enlarge the building so as to accommodate large gatherings of christian people, and to make it the center of evangelistic efforts in connection with the Exposition. A large committee of well-known Sunday-school workers was appointed with an auxiliary committee of ladies selected from the primary teachers, this committe to have power to add to their number.

THE WORK OUTLINED.

The outline of the work proposed is as follows:—

First. To exhibit a model Sunday-school building as an illustration of our work, and as a specimen that may be copied by others.

Second. In this building, by maps, charts, plats, tables, pictures, books, papers, etc., to show the present condition of Sunday-school work in different parts of the world.

Third. To illustrate the growth and progress of the Sunday school. For example:

The earlier methods of teaching that may be properly grouped with Sunday-school work.

The beginning of modern Sunday-schools in England.

Present methods of Sunday-school work in Great Britain and all the English colonies. And on the continent of Europe, and throughout the world; as conducted by the London Sunday school Union, the French Sunday-school Union, and other National Societies, the Foreign Sunday-school Association (of the U. S.), and by the different denominations.

Pioneer Sunday school work in America as conducted by the American Sunday-school Union, and by the different denominations, and as promoted by conventions, institutes, etc.

Advanced methods of organized Sunday-school work as carried forward by the International, State, Provincial and Territorial organizations, and by the different denominations; by Primary Unions, Union Teachers' meetings, Normal Classes, and the Loyal Sunday-school Army.

The International Lesson System, as shown by the work of the committee, and by the work of the publishers of Sunday-school papers, Magazines, Quarterlies, Lesson Rolls, Cards, Pictures, Books, Maps, Charts, Banners, Black Boards, etc.

Practical methods in Sunday-school work, teacher's meetings and training classes; Normal Classes in the Sunday-school; Primary Classes and Kindergarten methods; libraries, best books and systems; Boys' Brigades and Mission Bands; Industrial Schools connected with Sunday-schools; Home Classes connected with Sunday-schools; systematic house to house visitation, etc., etc.

Fourth. To use the building as a "Sunday-school Headquarters and Reception Room" during the Exposition, and, if possible, to use it as "Headquarters for Colporteur work," and "Personal Christian work" on the ground.

To arrange for holding special Sunday-school conferences, and talks; addresses by well known and qualified workers in various departments of Sunday school work; for evangelistic meetings conducted by well-known evangelists and ministers, and to use it for such other purposes as may be determined by the International Executive Committee.

PLANS FOR THE BUILDING.

It is proposed to offer premiums of $500, $250, $150 and $100, respectively, for the four best plans of a building, the awards to be made by a committee appointed by the International Sunday school Executive Committee; the plans chosen to be the property of the committee, and to be placed on exhibition in the building.

TO PROVIDE THE MEANS.

It is proposed to raise the sum of $50,000 for the building, and an additional sum for expenses, by contributions from Sunday schools and individuals, the collections to be made as follows:

Each Sunday-school is requested to give an amount equal to not less than ten cents for each officer and teacher, and one cent for each scholar connected with the school (this is the smallest amount, and schools are requested to give a larger amount if able to do so.)

Contributions of not less than one dollar, and for as large an amount as possible, to be solicited from individuals.

As soon as possible after the plans have been selected, engraved certificates, containing a picture of the building, will be sent to each school contributing not less than the amount named above, giving the name and location of the school, and the amount given toward the building. And similar certificates will be sent to all individuals contributing one dollar or more. All contributions will be acknowledged by mail, and a record of the names of all schools and individuals, and the amount given by each, will be kept in the building during the Fair.

THE TIME FOR COLLECTIONS.

The Conference unanimously approved of a vigorous effort to secure the funds necessary, and recommended the raising of $50,000 for the building by contributions from the Sunday-schools, Young People's Societies, churches and individuals. They also recommend that the time for taking the collection be as near as possible to October 21st, the anniversary (corrected date) of Columbus' first landing in the New World.

As the building committee will need all the time they can obtain for the perfection of their plans, etc., prompt action is requested from all contributors, and friends of the cause are urged to forward individual contributions at once.

WHERE TO SEND THE MONEY.

The special committee appointed at Chautauqua to take charge of the matter, have selected R. W. Hare, a well-known business man of Chicago, (also Treasurer of the Illinois State Sunday-school Association), to act as treasurer of the building fund. Therefore all contributions for the "World's Fair Sunday-school Building" should be forwarded to R. W. Hare, Treasurer, No. 240 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

In sending your contribution give the name of your Sunday-school, the place where it is located, the denomination to which you belong, the total number of officers and teachers; the total number of scholars (all ages) and the amount of your contribution.

When contributions are sent from individuals give the name and address of each person who contributes one dollar or more, and the amount given by each.

CO-OPERATION SOLICITED.

The earnest co operation of all the officers and members of the Executive Committee of State, Provincial, Territorial, County or Parish, and Township Organizations, and all pastors, officers and teachers engaged in Sunday-school work, is solicited.

In behalf of the International Sunday-school Executive Committee and Conference,

B. F. JACOBS, Ch'm'n.
FRANK WOODS, Sec'y.

Ice-cream Religion.

The Ram's Horn, in one of its inspired moments, remarked: "The less religion there is in a church, the more oysters and ice-cream it takes to run it." We observe with real concern that some people stumble at this saying. They regard it as a skit aimed at the social life and activities of the church. One scoffer retorts that some churches are cold enough to freeze ice-cream, and that they are just the ones that will receive the Ram's Horn remark with most favor. The controversy bids fair to become far too warm for this weather, in spite of the inviting coolness of the text, and we venture to speak a few words in the interests of peace and harmony.

In the first place, let us all concede that there is no necessary incompatibility between ice cream and religion, and that even the consumer of oyster stews does not imperil his immortal soul by partaking of that viand. Those who are not fond of either delicacy need not give themselves any airs of superior piety when they see others eat. We may be good christians and demolish as many plates of ice cream and oysters as our purses can afford, and our stomachs will tolerate.

In the second place, there is no reasonable objection to the serving of refreshments in connection with church meetings. Who that remembers the old fashioned ordination or association dinner can have the heart to protest against an institution that had so many good features and so few that were objectionable? It is a fact well known to everybody that when people get together socially and feel stiff and awkward, nothing breaks the ice and thaws them into geniality like the passing of simple refreshments. The bustle and stir make even the wallflowers circulate about, and the hitherto silent are soon in the high-tide of enjoyable converse with their neighbors. There is no antidote for shyness and diffidence equal to it, and this is a generally understood fact, and, more or less, forms the basis of all social entertainments. People do not offer their guests refreshments mainly because the people are hungry and require to be fed, but for the social effect of the thing. Churches merely take advantage of this weakness—shall we call it?—of human nature when they attempt to make the people feel more at home and promote their mutual intercourse by the use of ice-cream and oysters.

But there is another use of the ice cream and oyster idea that is objectionable, and that deserves all the reprobation that can be poured upon it, all the shafts of wit and ridicule that can pierce it. That is, the debasement of this useful and innocent social adjunct to the level of a catch-penny, money-making scheme, to save people the effort and deprive them of the luxury of self-denying giving. This attempt to glorify God by filling man's stomach; this pretence of giving something for religion when one is really only indulging one's own appetite; this substitution of vulgar and worldly methods of raising money for the christian principle of giving as God has prospered each—what words can be too sharp-pointed to express the detestation and disgust for it that every christian man ought to feel and cherish?

Of all the travesties of religion, ice-cream religion is the least worthy of respect and of gentle treatment. Away with it from our churches. If we wish to amuse ourselves, if we desire a good time, let us frankly go about it. Innocent amusement is right and wise, and we need not be ashamed to indulge our desire for it in all moderate and reasonable ways. But if we wish to serve God, if we wish to see his cause prosper, if we have a burning desire that his kingdom may advance in all the earth, why do we not with equal directness go straight to the mark? Why try to disguise our supreme desire for self-gratification under the form of religious service? Why belittle whatever genuine religious zeal we have by sinking it in the effort to entice stray quarters from close-buttoned pockets? God and Mammon can no more be served in this way than in any other.—Examiner.

Thy Will Be Done.

This is the prayer of every christian. It is a lesson of a lifetime. It cannot be learned too soon; so we must keep repeating it from day to day and from year to year. Every repetition ought to deepen the impression made upon the heart, that God's will, not ours, is the thing to be done. Many a time we say, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," when we don't really mean it or understand fully what it means. How cheerfully those parents said in their morning prayer, "Thy will be done." At evening time, when a loved one has been taken away, how hard it is to feel submission to the very thing they prayed for in the morning! "Thy will be done" is easily said when everything is bright and cheerful in all our relations in the world; but when the beautiful flower is taken to bloom in a better land, far from the disturbing winds and storms of this life, it is hard to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." But to say it in faith shows the christian spirit, that is childlike. There is a trust in God's wisdom and goodness and love expressed in this that is most honoring to him, and full of solace to a bleeding heart. —Selected.

Be not the leafy, but the fruitful fig-tree.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1892.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

ANOTHER NOTE OF WARNING.

Every reader of the RECORDER will bear us out in the assertion that the RECORDER does not dabble in politics. We do not propose now to depart from our time honored custom. We desire to call attention, however, to a matter growing out of the present state of politics in our country which we think is one of importance, and one that demands immediate attention and care on the part of christian people; and that matter may be thus stated:—

Owing to the feverish and excited condition of the popular mind and heart in regard to the different parties that are now pressing their claims for popular support there is great danger that neighbors be alienated from neighbors, friends from friends, and even church members from church members. Political issues may be very important. We are not blind to the fact that the issues now before us are quite important, but we contend that men can, and ought to, differ quite radically in politics, and yet be good friends and brethren in Christ. Why should we seek to bind our brothers conscience, warp his judgment, and deny him the right of private judgment? Political issues, while important, are not as important as some others. It is a fact that there are quite a number of religious denominations in America. There is more or less discussion or controversy among them. Points on which they differ are often sharply discussed, publicly and privately. Some principles or issues involved in this discussion are graver and more important than the political issues of the day, and yet these denominations dwell one with another in comparative peace and amity. In other words, while there are sharp and well defined points of difference of opinion among them, yet, as a rule, they treat one another with courtesy, kindness, and even with christian love. Why not have more of this spirit in the politics of the day?

If all who take part in the political discussions of the day were ungodly and wicked men, then we would not expect much of the spirit above alluded to; but we must remember that there are a vast number of christians, or professed christians, that take part in our politics, and the thoughtful man who loves the church of Christ as well as his country, has a right to expect that the presence and counsel of such a large body of intelligent and pious christians in places of political assemblies, and at the polls, would so leaven the great political lump of our country as to restrain to a great extent the tendency which is now quite marked, and that is, such an outburst of bitterness, anger, and strife, as to alienate true and tried friends, and even church members, one from another. So high is this spirit of strife running in some communities that we actually hear of threatened or real boycotts of competent professional men, and even of preachers, for their political views or preferences. Brother is turning against brother. There is division in the pew, and the spirit of strife is trying to invade the pulpit and interfere with God's messenger in the work the Master has given him to do.

Now, dear brethren, we cannot expect anything better from men of the world; but it is a burning shame for christians to act in this way. Do not fall out with your neighbor because he differs from you politically, "seeing he dwelleth securely by you." Do not carry bitterness in your heart against your brother in the church because he expects to vote for one party and you another; and by all means do not go to babbling about your pastor because he does not expect to vote as you do, especially if he is a discreet man, and does not dabble in politics himself. There are some preachers that take quite an active part in politics. Privately, publicly, and even in the pulpit, they will air their political views continuously. Such preachers may expect to be talked about, even by good men, and if they persist in such an unwise course they need not be surprised if their churches at times prefer a change of pastors. But the pastor who is discreet and prudent in his politics, and does not discuss his political views in the political arena, on the church yard, or in the pulpit, should always be treated as a citizen and as a man, with the greatest political courtesy and respect. It is quite a little thing, and shows a little soul for a man to search diligently for the political views of such a man, and then because he differs from the political heresy-hunter to talk about him, and try to injure his influence, his hold upon the church, or supply his place with another man. There is no religion, consistency, or sense, in such conduct. Have you ever heard of the golden rule? Is that treating your fellow-man as you would have him treat you? How would you like for your pastor to urge the church to exclude you from her fellowship because you differed from him politically? You are guilty of the same folly when you wish to change pastors because he differs from you. Would you have your pastor to be such a numbskull as to have no political opinions at all, or having them, afraid to make them known even to a friend?

This rule will apply, with almost equal force to any member of your church. Why should you be turned against your brother in Christ for political reasons? Has God given you control of his mind, heart, and conscience? You would resent very promptly any attempt on his part to control yours; why should you attempt to control his, and failing to do so, talk about him, reflect on his integrity, his judgment, or honesty of purpose?

Now, brethren, let us reason together, for some good men are making the mistakes mentioned above. Satan is ever on the alert, and is ready to take advantage of every opportunity to disturb the peace and harmony of the churches of Christ. And you must remember that the methods and spirit of the political arena are not to be the methods and spirit that should prevail among the churches of Christ, and among his disciples, in their daily walk and treatment of one another. Would that the methods and spirit of political gatherings were more in accord with the teachings and spirit of Christ; but even the tyro in politics ought to know that they are far from being such even in enlightened christianized America. You should not forget that some talented politicians who are in, or seeking office, are very wicked men. Some of them may be fair without, but within full of moral rottenness. The speeches of such men often abound with fierce vituperation, vicious attempts to array one class against another, sweeping impeachments of political opponents, and at times sly and scurrilous thrusts at religion itself. The christian that rushes from such an atmosphere to his church meeting, or to the worship of the sanctuary, sadly needs to be anointed afresh by the Spirit of God before he is prepared to show proper christian charity toward those who may happen to differ from him or from the political mentor to whom he has just listened.

Political speakers are very prone to give their hearers advice; and if the man they listen to has any reputation as a politician, or is shrewd enough to deceive even good men by false reasoning, there are christians ready to put his advice into practice, even if it involves the severance of the ties of friendship between friends and neighbors, or interferes with the previous fellowship existing between them and their brethren and sisters in the Lord. It is a sad thing that such advice should be given; it is a sadder thing to follow it.

LET IT END—NOW TO THE WORK.

For the past six months the RECORDER has been open to the brethren to discuss "mission methods," and all have been treated alike—all sides have had an opportunity to say what they believed, and to give reasons for their faith. In our opinion the time has now come for all such discussion to stop. Our churches and Associations are united, and, except here and there, with individuals, they are in hearty sympathy and co-operation with our Boards. It is useless to discuss capital cases before a magistrate's court. Mission methods can be discussed properly only before the Southern Baptist Convention or the Boards. We should not cut off the nose to get rid of a wart, or amputate a foot to get away with a corn, or sever the right arm to put away a hangnail. Let the wart remain. If the corn can't be cured, it can be endured, and if the nail gives trouble, let not your wrath bubble, but look up to the Lord and push on with the work. Fault finding is cheap, and grumbling is weak. Baptists will differ, but they should pull together. Life is opportunity. Ability is responsibility. Warts, corns, and hang nails are not important. Stir the churches with lofty thought and to noble endeavor, cheer their faith, warm their hearts, and point them to victory. Fill their minds and hearts with Scriptural truth, missionary facts, and hopeful deductions, and the work of the Lord at home and abroad will prosper. Our present position and condition in mission work is not accidental. "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter." We shall know only as we push the work. In the omniscience of Jesus Christ, who commanded his people to give the gospel to all the nations, to direct and govern them, in his omnipotence to work for and by them, and in his omnipresence to work in and with them, is guaranteed the final triumphs of the gospel of our Lord in all the nations. Now to the work. Let all else be forgotten. This one thing let us do—push the work—do our best—trust our Boards to do the wisest and best things possible—pray for them—pray for each other—pray for our missionaries and for a growing mission spirit in all our churches.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

CEDAR CREEK ASSOCIATION.

Leaving home on Tuesday, I expected to spend the night in Fayetteville, and to glide comfortably and peacefully down the Cape Fear River in a well-equipped steam boat to White Oak, the church at which the Association was to be held.

I spent a pleasant night at the Hotel Lafayette—pleasant for two reasons. One was, that the accommodations at the hotel were first-class. There is always a neatness about the rooms and furniture, and a deliciousness about what you find on the table at this hotel that is not excelled anywhere in the State. Another reason for the serenity which possessed me was, I didn't know what I was yet to encounter before the end of my journey. The first intimation I had that something was wrong was when I asked a clever-looking colored boy to carry my valise down to the boat. Parting the gates to his ivory grove, he informed me that "de river done dried up, and no boats till it rain." On further investigation I found that everything my colored friend had told me was only too true. So here I was, thirty miles from the Association—thirty miles of the driest, whitest and deepest sand that any man or mule ever attempted to wade through. Just at this juncture I chanced to meet Bro. Murchison, a railroad official, who seeing the despair depicted on my countenance told me that a freight train, which was two hours late, would leave in a few minutes, going somewhat in the direction I wanted to go. Believing that nothing could worst the present situation, I at once decided to embark. A ride of thirty miles brought me to Roseboro, which I learned was the nearest point to White Oak, and being, as I was informed, only about ten or twelve miles, but when I came to learn the truth, it was just twenty-five. After a due amount of coaxing, and a liberal promise to pay, I secured a promise on the part of Mr. McLamb to carry me over, provided I would go in a road cart. Oh, that cart! Whatever else I may forget, I will still remember that. The thing took every motion of the horse, and I at once took the motion of both horse and cart. And now the trip is made, and I am yet alive, thanks to a kind providence. But I feel like I am still trotting, trotting, trotting. The cart had no back, and I was much in the same condition when the end of the trip was reached. Mr. McLamb has, however, my profoundest gratitude for his kindness and his efforts to make me comfortable on the trip. He is a Methodist brother, but he is thoroughly in accord with some Baptist brethren with whom I have travelled—for instance, he has the same idea about plenty of rations and a good place to stay that Dr. Durham and Bro. J. H. Mills have.

Bro. J. G. Fisher was elected moderator of the Association. He made a good moderator, and also participated in the discussions before the body.

I did not hear the letters from the churches read, but inferred from some of the speeches that but little had been done during the present year.

Fourteen churches withdrew to form a new Association to be called the Bladen County Association. If this should result in a strong working body as it did in the case of the Robeson Association, it is a good move; but if it should remain a small, weak body, as some others have done, then it is to be regretted that the new Association is formed. We already have entirely too many weak churches and small Associations.

The brethren at White Oak are building a large house, and when it is completed it will be one of the very best churches to be found anywhere in the country.

The old brethren told me that money had never been so scarce in that section as now. Indeed, I feel safe in saying I have never been to any Association in the State where so few people had any money. I was, however, glad of an opportunity to get acquainted with the brethren of this Association. There are no better people in the world than compose this old Cape Fear section, and it is the hope of all that the sore depression which seems to have very largely crushed the spirit of the people will soon be succeeded by an era of prosperity and real contentment.

I will not close before expressing my thanks to Bro. and Sister Bullard for their kindness as I went and came by Roseboro, their home.

J. C. C.

THE Baptist State Convention will meet with the Tabernacle church in Raleigh, Thursday, Dec. 8th, at 7:30 o'clock, p. m. Rev. J. S. Hardaway of Oxford is to preach the introductory sermon, and Rev. Rufus Ford of Newbern is the alternate.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Bro. L. R. Carroll attended the Eastern Association.

....The Baptists of England have raised $500,000 centennial fund.

....Evangelist Fife is conducting a meeting at Mocksville, N. C.

....Rev. Dr. N. A. Bailey has removed from Orlando, Fla., to Leesburg, Fla.

....Rev. N. S. Jones, of Salisbury, attended the Catawba River Association.

....Rev. D M. Austin attended the Sandy Run Association and represented the RECORDER.

....The endowment of William Jewell College, Missouri, now amounts to about $210,000.

....The best time to apologize for a failure [in preaching] is on your knees.—Dr. Broadus.

....Dr. Durham will attend the Mt. Zion, South River and Cape Fear Associations this week.

....There are twenty six county seats in Tennessee without Baptist churches.—Baptist Courier.

....We are very glad to hear that Rev. Dr. Overby's health is better than for the last six years.

....Never wear squeaking shoes or boots to a religious meeting—to a Baptist Association or Convention.

....Rev. Walter Gilmore of Sanford, N. C., who was recently ordained to the ministry, has gone to the Seminary.

....The Broad Street Worker is before us, published monthly by Rev. L. G. Broughton of Winston at fifty cents a year.

....Rev. W. C. Tyree and Bro. C. P. Howerton of Durham were in the city last week and made us a pleasant call.

....Bro. Richard Battle of Denver, Col., writes us a pleasant letter, conveying the best wishes of himself and family.

....A new house of worship at Mountain Hill, N. C., was dedicated recently. Rev. M. M. Landrum preached the sermon.

....Hon. C. C. Clark was heard with great pleasure by his brethren of the Atlantic Association last week at Newbern.

Rev. E. Allison, an evangelist of power, is assisting Rev. G. H Church in a series of meetings at Bryson City, N. C.

....Rev. J. L. Bennett of Rock Rest, Union county, has, we understand, accepted a call to Rocky River for the ensuing year.

....Prof. R. E. L. Yates of the A. & M. College, and Miss Minnie Johns, were united in marriage last Tuesday evening, the 18th.

....Rev. H. T. Williams has just closed a good meeting at Seaboard—fifteen additions to the church being the result of the meeting.

Dr. Clough, the veteran missionary to the Telugus is very much improved by a four months' stay at the Louisville Sanitarium.

....Rev. R D. Haymore, of Rocky Mount, Va., has received and accepted a call to the Central Baptist church in Chattanooga, Tenn.

....Dr. J. Wm. Jones, the first graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will have three sons in the institution this year.

....Rev. J. W. Jolly, the new pastor of Randolph Street church, Virginia, has started finely, and is having frequent baptisms.—Ex.

....The Catholic priests of Mexico charge from one dollar and fifty cents to two dollars and twenty cents for baptizing a child. —W. D. Powell.

....The new Baptist church, with its graceful proportions and trimmings of stone, promises to be an architectural beauty.—Oxford Ledger.

....Rev. S. J. Porter, of the senior class at Wake Forest, has accepted a call to Perry's Chapel, formerly the pastorate of Rev. E. G. Beckwith.

....Rev. William T. Hundley, who has been pastor for a number of years in South Carolina, has accepted a call to the church at Winchester, Va.

....Religion cannot pass away. The burning of a little straw may hide the stars of the sky; but the stars are there, and will reappear.—Carlyle.

....Rev. J. E. White, the young and talented pastor of Wilson, was united in marriage to miss Effie Guess, of Carey, on Wednesday of last week.

....Prof. J. B. Brewer made a timely and a stirring speech at Newbern before the Atlantic Association on "Denominational Colleges in North Carolina."

....Dr. T. H. Pritchard of Wilmington has accepted the call to Tryon Street church, Charlotte, N. C., and will enter upon his duties there Jan. 1st, 1893.

....Rev. William H. Sloan, pastor of the First Baptist church of Toledo, O., after a successful pastorate of four years, will close his work the last of December.

....Rev. J. T. Albritton and Prof. J. B. Williams, the Moderator and Clerk of the Atlantic Association, were unanimously re-elected at the session last week.

....Dr. C. E. Taylor was heard last week with very great pleasure by the Atlantic Association in a speech of much power on the educational interest of the State.

....The man who by his preaching attracts the people to himself more than to Christ may well consider two things. First, has he ever been called of God to preach? And second, has he been really preaching the gospel of Christ?—Baptist Recorder.

....Rev. B. W. Spillman, writing from Louisville, Ky., Oct. 10th, states that fourteen North Carolina boys had reached the Seminary up to that time.

....Rev. J. B. Pruitt, formerly of Onancock, Va., is pastor of the First Baptist church in Ashland, Wis. He writes us a very kind and encouraging letter.

....Any church wishing to secure a pastor for one Sunday in the month would do well to correspond with Bro. R. G. Kendrick, Jr., of Elon College, N. C.

....The lowest marriage fee in the Catholic church in Mexico is fifteen dollars, when wages for a day's labor are twelve and one-half cents.—W. D. Powell.

....The new house of worship at Sandy Hook, N. C., will be dedicated the fifth Sunday in this month. Dr. A. E. Owen of Portsmouth will preach the sermon.

....Rev. J. M. Holloman, after serving Neil's Creek church, Harnett county, for twenty one years, has resigned, and the church has called Rev. W. M. Page.

....Not every man knows how to take a public collection at a Baptist Association or Convention. Some brethren do know how to do it, and others ought to know how.

....Rev. Thomas T. Speight, who has been pastor of Cashie Baptist church for the last six years, has resigned, and the church has called Rev. J. F. Tuttle, of Plymouth, N. C.

....It is with sincere regret that we learn of the death of Rev. J. L. Cottingham, of Wilson's Mills, N. C. He was only thirty years of age and a young man of great promise.

....Rev. A B. Dunnaway began a meeting at Churchland, Va., last Sunday. He is assisted by Rev. J. R. Harrison. Prof. G. T. Thompson, of New York, conducts the singing.

....Governors Fuller of Vermont, Northen of Georgia and Eagle of Arkansas are all members of Baptist churches and are splendid helpers in church and general denominational work.

....The Southern Union of the Eastern Association will not hold any session in October, but will meet with Jacksonville church Friday before the fifth Sunday in January, 1893.—D. J. Corbett.

....The total amount of contributions of the Second Baptist church in Charlotte, of which Rev. D. M. Austin is pastor, sent to the Association last week was $341. This is doing splendidly for this little church.

....A larger number of Baptist preachers with beaver hats attended the Atlantic Association last week than has been at any Association this year. The Tar River Association came next in the number of such hats.

....The Centennial Baptist church, Knoxville, Tenn., the outgrowth of Mechanicsville mission, has been organized with eighty-nine members. It has a new and beautiful house of worship, well equipped, and is out of debt.—Courier.

....Rev. J. B. Richardson of High Point, who has accepted the call to the Baptist church of this place, will be here and meet the congregation of that church on Saturday before the first Sunday in November.—Leaksville Herald.

....Rev. J. H. Lamberth of Roxboro, N. C., is preaching in Virginia to large congregations. He will hold meetings at Riceville, Laurel Grove, Vernon Hill, Society Creek and Wylliesbury before returning from his months' vacation.

....Rev. W. J. Sholar, the new pastor of the Noble Street church, Brooklyn, was given a reception recently, at which a number of visiting clergymen were present. The women presented the pastor with a fine silk baptismal robe.—Ex.

....Gov. Eag'e has been brought to Louisville for treatment. He was much better, but taking cold has brought back the old symptoms, though they are not so bad as before. It is to be hoped he will soon be relieved permanently. Mrs. Eagle is with him.—Western Recorder.

....We have romantic ideas as to missionaries, and set them on a high pedestal. But after all they are just men. They may be unfit for mission work, or may lose their health. In every great commercial enterprise there are failures, and so it must be in missionary operations.—J. A. Broadus.

....Bro. William Simpson, one of the best known and most skilful pharmacists in the State, who has for several years past held a position at the popular drug store of J. W. McGee, has taken the position of instructor of pharmacy in the medical department of Shaw University.

... Delegates and visiting brethren who expect to attend the Robeson Association at Fair Bluff Baptist church on the 1st day of November will please notify the undersigned by postal card—So writes brethren T. M. Smith, D. M. Shaw, and J. B. Waddell, committee on hospitality, Fair Bluff, Oct. 11, 1892.

....We see that a ministerial agency has been organized to supply pastors to Baptist churches in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and to find places for preachers. The office is in New York City. We are curious to see how the thing will work. Certainly, nobody would get any hint of such a thing by reading the New Testament.—Western Recorder. Why not give the address?

....Public collections were taken under the ministry of Jesus Christ, and the Lord himself showed much interest in the collections (Mark 12: 41—44), and the churches under the ministry of the Apostle Paul made their "pledges" just as they do now at our Baptist Associations. 2 Cor., 8th and 9th chapters, especially 2 Cor. 8: 10 and 11, and 9: 5 and 6. See Revised and American Bible Union versions.—C. Durham.

....Rev. A. T. Denny, living near Roxboro, Person county, died of fever on Monday last. He would have graduated next commencement at Wake Forest.

....Rev. John W. Suttle, who has just entered upon his new field of labor at Blacksburg, S. C., writes us: "I preached my first sermond as pastor of this church Sunday Oct. 2d, to a very large congregation. There is a great work to be done here."

....Rev. Dr. J. W. Carter preached a strong and impressive sermon on Sunday morning last, commemorave of the discovery of America four hundred years ago and of the founding of Raleigh one hundred years ago. Text, Josh. 4: 6, 7—"That this may be a sign among you, that when your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones? Then shall ye answer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord; when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever."

....The Board of Missions was instructed by the Convention at Shelby to use in its State Mission work, during 1891, $16,500, and at the Goldsboro Convention the amount fixed for this work in 1892 was $15,000, with the $3,000 additional brought over as a debt from the past year, making the amount needed this year, $17,000. Up to Oct. 21st, 1891, the Treasurer had received and acknowledged for State Missions, on that year's work, $7,960.37, and for this year's work to date, he has received for State Missions, as his report in this paper shows, $7,360.78. Brethren, please aid us in this work NOW.—C. Durham.

....Rev. C. A. Jenkens of Oxford, N. C., who has accepted the pastorate of the Baptist church here, preached his first sermon to his new charge on Sunday last. His theme in the morning was "The Trials of our Saviour," which subject he treated in an impressive manner. At night his theme was "The Resurrection of Man." His sermon on this subject evidenced deep and careful thought and thorough preparation. Both sermons were listened to attentively by good congregations, and Mr. Jenkens made a very favorable impression on his church and on our people generally. He seems to be an earnest, consecrated minister and will, we trust, be instrumental in doing much good in our town in the work of his Master. After the sermon at night four persons were received into the church membership and the ordinance of baptism administered to three.—Chase City Progress.

From Rev. H W. Wilson

Dear Recorder:—I have not given you an account of my work in some time. I take this occasion to let you know that the Lord is still with me in my work.

The third Sunday in July I had a good meeting at Mt. Hermon in the Pilot Mountain Association conducted by myself alone.

The first Sunday in August I was with Bro. P. Oliver at Macedonia. A goodly number were converted.

The second Sunday in August I held a meeting at Providence, assisted by Bro. J. R. Kallam, which resulted in the conversion and restoration of a large number of souls.

The third Sunday in August I assisted Bro. Haymore in a good meeting at East Bend in Yadkin county.

The fourth Sunday in August I held a meeting at Sharon in the Beulah Association, assisted by Bro. J. R. Kallam. The results were good.

The first Sunday in September I assisted in a meeting of great spiritual power here at Madison. It was conducted by Bro. J. E. Schoolfield of Danville, Va.

The first Sunday in October, I went to Waughtown church near Winston, to assist Bro. Henry Sheets in a revival. The Spirit of the Lord was with us from the very first service, and continued to work with us. Up to Oct. 8th, when I had to leave, thirty had professed faith in Christ, with as many more inquiring the way of life. I never enjoyed a meeting so much. My stay with the good people of Waughtown was pleasant. There is a strong bond of love that binds pastor and church together, and their united efforts are resulting in the rapid growth of the church. Thirteen had been baptized up to the time I left, with many more soon to follow.

A goodly number have been baptized in each of the meetings named above. To God be all the glory and praise.

Fraternally, W. H. WILSON.

Madison, Oct. 12, 1892.

Swift Creek Union.

The Third Section of the Tar River Association will meet with the church at Antioch, Halifax county, Friday, Oct. 28, 1892. Introductory sermon by Rev. G. M. Duke, Friday at 11 o'clock a. m. At 1 p. m. meet and organize.

SUBJECTS TO BE DISCUSSED.

1. Scriptural teaching on communion. Rev. G. M. Duke, B. F. Drake.
2. Scriptural teaching on feet washing. Rev. A. G. Willcox, G. W. Saunders.
3. Scriptural teaching on the final perseverance of the saints. Brethren John Sexton, W. M. Dozier and J. W. Hardy.

All the churches in this section are requested to send delegates.

Everybody is invited to attend, and all who will are invited to take part in the discussions. R. D. HARPER, for Com.

Thou mayst be sure that he who will in private tell thee of thy faults is thy friend, for he adventures thy dislike, and doth hazard thy hatred; for there are few men that can endure it, every man for the most delighting in self-praise, for which is one of the most universal follies that bewitched mankind.—Sir Walter Raleigh.

Letter from the Seminary.

Dear Recorder:—According to a promise made to your Travelling Agent some days ago when I saw him at the meeting of the King's Mountain Association, I send you a few dots.

Louisville is quite a business city. There are manufacturing establishments of various kinds here. Among the largest of these that I know anything about is the "Kentucky Wagon Works," where two or three hundred hands are regularly employed. When in full force, they turn out about a hundred wagons a day. The shops cover something like forty acres of ground.

This is also the seat of B. F. Avery & Sons' Plow Works. Of course, there are almost scores of other manufacturing establishments here, but those referred to are perhaps best known to most of your readers. Five flowering mills also are to be found here.

But more than all else I suppose, Louisville is noted for its trade in tobacco, being one of the largest tobacco marts in the world, if indeed not the largest. This is one of the chief reasons why it is such a business centre.

It is to be lamented that the whiskey traffic also has assumed enormous proportions. Many of these whiskey dealers never more think of closing their doors on Sunday than if there were no such day as Sunday. This practice, however, is by no means confined to bar-keepers, be it said to the shame of the city officials.

Religiously, Louisville has been a Catholic city, and to a very great extent that is still true; but it is fast becoming a Baptist city. The Seminary has been an important factor in bringing about this change.

The opening of the Seminary on October 1st was very flattering. The number of students reporting the first day was I suppose larger than ever before. A large per cent. of the old students have returned, and the places of the absent ones are more than filled by new men. I think it true also that a larger per cent. of the new fellows are college men than has been the case in any previous year.

The total number that have so far matriculated are something like two hundred and fifteen, or perhaps more. These come from almost every part of our great country, with two or three even from a foreign country. One fact that ought to be especially interesting to North Carolina Baptists is the increased interest on the part of their young ministers in a thorough theological training. This is evidenced by the increased number seeking such training.

Besides those who have gone to Northern Seminaries, the number here from our State is larger than ever before. The total number here from North Carolina is fourteen, almost every section of the State being represented. Their names and that of their Association is as follows:

Tar River—W. R. Cullom and B. W. Spilman; Flat River—J. G. Blalock; Eastern—F. M. Royal and W. E. Crocker; Atlantic—J. W. Millard; Raleigh—C. J. Thompson; Sandy Run—T. Bright; Sandy Creek—W. M. Gilmore; Liberty—R. D. Cross; Mt. Zion—G. V. Tilly; South Fork—D. P. Bridges; Haywood county Association—W. H. Rich, and this scribe, who happens to belong to the York Association of South Carolina.

All the above names, with possibly two exceptions, are college graduates or at least have been to college. Of these twelve, nine are graduates of Wake Forest College, two are from Judson College, and one from Chapel Hill.

It is the custom of the Seminary to have an opening address at the beginning of each session by some member of the Faculty chosen for the purpose. This year the address was delivered by Dr. E. C. Dargan in Walnut Street Baptist church on Saturday night, October 1st. His subject was "The Preacher of the Present Day," and this being his first year as Professor here, it was at the same time his inaugural address. The novelty of the thing has about worn off with the new men and all seem to have gone to work in dead earnest.

Work on "Norton Hall," the magnificent new building on Broadway, is still progressing, and its completion is hoped for before a great while.

Dr. Dargan has been away for some days in the interest of the Seminary. Dr. Kerfoot will leave to-night for West Virginia to be gone a few days on the same mission. Let this suffice for this time.

A STUDENT.

New York Hall, Oct. 11, 1892.

Ordination Services.

Pursuant to a call of New Hope Baptist church on Sept. 10th, 1892, the following brethren met as a presbytery for the purpose of ordaining Bro. A. Davis, to-wit., Elder E. N. Gwyn of Elkin Association, our pastor, Elder A. J. Williams, and the writer. After an instructive sermon by Elder Gwyn, the presbytery organized with Bro. Williams as chairman, and the writer as clerk. The church then delivered the candidate into the hands of the presbytery.

After relating his christian experience and call to the ministry, and being examined on the articles of faith, all being satisfactory to the presbytery, he was then set apart to the full work of the gospel ministry by the laying on of hands of the presbytery—the writer conducting the examination, Bro. Williams leading the ordination prayer, Brother Gwyn delivering the charge and presenting the Bible.

On motion, adjourned. Elder Gwyn pronounced the benediction.

C. H. STONE, Clerk.

Haystack, Surry Co., Oct. 8, 1892.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will favor the publisher, as well as the advertiser, by stating that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

Two Important Things.

1. On page fifty-eight of the minutes of our last Convention is the following:

"Resolved, That we request the churches connected with this Convention to give one collection during the Conventional year to aid our colored brethren in mission work and ministerial education, and that this money be expended through our Board of Missions."

In the judgment of the Board, and also of the colored brethren interested, the work indicated above had mainly to be done in the summer. The Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention united with our Board, and ten Institutes have been held and the best results reported. This work was done at a cost to the Boards of five hundred dollars. The Home Board has paid two hundred and fifty dollars towards this work, and our Board is responsible for the remaining two hundred and fifty dollars. We have not received as yet one dollar from our churches for this object. Our Board, trusting the pastors and the churches, followed the instructions of the Convention, and had the work done.

Now, we look to the pastors and churches for the two hundred and fifty dollars needed. Please, brethren, work and forward your collections for this work by Nov. 15th. Who will be first to do it?

2. On page fifty-one of Convention minutes is the following:

"Resolved. That all applications for aid from the Board of Missions shall be put in proper shape and placed in the hands of the Corresponding Secretary by December 1st of each year."

If the brethren, therefore, on mission fields expect to secure aid for their work through the Board of Missions, it will be necessary for them to have their applications in proper shape and in my hands by the first of December. The importance of this resolution of instruction to the Board and of information to the mission fields and Executive Committees of Associations can be appreciated by all who have, through the past years, had upon them the responsibility of arranging the mission work for the in coming year. C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

From Appomattox, Va

Dear Recorder:—Baptist affairs in this section of Virginia are quite prosperous. The late session of the Appomattox Association with my church here, eclipsed all its previous meetings. Reports showed increase of twenty-five per cent. in contributions over last year. My two churches gave three hundred dollars to missions, besides heavy payments on new church building and parsonage. We propose to report higher figures next year despite some shortness in crops.

The past two months have witnessed many gracious revivals in our churches. It has become common to hear of thirty, forty, fifty or sixty professions in a meeting. It has been my delightful task to baptize sixty-five in the past six weeks.

Rev. J. H. Couch, an old "Wake Forest boy," has recently come into our Association, and assumed the pastorate of four churches. He has made a fine impression, and will do noble work.

We would commend to your christian love and co-operation, our beloved brother, Rev. J. W. Wildman, at Wadesboro. He was a tower of strength among us—always ablaze on missions—and we felt weaker by his removal. It may be added that much of Bro. Wildman's strength and usefulness must be credited to the good woman at his side. Mrs. J. W. is a born preacher's wife.

The RECORDER seems to be excelling itself every week; and certain it is, that it represents one of the noblest constituencies under the Southern Baptist Convention.

Yours fraternally,

W. S. ROYALL.

Appomattox, Va., Oct. 12, 1892.

Meetings.

BETHEL.

Dear Recorder:—This church is located in the southwestern part of Montgomery county, and I have had the pleasure of being in a meeting with it and her earnest and devoted pastor, the Rev. G. O. Wilhoit. It has been my privilege to be with and help as a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ many of the brethren in the ministry, and I have been made a better man spiritually and the more enabled to preach the gospel myself by having thus been with them. I can say that I have never in all of my life of twenty-five years as a preacher enjoyed a meeting more than I did at Bethel church. The members of the church were ready for the meeting, and the gospel as it was preached had a good effect, and the church was spiritually strengthened and sinners were saved.

Bro. Wilhoit is one of our best preachers, and from the spiritual condition of his church, I would say that he is also one of our best pastors.

ONVILLE.

I am now at Onville in Montgomery county and helping in a meeting. We have preachers here representing the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches. There is some interest in the meeting. Hope some good may be done.

MONTGOMERY ASSOCIATION.

I will go from here to the Montgomery Association, and I hope to be able to aid in helping to advance the cause of general mission work in this Association. I have learned now that we have just as good brethren and sisters in the Montgomery Association as there are in any other Association in the State, and all they need is to organize their forces, and much more can be done for missions than what is being done.

W. A. BARRETT.

Onville, Oct. 11, 1892.

Have stated times for prayer.

Bro. Harrison's Last Days in Raleigh.

Monday night was observed at the Tabernacle of this city as a farewell meeting to Rev. J. R. Harrison, who had been holding services for two weeks in that church. All who have been interested in the meetings have pronounced it a great work. The attendance has been large throughout, and on Sunday the large audience room could not hold the people that came, so that the Sunday-school room had also to be used. The religious awakening has been thorough and far-reaching, and notwithstanding great apparent drawbacks, such as political excitement, preparation for the State Fair, the near approach of the city's centennial, yet probably Raleigh never had so much religious thought and work aroused within so short a time as during the two weeks of Bro. Harrison's stay in the city. It is too early to estimate the full results of the work. Already the pastor has baptized about fifty converts, and several more are to follow. It may not be overstating it when we say that in the Sunday-school and the public services between one hundred and fifty and two hundred persons have boldly come out for restoration or to confess Christ, and it is probable had an actual count been made it would show more than the highest number. Some precious scenes have been witnessed that time will never obliterate and eternity will glorify. Souls being born into the kingdom not only awakens joy in heaven, but thrills the followers of Jesus here with ecstacy and delight.

Bro. Harrison himself is a faithful man of God. His labors are unsparing to himself. He preaches the word of God with plainness, directness, earnestness, and yet with tenderness and love. He is eminently a safe man—true to the pastor and the church. Free from rant and guile, depending upon the preached word being made effective by the power of the Holy Ghost. He is powerful in appeal, and strong in his presentation of the word. Brother Harrison will always find a hearty welcome in the city of Raleigh.

We cheerfully bear testimony to the aid Brother Thompson has been in this work. Coming on from New York City a few days before Bro. Harrison arrived, he quickly and quietly organized a chorus of singers, imparted to them somewhat his own love for sacred song, and then encouraged and brought in the whole congregation to praise God with heart and voice. His solo singing is entirely free from affectation, and found its way to many a heart. In this respect, as a gospel singer, he has but few, if any equals. But he is also an earnest christian worker, and many a young man will long remember the affectionate words of this dear brother. We are glad to know he goes with Bro. Harrison to Churchland, Va., and they leave with the good wishes and the earnest prayers of many hearts in Raleigh.

J. J. HALL.

Death of Rev. J. L. Cottingham of Wilson's Mills, Johnston Co., N. C.

DIED IN TATUM, S. C., WHILE ON A VISIT.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—On Saturday night last, a messenger came to my door bearing the sad tidings that on that day, the 8th inst., the Rev. Jas. L. Cottingham of your State had breathed out his young life in the town of Tatum, S. C. Twelve days before, he arrived there on a visit to relatives, and to aid in a meeting at that place. His first sermon there was preached on Sept. 20th, his last on the 25th. From the first his preaching was well received, and fine congregations honored him with a close and interested attention, and not without evidences of the Divine presence. He seemed somewhat unwell soon after his coming, and after his last discourse became real sick with what was called malarial fever. Soon it became apparent that his condition was critical; at times alarming. On one occasion, rallying from one of these sinking spells, he surprised his attendants by singing the stanza, "Jesus, lover of my soul," and offering an earnest prayer in behalf of his absent wife and little ones. His wife was summoned to his side, and nobly stood by him to the last. His mother was permitted to come from her home to bless him with her presence and prayers.

The people of Tatum to whom he came a stranger were unwearied in humane and christian kindness and attention. The best medical attention the town could give was generously, faithfully given—but all was unavailing. His brief life of thirty years and one day, his labors for seven or eight years in the gospel ministry ended on the 8th inst., in the hope of a blissful immortality. And as the Cottingham family for several generations had been prominent in this county of Marlboro, S. C., his remains were interred in the beautiful cemetery at Hebron church amid the dust of kindred and friends. Two of our Baptist pastors, the brethren Pratt of Bennettsville and Jordan of Blenheim, conducted the religious services on the mournful occasion, while a vast concourse of people from the surrounding region manifested their sympathy and interest by their attendance.

It was the privilege of the writer to hear four of his six sermons at Tatum; his last was an earnest appeal upon the text, "How long halt ye between two opinions?" in which he made a tender allusion to the emotions that sometimes arose in his mind as he thought of the hesitation of many whom he had besought to serve his Lord and Saviour. How soon are his lips sealed in death! But thanks be unto God, "death is swallowed up in victory." J. A. W. T.

Bennettsville, S. C., Oct. 12, 1892.

We call attention to the advertisement in this paper of "Ministry of Song," the new song-book compiled by Prof. G. Tabor Thompson. The Professor is the gentleman who has so successfully conducted the singing at the revival meetings at the Baptist Tabernacle church here. Send him thirty cents for a sample of the book.

Literary.

Fergus MacTavish; or, Portage and Prairie. By J. MacDonald Oxley. 12mo, 344 pages. Price $1.50. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society.

MacDonald Oxley has given us several most excellent books for boys, among them "Bert Lloyd's Boyhood," and "Up Among the Ice Floes." This new book is fitted to take its place by the side of these, if indeed it be not superior to them.

The time of the story goes back to the period when the great Hudson's Bay Company exercised jurisdiction over the vast stretch of territory called Prince Rupert's Land, extending from the boundaries of Canada and the United States northward indefinitely, and from the great Hudson's Bay on the east to the Rocky Mountains on the west. In this great territory posts were established, which had for their purpose the gathering of furs, secured by giving in exchange for them the supplies of which the sparse population—made up of Indians and half-breeds—stood in need.

To day and To morrow. By Mattie Dyer Britts. 12mo, 192 pages. Price, 90 cents. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

This is a story in the main dealing with a group of young people living in and about a country town in one of our Western States. They were companions in social, school, and afterward in church life, being converted in a meeting held by the pastor, Mr. Farrell. Some of the members, one of the deacons especially, appeared disappointed in the results of the meeting, as with few exceptions the converts were confined to this group of our young folks. He likened it to going fishing and catching minnows. He forgot, however, that the minnows of this season are the fish of the next, and that the children of to-day are the men and women of to-morrow, which fact gives the story its name.

Halford's Luck; or, Which is the Better? By Mattie Dyer Britts. 12mo, 256 pages. Price, $1 00. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society.

Under this title we have the story of two young men who had completed their college course, and were about to start in life for themselves. Parker Willis was a christian, Harry Halford was not. The former decided to become an architect. The latter's father furnished him with money with which to start him in business.

They married and settled in homes near each other. Halford secured a business partner not overscrupulous in his methods. At first they were so successful that Halford boastfully declared it was his "luck." But the misdeeds of his partner, which he to a certain extent imitated, soon brought not only himself, but others of his family into serious difficulty. His partner's wrecked life and other influences, led him to see that there was more than "luck" influencing his life, and he finally overcame self and came to Christ.

Hearts and Hands; or, Maggie's and Ruby's Way. By Ellen A. Whilden. 12mo, 173 pages. Price, 90 cents. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

This story is based upon a series of sermons which greatly influenced the lives of two young girls, Maggie Latham and Ruby Lennox, and which were the means of the organization of a young people's society.

Maggie Latham was an orphan, who because of her aunt's harsh treatment, ran away. She found a home in a city some miles distant, and while there was brought to Christ through the influence of these sermons. After making a confession to those who had befriended her, she returned to her aunt, to receive even worse treatment than before.

The other young girl was the child of wealth, and she too, through these sermons, became more zealous in christian work. Her kindness enabled the young orphan to have opportunities of study not previously enjoyed, and she was the means of accomplishing much good in many ways.

The Way Upward. By Mrs. Retta Andrews Pettit. 12mo, 304 pages. Price, $1.25. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

The importance of true conceptions and method in relation to the christian life is acknowledged by all. They are to it what the foundation is to the building; what the summer is to the harvest. With them everything can be accomplished; without them, nothing.

Sandy Creek Union.

This body will meet with the church at Tyson's Creek, Oct. 28–30, 1892.

Friday, 12 m.—Sermon by G. L. Merrell.

The Minister and his Duties. G. L. Merrell and L. R. Dixon, J. D. Hackney.

The Deacon and his Duties. Laban Moon, H. Smith, Geo. Womble, D. F. Andrews.

The Church and Her Duties. All church-members present.

Are Our Protracted Meetings a Blessing to Our Churches? S. Gilmore, J. L. Smith, D. R. Sears.

Results of a Century of Missions. W. H. H. Lawhon, W. G. King, J. W. Calder.

Mission Work in Telugu. A. A. Newhall, returned missionary from India.

All of the Executive Board, ministers and delegates from every church in the Sandy Creek Association should be present Friday 12 m. O. T. EDWARDS.

Ore Hill, Oct. 12, 1892.

If you are out of employment, and would like to engage in a pleasant and profitable business, be sure to read the advertisement in this paper of Messrs. Moore & Watson of this city. They desire to employ an agent, either man or woman, in every township in the State. Write them at once for particulars.

Catawba River Association.

This body met with Zion church near Morganton on Oct. 6th, 1892. The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. W. F. Hull from Mal. 3: 10.

After an hour's intermission, the Association assembled, and elected J. H. Huffman, Moderator, and N. L. Beach, Clerk.

The afternoon session was spent in reading letters and in the appointment of committees, &c.

On the second day the Association was ready for the regular work. The attendance was not large on the first and second days, yet nearly all the churches were represented. The body is very large in membership numbering about sixteen hundred members representing twenty churches.

If all the material in the Catawba River could be developed, it would be a power. With twenty-three ordained ministers and a membership of over sixteen hundred, yet the entire Association does not raise over fifteen hundred dollars for all objects, including pastors' salaries, &c. I believe if the pastors would put our denominational paper in the homes of these people, there would soon be a wonderful change; for in this way they would be brought in contact and sympathy with the work. Some of our best brethren are to be found among the people of the Catawba River, but there is so much work to be done, they need an army of leaders.

Our time was short but pleasantly spent, and we were brought under special obligation to Bro. S. Huffman and J. W. Mull, who were so kind in coming for us and conveying us to and from the meeting.

There were only a few visiting ministers present. Bro. C. E. Gower was there to help in the good work.

Bro. C. B. Justice ably represented the State Mission Board and got a handsome pledge, a considerable increase over the past year.

The writer did his best for the RECORDER, but had a hard road, as the brethren said they had no money, which condition makes one helpless. Bro. Graves of Virginia fell in and gave the RECORDER a good push. Brethren Patton and Bowden also helped us very much. N. S. JONES

From Plymouth, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—As I have to be both Dr. and nurse to night, having two sick ones to look after, it seems not amiss, though it be to chase away drowsiness, that I write a short report of our work here.

To those who know our strength—it might be better to have said weakness—it will be gratifying to learn of progress being made along some lines at least. Recently four have been added to our membership; and the brethren anticipating the coming of the Association next May, have put the old church in an entirely new dress. This, together with other burdens being carried, has taxed right severely the liberality of a few good brethren, and has brought to light some latent resources amongst the sisterhood. The exterior of the building presents a show of attractive neatness, while the interior—seats and all—is a complete transformation of the things that were.

Well, we all feel better now that it is done, and somehow it makes us feel not only more comfortable, but also more important. I think, too, that some others, not of us, may share also in this feeling. We here, if we despised "the day of small things," would have no day to love, so no one need be surprised that we get comfort from these little things.

Further, there has been an appreciable increase in the size of our congregations, and this, too, I think, we may add to the items of encouragement already mentioned. To be sure, here, as at many other places, there is much room for better things. Not all of our numerical representation, although not large, consists any real strength; indeed, it may not be said to count at all, except as additional weight to be carried. This, however, is a condition common to most churches, and yet, one that demands the prayerful attention of all.

But I digress: I hear the most flattering reports of Bro. Savage at Columbia and Creswell. With material at hand to be wielded, he has shown himself equal to the situation, and is carrying the people with him to new conquests. May he meet no reverses by the way.

It is also gratifying to note the success of Bro. Tynch at Rosser. Aside from all else, he has built the Lord a good, substantial house—a thing that others of us tried to do, but could not. Well, we are all glad, I am sure, for this is one of our most promising missions in this section. We need, surely need, another man on the field, to occupy the territory lying between Plymouth and Columbia. This provided for, I see no reason why we might not in a few years become strong and influential. Sentiment, to begin with, is decidedly baptistic; but being originally of the "Primitive" persuasion, it yields only to missionary aggressiveness. Already the Disciples—better known in some localities as Campbellites—have demonstrated this fact. Why may we not profit by their example? J. F. TUTTLE.

Plymouth, N. C., Oct. 7, 1892.

Search the Scriptures.

I wish I could persuade one single soul, who has never done it before, to commence the daily, earnest reading of the Scriptures.

First, because, as some one has said, it has God for its author, redemption for its subject and salvation for its end. It was given to the world by inspiration of the Holy Ghost; it took two thousand years to begin and finish it; it required the choicest men of sixty generations to compose it; it states the whole case between God and the human race, points out the entire trouble in which the race is involved, and the principles and method of a stupendous restoration. No other book that has ever been printed even attempts this task. Look through all the libraries of the world, and you will search in vain for any other work with the story which this book tells.

Second, read it because of its abiding and invincible nature. "Forever, O Lord, Thy word is settled in heaven." Read the twenty-first chapter of Luke's Gospel; there is a photograph of the future of humanity taken by Christ himself. He stood there and looked off into the coming centuries, and predicted the course of events throughout the christian dispensation, and then added the grandest prediction of all: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away." It is now more than one thousand eight hundred years, and every word and letter of that prophecy has, so far, come to pass. That we have the Bible in our hands to day, after so many ages through which it has been more proscribed and persecuted and trodden under foot than all the books of all ancient and modern times together, is miraculous proof of its abiding nature.—Dr. B. Sunderland, in New York Observer.

HYCOTEE, Caldwell Co., N. C., September 1st, 1892.

MR JOHN N. WEBB.

My Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in informing you that my experience with the "Electropoise" has been wonderfully good. I prescribe it with the same confidence that I would feel in giving food to a starving man to satisfy his hunger, and the uniform success which has attended the employment of it has led me to rely upon it with implicit faith. Under your treatment gradual amelioration in the patient's condition is soon manifested; they begin to gain confidence, courage, and many other attributes; they become ambitious and energetic, competent to battle with the adversities of life. I hereby thank you for the valuable information which you have so kindly given me. For four years the "Electropoise" has been used in my family, and at all times you have patiently given brotherly advice now to use it, and told me every thing that one could wish to know. You deserve the many kind expressions given on all sides, for the success with which all my efforts have been crowned is due to your explicit directions given by letter. Trusting that you may go on with your noble work, I am,

Yours gratefully,
MRS. M. L. WINSTON.

One day a drop of water lay in a pool on the city street. It was stained and soiled. But, looking up, it saw the blue sky, and the pure heavens, and the white sunbeams dancing everywhere, and began to long for purity and for a nobler, worthier life. It looked up into the sky and its longing became an earnest prayer to be made clean and beautiful. And its prayer was heard. Presently the little soiled drop was lifted up out of the gutter into the air—higher and higher. Then the breeze caught it and it was wafted away, away, and by and by it rested in the bosom of a rose, a drop of pure, crystal dew. So God answers our prayers for holiness. "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."—J. R. Miller.

If you wish to secure a certain and speedy result, when using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, be careful in observing the rules of health, or the benefit may be retarded. A fair and persistent trial of this medicine never fails, when the directions are followed.

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING.

October.

Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River-Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-30.

November.

Roberson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourne, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

We pay the printer to give you good advice about health and to lead you to careful living.

Our reason is that Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil is so often a part of careful living.

If you would go to your doctor whenever you need his advice, we might save our money. He knows what you need.

Let us send you a book on CAREFUL LIVING; free.

Scott & Bowne, Chemists, 132 South 5th Avenue, New York.

Your druggist keeps Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil—all druggists everywhere do. $1.

37

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

THE LEADING

Dry Goods and Carpet House

—OF—

North Carolina.

Mail Order Department.

A complete Mail Order Department, in which experienced help only is used. All mail orders receive the most intelligent attention.

Dress Goods,

Wraps, Blankets, Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Underwear, &c., &c

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

Cash with order, we will deliver goods free except Furniture and Crockery), to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

Carpets, Curtains and Furniture.

Everything in Carpets, Curtains and Furniture. Are prepared to furnish, complete, hotels or residences Correspondence solicited.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,

123 and 125 Fayetteville Street.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
I. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c. JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 10, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir - I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY

Price, $1.00 For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Oct. 18, '92	No 23. Daily.	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41 Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 36 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 20 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated May 31, '92	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	2 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		‡9 10 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4.00 p m, Halifax 4 22 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.52 p m Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.30 a m, Greenville 8.40 a m. Arriving Halifax at 12.25 a m, Weldon 11.45 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.30 a m, arrives Parmele 9.00 a m; returning leaves Parmele 7.00 p m, arrives Washington 8.20 p m Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.03 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m, 5 20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.20 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.50 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 11 00 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7.35 a m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 6.40 p m, arrives Nashville 7.15 p m, Spring Hope 7.40 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.20 p m, and 11.15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad, for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect October 9, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 39 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 05 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 15 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	7 45 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	12 00 noon	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*6 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	11 30 p m	11 15 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 00 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	6 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 59 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 30 a m	*12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

*Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 3.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.45 a m; arrive at Oxford 7.50 a m, Henderson 9.10 a m, Durham 9.20 a m, Raleigh 10.20 a m. Selma 11.20 a m. Returning leave Selma 11 40 a m., Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1 05 a m, Richmond 6.18 a m.

Mixed trains leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 9.45 a m, Keysville 2.35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6.00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12:40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2 30 p m, daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 11.15 a m. and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York, Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta; and between Greensboro and Portsmouth, Va.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1892.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 59 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 48 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.

Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.

Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 8:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.

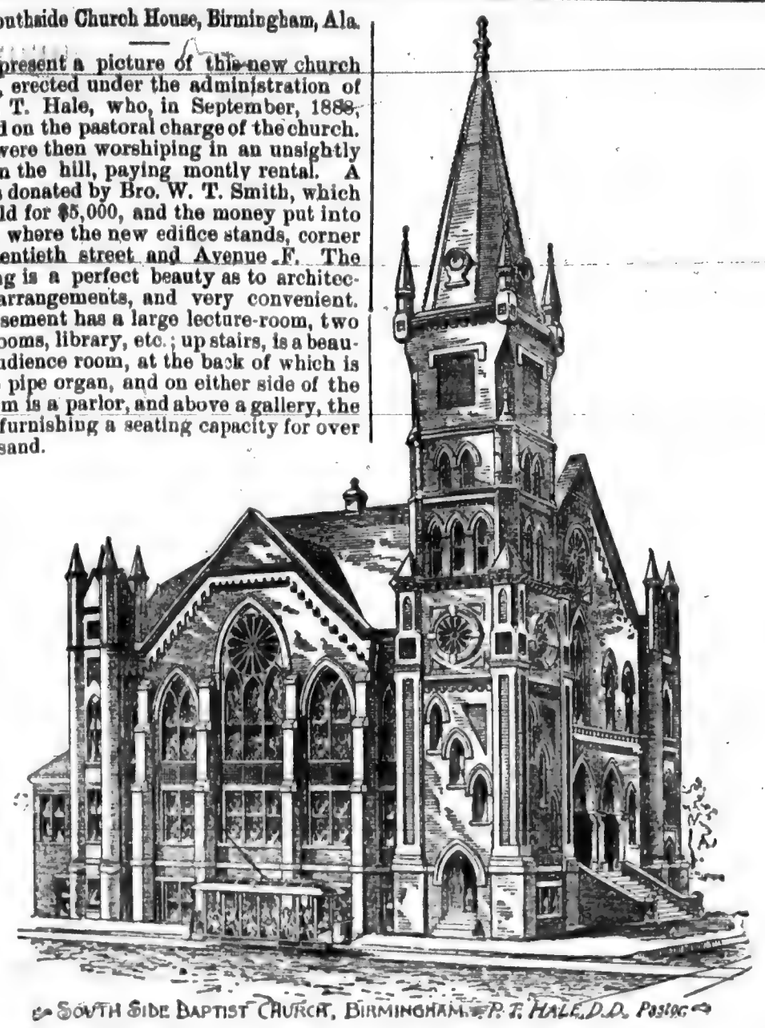
Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 8:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.

JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

New Southside Church House, Birmingham, Ala.

We present a picture of this new church edifice, erected under the administration of Dr. P. T. Hale, who, in September, 1888, entered on the pastoral charge of the church. They were then worshiping in an unsightly barn on the hill, paying montly rental. A lot was donated by Bro. W. T. Smith, which was sold for $5,000, and the money put into the lot where the new edifice stands, corner of Twentieth street and Avenue F. The building is a perfect beauty as to architectural arrangements, and very convenient. The basement has a large lecture-room, two class-rooms, library, etc.; up stairs, is a beautiful audience room, at the back of which is a large pipe organ, and on either side of the platform is a parlor, and above a gallery, the whole furnishing a seating capacity for over a thousand.



SOUTH SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH, BIRMINGHAM.—P. T. HALE, D.D. Pastor.

Announcement by the Secretary of the State Board of Health.

In the death of Dr. Thomas F. Wood of Wilmington, late Secretary of the North Carolina Board of Health, the State lost one of its most patriotic and useful sons. He was an able, conscientious and accomplished physician, an amateur botanist of note, editor and proprietor from its beginning of the present North Carolina Medical Journal, always in the forefront of those working for the elevation and advancement of his profession, and doing more to promote both than any man we ever had; but the nearest thing to his heart, second only to his love for his divine Master, was the North Carolina Board of Health, which was originated by him and kept alive during the years of its feeble infancy only by his personal devotion and sacrifice of both time and money, and through it the welfare of the people of his State.

Having been honored by the Board in my election to the Secretaryship made vacant by his decease, I cannot assume the duties and responsibilities of the office he adorned without thus testifying to his high and admirable qualities, the loss of which is irreparable.

In taking up this work I feel that it would be well to remind the people of the State that the Board of Health was created for their benefit—for the purpose of acquiring and distributing as thoroughly as possible, information and instruction as to the best means of preventing disease. Any citizen of the State therefore desiring such information would confer a favor by writing to the Secretary, who would cheerfully answer his inquiries.

The subject of pre-eminent interest at present is the epidemic of cholera threatening our country. The board has watched the indications with sleepless eye, and has given the subject the most thoughtful consideration, but it has not deemed the danger imminent enough at any time to justify publications which would probably excite and alarm unnecessarily many of our people. The danger is daily growing less, and the board does not anticipate any trouble during the coming winter, but fears the awakening in warm weather of spring of the germs which may slip into the country during the cold weather, when the vigilance of the health officers at our ports is liable to be relaxed. Should its fears be justified, the people may rest satisfied that it will exhaust every means within its power to keep it out of our State. From time to time the Secretary proposes to publish in all the papers in the State kind enough to print them, short practical articles on matters relating to the preservation of health. In the meantime, if you need information or advice on such subjects, write to

RICHARD H. LEWIS,
Secretary, Raleigh, N. C.

"Be Glad."

Happiness is not only our privilege, but our duty. Truly we serve a generous God, since he makes it a part of our obedience to be joyful. How sinful are our rebellious murmurings! How natural does it seem that a man blest with forgiveness should be glad! We read of one who died at the foot of the scaffold of overjoy at the receipt of his monarch's pardon; and shall we receive the free pardon of the King of kings, and yet pine in inexcusable sorrow? "In the Lord." Here is the directory by which gladness is preserved from levity. We are not to be glad in sin, or to find comfort in corn and wine and oil, but in our God is to be the garden of our soul's delight. That there is a God, and such a God, and that he is ours, ours forever, our Father and our reconciled Lord, is matter enough for a never-ending psalm of rapturous joy.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Population of colored people in the Southern States, 6,996,166.

How little we know ourselves! How useless it is for us to attempt to know ourselves by the most careful self-examination unaided by the eyes and mind of another! If we are sure that with all our faults we are not selfish, not vain, not egotistical, not proud, not boastful, not mean-spirited, not envious, not prone to self conceit, not extravagant in speech or manner—whatever may be the point of our self-confidence, it may be that we are grossly deceived concerning ourselves at that very point. The specific faults that we condemn in others and that we thank God we are free from may be faults that show themselves in us in a way that others can see, but that we are unconscious of; and unless we realize this truth as a truth, we are in no state to learn our faults or to correct them. Here it is, as well as elsewhere, that he who thinketh he standeth should take heed lest he fall. We need to gain lessons from the stinging words that are spoken against us in anger by those who blurt out at such a time truths which we should not otherwise hear spoken. And we should often seek help to the knowledge of ourselves from the frank and kindly spoken words of those who love us dearly and who know us as we cannot know ourselves. Let no one of us suppose that his unaided judgment of himself is worth considering as possibly fair and just.—Sel.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best in the market. A single bottle will convince you of its excellence. Try it.

A man who is making others better and happier is never troubled by doubts as to whether life is worth living. It is only the indolent and the selfish and unbelieving to whom life seems a weariness.—Western Recorder.

The dew distills in silence. So does the speech of our God. Most frequently in the silence of trust. In that stillness God's silent love can be condensed into dew-like communications; not read, not heard, but made known by the direct power of the Spirit upon the soul.—Frances Ridley Havergal.

A translation of the Bible into the Sweetsa tongue, which is spoken by 200,000 Africans, has been made by a former slave of Jefferson Davis.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIDGES, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for October:—Colored People.

"Open thy mouth * * * and plead the cause of the poor and needy." Missionaries, 60. Institutes held for education of ministers and deacons. No more important mission field for Southern Baptists. The Home Board needs money to employ colored missionaries and help to educate ministerial students.

Study Topics.—Not "what shall we do with, but for, the negro?" The best christians, the best citizens. Help that help others to help themselves, the best help. Participation of the colored people in the Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

How Missionaries Reach the Children of India.

Babyhood and childhood is not so happy in heathen lands as it is in christian countries, and I have often longed to be able to build a home for poor, neglected children, where they would be kept clean, taught about Jesus and made happy. I used to have a class of servants' children on the verandah every Sunday, when I taught them to sing, repeat some little prayers, and the Catechism and Commandments in rhyme. This is the little prayer which here so many little ones learn to lisp as soon as they are old enough:

Moiu soi jata hun Khuda
Tu mujhe afat se bacha,
Aur jo moiu maruu aj ki rat
Tu mere ruh ko de najat.

I have had children brought to me for medicine when they were so dirty I could scarcely bear to have them near me. I must first bring a basin of warm water and make the mother wash the dirty little face and eyes before the lotion or eye-water can be used. At our hospital I always kept a bottle filled with "potasses," a native sweet which was called the "mem sahib's" medicine, because I always filled the baby hands with the candy to comfort the little heart after we had administered some bitter dose or put some stinging lotion into the sore eyes.

When a child is born, the parents get charms from the brahmin or priest, and tie them about the neck or arms of the baby to keep away sickness or evil spirits, and these priests deceive the people, giving them a bit of paper with a little pencil scribbling on it, telling the mother to tie it carefully on the string round the child's neck. When a boy baby is born in a family, they have great rejoicing, and everybody congratulates the father because he has a son. They often have a band of music and other demonstrations, but if the new baby is a girl, it is kept very quiet, and when friends hear of it, they sympathize with the father and tell him it is a great pity, but that he must hope and pray that God will some time in the future send him a son to bury him when he dies.

It costs a great deal to marry a girl, and you know they begin to arrange for the marriage of their children when they are very young, and never wait to consult them about the matter. The poor mother generally loves her child, even when it is a girl, but she is often treated as if she had been guilty of some great sin that God should have sent her a girl baby. Sometimes they neglect their girls so that they may die, and thus they may be spared the expense of buying a husband for them. Many years ago they used to throw them into the river, but now the English government will punish any who are so cruel, if they are found out.

Some of the children are very pretty and cunning, and if boys, the parents are very proud of their little speeches and tricks. When old enough to talk, they often learn to use very bad language, at which the parents laugh, regarding it as very clever and amusing.

I once had a poor little baby brought to me, so ill and thin that its face looked like an old woman's. The father did not care for it, and would not give the mother money to buy suitable food, and even in the winter no clothes were provided except old dirty rags—all this because it was a girl. I gave it medicine and food on the verandah twice every day, which was as often as the mother would bring the child to me. But the poor little thing had been neglected too long, and one morning I heard that it had died during the night beside its mother, and she found it when the light dawned, cold and lifeless. The father would not even allow enough oil to burn a light, or help to keep watch over the poor, sick baby. I felt sorry for the mother, and could only comfort her by telling her I was sure her little one had gone to be with Jesus, who loved little children, and blessed them when he was upon this earth.

This is to them quite a new idea, as the heathen believe they will never meet again with those who are taken away by death, but that they are born again and again in the form of some animal, or perchance a snake. It is for this reason that they do not like to destroy life of any kind, and will even allow a dangerous snake to live lest they might destroy some relative. Now these are the children for whom you pray and work. God is answering your prayers, and I can only urge you to pray and work more diligently, thanking him that you have been born in a christian land, and have been given a mother who teaches you to love and serve Jesus.—N., in Children's Work for Children.

Some features of the "American problem" are presented in the following table of nationalities comprising the population of the City of Chicago: American, 292,463; German, 384,958; Irish, 215,534; Bohemian, 54,209; Polish, 52,756; Swedish, 45,877; Norwegian, 44,615; English, 33,785; French, 12,963; Scotch, 11,927; Welsh, 2,966; Russian, 9,977; Danes, 9,891; Italians, 9,921; Hollanders, 4,912; Hungarians, 4,827; Swiss, 2,735; Roumanians, 4,350; Canadians, 6,989; Belgians, 682; Greeks, 698; Spanish, 297; Portuguese, 34; East Indians, 28; West Indians, 37; Sandwich Islanders, 31; Mongolians, 1,217. Total, 1,208,669.

And these facts and figures will portray a portion of the task laid upon the shoulders of American christians: Eight million colored people rapidly increasing; 230,000 Indians to be incorporated into our civilization; upward of 110,000 Chinese; some 7,000,000 Germans, French Catholics in New England increasing at the rate of 1,000 per month, and already 160,000 of them in Massachusetts alone, 2,000,000 Scandinavians in America, one-ninth of the Norwegian nation on our shores, one-fifth of the Swedes, one-tenth of the Danes, 54,000 Bohemians in Chicago, 3,000,000 Celtic Irish in our country, the Italians increasing with fearful rapidity—only 44,000 four years ago, to-day there are 300,000!—Ex.

They are with us. Their fathers were not immigrants, seeking a home in the new world, where they might find "freedom to worship God," but exiles from their native wilds, and captives, to become "hewers of wood and drawers of water" for a more favored race. They have as such accomplished the purposes of an overruling providence, and God has made them free. They are accessible, they speak the same language, they are our neighbors, they are employed on our plantations and in our houses. The great commission is to "preach the gospel to every creature." If it is our duty to carry it to China and Africa, by what process of reasoning can we excuse ourselves for neglecting those at home!—Leaflet, "Negroes of the South."

Our Home Mission Board has instructed all of its missionaries to give special attention to work among the negroes (many of our State Boards have done the same), and we have, besides, employed some of our ablest men to hold Institutes for their ministers and deacons, and we have employed missionaries to labor directly among them. We have in our employ at this time about sixty missionaries among the negroes, and we are seeking to enlarge the number and extend the work as rapidly as the churches will give us the means.—J. Wm. Jones.

What Can Cuticura Do

Everything that is cleansing, purifying, and beautifying for the Skin, Scalp, and Hair of Infants and Children, the CUTICURA REMEDIES will do. They speedily cure itching and burning eczemas, and other painful and disfiguring skin and scalp diseases, cleanse the scalp of scaly humors, and restore the hair. Absolutely pure, agreeable, and unfailing, they appeal to mothers as the best skin purifiers and beautifiers in the world. Parents, think of this, save your children years of mental as well as physical suffering by reason of personal disfigurement added to bodily torture. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent, and economical. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.
☞ "All about Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

ACHING SIDES AND BACK, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains and Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing plaster.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.
Please mention this paper.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &C.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.
Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect October 1, 1892.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily.	No. 4. Daily.	No. 12. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	5 00 a m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	8 02 a m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	8 27 a m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	9 48 a m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	11 44 a m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	12 15 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	12 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Stokesdale	1 22 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	1 55 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	2 33 p m	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	3 02 p m	.....	.....
Ar Mt Airy	4 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Bennettsville	.....	5 40 a m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	6 30 a m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	7 02 a m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	7 43 a m	.....
Ar Fayetteville	.....	8 02 a m	.....
Lv Ramseur	.....	.....	7.00 a m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	8.50 a m
Ar Greensboro	.....	.....	9.35 a m

	No 16 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 18 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Greensboro	7.00 a m	3.00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	8.15 a m	3.40 p m
Ar Madison	9.05 a m	4.30 p m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily.	No. 3. Daily.	No. 11. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	12.00 noon	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	1.22 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	1.52 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun	2.30 p m	.....	.....
Walnut Cove		.....	.....
Lv Stokesdale	2.57 p m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	3.40 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	3.45 p m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	4.18 p m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	6.00 p m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	7.30 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	7.46 p m	.....	.....
Ar Wilmington	11.00 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	.....	7 45 p m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	8 02 p m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	8 43 p m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	9 13 p m	.....
Ar Bennettsville	.....	10 05 p m	.....
Lv Greensboro	.....	.....	8 35 p m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	9 20 p m
Ar Ramseur	.....	.....	11 00 p m

	No 15 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 17 Mixed Daily ex Sunday
Lv Madison	9 55 a m	5 00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	10 50 a m	5 50 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 00 noon	7 00 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have two hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Gracious Meetings.

BETHEL, MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

I commenced a meeting at Bethel church in Montgomery county, on Saturday before the first Sabbath in October, 1892, which lasted about seven days. Rev. W. A. Barrett was providentially thrown in our midst the second day of the meeting and staid with us till the close. He preached with earnestness and power. The presence of the Holy Spirit was manifest from the beginning. Eight persons professed faith in Christ and four were baptized.

ALBEMARLE.

I went from there to Albemarle where I have been laboring this year. When I took the work last year, the church numbered eleven members; now we number twenty-three. Then the Baptist church property was worth about four hundred dollars; now it is worth twelve hundred, with less than three hundred indebtedness.

We have a live Sunday school numbering fifty, with Bro. C. A. Shankle, Superintendent, aided by a corp of competent teachers.

The morals of the place are good, the people are generous and kind, and is now connected with the rest of the world by rail, and will soon double its present population. Here we hope to have the Baptist hosts assembly with the Stanly Association in 1893.

G. O. WILHOIT.

Catawba River Association.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I have just returned from the Catawba River Association with good news from this part of the kingdom. This body did nobly "go forward" on the Orphanage work, State Missions, Home Missions, and moved upward on Foreign Missions from $85.00 to $230.00. Saturday was a day long to be remembered by those present. Part of the session was a spiritual feast. The Lord is very good to us. Praise him for his goodness.

CLAUDE E. GOWER.

Lincolnton, Oct. 10, 1892.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

Governor Holt is attending the World's Fair Dedicatory exercises at Chicago this week.

Prof. Gerald McCarthy, State Botanist, was run over and badly hurt by a train at University Station Monday morning of last week. He was brought to Raleigh and carried to St. John's Hospital, for treatment.

The Centennial and Fair festivities are in progress this week. Large crowds come in on every train. Fayetteville street is profusely decorated. On early Tuesday morning there was a general ringing of church and other bells. We will give an account of the celebration in our next issue.

State News.

The Alamance Fair was held at Graham last week.

Work is progressing on Concord's new roller flour mill.

The second annual tobacco exposition at Rocky Mount will open Nov. 2d prox.

An iron bridge costing $8,000 has been placed across the Catawba river in Burke county.

A. W. Campbell of Carthage, lost his residence by fire recently. Loss over $3,500; no insurance.

The court-house at Lillington, Harnet county, was destroyed by a supposed incendiary fire early Saturday morning.

Samuel Jones of Newton, N. C., was robbed of $150 on the streets of Cincinnati, O., by two men, so a dispatch states. Two arrests have been made.

A boiler explosion at a brick yard, three miles south of Charlotte, last Friday, killed William Hunsucker, a young white man, and injured two other men.

The Normal and Industrial School at Greensboro has opened with nearly two hundred students, and the Patriot says that others are coming in on every train.

The Messenger learns that a very attractive programme is being arranged for Wilmington's Welcome Week. The carnival will take place some week in November.

The grounds and buildings of Trinity College, at Durham, were dedicated last Wednesday. Rev. Dr. E. E. Hoss of Nashville, Tenn., preached the dedicatory sermon. A good crowd attended.

Mears who was tried at this court for murdering one of his children and nearly killing his wife and other children, has been pronounced insane and ordered to the lunatic asylum.—Red Springs Comet.

The Orion Knitting Mills received, among others, an order several days ago from one house in Chicago for 2,160 dozen hose, amounting to near $4,000. The machines for making misses hose, eight in number, have orders now on hand that will tax their utmost capacity until the middle of February.—Kinston Free Press.

At Mount Airy, on the 9th instant, Mr. Robt. Harris, and two daughters, and his sister Mary, started to church in a double-teamed vehicle. The horses took fright, ran away and threw all of the occupants out. Mr. Harris' sister was so badly injured that death resulted in a few hours. The others were not seriously hurt.

A young Jap from Yokohama, Japan, has just entered Oak Ridge Institute for the purpose of taking a full literary and business course. He left Yokohama on the 6th day of September and arrived at Oak Ridge Institute Oct. 1st. This is perhaps the greatest distance ever traveled by any one to enter a North Carolina institution.

The Greensboro North State, the Republican State organ, was sold on the 10th to satisfy a mortgage and was bought by Mr. J. F. Wray, of Reidsville.

At Burlington late Saturday night the 8th inst., some unknown man or men attempted to burglarize the store of J. Frank Matthews. Mr. Matthews was aroused, and fired at the intruder, but was himself shot twice and killed. The assassin made his escape. Gov. Holt has offered a reward of $300 for his capture, and the mayor of Burlington also offers a reward of $100. Burglars have attempted to enter several other houses in the town since the murder, and the people of the town are much excited.

In Kernersville, Forsythe county, last Wednesday morning, W. M. Bodenhamer, a young lawyer, was shot through the neck and seriously wounded by C. B. Hasten. The latter immediately shot himself twice in the breast and died in a few minutes. The difficulty grew out of a law suit. A few weeks ago Hasten was on trial for embezzlement and Lawyer Bodenhamer appeared against him. Hasten had been angry with him ever since that time because of the manner in which Bodenhamer criticised him. Hopes are entertained for the recovery of Bodenhamer.

General News.

Mrs. Harrison, wife of President Harrison, continues very ill.

A number of people, and many sheep and cattle, perished in a recent snow storm in Colorado.

The remains of Lord Tennyson were interred in Westminister Abbey, London, on the 12th inst.

A Columbus statue was unveiled at Baltimore on the 12th inst. Cardinal Gibbons made the address.

It is estimated that over 300,000 persons have died from cholera in Russia since the outbreak of the scourge in that country.

The finest block of buildings in West Point, Miss., was destroyed by fire on the 15th inst. Loss, $70,000; insurance, $35,000.

A large cotton factory in Clarke county, Ga., was recently destroyed by fire. Loss, $130,000. The building will be replaced at once.

The Columbus festivities began at Madrid, Spain, on the 12th inst. The city was beautifully decorated. American flags were conspicuous.

The World's Fair buildings at Chicago are to be dedicated this week. The illness of Mrs. Harrison will prevent the attendance of the President.

A boiler explosion in a rolling mill at Portsmouth, O., last Saturday, killed two men and injured a score of others, some of whom will probably die. Loss on boilers and building, $10,000.

A partial eclipse of the sun will occur on the 20th of this month, which will be visible throughout almost the whole of North America if the day be clear.

The Bristol, Pa., rolling mill has suspended operations indefinitely, throwing 150 men out of work. These mills formerly manufactured large quantities of cotton ties for the Southern markets.

An explosion in a paper mill at Orono, Maine, on the 11th inst., killed two persons, injured several others, and destroyed $300,000 worth of property. Over one hundred and fifty persons thrown out of employment.

Bergmann, the man who is serving a term of twenty one years in the penitentiary at Pittsburg, Pa., for shooting H. C. Frick, of the Carnegie Company, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape several days ago. He jumped from the top of the prison wall to the ground, forty feet below, and began to run, but was shot through the leg by a guard.

A Chicago dispatch announces that Mr. Charles T. Yerkes, of that city, has authorized Profs. S. W. Burnham and George E. Hale to secure for the University of Chicago the finest and largest telescope in the world. The only condition attached to this timely gift is that the instrument shall be the best. And Mr. Alvan G. Clark, of telescopic fame, has undertaken to supply a lens of forty-five inches diameter, just eleven inches greater than the wonderful glass at the Lick Observatory.—N. Y. Herald.

Special services commemorative of the discovery of America were held in most of the churches in New York City Sunday the 9th inst. The great Columbus celebration began on Monday. The city was elaborately decorated and great crowds were in attendance from all parts of the country. The feature of the day was the parade of school children, in which twenty-five thousand took part. Tuesday the naval parade took place, proving a grand success. American, Italian and Spanish cruisers participated. On the afternoon of the same day a parade of the united Catholic societies occurred, in which about twenty five thousand engaged. At night a magnificent display of fireworks were exhibited on Brooklyn bridge. Wednesday was a legal holiday, and on this day the big military parade took place. It is estimated that there were over thirty five thousand men in line. It is said to have been the greatest military parade ever witnessed in America. After the military demonstration the Columbus Monument was unveiled in Central Park. Speeches were made by prominent Italians and Americans. In the evening an attractive civic parade preceeded by five thousand wheelmen carrying lanterns occurred. Many gorgeous floats were in this procession. On Thursday the great fete closed with a magnificent banquet, at which several hundred prominent men were present. President Harrison who was prevented from being present by the illness of his wife, was represented by vice President Morton.

At one time last week five hundred Swedes took out nturalization papers in Rockford, Illinois.

A terrible storm is raging along the entire coast of the Gulf of Mexico. It is rumored that one vessel has been sunk. Many buildings along the coast have been destroyed. Fearful storms in Great Britain, too, have caused great loss of life and destruction to property.

In Pittsburg, Pa., on the 11th inst., true bills were found by the grand jury against all the members of the Homestead strikers' advisory board, charging them with treason, and also against all the Carnegie Steel Company officials, charging them with murder, riot and conspiracy.

Prayer.

Anywhere, everywhere, any time, and all times, we may commune with God. It is easy when the object of prayer is understood. We are to focus thought, not so much on our distributive wants as on the grander reaches of contemplation indicated in the requests, "Hallowed be thy name, thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." We are to cultivate a spirit of devotion, and then we can realize the idea of the Apostle's command, "Pray without ceasing." Our closet, then, is everywhere. Steps up to the throne we can find by the roadside or in the place of trade, as well as at home. We shall never feel lonely and desolate, for through the open window of the soul will shine in a transfiguring light from heaven, in which we will gladly walk till we are received within the gates and behold the open vision of God.—Herrick.

The average negro of to day is a very different being from his savage ancestor who first put foot on American soil 268 years ago, a barbarian from the coast of Guinea, with no knowledge of God, and no desire above the gratification of the lowest instincts of his nature.—Rev. Wm. McIntosh.

Prayer has an effect marvelous and certain; it is that of elevating the soul; also in those christians who have the habit of prayer one finds a nobleness of heart, a dignity of character, and a general nobility in all they do which one does not see in children of the world.—Joubert.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Pleasant Grove ch, West Chowan, $7.50; Robert's Chapel ch, ditto, 9.23; South Yadkin Asso, 400.00; Catawba River Asso, 28.53; Tar River Asso, 14.82; D J Watson, Southport, 2.93; Winton ch, 23.23; Mt Airy ch, Pilot Mtn, 3.75; Seaboard ch, West Chowan, 1.43; Sandy Run Asso, 82.00; Ditto, (1893), 17.50; Scotland Neck S S, 6.03; Chapel Hill ch, 5.00; Aulander ch, W Chowan, 9.73; Forest Home ch, Ashe and Alleghany, 72c; Margarettsville ch, West Chowan, 2.10; Tar River Asso 8.95; So Yadkin Asso, 7.00; Two Baptist sisters, Greensboro, 5.00. Total, 595.25. Previously reported, 6,765.53. Total this year, 7,360.78.

Foreign Missions—W M S, Flat Rock ch, $3.51; W M S, Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, 12.38; Catawba River Asso, 40.40; Mt Adar ch, Mt Zion, 1.75; Winton ch, 20.26; Seaboard ch, W Chowan, 2.55; Sandy Run Asso, 65.11; Ditto (1893), 9.50; W M S, Tryon Street ch, Charlotte, 17.65; Atlantic Asso, 48.00; Aulander ch, W Chowan; West End Mis S S, Raleigh, N C, 1.50; Tar River Asso, 158.17; W M S, New Union ch, Montgomery Asso, 6.40. Total, 390.59. Previously reported, 6,995.12. Total this year, 7,385.71.

Home Missions—Mrs Turner Morehead for Diaz Cuban School, $25.00; W M S, Flat Rock ch, 3.50; Catawba River Asso, 18.65; Piny Grove ch, Atlantic, 3.20; Polloksville ch, ditto, 5.00; Seaboard ch, W Chowan, 45c; Sandy Run Asso, 21.00; Ditto (1893), 6.00; Atlantic Asso, 45.52; Margarettsville ch, W Chowan, 2.00; West End Mis S S, Raleigh, N C, 1.50; Tar River Asso, 25.99. Total, 157.81. Previously reported, 2,428.87. Total this year, 2,586.68.

Education—Pleasant Grove ch, W Chowan, $15.00; Robert's Chapel ch, 3.77; Catawba River Asso, 35.04; Winton ch, 8.59; Seaboard ch, W Chowan, 88c; Sandy Run Asso, 9.00; Ditto (1893), 4.00; Chapel Hill ch, 20.00; Atlantic Asso, 7.69 and 82.50; Aulander ch, West Chowan, 12.29; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 8.73; Brantley's Grove ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Stovall ch, Flat River, 6.40; Margarettsville ch, W Chowan, 3.00; Rev C M Murchison, 5.00; Tar River Asso, 22.00; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 2.80. Total, 248.68. Previously reported, 2,158.68. Total this year, 2,407.36.

Orphanage—Pleasant Grove ch, W Chowan, $2.54; Robert's Chapel ch, 6.44; Sandy Run Asso, 13.07; Fairview ch, 1.00; Henrietta ch, 2.25; Aulander S S, W Chowan, 11.10; Brantley's Grove ch, ditto, 15.25. Total, 51.65. Previously reported, 984.91. Total this year, 1,036.56.

Centennial Fund (Home Missions)—Mt Adar ch, Mt Zion, $6.75; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 35.00. Total, 41.75.

Centennial Fund (Foreign Missions)—W M S, Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, $20.00; Southport S S, 2.07; Piny Grove ch, Atlantic, col'd by Miss E V McDaniel, 5.00; Piny Grove S S, ditto, 2.40; Scotland Neck S S, 6.02; Miss Alia Weatherspoon, Sanford, N C, 1.20; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 35.00. Total, 71.69.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Catawba River Asso, $9.25.

Sunday-schools—Seaboard ch, W Chowan, 54c; "West Chowan" S S Convention, 2.04; Tar River Asso, 3.83. Total, 6.41.

Colportage—Tar River Asso, $32.74.

In last RECORDER, the amounts acknowledged for W M S, Bethel ch, Flat River, should be Sunbeams, Bethel ch, Flat River; and 104.18 for State Missions, 321.08 for Foreign Missions, 52.28 for Home Missions, and 60.55 for Education, Shelby, should be King's Mountain Asso.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Oct. 15, 1892.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children who want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Letter from Colorado.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—The RECORDER helps me to preach here in this far off western field. I love North Carolina and her dear people, and the RECORDER keeps me informed as to how the good people are progressing in the dear old State and sister States. I love many of the people in this country, because I am made to feel that they love me; but North Carolina is my native State, and her people are my people and their ways are my ways.

I am to pay my old home friends a visit soon, and look again on the graves of my father and mother, whose souls have long since gone to their reward.

The Southern Colorado Baptist Association has just been held with my church in this city (La Veta). We had a glorious meeting. Much of the good Spirit was manifest among the brethren and sisters. It made me think of happy days in the long ago.

We do not have great revivals of religion in this country as you have in yours. The people here as a general thing are hard to reach. Many of them came here to make money, and not with a view to serve God. When I read in the dear old RECORDER of the great revivals of religion in my home land, my very soul burns within me, and then I pray, "O God, send convicting grace and converting power to the hearts of this wicked frontier people."

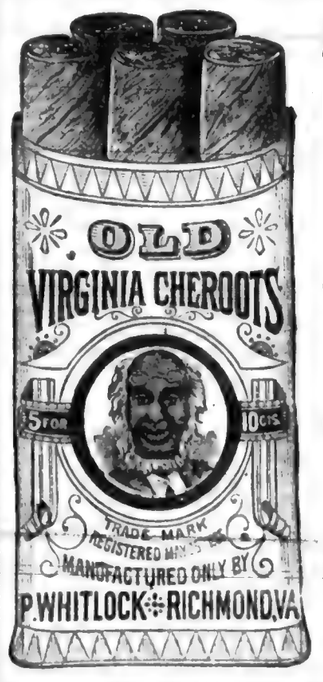
I can't say that I wanted to come to this country, but it seemed that the hand of God was in it; for when I would talk to God about leaving my home and dear friends to come here, these words would come to my mind: "He went and done as the word of the Lord directed him." "And if any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine"—that is, the doctrine the great Teacher came to give.

Yours for Christ's sake,

J. F. MCGEE.

La Vefa, Col., Oct. 11, 1892.

While a performance was in progress in the opera house at Buda Pesth, Hungary, last Friday night, a woman in the gallery was suddenly attacked with cholera. A panic ensued, and during the mad scramble to escape many people were badly bruised.



A TOPIC OF INTEREST.

How you can get five first-class smokes for what you are paying for one.

THE HOW:

Buy five OLD VIRGINIA CHEROOTS for ten cents.

THE WHY:

Made only of choice old leaf by skilled workmen.

THE RESULT:

Smokes sweet and fragrant to the last. 16

TOBACCO HABIT EASILY CURED

HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days.

For sale by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free. THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., by mail. Address 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.

Rosenthal Clothing Company,

305 Fayetteville St., opp. Postoffice, Raleigh, N. C.

Largest and Best Selected Stock

of Fine Tailor-made Clothing, at Lower Prices, than any other house in the State.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

CHAS. M. WALSH,

Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.

PETERSBURG, VA.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

THE ORIGINAL
Patented Dec. 25, 1886. New Patent Stamp on each Waist.
TAKE NO OTHER.
REMEMBER THE GENUINE
JACKSON CORSET WAISTS
ARE MADE ONLY BY THE
JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.
The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon Lining of clasp in each waist.

They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING

If your dealer hasn't them write to us.

CANVASSERS WANTED.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Copper and Tin School and Church
BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

BUCKEYE CYCLE CO
CINCINNATI, O.
want an Agent in your Place.
We will sell you a BICYCLE at manufacturers' prices if you will try to sell our goods. Please write for Catalogue and full information.
EVERY WHEEL WARRANTED.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE. RALEIGH, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

For Sale or Rent

My store building, cottage dwelling, all necessary out-houses, on lot of four acres. Connected by private telephone with Wake Forest, 4 miles. For further particulars, address
J. W. PERNELL, Pernell, N. C.
Sept. 23d, 1892.

A Great Work.

I desire to call the attention of my brethren in the ministry to a few of the many excellencies of the Pulpit Commentary.

The work itself is of gigantic proportions, yet not unwieldly, it being so simplified in all its departments as to bring its rich treasures within the easy reach of all who are so fortunate as to possess this great commentary. When we learn that the expositions and homilies are furnished by more than one hundred contributors, men who stand in the front of christian scholarship, we can form some idea of the vastness of such a production.

But the comprehensiveness of work is secondary to its correctness, thoroughness, soundness. Its broad scholarship is not destructive. The hand of an Iconoclast is not seen trying to remove the very foundation of our faith and hope. Here we see that the Bible is authenticated by the great truths of history, science, and experience. Every field of knowledge has been explored, every statement verified. He would be no mean scholar in biblical lore who had the information of these volumes stored in his memory though he possessed no other books.

We cannot too highly commend the thoroughly evangelical treatment which the different books of the Bible here receive. There is not only scholarship but reverence for truth. Thought is not of less value when love accompanies it. Jesus Christ stands forth as the Divine One to whom human intellect here says, "My Lord and my God!" It is eminently a safe commentary.

I wish I had space to go into details respecting the volumes that are now published. In every instance the introductions to the different books of the Bible show the hand of a Master. The expositions reveal patient study and great research. While not lengthy they are full and not fragmentary comments. The homiletics are admirably arranged and exceedingly suggestive. You can hardly take up a volume and open to any part without finding a gem of thought in a beautiful setting of choice language. After carefully examining these volumes we feel like repeating the words of the late C. H. Spurgeon, than whom none was better able to judge of commentaries, "If by any good word of ours we could increase the sale of this noble series of Commentaries we should count the time and space to be most profitably employed."

I wish to add that A. D. Randolph & Co., of New York, deserve the sincerest thanks and heartiest support of every clergyman and Bible student for their enterprise in bringing out an American re print of this great work. The Rev. J. M. G. Scott is their representative in the South for this special deparrment and will take pleasure in giving any information to those interested, by addressing him at 182 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

J. J. HALL.

Some merchants get the best they can; some get the meanest they can.

Your dealer in lamp-chimneys--what does he get for you?

There are common glass and tough glass, tough against heat. There are foggy and clear. There are rough and fine. There are carefully made and hap-hazard.

You can't be an expert in chimneys; but this you can do. Insist on Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass" whichever shape you require. They are right in all those ways; and they do not break from heat, not one in a hundred.

Be willing to pay a nickel more for them.

Pittsburg. GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Rockahock Church.

Dear Recorder:—Our church, Rockahock, has just been visited by a gracious revival of religion. The meeting began on the 4th Lord's day in September and ended on the first Sunday in present month. Our pastor, Elder W. P. Jordan, was assisted by Elder Bristoe from Coleraine. The latter did nearly all of the preaching, and did it well, too. He greatly endeared himself to our people. At the close of the meeting twenty-nine happy converts followed their Master down into the water and were buried with him in baptism beneath the liquid grave. How impressive and attractive! Hundreds came from far and near to witness the ordinance administered in the old Apostolic style. It seems to have been a reproduction of some of the old Bible scenes. After the ordinance was administered, the immense throng repaired to the church where the right hand of fellowship was extended to the newly-born converts, followed by a timely charge by our pastor. Thus ended a glorious meeting which resulted in the addition to our church of twenty-nine by baptism, five by restoration and one by letter.

Our church is in good working order led by our wise and efficient pastor, who is one of the best church financiers in this section of the country.

W. B. FELTON.

Rockyhock, Oct. 6, 1892.

Between diseases and the many cheap preparations which are palmed off under the name of blood purifiers, take your chances with disease, until you can procure Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the only reliable blood purifier. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine.

Meeting at Waughtown.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We have just closed a glorious meeting at Waughtown. Elder W. H. Wilson came to us on Saturday before the first Sunday in this month, and was with us eight days. He preached the gospel in "power and demonstration of the Spirit." He captured every heart, as well as won many to the Lord. He was at his best, and perhaps never preached more acceptably than here.

I have never seen a community more thoroughly stirred in all my life. Several of the leading men of the town were happily converted to God; thirty-two professed faith in Christ, and sixteen were buried with Christ in baptism. Among those baptized was an aged sister between seventy and eighty years old. I expect to baptize others when I go back to my next appointment.

The church was much revived and the Sunday-school and prayer-meeting will now do better work than ever before.

The RECORDER is better off because of this meeting.

This is now one of our strong churches. They are not forgetful of missions, education, salary, or any phase of the Lord's work. Since the writer has been with this people as pastor, he was very much surprised and pleased when invited into a neat room and saw a fine suit of clothes with other nice articles spread out, and informed that "These are for you." But we cannot enumerate all the nice things they have done.

They ought, and I think will, in the future have preaching two Sundays in the month. God bless this church and people, and help them to go on and do greater things.

HENRY SHEETS

SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN is a sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, consumption, and all throat and lung troubles.

Meeting at Winton.

Dear Recorder:—At the invitation of Rev. C. W. Williams, pastor, I went to Winton on Monday, Oct. 3d, to assist in a meeting. I preached twice a day for five days. I never saw better congregations for the number of people living in the town, anywhere. The congregations in the afternoon nearly filled the house, and at night there was an overflow. The meeting was not as successful as I hoped and as I expected at one period of it. There were only six professions of faith; two of those, however, were grandmothers. At one time there were twelve or fifteen, mostly men, who stood up for prayer, but I do not think that more than two of the number came out on the Lord's side.

Personally, I had a most delightful time. Bro. Williams is a pleasant brother to hold a meeting with. He sings well, prays fervently, and deports himself elegantly. He is much admired, and greatly loved. He is to preach in my church in Portsmouth, Va., on the fifth Sunday in this month, while I dedicate a church for Dr. Overby. In Winton my home was with Bro. W. P. Taylor, "Pat," as he is called. His family showed me every attention that kindness could suggest and plenty could supply. Bro. Taylor is the Democratic candidate for the Legislature. If he pulls through and goes to Raleigh, you must treat him well. I greatly enjoyed the hospitality of the Boones, Mitchells, the Carters, the Shaws and others. My visit to Winton will be another pleasant spot in my memory.

A. E. OWEN.

Globe, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—The Lord has lately given us a gracious revival, conducted by Elder J. J. L. Sherwood, and our pastor, Prof. Buchanan, assisted some. Many lost souls were enabled to trust the Lord Jesus, and were added to the church.

Bro. Sherwood delivered some very strong gospel sermons, and the Lord used them to his glory. Bro. Croom is much used of the Lord in doing pastoral work with our church.

Fraternally, F. P. MOORE.

Globe, N. C., Oct. 10, 1892.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters Rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

MARRIED.

HARRIS—BLALOCK—On October 5th, 1892, at Gardner's church, by Rev. T. J. Taylor, Mr. A. D. Harris of Warrenton, and Mrs. Stella W. Blalock of Churchill, Warren co., N. C.

STRAYHORN—HARRIS—On October 5th, 1892, at the residence of the bride's mother, in Thomasville, N. C., by Rev. H. A. Brown of Winston, Mr. E. C. Strayhorn and Miss Hattie Harris.

DIED.

TURNER—Died in Salem, N. C., Oct. 4th, 1892, John Thomas Turner, son of the late Elder William Turner. He was confined to home-limits for many weeks. His sufferings were great. His friends and relatives are not without hope that he rests in the better world. His words to his mother before death were very touching. Many hearts will go out in sympathy for Sister Turner, who within a few months has buried her husband and both her children. May the Lord comfort her in her loneliness and sorrow.

B.

EDWARDS—Sister Susan A. Edwards, the wife of Bro. Aaron Edwards, died at her home near Gath, Orange county, N. C., on Sept. 15th, 1892, in the sixty-eighth year of her life. She had been a member of Antioch church fifty-two years. Being a devout christian, she exerted an influence for good while she lived, and having "died in the Lord," "her works follow her." She leaves a husband and one son, besides a large circle of relatives and friends, to mourn their loss.

JOHN C. HOOUTT.

FOWLER—Mrs. Mary Clark Fowler died at her father's home, near Chapel Hill, on the evening of October 8th. She left an affectionate husband and a small babe and many relatives and friends with sad and broken hearts. May the Lord bless them in these hours of sorrow. She was a member of the Baptist church at Mt. Moriah, and left the happy assurance that she is now at rest. The funeral services were conducted by the writer at her church, and there her remains were interred.

W. A. SMITH.

Wake Forest, Oct. 10, 1892.

LASSITER—Bro. Joseph Lassiter was born Feb. 16th, 1862, and was suddenly killed by the explosion of a boiler at a saw mill near Benson, Friday morning, Sept. 2d, 1892.

Bro Lassiter made a profession of faith in Christ a little more than a year ago, and I had the pleasure of baptizing him into the fellowship of the Dunn Baptist church. From the date of his connection with the church he led a consistent christian life, and though death came upon him suddenly we feel sure that he was ready. I preached his funeral to a large assembly of people Sunday morning, September 4th. May the blessing of God be upon the bereaved family.

W. F. WATSON.

MITCHELL—At the residence of her parents, J. P. and Mollie J. Mitchell, in Winton, N. C., Sept. 24th, 1892, Mary H. Mitchell, aged ten years, nine months and eighteen days. Sweet little May, how tenderly we loved her, how carefully and willingly we waited upon her, how anxiously we watched day and night at the bedside of our little afflicted child, and how hard we tried to relieve her of her suffering; but we could not, and the loving Jesus came to her rescue and took her from this world of suffering and sorrow, and his own tender, loving hands led her through the final entrance from earth to glory. Blessed thought, that she is still our child, our sweet little daughter, and "safe in the arms of Jesus."

FATHER.

TEASLEY—Sister Morning Teasley, wife of W. A. Teasley, was born in Wilson county, N. C., Feb. 21st, 1844, and died in Selma, N. C., Sept. 22d, 1892, aged forty-eight years and seven months. Sister Teasley professed faith in Christ Sept. 21st, 1861, and united with the Methodist church, but was not satisfied with her baptism, and gave her name to Selma Baptist church for baptism a short time before she died. She was a good woman and died in the triumphs of faith, leaving a husband and two children to mourn their loss. She was not able to go outside her house for over a year, and death was welcomed as a happy change. "I am ready, and shall soon be home," were the last words the writer heard her say about her trust in Jesus.

O. C. H.

Selma, N. C., Oct. 10, 1892.

NICHOLSON—The many friends of Col. John A. Nicholson will be pained to hear of his death. On the 10th of October, 1892, at his home in Rockingham, in the sixty-eighth year of his age, he quietly passed away. He bore his long and painful illness with extraordinary patience, and retained his consciousness till the very last. The funeral exercises, which, at his own request, consisted simply in reading a chapter and prayer, were conducted at the residence of the deceased, and the remains were taken for interment to the old homestead twelve miles from Rockingham. He was always faithful to every trust committed to him. Hence in the business world, his services were always in demand. Although he was in the employment of others most of the time, he never had to seek a position. He was a book-keeper by profession, and most accurately and conscientiously did he perform his duties. He was scrupulously honest, and perfectly sincere. He was as transparent and guileless as a little child. He was always the friend of the poor and needy. While he was open-hearted and hospitable to all, he especially looked out and cared for those who were apt to be overlooked or neglected. He was of a very modest and retiring disposition, and could only be well known by those whose good fortune it was to sit around his hearthstone and enjoy the hospitality of his happy home. But best of all and above all, he was a christian. It was my privilege to be his pastor for the past two years, and during that time we conversed frequently on the subject of religion. He was always ready to talk on the subject and to tell of his experiences in the christian life. He joined the Baptist church in Fayetteville during the pastorate of the lamented James McDaniel, and ever since, for a period of forty years, his life has been exemplary. He dearly loved God's word and fed upon it from day to day. At the time of his death, he was reading through the Bible for the nineteenth time. Col. John A. Nicholson, the devoted husband and father, the honest, useful citizen, the earnest, humble christian, has gone to his reward. May God comfort that sorrowing companion, who for thirty-seven years trod with him the journey of life.

L. J.

Tributes of Respect.

Miss Maggie Nutt, a lovely girl, enterred school at Oxford Female Seminary in 1880. Here began the ties of friendship which bind her so closely to our hearts as members of the Maggie Nutt Missionary Society in honor of whom this Society was named.

When we reflect upon the past, a sweet recollection of her amiable disposition, her moral character, and her christian influence flashes vividly through our minds.

She was married to Rev. D. W. Herring in 1885, and very soon thereafter sailed for China. After spending seven years in earnest work for the Master, they returned to her native home April 11th, 1892. On August 7th, death, not in cruelty, not in wrath, but as an angel, visited the earth and took the bright jewel away, therefore be it

Resolved by the Maggie Nutt Missionary Society, That we bow in humble submission to him who loved our sister, and still loves us, feeling assured that all things work together for good to those who love and serve him.

2. That in her death the Society has lost a faithful missionary.

3. That we sympathize with the bereaved family, and pray God to care for and direct the stricken husband in interior China.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be published in the RECORDER, spread on the record of our Society, and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

LOULA LONG,
ESSIE WATSON,
PEARL TUCK,
Committee.

MARIE DENNIS, Secretary.

A Contribution From Every Church.

The Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention at its recent meeting at Louisville has devised measures by which it is hoped to reach every pastor and every church, with the desire of obtaining from every church, and as far as possible from every member, a special contribution during this Centennial year.

The committee is earnestly solicitous that State Committees and others who may have been placed in charge of Centennial work will co operate with them in the attainment of this end.

In some of our States brethren are already perfecting arrangements to hold missionary meetings in every important city and town. The committee will be greatly gratified if every church shall be visited by some brother whose heart is burning with the desire for Christ's triumph and the world's salvation to enlist their sympathy and their prayer and stimulate their contributions. We appeal to you, dear brother, to do what you can to promote this great end.

I. T. TICHENOR, for Committee.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 8, 1892.

Rev. R. P. Lineback, an aged Moravian minister, died at Bethania recently. He was a native of Salem.

For Boils, Pimples carbuncles, scrofulous sores, eczema, and all other blood diseases, take

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It will relieve and cure dyspepsia, nervous debility, and that tired feeling.

Has Cured Others will cure you.

READ!

We will give employment to a man or woman in every township in North Carolina. Business light, pleasant and highly remunerative. Write at once for particulars.

Moore & Watson, Pubs.,

Box 825, Raleigh, N. C.

A lady of six years successful experience desires a situation in a private family, a public or a private school, for the spring term commencing first of March, 1893. Can teach English, Instrumental Music, Mathematics, and beginners in Latin. References given and required. Address

Miss A. V. SMITHSON,
Finchley, Mecklenbury county, Va.

"Ministry of Song."

Not a poor hymn in it. New and first-class. "Buried in Baptism" worth the price of the book. Now being used in Rev. J. R. Harrison's meetings in Baptist Tabernacle, Raleigh. Price, 30 cts by mail. G. TABOR THOMPSON, 318 West 44th St., New York City.

WANTED!

A graduate of Roanoke Baptist Female College would like to teach in private family or an academy. Can take any branch. Address BIBLICAL RECORDER, Raleigh, N. C.

Asthma The African Kola Plant, discovered in Congo, West Africa, by Henry M. Stanley. Cure for Asthma. Cure Guaranteed or No Pay. Expert Office, 1164 Broadway, New York. For Large Trial Case, FREE, by Mail, address KOLA IMPORTING CO., 132 Vine St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

DOUBLE Breech-Loader $7.50. RIFLES $2.00 WATCHES GUNS BICYCLES $15 All kinds cheaper than elsewhere. Before you buy send stamp for catalogue to THE POWELL & CLEMENT CO. 100 Main St., Cincinnati, O.

DROPSY TREATED FREE Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases called hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. 10 DAYS TREATMENT FREE by mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, ATLANTA, GA.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

VOSE & SONS PIANOS. ESTABLISHED IN 1851.

Celebrated for their Pure Tone, Elegant Designs, Superior Workmanship, and Great Durability. Sold on easy terms. Old instruments taken in exchange. Write for catalogue and full information.

170 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

BELLS Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

—THE—

Biblical Recorder

ORGAN OF THE BAPTISTS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

ESTABLISHED IN 1835.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year, $2.00
One copy, six months, 1.00
One copy, three months, 50c.

To ministers and ministerial students, the paper is sent for half price.

The Recorder

—IS AN—

Excellent Advertising Medium.

Its circulation is large and growing. It is our purpose, as it always has been, to keep from the columns of the paper any advertising that we may believe to be of a fraudulent nature.

For fifty-eight years the BIBLICAL RECORDER has been speaking to and for the Baptists of North Carolina. They founded it in the great crisis of their history, to aid them in a mortal struggle by making known and defending their principles, their aims, and their enterprises. Right nobly has it answered the purposes of its founders. Through all the years since it has recorded their progress, set forth and advocated their views and enterprises, and made it easy for them to co operate with each other in every department of christian labor. The need of such a journal is still as urgent as ever. It is essential to those who would understand the views held by the Baptists, or know what the denomination in North Carolina is doing to extend the Redeemer's kingdom among men.

The following is from the report unanimously adopted by the Baptist State Convention, held in Goldsboro, November 11th, 1891:—

"For fifty years the BIBLICAL RECORDER has been the organ of the Baptists of North Carolina. We believe it has served the denomination well. It has been one of the greatest agencies in fostering the interests of our College, furthering our mission work and all the other enterprises of the Convention. In view of the rapid growth of our denomination and the enlargement of our work, we believe it should have a constantly increasing circulation. We recommend that a committee be appointed to confer with the editor to devise means by which the circulation of the paper may be increased. We earnestly ask every pastor to advocate the claims of the paper."

YOU OWE IT

To Yourself,

To Your Family,

And to Your Church

To Take and Read

Your Denominational Paper.

The two dollars you pay for it will bring you during the year ten-fold in information and instruction, and especially will it prove valuable to your children as an educator. It is our constant aim to make the paper worthy of the great denomination it represents.

A Special Offer:

To all new subscribers who will send two dollars for a years subscription between now and the first of January next, we will send the paper free from the time the money is received until January 1st, 1893, and a full year from that date.

Now is the time to subscribe. Remember the sooner you send the money the longer you will receive the paper.

Address all communications to

The Biblical Recorder,

RALEIGH, N. C.

The Home Circle.

The Burden of the Day.

You chide me for longing to go
  Away from this wearisome life—
Away from the sound of its woe,
  Its hollowness, hardness, and strife.

I have tasted the best it can give;
  I have eaten its fruit to the core;
Then why be so anxious to live,
  When the zest of the living is o'er?

So tried, so hopeless of heart,
  So saddened by all that I miss—
Why should I not pine to depart
  To the home that is brighter than this?

I know who has opened its doors,
  I know who is holding its key;
With Christ in the pathway before,
  What fear hath the pathway for me?

My passport is signed with a sign
  Of infinite pricelessness; so,
As he has emblazoned each line,
  Do you wonder I'm longing to go?

What! go with your day incomplete,—
  The service assigned you undone?
Unwilling to toil through the heat,
  And wait for the set of the sun?

O, cowardly spirit? Be sure
  There is something remaining for you—
Some discipline still to endure,
  Some needed endeavor to do.

Take heart, then, whatever your dearth
  Accepting the tasks that are given;
To work till you're weary on earth
  Will hallow the sweetness of heaven.
—Margaret J. Preston, in Independent.

Advice for Girls.

Can you row gracefully? Can you play the piano or violin charmingly? Can you embroider, paint, and make beautiful fancy work? Can you speak French or German fluently? Do you read all the latest novels and keep track of all the latest "fads?" "Why, certainly, where do you think we have been educated?"

Can you sweep a room, and dust and arrange the furniture tastily? Can you cook? If you cannot, what kind of a home do you expect to have when you have full charge of one yourself? You may never expect to do such work, but if you do not know how to do it yourself and are not able to do it, your servant, if you ever have one, will soon find it out and then will come your struggle. In the words of Kate Field, "if you do not know how to do these things, in the name of common sense, of the man you propose to marry, of the friends who may visit you, of an innocent posterity, don't rest until you have learned the business of almost every woman's life, which is to keep house well and economically. The woman who cannot turn her servants out of doors and do their work better than the best of them, has no right to marry unless she has money enough in her own right to employ a skilled housekeeper to carry out her orders."

What is more pitiable than a bride whose servant has left her and who does not know how to take up the work of her house? Young housekeepers with all their new furniture and numerous dainty ornaments and bric-a-brac have need to know how to care for them. Many homes have been almost ruined by the wife not knowing how to cook food properly. I do not wish to have anyone think that eating is the chief concern in a home. But some one has said that the best way to "touch a man's heart is through his stomach." Men are quite apt to wish to take their dinners down town, or they will "have to meet a man" about supper time, or find out excuses to keep them away, if the home is not inviting. Mothers so often make the mistake of shielding (?) their daughters from work and care, thinking it will be time enough for them to learn when they are in their own homes. This is such a mistake, for when they are in their own homes and all alone, it is too much for them to undertake all at once. How much better it is for them to take up first one part of the work and then another, while they are with their mothers, and have her to direct them and show them which is the easiest and best way to do the work. There are so many ways to do the same thing and often the hardest way is chosen, when, had they been guided by a loving hand, it would have been much easier for them. It is well to have them take up some particular work and for a time have full responsibility for it. For instance, bread making. Have your daughter for a certain length of time, take full charge of keeping the family supplied with bread. This is not such a simple thing as it may seem, for with bread-making should go with everything that can be made of bread dough, such as different kinds of biscuits, rolls, puddings, bread cake, dumplings, etc. By the time a girl has had full charge of that work for say two months, she will understand it thoroughly, and will have a good foundation upon which to build. The main articles of food should be understood first, and then the delicacies can be taken up easily. Then for another length of time she should have the care of the dining room or parlors and so on until she has had experience and practice in every line of housework. It is not every one who can sweep and arrange a room tastily. It may be clean, but has not a pleasing effect to those entering the room. A young housekeeper was regretting that she had never been taught order. Her house was clean but it did not look as if it were, for it was never in order. There would be a pile of things here and a pile there. The dresser drawers were never shut properly, if they happened to shut straight it was well, but if they stuck out a little way it was not noticed. Order is something that is very important in housekeeping. If a house is in order, even if it is not elegantly furnished, it has a pleasing effect. It is more important now that girls should be taught everything pertaining to housekeeping than it was in our grandmothers' time. Then an old and competent servant was usually given a daughter at marriage and it was not necessary for her to have the care of those things. It is not so now. Everyone must know for herself and be capable of taking up the work whenever it is necessary if she would not have her life made miserable. There is no greater accomplishment than to be "queen of your kitchen." Music, art, French and all other so-called accomplishments are good for nothing if you have not a pleasant home. But have them harmonized with your home-making and your household will be happy.—American Farm News.

Setting an Example.

Polly Jenkins came into my room the other day with a very tired look on her usually bright face. She threw herself into a corner of the sofa with the expression of a person who has very little strength left.

"Why, Polly, dear child, what is the matter?" I exclaimed. "Why are you so doleful on this beautiful day?"

"The truth is, Aunt Marjorie," said Polly, sitting very erect, and speaking as if she had the weight of the whole world on her little shoulders, "I am all worn out with having to set a good example from morning till night. If I frown or answer any one impatiently, mamma says, 'Polly, you are setting your sister a very bad example.' If I fail in a recitation, Miss Laura keeps me after school to say, 'It doesn't make so much difference, my dear, your having missed your lesson this time, but the example to the others is so unfortunate.' One day not long ago I was late at breakfast, and papa remarked: 'I'm sorry my eldest child forgets that her brothers copy her behavior. Don't be late again, Polly. I depend on you to set a good example.' And so, Aunt Marjorie," Polly concluded, with a deep sigh, "I am simply worn out. I almost want to be bad and to shock everybody."

"Oh, no, you do not, Polly," I said, laughing at her puckered forehead, mournful eyes, and pursed-up mouth, until her set features relaxed and she laughed too. "I see plainly where the trouble is in the case: you have fallen into the habit of considering yourself too important.

"Why, no," she protested, eagerly. "It is not I; it's other people who do that, Aunt Marjorie. You are not a bit kind."

"But you don't quite understand me. The oldest daughter is really a personage in the house, and a personage of great importance. Her manner of speaking and acting influences the rest more than she can imagine; yet much of the pleasing effect is lost when she becomes conscious of herself, and stops to think that she is doing this or that thing with a view to its impression on the family. Perhaps I ought to find fault with the grown people, and not with you, dear. But now for my advice. If I were Polly Jenkins, I would stop trying to set an example; I would not think about that for an hour in the month. What I would do would be this: to try to remember that being is of more consequence than doing; that what we are is always of more importance than what we do. I should say to myself, 'Polly, your business is to be as nearly right as you can for your own sake, and not for that of anybody else in the home or in the school room.' Depend upon it, dear, you would set a much better example when not planning to do so than when giving your whole mind to it."

Polly thought a little while, and being a bright little woman my meaning came to her. She sprang up, hugged me with both arms till she rumpled my hair and my ruching, and then ran away, saying:

"You are a dear old comforter, Aunt Marjorie Precept."—Exchange.

Satisfaction to Customers

The fact of anything giving satisfaction to my customers is a guarantee of its efficacy. Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein gives more satisfaction to those wanting a good cough medicine than any other I sell, says Mr. B. O. Wood, of Monroe City, Mo.

How to Prosper.

Upward of thirty years ago, when David Maydole was a roadside blacksmith at Norwich, New York, six carpenters came to the village from the next county to work upon a new church. One of them, having left his hammer behind, came to the blacksmith's to get one made, their being none which gave satisfaction in the village store.

"Make me a good one," said the carpenter—"as good a one as you know how."

"But," said the young blacksmith, who had already considered hammers, and had arrived at some notion of what a hammer ought to be, and had a proper contempt for cheapness in all its forms, "perhaps you don't want to pay for as good a hammer as I can make."

"Yes I do; I want a good hammer." And so David Maydole made a good hammer, that perfectly satisfied the carpenter. The next day, the man's five companions came, each of them wanted just such a hammer, and when they were done the employer came and ordered two more. Next the storekeeper of the village ordered two dozen, which were bought by a New York tool merchant, who left standing orders for as many such hammers as David Maydole could make. And from that day to this he has gone on making hammers, until now he has one hundred and fifteen men at work. He has never pushed, he has never borrowed, he has never tried to compete with others in price, because other men had done so. His only care has been to make a perfect hammer, to make as many such as people wanted and no more, and to sell them at a fair price.

Boys, whatever you undertake, do it perfectly, with your might (Ecc. 9: 10), and you will succeed.—The Sunlight.

Be not dismayed by ridicule.

To Boys.

When a boy is patient and persevering and conquers difficulties, it is a sign he will make his mark in the world. If he worries and frets and stews, it is a sign he is likely to die prematurely or to live to little purpose. If he is in a hurry to spend each cent as he gets it, he will never be rich, but a spend-thrift. If he hoards up his pennies and will not part one for any good cause, he is likely to be a miser. If he is careful and economical and generous, he may or may not be rich, but he will have the blessing of God, and if he is a christian, who attends to his religious duties, he will never want. If he is obedient to his parents, he has the promise that his "days shall be long in the land." If he is lazy and indifferent and neglects his duties, he will grow up a dunce, and men cannot respect him. If he reads dime novels or low, trashy, vile five cent papers, instead of bright, helpful literature, he will likely end his days in prison or upon the gallows. If he loves his religion and his church and his Sunday-school, he will be good and useful and occupy an honorable position among men. Are you patient, persevering, prayerful, contented, careful, generous and good? Are you trying to be?—Exchange.

It is too bad to spend half of a short life distressed with neuralgia, when a 25-cent bottle of Salvation Oil will cure it quickly.

A Band of Mercy Boy.

A short time ago, as I was crossing Market street, near Twenty-second street, a boy not over ten years old, who had been walking just before me, ran into the street and picked up a broken glass pitcher. I supposed he intended the pieces as missiles, since the desire to throw something seems instinct in every boy. Consequently I was much surprised when he tossed the pieces into a vacant lot on the corner and walked quietly on. As he passed me whistling, I said:

"Why did you pick up that pitcher?"

"I was afraid it might cut some horse's foot," he replied.

My next question was a natural one:

"Are you a Band of Mercy boy?"

He smiled as he said:

"Oh, yes; that's why I did it."

The bands of mercy were drawn very closely around the dear little fellow's heart, I assure you.—School and Home.

It Helps You—It Helps Others.

Samples of the American Baptist Publication Society's periodicals for 1893 show constant improvement and increased attention to the wants and interests of the Sunday-school and Young People's Societies. Every one, from the superintendent to the youngest scholar, is provided for. Five beautifully illustrated papers, one of them for young people; five judiciously graded quarterlies for scholars; and the two well-edited journals, The Baptist Teacher and The Baptist Superintendent, complete, with the regular Bible Lessons, a series of helps of which the total circulation reached last year the astounding number of 33,417,350 copies. Every school using the Publication Society's helps not only benefits itself, but contributes indirectly to the benefit of every other school using the same, for the profit made on these publications is not only returned to the subscribers in increased attractiveness and reduction in price, but also in grants to poor schools unable to pay for their supplies.

Never Give Up.

Never sit down and confess yourself beaten. If there are difficulties in the way, struggle with them like a man. Use all your resources, put forth all your strength, and "never say die." The cause may seem hopeless, but there is generally a way out somewhere. Are you bound and fettered by hurtful habits? Do not despair. You can't do much to help yourself, it is true, but there is one who never fails to strengthen the young man when he makes an honest attempt to overcome temptation and master every evil passion. "He brought me up also out of a horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock, and established my goings." That is the experience of thousands of fellows who have felt their feet slipping, who have begun to sink in the quicksands of sin, and have reached out a hand to accept the loving help of the strong and gentle Christ. While he lives and loves, no man need ever give up.—Ex.

The smallest Pill in the World!

Tutt's Tiny Pills

SAVES MONEY.

One vial of these pills will save many dollars in doctor's bills. They are specially prepared as a family medicine, and supplies a want long felt. They remove unhealthy accumulations from the body without nausea or griping. Adapted to old and young. Price, 25c. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

USE TUTT'S HAIR DYE; a perfect imitation of nature; impossible to detect it. Price, $1 per box.

University Law School.

40th Regular Session begins Sept. 1st, 1892. John Manning, LL. D., Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., K. P. Battle, LL. D., Professors. 10th Summer Session begins July 1st, 1893. At this session, Prof. Manning is assisted by Hon. James E. Shepherd, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. For particulars address Hon. JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richard J. Biggs & Co.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

202 South Street, - - Baltimore, Md.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.

ARTIFICIAL EYES INSERTED.

EDWARD FASNACH, JEWELER AND OPTICIAN, RALEIGH, N. C.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, Jewelry, —AND— Sterling Silverware.

Optical Goods.

North Carolina Schools

CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

School Books and Stationery

— BY —

ALFRED WILLIAMS & COMPANY

In the Shortest Possible Time and at Lowest Possible Prices.

Send to us for Everything you want in our Line.

OUR SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS:

North Carolina Primer,	5c.
North Carolina Copy Books,	10c.
North Carolina Spelling Book,	15c.
Spencer's First Steps in North Carolina History,	75c.
Moore's School History of North Carolina,	85c.
North Carolina Speaker,	50c.
North Carolina Teacher, per year,	$1.00.

COMPLETE CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Raleigh, N. C.

The Baptist Supply Store,

RALEIGH, N. C.

All Sunday-school Quarterlies and Papers at publishers prices. Sunday-school song books—the latest and best—more than twenty different books—all at publishers' prices. Libraries of 25 to 100 vols. from $5.00 to $25.00. Missionary libraries at $10.00.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY, 6 VOLS., cloth, $15 PER SET.

Biblical Museum, 8 Vols., cloth, $8 per set. Song book—"The Choice,"—1,000 copies under order. Music, by mail, 40 cts., words, 12 cts. This is the best. Mission Centennial—William Carey—A Sketch. —Beginnings of Modern Missions—1,000 copies just received—cloth, 25 cts.; paper, 15 cts.

Address, REV. C. DURHAM, Raleigh, N. C.

FARMERS, BUILDERS, WAGON-MAKERS, PAINTERS, MILL-MEN —AND— SPORTSMEN'S SUPPLIES.

HARDWARE,

LIME, PLASTER, CEMENT, HAIR, NAILS, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS.

THOMAS H. BRIGGS & SONS.

Paints, Oils, COLORS, GLASS, BELTING, PACKING, FILES, IRON AND STEEL.

Raleigh, N. C.

BELLOWS, VISES, ANVILS.

Best Goods. Low Prices.

SQUARE DEALING.

SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY.

BARGAINS.

LARGEST STOCK IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Hardware of Every Description.

RUBBER AND LEATHER BELTING.

Julius Lewis & Co., RALEIGH, N. C.

Guns and PISTOLS

"All Right," "Cotton King," Cook Stoves, Heating Stoves of all Kinds, Rims, Spokes, Hubs, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Glass, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster, Cement.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 58. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1892. Number 18.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

8 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

ne copy, one year	$ 2.00
ne copy, six months	1.00
ubs of ten (copy extra to sender)	20.00

Anonymous communications will always find eir way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely ecessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates hen your subscription expires, and also serves as receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of harge. When they exceed this length, one cent r each word must be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please ate the postoffice at which you receive the paper, well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, ostoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, ayable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send amps.

Character Building.

SERMON BY REV. NEEDHAM B. COBB.

Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, either be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest—Joshua 1: 9-10.

There is no work in this world so important as the building of character.

1. Nothing is so lasting as a good character. "Riches take to themselves wings and fly away." The poor people of the South to-day were the rich people thirty years ago. Men rise up early and sit up late. They spend days of toil and nights of sleepless anxiety in planning to accumulate the things of this world, and when by energy, industry and worldly wisdom they have obtained a competency, their restlessness and anxiety does not diminish. It requires as much care and wisdom to retain a fortune as it does to make one. We live in an age of colossal enterprises. Fortunes such as kings and potentates of the past never dreamed of are now accumulated by private individuals in a short life time. John D. Rockefeller, it is said, is worth $140,000,000, which is $20,000,000 more than an income of $20,000 a year for the last six thousand years. If he had started life with Adam in the Garden of Eden and laid by $20,000 a year to the year 1900, he would not have owned so much as he is reported to be worth, and yet vast as it is, and wisely secured as he may leave it, it will not last as long as the influence and fame of Moses, of Joshua, of David, of Daniel, of Isaiah, of John the Baptist, or of any of the inspired men and noble women whose names are linked with the destiny of God's people or with the brief and sorrowful life of the Christ that was called a Nazarene.

Ever since the days of Nimrod men have sought to make for themselves influence and name by the founding of empires and the building of great cities. Many of them have seen the creations of their genius wrecked by a single blunder, and their glorious cities ruined in a day by the torch of the incendiary; but the man who walks in the ordinances of the Lord, who realizes that "the Lord his God is with him whithersoever he goeth," makes for himself a name that will outlive the mightiest earthly kingdom, and builds for himself, or rather is builded within him by the Holy Spirit, a character and reputation that will never perish, and finally enters into a city whose walls are imperishable, whose mansions are indestructible, and whose pleasures and honors and companionships are indescribable. Character is more valuable than riches, and a good name more lasting than gold.

The elements of a good character as suggested in the text and context are threefold; 1, strength; 2, courage; 3, obedience to God. A man who accomplishes great things for God is not "a reed shaken by the wind." He must be "made of sterner stuff." He must be a man of faith, not in himself, but in God who "works in him both to will and to do of his good pleasure." Instead of bending and bowing like the reed before every wind and breeze of public opinion, he must be one of deep and permanent convictions of right, of truth and of duty. He must have root enough in himself to withstand the winds of popular favor or the storms of popular indignation.

Daniel was a man of this sort. Men who hated his nationality were continually plotting for his overthrow and seeking to pull him down from his high position in the kingdom. They scrutinized his public acts and his private life. "The presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find none occasion nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him," Dan. 6: 4, 5, and they were forced to confess that they could bring no charge against him except they "find occasion against him concerning the law of his God." Even this they could not do by the laws of the kingdom then in force, and they had to procure the enactment of a special statute against the laws of Daniel's God before they could bring any accusation against him. Strong is the man whose strength is in the Lord, and happy is he whose truth is in God.

Be strong in the Lord, and then you may not fear the power of kings, presidents or princes. "Only be thou strong and very courageous; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest," were the words of command and encouragement spoken by the Lord to Joshua when he commissioned him as the successor of Moses to lead and plant the children of Israel in the land promised unto their fathers; and right nobly did he carry out his commission.

2. Courage is an important element in a good character. In this world the christian is not only beset by temptations within and without; but by foes who, like the enemies of Daniel, are continually seeking and plotting his overthrow; or like the enemies of Joshua, fortifying themselves to resist his encroachments.

The christian is a soldier who must be strong to endure hardships and bold to attack his foes. His success consists in winning over his adversaries by overpowering them. And this he must do by the use of stronger and better weapons than they can command, not with carnal weapons such as he finds in the hands of his foes, but with "the sword of the spirit," "love unfeigned," and faithful adherence to him who hath chosen him to be a soldier. "The fearful and the unbelieving" are never chosen as soldiers in the army of the Lord. Gideon had an army of 32,000 with him when he started out to conquor the Midianites; but God required him to proclaim in the ears of the people, "Whosoever is fearful and afraid let him return and depart early from Mt. Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand, and there remained ten thousand (Judges 7: 3,) and this army of ten thousand was still farther reduced to three hundred by the test of lapping water. God wants only strong and courageous men to go forth in his battles—men who can stand testing—men whose characters are strong. He has no use for stony ground or wayside hearers, or for those who let cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches spring up and choke the word sown in their lives. He wants husbandmen to work in his vineyard; but not those husbandmen "who, having put the hand to the plow, look backward." "Forward march," is the order of the Captain, and the soldier must not suffer himself to be so entangled with the affairs of this world as to prevent his marching forward. The tribes settled on the east side of the Jordan were required to cross over the river with their brethren and help to exterminate the foes of God and of the nation. We have no right to sit down in ease while the world is full of sin and satanic influences. We should be very courageous and go to the rescue of our brethren in foreign fields as Abraham went with his own forces to rescue Lot.

Young men, have courage to do right in the midst of wrong; to live pure, though surrounded by impurity; to be true to your God, your fellow-man, and your country, though constantly encountering the false, the vicious and the vile.

He only can be pure who sets a standard of purity before him, and seeks such associations as are pure and lovely. If you would perform noble deeds you must have noble aims, and seek to attain them by noble means.

The advice given by a Northern mother to her son, "My son, get money honestly if you can, but get money," should not for a moment be tolerated, much less pursued in a christian community.

True wealth is in self not in pelf,
In the person, not in the position;
What one is, and not what one has,
Determines his rightful condition.

For character counts more than money,
The man is worth more than his gold,
Though bipeds may climb into stations
Where places are bartered and sold.

Now Moses is greater than Pharoah,
And Samuel nobler than Saul,
And who would be Pilate or Herod
Before he'd be Peter or Paul.

"Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness that when it fails they may receive you into everlasting habitations." Luke 16: 9. Strive to obtain the commendation of your Master by using wisely the things of time so as to provide for yourself when these shall fail. For all those things which the children of this world seek after fail.

Nebuchadnezzar looked upon the splendid buildings of his grand capital, then one of the mightiest cities of the earth, and said as he walked in his palace, "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?" (Dan. 4: 30.) "While the word was in the king's mouth there fell a voice from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken; The kingdom is departed from thee; and they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field." Dan. 4: 31, 32. And the great king was cut off from the society of men and the enjoyment of his honors and his riches until he knew that the Most High ruled in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will. Many great men tried to perpetuate their fame by linking it with Babylon; but Babylon is now a refuge of wild beasts and reptiles, and men are afraid to go near it or to enter amongst its ruins because of them. The beautiful hanging gardens overlooking the city, which even the Greek writers classed among the seven wonders of the world, and which were built by Nebuchadnezzar to gratify a wish of his queen, Amytis, to possess elevated groves such as she had enjoyed on the hills around her native Ecbatana, are now only a vast mound, or hill, 800 yards in length and 600 yards in breadth, valued by the natives only as a quarry from which they can dig bricks and broken sculpture. Surely, "Babylon, the great, is fallen, is fallen!" but the work of the humble fishermen of Galilee and of the saintly Jew who was persecuted at the court of Babylon, like the work of God with which they were linked, shall stand forever.

The School as an Adjunct of Mission Work.

An Address delivered by W. A. Montgomery, Esq., at the Tar River Baptist Association, and published at the request of that body.

The subject allotted to me on this occasion for treatment, "The School as an Adjunct of Mission Work," naturally divides itself into two branches, one of them bearing on the training and development of the intellect, purely, and the other upon the training and development of the religious instinct. The cultivation of both is necessary to the success—full success—of great undertakings. Of course, if preference is to be made between the two, it should be given without hesitation in favor of soul-religious-cultivation. Unlettered men with great hearts and deep religious convictions have wrought noble works for the race, but their work would have been easier and the fruits of their labors more abundant if they had also possessed the training of the schools; for, I am persuaded that the chief object of all the great universities and colleges of our country, at least, is the finding of truth, truth scientific, truth moral, truth religious; and therefore they should receive the encouragement and praise of all who love the truth. And also, a better and more comprehensive view of the purpose to which one devotes his life is afforded by mental training. By improved mental faculties, one's power of sympathizing with others, of putting himself through the medium of thought and imagination into their places and seeing their disadvantages, their unfavorable surroundings, and thus giving them the credit due their efforts, however feeble, toward the higher life, mental, moral, physical, this power is developed and increased. Our leading philanthropists, for the most part, are men of good education, at least, and many have received the higher and more special training of the college and university. It is a mistaken idea which many of us hold that higher development of the mental powers carries with it a corresponding enfeeblement of the sympathetic over our moral perceptions; a certain view of so called education centered wholly on self or the subjects most closely related to or pleasantest to one's self may, I doubt not, have the effect of narrowing one's horizon, of shutting one up in himself and to himself, from which prison house captive sympathy vainly looks forth upon the trials and shortcomings of those brothers less favored. But I speak of true education; this never has and never will cause one to be alienated from his fellowmen, will never put one out of touch with the environments which may encompass him. Training—systematic, diligent, and directed in the lines of veritable progress, and towards an object which is well defined in the mind of the recipient—can never have other than the effect of elevating one to a higher plane of mental and moral dignity and worth. The very term education is suggestive in the extreme, and impresses one of the most beautiful figures which the mind is capable of appreciating; that of leading forth the soul from the darkness of ignorance into the clear and glorious light of knowledge and of true self appreciation. "To thine ownself be true; and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not be false to any man."

To every one not an imbecile, the mind and consciousness must be filled; this is done often with any kind of trash—and worse. Why not take advantage of the fallow-ground to sow in seeds which bring never a pang of regret, but a perpetually yielding and increasing harvest of benefit and delight both to self and those with whom he comes in contact. More especially is this all-around training necessary to the individual or the association whose purpose and plan it is to give to the nations a new system of theology—a new system of morals. The giving of the christian religion to the races and peoples in the place of their own is what the churches call the Foreign Mission work. The immensity of this work can be appreciated when it is stated that there are a billion people who do not enjoy a christian civilization, and two hundred millions of these are in a state of savagery. Surely no greater, nor more arduous or difficult work was ever laid upon man than the christianizing of these nations; and certainly the most complete preparation possible should be made for it. Of all the men on earth the missionary should be taught to think, and to think correctly and accurately as well as religiously. And all this is equally true of Home Missions. While christianity is extending its labors and its conquests into foreign lands, is sending out its bravest and its best to the heathen, it may be well, for a moment, to take a glance at our own home field.

If we could only realize the true state of religious affairs in our own home country, while we might not and ought not to abate one jot in our zeal for Foreign Missions, yet we would certainly make more faithful efforts for the conversion of our own people to the christian religion. Our average citizen has no idea of the immense majority of unbelievers over believers in the United States. There is scarcely any difference in the moral, physical and religious condition of the populous portions of the city of London and our own larger cities. Read in "The Bitter Cry of Outcast London," and know that the same sad scenes and conditions depicted there exist with us.

"Few who will read these pages have any conception of what these pestilential human rookeries are, where tens of thousands are crowded together amidst horrors which call to mind what we have heard of the middle passage of the slave ship. To get into them you have to penetrate courts reeking with poisonous gases arising from accumulations of sewage and refuse scattered in all directions and often flowing beneath your feet; courts many of them which the sun never penetrates, which are never visited by a breath of pure air. You have to ascend rotten staircases, grope your way long dark and filthy passages swarming with vermin, then if you are not driven back by the intolerable stench, you may gain admittance to the dens in which these thousands herd together. Walls and ceilings are black with accretions of filth which have gathered upon them through long years of neglect. Every room in these rotten and reeking tenement houses live a family, often two. In one cellar a sanitary inspector reports finding a father, mother, three children and four pigs. Here are seven children living in one underground kitchen, and a little dead child lying in the same room. In another apartment, nine brothers and sisters from twenty-nine years of age downwards live, eat and sleep together. Where there are beds, they are simply heaps of dirty rags, shavings and straw; but for the most part these miserable beings find rest only upon the filthy boards. There are men and women who live and die day by day in their wretched single rooms, sharing all the family trouble, enduring the hunger and the cold and waiting without hope, without a single ray of comfort, until God curtains their staring eyes with the merciful film of death."

The poet must have had such scenes as these in view when he wrote:

A beggar died last night, his soul
Went up to God and said:
"I come uncalled, forgive it, Lord,
I died for the want of bread."

Then answered him the Lord of Heaven,
"Son, how can this thing be?
Are not my saints on earth? and they Had surely succored thee."

"Thy saints, O Lord," the beggar said,
"Live holy lives of prayer,
How shall they know of such as we?
We perish unaware.

They strive to save our wicked souls,
And fit them for the sky;
Meanwhile not having bread to eat,
(Forgive), our bodies die."

Then the Lord God spoke out of Heaven,
In wrath and angry pain;
"O men, for whom my Son hath died,
My Son hath lived in vain."

A New York Superior Court Judge lately said: "There is a large class—I was about to say a majority—of the population of New York and Brooklyn, who just live, and to whom the rearing of two or more children means inevitably a boy for the penitentiary and a girl for the brothel."

In "Darkest England," Gen. Booth says, that in certain quarters of London where the poor live, there are 600,000 souls who attend no church and who believe no gospel.

So in Chicago and Boston we find one church to every 2,500 people, in New York and St. Louis one to every 3,000 people.

In Chicago, Dr. Strong, in his "Our Country," says: "There is a certain district of which a careful examination has been made, and in that district, out of a population of 50,000, there are 20,000 under twenty years of age, and there are Sunday-school accommodations for less than 2,000, that is, 18,000 of the children and youths are compelled to go without the gospel of Jesus Christ because the christian churches are asleep! What wonder that the police arrested in one year 7,200 of these boys and girls for various petty crimes! The devil cares for them. There are 261 saloons and dago shops, three theatres, and other vile places, and the christian church offers Sunday-school accommodations to only 2,000." And the same authority says that "south of 14th street, New York, there is a population of over a half million, for whom there is one Protestant church to every 5,000 souls, and in our larger cities it is quite common to find extensive districts nearly or quite destitute of the gospel. Along with all this sin, depravity and poverty, and as the direct cause of most of it, the terrible forces of intemperance and the liquor power are at work. There are made and drank in the United States each year twenty five millions of malt liquors and just as much of distilled liquors. The average number of saloons in the States between the Mississippi and Rocky Mountains is one to every 112 voters; in the eleven mountain States, one to every 43 voters; east of the Mississippi, the average is one to 107 voters. There are 240,000 liquor dealers and manufacturers in the United States, and allowing each saloon twenty feet front, they would reach in an unbroken line from New York to Chicago."

Then, too, there are in our country not less than twenty millions of foreigners including their children of the first generation, who generally profess no religion, and when they do, it is that of Rome. You see, then, that the greatest wickedness in the world is to be found not among the heathen, but among the nations possessing the highest civilization, "where the light of truth is diffused and rejected;" and you see, also, that the battle is on to the death in our own country between the forces of evil on one side, and the christian religion and its civilization on the other. The mind and the brain cultivated to their highest pitch, and the most constant and unselfish labors of us all, are necessary to bring into play those great spiritual and religious forces which shall turn into the kingdom of our Lord the powers of this world. But after the duties of the hour are made clear through a system of mental training, the fullest moral and religious conviction is necessary to put them into practical operation. The study of the four gospels, of course, is the best means of this inspiration, and equally as certain it is that the best results of this study come to the man who is intellectually prepared, all other things being equal; and therefore it is that the intellectural and moral powers must be cultivated together, and thoroughly too, if we would get the clearest view of the doctrine of Jesus which teaches love, humility, self-denial and the duty of returning good for evil. The truths of this doctrine so clearly set forth in the gospels, and especially in the sermon on the mount, are easily explained away by the theologians who teach that they only point out an ideal perfection to which man should aspire, but that we cannot attain to such an ideal, and that our salvation is in prayer and grace and faith. The faculties should be so trained as to grasp, and also to pierce, the fallacies of the dogmatist; and the whole man should be so much in sympathy with the Christ in the patient and earnest study of his word as to desire above all things to act out those rules of life which he declared with so much force and clearness, and addressed to the understanding of every one. It requires both intellectual and pious training to fully understand and fully appreciate the reasonable meaning and purpose of the truths conveyed in the five great commandments declared by the Christ, when we consider the varying comments, interpretations and ideas put upon them by those who occupy exalted positions in many of the churches; and those comments most generally tending towards compromising and whittling away their true meaning and purpose. To illustrate, let us examine hastily these commandments and some of these interpretations. The first is, "Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment; but I say unto you that whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment." The words "without a cause" are an interpolation, Tolstoi informs us, after he had examined the gospel texts and the citations of the Fathers. They are missing in the best copies up to the fifth century, and they are omitted in the Revised Edition of the New Testament. Taken in connection with another of His commandments, they can mean nothing else but that men are forbidden to be angry, whatever the cause and without distinction of persons. Did Jesus enjoin peace on all men, observe the same himself, and then allow men to be angry if they had cause for it? Who is to be the judge of the cause for anger? Whoever saw a mad man who did not believe he had cause for his anger? Evidently, if these words are allowed to remain in the text, the duty enjoined loses its entire force; and yet, as a rule, with few exceptions, the commentators and theologians, retaining the words, base their arguments upon them for justifiable anger—"anger for the glory of God." The words are an exhortation to absolute peace, when the whole character and life of Jesus are considered. This first commandment of Jesus, then, is to live in peace with all men. "Do not regard anger as justifiable under any circumstances: never look upon any human being as raca—worthless, or as a fool. Not only refrain from anger yourself, but do not regard the anger of others towards you as vain. If any one is angry with you, even without reason, be reconciled to him that all hostile feeling may be effaced; agree quickly with those who have a grievance against you lest animosity prevail to your loss." The second of His commandments can be read in Matthew 5: 27 and 32, and upon a proper interpretation of the oldest and most reliable manuscripts of the New Testament, while they denounce the sin therein named, they deny the right of divorce in any and all cases, or for any or all causes; and this interpretation is fully borne out by Luke in his gospel, chap. 16, verse 18; Mark 10: 5 and 12; and Paul in 1 Cor. 7: 11. There is no exception anywhere. "They are no more twain, but one flesh. What God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." If either of the parties commit the sin prohibited, however they may live with reference to each other thereafter, it is certain that in no event is divorce allowable; no other marriage is to be tolerated. Forgiveness or estrangement, but never divorce. And yet observe if you will, all the churches except the Roman, celebrating marriages between persons who have been divorced, simply because the laws of men allow it! This is as much opposed to the second commandment of Christ as was the law of Moses which allowed any man who took up an aversion to his wife, on account of her age or her infirmities, to write her a bill of divorcement and send her out of his house; and here, please observe a radical difference between

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1892.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

FAITH.

The Apostle Paul stated a grand truth, true especially of God's people under the new dispensation, when he wrote, (2 Cor. 5: 7), "For we walk by faith, and not by sight." We should remember that it takes a higher order of religion, and more genuine spirituality, for one to walk by faith than to walk by sight; and preachers and Bible expositors generally would do well to bear this distinction in mind when discussing the faith of modern christians, as compared with that of ancient servants of the Lord. Abraham, we admit, exhibited a superior kind of faith when he left home, friends, and country, to seek a country then unknown to him, to go he knew not where; but it is well to recall the fact that he went after God had spoken to him with an audible voice, and not only commanded him to depart, but assured him of his presence and blessing. Candor compels us to admit that Abraham shows the sublimest order of faith, however, in his intended offering of Isaac his son; for, although God spoke to him, yet he uttered not a word that threw any light on the situation or gave any clue as to why the command to offer Isaac was given.

Gideon showed strong faith in attacking the great host of the Midianites with only three hundred men; but the attack was made only after God gave him visible proofs of his presence and his willingness to help him in the conflict. So with many, and we may say the majority, of the justly admired exploits or deeds of God's ancient servants. We mention these facts not to disparage the faith of the ancients, but really as a matter of just reasoning, and to encourage those christians at the present day who may often become discouraged when they compare their faith with what they suppose to have been the superior faith of the ancients. We honestly believe that there are men and women now living whose faith will compare favorably with that of Abraham, and if tested, would be found the equal, if not the superior, of that of other worthies that figured in Bible history.

Yet, while this is true of many christians of the day, if we were asked to state what we think is one of the most common faults of christians of the present age, we would say a want of faith in God and in the promises of his holy word. We see this evidenced in so many ways that we are forced to this conclusion. Let us specify:—

For instance, we see good men and women often beset by the greatest anxiety about what they shall eat and what they shall wear when they have a Father in heaven that provides for the fowls of the air, and clothes the lily of the field with a beauty that Solomon in all his glory did not possess. The haggard face, the restless night, the stifled groan, are often proof of a want of faith in God the Father, and in Christ the Son. Ah, who can tell how much of joy christians deprive themselves of, and how many burdens of anxiety and sorrow they bear, by failing to read and believe Christ's words found in Matt. 6: 25-34!

Again, we find ministers of the gospel at times holding on to churches even when they have reason to know that they could be more useful elsewhere simply because they have not faith enough to resign unconditionally and trust the Lord to furnish them another field. Some, it is true, have the courage to resign even when another field is not in sight; but many, we fear, do not, and, we repeat, this shows a want of faith. If the Lord has called a man to preach, he will, in his own way, see to it that he has work to do. He does not require his servant to remain where the people do not want him; nor does he even require him to occupy the unpleasant condition of ministering to a church when opposed by anything like a respectable minority. When for any reason, then, the preacher's stay at any particular place cannot be continued without placing him in an awkward position, let him resign charge of the church, though there is no other in sight. Hath not the Lord said "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee!" and has not the Saviour said "Lo, I am with thee alway, even unto the end!" And it helps the average preacher sometimes to have human props knocked from beneath him that he may learn again the lesson of how to lean upon the Lord. It may be a sad day or night in his history when, prompted by honest conviction of duty, he hands in his resignation to his church and steps down out of the pulpit from which he has often ministered to his people and goes home perhaps to find his patient wife in tears. But listen to the prayer that night that he offers before retiring. Is there not a pathos and a power in it not in the ordinary prayer at family worship? For he knows not indeed what the morrow may bring forth, or whither he shall go. When the call comes for new work, and from perhaps an unexpected source, how great the peace that comes upon his soul when he sees how the Great Shepherd has led him and placed him where he is needed! While he is thinking of resigning, and after he has resigned, then there is no need that he should resort to any unfair means to secure a pastorate. He need not interview the members of his brother pastor's church; he need not pass any adverse criticisms upon the pastor of such church, and hint what he would do were he pastor; he need not underbid his brother pastor and offer to serve the church for a smaller salary, (contemptible conduct); he need not get others to do what he is ashamed to do himself by way of securing another's pastorate; in short, he need not, and should not, violate the golden rule that teaches us to do unto others as we would have them do unto us. We fear that Christ's words, Matt. 7: 12, "All things, therefore," &c., are a dead letter with christians and with some claiming to be preachers of the gospel. If it was a sin for Ahab to covet Naboth's vineyard, it is a sin for you to covet your brother pastor's pastorate, or make any conscious effort to obtain it until you are sure he intends to leave it. Even in that case it is decidedly in better taste to consult the retiring pastor before consulting any of his members, because churches often persuade pastors to withdraw their resignations; and besides, it is much better for one to wait until he is consulted by the members, rather than make direct overtures for the pastorate through one or more members even before the pastor leaves the field. Such conduct does not seem to trouble the conscience of some; but it is in exceedingly bad taste, and such haste on the part of a minister results from a moral obliquity that prompts him to disregard the golden rule and from a want of faith. "Wait on the Lord," brother, and use no questionable means to obtain a new pastorate.

Once more, churches when deprived of pastors, sometimes show a want of faith in God. They seem to forget that Christ is the Great Shepherd of his people, and that he is able to find and send the man they need. They appoint a pulpit committee, and commission them to find the man, without meeting together to ask God to guide them in the selection of the committe, or the committee in the selection of the man they propose to recommend to the church. We Baptists claim that we are anxious to be guided by providential direction, and we are glad to say we have many true souls among our laymen and preachers that put this theory into practice. But candor compels us to admit that the manner in which some of our pastorless churches find pastors is at times a kind of parody on our commonly received theory. The way this thing is done approaches too often to a scramble between interested parties rather than a dignified looking to the Lord and waiting for the signs of his guidance and endorsement.

DR. A. R. VANN DEAD.

Dr. A. R. Vann is dead. He died October 22d, 1892. He was seventy-one years old. He had been in declining health for more than a year, and was ready and expecting the Master's call. Previous to the war he was a successful practitioner of medicine in Granville county. After the war he retired from the profession, and moved to Forestville with a view to educate his sons at Wake Forest College, and to engage in farming. He was a pious and devoted Baptist, strictly upright and conscientious in all his dealings. He was a trustee of Wake Forest College and a member of the Board of Education. S. C. Vann and J. A. Vann, successful business men of Franklinton, Dr. L. L. Vann, a rising physician of Danville, Va., and M. E. Vann of the Raleigh and Gaston railroad, are his sons. He leaves a widow who has been peculiarly untiring in her devotions and unceasing in her labors to alleviate his sufferings. He will be much missed in the community. Dr. T. E. Skinner, Dr. C. Durham, W. H. Pace, Esq., J. N. Holding, Esq., and Bro. T. H. Briggs, of Raleigh, attended the funeral, which occurred on Sunday evening.

Rev. J. W. Millard, who is now attending the Seminary, has been selected as one of the editors of the Seminary Magazine. This is an admirable selection. Bro. Millard is one of our most talented and promising young preachers.

Rev. Edward Ellis, at one time Home Mission Secretary for Indians and Michigan, died suddenly at the church in Hudson, Wisconsin, last week.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

MT. ZION ASSOCIATION.

We were compelled to leave the Association at the close of the second day. Up to this time the exercises had been highly interesting and profitable to all present.

Dr. J. L. Carroll preached the introductory sermon from the text, "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord." Dr. Carroll is so clear in his analysis, and so forceful in the presentation of his subject that I feel I could almost write his sermon from memory, but as he has promised to furnish the Recorder his full notes for publication, no further reference need be made to it here.

The churches seemed to have been well represented, and owing to hard times the amount of work shown to have been done during the year was as great as could be expected.

Col. Albright was again unanimously elected moderator, and now with Dr. Carroll's sermon and with Col. Albright as moderator, the Association has made a fine start in the direction of a successful meeting.

The discussion on periodicals by Drs. Carroll and Durham was as fine as was ever listened to on this subject. A number of brethren who subscribed for the Recorder told me they saw the matter in a light in which they had not heretofore seen it. If the brethren only had money as they once had, hardly a man would have left the Association without having subscribed to his denominational paper. However, we did fairly well, and we wish to tender our thanks to a number of brethren who gave us valuable service in our work.

Thursday morning the Association manifested much pleasure in welcoming Dr. C. E. Taylor, Prof. F. P. Hobgood and Rev. C. A. Woodson to share in the exercises of the meeting.

This was "Centennial Day," and a special program had been prepared by the committee, of which Dr. J. L. Carroll was chairman. Dr. Durham first spoke on State Missions, in which he showed as only he can do the absolute dependance of every country without the gospel upon the building up and carrying forward of our work at home. There is something about this work, and in the way it is presented, which keeps it from growing old or monotonous though we should hear it every day in the week.

I could but feel sorry for Bro. Tyree of Durham when the moderator announced "We will now hear an address from Bro. Tyree on the Centennial of Missions." I confess I was wicked enough to suppose I had heard the address before, but the speaker had scarcely begun before I found I was wrong. The speaker instead of piling up a mass of familiar history and more familiar biography and statistics, instead of spending all of his time in the shop and on the cold bare facts in the life of William Carey, he had spent considerable time in his own shop and had forged a speech of his own, replete with fresh, invigorating and stimulating thought.

In the absence of other speakers, Dr. Taylor was asked to follow Bro. Tyree. This he did in a short but most admirable speech of fifteen or twenty minutes, in which he emphasized the truths already uttered, and earnestly asked that this centennial year be not spent in mere gush and horn-blowing.

The first hour after dinner was devoted to the discussion of education by Prof. Hobgood and Dr. Taylor.

I am sure the Associations have never in any previous year heard so many good and earnest speeches on education as they have had during the present year. The close attention which the subject receives is one of the most hopeful signs of our work. This attention on the part of the people is due to the fact that these speakers are dealing with the subject in an intensely practical business-like way. I believe our people are coming rapidly to the point when they will see that the disaster and poverty which have settled down among us can be removed by learning how to do some things about which we now know nothing, and which can come to us only through a more general, practical and widespread education.

MECKLENBURG AND CABARRUS ASSOCIATION.

In some respects this was the most interesting Association attended during the year. It was a real pleasure to the brethren of this little church, two miles from Concord, to have the brethren meet with them. The Baptist cause has always been weak in this section of the State, but for the last ten or twelve years the interest has been growing and strengthening. A good number of new churches have been built in the country, and the old ones have been developed and made stronger by an increased membership.

The splendid work done by Bro. D. M. Austin at the Second church in Charlotte is clearly marked in all the meetings of this Association.

The State Board has made no mistake in putting Bro. J. O. Alderman in charge of the work at Concord. The church here had a debt of one thousand dollars when Bro. Alderman came to the work six months ago. Since he came the church has raised some over two hundred dollars. I found that Bro. Alderman had created a good interest among the factory people, and they are, many of them, aiding greatly in the relief of the church.

Our pastors whose charges embrace the factory districts ought to look especially after our people who have gone from other sections of the State to secure employment for their children at these factories. In many cases they come from good Baptist families, and coming in contact daily with members of other denominations, many of them will go into other churches, unless they are properly looked after by their own people. And then again, the people who live at factories have system in their work, and this helps to make them more useful in the church; and besides this they get their wages regularly, and can, on this account, be more helpful in the support of the varied interests of the church.

Bro. Alderman has good congregations, and feels encouraged in his work. I have felt for two years that the State Board had no more hopeful field in the State than this work at Concord.

Bro. Smith of Charlotte made the Association a fine presiding officer, as he has done for several years. He is one of those genial, good brethren, who does not allow cold, merciless adherence to parliamentary rules chill out all interest in the body, but extends a hearty, cordial, Southern welcome, which puts a speaker under obligations to do his best, and then stop when he gets through.

Bro. Austin made a splendid speech for State Missions, and the churches doubled their last years pledges.

The churches showed much interest in ministerial education. More than three times as much were pledged for next year than was given last year.

Sunday there was a large attendance from the country and from Concord, and listened to a good sermon from Bro. E. J. Edwards, who was there in the interest of the Orphanage.

The next meeting of the Association will be held with the Second church in Charlotte. The brethren are glad at the prospect of having Dr. Pritchard come to the Association.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Kansas Baptists have raised $12,374 53 for State work.

....Judson College, Hendersonville, N. C., opened with over one hundred students.

....Rev. Jas. A. Spurgeon, assistant pastor at Spurgeon's Tabernacle, is seriously ill.

....Rev. J. N. Booth expected to begin a meeting at Edgefield, S C., last Sunday.—Baptist Courier.

....In a meeting held at Shallotte church, Brunswick county, recently, there were seventeen additions.

....The late John D. Rockefeller of New York has, in all, given $2,000,000 to the Chicago University.

....Rev. G. L. Finch of LaGrange has resigned, and preached his last sermon at that place on Sunday last.

....Rev. W. M. Gilmore, who is attending the Seminary, writes us that he is highly pleased with the Seminary.

....Rev. John R. Denton has baptized ten persons into the fellowship of Dysartsville church during the year.

....Rev. J. A. Beam is having quite a successful meeting at Bethel Hill. It is being held especially for christians.

....Dr. W. E. Hatcher of Richmond had 558 in Sunday school and gave hand of fellowship to eight on the 16th inst.

....The latest Baptist news is that the Southern Female University will at once be removed from Florence, Ala., to St. Louis.

....The Riverside Baptists of Baltimore dedicated their church on the 16th inst. Rev. H. M. Wharton preached the sermon.

....Native converts in Japan, with average wages of twenty-five cents a day, contributed last year $27,000 to mission work.

....Dr. William Royall will lecture at Wake Forest College on Thursday evening, the 27th inst. His subject will be, "What is Literature."

....Rev. J. H. Lamberth of Roxboro preached at Riceville, Va., seven days and nights and had thirty-one professions and twenty one baptisms.

....Rev. Mr. Carrick of Lexington, N. C., assisted Rev. S. F. Conrad in a gracious revival at Walnut Cove, in which there were about twenty-five conversions.

....The Baptist General Association of Virginia meets with the First Baptist church of Danville on Nov. 11th. There is good prospect for a great meeting.

....The English Baptists have raised within a few thousand dollars of their half million dollars centennial fund. This speaks well for the Baptists of that country.

....Rev. Thomas Carrick of Lexington, and Rev. C. C. Haymore of Mt. Airy, are assisting Rev. H. Sheets, the pastor, in a meeting at New Friendship Baptist church.

....Bro. W. A. Albright of Durham called to see us last Friday. He reports a good meeting at the Mt. Zion Association. Bros. Durham, Tyree and Dr. Carroll were at their best.

....Rev. J. L. Phillips of Houck, Caldwell county, writes: "I like the Recorder better than any paper I have ever seen, and never expect to be without it as long as I live, or as long as I can get money enough to pay for it. I will work for twenty-five cents a day before I will be without it."

....We regret to state that the Rev. J. P. Spence has been forced to give up his church for several weeks on account of bad health. He will continue his school.—Red Springs Comet.

....The Person County Courier says: "Rev. Geo. T. Watkins had one of the most successful and interesting meetings at Antioch last week that has been held there in several years."

....Rev. L. G. Broughton of Winston, N. C., writes us that the paper published by his church is for free distribution on the first Sunday of every month, and is a purely local church paper.

....The Burlington Herald of the 19th inst. says: "Rev. J. C. Hocutt of Chapel Hill has accepted the call from the Baptist church of this place, and will remove his family here soon."

....President J. B. Brewer of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute, and his daughter, Miss Julia, left on the 15th inst. for Boston. Miss Julia enters the New England Conservatory of Music.

....Miss Mary E. Pearce, daughter of Edward Pearce of Chowan county, has been added to the faculty of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute. Miss Pearce is a graduate of the institution.

....Recently four candidates were immersed by the pastor of the Methodist church at Providence, R. I. The pastor of the Second Baptist church gave the use of both his robes and his baptistery.

....Rev. Duncan McLeod of Beaufort, Rev. Geo. J. Dowell of Williamston, Rev. H. C. Moore of Morehead City, Rev. N. B. Jones of Salisbury, and Rev. W. H. Edwards of Wake Forest, called to see us last week.

....Bro. J. A. Smith of Whitesville, N. C., writes us: "Atlantic Coast Line will sell tickets at reduced rates to the brethren wishing to attend the Robeson Association at Whiteville, N. C. Tickets good from Oct. 31st to Nov. 5th."

....Dr. Pritchard speaks very complimentary, in Charity and Children, of the "Talks About Law" by Judge Winston, which have appeared in our columns. These "Talks" are being very favorably commented upon by the press in general.

....A very good meeting is in progress at the Baptist chapel, Wilmington, N. C. There were at least forty-five professions up to last Sunday. Dr. Pritchard and Rev. J. T. Jenkins are doing the preaching, and the meeting will continue during this week.

....On next Sunday Rev. R. T. Vann will preach for Dr. J. D. Hufham in Tarboro and Dr. Hufham will fill Mr. Vann's pulpit in Scotland Neck, and will administer the ordinance of baptism after the morning sermon.—Scotland Neck Democrat, October 20.

....A new Baptist church was organized at Creekville, Northampton county, on Monday of last week, by Revs. J. C. Fleetwood, T. G. Wood, C. W. Scarborough and D. Cale, with forty-one members. Rev. Dancey Cale held a very good meeting there recently.

....Rev. L. G. Broughton preached again at the First Baptist church last night. His subject was "Living, yet Dead." The services resulted in nine conversions. Forty others manifested interest. Rev. O. L. Stringfield arrived to-day and will preach to-night.—Winston Sentinel, Oct. 19.

....Thibet in Central Asia, is now the only country closed against the missionaries of Christ, but a company of Moravian missionaries are sitting at her gates awaiting admission. They have translated the Bible in her language, and ere long the written and spoken word of God will doubtless be given to her people.—Central Baptist.

....Rev. C. C. Haymore of Mt. Airy, and Rev. M. Baldwin of Winston, met with the Baptist church at East Bend, N. C., on Sunday, the 16th inst., and ordained Rev. S. W. Hall to the full work of the gospel ministry. Other ministers were invited, but on account of other engagements they did not attend. Bro. Hall is now connected with the Baptist Orphanage at Thomasville.

....Rev. I. W. Thomas returned home Monday from Mt. Grove church, six miles southwest of Hickory, where he has been assisting Rev. J. B. Marsh in a meeting of days. The meeting was a successful one. Ten united with the church. Rev. Mr. Marsh will assist Mr. Thomas in a protracted meeting at Lower Creek church, beginning on Thursday, 11 a. m., before the second Sunday in November.—Lenoir Topic, Oct. 19.

....Rev. C. L. Wilson of Staunton, Va., writes us: "The Master's cause is spreading in the valley of Virginia as never before. I am always happy when I read the religious news of the Old North State. I often wish I were among its people again, but my lot is cast here, and I am also happy here. The Baptists are not so numerous, and I get lonely sometimes. May God's blessing rest upon the success of his cause, and upon that of the Recorder, in the great work it is doing." We are glad to hear from this good brother and of his work.

....The Board of Missions was instructed by the Convention at Shelby to use in its State Mission work, during 1891, $16,500, and at the Goldsboro Convention the amount fixed for this work in 1892 was $15,000, with the $2,000 additional brought over as a debt from the past year, making the amount needed this year, $17,000. Up to Oct. 28th, 1891, the Treasurer had received and acknowledged for State Missions, on that year's work, $10,072 88, and for this year's work to date, he has received for State Missions, as his report in this paper shows, $8,369.58. Brethren, please aid us in this work NOW.—C. Durham.

.....The friends of the RECORDER can do us a favor by calling the attention of their friends who do not take the paper to the special offer which we are now making. Remember that every new subscriber who sends two dollars now will receive the paper to January 1st, 1894.

.....The Monroe Enquirer of the 20th inst. says: "Rev. G. W. Harmon preached his last sermon as pastor of the Baptist church here last Sunday morning to a large congregation. He has been pastor of the church here for the last three years and has been faithful and conscientious in the discharge of all his duties."

Rev. Dr. George and His Address.

Rev. Dr. H. H. George, field Secretary of the American Sabbath Union, made an address at the First Baptist church in Raleigh, on Sunday evening, Oct. 23d, at 7:30 o'clock. The congregations generally in the city, we believe, closed their houses of worship at that hour and united in the meeting at the First church. The Doctor was quite free in the expression of his opinions, but the address seemed to us rather rambling and out of place for a church on Sunday evening. We believe in the proper Scriptural observance of the Lord's Day, and are willing to do all that our judgment and conscience will approve to secure said observance; but are of the opinion that pastors and churches, in closing their houses of worship on Sunday evening, and turning aside from their regular hours of worship and preaching to unite in such meetings and to hear such addresses on Sunday evenings, do more to violate the Scriptural observance of the Lord's Day than some of the things which Dr. George denounced very sharply. It is not the Scriptural or fitting thing, it seems to us, for a number of christian congregations to turn aside from preaching and worship on Sunday evening to unite in a meeting (though it may be tinged with religion), the principle object of which is to influence legislation by the next Congress of the United States or by the next Legislature of North Carolina.

C. DURHAM.

A Few Facts.

It is a sad fact that a large majority of young men, when first grown and starting in life, if they have gone to school a session or two, think they know more than older heads and are wiser by far than father or older brethren. And again, it is the disposition on the part of some (not all), to put themselves forward at every opportunity, and sometimes make one in order to become prominent and make a name for themselves. Therefore, the old brethren, since I can remember, have used much precaution with respect to putting young men in the lead. Many times they have, but with reluctance, had to resort to means and opportunities presented, that they might tear down the air castles and uproot the sandy foundation of some of our young men and place them on a solid foundation on which they could stand and build for eternity; and I admire their sense and judgment in the matter, feeling that in most cases, it has resulted in good, both to the young man and country in which he lived. Yet there are young men who, in spite of all the instructions and influencies, continue in their thoughtless and indiscrete course. In regard to such young men, I would say, if I can be permitted to offer a word of advice, enter some good school, and, if prepared, enter college. I know of no college which is more successful in knocking the props from under their air castles and tearing away the sandy foundation and placing instead the true foundation, than Wake Forest College. Many have been the young men who have gone to that institution of learning, almost wholly unprepared for the great duties and responsibilities of life in respect to humbleness of heart and consecration to God's service, and have gone away humble, consecrated men, ready to sacrifice for the Master and render him an humble service, and always stand for the truth and right amid adversity. Our Saviour, who was perfection, had his enemies and was wrongfully treated, and too by his own people. So it is to-day, our very best institutes and men have their enemies and accusers, and, too, among those who aught to be friends. A few days since, I was told by one of our young brethren of the Yadkin Association who had been at Wake Forest—and by the way a good humble young man—that he and some others who had also been to college, were charged by some of the old brethren of that body with being the cause of disturbance and friction that occurred in the last session of the body, and those young men only advocated the very principle and tried to accomplish the thing those old brethren had for years been trying to reach and had even made motions in the sessions of the past to do the very same thing, and in the face of these facts accuse these young men of being disturbers of christian harmony and peace, saying that the influence of the Educational Board had been hurt by them, that it would have received more had they kept their mouths shut. Oh! the influence of the Devil and how he avails himself of every opportunity to use it, and how he gets hold of God's people and presents to their minds so many evil excuses why they should not work in God's kingdom! What will our reward be in the end, if we stop and listen to those excuses?

I started out to give some facts, and it grieves me to think of some facts that I know are true, but I am not responsible for their existence, and say that there are men who profess to be in God's kingdom and are called to the ministry who are two sided. One of those very brethren above referred to, two years ago, made a motion that the Yadkin Association withdraw fellowship from all churches who retained in fellowship members who make and sell ardent spirits, and how he and other brethren who stood with him then, came up and fought the very same thing to the bitter end. In my meditations on our Master's kingdom and its workings, I often wonder what the harvest will be; and again, when I think of the unstableness and fluctuation of God's people I am made to ask what our reward will be. Remembering that we are to be rewarded according to our works, I fear some of us will receive a very small bounty, and shall it be that some shall be turned off at the left hand and have to live in eternal punishment because of our unfaithfulness.

A BAPTIST.

October 15, 1892.

Colorado Institute for the Deaf Mutes and the Blind at Colorado Springs.

Editor Recorder:—During a recent visit through the far West, the writer met quite a number of North Carolinians at different points; and among the places visited was Colorado Springs, Colorado, where a dear Baptist brother is located, of whose success we wish to tell the readers of the RECORDER, among whom are many of his warm personal friends. As is known by many of your readers, Bro. John E. Ray is the Superintendent of the Colorado Institute for the Deaf Mutes and the Blind, located at Colorado Springs. When he was elected in December, 1887, there were about fifty pupils, and only one building and grounds valued at $56,000.

In less than five years the school has grown under his energetic management to be one of the best equipped of the kind in the United States, five new buildings having been erected at a cost of about $150,000, and the enrollment of pupils at the present time shows one hundred and seventy six. Among the buildings erected are three designed by himself, one a large school building, another a dormitory building, both built of white lava stone, with red stone trimmings, which are models of beauty and pronounced by a recent meeting of instructors of the mute and blind of the United States and the Provinces, held in his institution, to be the best adapted buildings for the purpose erected on the continent. The third is a hospital.

I saw while on my visit many busy men, but the busiest of them all was Bro. Ray. He not only looks after the details of the school, but purchases all the supplies for the institution, as well as attends to the details of the building operations.

The children all love him, as one can see by their countenances beaming with smiles as they get near him and hear his voice.

This is one of the institutions into which politics has not entered, and where the qualification necessary to secure a position is not who the applicant voted for at the last election, or who he is likely to vote for at the next election; but is he the best person that can be obtained for the place; and as long as this or any other institution of the kind is conducted on this high plane it is bound to take a higher stand than those conducted for the distribution of political patronage.

Bro. Ray has in his corps of teachers three North Carolina boys, Bro. D. C. Dudley, Prof. Fred. H. Manning, son of Bro. W. H. Manning of the Chowan Association, and Prof. A. J. Tillinghast. Bro. Dudley was for a while Superintendent of the school, but, owing to failing health, was compelled to resign and take a position as teacher. I am glad to say that his health has very much improved under the change.

Prof. Ray still loves North Carolina and her people, and his desire is at some time to return to her borders; but he feels that it is his duty to devote his life to the education of this unfortunate class; and hence he places his convictions of duty higher than his personal desires, and will remain where he thinks his duty calls him.

E.

Raleigh, N. C.

Don't Wait.

We are very anxious to get out the minutes of the Baptist State Convention very early this year. It is very desirable to furnish the very latest statistics from all of our Associations. To that end, I have mailed blanks to all of the Clerks of the Associations with the request that they fil them up and return them immediately after the meetings of their Associations. The following only have responded to date, viz.: Ashe and Alleghany, Cherokee (Indian), Three Forks, New Found, South Yadkin, Catawba River, Liberty, Beulah and Tar River. The Clerk of the Flat River has enclosed minutes but failed to fill blanks. Brethren, please don't wait till your minutes are printed before you send statistics, for that will be too late. We must have the statistics by the middle of November at the farthest, so that the printers can begin to work on them and have them ready by or before the meeting of the Convention. If your Association does not meet till December please fill up blanks with figures for 1891, and be sure to send list of ordained ministers with their post offices as reported to your Association. You will save the Secretaries a great deal of time and trouble if you will add up all the columns. Please don't wait but send in reports at once.

N. B. COBB.

Raleigh, N. C.

N. B. If you failed to get a blank or have mutilated the one sent, drop me a postal and I will enclose you another.

N. B. C.

Letter from Georgia.

We have been so busy that we have neglected to write as we should; but have not failed to read the RECORDER. Brethren, why do you not take this paper? Every issue of it has one or more pieces in it that is worth more to you than a year's subscription, besides the great quantity of good religious news generally.

We are just out of about two months of revival meetings. Glad to tell you that all the Baptists of Georgia, have not gone wild over politics. Many have not stopped their ears to the voice of God, but have moved on at his command. Brethren, mark those who are so easily disturbed by other matters than religion. Where men's treasures are, there their hearts or affections will be found. No guessing on this. Men generally act in that way in which the bent of their souls lead. Men that are full of Christ haven't got time to engage themselves in the selfish clamors of politics or anything else that distracts the mind from Bible truth, and right.

Nearly all the churches in this section have had a spiritual feast. Great victories they have won in the name of the Lord to the honor of Christ.

H. C. STANDRIGED.

North Georgia, Oct. 17, 1892

Church Constituted at Wallburg.

Dear Recorder:—Thirteen brethren and sisters who had obtained letters of dismission from Abbott's Creek and New Friendship churches, having expressed a desire to be constituted into a gospel church, and having invited Elder Henry Sheets and the writer to act as a presbytery for said purpose, we met with a large congregation in the church edifice at Wallburg on the first Sunday in September, and after an appropriate sermon from Elder Sheets, the presbytery was organized by appointing Elder Sheets, Moderator, and the writer, Secretary.

The brethren and sisters then presented their letters which were found in proper form. The usual Church Covenant and Articles of Faith were read and adopted, whereupon the brethren and sisters were pronounced by the Moderator an independent gospel church, and the right hand of fellowship was extended by the presbytery.

The church then met in conference and chose the writer pastor, and adjourned.

While preaching at Abbott's Creek as pastor, I have preached, as I had opportunity, at Piny Grove, now known as Wallburg, a point about half way between Abbott's Creek and New Friendship, the center of a nice community. Last spring the community decided to build a house of worship. They went to work and soon completed a neat, substantial house about 35x40 feet, finishing it in nice style and putting in comfortable pews and nice rostrum and stand. I preached there a week in August with good results, when it was decided by the constituents of the church to organize, and the arrangements were made with the above result.

The church is moving off nicely. Good lamps have been put in, stoves provided, and an organ procured. A good supply of hymn books in the hands of the congregation, led by a trained class, gives excellent church music, while a flourishing Sunday-school, just organized, shows the determination of the little church to go to work for the Master. The outlook is very hopeful. A number of believers in the community will soon unite with the church. A meeting of days will soon be held, and it is confidently expected that many will be converted and be added to the little band. The Lord grant it.

The day the church was constituted, the funeral of Pearlie Florence, infant daughter of G. W. and Hattie Wall, aged about three months, was preached by the writer in the new church edifice, and its little body was laid in the new graveyard near by. The mother was one of the constituent members of the church the father will soon be a member, he having obtained a good hope through grace. The Lord comfort the sorrowing ones.

The College is gradually filling up—new pupils entering every week. A reinforcement of six boarders are in this week. Others will be in soon. Success is assured. The friends of the institution have only to push forward to put it in the most flourishing condition it has ever had.

Yours fraternally,

J. N. STALLINGS.

Fem. College, High Point, N. C.

To the Union Meetings.

The Union Meetings will be held in many of the Associations in this State Oct. 28-30. The pastors and leading brethren generally attend these meetings, and hence the best representatives of all departments of the mission work are there. Let me say to each of these meetings that we need their aid, as never before, in State Missions. All can see in this week's RECORDER just how much has been received by the Treasurer for State Missions this Conventional year. Brethren, please read this notice to your Union Meeting and take up a collection for State Missions. These missionaries are in need of every dollar promised them.

C. DURHAM.

Caldwell County Union.

This body will meet with the Lenoir Baptist church on Friday before the fifth Sunday in October. Introductory preacher, Rev. J. S. Gwaltney; alternate, Rev. T. C. Buchanan.

QUERIES.

1. Why do Baptists practice restricted communion? Opened by Rev. I. W. Thomas.
2. Are annual calls best for our churches and pastors? Rev. H. M. Croom.
3. Do the distinctive tenets of the Baptists justify their separate existence? Rev. T. C. Buchanan.
4. Importance of family worship. Bro. J. B. Moore.
5. Should the christian minister be educated? Rev. C. E. Gower.
6. How shall we enlist and develop young members of the church in active church work? Bro. Jos. Powell.
7. Are the heathen saved without the gospel? Rev. I. Oxford.
8. Woman's place in christian work. Rev. J. S. Gwaltney.

A. E. NELSON, Sec.

Thoughts—No. 9.

BY SCATTERHEAD.

I would take the familiar word, self, and it is such a big little word, I desire to tear it up and make four words out of it by letting each letter of which the word is composed represent a word, and we have these words: sinful, enemy, living, fighting.

I would make self apply to the "old man," the flesh, the house we live in.

1. It is sinful. I hear tell of some people getting very good now a days, so very good they can live without committing sin. Well, I don't see how such people can put up with the balance of us big sinners. My weak opinion is that when a person thinks he reaches the point of sinless perfection on this scene, that he is getting very well fixed up to keep company with some of the big gest sinners that ever trod this earth. Satan is one of the smartest old quack doctors that ever visited this earth, and he is the father of all shams and meanness any way. I have thought that when Satan could induce some poor fool to believe that he was made holy soul and body, that he would think his job about complete, and would leave out a little ways, chuckle over his victory, and would not endeavor to tempt his deluded victim to do any thing very mean, but would walk up to old Mr. Too-good ever now and then, and whisper in his ear some very complimentary sayings concerning his grand attainments in his life of holiness, and would exhort him to persevere and he would soon be ready to depart. Mr. Bunyan discovered a way to hell even from the gate of heaven. I reckon the beloved disciple John was about as good as some of the folks living now, and the Lord caused him to write, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." "If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us." The foregoing words were addressed to believers in Christ. Every regenerate man soon finds out he is in possession of two natures, one born from above and holy, and the other old self, the flesh, is not changed, but is utterly worthless, no good in it, but a stinking mass of corruption, full of imps lurking in the walls. "For I know that in me, that is, my flesh, dwelleth no good thing." Rom. 7: 18. Every man who is "born again" agrees with Paul's experience that sin "dwells in us," and that the old nature is as bad since his conversion as before, and that when the heavenly born nature "would do good" that evil is present with him. Our salvation is not in the flesh, but in the Spirit.

2. Self, or the flesh, an enemy. I am very certain that old Self is the biggest enemy we have in this world, and the great trouble with us is we can't get away from the old rascal, but we carry him with us everywhere we go, and he always tries to be the greatest fellow about. We can throw sand in our foe's eyes without, by making tracks from them and get out of their way, but old Self is a sticker until death peels him off or till the Bridegroom comes. Our Saviour said, "A man's foes are they of his own household." Old Self has to take a part in every thing we do, and keeps us from doing the good we would. Rom. 7: 19. Paul had no confidence in him, because of his worthlessness, neither should we. Brethren, the longer we live the more we hate "old Self," because we are enabled as we "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord," we sit in judgment upon ourselves through the knowledge given in the world, enlightened by the Spirit. We view the flesh through the word and we behold a ruined mass, and that it is contrary to our Lord, and that its deeds must be mortified, and it must therefore die. We need to exercise great watchfulness over our enemy in order to keep him down, as he is always wanting to get between us and our blessed Lord. Let us remember that God cannot and does not expect anything good from the flesh, and that he condemned it at the cross for all time to come as a totally depraved thing. We are no more debtors to live after the flesh, and so it has no more claims upon us. Rom. 8: 12. "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world."

3. Self, or the flesh, is living. Yes, a sinful enemy living. We should thank God that he does not look upon us in the flesh, but in Christ. "Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit." But we have two living natures, if we be christians, one filled with fleshly lusts, which war against the soul, and the other ever thirsting after things of the Spirit. Some times we may be ready to conclude that we have got Self about downed, and that he is almost dead, and about the time we let our minds be lifted up over our conquered foe, old Self pops up as nimble as ever. Old Self is condemned to die, and let us endeavor to keep him as feeble as possible, and the best plan to keep him weak is not to feed him. The word says for us "to make no provision for the flesh to fulfil the lusts thereof." The flesh will live to bother us until we drop the sinful coil, but if we abstain from his lusts, he cannot be so strong to war against us.

4. Self is fighting. I see in the flesh we have a living enemy who is fighting us. As stated above, we have two natures, one as holy as God is and cannot sin, and the other vile and full of sin. When we were born the second time and partook of the divine nature, the fight began between the flesh and the heaven-born nature; because they are opposed to each other, are contrary the one to the other, one pulling one way and the other the opposite. "The flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh, and these are contrary the one to the other, so that ye cannot do the things that ye would." Our foe many times overcomes us, and very often in our struggles we have been made to cry out, "O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" When we look outside of ourselves, deliverance comes, and we can thank God through Jesus Christ. We fight the world, the flesh and the devil, but the flesh is the devil's fortress. Our warfare will soon be over. Many of us are growing tired of self and sin, and desire to see the appearing of our "Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto his own glorious body." "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

"Stand up! Stand up for Jesus,
The strife will not be long;
This day the noise of battle,
The next the victor's song."

Letter from Kentucky.

AT THE TENNESSEE CONVENTION IN KNOXVILLE.

Dear Recorder:—It was our pleasure to visit Rev. Carter Helm Jones during the session of the Tennessee State Convention, which convened with his church—the First Baptist—in Knoxville, Tenn. We spent two Sundays in Knoxville, and worshipped in the First church. This is a beautiful house, tastefully adorned, and has in it one of the most superb baptisteries I have ever seen. And best of all, this church has the most popular young pastor in the South. This statement is verified twice every Sunday by the presence of eight hundred to a thousand men and women who fill the audience room, aisles and gallery. Knoxville has 51,000 inhabitants, and a goodly number of these are Baptists, many of whom are the wealthiest and most intelligent people. The State Convention met on Wednesday, Oct. 12, and lasted until Sunday, on which day forty visiting ministers preached in the Knoxville pulpits. The Convention was largely attended, and each subject received due attention. The brethren seemed to be in perfect accord on every topic. The meetings from first to last were spiritual and harmonious.

President J. T. Henderson of Carson and Newman College presided to the satisfaction of all, and Rev. O. L. Hailey served again as secretary. The reports show an increase for State Missions, while to Home and to Foreign, the amounts were about the same as last year. The amount raised for State Missions was $7,700; for Home Missions, $4,538, and for Foreign Missions, $3,850.

Secretary J. H. Anderson made an encouraging report on State Missions. He reported forty-one missionaries filling thirty-eight stations in the State in both country and cities, besides other work. These brethren were allowed five minutes each in which to make their reports. This was an interesting feature of the meeting; for each was good looking and had a good report.

Dr. T. T. Eaton of Louisville represented the Seminary, and raised for the Students' Fund in cash and pledges to the amount of $789 30.

Friday night was given to the Missionary Centennial, and speeches were delivered by Dr. J. Wm. Jones of Atlanta, and Dr. T. T. Eaton of Louisville.

Mr. W. A. Wray, formerly of Shelby, N. C., is now resident of Knoxville and one of the most efficient deacons of the First Baptist church. The Lord has blessed this brother in worldly goods, with which he is liberal in all Baptist enterprises. At his elegant home, Friday evening of the Convention, Bro. Wray gave a tea to the North Carolina ministers. The guests were M. A. Adams, J. S. Corpening, James C. Rockwell, J. H. Moore, C. G. Jones, Oscar Haywood, Col. T. H. Reeves, Walter S. Splawn and wife. Did the ears of North Carolina burn that evening? We talked and talked and talked about the dear old State, and Wake Forest our Alma Mater.

AT HOME IN LEXINGTON, KY.

After a pleasant vacation, we have returned to our home in Lexington, Ky., where as pastor of Upper Street church we have reason to be encouraged in our work. Lexington has 30,000 inhabitants, and is the centre of the Blue Grass Region. Much is predicted of this city, since there is a constant and steady growth.

Fraternally,

WALTER SCOTT SPLAWN.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 22, 1892.

Gracious Meetings at Three Churches

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I am glad to state that we have just closed our series of meetings at Iron Hill, Pleasant Home, and Springfield Baptist churches with the following results:

Iron Hill—nine added by baptism; Pleasant Home—thirteen by baptism; Springfield, ten by baptism; and some at all the churches were restored, the exact number I do not recollect. The churches are much built up and strengthened.

We are doing tolerably well in the way of missions.

God bless you and the dear RECORDER. We do feel to be greatly blessed in having such rich gifts. Fraternally,

D. N. GORE.

Loris, S. C., Oct. 15, 1892.

Mecklenburg and Cabarrus Union Meeting.

The next Union Meeting of the Mecklenburg and Cabarrus Association will convene with the church at Howell's on Friday before the fifth Sabbath in October.

QUERIES.

Is it right to grant a letter of dismission to a member who is indebted to the church? Rev. J. O. Alderman.

What are the distinctive tenets of a Baptist church? I. W. Durham.

What is the church's duty toward young members? Rev. A. W. Crabtree.

What is covetousness? S. P. Smith.

Do our pastors come up to duty in informing their churches as to our mission work? J. R. McCurdy.

I. W. DURHAM, for Com.

The Western North Carolina Baptist Convention convened at Hendersonville last week.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

the language and intent of the law of Moses and that of the Christ.

The third of his commandments is as follows: "Again, ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the Lord thine oaths; but I say unto you, Swear not at all," and yet christians and the churches in the face of "swear not at all," encourage and favor the tests and the obligations of the oath. Everywhere and on almost all occasions, in the secret societies, in the courts of justice, in the armies and navies, the oath is as familiar as the face of nature. Exactly where the church and christians generally agree that oaths are allowable, to-wit, in organizations of armed men and in the courts of justice. I am entirely persuaded that exactly there they ought not to be administered, and I believe that the Christ, when he gave this commandment, had his mind principally directed right there. Any officer of our courts will tell you that the oath has become so common that in many cases it serves neither to elicit the truth nor to solemnize the proceedings. What a terrible power the rulers of this world had over their soldiery, who had been enlisted under the spell of the oath, He knew better than any one else. A soldier who has taken the oath is no longer a freeman; he is the slave of his superior officer. "The doctrine of Jesus Christ consists in perpetual observance of the will of God. How can a man swear to observe the will of man? The will of man can't coincide with the will of God." An incident of recent occurrence is in point. Nearly eight thousand soldiers utterly ignorant of the actual condition of affairs at Homestead were, at a moment's warning, gotten together and started off for that place, under the leadership of a haughty and tyrannical man whose entire sympathies were with the rich and prosperous. One of these common soldiers, a mill working member, was reported by the New York Herald, after he reached Homestead, as saying: "It will be a hard thing for me to shoot into a crowd of men who are bound to me by all the ties of human interest and friendship, but when I have my uniform on and the command of 'Fire' is given, I will shoot; for when I entered the militia I took the oath of allegiance to the State of Pennsylvania, and swore to protect its constitution and government at all hazards."

The truth is, we have organized a social condition of life which we cling to and declare to be the best. Jesus, whom we call God, comes down and tells us that the whole plan is wrong and that we must renounce it or perish; and we refuse to obey him. What then is left to us? Add the words "without a cause" to render void the commandment against anger; mutilate the sense of another law by substituting for the command absolutely prohibiting divorce, language which permits divorce, and if there is no way of denying the commandments "judge not" and "swear not at all," then with the uttermost effrontery openly violate the rule while affirming that we obey it.

The fourth commandment of Jesus is, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth; but I say unto you, that ye resist not evil." The natural, clear, simple meaning of this is, never resist evil by force; never return violence for violence. Jesus says in substance, your social system is wrong and absurd. You fight, kill, litigate and live as do the wild beasts. You will learn that not violence but good overcomes evil. The advance of humanity towards righteousness, says a great writer, is due not to the tyrants but to the martyrs. As fire cannot extinguish fire, so evil cannot suppress evil. God alone, confronting evil and resisting its contagion, can overcome evil. This commandment is in direct conflict with the language and intent of the law of Moses; it is a later and a better gospel.

And the fifth of his commandments is, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, love your enemies." Here again the antagonism between the law of Moses and that of the Christ is plain; and yet christians and the churches are declaring both equally binding. Society, as now organized, is so entirely in contradiction with the doctrine of Jesus, that we with some difficulty understand its true meaning. We have been so deaf to the rules of life that he has given us, to his explanations, not only where he commands us not to kill, but where he warns us against anger, when he commands us not to resist evil, to love our enemies; we are so accustomed to speak of a body of men especially organized for murder as a christian army, we are so accustomed to prayers addressed to the Christ for the assurance of victory, we are so accustomed to prayers addressed to the Christ for the assurance of victory, we are so accustomed, I say, to this, that the words of Jesus seem to us compatible with war. We say if he had forbidden it, he would have said so plainly. We forget that Jesus did not foresee that men having faith in his doctrine of humility, love and fraternity, could ever with calmness and premeditation organize themselves for the murder of their brethren. The father who exhorts his son to live honestly, never to wrong any person, and to give all that he has to others, would not forbid his son to kill people on the highway. No disciple of Jesus, during the first centuries of christianity, realized the necessity of forbidding a christian that form of murder which we call war." But we must, recalling afresh the pure and simple and primitive gospel, keep ever in mind that the religion and commandments of Jesus make one beautiful and harmonious whole, upturning and uprooting the errors, customs, and views of the day, and bringing peace, family happiness, contentment and self-denial which is love for others.

To spread this doctrine, this religion, to teach it among ourselves and to the whole world, is our first and highest duty; and to do this successfully, the teachers must be trained to the very best advantage in the schools of letters, of experience, and of conscience. And I thank God that the church which believes in civil and religious liberty, in a converted membership, in believers' baptism by immersion and in independent local church government is making, at this time, the greatest progress in the cause of education in its broadest sense, and filling the whole earth with the beauty and purity of its teachings and its example.

There is no better medicine for family use than Ayer's Cathartic pills. Their sugar coating makes them easy and even agreeable to take, and as they contain no calomel or other injurious drug, they are perfectly safe for patients of any age.

Perfect Through Suffering.

What a mystery there is in suffering! How terrible are the inroads of pain! How strangely is suffering meted out! How unjust it seems sometimes. Men cry out in their misery and anguish as Job did, and expostulate with the Most High because his judgments are hidden with a cloud; in bitterness of spirit they ask whether there be indeed a righteous ruler of the world. But Christ comes into the chamber of suffering and he lights up its gloom. He does not say, "You are the plaything of an inexorable destiny, you must submit to your pain, you must be brave and bear it like a man;" but he says, "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth." "If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as his sons; for what son is he whom the Father chasteneth not?" He does not take away the pain, it may be, or heal the sickness; but he gives strength to bear it, he irradiates the couch of suffering with his own precious promises. He says: "When thou passeth through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee." "I too was a sufferer. I too have felt pain and weariness, though I have done no sin, neither was guile found in my mouth; you are a partaker of my sufferings now that you may be a partaker of my glory hereafter. This light affliction which is but for a moment is working out a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." What a light shines in the chamber! How the gloom is dispersed! How the darkness of suffering is dispelled, and the mystery of suffering irradiated by the presence and the voice of Christ! Christ is the light of pain.—Perowne.

The healing and purifying qualities of Salvation Oil render it the best article for the speedy cure of ulcerated sores. 25c.

Saints are made saints, not by doing extraordinary or uncommon things, but by doing common things in an uncommon way, on uncommonly high principles, in an uncommonly self-sacrificing spirit.—Bishop Huntington

Associations.

TIMES AND PLACES OF MEETING

October.

Atlantic—Newbern, Oct 11-13 (outside cover of Minutes say 12th).
Cedar Creek—White Oak church, Oct 12-14.
Elkin—Elkin, Oct 13-15.
Mecklenburg and Cabarrus—Cold Water church, Oct 13-15.
Montgomery—Forks of Little River church, Oct 13-15.
Mt Zion—Olive's Chapel church, Oct 18-20.
South River—Autryville, Oct 19-21.
Anson—Rocky River church, Oct 20-22.
Cape Fear—Shady Grove, Bladen co, Oct 20-22.
South Fork—Catawba, Oct 20-22.
West Chowan—Mt Carmel church, Oct 25-27.
Raleigh—Smithfield, Oct 27-29.
South Atlantic—Shallotte church, Oct 27-29.

November.

Robeson—Fair Bluff, Nov 1-3.
Little River—Holly Springs church, nine miles east of Jonesboro, Nov 3-5.
Stanly—Silver Springs, Nov 3-5.
Columbus—Chadbourne, Nov 4-5.

If mistakes have been made in the above list, will not some one write me at once and give the proper corrections?

Will not some member of the "Centennial Committee" in each Association let me know what special addresses are to be made at the Association on the "Centennial of Modern Missions"?

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

THE Baptist State Convention will meet with the Tabernacle church in Raleigh, Thursday, Dec. 8th, at 7:30 o'clock, p. m. Rev. J. S. Hardaway of Oxford is to preach the introductory sermon, and Rev. Rufus Ford of Newbern is the alternate.

Did you ever see a sickly baby with dimples? or a healthy one without them?

A thin baby is always delicate. Nobody worries about a plump one.

If you can get your baby plump, he is almost sure to be well. If you can get him well, he is almost sure to be plump.

The way to do both—there is but one way—is by CAREFUL LIVING. Sometimes this depends on Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We will send you a book on it; free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 132 South 5th Avenue, New York. 38

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

RALEIGH N. C.

THE LEADING

Dry Goods and Carpet House

— OF —

North Carolina.

Mail Order Department.

A complete Mail Order Department, in which experienced help only is used. All mail orders receive the most intelligent attention.

Dress Goods,

Wraps. Blankets. Gloves, Shoes, Hosiery, Underwear, &c., &c

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

Cash with order, we will deliver goods free except Furniture and Crockery), to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

Carpets, Curtains and Furniture.

Everything in Carpets, Curtains and Furniture. Are prepared to furnish, complete, hotels or residences. Correspondence solicited.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,

123 and 125 Fayetteville Street.

The Leaksville Woolen Mills, Leaksville, N. C., need no introduction to the public in North Carolina and adjoining States. This is simply to remind you that they are still "in touch" with the people, working up their wool into various forms of finished product at satisfactory prices. A handsome catalogue containing samples of their new and attractive styles of Fancy Cassimeres and All-Wool Flannels, together with all other goods made by them, is sent to any address on application. Besides an interesting article on "Wool on How to Handle It," the catalogue contains full particulars in regard to shipping wool. If these details are carefully followed, we guarantee prompt return of goods.

Write to Hiram Foard, Sec'y, Leaksville, N. C., for catalogue, before disposing of your wool.

STOP AT THE

Moseley House,

Corner Wilmington and Hargett Sts.,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Central, Neat, Convenient and Pleasant.

50c. per meal; $1.50 per day.

IRON FENCE
SIXTY STYLES FOR CEMETERY & LAWN
CATALOGUE FREE
J. W. RICE, ATLANTA, GA.

For weak or inflamed eyes or granulated lids use OUR OLD RELIABLE EYE WATER
does not burn or hurt when applied, by mail 25c.
JOHN R. DICKEY DRUG CO., BRISTOL, TENN. & VA.

POKINE.

I have used the within remedy (Pokine) with great success. JAMES H. LASSITER.

I have used the Pokine Remedy (prepared by W. T. Cheatham, Jr.) in case of Sciatica with the result of positive relief in a few hours, and believe if used as directed is will effect a permanent cure.
J. L. H. MISSILLIER.

MARCH 6, 1891.

For the benefit of the public, I unhesitatingly recommend Cheatham's wonderful remedy, "Pokine," to all sufferers of rheumatism. It has produced marvelous results in my case. I was a sufferer of the malady for five years, and after taking a few bottles was entirely cured.
Very respectfully,
W. W. DOWTIN.

HENDERSON, N. C., March 7, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM:
Dear Sir—My wife was down in bed with rheumatism, and the Pokine I bought of you gave her relief after taking four doses. She has not been troubled since. It is the best medicine she ever took for rheumatism. Respectfully,
ZACK DAVIS.

MR W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I have been afflicted with rheumatism time and again, for the past thirteen years. I have received more relief from Pokine than any medicine I ever took, and therefore take great pleasure in recommending it to all sufferers of rheumatism. Very respectfully,
F. G. MITCHELL.

JANUARY 19, 1891.

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Dear Sir—I desire to say that in January last I was down with rheumatism; my suffering was great, and I was completely prostrated. One bottle of your Pokine completely relieved me, and I have not had any rheumatism since. My son also was relieved of rheumatism by Pokine.
Yours truly,
CHARLES G. BURROUGHS

HENDERSON, N. C., Sept. 16, '91.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.:
Your rheumatic cure, Pokine, has completely cured me. I. M. GREEN.

MR. W. T. CHEATHAM, JR., Henderson, N. C.:
Dear Sir—Being asked my opinion of your rheumatic remedy, Pokine, will gladly state I deem it the only medicine of its kind on the market that will accomplish that which is exclusively claimed for it. Being a sufferer of rheumatism, I consequently tried many remedies, until finally relieved by Pokine. Very respectfully,
J. A. KELLY.

Price, $1.00. For sale by druggists. Mail orders filled promptly by

W. T. CHEATHAM, JR.,
HENDERSON, N. C

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Oct. 18, '92	No 23. Daily	No 27. Fast Mail Daily.	No 41 Daily ex Sunday
Leave Weldon	12 30 p m	5 43 p m	6 00 a m
Ar Rocky Mount	1 40 p m	6 36 p m	7 09 a m
Arrive Tarboro	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro	12 58 p m	‡6 00 p m
Arrive Wilson	2 18 p m	7 00 p m	7 40 a m
Leave Wilson	‡2 30 p m
Arrive Selma	3 25 p m
Arr Fayetteville	5 20 p m
Leave Goldsboro	3 15 p m	7 40 p m	8 30 a m
Leave Warsaw	4 14 p m		9 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 27 p m	8 40 p m	9 44 a m
Arr Wilmington	6 00 p m	9 55 p m	11 25 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated May 31, '92	No 14. Daily	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily ex Sunday.
Lve Wilmington	12 35 a m	9 15 a m	4 20 p m
Leave Magnolia	1 54 a m	10 57 a m	6 02 p m
Leave Warsaw		11 11 a m	6 15 p m
Arrive Goldsboro	2 55 a m	12 05 a m	7 10 p m
Lve Fayetteville		‡9 0 a m
Leave Selma		11 35 a m
Arrive Wilson		12 30 p m
Leave Wilson	3 35 a m	12 58 p m	8 04 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	4 03 a m	1 30 p m	8 39 p m
Arrive Tarboro	‡6 30 a m	‡2 18 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 58 p m
Arrive Weldon	5 05 a m	2 55 p m	10 00 p m

‡Daily except Sunday.

Trains on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 4 00 p m, Halifax 4 22 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 5.15 p m, Greenville 6.52 p m. Kinston 8.00 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.30 a m, Greenville 8 40 a m. Arriving Halifax at 12.25 a m, Weldon 11.45 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.30 a m, arrives Parmele 9.00 a m; returning leaves Parmele 7.00 p m, arrives Washington 8.20 p m Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Albemarle and Raleigh R R, and Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 4.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrive Williamston 7.03 p m, 4.20 p m, Plymouth 8.30 p m, 5 20 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 6.20 a m, Sunday 9.00 a m, Williamston 7.50 a m, 9.58 a m. Arrive Tarboro 11 00 a m, 11.20 a m.

Trains on Southern Division, Wilson and Fayetteville branch, leave Fayetteville 5.30 p m, arrive Rowland 7.12 p m. Returning leave Rowland 7 35 a m, arrive Fayetteville 9.20 a m. Daily except Sunday.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 6.40 p m, arrives Nashville 7.15 p m, Spring Hope 7.40 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 6.20 p m, and 11.15 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 8.20 a m, and 3.10 p m, connecting at Warsaw with Nos 41, 40, 23 and 78.

Southbound train on Wilson and Fayetteville branch is No 51; Northbound is No 50. Daily except Sunday.

Trains No 27 South, and 14 North, will stop only at Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro and Magnolia.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Bay Line, also at Rocky Mount daily except Sunday, with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk and all points north via Norfolk.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In Effect October 9, 1892.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. No. 9.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	*3 00 p m	*3 20 a m
" Burkeville	5 03 p m	5 00 a m
" Keysville	5 42 p m	5 39 a m
Ar. Danville	8 00 p m	8 06 a m
" Greensboro	10 05 p m	10 05 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*3 50 p m
Ar. Raleigh	5 45 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*6 00 p m	*7 00 a m
" Durham	7 07 p m	7 58 a m
Ar. Greensboro	9 40 p m	10 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*8 00 p m	*8 45 a m
" Greensboro	*10 15 p m	*10 15 a m
Ar. Salisbury	12 12 a m	12 00 m
Ar. Statesville	*2 35 a m	*1 09 p m
" Asheville	7 50 a m	5 58 p m
" Hot Springs	10 30 a m	7 57 p m
Lv. Salisbury	*12 22 a m	*12 08 p m
Ar. Charlotte	2 00 a m	1 30 p m
" Spartanburg	5 00 a m	4 18 p m
" Greenville	6 10 a m	5 24 p m
" Atlanta	11 25 a m	10 30 p m
Lv. Charlotte	*2 10 a m	*1 50 p m
Ar. Columbia	7 45 a m	6 00 p m
Ar. Augusta	12 00 noon	9 25 p m

NORTHBOUND	DAILY. No. 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	*6 00 p m	*8 15 a m
" Columbia	11 30 p m	11 15 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 00 a m	4 30 p m
Lv Atlanta	*8 50 p m	*8 05 a m
Ar Charlotte	6 30 a m	6 10 p m
Lv Charlotte	6 48 a m	6 30 p m
Ar Salisbury	8 14 a m	8 00 p m
Lv Hot Springs	*7 25 p m	*12 30 p m
" Asheville	9 00 a m	2 30 p m
" Statesville	2 50 p m	7 01 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 00 p m	7 51 p m
Lv Salisbury	*8 25 a m	*8 15 p m
Ar Greensboro	10 00 a m	9 50 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*11 30 a m	*12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*11 05 p m
Ar Durham	12 11 p m	1 02 a m
" Raleigh	1 10 p m	2 00 a m
Lv Raleigh	*1 28 p m
Ar Goldsboro	3 05 p m
Lv Greensboro	*10 20 a m	*10 20 p m
Ar Danville	12 01 p m	12 40 a m
" Keysville	2 46 p m	3 30 a m
" Burkeville	3 28 p m	4 15 a m
" Richmond	5 30 p m	6 18 a m

†Daily except Sunday. *Daily.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND.

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4 45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 8.20 a m daily; leave Keysville 5.48 a m; arrive at Oxford 7.59 a m, Henderson 9.10 a m, Durham 9.20 a m, Raleigh 10.30 a m Selma 11.30 a m. Returning leave Selma 11.40 a m., Raleigh 8.15 p m, Durham 9.25 p m, Henderson 9.30 p m, Oxford 10.47 p m; arrive Keysville 1.05 a m, Richmond 6.18 a m.

Mixed train leave Keysville daily except Sunday 9.00 a m; arrives Durham 5.40 p m. Leave Durham 7.58 a m daily except Sunday; arrive Oxford 9.45 a m, Keysville 2.35 p m.

Additional trains leave Oxford daily except Sunday 6.00 p m, and 11.55 a m; arrive Henderson 6.55 p m, and 12.40 p m; returning leave Henderson 10.30 a m and 2.30 p m, daily except Sunday arrive Oxford 11.15 a m, and 3.15 p m.

Nos 9 and 12 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 9 and 10, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Atlanta and New York; Danville and Augusta.

On 11 and 12, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between Richmond and Danville, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers between New York Washington and Hot Springs via Danville, Salisbury and Asheville, and Pullman Sleepers between Washington and Atlanta; and between Greensboro and Portsmouth, Va.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager. Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D C

Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

In effect Sunday, Jan. 10, 1893.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.	No. 34. Pass. Daily.	No. 38. Pass. & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.
Leave Raleigh	5 00 p m	11 25 a m
Lv Mill Brook	5 15 p m	11 40 a m
Lv Wake Forest	5 38 p m	12 04 p m
Lv Franklinton	5 58 p m	12 26 p m
Lv Kittrells	6 15 p m	12 43 p m
Lv Henderson	6 30 p m	12 59 p m
Lv Warren Plains	7 05 p m	1 39 p m
Lv Macon	7 14 p m	1 47 p m
Ar Weldon	8 15 p m	2 45 p m

TRAINS MOVING SOUTH.	No. 41. Pass & Mail, d'ly ex Sun.	No. 45. Daily Pass.
Lv Weldon	12 30 p m	7 00 a m
Lv Macon	1 30 p m	8 01 a m
Lv Warren Plains	1 39 p m	8 09 a m
Lv Henderson	2 18 p m	8 43 a m
Lv Kittrells	2 34 p m	8 59 a m
Lv Franklinton	2 51 p m	9 16 a m
Lv Wake Forest	3 15 p m	9 36 a m
Lv Mill Brook	3 40 p m	9 58 a m
Ar Raleigh	3 55 p m	10 10 a m

LOUISBURG RAILROAD.

Leaves Louisburg at 8:00 a m, 11:30 a m and 5:00 p m.

Arrives at Franklinton at 8:35 a m, 1:05 p m, and 5:35 p m.

Leaves Franklinton at 6:05 p m, 3:00 p m, and 9:20 a m.

Arrives at Louisburg at 6:40 a m, 3:35 p m, and 9:20 a m.

JOHN C. WINDER, Gen. Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. SMITH, Superintendent.

WHISKEY and Opium Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D.
Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

Easy Divorce and Pre-Natal Murder.

There is yet another evil that may be called national, both because in its extent it is such, and also because it characterizes and disgraces our own nation beyond other nations of the earth. It is that of lax marriage and easy divorce. The prophet Malachi answered the inquiry of his people as to why the anger of Jehovah burned so fiercely against them with the words: "Because the Lord hath been witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously; yet is she thy companion and the wife of thy covenant. . . . For the Lord, the God of Israel, saith that he hateth putting away." And yet it is a question whether Israel at the very worst point in her history touched such a depth of infamy as have we in this matter. The very laws upon our statute books are a woeful tribute to our degradation. These laws are as various as are the States that enact them. In an article that appeared recently in Blackwood's Magazine the grounds for divorce are thus summarized: "Adultery; wilful desertion, habitual drunkenness; imprisonment for felony; cruel and abusive treatment; inhuman treatment; failure to provide for; great neglect of duty; absence without being heard from; absence without reasonable cause; separation; voluntary separation; ungovernable temper; such indignities as make life burdensome; husband notoriously immoral before marriage, unknown to wife; fugitive from justice; gross misbehavior or wickedness; attempt on life; refusal of wife to move into the State; joining any religious society that believes marriage unlawful; cannot live in peace and union." And on grounds such as these, the only scriptural one of which in all the number is the first, the year 1890, it is calculated, saw more than 60,000 persons divorced; the last twenty years, according to the statement of Joseph Cook, having seen 300,000 divorces. So that it may well be said that "a vast horde of men and women" in our land are living in what Milton called "civilized adultery."

There is still another evil of which we can write only in hints, an evil which, like the last, touches very closely upon the home-life of the people of our land. We have recently received from the author, a Boston pastor, a little brochure entitled "The Crowning Sin of the Age." We need not be required to name it by any other name than it is entitled to bear, murder, pre-natal murder, murder before birth, as truly a violation of the sixth command of the Decalogue as though a mother were to draw the knife across the throat of the infant lying in her arms. A crime so common, according to the testimony of physicians, that were the truth to be published and the crime punished wherever committed, a gallows must needs be erected on every street corner of our cities, and in every town, village, and hamlet of our land. The statement is appalling. And yet there is good ground for it. Out of the total number of 424,415 families in the State of Massachusetts, where health statistics are more accurately secured than in any other State of the Union, perhaps 70,398 were without children, and 82,760 consisted of father, mother, and one child. To the shame of native Americans be it said that the crime to which we refer is one of which they are conspicuously guilty; and to the double shame of Protestant christians be it said this crime attaches especially to them. We profess alarm at the increasing political power which Rome is securing among us, but be it said to her credit that she has not so heavy a burden of guilt resting upon her in this matter as have we. No assault upon our liberties can equal in its danger to our national life an attack upon the purity of the family.—Extract from Homiletic Review for October.

Look out for cheap substitutes! Beware of new remedies. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has stood the test for nearly fifty years.

The Typical Home.

In strong, bold touches of a master's hand, working under inspiration, there is given us, in Psalm 128, a picture of a typical true home: "Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord; that walketh in his ways. For thou shalt eat the labor of thine hands; happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee. Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine, in the innermost parts of thine house; thy children like olive plants, round about thy table." It is all there, and there is nothing added to obscure the type. See there the husband and father, able to work, and working; there the wife and mother, serving, beautifying and making glad the home within; the children there, vigorous, healthy, joyful, with promise of future usefulness. See there, in the "Thou shalt eat the labor of thine hands," industry rewarded, bringing independence; in the "Happy shalt thou be," and "It shall be well with thee," blessing and prosperity.

It is a beautiful picture. Yet it is much more than that. There are in the six brief verses of that Psalm the elements of the entire philosophy of the family. The man is the provider; his work is without the house; they eat the labor of his hands. The woman is the keeper of the home; her work is within the house, to make it a place of comfort, beauty and refreshing. The children are "round about the table"—to be fed, cared-for, reared, their capabilities for usefulness developed. And in a verse which we have not yet quoted, the great truth respecting the relation of the true home to the State comes clearly out—"Thou shalt see the good of Jerusalem all the days of thy life." Jerusalem stood for the nation, and the assertion is that such homes as these are the basis of substantial and permanent national prosperity. The Psalm is as philosophical as it is full of beauty and peace.—The Watchman.

Some men pride themselves upon being firm when really they are just stubborn.—Central Baptist.

They Are Wanted.

Thirty-two million copies of Sunday-school papers and lesson helps circulated in a single year from one publishing house, is a matter for profound gratitude. Baptists have reason to rejoice in the fact that they have an agency whose annual output, in this one branch of its work alone, reaches the above figures.

CIRCULATION IMPLIES FAVOR.

People will not long continue to take papers that they do not like. Subscription lists may for a time be forced, but Baptists in the long run will stand by the papers and lesson helps that appeal to them most strongly on their merits.

FAVOR IMPLIES MERIT.

The yearly increasing sale of the Sunday-school papers of the American Baptist Publication Society settles the question of their merits. No pressure has been brought to bear on any one to secure their patronage. Their subscribers are volunteers, who know what they want, and who believe that they are getting absolutely the best to be had.

WHAT CONSTITUTES MERIT.

Merit in Sunday-school papers and helps embraces four essential things: 1. Doctrinal Soundness. 2. Literary and Scholarly Ability. 3. Careful and Complete Grading. 4. Mechanical excellence.

All these essentials are found in the largest measure in the fourteen distinctly graded lesson helps and papers published by the American Baptist Publication Society. No other house in the world provides so large or complete a list of graded Sunday-school Helps.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR 1893.

The Baptist Teacher will contain four additional pages each month, with several new features. There will be no increase in price.

The Intermediate Quarterly will be enlarged in size.

The Primary Cards printed in colors have always been the prettiest made; but for 1893 they will be still more attractive. The coloring will be superb.

The latest addition to the Society's admirably graded series is THE INDUCTIVE BIBLE LESSON QUARTERLY, which meets the highest needs of the most thoughtful scholars and teachers. Those who have seen the first number of this new Quarterly say "it is the best Lesson Help ever published."

DOCTRINAL SOUNDNESS.

A few persons have for the last year or two filled certain papers with a continuous cry about the unsoundness of the Society's publications. The wail has been fierce, continuous, and in some cases it may be from personal interest. But the millions who have used these helps, and therefore know them, are not frightened in the least.

With these subscribers the record of sixty-eight years, under the continued scrutiny of the denomination, counts for something in establishing confidence in the doctrinal soundness of the Society's helps. And this confidence is well placed; for it is simply impossible for any set of men to bestow more painstaking care than the Board of the American Baptist Publication Society bestows upon its Sunday school papers and helps.

Letter from Alfred Grunfeld.

(Translated from the German.)

WM. KNABE & CO.:—During my six months' concert tour through the United States of America, I have used exclusively the Knabe Pianos, and am pleased to be able to state, with fullest sincerity, that I consider them the best instruments of our times.

In particular, is the action absolutely incomparable, enabling the rendering of effects which I considered heretofore impossible.

I congratulate Wm. Knabe & Co. heartily to their superb instruments, and feel convinced that most of my colleagues will join me in my judgment.

ALFRED GRUNELD,
Imperial and Royal Austrian Court Pianist,
and Royal Prussian Court Pianist.
New York, April 1, 1892.

Two little children were seen standing in front of a beautiful shop window in Baltimore one cold Christmas eve, and one of them was talking very earnestly but pleasantly to the other. They were brother and sister, and the sister was blind. The brother had brought his little blind sister out in front of the pretty things, which she could not see, and he was trying to tell her all about them. It was a pathetic and beautiful scene. Every young person has among his friends some who are blind to the beauties of Christ and the Bible. It is your privilege to speak to them of what you have seen and know. "Ye are my witnesses saith the Lord," and God may give them sight while you speak.—Young People's Union.

There is very little use in making to-day cloudy because to-morrow is likely to be stormy.

Into our natual descent into evil there is something to prevent it, there is salvation offered to the sinner. It is like a strong hand offered to the man falling over the precipice; if he grasps it he is saved, but if he neglects it, he is lost. He need not dash himself down nor plunge into the depths; he needs but to neglect the offered hand to accomplish his death. Just so is it with the sinner. The power of sin is dragging him down, and salvation is the strong hand held out to save him. To be saved, the sinner needs but take hold of that and hold on till stopped in his downward course. He needs but neglect it to be lost, for that amounts to cutting himself off from the only possible means of escape.—Selected.

On looking back through thirty years of church-life, we are compelled to come to the conclusion that the most unsatisfactory members we have ever had have been those who were best satisfied with themselves. One brother became so thoroughly sanctified that he could not live with his wife, and another had so clean escaped from sin of every sort that he quitted us all in disgust. We find in the Sabbath-school, the lay-preachers' association, the christian young men's meeting, and in all other forms of work, that as soon as any of the brethren and sisters began to brag about their holiness, they become wholly useless, and before long the place that knew them knows them no more.—Anon.

The christian life means development. It is a long way from the life of sin to the life that is hid with Christ in God. One of the best tests of real growth is that of fruitfulness. That tree is not worth much in the orchard that does not bear fruit. The vine that is not heavy with clusters is worse than a cumberer of the ground. The christian who goes about making great professions and accomplishing no permanent work for his Lord is but a human fig tree with its glossy leaves and utter destitution of fruitage.—Epworth Herald.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Woman's Missionary Department.

President Woman's Central Committee of North Carolina, MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Raleigh, N. C.; Secretary, MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Raleigh, N. C.

IMPORTANT.—Programs for Centennial Day, Oct. 2d, 1892, prepared by the Centennial Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention free on application to Baptist Missions Rooms, 9 West Lexington street, Baltimore, Md., or Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

Subject for October:—Colored People.

"Open thy mouth * * * and plead the cause of the poor and needy." Missionaries, 60. Institutes held for education of ministers and deacons. No more important mission field for Southern Baptists. The Home Board needs money to employ colored missionaries and help to educate ministerial students.

Study Topics.—Not "what shall we do with, but for, the negro?" The best christians, the best citizens. Help that help others to help themselves, the best help. Participation of the colored people in the Centennial.

Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates.

For use of Sunday-schools the Centennial Chapel Cards and Certificates may be obtained free, in any number required, by sending to Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, No. ten East Fayette Street, Baltimore. A circular to Sunday-schools from the Home and Foreign Boards, and the leaflet "Annie's Bricks," will be sent with each order. Should a larger distribution of the leaflet be desired, it can be purchased at two cents per copy.

Woman's Mission Societies or Individuals in North Carolina may obtain the Chapel Cards and Certificates free by applying to the Central Committee, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C.

The American Baptists on the Congo.

Their farthest station is near where the Congo crosses the equator. They have also a station at Leopoldville, on Stanley Pool, and a number of others on the caravan road, from Leopoldville down to Matadi, the foot-path 230 miles long, by which everything that goes or comes between the Upper Congo and the Atlantic must be carried on the heads or shoulders of bare headed and bare footed Africans. They have about thirty missionaries and also own a steamer, the Henry Reed, and around some of their churches whole communities have been brought under the influence of christianity. Banza Manteka and Lukunga have been especially blessed. Mr. Richards, their pastor, said of the first named: "The glorious fact is that Banza Manteka is no longer a heathen country, but more christian than any I am acquainted with."—Mis. Review.

"So I Send You."

The night lies dark upon the earth, and we have light;
So many have to grope their way, and we have sight;
One path is theirs and ours—of sin and care,
But we are borne along, and they their burdens bear.
Foot-sore, heart-weary, faint they on their way,
Mute in their grief, while we rejoicing pray;
To them a stone is boon on which to rest,
While we lie pillowed on the Father's breast.

Father, why is it that these children roam,
And I with thee, so glad, at rest, at home?
Is it enough to keep the door ajar,
In hope that some may see the gleam afar
And guess that that is home, and urge their way
If they, perchance, may reach it on some day?
May not I go and lend them of my light?
May not mine eyes be unto them for sight?
May not the brother love thy love portray,
And news of home make home less far away?

Yea, Christ hath said that as from thee he came
To seek and save, so hath he, in his name,
Sent us to these; and, father, we would go,
Glad in thy love that thou hast willed it so
That we should be partakers in the joy
Which even on earth knows naught of earth's alloy—
The joy which grows as other's grief's grow less,
And could not live but for its power to bless. —Selected.

The general meetings of the colored Baptists of the South met in Savannah, Ga., September 15th. The first organization to hold its sessions was the American National Baptist Convention. After addresses of welcome by the Rev. E. K. Love, D. D., pastor of the First African Laptist Church, the Convention was organized. The statistics of the Convention showed 19 State conventions and associations; 12,213 churches; 9,667 ordained ministers; baptisms during the year, 54,667; a total membership of 1,400,756—an increase of 38,591; Sunday-schools, 7,917, with 39,367 officers and teachers and 500,582 scholars. There are 52 high schools and colleges, with 282 teachers and 7,290 students. Of these high schools and colleges 15 are controlled by the American Baptist Home Missonary Society, leaving 37 which are owned and controlled by the colored Baptists.—The Independent.

Africa has an estimated area of 11,514,300 square miles and a population of 162,000,000.

MANLY PURITY

To cleanse the blood, skin, and scalp of every eruption, impurity, and disease, whether simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or ulcerative, no agency in the world is so speedy, economical, and unfailing as the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier and greatest of humor remedies. In a word, they are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, and may be used in the treatment of every humor and disease, from eczema to scrofula, with the most gratifying and unfailing success. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORP., Boston.
"How to Cure Blood Humors" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough hands and falling hair cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. Price, 25c.

A lady of six years successful experience desires a situation in a private family, a public or a private school, for the spring term commencing first of March, 1893. Can teach English, Instrumental Music, Mathematics, and beginners in Latin. References given and required. Address
MISS A. V. SMITHSON,
Finchley, Mecklenbury county, Va.

"Ministry of Song."

Not a poor hymn in it. New and first-class. "Buried in Baptism" worth the price of the book. Now being used in Rev. J. R. Harrison's meetings in Baptist Tabernacle, Raleigh. Price, 30 cts by mail. G. TABOR THOMPSON, 318 West 44th St., New York City.

Peace Institute,
RALEIGH, N. C.

A select school for young ladies and girls. 54th year. 21 officers and teachers. Send for catalogue.
JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A. (Univ. Va.)
Principal.
Please mention this paper.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Free TO MAGISTRATES AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

Upon the receipt of name and postoffice, we will mail to any Magistrate or County Officer in North Carolina a copy of Revised Fee Bill and List of Blanks to be used.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON, Pub'rs.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect October 1, 1892.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily.	No. 4. Daily.	No. 12. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	5 00 a m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	8 02 a m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	8 27 a m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	9 48 a m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	11 44 a m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	12 15 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	12 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Stokesdale	1 22 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	1 55 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	2 32 p m	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	3 02 p m	.....	.....
Ar Mt Airy	4 25 p m	.....	.....
Lv Bennettsville	.....	5 40 a m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	6 39 a m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	7 02 a m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	7 43 a m	.....
Ar Fayetteville	.....	8 02 a m	.....
Lv Ramseur	.....	.....	7.00 a m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	8 50 a m
Ar Greensboro	.....	.....	9.35 a m

	No 16 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 18 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Greensboro	7.00 a m	2.00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	8.15 a m	3.40 p m
Ar Madison	9.05 a m	4.30 p m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily.	No. 3. Daily.	No. 11. Mixed. Daily Ex. Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	12.00 noon	.....	.....
Lv Rural Hall	1.22 p m	.....	.....
Ar N & W Jun		.....	.....
Walnut Cove	1.52 p m	.....	.....
Lv N & W Jun	2.30 p m	.....	.....
Walnut Cove		.....	.....
Lv Stokesdale	2.57 p m	.....	.....
Ar Greensboro	3.40 p m	.....	.....
Lv Greensboro	3.45 p m	.....	.....
Lv Climax	4.13 p m	.....	.....
Lv Sanford	6.00 p m	.....	.....
Ar Fayetteville	7.20 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	7.46 p m	.....	.....
Ar Wilmington	11.00 p m	.....	.....
Lv Fayetteville	.....	7 45 p m	.....
Lv Hope Mills	.....	8 09 p m	.....
Lv Red Springs	.....	8 43 p m	.....
Lv Maxton	.....	9 13 p m	.....
Ar Bennettsville	.....	10 05 p m	.....
Lv Greensboro	.....	.....	8 35 p m
Lv Climax	.....	.....	9 20 p m
Ar Ramseur	.....	.....	11 00 p m

	No 15 Mixed. Daily ex Sunday	No 17 Mixed Daily ex Sunday
Lv Madison	9 55 a m	5 00 p m
Lv Stokesdale	10 50 a m	5 50 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 00 noon	7 00 p m

Train No 2 connects at Sanford with Seaboard Air Line for Raleigh, Norfolk and all points North and East, and at Walnut Cove with the Norfolk and Western R R for Winston-Salem, Roanoke and points North and West of Roanoke.

Passengers from Wilmington, Fayetteville, Maxton, Bennettsville and all points south of Sanford will arrive at Raleigh at 11:15 a m, and have five hours in Raleigh, and reach home same day.

Ample time for breakfast and supper at Fayetteville, and dinner at Walnut Cove.

W. R. BYLL, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Views in Connection with Baptism.

"Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptised into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection." Rom. 6: 3, 4, 5.

Christ certainly instituted baptism to symbolize his death, burial and resurrection. Yes, the believer in Christ is dead to sin, then goes down into a watery grave, and thus buried, he, like as Christ rose from the grave, rises from his watery grave to walk in newness of life. Oh, how beautiful the emblem!

In writing this article, I desire to be actuated altogether by the spirit of Christ—yes, that my words may all emanate from his spirit in my heart.

Then, according to the New Testament (Christ's own word), nothing even has any resemblance of baptism but something planted, or buried, which is all the same.

I can't see why baptism is so persecuted. Those opposing it can, with equal propriety, oppose and persecute the whole of the New Testament, since the Author of the one is the Author of the other. The Author of the words instituting the ordinance of baptism is also the Author of the words, "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book."

Now, it is certain that even preachers who sprinkle and pour water on the head of a believer in Christ for baptism, has evidently both taken away and added to the things written in the book. Can any one see any way for their escape? According to the word, the plagues written in the book will be added unto them, and also their part will be taken out of the book of life. They virtually say to God, "Lord, the baptism which thou hast ordained and commanded is both inconvenient and indecent, hence we have substituted something for baptism which is convenient and also decent." Is it a fact that nothing but to bury in water is baptism? Is this what Christ has commanded? Then in John 15: 14, he says, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

"Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." Matt. 16: 24. Yes, let him set aside his substitution he calls baptism, and take up his cross, go down into the water, be buried with Christ in baptism, and thus follow him as he has commanded.

"And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." Luke 9: 23. This denying and taking up the cross, simply means taking God at his word, and thus follow willingly all his commands.

"And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." 1 John 2: 3, 4

My Lord and Redeemer knows my object is to convince, if possible, and not to offend. O Lord, forbid that any should become offended at thy word which I have used in this article. R. Q. A. Teague.

Farmington, N. C.

Moneys Received for Pine Level Church.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I acknowledge the receipt of the following amounts for the rebuilding of Pine Level Baptist church:

Second Baptist church, Durham, $5 13; First church, Durham, 11.75; a brother desiring his name withheld, 5 00; brethren N. B. Broughton, J. M. Broughton, J. T. Ellington, and Mr. J. H. Pace, each 1.00; Mr. O. S. Abie, 25c. Total, $26 13.

We have our house weather boarded, roof on and covered. We owe for most of the weather-boarding and have the inside work to do yet. The brethren have done what they could, and they have done well to their strength. Will you be so kind as to help a few struggling brethren who are laboring for the respectability of the Lord's cause as you believe it. Send money to the address of the undersigned and you will be promptly receipted for the same.

Thanking you for your past sympathy and soliciting a continuance of the same,

I am your humble servant for Christ,

J. W. Rose.

Pine Level, Johnston Co., N. C.

We are a patient people—the ox is nowhere in comparison.

We buy lamp-chimneys by the dozen; they go on snapping and popping and flying in pieces; and we go on buying the very same chimneys year after year.

Our dealer is willing to sell us a chimney a week for every lamp we burn—a hundred or more a year—and we plow for him, pay him for goading us.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" do not break from heat; they are made of tough glass.

As likely as not our dealer would rather his chimneys would break; "it's good for the business," says he. He buys the brittlest ones he can get.

What are you going to do about it?

GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Pilot Mountain.

This is a little town on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., fifteen miles from Mt. Airy.

It received its name from that matchless Pilot which rises so uniquely and peerlessly above all surrounding hills, whose aerial summit kisses the first rays of a morning sun and whose face bathes in the clouds of heaven. Here, near the base of this natural wonder of all mountains, is located the growing, delightful hamlet of Pilot Mountain. Yes, here is that hard place, which used to be noted for its inebriety and immorality, but now it is famous for its universal sobriety and for its high tone of morals.

And this is the place, too, at which our Executive Committee has been putting forth an earnest effort, formerly through Rev. C. C. Haymore, but now through Rev. J. H. Lewellyn, to establish the Baptist cause in this destitute field. Brethren, you have made no mistake in sending these preachers to that community. Every dollar has been wisely spent. The foundation work has been largely done, and the big hearted Lewellyn, followed by some excellent brethren and sisters, is, under the divine leadership of God, beginning to erect the spiritual kingdom of our King. It was my recent privilege to assist the pastor in a meeting which resulted in many conversions and in twelve accessions to the church—two by letter, and ten by baptism. The little band is now about thirty-five strong and is greatly encouraged. Their house is not ceiled, but there is a growing willingness among the brethren toward the accomplishment of a comfortable house for winter.

There is a bright and promising future for the Pilot Mountain Baptists, notwithstanding they are yet on the very hub of "Hard-shellism." It is difficult to crack; but the children, rocked in the cradle of this ism, are growing up without any shells on them and are eager to go to our churches and Sunday-schools. Now is the time for the Baptists in this portion of the State. Our greatest need is preachers who are not afraid to preach the Bible as Baptists believe it. We are still on the up-grade in Mt. Airy. I am preaching to large and attentive congregations. If our church was more centrally located, at night the house would soon be too small to hold the crowds that would come.

It is real meat to any soul to see the people interested and to constantly trouble the baptismal waters.

We are expecting Broughton of Winston to hold a meeting for us in November.

L. R. Pruett.

Letter from Tennessee.

Dear Recorder:—I am just home from the State Convention, and venture to give some of my impressions concerning our work.

First, we have a strong lot of men as our leaders and they are doing our work nobly. Our State, it may be of interest to know, came up $2,000 in debt. About $750 of this was raised at the Convention, leaving a debt still remaining of $1,250. Our State was instructed not to employ any more workers until this debt was paid. We have forty-one State missionaries. There is work to be done here—yes, work, work untold.

There was a new Board of Colportage and Sunday schools created and located at Chattanooga with C. G. Jones as chairman. We look for some efficient work from this Board. There is a great deal to be done in this direction. There are 560 churches out of about 1,350 that have no Sunday-school, and a great many have no regular pastors.

Second. There was deep spirituality during the whole Convention. Every one seemed to think more and more about the work. We could not help it. There were such stirring reports from our State missionaries! I do not think I ever heard a better from any source. There was not a jar during our whole session. All seemed in perfect accord, and all went away rejoicing.

Third. A feature of much interest and note to one who was imported from the Old North State, was the number of companions he had. A North Carolina boy cannot feel lonely in a Tennessee Convention. Bro. W. A. Wray, father of John A. Wray, who was a student at Wake Forest all the while I was there, took rather a novel idea into his head and put it into execution. He gave a reception at his home to all North Carolina men. He knows just how to do this thing, too, if any one does. The following were present: C. G. Jones, Chattanooga; Oscar Haywood, Morristown; J. C. Rockwell, Newport; J. H. Moore, May Day; T. A. Rewer, Jonesboro; W. S. Splawn and wife, Lexington, Ky.; M. A. Adams, Jonesboro; J. S. Corpening, Eagleville. All these reported as being North Carolinians, and besides there were E. E. Folk, a graduate of Wake Forest, and J. A. Argily of Johnson City. Bro. Wray entertained us all in a magnificent way. We shall not forget the pleasant moments spent under his hospitable roof so long as the Lord permits us to remember anything.

Altogether, our Convention was a success. We left Knoxville to meet next year at Jackson. It would be pleasant to speak of Knoxville and the work there, but I forbear.

With best regards to all my North Carolina friends and best wishes for the dear old Recorder, I am fraternally,

M. A. Adams.

Jonesboro, Tenn., Oct. 19, 1892.

Meetings in Johnston County.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—On the third Sunday in July, I began a meeting at Hood's schoolhouse, where there were no Missionary Baptists, which lasted five days. Several professed faith. At the close of the meeting, one was received by baptism into the fellowship of Smithfield Baptist church with a view of organizing a church at this place in the future.

Seven miles from this place at Blackman's X Roads, both of which are in the extreme southern portion of Johnston county, I commenced a meeting on Tuesday after the fourth Sunday, assisted by Bro. J. W. Rose. This meeting was well attended. Two have been received by baptism, and others are expected to follow. We are now raising funds to build a house, and purpose organizing a church at this point before a great while. I am also preaching at two other points some six miles west of Smithfield. We had a successful meeting at each of these points, which resulted in fifteen additions to the Baptist church at Smithfield. We are also engaged in raising money to build a house midway between these two points, and will organize a church as soon as we can use the house. Bro. O. C. Horton rendered valuable assistance three days during these meetings.

The second Lord's day in August we began a series of meetings with Shiloh church, which continued a week. The result was a general revival of the church, and sixteen professions of faith. Thirteen have been received by baptism and others will follow. Rev. O. L. Stringfield preached six very impressive sermons during the meeting.

On the first Sunday night in October we entered upon a series of meetings with the church at Smithfield which lasted more than two weeks. Bro. O. L Stringfield was with us during the first week and preached with great earnestness and power. Bro. W. F. Watson of Dunn came to our assistance Thursday night of the second week and preached seven very interesting and soul-stirring sermons. It is conceded by all to be the most successful meeting the old church has enjoyed for a number of years. Christians were greatly revived and several professed faith in Christ, some of whom are heads of families. It was my pleasure to baptize three men last Wednesday morning, and others will follow soon.

While Smithfield in many respects is undoubtedly one of the hardest places in the State, yet we believe there is a bright future before us.

We are glad to have the Association meet with us next week. God grant to accompany each minister and delegate who may be in attendance with the Holy Spirit's presence.

F. H. Poston.

Elkin, Association.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I attended the Elkin Association, which met with Elkin church, Oct. 13, 1892. The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. J. W. Burchett from Eph. 2: 19

Rev. C. F. Fields was chosen Moderator, and Rev. E. N. Gwyn, Clerk.

The letters showed some improvement in the churches on the line of missions.

The reports came up in their usual order, and were discussed by the brethren in rather a lively manner, and especially that on Temperance, and I think some good was done for the cause of Temperance among our mountain brethren.

We had two sermons each day—one at eleven o'clock, and the other at night.

There are some noble brethren in the Elkin Association, and when they get thoroughly awakened to their duty to Missions and Education, they will come up to any of the small Associations in our State, for they have many natural advantages in the mountains. We did what we could for State Missions, and took a collection, which amounted to $11 75.

Our home was with Brother and Sister King, and we fared sumptuously every day.

The next Association will be held with Rock Creek church, commencing on Thursday before the first Sunday in November, 1893. J. M. Hilliard.

Rock Spring Church.

Dear Recorder:—We commenced a meeting at Rock Spring church, Tar River Association, which resulted in greatly reviving the church and in about forty converts to the christian faith.

Bro. Eddie Davis of Louisburg was with us and preached the pure gospel in a simple way to the acceptance of all who heard him.

The baptizing will take place on the first Sunday morning in November at ten o'clock.

Fraternally, W. H. Edwards.

Wake Forest, N. C.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will favor the publisher, as well as the advertiser, by stating that you saw the advertisement in the Biblical Recorder.

Sweet Gum and Mullein is a sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, consumption, and all throat and lung troubles.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Holly Grove ch, W Chowan, $12.00; Cedar Creek Asso, 41.89; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 13.40; Alexander Asso, 9.99; Bogue Chapel ch, Cape Fear, 48c; Rive's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Hickory ch, 10.00; Windsor ch, W Chowan, 5.50; Edenton ch, Chowan (1892), 60.00; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 100.66; Elam ch, W Chowan, 2.95; Atlantic Asso, 879.00; Elkin Asso, 41.75; South River Asso, 45.83; W M S, Mt Gilead ch, Mt Zion Asso, 7.76; Mountain Creek ch, Flat River, 12.00; Mt Hermon ch, Raleigh, 93c; Albemarle ch, Stanly, 2.60; Monroe ch, Union, 21.42; Roquest ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Concord ch, 1.07; Coldwater ch, 3.00; Green's Cross ch, 5.00; Montgomery Co Asso, 8.12; Pleasant Grove ch, Raleigh, 7.50; Green River Asso, 85.00; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 11.50; Union Asso, 84.35; Gardner's ch, 3.10; Garner's ch, 1.00; A Friend, First ch, Raleigh, 25.00. Total, 1,008.80. Previously reported, 7,360.78. Total this year, 8,369.58.

Foreign Missions—Pactolus ch, Tar River, $1.00; Cedar Creek Asso, 52.38; Jackson ch, West Chowan (T C Britton), 9.95; Alexander Asso, 43.94; Rive's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, 74c; Hickory ch, 10.00; Windsor ch, W Chowan, 12.94; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 129.39; Elam ch, W Chowan (T C Britton), 14.24; Brooklyn S S, Wilmington, N C, 10.00; Elkin Asso, 20.40; Connaritsa ch, W Chowan, 6.00; Capehart's ch, ditto, (T C Britton), 10.00; Sunbeams, Scotland Neck ch, 5.00; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 5.93; Ditto, Sunbeams, 28c; Concord ch, 1.72; Coldwater ch, 40c; Green's Cross, 3.00; Montgomery Co Asso, 15.72; Pleasant Grove ch, Raleigh, 3.35; Union Asso, 38.05; W M S, Henderson (collected by Miss Mitchell), 5.00; Green River Asso, 18.97. Total, 418.40. Previously reported, 7 385.71. Total this year, 7,804.11.

Home Missions—Pactolus ch, Tar River, $2 00; Cedar Creek Asso, 22.10; Alexander Asso, 5.00; Rive's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, 50c; Hickory ch, 5.00; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 39.95; Brooklyn S S, Wilmington, N C, 6.75; Elkin Asso, 4.00; Connaritsa ch, West Chowan, 10 00; Capehart's ch, ditto, 10.00; Sunbeams, Scotland Neck ch, 5.00; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 2.75; Ditto, W M S, ditto, 1.00; Mt Hermon ch, Raleigh, 86c; Albemarle ch, Stanly, 1.35; Hebron ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Concord ch, 2.45; Coldwater ch, 1.25; Montgomery Co Asso, 1.31; Union Asso, 4.82; Green River Asso, 19.07. Total, 150.16. Previously reported, 2,586.68. Total this year, 2,736.84.

Havana House—Green River Asso, $1.66.

Education—Holly Grove ch, West Chowan, $10.00; Cedar Creek Asso, 5.50; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 25c; Rive's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Windsor ch, West Chowan, 1.72; Coleraine ch, 7.00; Elam ch, West Chowan, 10.00; Capehart's ch, ditto, 5.00; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 3.50; Hebron ch, West Chowan, 6.00; Concord ch, 5.00; Coldwater, 75c; Montgomery Co Asso, 8.00; Pleasant Grove ch, Raleigh, 3.50; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 1.50; Union Asso, 9.31; Gardner's ch, 1.25; Green River Asso, 8.35. Total, 87.61. Previously reported, 2,407 36. Total this year, 2,494.97.

Orphanage—Coleraine church, $7.00; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 4.40; Ditto, W M S, ditto, 1.00; Ditto, S S, ditto, 1.00; Mt Hermon ch, ditto, 92c; Hebron ch, West Chowan, 4.00; Pleasant Grove ch, Raleigh, 2.25; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 6.40; Union Asso, 50c. Total, 24.47. Previously reported, 1,086.56, Total this year, 1,061.03.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Bogue Chapel church, Cape Fear Association, $2.50; Jonesboro church, Sandy Creek Asso, 2.04; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 1.50; Ditto, W M S, ditto, 1.25; Lincolnton ch, South Fork, 4.50; Mt Zion ch, ditto, 50c; Montgomery Co Asso, 2.01; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 2.85; Union Asso, 6.65. Total, 23 80. Previously reported, 277.70. Total this year, 301.50.

Centennial Fund (Home Missions)—Rockingham ch, $30.00; Gardner's ch, 70c; Garner's S S, Raleigh, 1.00. Total, 31.70.

Centennial Fund (Foreign Missions)—Hattie Rogers, Ai, N C, $5.00; Green Level S S, 5.00; Rockingham ch, 35.00; Beck's S S, Pilot Mtn, 1.05; Garner's S S, Raleigh, 1.00. Total, 47.05.

Colportage—Green Level ch, Raleigh, $1.12; Ditto, S S, ditto, 1.00; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 2.00. Total, 4.12.

Sunday-schools—Green Level ch, Raleigh, $7 06; Ditto, S S, ditto, 1.80; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 1.76; Green River Asso, 1.50. Total, 12.12.

Students Aid Fund, Louisville—Lincolnton ch, South Fork, 1.50; Mt Zion ch, 50c. Total, 2.00.

In the Recorder, Oct 19th, the item, Tar River Asso, $14.82, for State Missions, should be Louisburg ch, Tar River Asso, 14.82, for Ministerial Relief Fund. Aulander ch, West Chowan, 3.41, for Foreign Missions, the 3.41 was omitted in type.

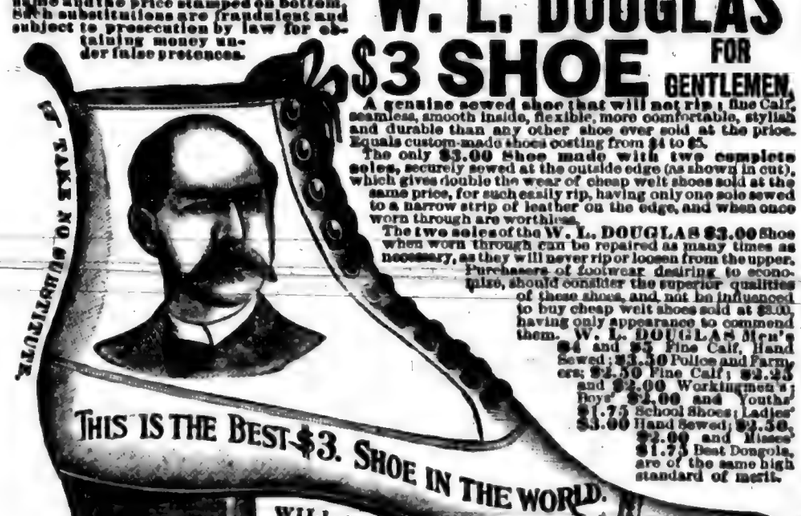
J. D. Boushall,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, Oct. 22, 1892.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

CAUTION.—Beware of dealers substituting shoes without W. L. Douglas name and the price stamped on bottom. Such substitutions are fraudulent and subject to prosecution by law for obtaining money under false pretences.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.



W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

A genuine sewed shoe that will not rip; fine Calf, seamless, smooth inside, flexible, more comfortable, stylish and durable than any other shoe ever sold at the price. Equals custom-made shoes costing from $4 to $5.

The only $3.00 shoe made with two complete soles, securely sewed at the outside edge (as shown in cut), which gives double the wear of cheap welt shoes sold at the same price, for such easily rip, having only one sole sewed to a narrow strip of leather on the edge, and when once worn through are worthless.

The two soles of the W. L. DOUGLAS $3.00 Shoe when worn through can be repaired as many times as necessary, as they will never rip or loosen from the upper.

Purchasers of footwear desiring to economize, should consider the superior qualities of these shoes, and not be influenced to buy cheap welt shoes sold at $3.00, having only appearance to commend them. W. L. DOUGLAS Men's $4 and $5 Fine Calf, Hand Sewed; $3.50 Police and Farmers; $2.50 Fine Calf; $2.25 and $2.00 Workingmen's; Boys' $2.00 and Youths' $1.75 School Shoes; Ladies' $3.00 Hand Sewed; $2.50, $2.00 and Misses' $1.75 Best Dongola, are of the same high standard of merit.

THIS IS THE BEST $3. SHOE IN THE WORLD.

WILL NOT RIP.

Will give exclusive sale to shoe dealers and general merchants where I have no agents. Write for catalogue. If not for sale in your place, send direct to Factory, stating kind, size and width wanted. Postage free. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.

TOBACCO HABIT

HILL'S CHLORIDE OF GOLD Tablets will completely destroy the desire for Tobacco in any form in from 3 to 5 days. Perfectly harmless, cause no sickness, and may be given in a cup of tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the patient, who will voluntarily stop Smoking or Chewing in a few days

For sale by all first-class druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. Ask for HILL'S Tablets, and take no others. Particulars free. THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO., by mail. Address 51, 53, and 55 Opera Block, LIMA, O.

EASILY CURED

Rosenthal Clothing Company,

305 Fayetteville St., opp. Postoffice, Raleigh, N. C.

Largest and Best Selected Stock

of Fine Tailor-made Clothing, at Lower Prices, than any other house in the State.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

CHAS. M. WALSH,

Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.

PETERSBURG, VA.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

THE ORIGINAL

Patented Feb. 23, 1886. See Patent Stamp on each Waist.

TAKE NO OTHER.

REMEMBER THE GENUINE

JACKSON CORSET WAISTS

ARE MADE ONLY BY THE

JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

The manufacturer's name is printed upon the boxes and stamped upon inside of clasp in each waist.

They are the most popular articles of the kind now on the market. You should have one of them.

BE SURE and GET the RIGHT THING

If your dealer hasn't them write to us.

CANVASSERS WANTED.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY, CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A. Best Copper and Tin School and Church BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Prices and Terms Free. Name this paper.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY IN THE

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, RALEIGH, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Literary.

"Floy's Reward." A Sequel to "Instead." By Mrs. R. M. Wilbur, author of "Company K, Kent's Brigade," "Hidden Foes," "Kitty and the Other Girls," etc. 12mo, 256 pages. Price, $1.00. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

This book, "Floy's Reward," tells us of a trip to Europe that she made under much more favorable auspices than presented themselves in her first opportunity. In companionship with her old friend Katie, and Prue who took her place when the first tour was made, she has the privilege of going over ground familiar to them. We follow them as they go from place to place in England, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and France, and are interested not only in what they see, but also in the comments made thereon. An added flavor of human interest is given to the story by the appearance with our travelers of our old time friend Mr. Burton, the pastor at Land's End, and Mr. Hudson, a brother minister, who respectively improved the opportunities foreign travel gives, of securing an interest in the regard of Floy and Katie. In this, as well as in her own consciousness of doing right, and in seeing Europe under more favorable circumstancies than would have presented themselves at first, Floy finds her reward.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Raleigh Affairs.

State Treasurer Donald W. Bain, is critically ill.

With imposing pageant Raleigh fittingly celebrated her one hundredth birth-day on Tuesday of last week. The day was all that could have been desired, and thousands of people were early on the streets to witness the parade. Fayetteville Street was beautifully decorated with orange and red bannerettes from the Capitol to the Centennial Graded School stretched at regular intervals across the street. The business houses presented a brilliant appearance with the centennial colors festooning windows, doors, balconies, &c., &c. National flags could be seen in nearly every direction. Business of all kinds was very generally suspended. Two hundred mounted marshals, with Chief Marshal John M. Heck in command, assisted by Adjutant James McKee and Chief Transportation G. E. Leach, were in charge of the procession which started promptly at 11 o'clock. There were thirteen divisions of the parade, each headed by marshals. The following is about the order of the procession. First rode Chief of Police Heartt heading a platoon of police. Chief Marshal Heck came next with a staff of about fifty. The Governors Guard headed by a band followed. Carriages containing State, county, and city officers came next. In one carriage was the Mayor and three ex-Mayors of Raleigh. Other carriages contained about eighty citizens over sixty-five years of age. The first float in the procession was a magnificent one representing Sir Walter Raleigh before Queen Elizabeth. On each side of the car was an excellent oil painting representing the Court scene, and on the rear end of the car was a very fine painting of Sir Walter Raleigh, and executed by Mr. W. G. Randall. Next followed a very handsome float representing the reception of La Fayette by Gov. Burton of North Carolina in 1825 and Miss Elizabeth Haywood before Conova's statue of Washington. The exhibit of the Raleigh and Gaston railroad attracted much attention. It consisted of a fac simile representation of the "Tornado," the first locomotive ever brought to Raleigh, together with the tender and freight car. The Tornado was built in Richmond in 1839 and brought to this city during the following year. On the engine was Mr. Albert Johnson, the engineer who brought it to Raleigh, and also Reuben Mayo, colored, who was the first fireman. The Odd Fellows had a very fine float, which attracted much attention. The Fire Department made very fine display. The old Salem engine used in 1784 was in this division. There were many floats in the procession—about forty in all—representing business firms, schools, trades, &c., which we have not the space to mention by name. The procession proceeded to the Fair grounds, where the Fair was formally opened by President R. H. Battle, in the absence of Gov. Holt. The exhibits were considered good. At Stronach's warehouse at night, Hon. K. P. Battle delivered the Centennial address. A Centennial poem written by Miss M. M. Curtis was read by Capt. C. B. Denson. There were fireworks on Wednesday night. The week's exercises will long be remembered in Raleigh.

State News.

Dogs killed about twenty-five sheep recently at Carthage.

The Weldon fair opens November 1st and will continue four days.

The Edenton Agricultural and Fish Fair is being held this week.

The Synod of the Presbyterian church of North Carolina convened in Statesville last week.

The Burke county fair held recently is reported to have been a success in every particular.

The Border Exposition of the Carolinas will be held at Maxton October 26th, 27th and 28th.

The Warren county fair opens at Warrenton to-day the 26th inst., and will be held four days.

W. B. Edwards, colored, was recently jailed at Rutherfordton on a charge of beating his wife to death.

Tony Cotton, colored, was accidentally killed by machinery in Moody & Roberts mill at Newbern several days ago.

The Gleaner states that subscriptions are being taken to organize a company for the manufacture of brooms in Graham.

A colored woman from Warren county, while on a visit at Henderson drank some concentrated lye by mistake causing her death.

Mr. John M. Noble, a well to-do farmer of Lenoir county, died on Sunday the 16th inst., the result of being kicked in the face by a horse the day before.

Col. Thos. N. Cooper, a well known citizen of Transylvania county, died recently of apoplexy while on a hunting expedition fifteen miles from his home.

Mr. Jas. P. Cook, editor of the Concord Standard was united in marriage to Miss Maggie J. Norfleet, of Suffolk, Va., at that place last Wednesday evening.

Mr. David Harrington, a young citizen of Little River township, Alexander county, was killed several days ago while hunting, by the accidental discharge of his gun.

Col. T. B. Long has resigned as candidate for State Auditor on the People's party ticket. E. G. Butler of Vance, has been chosen his successor by the executive committee.

The Savannah News states that the Atlantic Coast Line has taken the last step in its preparations for running all of its through fast freight and passenger trains over the Wilson Short Cut to the North.

A Miss Pardue accidentally shot her sweetheart a man named Shugart with a pistol at Mt. Nebo, Yadkin county, Sunday night the 16th inst. The wounded man has died from the effects of the wound.

A gin-house and sixteen bales of cotton, belonging to M. M. McKinnon, Laurinburg, were destroyed by an incendiary fire recently. Fifteen other bales were badly damaged. The loss was quite heavy.

Mr. Kelly Williams while passing through a wood in Washington county, one day recently together with some friends, was shot and killed, by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of one of his companions.

Gov. Holt has designated August 18th, 1893, as North Carolina's day at the World's Fair, it being the anniversary of the birthday of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, and for whom a county in this State is named.

Charles Reynolds, white, and Judge Merrimon Headen, colored, were publicly hanged at Greensboro last Thursday, for the murder of Salathael Swaim at Pleasant Garden, about two months ago. The double execution was witnessed it is stated by a crowd estimated at from eight to ten thousand persons.

A monument presented by the Maryland Historical Society to the Guilford Battle Ground Company in commemoration of the Marylanders who fell in the battle of Guilford Court House, was recently unveiled at the Guilford Battle Ground near Greensboro. Prof. Graham Daves, of Baltimore, a former Carolinian, was the orator of the day.

General News.

Nine horse thieves were recently killed in North Idaho.

Mrs. Harrison, wife of the President, died on Monday afternoon last.

Camille Felix Micheal Rousset the French historian, died in Paris on the 20th inst.

C. Burkhalter & Co., wholesale grocers in New York City, have failed with liabilities of $700,000.

The Crow reservation in Montana consisting of about 1,800,000 acres was recently opened to settlers.

Forty thousand dollars worth of fine horses were killed in a freight wreck on their way to Dallas, Texas, recently.

A trunk factory, and storage warehouse, also corn and flour mills were destroyed by fire at Petersburg, Va., on the 17th inst. Loss $55,000.

The City of Paris recently made the voyage from Queenstown to New York in five days, fourteen hours and twenty-four minutes, again breaking the record.

The steamship Bokhara from England has been wrecked on a sand Island in the channel of Fokien, in the China Sea. A majority of the crew lost their lives.

Chicago and New York City are now connected by telephone. The first communication between the two cities by the telephone was made Tuesday the 18th inst. The present rate for a talk is $10.

It is stated that a great combine has been effected in the Lake Superior district by Rockefeller and his associates, including mines, railroads, steamships, mills, &c. The reported capital is $50,000,000.

Josh Matthews and wife living near Clairmont, S. C., locked their four children in the house last Wednesday and left to attend some religious observances. While they were absent the house caught fire and the children were burned to a crisp.

While six hundred school children were sitting on temporary seats fifteen feet high rehearsing for a Columbus celebration at West Winstead, Conn., last Wednesday, the supports suddenly gave way and about half of the children fell to the floor. Many received broken limbs, but none were killed.

While nineteen men were descending a shaft at the Colby mine, at Bessemer, Mich., on the 18th inst., the cage became unmanageable and dashed to the bottom with terrific force. One man was instantly killed, and the others all had legs broken. It is probable that four of the injured men will die.

MARRIED.

MARTIN—ALLRED—At the residence of Mr. Albert Allred's, near Mt. Airy, by Rev. C. C Haymore, Mr. John Martin and Miss Dollie Allred.

WILKINSON—WATKINS—On October 19th, 1892, at the residence of the bride's father, in Oak Hill Township, Granville county, by Rev. C. A. Jenkens, Mr. W. P. Wilkinson and Miss Addie G. Watkins.

DIED.

WOMACK—Departed this life after a long illness, in Caswell county, N. C., August 1st, 1892, Mrs. Jane E. Womack, beloved wife of Mr. V. B. Womack, aged fifty-one years and eleven months. She joined Providence Baptist church in 1882. She was a lovable christian, perfectly resigned to her Saviour's will. She leaves a kind husband, five daughters and one son. May they each so live as to meet her in the beautiful mansion, is the earnest prayer of one who loved her.

JEMIMA.

SMITH—At her home in Chowan county, on Oct. 13th, after two days of acute suffering, sister Sarah Smith, wife of Joseph L. Smith, in the twenty-second year of her age. She was a consistent member of Rockahock church, a sweet singer in Israel, and one who loved and took an active part in the Sabbath-school. Having been married only a few months, she leaves no children behind to battle with the cares of life, and be subject to the temptations of the wicked one. Among the sorrowing ones left behind is a devoted husband, a kind father, and a loving mother. We all shall miss her, but have the consolation to believe that she has gone before to join in the sweet songs of the redeemed in heaven, ready to welcome her friends who shall follow her. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." W. B. FELTON.

CREDLE—Died at Leonburg, Hyde county, N. C., December 6th, 1891, Eunice L. Credle, aged two years and four months.

Died in the same home and place on the twenty-ninth day of August, 1892, Lyon L. Credle, aged seven months and ten days, only children of Mr. Zach Credle and Mrs. Lucy Credle.

We use no flattery in this last tribute of respect, for we are holding high communion with the sainted dead, and our very soul is enraptured with heavenly thoughts, and we can conscientiously say that little Eunice Credle was the brightest child we ever knew. When less than two years old she could keep perfect time with hands when a tune was played on the piano or organ. We loved the dear little ones for they were the children of those who are near and dear to us by the ties of nature. Death has robbed a happy home of its jewels. The Lord gives and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord.

Two little mounds in the church-yard mark the spots where rest the remains of a little brother and sister. But where are their spirits? From the great depths of the heart, from Revelation through the still watches of the night, down the line of ages and through all eternity, to every believer the answer comes, Gone to heaven.

Blessed be God for the comforting assurances of the christian religion. Mortality puts on immortality, and though our bodies be dishonored by death, our souls will be raised in glory. David was comforted in the happy thought though his child could not return to him he could go to it.

God has taken the dear ones from us. Up yonder in the great mansion, in our Father's house, in the celestial city, in the New Jerusalem, nestled in the Saviour's bosom, and near the throne of God, they are waiting and watching for us. UNCLE JOE.

LEWIS—Sacred to the memory of sister Bettie Lewis beloved wife of Bro. Mullington Lewis, who departed this mortal life at Offerman Georgia, Oct. 9th, 1892. Sister Lewis was a native of Robeson county, N. C., and a few months ago moved to Georgia as her adopted home. She was the eldest daughter of Bro Giles and sister Caroline Floyd of Ashpole. Our departed sister was a true and sincere christian, and died in the triumphant hope of a blissful immortality beyond the grave. In the month of May, 1880, she professed faith in Christ and was baptized by Rev. F. M. Jordan, who at that time was conducting an interesting revival in Ashpole church. She remained a devoted and faithful member of the church until the Master said "Come home, thou good and faithful servant." She was a devoted wife, daughter, sister, friend and a blessing to all her people and friends. In the home circle, among her friends and neighbors, she was ever true and faithful, kind-hearted, earnest, ever esteeming it not only a duty but a pleasure to do what she could to promote the welfare and happiness of others. When the sad and unexpected news of her death flashed over the wires from Georgia to her old home in North Carolina it filled many eyes with tears and hearts with sorrow, for she was sincerely loved and esteemed by all who knew her. She leaves a bereaved husband, three little children, father, mother, several brothers, a sister, and hosts of friends to mourn her loss. When we laid her away to rest in the cemetery at Ashpole on the evening of October 11th, we believed the words of Scripture were applicable to her, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord; from henceforth, yea saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

To the bereaved ones, husband, father, mother, sisters and brothers, we extend the hand of christian sympathy, and commit them into the hands of him who says, "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled,
And in heaven with joy to greet thee
Where no farewell tears are shed.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord
When love has bound the heart,
'Tis hard, so hard, to speak the words
We must forever part.

Beloved of all we have laid thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

A FRIEND.

Tributes of Respect.

At a meeting of the Littleton Baptist Sunday-school, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Our wise and loving Father saw best to call from earth to heaven, on Sept. 21, 1892, one of our much loved Sunday-school scholars and faithful Librarian, Emma T. Williams; therefore,

Resolved 1. That while we so sadly miss her, and it seems hard to give her up just as she was growing into useful womanhood, yet by faith we humbly submit to his will, who doeth all thing well.

Resolved 2. That the Sunday-school and church has lost an active, worthy member; her family a gentle, kind and affectionate daughter and sister.

Resolved 3. That we believe she has only passed through the door into that happy, heavenly home to dwell forever with Jesus and the angels.

Resolved 4. That we, too, will try so to imitate the example of our loving Saviour that when our summons comes, we may be ready to go to that bright realm and join the innumerable host of loved ones who are watching and waiting to welcome us home.

Resolved 5. That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathies, praying that the Holy Spirit may comfort their sad hearts, and guide them all home at last where they will be reunited with dear Emma, and where sickness and sorrow and partings will come no more.

Resolved 6. That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Sunday-school, that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and also to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

HATTIE E. COX,
LUCY L. LAND,
MARY N. AVENT,
Committee.

Colds and Coughs croup, sore throat,
bronchitis, asthma,
and hoarseness cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
the safest and most effective emergency medicine.
It should be in every family.
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co
Lowell, Mass.

READ!

We will give employment to a man or woman in every township in North Carolina. Business light, pleasant and highly remunerative. Write at once for particulars.

Moore & Watson, Pubs.,
Box 325, Raleigh, N. C.

